

UNDERGRADUATES PROTEST MEMORIAL FLAGPOLE SITE IN EPIC MIDNIGHT DEMONSTRATION

In Out of the Dew

It took brawn just ten minutes to land this stick here, but brains needed half a day to get it out.

ROMEO AND JULIET COMMENCEMENT PLAY

James P. Blunt Will Have Major Role

Plans for the Commencement drama began to take shape this week when the announcement was made of the last of "Romeo and Juliet." During its long history the tragedy has received only eulogistic criticism. No doubt details have come under the eye of the critic but always it has been admitted to possess all the greatness within its lines of Shakespeare's genius. Within the past fifty years three outstanding couples have played Romeo and Juliet. Sir Henry Irving and the late Ellen Terry gave a most magnificent performance in 1882. In the 90's Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson and Mrs. Patrick Campbell were beloved for their performance of Shakespeare's most romantic tragedy. In America there is but one great team, that of E. H. Sothern, who lectured on this last winter, and his wife, Julia Marlowe. The passing of this pair has left a place yet to be filled.

In this drama of Shakespeare we are able to comprehend easily how he has been called the greatest analyst of human motives.

The cast, which will begin rehearsals this week, is as follows: Escalus, Prince of Verona, Olin S. Pettigill, Jr.; Paris, Robert Ecker; Montague, John W. Riley, Jr.

Bank Balance A Notable Feature As Musical Clubs Wind Up Season

The termination of the Instrumental Club season finds all members justly proud of their success which exceeds materially that of past years in both the quality of performance and financial return. The extensive Easter holiday trip that took the Club to Newtonville, Danvers, Quincy, Lexington, and New York was judging from all reports a large time.

Through the efforts of Manager John W. Riley, Jr., the proceeds from each evening with his singing of German folk songs. His enthusiasm was unbounded and his solo work with guitar accompaniment was heartily received. Gunther went out and garnered first laurels in the prize walks at the dance following the concert at Quincy in no mean style. To him also must be conceded the first prize for being the hit number on the Glee Club's program.

Completing the specialty portion of each evening's presentation was the accomplished rendering of trumpet solos by Warren Winslow. Herbert L. Prescott contributed readings at Lexington that scored very well. Everyone gave their best to make the concert a success and at no time did they fall short of triumph.

PRESIDENT CALLS FOR SELF-DETERMINATION

Uses the Story of the Passion as Basis for Chapel Talk

Self-determination was urged by President Sills in his chapel talk last Sunday in which he criticized the human tendency of yielding one's own convictions to the rash judgment of a crowd. Because of the approach of the Easter season, the President based his talk upon the New Testament story of the betrayal of Christ. The President said that one of the most astounding cases of change in public opinion came at the time of the crucifixion of Jesus. Only a short time before the citizens had been on the point of celebrating a triumph for him; soon the wrath of the crowd was aroused and his life was sacrificed. The good hearts in the crowd—and they were not few—were overcome in the wave of hatred which swept over the city of Jerusalem. This tendency may be noted through all the succeeding generations. Today everyone at some time is striving for popularity and prefers to sacrifice his convictions in order to agree with the majority.

This loss of good judgment is noticeable in many places. At baseball games, particularly a few years ago, mad demonstrations against opposing teams showed a spirit of poor sportsmanship which was not in the

NOTED PRESIDENT OF WHEATON WILL LECTURE TONIGHT

Dr. J. Edgar Park to Speak Here Under Delta Upsilon Lectureship on Control of Education

The Delta Upsilon Lectureship brings to Bowdoin this year Dr. J. Edgar Park, the president of Wheaton College, a well-known lecturer on religious and literary topics. He will speak tonight at 8.15 in Memorial Hall on the subject, "Philistine or Highbrow?"

When asked to address the school Dr. Park accepted and presented a list of several talks on which he had already spoken at other places. Of this group the committee in charge chose "Philistine or Highbrow?" According to Dr. Park himself, his talk will be a "discussion of the two schools of thought which are trying to control education."

Dr. Park was born in Belfast, Ireland, and received a great deal of his education in that country and in Scotland. He is a graduate of New College, Edinburgh, Scotland, and the Royal University of Dublin. When he came to America he went to Princeton and received his degree from the Princeton Theological Seminary. Tufts and Wesleyan have likewise conferred degrees upon him. He has been a pastor in several of the churches around Boston and has been a member of the faculty of the Boston University School of Theology. Several books and articles have come from his pen, one of the more recent being the "Christmas Heretic."

The Delta Upsilon Lectureship was conceived in the mind of Avery M. (Continued on Page 2)

WALKER TO HEAD EDITORIAL BOARD FOR COMING YEAR

Elections First to be Held Under the New System of Voting

CHOSEN SATURDAY

Three-unit Vote Used in Editor's Election which Entails Single Vote of Student Council, Orient Board, and Retiring Editor

Paul A. Walker was elected Editor-in-chief of the Orient for next year by the election board according to an announcement by the board last Saturday night. At the same time it was announced that Philip C. Ahern and George T. Sewall, both of the Class of 1932, were the choices for Managing Editors under Walker. The choice for the editor-in-chief's job was between Walker and John T. Snider while Melcher P. Forbes and Lawrence C. Jenks were in the running for the second named position. Other positions on next year's Orient Board will be announced later.

Walker is one of the most prominent and high ranking members of the Junior class. In addition to holding Associate and Managing Editorships on the Orient, he has been active in debating circles during his three years at Bowdoin, being on the varsity team (Continued on Page 2)

TWO HUNDRED STUDENTS DEPOSIT INFAMOUS SPAR IN OBT-VIOLATED CHAPEL

Litchfield Hall is Destroyed in Attempt to Rid Campus of Unsightly Debris—Tossed to Greedy Flames Amid Resounding Cheers

Walter Johnson has a new story to tell. For some weeks past student opinion has been at the boiling point over the proposed erection of the memorial flagpole in the center of the campus. Indignation reached its peak a day or so ago, when an unwieldy spar was unceremoniously dumped along one of the library paths, and a gang of men started excavations in front of the Art Building.

There has always been a happy custom at Bowdoin of depositing various little things in the chapel, as mementoes of loving affection. Three years ago a passenger pigeon farm was established there, and then a Ford repair agency, and then a large and healthy flock of chickens. There were also occasional rumors of a shooting gallery for faculty use. This time, however, it was a heavy rash of flagpoles.

SCHOLARSHIP EXAMS ARE HELD IN EIGHT DISTRICTS OF MAINE

Winners Are to be Excused From Presenting Secondary School Certificates

The State of Maine scholarship examinations took place April 12 in the eight districts into which the state had been divided for this purpose. Bowdoin College offers these eight scholarships to students in the secondary schools of Maine. The places examination were as follows: Brunswick, Presque Isle, Rockland, Fryeburg, Waterville, Bangor, Farmington and Machias. The student could take these examinations at the most convenient point, instructors being sent to these places to conduct the tests and to be of any service to those who wished information. Dean Nixon and Mr. Wilder had charge of those given at Brunswick, while Professors Smith, Hammond, Means, Mitchell, Brown, and Palmer were sent to the various examination points. The sixteen men who took the examinations at Brunswick were guests of the college at lunch.

The College offered written examinations in each of the districts, and will award a scholarship of five hundred dollars to that secondary school student of each division who satisfied, so far as possible at the time of examinations, the entrance requirements, and who attained the highest average grade. This award will be made on the basis of $250 at the beginning of each semester of the Freshman year, and no guarantee is made for later years. Any student who has satisfied the requirements in subjects and who wins one of these scholarships will be excused from presenting exam or certificate.

The College, however, reserved certain freedom of action: (1) it excluded from consideration all applicants obviously without need of financial assistance; (2) it was not obligated to make any or all of the awards in case the quality of the examinations was too poor; (3) it reserved the right to distribute more than one scholarship to one district if in one or more other districts no student attained a sufficient grade; (4) it insisted that candidates be residents of Maine and that they apply from the districts in which they were attending school when making application.

It was in the dark of an eclipse of the moon that astrologers' predictions of horrible evils came true. Sudden meetings in the ends were concluded with whispered injunctions to be sure to wear old clothes, and most of the student body went about with the leering frowns of Third Conspirators. At twelve o'clock Saturday night the first threatening mutter of thunder was heard on the horizon. Some two hundred brawny protestors assembled in front of Appleton, and began to strain and haul at the flagpole. Slowly but surely it moved, inch by inch they lifted it, carting it gingerly and tenderly across the lawn. With a final wild yell of triumph the anti-kick clusters swept into the chapel, dumped the beam onto the whole length of the floor, and announced to the world at large that if Bowdoin had to have a flagpole it was going to be baptized in blood and consecrated in cataclysms.

Then Litchfield Hall went whooping down the aisles of time as some body gathered it in. For a minute or two its late colonial roof waved and tossed over the howling mob, then it was smashed to kindling, and piled on the wreckage, and somebody set it off with a match. The resulting explosion blew everybody that was still asleep out of bed, and so stirred up the festive mob that somebody else turned in about eleven false alarms. Add Billy President, the President, the Dean, the fire companies, and most of the burghers of Brunswick, and the ball was all set to begin. Billy delivered the opening oration of the evening. It was short and to the point, a modern "Disperse, ye rebels!" and the only consideration that it got was a beautifully modulated Bronx cheer. There were one or two jocular suggestions of burning him at the stake, but the motion was lost by a slight majority.

We learned many things Saturday night. There were the ninety-seven lost verses of "The Bowdoin Y. M. C. A.," and the little lyrics written to the tune of the Maine Stein Song. But perhaps the best effort of the night was when Billy's exhortations were rewarded by a long B-O-W-D-O-I-N with three "Go home's" on the end.

The scene on campus resembled nothing so much as Dante's Inferno. A wild ring of pajama manics circled the fire, and over the whole mob (Continued on Page 2)

DATES OF THE POLISH UPRISING
11.30 P. M.	General restlessness around the college halls.
11.45	Messengers of hate in four of the ends.
11.55	Various Paul Reveres arrive on location, followed by swarming gangs of flagpole toters and advisors.
12.00 M.	Moon at partial eclipse. Clans have gathered or gone into conference. Swell ball-session.
12.05 A. M.	Equipment is gathered and action begins.
12.10	She moves — a little.
12.12	Another heave, march to chapel begins.
12.15	Pole borne into chapel and deposited on floor.
12.20	Pole moved ahead onto platform, after consultation and arm-waving.
12.30	Class in Mechanics 19 adjourns.
12.35	Spontaneous decision to remove Litchfield Hall.
12.36	Litchfield is removed.
12.50	Litchfield in flames on site of proposed flagpole.
1.00	Fire alarm blows.
1.05	Billy Edwards arrives with his pompiers.
1.10	Dean Nixon blows in. Confers with Chief Edwards.
1.15	Rest of faculty comes up, accompanied by sensation-seeking townspeople.
1.20	Fire-laddies leave.
1.25	Everybody else clears out.
9.00	Grounds free in huddle.
9.45	Pole comes off platform. Loud cheers.
10.00	Pole moves six inches further. Louder cheers and much advice.
10.30	Pole reaches Junior forms.
11.00	Pole half-way out.
11.30	Pole emerges completely. Ringing cheers from A.S.B.C.
12.00 M.	Pole arrives at ultimate destination. One part of wheels removed.
12.15 P. M.	Pole lowered gently to ground. All hands heave sigh of relief.

CATLIN TO STUDY MAINE PROHIBITION

Named Member of National Advisory Board of the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation

Prof. Warren B. Catlin of the Economics department of Bowdoin College has been named a member of the National Advisory Board of the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation. The purpose of the foundation, organized in Illinois is to make a study of the effects of prohibition on industry based on a comparison of conditions before and after the adoption of the 18th amendment. In speaking of the appointment Professor Catlin said, "Of course there will be little information of importance to come from Maine inasmuch as this state has liquor prohibition for so long. The advisory board of the foundation is made up for the most part of westerners. The several questions that make the basis of the inquiries will give some sort of enlightenment, and the Business Men's Foundation believes that conditions will prove prohibition advantageous to business, industry, and public welfare."

Professor Catlin is the only member of the board from Maine. He stated that it is planned to have the investigations in Maine, the part that he is to play in the work, made through students. He explained that a student could report on such a topic as the expansion of business as related to prohibition, and that after the list of questions had been treated a consensus of opinion could be obtained to report to the Foundation. The queries are to be addressed to em- (Continued on Page 4)

PROF. WM. C. GREENE LECTURES ON VERGIL

Professor of Classics at Harvard Pictures Character of the Poet as Shown in Works

Professor William Chase Greene, author of several books of classical studies and professor of Latin and Greek at Harvard University delivered a most scholarly lecture on the subject of "Self-Revelation in Vergil" at the Moulton Union, Thursday evening, April 10. The Classical Club, under whose auspices the program of the evening was conducted, was gratified by the unusual size of the audience present.

Professor Greene commenced by pointing out that it is quite as necessary for the student of Vergil to understand the character and temperament of the poet as it is to possess the power of reading his verse fluently. Vergil, a Celt, coming from northern Italy, wrote into his earliest works, which are known as the Eclogues, the several characteristics that became so salient later on—love of nature, love of heroic mythology, and love of plain, simple life.

These Eclogues, comprising the first poems of Vergil of any importance, are not finished in style but show most plainly the intense love the poet had for country life and his particular facility for pastoral themes, quite unapproached by any of the other Latin poets.

The second group of Vergil's works, entitled the Georgics, tell of another phase of country life; gardening, free culture, and flower growing. Into these he worked some philosophy and observations on the state of the empire (Continued on Page 5)

Informational Test of Scholarship Exam Yields Amusing Results

Hopes were high as representatives of many Maine counties strutted their stuff in the Bowdoin College Scholarship Exams Saturday, April 12. Whether or not they aspired in vain will best be known after the final announcement of rating is made on or about May 15.

After passing the regular requirements for entrance from a secondary school and after tendering certificate stating financial status, the candidates underwent examination which was to decide their future. The highest grade of his district is required of any applicant before he can receive the five hundred dollar scholarship and the first year of a college career.

The exam was in four parts; the first, was designed to test, not the knowledge of certain books, but the capacity to understand and write the English language; the second, a general information test; the third, a foreign language test; and the fourth a quiz on knowledge of mathematics or a science. The entire exam was completed in an afternoon and was designed to require only five and a half hours.

The Informational Test was required so as to ascertain the extent of the applicant's knowledge of matters outside his school courses. This portion of the exam which was the least (Continued on page 4) important of the four sections presented a list of one hundred words and names to be identified. These names covered a multitude of subjects ranging from those of Biblical history to modern politics. Typical extracts from the Informational Test are the following: Long John Silver, James G. Blaine, carburetor, July 14, The Orinoco, Pickwick, Achilles, jiu jitsu, sarcophagus.

This particular part of the exam afforded numerous revealing and diversified answers. Very few of the victims were in possession of the fact that Andrew J. Mellon and Thomas B. Reed ever existed. One aspirant proffered the hitherto hidden bit of knowledge that "H. M. S. Pinafore" was the "king of England's private yacht," while several individuals seemed quite positive that Annabelle Lee was the wife of General Robert E. Lee. An "antidote" was an amusing short story to many. Achilles was held as being Vergil's most famous hero. Fortunate was Dante's boldest of Roman emperors. Gilbert Stuart received the honor of being elected as Hollywood's greatest screen lover. Undoubtedly the choicest of the morrel of information divulged was that one's biops were the part of one's body above his hips. We hope for the sake of the candidates that the state of delusion was not as profound as the above material would indicate. (Continued on page 4)

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Walter P. Bowman '31, Campus
Frederick R. Kleibacker '31, Sports

Contributing Editors

Harrison M. Davis, Jr., '30
Roy E. Davis '30
Douglas Fosdick '30

John T. Gould '30
Olin S. Pettigill, Jr., '30
William N. Small '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Ralph B. Hirtle '30

Assistant Managers

Artine Artinian '31

Elias Thomas, Jr., '31

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscription rates, $3.50 per year (including Alumnius) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, April 16, 1930.

No. 1

Volume LX

With this issue a new board takes office. This, we are told, is the time for planks, platforms, and what not for the coming year. However, we do not feel that at this time we are ready to pledge ourselves to any definite policy. We intend, rather, to discuss various problems and phases of college procedure, and hope to be able to represent to the Faculty and all the readers of our paper the opinion of the Student Body, which is only too often unvoiced. We hope to maintain in this column the high standard set by our predecessor in office and we wish at this time to congratulate him and the other retiring members of the old board upon their work during the past year.

The War Memorial

Early Sunday morning, the shaft of the proposed war memorial disappeared inside the chapel. About half of the Student Body were present. All in all, it would seem that this was something more than a wild prank, something more than an outlet for surplus energy. It was. It was a premeditated protest from the students against this proposed flagstaff and against its proposed location.

The main objections which led to this demonstration were two in number. In the first place, the student body is not in accord with the choice of the committee. They feel that some memorial other than a flagstaff, something that might have a utilitarian purpose, would have been preferable. They have wondered why the committee did not consider various other schemes. The point is, the committee did consider other schemes, and considered them very carefully. The flagstaff, possibly in part for its symbolism of the cause for which these men gave their all, has been chosen to serve as Bowdoin's World War Memorial. War Memorials in general are at best but poor gestures—efforts to consecrate deeds and sacrifices which "those brave men, living or dead, have consecrated far beyond our poor power to add or detract." In choosing our memorial, the committee have in their judgment chosen something of which we shall be proud for generations to come. The choice was made openly, and has been public knowledge for quite some time. And whatever our feelings in the matter, our time for protest has passed. The monument, except for its actual erection, is now complete. All the criticisms and suggestions we might now offer would be futile and unnecessary.

The other, and to many the more important, issue brought out by Sunday morning's protest is that of the site of the memorial. The student body does not approve of the present plan for locating it at the junction of the mid-lines of the Library and the Art Building. To be sure, the College Architects have passed on this spot as the most favorable and artistic location available. We are not quarreling with gentlemen who should and obviously do know their own business. However, we represent the Bowdoin undergraduates, who, together with the faculty, are that part of the Bowdoin group living in closest contact with the college. We feel that locating the flagstaff here will mar the present beauty of the campus, and that other and more satisfactory sites can be found.

Possibly we made our protest Sunday in a rather sudden and crude manner; possibly the more impressive method would have been to draw up a formal petition asking the faculty and the committee to reconsider the location of the memorial; possibly on the other hand this active demonstration has gone much further than any petition or editorial could ever go. At any rate, we have expressed our feeling in the matter, and now that we have all cooled down to normalcy, we ask the administration to reopen the problem of location.

Litchfield Hall

Litchfield Hall's sad end was the anticlimax to Sunday morning's affair. It deserves little comment. The structure itself was unsightly and we are well rid of it. It is to be regretted that some person lost control of himself long enough to pull in the fire-alarm. The building served its most useful purpose when it furnished the means to capitalize the student protest over the war-memorial.

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:

There was one episode in the affair on campus early Sunday morning which no one should consider lightly. That was ringing in the fire alarm. Some quibblers may say that there was a fire. Certainly the fire itself can cause no great vexation but as far as summoning the department is concerned, the alarm was false, unnecessary, and not humorous in the slightest. It seems to us that Chief Edwards is too good a friend of Bowdoin College to deserve such ridicule. He has surely helped out many an unfortunate member in time of trouble. Then again when the apparatus is sent out on a wild goose chase the whole town is endangered by its absence. Furthermore the men in the department, many of whom have put in a hard day's work either in other occupations or in fighting the numerous grass fires which come at this time of year, do not exactly enjoy being routed out at one o'clock in the morning for no reason at all except to entertain a bunch of students. Undergraduates have cooperated well in the past at a number of dangerous fires. The work done at the conflagration at Prince's Point last spring will not be forgotten, but it is certainly deplorable that some person with such warped ideas of humor should do so much to destroy this reputation. We extend our apologies to Chief Edwards and the department, and to the brilliant jokester, our whole-hearted condemnation.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL.

Communication

This communication was written to the Boston Herald and we reprint it here by request.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I am thoroughly indignant over an incident which is directly traceable to a recipe which was published purporting to come from some woman whose husband holds a high position in the enforcement forces. The recipe was for a non-intoxicating cocktail and called for chopped raisins, unfertilized grape juice and sugar—it was said to be refreshing and stimulating. At the time it was published, which was last October, I happened to have a large quantity of raisins on hand so I chopped these and put them in a crock, added the grape juice and sugar exactly in the proportions the recipe called for and put the crock away in the cellar to await an occasion to entertain.

Last Sunday that occasion arose when a minister, his wife and daughter, who were our neighbors in Vermont, came to spend the day with us. We were very glad to have them as they have lived in Vermont since the summer and we know no one here. My husband was a deacon in his church and our families were always very close. Sunday morning I drained the liquid from the crock and put it on ice.

I had learned that cocktails were served before dinner, so I brought the pitcher out and placed it in the living-room with some small glasses and then went back to the kitchen to do the few things that had to be done before placing dinner on the table. When I returned to announce dinner, everyone was talking at once. My husband and the minister were slapping each other on the back and fairly shouting at one another—the minister's daughter, who is studying to be a missionary, and my son were holding hands and shouting, "Where's the mistletoe?" and the minister's wife was wandering around with a glass in her hand complaining of the heat. The house was not hot at all.

It was with the greatest difficulty that I got them seated at the table. I would get one into the dining room and when I went for the others that one would go right back to the pitcher and only by taking the pitcher into the dining room could I get them all there. No sooner were they seated than the minister picked a baked potato from the dish in front of him and he deliberately threw it with all his force at my husband, striking him in the forehead. My husband merely shouted "Good shot" and threw a glass of water on the minister's forehead. He laughed and I almost lost my mind.

I have never seen such disorder. Then the minister's daughter announced that she could eat more comfortably if she sat in my son's lap and her own mother and my son helped her get there—this on Sunday and in my own home. No one ate a bit of food and no one paid any attention to me at all. The din was terrific—my husband and the minister kept throwing things at each other across the table and when I implored them to stop, they both threw things at me. The minister's wife leaned so far back in her chair that it tipped over and instead of making an effort to arise, she just rolled around on the floor in hysterics. I was the only one to pay any attention to her.

When the physician arrived, he told me that they were all intoxicated. Imagine my chagrin—but when I learned later that one of my neighbors had telephoned the police because of the noise, I felt I just could not go on.

If the recipe really did originate with a dry, it seems to me that the time has come to do a little house cleaning—certainly no liquor from a saloon could have a more destructive effect. My husband was unable to go to work on Monday and I have not the courage to face my neighbors.

Mrs. A. T. March 26.

Bowdoin Column

Does anyone have any doubts as to the undergraduate feeling concerning the infamous flagpole?

The English edition of Scribner's magazine now amounts to 11,000 copies.

It was slightly ironical that said pole should be carried into the blessed chapel, especially since it had been damned so completely long before its entrance.

It's only once in a long while that the Bowdoin undergraduate body gets together; but when it does things are done in a large way.

The selected site for the ignoble spar makes a wonderful spot for a bonfire.

A bonfire each Saturday night might keep a few more of us in college over the week end.

It looks as if somebody was going to get gray hair trying to appease the rabid undergraduates, as well as the irate faculty.

Many a log that might have been a flagpole has floated down the Androscoggin.

It was more or less a question as to whether the "Orient" would maintain its weekly appearance. The complicated machinery which has been set up for board elections has the virtue of being impartial, but an unhappy faculty of delay.

Of course the new "Orient" Board is full of aspirations. Despite the fact that we have often been told that the Orient can never be a newspaper in the full journalistic sense, we have hopes of adding a few new features which will give it variety and added interest.

A series of special articles will be run on page three of the Orient concerning various phases of Bowdoin's history. Page four will be permanently turned over to sports.

When the editors of the Orient were frantically digging around last week for news for this issue of the paper, they sent out a freshman reporter to cover a story on a research of national interest that is being carried on by a member of the Bowdoin faculty. On being interviewed, the faculty member readily gave the information requested, but asked that it be withheld from publication on account of the probability of other members of the professional staff deriding a so-called attempt to "rush into print."

The Orient respects the tradition of modest and quiet effort that has grown up about the public work of men who serve the student body. It realizes that a real authority on any subject generally wishes to make his way unacclaimed by any braying of trumpets. Yet at the same time we would like to thank the nameless professor for making plain a rather exceptional attitude among the various members of the faculty.

When matters have come to such a pass that the organ of a student body cannot speak of the work of one of its friends without having a session of backbiting among themselves, it is sadly amusing. The task of editing the Orient is difficult enough at present. May we once again, however, thank the faculty member for his concise statement. In the future we will know why so many proposed write-ups have gone astray at their inception.

Bowdoin Fifty Years Ago

'B' in communication pleads for card catalogues in the college library.

The college team played their first game of the season April 15th, defeating a picked nine 30 to 1.

The Bowdoin will play the Harvard in Portland May 1st or 31st, or upon both those dates, the 31st being a legal holiday in this State.

The manager of the B.R.A. has made arrangements with the Trustees of Presumptuous Park of Portland, whereby he can use it for any game of ball. It will be put into good repair at once.

The Medic twisteth into his moustache much wax, grasps his cane complacently, and sallies forth, for the weather is fine.

The northwest room on the ground floor of Maine Hall formerly used by the Athenaeum Society is being made over for the use of the praying circle and will be ready in a short time.

KAPPA SIGNS TO RE-MODEL THEIR HOUSE

Work to be Commenced in the Near Future Will be Completed Before Fall

Under the direction of Burton M. Clough, 1900, chairman of the building committee, Alpha Rho, the Bowdoin Chapter of Kappa Sigma, has made final plans for the complete remodeling of its present house into a two and one-half story building of colonial type. It was only recently that the project of erecting a new brick dwelling on the Harpswell road lot was dropped, and the new scheme pushed through to final preparation. Work will start in May, and the fraternity members have every intention of seeing the job completed before next fall.

A feature of the ground floor plan will be the connection of the library, living room, and sun porch by sliding doors, which will allow of opening the whole into a dancing floor. In addition to these rooms the first floor will have a sun parlor, guest room, dining and service rooms, and a matron's suite.

The second floor has five student units, each comprising study and sleeping quarters for two men. On the top floor there will be two more student units and a large fraternity hall.

In addition to Mr. Clough, the committee in charge of the building work comprises Leon E. Jones '13, of Portland; Donovan D. Lancaster, '27, and Edgar W. Lancaster, '30, secretary, of Brunswick; Ensign Otis, '07, counselor, of Portland; Charles L. Oxenard, '11, of Medford, Mass.; and Keith Coombs of Auburn.

D. U. Lecture

(Continued from Page 1)

Spear '25 and became a reality through his efforts. Under his plan the fraternity has intended to bring a worthwhile speaker to the college every year and it has thus far succeeded in its purpose. In 1925 Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, a noted philosopher and ex-president of Amherst College was the lecturer. In 1926 Professor East of Harvard spoke and the following year brought Mr. Norman Thomas. 1928 saw President Hopkins of Dartmouth in the position of lecturer. This year it is expected that J. Edgar Park will present an interesting subject in a particularly interesting way and the visit will doubtless do much to further that intimate relationship which exists between the faculties of the two colleges.

There was a fine crowd in Chapel about 12:10 Sunday morning. In fact it will be a long time before a more enthusiastic congregation enters the Holy of Holies again.

TENNIS MEN OUT

Candidates for the tennis team were called out last week and sixteen men responded. Those who came out included the veterans Parker, Abbott, Altenburg, and Jensen. Besides these men there are many other prospects from last year's squad and from the freshman class. Assignments have been made for the squad to use the cement court, which is the only one in condition now. The men will continue to work on this schedule this week and possibly next, or until the clay courts are in condition to play on. Practice has been going pretty well, and all indications point to a good season on the courts.

Go "Grade A" tourist third cabin... LEVIATHAN

This season, brand new Tourist Third Cabin on the LEVIATHAN, World's Largest Ship... the entire second cabin assigned to "Tourist Third"... all its beautiful public rooms and staterooms... its elegant, open upper deck social hall which gives you a full sweep of the sea... its charmingly appointed smoking hall... its vast open and enclosed decks for play and promenades... its luxuries and spaciousness exceeding former standards for this class. Second Class, as a class, abolished... new Tourist Third Cabin rated "Grade A" and the LEVIATHAN the only liner to offer this peerless rating! Make haste in booking this new, luxurious way on the mightiest five-day flyer to Cherbourg and Southampton. Rates low.

Excellent Tourist Third Cabin accommodations also on United States Cable Lines... for as little as $10.25 a day!

OFFICIAL FLEET OF 102 COLLEGE ALUMNI ORGANIZATIONS FOR EUROPEAN TRAVEL

Consult your local steamship agent or

UNITED STATES LINES

Wm. A. McIsaac, Gen'l Agent
75 State St., Boston, Mass.

A milestone of Telephone progress

This marker is used to show the position of a new type of underground cable line. It is also a monument to the Bell System policy of constantly improving established methods and developing new ones.

For years underground telephone cables have been laid in hollow duct lines especially constructed for the purpose. By this newly developed supplementary method they can be buried directly in the ground without conduit—and, under many conditions, at a saving of time and money.

To do this it was necessary to develop a new type of cable, many kinds of special equipment including labor-saving installation machinery, and to work out an entirely new installation procedure.

Progress means change. The Bell System holds no procedure so sacred that it is not open to improvement.

BELL SYSTEM

A nation-wide system of inter-connecting telephones

"OUR PIONEERING WORK HAS JUST BEGUN"

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

If you are intending to sometime turn in that old Typewriter for a NEW REMINGTON PORTABLE —

DO IT NOW

This week we can offer you a better deal on a NEW REMINGTON than we shall ever be able to do again.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Vergil Lecture

(Continued from Page 1)
and personal reflections on his own life. These are very finished pieces of work from the point of view of style and mechanics. The Georgics are recognized as being the finest of Vergil's short creations of countryside life, of which he was so fond.

HOP ABOARD
ANY 'DAM' SHIP

And you'll find the STCA that everyone talks about... More per knot fun than you'd believe... solid comfort in former Second Class accommodations... college orchestras... fine food... a guide book of Europe that can save you $100.00 etc., etc... all for about $200.00 round trip... Europe's the place to be and STCA's the way to get there... via any DAM ship... StatenDAM, Rotterdam, New Amsterdam, Volendam, VeenDAM... Don't be left on the wrong end of the gangplank...

S. S. VOLEDAM June 7
S. S. NEW AMSTERDAM July 12

are two of STCA's special weekly sailings... See Freeland Harlow, Beta House or STUDENT THIRD CABIN ASSOCIATION

Holland-America Line.
89 State St., Boston

LINKSMEN REPORT—
THREE VETERANS

Prospects Brightest Yet—Schedule Partially Completed

With the golf season steadily approaching, plans are under way for drawing up the schedule and molding a team for the matches to be held this spring. The schedule is not entirely completed as yet, but to date there are five matches scheduled. All will be played in Massachusetts in the vicinity of Boston. The first will be on May 15th with Worcester Polytechnical; on May 16 Bowdoin meets Holy Cross; on May 17, M. I. T.; on May 19 with Tufts; and on May 20 with Boston College. It is expected that other matches will be played before college closes in June.

The prospects for a successful year look unusually bright this spring with three veterans of last year's team and many other likely candidates to choose from. Captain Deston, Gordon Knight, and Arthur Dillenbeck are the three veterans who are again ready to compete. Dick Mullin, who was ineligible last year, will also be available for competition.

There are a great many in the College who play, but not many are of varsity calibre. Nevertheless, the veterans will be given plenty of competition in making the team again. There are also several men in the Freshman class who as yet have not shown what they can do, but will probably show themselves capable of playing with the best. Considering everything, and praying that it won't be a rainy spring, Bowdoin should have one of the most successful teams in some time.

On the instigation of Augustus, Vergil next wrote his immortal epic, the Aeneid. Although it is very evident that he labored under the effort to create an Homeric hero in Aeneas, Vergil happily falls short of establishing this kind of ancient Roman character of the merciless, unrelenting type. Aeneas as a character is an enigma. Scholars vary widely in their interpretations of him.

Prof. Greene, in quoting from Garrett's Commentary on Vergil, showed that this eminent student of Vergil believed the great poet failed in giving Aeneas a definite character merely because of his temperamental feeling of pity for any individual in dire circumstances. Vergil could never quite bear it when one of his characters suffered too harshly.

Prof. Greene, however, proffered his opinion that Vergil triumphs most gloriously in these failures, for his hero never was intended by him to be a harsh fighting hero, but a man that was preeminently human. Vergil failed in his imitation of Homer because of his Celtic temperament. He pitied the individual on the short end

EDITORIAL WRITING
SUBJECT OF STUDY

Newspaper Editors Will Hold Conference Dealing with This Type of Composition

During the course of the next two weeks three newspaper editors will come to Bowdoin College to give special instruction in editorial writing in connection with one of the advanced courses in the department of English. This course, which is known as English 9-10, takes up a study of literary composition in the leading forms of literature. It is divided into six sections, five of them in charge of members of the faculty and it is the sixth section which will be handled by the newspaper men. Professor Wilnot B. Mitchell has charge of the study of the Familiar Essay, Professor Henry E. Andrews has guided the study of Verse, Professor Thomas Means has been in charge of Translation, Professor Charles H. Gray of Drama, and Professor Stanley B. Smith of the Short Story.

Robert Lincoln O'Brien of Boston will be the first of the editors to come to Bowdoin. Mr. O'Brien was graduated from Harvard in 1891 and was the private secretary of Grover Cleveland from his nomination in 1892 until November, 1896. He was Washington correspondent for the Boston Transcript and later the editor, and for many years was editor of the Boston Herald.

Later in the month Mr. Harry M. Bignow, editor of the Portland Press Herald, and Dr. Ernest Gruening of the Portland Evening News, will meet with the class for similar work. Dr. Gruening worked his way from a reporter to managing editor of the Boston Traveler, and later was editor of the Boston Journal. He has acted in advisory capacity for various metropolitan newspapers.

too much to allow him to suffer as did the vanquished of all the epics of that day.

In this respect Vergil was much more modern than any of his predecessors or contemporaries.

Very conclusively did Prof. Greene prove that the Aeneid was never entirely completed. The abrupt cessation of the epic with the hand to hand conflict between Turnus and Aeneas without even the customary song of triumph is a strong argument in favor of this belief. Unfinished half lines interspersed throughout indicate this also asserted Prof. Greene, as Vergil left none of his other works containing these half lines.

It is interesting to learn that only upon the demands of Augustus was the Aeneid saved from extinction, for Vergil expressed a desire in his will to have it burned, believing, as Prof. Greene explained, that he would far prefer to be remembered for his en-

for that week-end

Just received — large assortments of four piece suits with extra knickers of imported tweeds, and cheviots, loomed by hand-crafters in England. These suits are the best values ever offered by Harmon's and are ready to don.

$45.00

HARMON'S
INCORPORATED

deavors in the field of philosophy than for his poetry, which he regarded as being only of secondary worth to his more favored pursuit, philosophy.

Orient Election

(Continued from page 1)

this year. He was one of the editors of last year's Freshman Bible and also has been active in the Bowdoin Christian Association. Walker is a member of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity.

Abern has been an Associate Editor of the Orient this year and is Publicity Manager of the Bowdoin Quill. He is a member of the Psi Upsilon Fraternity. Sewall, also an Associate Editor, is a member of the track squad, being one of the distance men on Jack Magee's aggregation. He is a member of Psi Upsilon. Both Sewall and Abern have devoted considerable time to the Orient work ever since their first year and their diligence and perseverance were great factors in their election.

Orient elections this year were held under a new system which is expected to be a vast improvement over the old one. Dissatisfaction with the old method of election by the entire student body impelled the Senior Committee last year to devise a new method which would be more likely to insure election by merit instead of popularity.

The plan in brief is as follows: The editor is elected by a three unit vote. The Student Council makes up one group; the Orient Board the second; and the third is cast by the retiring editor, the retiring manager of the Publishing Company, and the senior faculty member of the Publishing Company.

Commencement Play

(Continued from page 1)

tague, A. S. Davis; Capulet, Albert W. Tarbell; Uncle to Capulet, Ronald P. Bridges; Romeo, James P. Blunt; Mercutio, James B. Colton, 2nd; Benvolio, D. C. Perkins; Tybalt, W. M. Altenburg; Friar Lawrence, Paul Everett; Friar John, George Freiday; Baltheasar, N. K. McDonald; Sampson, R. C. Mullin; Gregory, Paul A. Walker; Peter, H. M. Davis, Jr.; Abraham, Brooke Fleck; Musicians, George Willard, John Gatchell, Richard Mallett; Apothecary, Paul A. Walker; Juliet, Miss Elizabeth Graves; Lady Capulet, Mrs. John Thalheimer.

Sunday Chapel

(Continued from Page 1)

heart of each individual, but which was stirred up by the strange influences of a crowd. Hazing is another example of this same thing, often carried to the extreme, and resulting in injury or death. Rather than be tempted to do these things which our convictions tell us are wrong, we should be individual. Following the crowd shows fickleness and cowardice.

When a person makes such a stand for individuality, said the President, he is very likely to find himself abandoned and lonely. When Abraham Lincoln maintained his ideals against the will of the whole country, he found that his friends had all forsaken him. In such times of crisis when we expect assistance from our friends which we do not get, we can then turn to Christ for help.

Good always triumphs in the end.

...on the court it's FLASH!
...in a cigarette it's TASTE!

"A FACT is more powerful than twenty texts." Two puffs tell more of a cigarette's taste than any two-hour speech.

Taste must speak for itself...and Chesterfield's refreshing, spicy flavor, its characteristic fragrance, do just that.

Making Chesterfields, making them right, making you like them, requires only this:

"TASTE above everything"

MILD...and yet
THEY SATISFY

Chesterfield
FINE TURKISH AND DOMESTIC tobaccos, not only BLENDED but CROSS-BLENDED

ANTIQUITY SHOP

THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegetables, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT

Quality Printing

Town Building

BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10

Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

LYMAN B. CHIPMAN

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale-Retail

574 Congress St., Portland, Me.

'Anything 'y'want Pressed?'

Give it to

LAVENDER OR ESTLE

LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES

Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —

Send Your Washing to the

CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH

AGENT

Special Rates to Students

on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and FRATERNITY PAPER

KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

PRINTING

of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.

Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

QUALITY ALWAYS.

Brunswick Publishing Company

Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets
Telephone Brunswick No. 3

NATATORS TO HOLD POST-SEASON DRILLS

Miller Will Build Up Material for Next Year

Though the swimming season for this year is over, the team is still training. All of the regulars are working on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, while the other varsity material has been doing laps faithfully every week. Next week the men will begin on life saving work. A number of men have been placed in vacation camps, and will be able to keep up their work all summer. With quite a few of the letter-men back and the new material which is developing all the time, the team next year should far outshine this year's varsity.

A tentative schedule has been drawn up for next year, which will include meets with Harvard, Wesleyan, Amherst, Williams, Springfield, Brown, Worcester Technical, M. I. T., and the New England Intercollegiate Championships. Meets with Trinity and the Connecticut Aggies are also being arranged. These colleges have been supporting swimming teams only two years and are in Bowdoin's position.
About four or five years of solid experience is the greatest need of Bow-doin's swimming varsity.

Flagpole Story

Continued from Page 1

rose and fell the horrible shrieks of the exhaust whistle on a Ford which tore up and down the paths like a lightning bolt with the blinding flag-gards. Pioneers rushed to and from the blaze, and the crew of the hook and ladder company nearly came to blows with the occupants of two cars that had nearly blocked all entrance to the campus through the Appleton driveway.

But the crowning glory of the evening was Prexy Sills' startling appearance in a slouch hat, an overcoat, and pajamas. At least eleven thousand amateur photographers were loping up and down the campus taking pot-shots with Brownie's.
Orient reporters sprang up for the dozen with note-books and pencils.
And every now and then someone would drop past the ends and bellow
"Rise, freshmen!", and satisfied men went around in pairs in order to establish alibis if anyone was to go on pro.

But good things cannot last forever.
Bowdoin went to bed.

Watching the Buildings and Grounds fuss around on Sunday morning, any number of people drew tasty comparisons between them and the slaves that built the pyramids. There was something of self-consciousness in the foreman's portrayal of Moses' role, as he gazed at the slaves with F & G (not an ad). Don Potter, however, as Habbakkuk of the Solomon's Temple crew, was impeccable.

People strolled in and out, and made helpful suggestions, such as cutting a hole in the floor and letting the pole drop through to the basement, where it might easily be drawn out.
Some wanted the floor flooded by the hockey managers, so that the spar might be hauled out on the ice. And quite a number suggested cutting it up into memorial gavel for presentation to the alumni. The sawdust would have been useful for sprinkling onto the chapel floor before sweeping it.

But perhaps dumping it near the old location was the best. The boys can play with it every night. Tradition will spring up about it, and it will become a healthful exercise. In time it may even be adopted as a field event. The Scotch in their games hurl a great iron-banded beam instead of a sixteen-pound shot. Under Coach Magee Bowdoin has always been foremost in athletics. It is not too late for the White once again to take the first step in inaugurating a novel measure in American sports.

Maine Scholarships

(Continued from page 1)

The subjects were as follows: (1)
Every candidate was required to take an examination in English. This was designed to test, not the knowledge of certain books, but the capacity to understand and write the English language. (2) An "Informational Test" was also required. This paper was intended to ascertain the extent and degree to which the candidate had acquired information on matters outside his school courses. (3) A candidate was required to show his knowledge of one of the following foreign languages: French, German, Spanish, Latin, or Greek. (4) Finally, the candidate was examined in either Elementary Algebra, Plane Geometry, Physics, or Chemistry, as defined on pages 41, 50, and 51 of the current Bowdoin College catalogue.

This coming week end the Debating Team starts on its annual Spring trip. The itinerary and list of propositions debated may be found in the last issue of the Orient. A slight change in plans has been announced since then by Manager Walker: the debate with Syracuse will be broadcast over station WSYR at three in the afternoon of April 22nd.

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

SOULE'S BARBER SHOP

For First Class Haircutting
Near Campus - Two Expert Barbers

TRACK TEAM RESUMES WORK AFTER LAYOFF

Relay Men Pointing for Penn Games;
Three Freshmen Ineligible

Bowdoin's track squad is now working out daily at Whittier Field in preparation for the Spring season.
The State Meet will be held at Brunswick this year and Jack Magee hopes to lift his charges up another notch in the standing on their way to regain the supremacy held so long by Polar Bear track teams and lost two years ago.

At present Jack is concentrating on the relay men in an effort to whip them into shape in order to make a good showing at the Penn Relay Games less than two weeks away.
Bowdoin will enter two teams at Philadelphia, a mile relay and a medley relay outfit.

The squad received a hard blow last week when three of the most promising performers on the Freshman team during the winter season were declared ineligible to compete this Spring. Haskell, counted on for points in the weight events, Hickok, consistent winner in the dashes, and Miliken, star in the high jump, were the three yearlings tripped by the faculty. While these three would have had only an outside chance to gain points in the State Meet, nevertheless they would have picked up valuable experience which would have stood them in good stead next year.

The remainder of the squad managed to survive the warning period and those who are not trying out for positions on the relay teams are pointing for the dual meet with the University of New Hampshire which takes place on April 30.

Men who are showing up well in the relay try outs include Hal Rising, Harry Thistlewaite, Sid Foster, Dan
Johnson, Francis Wingate, Paul
Hayes, Creighton Gatchell, Larry Usher, and George Sewall.

Eddie Eastle, distance star who was forced out of competition near the end of the indoor season, has been compelled to give up track entirely for the remainder of the year.

Spring Sport Schedule

April 19—Bates at Lewiston.
April 25—Maine at Bowdoin.
April 26—Colby at Waterville.
April 29—(New England Trip) M.
A. C. at Amherst.
April 30—Amherst at Amherst.
May 1—Wesleyan at Middletown.
May 2—Northeastern at Boston.
May 3—Tufts at Medford (trip over).
May 7—Maine at Orono.
May 10—Colby at Waterville.
May 12—Bates at Bowdoin.
May 16—Colby at Bowdoin.
May 17—State Track Meet at Bow-doin.
May 20—Maine at Bowdoin.
May 23—Bates at Bowdoin (Ivy Day).
May 27—Maine at Orono.
May 31—Colby at Bowdoin.

FOOTBALL SQUAD IN TRAINING SESSIONS

Fifty Candidates Greet Bowser in First Day's Practice Session

Coach Charlie Bowser lost no time in getting down to work on Spring football practice last week, calling the squad together on Tuesday, the day of the return from the Spring vacation. In a short talk to the 50 some odd candidates Bowser outlined the program and emphasized the importance of Spring training. He made it plain that those who waited until Fall before turning out for the team would have slim chances of winning a varsity berth. Issuing of uniforms was the only other activity on Tuesday, the squad getting down to work
Wednesday afternoon.

Because of the several veterans who are now out for either baseball or track, the new mentor was forced to drill them on the stance and other line fundamentals. Roberts introduced the rudiments of the Warner system of attack which will be used by the White next year. Bowser took charge of the backfield aspirants and considered his position as a utility player.
Bowser refused to say how long the Spring training would continue, its length depending upon the progress shown by the men. The greatest drawback is the great number of veterans who are forced to give their time to other sports. Crimmins, Brown, Ricker, Sid Foster, Lloyd Morrell, Dan Johnson and Gatchell are among those who have been forced to sandwich their football in between track and baseball sessions. The new coach and his assistant are determined to make something of the Spring training season and drive home some of the fundamentals, however, and Bowser announced Tuesday that he and Roberts would be at the field after supper if necessary for those who are unable to come out in the afternoon.

A fair supply of veteran material will be on hand next Fall, the line Bowser will have Crimmins and Souther, ends, Brown at tackle, Gatchell at center, and one guard position should be taken care of by Harry Pollock. All Maine guard of a year ago, Foster, Johnson, Ricker, and Plaisted are valuable backs who should see plenty of service next year.
With a new system and new coaches, however, it would not be at all surprising to see new faces in the Bow-doin lineup next year.

Starting April 24 Dean Paul Nixon will spend three days in Boston attending committee meetings. On the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth he will

WHITE BALL SEASON OPENS AT HARVARD

Ben Houser Optimistic as Veteran Club Starts on Trip

The Bowdoin baseball team will play Harvard at Cambridge this afternoon in the first game of the season for the White. A team made almost entirely of veterans will take the field against the Crimson although the latter will be top heavy favorites to cop the decision both on account of the usual advantage of a large college over the small and because of the recent Southern trip which gave the Harvard players some valuable experience.

Ben Houser's men have been working outdoors hardly for weeks and Ben has had little time to whip the nine into shape. All the positions except right field have been definitely filled. The infield will be composed of King, Crimmins who has been shifted from third to first, Tom Chambers at second, Whittier in the short field and Sid McKown at the hot corner. All these men are veterans of previous campaigns. Captain Luke Urban and Ricker, also veterans, will patrol the left and center gardens respectively, while as yet Ben has not chosen the right field guardian.
Gatchell, Rose, and Bell have been waging a bitter fight for the position as a utility receiver. Smith has looked well in practices but has been out for a few days with a split thumb. Souther, Stiles, or Shute will be on the mound today for the White. Ben refused to say which one of these three would get the assignment, but rumor hath it that Souther will be the man.
Bucknam, Morrell, Rose, and Cole have been trying out for pitching jobs, and one of the last two named will be added to the staff since Ben wants one southpaw to balance the three right handers.

Of late, the entire team has been hitting better than at the start of the practices and it is hoped that this improvement will be a permanent one.
Last year, the Polar Bear finished at the bottom of the State Series, but had the games lost by one run margins been on the other side of the ledger, Bowdoin would probably have copped the state title. With improved hitting power, a well rounded mound staff, and experienced pastimers in every position but one, the Polar Bear seems due to go places this Spring.

Saturday will see the team journeying to Lewiston for an exhibition game with Bates. On April 25 and 26 Bowdoin will play exhibitions with Maine and Colby respectively and on the 29th will begin its annual New England trip by meeting M. A. C. at Amherst. The State Series will be inaugurated May 10, the White meeting Colby at Waterville.

be at the Vocational Conference at the University Club and the next day he will be present at the meeting of the New England College Entrance Certificate Board.

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is
custom tailored to your individual measure, has
that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as
well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Prof. Catlin

(Continued from Page 1)

players, and will have to do with conditions of the employees, etc.

The questions that will be treated are: Employees' efficiency, employees' health, savings deposits, home ownership, family life, ownership of automobiles and other luxuries, wages and wage scales, labor turnover and expansion of business, growth of sales, collections and losses, welfare and prosperity in which the firm is a factor, and of the community in which the firm is located. These topics will be treated as to the effect of the advent of prohibition enforcement.
There are also two questions asking for the employer's opinion regarding prohibition and opinions on the shortcomings of the administration of prohibition.

Glee Club

(Continued from Page 1)

much credit for arranging the details of the New York appearance.

After the finale many of the members remained in New York for a more extended vacation while a few elected to fly home via the New York to Boston air route.

Professor Wass was presented with a fine pen stand by his clubs after the curtain fell on the 1930 season in token of their appreciation for his invaluable coaching. His presence throughout the entire trip was this year happily possible.

The officers for next year were announced as follows:
E. N. Lippincott, manager; R. N.
Sanger, assistant manager; J.
Kraeter, glee club leader; W. Winslow, instrumental club leader.

"SO, MY PROUD BEAUTY, YOU WOULD REPULSE ME, EH?" barked DALTON

"I would indeed," said the fairest flower of the countryside. "And how?"

"What is there about me, gal, to bring this disfavor down upon my head?" he demanded.

"Your voice, sir," she answered him haughtily. "The man who wins my heart must smoke OLD GOLDS in kindness to his throat—and to his listeners."

OLD GOLD

FASTEST GROWING CIGARETTE IN HISTORY... NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD
On your Radio... OLD GOLD—PAUL WHITEMAN HOUR, Paul Whiteman and complete orchestra... every Tuesday, 9 to 10 P. M., Eastern Standard Time

BOWDOIN OPENS SEASON BY VANQUISHING BATES NINE BY SCORE OF 5-2

Stiles On The Mound for White Holds Bobcats to One Hit, While Polar Bears Gather No Less Than Ten Off Garnet Hurlers

Behind a masterful exhibition of hurling by Howie Stiles Bowdoin got away on the right foot in her quest for the state title last Saturday by triumphing over Bates by a 5-2 score. Besides allowing the Bobcat batsmen only one lonely bingle during the nine innings, a day's work in itself, Stiles clicked a double and two singles in four trips to the plate.

The entire Polar Bear team showed much more power with the stick than in the Harvard game, and collected ten hits in all, every man on the team except Chalmers and Shute getting at least one. The one fly in the Bowdoin ointment was the six errors chalked up against them, although the Bates pastimers turned in an equal number. Both teams flashed occasional blunders, however, the most brilliant play being a great peg to the plate by Cascaden, Bates center fielder, who took Sonny Dwyer's attempted sacrifice, and threw to the plate to catch Sid McKown attempting to score from third.

Ben Houser's charges got down to business in the first inning when Rick-er and Whittier singled and then drove home the Urban's liner to right. Marston, the Bates boxman, settled down then and forced Shute and Chalmers to ground out.

Sid McKown pulled a circus catch of a foul off Marston's bat, running clear to the Bates bench to snare the hoist, but outside of this there was nothing doing until the fourth when the White again scored. The Bates infield blew up and allowed Crimmins and Shute to score when Stiles got his first contribution to the hit column.

Bowdoin completed her scoring in the eighth when Stiles and Rick-er doubled. Whittier and Dwyer then flied out and the side was retired.

This last score was made off Donham, a freshman who had replaced Marston in the sixth with the bases full. It was hardly an auspicious occasion for the rookie twirler to make his initial appearance, but Donham rose to the occasion by forcing Rick-er to roll wearily to the box, and leaving Whittier, after which Luce caught Crimmins on a quick throw to third. The sixth also saw the only real scoring opportunity that the Bobcat had all the afternoon. Stiles suffered a momentary lapse and walked Berry, then hit MacCluskey after which Crimmins committed his only error to fill the bases.

Bates looked as though she was going to make a ball game of it at this juncture, but the necessary base hits failed to materialize. Flynn drove in the first tally on a long sacrifice to deeper center which was pulled down by Rick-er. After hoisting a couple of fouls, Jekanowski managed to get a free ticket from Stiles and the sacks were populated once again. Del Luce lifted a high flier to center and an-

BUSINESS MANAGER OF ORIENT CHOSEN

Artinian Will Handle Financial Side of Paper for Ensuing Year

Due to Professor Wilnot B. Mitchell's attendance at the State of Maine Scholarship Examinations last week the Bowdoin Publishing Company was forced to delay the election to the Orient business staff until late Tuesday. Artinian '31 was selected to succeed Ralph B. Hittle '30 as business manager while D. N. Barstow, G. L. Barstow, both of the class of '32 were granted assistant managements over a competing field of six men.

Artinian, a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity, has been active in business work for the Bugle and has distinguished himself in various activities on campus.

Mr. Artinian promises an effort to ward a closer cooperation between the business and the editorial departments of the Orient. Such a development would be greatly for the benefit of this publication which often suffers considerably from misunderstanding on disbursements.

Dominic Antonicci, of Beta Theta Pi and Gilbert Barstow of Kappa Sigma in their new role will have regulation of the circulation and the supervision of the freshman management competitors.

The call for freshman candidates for competition for the business department has been issued. Those who are interested speak to Artinian Artinian at the Theta Delta House.

Calendar

- April 21-24—Debating Team Spring Trip: Union, Syracuse, Hamilton, Amherst.
- April 25—Baseball with Maine, here.
- April 26—Baseball with Colby, there.
- April 29—Baseball with M. A. C. at Amherst.
- April 29—Portland Orchestra.
- April 29—Track meet with N.H. State, here.

HARRY THAYER CHOSEN TO LEAD SENIOR CLASS

Stuart R. Stone Vice Pres., and Philip H. Chapman, Jr., Secretary-Treasurer

GARCELON MARSHAL

Poet, Orator, Odist, Historian and Closing Speaker, and Opening Divided Amongst L. R. Leach, H. M. Davis, R. C. Mallett, O. S. Pettigill, Jr., J. P. Pettigrove and J. M. Parker, Respectively.

At the elections held last Tuesday night by the class of 1930, Harry Brinard Thayer of Marblehead, Mass., was elected to head the class. Thayer has been prominent in various activities throughout his college career, being a mainstay on the varsity football and hockey squads. In 1929 he was elected to the coveted post of "Polar man" of his class. At present he is also president of the student council. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Stuart R. Stone, of Newton, Mass., was elected vice president. Stone, a Deke, was bested as class marshal. Thayer has been prominent in Thayer's on the hockey and football teams, and was class president last year. With Thayer, he is a member of the athletic council. Philip Chapman, of Portland, the new secretary-treasurer, was captain of the football team, and is a star weight man on the track squad. He was vice president of his class last year. His fraternity is Theta Delta Chi.

Gerald R. Garcelon of Lewiston, Maine, was elected as class marshal. Harrison M. Davis, Jr., of Salem, Mass., as class orator, and Olin S. Pettigill of Middletown, Mass., to give the opening address. James M. Parker of Portland, Me., was class historian, and James P. Pettigrove of Machiasport will deliver the closing address. Lawrence R. Leach of Danvers, Mass., is class poet, and Richard P. Mallett of Farmington is odist.

The came committee was chosen as follows: Emerson M. Bullard of Wrentham, Mass., chairman; Donald W. Berry, Hackensack, N. J.; and David P. Faxon, Moorestown, N. J. Secretary of the committee will be Robert E. Burnham of Elmhurst, N. Y.; Harold M. Ridlon of Groton, Conn.; and Stanley McLellan of Malden, Mass.

COMMENCEMENT PARTS AWARDED TO SENIOR APPLICANTS

Davis, Dean, Freiday, Parker and Willard are Men Selected—One Alternate Chosen From List

The Faculty announced last week the five Commencement speakers, four of whom will take active part while the other will serve as alternate. The alternate will not be chosen however, until the parts are revised and reconsidered by the Faculty.

The speakers chosen are William Henry Dean, Jr., Harrison Merrill Davis, Jr., George William Freiday, Jr., James Mitchell Parker and George Stuart Willard.

William Henry Dean, Jr., won the Goodwin French and Hiland Lockwood Fairbanks prizes as a Freshman year. In his Sophomore year he won the Noyes Political Economy Prize and won second prize in the Alexander Prize Speaking also in his Sophomore year. He has been a member of the Instrumental Club and last year joined the French Club.

Harrison Merrill Davis, Jr., has been a member of the baseball, football, hockey, tennis, and track squads. He has been an Associate Editor of Orient, Managing Editor, Editor-in-Chief just retired. He took active part in the activities of the Bowdoin Publishing Company as well as on the Editorial Staff of Bearskin. During the past two years he was Assistant and Managing Editor of the Bugle. He is a member of Deutscher Verein and the Outing Club and President of Pi Delta Epsilon. During the past four years he has taken part in the production of the Masque and Gown.

George William Freiday has been Associate Editor of the Orient and Assistant Business Manager of 1930 Bugle. He is a member of the Outing and French Clubs as well as the Masque and Gown. This last November he was awarded first prize in the Class of '68 Prize Speaking.

James Mitchell Parker has been active in hockey for three years, the winner of the David Sewall Premium in his Freshman year, Secretary of the White Key, a member of the Outing Club and Secretary-Treasurer of his class in his Junior year. George Stuart Willard has been a member of the Freshman Track Team, Instrumental Club, Mathematics Club and winner of the Everett Scholarship for graduate study.

KLEIBACKER EDITOR OF NEW QUILL

Former Prose Editor Has Served on All Major Student Publications

BUSINESS END CHOSEN

Raymond Szukala and Elias H. Thomas Will Jointly Hold Business Management and Will be Assisted by Mullen, Lampont and Ahern in Circulation and Advertising Departments.

At a meeting of The Quill Board on Thursday last night, Kleibacker, Jr., 31, was elected Editor-in-Chief of The Quill for the coming year. The management of The Quill will be given over by Douglas Fosdick '30, the present editor, to the new board for the final issue of the college year.

A word might be said of Kleibacker's activities since he has been in college. He has been on all three undergraduate publications. Last year he was Sporting Editor of The Orient and is now Art Editor of The Bugle. His work this year on The Quill as Prose Editor won him the honor which the Board has conferred upon him. Besides these literary achievements he is a member of Pi Delta Epsilon, the national journalistic fraternity and Delta Kappa Epsilon. As a member three years of the baseball and track squads he has been active in athletics. The play, Durga, which he adapted from a short story of Rudyard Kipling, and directed, was received so favorably when it was presented at the Barn Chamber that it is being considered for presentation by the Masque and Gown during sub-Freshman week end.

The reorganization of The Quill started in the Spring of 1929 among the undergraduates of the college. It was thought that the old Quill did not exhibit a true conception of the literary talent of the college. Definite plans were formulated at the end of the college year. During the summer, however, the whole scheme drifted but was rescued from failure by the new editor, Douglas Fosdick, and the Board. After much diligent effort the first copy came forth containing an equal amount of outside and undergraduate material. It was hailed by all who saw it but because of its ambitious apparatus was regarded only as an experiment. The financial side of such a publication must necessarily require careful consideration and effort.

CHOIR ASSISTED BY HADYN MALE QUARTET

In Brief Address President Sills Discusses Idea of Immortality Inspired by Resurrection

Inspiring music characterized the Vesper Chapel Service last Sunday when the chapel choir was assisted by the Haydn Male Quartet of Portland in singing several Easter anthems. President Sills gave a short sermon on the "Universality of Easter."

Those present were particularly impressed by the thrilling music which has been written to represent the spirit of this season. A general feeling of joy and reassurance pervaded all the audience and the service. The choruses by the Haydn Quartet and the solo by W. M. Altenburg '30 were particularly appreciated.

The Haydn Quartet, assisting the choir in all its work, was particularly enjoyed in its own selection, Gounod's "Unfold, Ye Portals." It is composed of the following members: Mr. Herbert S. Kennedy, first tenor, Mr. Ernest J. Hill, second tenor, Mr. Howard R. Stevick, first bass, and Mr. Harry L. Eustis, second bass.

Following the quartet selection, President Sills gave a short address on the "Universality of Easter." At this season of the year, said the President, the spirit of Easter and the idea of immortality spreads throughout the whole Christian world, and a great reassurance is put in the bosom of each individual by the hope which this doctrine inspires. A wonderful trinity—faith, hope, and love—were dealt with for some time and the President emphasized the renewed faith which comes to the mind of every one at the recollection and execution of the meaning in each of these terms.

The chapel choir sang several anthems: "The Strife is O'er," by Palestrina, Maker's "Awake Thou that Sleepest," and "O Sing unto the Lord," a composition of Simper. In this latter selection, Mr. Altenburg sang the solo part. The entire attendance likewise joined in the Easter spirit and sang two hymns.

Two new managers were elected at a meeting of the Masque and Gown on April 15th following the resignation of Manager William Locke. Those elected were Dana Lovell '32 Business Manager and William Perry '32 Stage Manager.

FIGHTING FROSH ABANDON BRUNSWICK FOR BOSTON HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET

After Week Of Altercations, Class Of Thirty-Three Dines at Hotel Westminster in Back Bay

DELECTABLE MENU ONLY ONE FEATURE OF FROSH BANQUET

The menu of the Banquet of the Class of 1933 at the Hotel Westminster in Boston was unusually choice, as far as these traditional affairs go.

- First Course
Fruit Cocktail
- Second Course
Consomme Printaniere or Soup of Day
- Third Course
Half Broiled Chicken
- Green Peas French Fried Potatoes
- Vienna Rolls
- Fourth Course
Mixed Green Salad
- Fifth Course
Ice Cream
- Demi Tasse
- Cake

Following the Banquet various celebrities in the Class of '33 spoke. Benjamin Whitcomb of the Class of '30 was the Guest of Honor.

DE STEFANO STRING QUARTET PRESENTS COLORFUL PROGRAM

Messrs. DeStefano, Sherman, Kosogei and Guidi Members of Philharmonic Symphony of New York

On Monday evening the student body had the pleasure of listening to a recital by the De Stefano Instrumental Quartet, brought to Bowdoin under the auspices of the Brunswick Music League. It was a high-rated mark in the history of music at the college for Mr. De Stefano and his companions are known throughout the country for their work both on concert tour and with the New York Philharmonic Society.

All of the numbers presented were admirably performed. Perhaps best of all was the opening selection, Beethoven's Quartet in G major (Op. 18, No. 2), which in its closing quasi presto movement gave ample opportunity for the demonstration of the perfect technique of the visitors. There was nothing of uncertainty, nothing of hesitancy.

In Dvorak's American Quartet in F major, which was next presented, the lento movement was probably best of the whole. Its long harmonies afforded wonderful melody, and when the quartet concluded, the audience responded with an unusual burst of applause.

The closing numbers, Wolf's "Italian Serenade," Tchaikowski's "Andante Cantabile," and Percy Grainger's "Molly on the Shore," an adaptation of an old Irish reel, were selected with the performers' love of more nearly contemporary and better-known music.

(Continued on Page 4)

HOLIDAY TEA DANCE IS HELD IN UNION

Small Gathering Due to Unusual Exodus Enjoys Music by Polar Bear Syncopators

A tea dance, given by the Moulton Union on Saturday, April 19, from four-thirty until seven o'clock in the lounge of the Union attracted a large number of students and faculty members who declared the dance a great success.

Regardless of the fact that many of the students had gone home for the holiday, particularly freshmen, the floor was comfortably filled at all times. The tea was postponed until four-thirty so that those who had gone to Lewiston to see the Bowdoin-Bates game might return to the dance.

Besides those people directly connected to the college, representatives from the English departments of the other three Maine colleges were entertained at the tea. The Polar Bears did their best and furnished music which completed the success of the dance. Those who attended were very thankful for the dance which the Union furnished them.

The patronesses for the dance were Mrs. Mantor Copeland, Mrs. O. C. Hornell, Mrs. N. C. Little, Mrs. Thomas Means, and Mrs. R. B. Miller.

An Apology

The Sophomore version of last week's contest has been written by George Pottle '32 and will appear, as a special feature in next week's Orient. The editors regret that it could not be run in this week's issue of the Orient.

The Freshman Banquet last Friday night at the Hotel Westminster in Boston brought to a close one of the most heated periods of Freshman-Sophomore conflict seen for many years.

As yet we have found no person who recalls a more successful banquet. The members of the class of '33 have not a single regret even though there was no "Frat of the House of Usher" for the frosh class officers were all at hand to claim their places at the head table and no "dastard dog" was forcibly detained from attendance. An unprecedented triumph—no less.

How often have the lowly freshmen in full number been free to stroll leisurely to the scene of the festivities, to calmly enter the edifice and proceed serenely to sing Phi Chi, unchastised or unchallenged?

Freshman-Sophomore skirmishes started late Monday night when Pres. Briggs was whisked away immediately under the noses of two score sophomores in the Hotel Westminster. Hyde Hall, Mr. Briggs faded completely from the picture that night and remained unscathed in spite of the numerous energetic and exhaustive searching parties. Apparently no sophomore intellect penetrated the question of his whereabouts deeply enough to conceive of his being at his roommate's home in Bangor. That, perhaps, was too much to expect.

At Madeira, vice president, made a simple and uncontested getaway while the efforts of '32 were centered on the capture of Milt Hickok, yearling secretary-treasurer. This last venture was successful only to the extent of obviating all necessity for Hickok's disappearing in the interests of his own class for he remained a hostage only as long as it was pleasant and then peacefully walked by his guardians in the Hotel Westminster Friday morning and proceeded on his way to Bangor and his task.

The single member that the Freshmen held for the festivities proved himself unworthy. Kumor has it that a special banquet or convocation is to be called in his honor. There seems to be no doubt that he merits such united recognition.

The banqueters began to assemble in the main lobby of the hotel as early as 7:30 hoping against their better judgment of the enemy that they might get brave and tender a little opposition. By two's and three's the frosh came drifting in out of the stormy night amid cheers and handshaking. The immense building fairly shook with the acclaim that was given D'Arcy and Kelley when they made their entrance garbed in the same rugged attire they wore at the heroic episode featuring the Monday night exit of the class president. Hickok received a big hand when he appeared.

(Continued on page 4)

PORTLAND ORCHESTRA TO PLAY HERE AGAIN

Miss Bramson to be Soloist on Colorful Program Next Wednesday

Bowdoin is again to have the happy privilege of hearing the Portland Municipal Orchestra, under Mr. Charles Raymond Cronham, when it appears in a concert at Memorial Hall next Tuesday, April 23. This is the orchestra's first season here and it is its best thus far. Under Mr. Cronham's able baton remarkable progress has been made in a surprisingly short time. Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, former critic of the New York Times, said, "Portland has reason to be proud of her Municipal Orchestra. The orchestra is well balanced with no glaring weaknesses in any section. With increasing experience the orchestra should attain a freedom of interpretation already potentially in evidence."

On next Tuesday's program Miss Adele Bramson, pianist, will play Grieg's A minor Concerto for piano and orchestra. Miss Bramson is a talented and accomplished soloist, and the choice of this concerto is a happy one.

The program will open with Dvorak's "New World" Symphony, with the oboe solo part played by Clinton W. Graffan, Jr. The second number is the famous symphonic poem of Saint-Saens—the Danse Macabre—in which we see in imagination: "Through the gloom the white skeletons run, leaping and dancing in their shroud." Emil Hybert, violin, and Samuel Fineberg, xylophone, will

(Continued on page 3)

NOTICE

The Society of Contemporary Verse is planning an anthology of poetry which hitherto has not been given professional publication. The contest closes June 1, 1930.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Department Editors
Walter P. Bowman '31, Campus
Frederick R. Kleibacker '31, Sports

Contributing Editors
Harrison M. Davis, Jr., '30
Roy E. Davis '30
Douglas Fosdick '30

John T. Gould '30
Olin S. Pettingill, Jr., '30
William N. Small '31

John L. Snider '31
Business Manager
Ralph B. Hirtle '30
Assistant Managers

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Artine Artinian '31.
Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College.
All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumnius) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, April 23, 1930.

No. 2

Life?

It was undoubtedly a rude shock to Bates and Whiffer — that Saturday game. It was a day of rude shocks — the Red Sox — the Braves — the picture at the Cumberland. One might almost have expected the students in a body to pour respectful libations at the projected base of the flagpole.

The college seems to have entered an upward cycle. There is a new regime in football that promises much. The track department is optimistic. The baseball team is dampening the pro-Bates ardor of the Lewiston Daily Sun. The Debating team has baffled three opponents, and is on an excursion trying to outvoice fresh victims. The Quill is becoming increasingly important.

The Freshman-Sophomore brawls have been rather pitiful, of course, and Chapel attendance has not been overwhelming; but even these can possibly, by considerable stretching of the imagination, be deemed further indications of the upward trend.

The fact is that now there seems to be a desire to accomplish something — a desire that has been in the remote background recently. Bowdoin has been pretty well satisfied with itself, perhaps because of its hoary legends, former greatness, and statewide and undeserved reputation as a high-hat college — perhaps merely because it was tired.

It is apparently inevitable that weary spots should appear at certain times in any course of action. They appear to be spots of stagnation or even regression. Probably they are not. This period of doldrums, born it seems out of impatience with too fretful action, continues for an indefinite time. Then three or four unknowns coincide. There is a click. Something whirs. Everything quickens.

We heard that click when the first new Quill came out. The Debating team and the baseball team are whirring now. The student interest is quickening — witness the flagpole incident.

It is often futile to predict. But Bowdoin shows evidence of being in a spurt. How long it will last is problematical, but while Bowdoin is in this spurt — Let's Go.

The Union

If the Moulton Union had nothing else to recommend it, the genial air it lends to college "At Homes" would be sufficient to repay everything. Nothing could be much more bare and desolate than a small informal at the Gym. The small orchestras used to re-echo hollowly; the dancers used to sift about in bewilderment; the stags used to stand unhappily in the middle of the floor looking like children in a huddle at a Sunday-school social.

At the Union, everything is easier. The chairs and divans in particular, are easier. The stags skirt the dancers and no longer have that hunted and hemmed-in look. The cutting-in is brisker — in fact, astonishing, but it is the cutting-in at a Bowdoin informal that makes it informal.

The donor of the Moulton Union has our sincere appreciation, and the college every time it is At Home recommends Brunswick to us just that much more.

Platforms

Speaking about platforms. A platform is rather a useless sort of thing. A platform requires one to make a stand for or against something, about which one may change his mind in an instant, and in which one may have only the faintest of indistinct preferences. A platform indicates a purpose. This just leads back to the peculiarly tiresome idea that everything must have a purpose. If we go to the library we must have a purpose. If we come to college we must have some real purpose. If we read Hemenway or Hawthorne we must have a purpose. If we laugh, sing, or weep, we must have a purpose. We have to have a purpose — definite, concrete, and solid — in everything we do, say, think, or like.

Well, so be it. And for this platform with a purpose, may we suggest a Dean's List on averages, a better — perhaps we should say, a — road through the campus, and Modification.

Incidentally

A few weeks ago we were standing in front of the New York Public Library. "Huh!", we muttered audibly to ourselves, "it doesn't compare with the Boston Public Library." We entered, sent for some books, and changed our mind.

A week ago someone asked us, "This English, this French, these liberal courses, what good do they do you? Why don't you take science courses — courses that take more work and skill?" We almost apologized for our lack of vision.

Yesterday someone snorted, "Tufts! Piffle! It cannot be compared with Bowdoin. No one with any brains goes there. It is like B. U." He must have known, he was a Bowdoin man.

W. N. S.

Smart • Spring • Offerings •

at The House of Walsh

convincingly forecast that "Walshized" Patrons will again Lead the field.

Spalding Sport Shoes cannot be imitated, we are Brunswick's only authorized agent.

Communication

April 17, 1930.

Through the long negotiations over a war memorial, a group of us have maintained silence who probably should have spoken out for a principle of great importance. Our opinion was not asked; we hesitated to proffer it unsought. Besides, we appreciated the generosity, the tireless devotion, and the high-mindedness of those interested in erecting the war memorial. We feared our opposition might be misunderstood. I should not have sponsored the student demonstration of last week's war flag if it occurred, and I heartily sympathize with the student feeling on the matter. I regret the flippant tone of the news column of last week's Orient because I fear it detracted from the value of the country by putting the flagpole in all regret the fire alarm. But after all, the student protest over the war memorial is an indication of a healthy state of the undergraduate mind. The outbreak was essentially not a collegiate indulgence in lawlessness nor yet one of Spring's customary symptoms, but rather the expression of feeling of some of our most thoughtful undergraduates. Since the question has been thus spontaneously reopened, it should not be closed without a defense of the student point of view from an angle that has been avoided in the editorial and official explanations.

Beneath the excitement of a bonfire and the ever popular sport of introducing incongruities into the college chapel, beneath the generally felt student dislike of marring what really is one of the most beautiful campuses in the country by putting the flagpole in the wrong place, lay a strong opposition to the flagpole itself wherever raised. The erection of a "war monument" raises an important principle. The modern undergraduate ridicules Memorial Hall and opposes the erection of war monuments not because he is less of a patriot but because he is more of a realist than his father or grandfather. He has grown up in a period of disillusionment about war. He knows that Bowdoin boys in the last war went off and died firmly believing that they were sacrificing their lives for an ideal; but he begins to suspect that actually they were not so sure of the high ideals of democracy and peace, as victims of human stupidity in not settling disputes peaceably and politicians' intrigues that led peaceful peoples into war. He realizes that every small German community also has monuments to its boys who died in "defense" of their country. He has read a number of books portraying war not as a romanticized holiday, but as grim, realistic horror. He hears public men and college speakers advocating peace. He sees the United States sending delegation after delegation to sit in conferences whose purpose is the prevention of war. He is exhorted to develop a finer type of patriotism than that represented by chauvinistic waving of the flag. He regards the D. A. R. as an organization that would be a menace if it were not ridiculous. He is urged to think for himself and to think straight. He is told that the truth and sane thinking are the highest aims of college men. When he sits down to think about war he realizes its stupidity. He also realizes the incongruity of signing Kellogg pacts and holding naval conferences and talking peace and then glorifying military men and raising monuments to war. Then suddenly he hears a respected chapel speaker tell him that their rushing from sheer emotion into a fight at the first cry of war was proof that college had succeeded with two apparently worthless undergraduates, whereas he would have thought that that was certain evidence that college had failed to teach them to think and to act upon reason rather than emotions. Then immediately thereafter he awakens to see a "war monument" being erected in the midst of his campus. Did he like the form and the location of the monument better perhaps he would not protest so quickly over its symbolism. It is too late to do more than build a bonfire and carry off the flagpole in protest. To him the flagpole is a monument to war; to the alumni committee it was a memorial to boys who died for an ideal. Is not that difference in point of view the cause of the misunderstanding? What the undergraduate would have liked was a memorial that would have served the cause not of war but of peace. I have been interested to hear the extent of undergraduate opinion that a tribute to the men who died in the war should take a form that would tend to make future war less probable. The suggestion has come from a number of thoughtful undergraduates that a more fitting memorial would have been a graduate scholarship to study international relations. (The income on fifteen thousand dollars would provide $750 a year.)

I realize that the alumni committee gave the matter careful consideration; I realize that the alumni upon that committee are high-minded men who had none of the thoughts or motives that many undergraduates read into the symbol of a "war monument". I realize that to them the erecting of a war memorial is an act of devotion sacredly dedicated to the memory of boys who died for an ideal. I have nothing but praise for their motive. But after all colleges do decline gifts from the best intentioned of men because they do not serve the best ideals of the college. And after all it is the undergraduate who lives with the flagpole.

As far as I know neither the faculty nor the undergraduates nor perhaps even the alumni who sympathize with the point of view of this communication were given a chance to voice an opinion until after the plan for the flagpole was completed and the money for a flagpole was being solicited. There were alumni who contributed who regretted the form of the memorial. When the faculty was notified of the completed project too late to have any influence in the matter, it voted against the proposal. We like the students were told that the non-utilitarianism of the memorial had already been decided (by a small committee) and was not open to discussion. We now have had student opinion forcibly presented. In short, Continued on page 3

Communication

It came to my attention recently that a number of copies of the Orient failed to reach subscribers due to certain phases of news which appeared in the last issue.

I also understand that the college does not believe in censoring undergraduate publications, although it does believe in censure! Last week's episode would seem to entail much more of the former than of the latter policy. The step recently taken seems extremely inconsistent.

If the Orient did violate the rules of decorum (which seems hardly possible) it will attempt to avoid this dilemma in the future. It will never be the policy of the Orient to hurt anyone's feelings, nor will it stir up trouble unnecessarily. It will attempt, however, to express student opinion unflinchingly and adequately. It will do this with diplomacy and will expect that the faculty allow it at least this range.

When the Orient becomes a house organ, then it will be time to surrender the project to those who may use it best. At the present time it is an undergraduate publication. It is well that it remain so.

Sincerely,

PHILIP C. AHERN.

PRESIDENT SILLS

ISSUES STATEMENT

President Sills made the following statement in chapel Wednesday morning, April 23, 1930:

During my administration I have known of no committee that has given more time, more care, and more thought to its duties than has the committee appointed several years ago by the Governing Boards to erect a War Memorial to those members of the College who gave their lives and their services in the World War. From the very beginning the Trustees, the Overseers, the Alumni, and the Faculty, have had representatives on that committee. Purposely we did not appoint undergraduates, for they were not asked to contribute, nor was the erection of a War Memorial their concern. While I have been ex officio the chairman of the committee, the real duties of that post were undertaken, until his death, by the late Hon. W. J. Curtis, and since that time by Mr. Henry H. Pierce. Professor W. W. Lawrence, of Columbia University, has for the greater part of the time acted as secretary of the committee. The present membership is as follows: The President, Chairman; from the Board of Trustees, Messrs. Henry H. Pierce, William W. Lawrence, Frederick W. Pickard; from the Board of Overseers, Mr. Arthur G. Staples, Mr. Edgar O. Achorn, and Judge Frederic A. Fisher; from the Alumni Council, William D. Ireland and F. Arnold Burton; from the Faculty, Professors Hutchins, Burnett and Andrews. If the various interests of the College could have had able representatives, I for one do not know where they could have been found. It may be well to call the attention of the College to the fact that on the committee there is an architect who has designed buildings and gates here at the College, an alumnus whose war record is unexcelled, and the Director of the Art Museum. Furthermore, during all this time the committee has had the advice of the college architects, McKim, Mead & White, and particularly of one of the senior members of that firm, Mr. William M. Kendall, whose professional reputation is very high indeed and who has served on national commissions on war memorials both in this country and in France.

It is fair to the committee to state that every step has been taken with patience; much time was expended at the very start in trying to find out the wishes of the alumni and other members of the College as to the form of the memorial, and it was early decided that it should not be utilitarian. Designs for a rostrum were submitted, placed before the alumni and the College and disapproved. A few years ago it was determined to make the memorial less elaborate in character than was originally proposed and to recommend to the Boards that a flagstaff with monumental base and appropriate inscription should be erected. This report was, as I recall, unanimously adopted by the Boards. Last year in my President's Report (p. 17) I announced the form of the war memorial and its proposed location at the intersection of the axes of the Art Building and Library. I received no single protest that I can remember in written form from any alumnus, member of the faculty, or undergraduate; but last fall the question of the proposed site was brought up at a meeting of the permanent faculty and the committee considered again an alternative site which the faculty had proposed, and re-affirmed the site selected by the architect.

In line with the care and patience with which the whole matter has been considered in the past, the committee is again to meet to consider once more the site of the flagstaff before the foundations are laid. It is needless to say that every facility will be given to those who have different views to present them in written form. What the action of the committee will be I cannot of course predict. It may choose another site. It may decide, despite differences of opinion, that this is a question where the layman must defer to the expert. Whatever the decision may be, I am confident that it will be accepted loyally by all who are interested in the College, and that individual preferences and individual disappointments will be cheerfully laid aside when it is considered that a properly constituted committee representing so many different parts of the College reaches a decision through the steps that I have indicated.

Typing by wire—an adventure in communication

The telephone typewriter, a new Bell System service, has commercial possibilities as yet barely realized.

Forexample, a business house can type-write a message over telephone wires, and this is retyped instantaneously and simultaneously in any number of branch offices. The advantage is obvious — in knitting together far-flung organizations and in quickening the pace of business.

Here is still another extension of telephone service which has already proved its value. The telephone typewriter promises even greater things as industry discovers new uses for this instrument of convenient communication.

BELL SYSTEM

A nation-wide system of inter-connecting telephones

"OUR PIONEERING WORK HAS JUST BEGUN"

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

If you are intending to sometime turn in that old Typewriter for a NEW REMINGTON PORTABLE —

DO IT NOW

This week we can offer you a better deal on a NEW REMINGTON than we shall ever be able to do again.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Beale Letter

(Continued from Page 2)

an alumni committee with the best of intentions is unconsciously committing an anachronism in erecting a Nineteenth Century symbol in the midst of Twentieth Century undergraduates who if they think about it at all will dislike what the monument stands for instead of being inspired to reverence for those to whom the monument is intended to do honor.

Personally I believe with some of the faculty and an important group of undergraduates that a college is breaking faith with ideals worth fighting for in joining the unthinking crowd in glorifying war; that a college campus is the last place in the world where a "war monument" ought to be erected; that a monument to reason, the antithesis of war, would be more fitting. Finally, I believe that the undergraduates who oppose the flagpole on this ground should be encouraged. I believe thoughtful students among our undergraduates have indulged in the independent thinking that we often urge upon them. I believe that in this as in many matters their fresher point of view is the saner one. To me the outburst of last week seems one of the most beautiful signs that we could wish for among Bowdoin undergraduates. Both for the sake of encouraging the undergraduate in independent thinking, and for the sake of the important matter of college policy involved in the erection of a war monument in our midst, I believe that the undergraduates should not be told that it is too late but should be listened to and heeded even at the cost of the portion of the fifteen thousand dollars that cannot be recovered if the flagpole is abandoned.

HOWARD K. BEALE.

P. S. Since this communication was written, a full explanation of the history of the flagpole has been made to both faculty and students. The faculty have officially expressed their opinion on the site of the flagpole. But once more the really vital issue, the question whether there should be a "war monument", has been silenced on the ground that it is now too late to raise that issue. I wish merely to repeat, then, that the question whether we want a flagpole at all was decided before the discussion reached the campus. The first time many members of the faculty and most undergraduates heard of the flagpole it was already "too late" to discuss whether we wanted it. Again, then, with full appreciation of the labors and spirit of the committee, and high praise for their motives and intentions, I reiterate that the committee's proposal of a "war monument" meets with student objection that is worth heeding, and that the undergraduate should be heard and answered with a better argument than that the form of the memorial is a "closed issue".

H. K. B.

Quill Election

(Continued from page 1)

fort but even this phase has met with a fair degree of success. Subsequent issues of The Quill have assured it a place among the finest literary magazines published by college undergraduates in the country today.

In the national convention of Pi Delta Epsilon held last winter the feeling that it was unique among college publications was verified. No college publication is like it since the Hound and Horn has passed from undergraduate hands at Harvard to a private graduate enterprise. To the Board is due much praise for the constant effort that they have shown in making The Quill the superior publication that it is.

With the advent of the new Quill Board the same policies will be kept. It is hoped moreover to increase the circulation, to make it as culturally entertaining to undergraduates as alumni, to have a sane view of things. The Quill has filled an important place in the undergraduate life of the college. It has made a reputation for Bowdoin in outside circles of which the college may well be proud.

At a meeting of the Quill Board on Monday evening the Business Board of the paper was chosen. Elias H. Thomas and Raymond Szukala will jointly hold the Business Manager-ship. Richard C. Mullen, Richard H. Lampert and Philip C. Ahern will be assistants on the staff.

Early Years of the College were ones of Great Difficulty

Lottery one Time Considered as a Means of Support for the Struggling Young Institution

With this article we are inaugurating a series of special stories to be run weekly on this page. They will deal with various subjects connected with the College and its history. At present this is merely an experiment, but if they prove to be of value or interest, we shall continue them as a regular feature. It should be borne in mind that these articles are to be in no sense filler, but will be carefully written from accurate sources.

This week we will deal with the earlier years of the College's history, the material being largely drawn from an account published in 1882 in a "History of Bowdoin College" compiled by Nehemiah Cleaveland, LL.D., of the class of 1813, edited and completed by Prof. Alpheus S. Packard of the class of 1816.

The College Founded

The present State of Maine, previous to the Revolution, was for the most part wilderness, the coast towns being the chief ones of importance, and only a few of these carrying on any considerable trade. The population was small and scattered. In 1788 the first actual steps toward founding a college were taken in Cumberland county, although there had been some move before the war in Lincoln county. The justices of the peace assembled as a court of sessions, and the Congregational ministers as a body, each petitioned the General Court of Massachusetts to incorporate a college in the District of Maine, which was at that time still a part of the former state. After considerable trouble a bill to that effect was finally passed in March, 1793, but Governor John Hancock, for some reason or other, failed to sign it.

The next attempt, however, was more successful and the Charter of Bowdoin College was signed June 24, 1794. The trustees—four clergymen and four laymen—met for the first time in Portland December 3, 1794, and elected the Rev. Tristram Gilman president for one year. A committee was appointed to lay out the five townships which the State had granted the new institution. A letter soon came from the Hon. James Bowdoin following the legislative act naming the College for his father, in which he gave as "a first step to the design" $1000 and a thousand acres of land in the town of Bowdoin. Various other meetings of the board followed in the next couple of years, the chief business being with regard to the college lands.

Choice of a Location

The next problem that faced the trustees was the location of the College. Many towns about this part of the State, as well as in Lincoln and Kennebec counties, were advocated by various people. North Yarmouth, Freeport, Gorham, Newbury, and Brunswick were considered, while Portland stood out prominently in the deliberations. To settle the difficulty a convention, consisting of the Overseers and Trustees, with other gentlemen interested in the new college, met at Brunswick in John Dunning's Inn, July 19, 1796, and walked out to look over what Brunswick had to offer in the way of land.

At last a parcel of thirty acres, the property of William Stanwood, was agreed upon, provided that it should be given to the College and provided also that three hundred acres adjoining could be obtained on the same terms. Stanwood and others gave the thirty acres, and two hundred more were donated by the town. At the time this tract was valued at two shillings an acre—a total valuation of about seventy-six dollars. Brunswick had been finally selected as the site to quiet the claims of the three contesting counties, lying as it does in Cumberland, adjoining Lincoln and near Kennebec. Except for that and the very favorable donation of land, we might be going to classes in Freeport or Yarmouth.

Up to this time, in spite of the generous grants of land, some of which had already been offered for sale, lack of money was the greatest hindrance—$1500 being all that the treasury afforded at that time. Many people were dissatisfied with the manner in which the trustees were handling affairs, and with the slowness of their proceedings. They had been much hampered by the frequent opposition of the overseers in some important matters, as well as by lack of funds, and those most closely associated with the work testify to the generous spirit with which these first trustees bore the care and troubles of erecting the College. With the course of time the lands were well sold, one township bringing $20,000—a rare price for those days.

The College Opened

On September 2, 1802 the College was first opened, under Dr. McKean as president, and with one professor. Massachusetts Hall housed the whole College and its activities. Eight men were admitted to the Freshman class and classes duly started. In spite of the small number of students, the college soon came to be respected among such institutions, having, even at that remote time, relatively high standards of requirements, study, and discipline. In 1804 Samuel Willard was appointed to a new tutorship and in 1805 the professorship of mathematics and natural philosophy was founded and filled by the appointment of Parker Cleaveland.

The first Commencement came in September of 1806, and was a memorable event to all who attended. The "History" says that "such occasions were then kept as holidays, to which multitudes resorted, as they would go to a militia muster. Besides this promiscuous throng, a higher crowd of visitors, in a furious tempest of wind and rain. The new, unfinished meeting-house was filled, notwithstanding, with a drenched and eager audience. The boards, appalled by the violence of the weather, and certain that it could not last long, postponed the exercises to the following day. Thursday came, and the storm, regardless of the adjournment, still raged; and so Commencement went on, and was followed by the ball and by a wet night of darkness, filled with blunders, annoyances, and disasters innumerable. Happily there were no fatal accidents."

President McKean died in 1807 and was succeeded, after some division between the boards, by the Rev. Jesse Appleton. In this year the second large building—Maine Hall—was completed.

During the first eight years of the College the students took their meals in various private boarding houses, but in 1810 a commons hall was established at Nichols' Inn. The arrangement was unsatisfactory, however, and complaints and even quarrels were constant—fraternity stewards note!—and the idea had to be given up. The "History" says that "as a school for bad manners, it was wonderfully successful."

In 1811 Mr. James Bowdoin died, and his large and valuable library and collection of pictures fell to the College. These art objects helped to form a nucleus around which our present valuable group has been built up.

In 1815 the affairs of Dr. Porter, the College treasurer, became badly involved and Mr. Benjamin Orr, agent and counsel for the trustees, attached the property of General William King of Bath, who was surety for Dr. Porter. Orr probably did this to protect the College, but he had always been a strong political enemy of Gen. King's. The affair caused King to become openly hostile to the College, which he regarded as a Federalist institution. The friends of the College, meantime, rejoiced that it had been saved from threatened bankruptcy.

The trustees sought to petition the Legislature in 1816, to grant a lottery for the benefit of the College, such a course then being often pursued to fill the coffers of all sorts of organizations, charitable and otherwise. The overseers, to their great credit, refused to sanction such a move, however, and it fell through. This incident alone illustrates the struggle that went on to keep the College off the rocks financially.

G. T. S.

Mrs. Percival W. White of Brunswick announced, last Saturday, the engagement of her granddaughter, Matilda, to John Winchell Riley, Jr.

Four-Piece Suits at Forty-Five

Harmon's offer for Spring. A remarkable display of new four piece suits, in exclusively designed and controlled fabrics, faultlessly tailored and never before sold at this low price. See our windows.

$45.00

HARMON'S
INCORPORATED

Good Clothes for Every Man

Portland Orchestra

(Continued from Page 1)

have the important solos.

The Grieg concerto, with Miss Bramson at the piano, follows, and the concert is concluded with Rossini's famous and ever-welcome Overture to "William Tell", with solo parts by Katherine Hatch, 'cello, Clinton W. Graffam, Jr., oboe, and Harold Lawrence, flute.

The Portland Orchestra was started in 1927 with only 65 players, but its membership has increased to 82 within the three years of its existence. Portland's finest instrumentalists, professional and amateur, have been drawn together in this great enterprise, which is wholly voluntary, actuated by an interest in music and the opportunity to study and present the finest orchestral works.

This program has been particularly well chosen for a college audience. The numbers are generally familiar, and those who heard the orchestra last year will be ready to vouch for the skill and finesse with which they play. Bowdoin is extremely fortunate in having them back this year—so don't forget—next Tuesday at 8:15!

FORDHAM LAW SCHOOL

WOOLWORTH BUILDING
NEW YORK
CO-EDUCATIONAL
CASE SYSTEM
THREE YEAR COURSE
TWO YEARS
One Year of College Work
Required For Admission
MORNING, AFTERNOON AND
EVENING CLASSES
Write For Catalogue
Charles P. Davis, Registrar
Room 2261

CUMBERLAND

Friday - April 25th
-VAUDEVILLE-

— on the screen —
ALICE WHITE
PLAYING AROUND
Also Paramount News

Saturday - April 26th
LORD BYRON OF BROADWAY
- with -
Charles Kaley - Ethelred Terry
Cliff Edwards - Marion Shilling
Comedy - Sound Act

Mon.-Tues. - April 28-29
ROADHOUSE NIGHTS
- with -
Helen Morgan - Charles Ruggles
Fred Kohler - Clayton Jackson and Durante
Comedy - Cartoon - News

Wed.-Thurs. - April 30-May 1
VILMA BANKY
- in -
THIS IS HEAVEN
with James Hall
Comedy - Audio Revue

... off the tee it's DISTANCE!

.... in a cigarette it's TASTE!

"PROMISES FILL no sack"... it is not words, but taste, that makes you enjoy a cigarette.

But you're entitled to all the fragrance and flavor that fine tobaccos can give; don't be content with less. You can expect better taste, richer aroma, from Chesterfields—because in making them, we put taste first—

"TASTE above everything"

Chesterfield

FINE TURKISH and DOMESTIC tobaccos, not only BLENDED but CROSS-BLENDED

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.

Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St. - Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing

Town Building
BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

LYMAN B. CHIPMAN
PURE FOOD SHOP
Wholesale-Retail
574 Congress St., Portland, Me.

'Anything y'want Pressed?'
Give it to
LAVERNE OR ESTLE
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS AND GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

PRINTING . . .

of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.

Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

QUALITY ALWAYS.

Brunswick Publishing Company

Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets
Telephone Brunswick No. 3

Sportsman's Pen

The Spring athletic season will get under way this week. Prospects among the major sports are unusually promising.

Coach Bowser's problems this spring will be those of a large college coach adapting himself to a small college.
The paucity of material is a thing with which the big college does not have to contend.

Houser's outfit is liable to do big things this season. But as they say it is a long way to the barn. A few victories, however, will find the college solidly behind the nine.

The State meet less than a month away now. This is the great grinding period for Coach Magee's charges.

Bowdoin captured the State Tennis Championship last year. We might as well do it once again!

The Golf Team has a fairly likely looking aggregation this year. Des-ton, Dillenbeck and Stein are still available, while Dick Mullen, last year's mid-western junior champion, will be seen on the links for Bowdoin this spring.

MAGEE PICKS TEAMS FOR RELAY CARNIVAL

Bowdoin to Compete in Mile and One of Two Medley Events; Wingate Injured

Bowdoin will send two relay teams to the Penn Relay Carnival which takes place Friday and Saturday of this week. One of the teams will be entered in the mile while the other will run either a sprint or distance medley race.

At the time trials held Monday
St. Foster, Dan Johnson, Harry Thistlewaite and either Tarbell or Stanwood were selected to represent the White in the dual meets and the Wingate was sure to have made this team is out for the season with a leg injury.
Wingate was counted on by Jack Magee to collect points in the quarter mile in the dual meets and the injured State Meet and his loss is a severe blow to the Polar Bear track hopes. Coach Magee has yet has not decided which medley he will enter a team. If he should choose the sprint medley, he will have Johnson in the 220, Foster in the quarter mile, Thistlewaite in the half, and either Stan-wood or Tarbell in the other 220.
Should Bowdoin enter the distance medley, instead, Foster in the quarter Thistlewaite in the half, Usher in the mile, and either Cobb or Sewall in the three quarter will make up the team.
Bowdoin will be up against some fast company at Philadelphia and the chances of a first place are very slim.

In the sprint medley the following colleges have entered teams: University of Chicago, Georgetown, Syracuse,
New York University, Columbia,
Holy Cross, Ohio State, Princeton,
Dartmouth, and Shippensburg Teachers' College. In the distance medley,
Penn State, Lincoln, Michigan State,
Marquette, New York University, City College of New York, Princeton, Indiana, Columbia, Muskingum, University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, Western State Teachers College, William and Mary, West Point, and Boston College will be competing in addition to Bowdoin. In the mile Bowdoin will go up against, Catholic University, St. Johns College, Brooklyn, Stevens Institute, Johns Hopkins, Ohio University.

Dan Johnson also will be entered in the 100 yard dash and the broad jump while Cobb, Stanwood will probably compete in the hurdles.

De Stefano Quartet

(Continued from Page 1)
All four of the artists heard in the recital are members of long standing of the New York Philharmonic Symphony, one of the greatest schools of ensemble in existence. All four are especially interested in chamber music.

Michael de Stefano was born in New York, and was a child prodigy of the violin, making concert tours when he was eight. For four consecutive years he has held a fellowship in violin at the Juilliard Graduate School, and has studied composition with Rubin Goldmark. Under the direction of Arthur Whiting, the de Stefano quartet has toured the Eastern colleges, everywhere meeting with the warmest approval.

Louis Sherman, second violin, was born in Kiev, Russia. At the age of eleven he immigrated to America, and began the study of music with various well-known artists, George Lehman, author of the "Lexicon for the Violin" being one of his masters. Having worked with Jacques Gordon, concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony, he became known to an enormous musical following through his radio broadcasting.

Alexander Koszegi, violist, was born in Hungary. He graduated with distinction from the Budapest Conservatory of Music, winning as first prize a thousand-kroner violin, the

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

SOULE'S BARBER SHOP
For First Class Haircutting

Near Campus - Two Expert Barbers

BOWDOIN FALLS TO HARVARD, FIVE-ONE, IN SEASON'S FIRST

Dwyer Scores White's Sole Tally as Devens Battles Housers—Bow-doin Gets Four Hits

Behind as effective a display of pitching as Cambridge has seen in many months, the Harvard nine came to life last Wednesday afternoon, tried to over Bowdoin, 5-1.
Collecting nine hits and seven free tickets to first, the Crimson rolled in two runs in the first inning and was never headed. Ragged fielding supported and too many bases on balls spelled the downfall of George Sol-er, Ben Houser's pitching ace who had been groomed for the start of the season. Larry Devens struck out eleven men in the course of the afternoon, walked five, and in the eighth came sliding in for Harvard's final run.

Harvard lost no chance in stepping out to a lead at the start of the game, after Ricker, Whittier, and Sonny Dwyer, Bowdoin's lead crew, had been successively acquitted. Mays, first man up, waited patiently and worked Southern for a walk. Nugent then tried to go, a slow grounder and Mays galloped to second on the field-er's choice. McGrath flew out to center field, and then Barry Wood, of football fame, stepped to the plate and brisally slapped a single over the infield. The eminent Mr. Ben Tick-ner followed his example, as Mays galloped home. Then Des Roches walked,
and Sonny Dwyer let a fast ball trickle through him, Wood scoring on the error. Bassett ended the inning
by striking out.

The White's solitary offensive gesture came in the first of the fourth, when Dwyer walked and Luke Urban, next man up, crashed out a beautiful line drive to second on the field-er's choice. The eminent Mr. Ben Tick-ner followed his example, as Mays galloped home. Then Des Roches walked,
and Sonny Dwyer let a fast ball
trickle through him, Wood scoring on
the error. Bassett ended the inning
by striking out.

The third crimson run broke out suddenly in the sixth, as Bassett smacked a single into the Texas leaguer district. Batchelder sacrificed him to second, and Devens won a short sprint up the line as the White troubles for the afternoon. Wood swung up a towering Texas leaguer that Herb Rose snared. Bowdoin's pinch hitting establishment did noting worthy of notice, and everybody went home.

The box score:
Bowdoin (1) ab r bh po a e
Ricker, cf 1 0 1 4 0 0
Whittier, as 4 0 1 3 1 1
Dwyer, c 3 1 0 5 2 2
Urban, lf 2 0 0 0 0 0
Gatchell, cf 2 0 0 0 0 0
Chalmers, 2b 3 0 1 2 0 0
McKown, 3b 3 0 1 1 1 0
a Shute 1 0 0 0 0 0
Rose, rf 2 0 1 1 0 0
b Stiles 1 0 0 0 0 0
Crimmins, lb 4 0 2 11 0 0
Southern, p 4 0 0 4 0 0

Totals 30 1 4 24 12 3
a—batted for McKown in the ninth b—batted for Rose in the ninth Harvard (5) ab r bh po a e
Mays, 2b 1 1 3 0 1 1
Nugent, as 4 0 1 3 1 1
McGrath, cf 5 0 2 2 0 0
Wood, lf 3 2 1 5 1 0
Tickner, if 4 0 2 0 0 0
Des Roches, 3b 3 0 2 2 0 0
Bassett, rf 4 1 2 0 0 0
Urban, lf 4 0 1 2 0 0
Devens, p 3 1 0 3 5 0

Totals 30 5 9 27 10 2

Score by innings:
Bowdoin 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
Harvard 2 0 0 0 0 1 1 1 5
Two base hits, McGrath, Urban, Stolen bases, Urban, Ricker, 2 Crimmins. Sacrifice hits, Wood, Batchelder, Mays. Double play, Devens to Mays. Left on base, Bowdoin 8, Harvard 11. Bases on balls, off Southern 7, off Devens 6. Struck out by Southern 7, Devens 11. Wild pitch Devens. Passed balls, Dwyer 3. Umpires, Barry and Stafford.

In the Yale Courant the article of most general interest is the editorial discussion of Yale's position in regard to religious intolerance.
"Yale is still a long way from any abandonment of her old-time position as a Christian college."

product of the famous Hungarian violinist, the cellist, has played in many quartettes, including the Hubay-Popper, the Bohemian, and his own; and has won fame by his chamber-music performances with such remarkable artists as Dr. Richard Strauss and Erno Dohnanyi.

Alberto Guidi, the cellist of the quartette, was born in Italy. He studied under the Hungarian virtuoso, Desa-Kory, and the notable Piatto scholar, Professor W. E. Whitehouse. He made his debut at the Queen's Gate Hall, London, at the age of eighteen, and frequently appeared in London with the Trio Guidi and the Musica Quartet.

ROBERT SMITH CHOSEN SWIMMING CAPTAIN

Gordon W. Kirkpatrick Will Manage Natators During Coming Season

At a recent meeting of the Swimming Team the Captain and Manager of next year's team were elected.

Robert H. Smith will captain Bow-doin's natators in 1930, while Gordon
W. Kirkpatrick was chosen manager.
During the spring life saving classes will be held under Coach Miller as was done last year. The life saving class will meet at 4:30 each afternoon.

The first test will be for Senior life saving. The work of the examiner will be to prepare the new entrant fired and to renew the work with former applicants.

The requirements are:
In deep water, disrobe from shoes, pants or skirt, and coat, then swim 100 yards.

Surface Dive, recovering objects,
3 times, 10 lb weight once.

Approaches, front, back, and underwater, each with proper turn and carrage.

60 foot carries—Head Carry
Cross-chest Carry Arm-Lock or Hair Carry Tired Swimsuit

Releasing from holds—Front strangle 4 times in 2 different positions
Back strangle 4 times in 2 different positions

Double grip on one wrist 4 times.
(Use alternate wrists)
Two people locked in front strangle
& repeat (Rescue alternate sub.) Demonstrate prone-pressure Resuscitation

Essay prone-pressure Resuscitation
(200 to 500 words) Float motionless one minute. (Minimum allowed for proper position but no buoyancy)

Tread water 30 seconds.
One minute carry—subject fully dressed

Fireman's or saddle-back carry from shallow water

Explain method of lifting subject from tank or onto float unassisted.

Frosh-Soph Banquet

(Continued from Page 1)
substantiated the advance reports of his escape by papers and a bomb explosion. Soon the clan had gathered 110 strong. Probably as large a gathering of freshmen as ever shared the annual banquet together. And Boston is an annual event.

It was a justly boisterous and joyful aggregation that partook of the elaborate fare and sang and congratulated one another. Each of the classes sang its own song, and the feast of victory, heard its close.
Tom Kimball and Hobery Lowell to whom credit of the banquet arrangements is given each had a word of cheer to the freshmen.

of the Student Council was the guest speaker of the evening. The theme of his talk was timely and heartily received. He entered a plea that the class of 1931 retain in present spirit throughout the next three years and continue to participate in the life of the campus in the same enthusiastic manner that has marked its history thus far.

Sophomore Story

Robbed of their only captive, the frosh trickled out of Brunswick. Having assured the safety of their own officers and foiled all kidnapping plots, the sophomores went home to sleep. The only thing left to do was to get to the Westminster in time for dessert and the rest of the class to rush a hundred and fifty miles from danger, there to sit and look around at the sophomores captives who weren't captured, and listen to complaints on their prisonerless feast.

It's too bad that Benny had to wait till his senior year to get to a freshman banquet.

High lights of banquet week:
Hickok ramming the steam roller;
Davis walking home from Topsham sans trousers; Hay getting out the window while all the freshmen surround him; and Pettier. Creation going to classes alone; Madral going to classes with a twenty-man bodyguard; Usher and Hickok playing golf; Gatchell, breaking down and destroying the White House.

Thursday night; forty freshmen boldly attacking one sophomore in front of the library; forty freshmen boldly attacking one sophomore in front of the Art Building; forty freshmen frantically trying to put over the idea of stealing the flagpole when they dined numbers were even; Gideon tramping along the Augusta road;
freshmen standing around the D. U.
House Monday night trying to make up their minds to go in; Pollock praying that someone would try to rush the Psi U House; freshman telling a sophomore in English 2 what time the train left; Perry with four days' beard going to see the Dean; Clark repairing the car he had tried to put out of commission; Bell stood over him and swore; sophomores hiring the banquet hall at the Augusta House on behalf of Colby College;

Thayer chasing the whole freshman class out of the White House; the Flying Squadron on duty; a Junior discharging a carload of freshmen at the critical moment of a melee in Lewiston.

It is hard to understand that with the improvement of airplane transportation facilities the next freshman class, following the prudent policy of '33, expects to hold its banquet in Lewiston.

It is hard to understand that with the improvement of airplane transportation facilities the next freshman class, following the prudent policy of
'33, expects to hold its banquet in Lewiston.

HEBRON LANDSLIDE BURIES YANNIGANS—RESERVES HITLESS

Comedy of Errors Leaves Cubs
Masked with 17-0 Defeat—Two Men Reach First

Monday was a sad, and day for Ben Houser's baseball reserves. A tremendous team came down from the woods and Hebron Academy, caught their opponents swinging, and pounded three pitchers unmercifully, while an obliging infield booted the ball around and a series of batteries blew up with a dull thud. The score was seventeen to nothing, and the band played Annie Laurie.

After the first battery had evaporated into thin air with a salvo of passed balls and wild pitches, the fated Mr. Buckman fell into the toils of evil in the cool of the afternoon.
He emerged eight runs had been chastely draped about his neck. Pile onto this little sundries gathered here and there by the visitors, and it adds up to seventeen to nothing, and the band played Annie Laurie.

Twice the reserves were on the verge of scoring, each time working a man all the way around to third, only to have him lie down and die
there in the cool of the afternoon.
In the third inning Barstow, first man up, spun out a long trickler to short and beat the peg to first. Mac-Lachlan struck out, and Barstow stole. MacLachlan sacrificed him to third, and there he stayed for duration of war. Again in the sixth, Parmenter walked with two out, stole second, and walked into third when Holland threw the ball into left field trying to peg him as the second sack.
Rose's best offering, though, was a high twisting pop to short. About the only consolation of the game was Boucher's pitching in the seventh and final inning.

Read it and weep:

Hebron (17)	ab	r	bh	po	a	e
Arthur, if 5	3	2	1	0	0
Tierney, 2b 4	1	0	2	0	0
Marchak, cf 1	0	0	0	0	0
McLachlan, lf 0	0	0	0	0	0
Porreca, lb 4	3	2	0	0	0
Varney, 3b 4	2	1	2	0	0
Fogarty, c 0	0	0	0	0	0
Harlow, c 5	2	3	5	0	0
McLachlan, lf 0	0	0	0	0	0
McDonough, as 2	0	1	0	1	0
Simmons, cf 2	0	1	2	0	0
Downs 0	0	0	0	0	0
Gaw, p 2	0	0	0	0	0
Holland 2	1	0	1	1	0

Totals 34 17 21 21 6 2

Bowdoin Second ab r bh po a e
Parmenter, 2b 2 0 0 1 2 1
Rose, lb 3 0 0 0 2 2
Gatchell, cf 3 0 0 0 0 0
Bell, rf 0 0 0 0 0 0

Means, 3b 0 0 0 0 1 0
Bossidy, as 1 0 0 0 0 0
Shute 1 0 0 1 0 1
Barstow, lf 2 0 1 0 1 0
McLachlan, lf 0 0 0 0 0 0
Smith 1 0 0 0 1 1
Morrell, p 0 0 0 1 0 0
Buckman 1 0 0 2 1 0
Boucher 0 0 0 0 0 0

Totals 21 0 0 21 5 8

Two base hits, Tierney, Porreca.
Three base hit, Varney. Sacrifice hits, Morrell, Simmons (2), Downs.
Struck out by: Rose, 5; by Buckman, 6 in 3; by Boucher, 2 in 1;
by Gaw, 4 in 4; by Holland, 3 in 3.
Bases on balls, off Morrell, 2 in 3;
off Buckman, 6 in 3; off Boucher, 0 in 1; off Gaw, 0 in 4; off Holland, 1 in 3. Hits, off Morrell, 5 in 3; off Buckman, 9 in 3; off Boucher, 0 in 1; off Gaw, 0 in 4; off Holland, 0 in 3. Hit by pitcher, by Morrell (Mitchell); by Buckman (Porreca). Wild pitches, Morrell (2), Buckman. Passed balls, MacLachlan (4). Left on base, Bow-doin 2, Hebron 9.

Score by innings:
Hebron 1 2 3 2 1 8 0-17
Bowdoin 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-0
Umpires, Lancaster, Souther and Ricker.

PATRIOTS' DAY PLAY OPENS GOLF SEASON

Dr. F. C. Brackett and H. H. Pierce in Tie for First Place—Greene Rough

The golf season opened at the Brunswick Club on Saturday when a large field entered the annual Patriots' Day invitation handicap tournament. Dr. Philip C. Brackett of the Portland Country Club and H.
H. Pierce of Augusta were in a tie for first place with a score of 75. The tournament was played under the most adverse circumstances because of the poor condition of the greens which were extremely uneven and gave most of the golfers no end of trouble in putting.

Ray Deston, captain of the golf team, led the offensive for the college contingent with a score of 77 and no handicap, and the low nine-hole score of 36. Ben Houser along with Harlan Turner and Henry C. Berry, teamed in scores of 80. Of the eight undergraduates entered in the tournament five completed without handicaps.

The summary:

Houser	Out	In	Gr	Hd	Nt
Morrell	48	40	88	21	67
Johnson	44	47	91	23	68
Holmes	43	44	87	15	72
Johnson	47	47	94	22	72
Carlin	45	45	91	14	77
Burke	51	46	97	24	77
Morrell	47	44	91	14	77
Deston	41	36	77	11	77
Doherty	44	43	87	8	79
Hormell	53	48	101	22	79
Kendrick	44	45	14	81	81
Mullin	43	39	82	1	82
DeMeyer	40	43	83	1	83
Lippincott	51	51	102	18	84
Knight	41	41	84	1	84
Dillenbeck	44	42	86	1	86

The best record in the United States for running broad jump was made by J. J. Foohees, at the last field meeting at Columbia; distance covered, 21 feet, 8 1/2 inches.

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

RISK Clothing which is
custom tailored to
your individual measure, has
that distinctive touch which
always marks the wearer as
well dressed.

Briak Brothers

STUDENT OPINION OF POLE SOUGHT IN ORIENT POLL

Committee On Memorial Submits New Suggestions To Architects for Consideration—Meanwhile Register Your Opinion

USE BALLOT AT BOTTOM OF THIS PAGE

Monday morning in chapel, President Sills announced that the site of the flagpole had been reconsidered by the committee in charge and that suggestions for the committee had been referred to the architects for comment. While we wait for the final pronouncement, the ORIENT would like to announce a poll in connection with this matter.

Several charges have been laid at the door of the students directly concerned with this affair. In other columns of this issue, the reader will find plenty of them. Among other things are inane and childishness. With these facts in mind, the Orient is calling for an expression of the undergraduate and faculty opinion through the medium of a referendum.

The Orient respectfully asks the following men to take charge of the vote at their respective houses: Alpha Delta Phi, Harrison M. Davis, Jr.; Psi Upsilon, Philip C. Ahern, Jr.; Phi Kappa Psi, Albert S. Davis, Jr.; Delta Kappa Epsilon, Frederick R. Kleibacker; Theta Delta Chi, Artine Artinian; Delta Upsilon, David P. Faxon; Zeta Psi, Arthur J. Deeks, Jr.; Kappa Sigma, Herbert L. Prescott; Beta Theta Pi, James C. Flint; Sigma Nu, Charles C. Bildeau; Alpha Tau Omega, William N. Small. Non-Fraternity and faculty members are asked to deposit their votes in the Orient Contributors' Boxes, in the Moulton Union or the Library.

DR. BAKER POINTS OUT GREAT BOND RELIGION OFFERS

Tells of Capt. Scott's Last Message and His Sense of Membership in a Great Company

Dr. Everett M. Baker, well known in Massachusetts and Rhode Island for his interest in the social aspect of religion, was the speaker at chapel last Sunday afternoon; and in a small informal meeting at the Union after services discussed some of the aspects of Y.M.C.A. work and social discussion conferences.

"Seek here converse with the wise of all the ages," the quotation over the door of your library building," said Mr. Baker in part at his chapel address, "conveys a certain sense of membership in a great body, a sense of belonging to the best of mankind."

"Some years ago, in a wind-swept hut on the last frontier of the world, a hundred miles from the South Pole, Captain Robert Scott died. When a rescue party came on his body and those of his companions, they found a letter, which Scott had written to an old friend in England, a last letter of farewell. In that letter he expressed it was the feeling of himself and his men that they were showing that 'Englishmen can still die with a bold spirit'. In this too was found a sense of belonging to a great company."

"Religion literally means being bound to something, being one of a vast and sometimes tenuous brotherhood. This liaison is all-pervading. Its first great prophet was Jesus, who in his parable of the good Samaritan and the man that fell among thieves, lived together men."

"It is interesting to see what a distinguished scientist, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, has to say on the three most important things of life. First, the credo of a universal brotherhood of man, to the effect that 'one's own happiness, one's most permanent satisfaction are to be found through trying to further the good of others and seeking instead the common good.' Secondly he places the resolution of the theory that a natural law governs all things, and lastly the belief in eternal growth and evolution."

"This belief in universal brotherhood is of tremendous importance. We are all bound to something, Christian society, if you will, and modern progress has only enlarged the circle of our attachments. There must be some change in our social ideals. Such a change is continually seen in our sciences, and is accepted. Yet the new theories of the social reformer are met with bitter opposition, and fervid appeal to the tenets of the past. And

(Continued on Page 3)

CALENDAR

April 30—Track Meet: Bowdoin vs. N. H. State, here; Baseball: Bowdoin vs. Amherst, at Amherst.

May 1—Baseball: Bowdoin vs. Wesleyan, at Middletown.

May 2—Baseball: Bowdoin vs. Northeastern, at Boston; Annual Sub-Freshman Week End starts; Interfraternity show.

May 3—Baseball: Bowdoin vs. Tufts, at Medford; Track Meet: Bowdoin Freshmen vs. M. C. I.

May 4—Coleman Jennings speaks in chapel service.

May 7—Baseball: Bowdoin vs. Maine, at Orono.

COLBY BOWS BEFORE WHITE ONSLAUGHT

Colby Hurler Forced from Mound Under Barrage of White Hitting

STILES ON MOUND

Bowdoin Batters Drive Out No Less Than Fourteen Hits Including Two Doubles, a Triple, and a Pair of Circuit Walks.

The fast travelling Bowdoin ball team slashed its way to a second victory and the lead in the State Series when it completely outplayed the Colby Mule on Saturday afternoon at Waterville. The Polar Bears amassed a total of fourteen hits including two doubles, a triple, and two home runs. From start to finish it was all Bowdoin. The sensational fielding of the day before was continued and the consistent teamplay was even more noticeable. While Bowdoin hacked away at Colby's star hurler, Brown, until he was forced to leave the game, Stiles, the Polar Bear moundsman, proceeded to check the Colby batters, allowing only two singles. In eighteen innings of pitching Stiles has permitted only three hits and two runs. Bowdoin started off in the first to make up for the loss to Maine by collecting two runs when Dwyer smashed his first home run of the season to score Whittier along with him. There was no question after the second how Bowdoin was going to fare against this highly touted pitcher. The barrage of hits including a second four-bagger, eventually raised the Bowdoin score to five while Colby vainly swung at Stiles' offerings. This second inning gave Bowdoin a thrill that comes all too seldom when the second home run in two innings was hammered out by Whittier far over the fence with Crimmins on by virtue of a pass and Stiles on by a single to center.

In the sixth Colby gathered its sole run, when Roberts was passed on a hot-line drive that went through Whittier. The Polar Bears increased the total in the eighth and ninth frames by two runs. In the eighth Luke Urban counted when Chalmers drove a long smash to left for a double. To start the ninth off right Stiles took one of the rookie pitcher, Waite's offerings for a double

(Continued on page 4)

TO ASSIGN ROOMS ACCORDING TO NEW ALLOTMENT PLAN

Non-Fraternity Men Allowed to Hold Present Rooms; Preference to be by Order of Classes

The following regulations have been given out by the Student Council regarding the distribution of rooms. If approved by the Faculty they will become effective May 5.

One hundred and fifty places will be reserved for the incoming class. In the week of May 12 to May 17 inclusive, non-fraternity men now in the dormitories will be given the privilege of retaining their present rooms for the following year.

The remaining rooms will be assigned to applicants with preference given by order of classes. Drawing of rooms will take place in the Treasurer's Office at 2:30 p.m. on the following days:

Class of 1931—May 19th
Class of 1932—May 20th
Class of 1933—May 21st

Members of the same class who wish to room together must apply with this deposit. Members of different classes who wish to room together must apply with their own classes.

A deposit of ten dollars will be required at the time the contract is signed. This deposit cannot be charged on the Term Bill. One student can reserve but one half of the room the College reserving the right to reserve the other half.

PORTLAND ORCHESTRA HEARD LAST NIGHT

Once again Bowdoin College had the privilege of hearing the Portland Municipal Orchestra under Mr. Charles R. Cronham, in its appearance last evening at Memorial Hall.

Mrs. Adele Bramson, pianist, played Grieg's A minor Concerto for Piano and Orchestra as a special feature of the program.

The program opened with Dvorak's "New World" Symphony, with the oboe solo part played by Clinton W. Graffam, Jr. This was followed by Saint-Saens' familiar symphonic poem, Danse Macabre. Emil Hybert, violinist, and Samuel Fineburg on the xylophone, both offered brilliant solos. The program was concluded with Rossini's famous overture to William Tell, with solo parts by Katherine Hatch, cello, Clinton W. Graffam, Jr., oboe, and Harold Lawrence, flute.

The orchestra showed special skill and finesse last evening and received a hearty response from the Brunswick audience.

DEBATERS WIN THREE OUT OF FOUR CONTESTS

White Team Has Had But One Defeat During the Entire Season

LOSE TO UNION

Team Composed of L. Carter Lee, Paul A. Walker, Albert E. Jenkins and Donald F. Prince for Bowdoin Managers to Humble Syracuse, Hamilton and Amherst.

Culminating the most successful season in many years, the Bowdoin Debating Team returned last week from the Annual Spring Trip with a tally of three victories and one defeat, bringing the season's total to six wins and one loss. The four men who represented the team were L. Carter Lee '30, Paul A. Walker '31, Albert E. Jenkins '31, and Donald F. Prince '31.

On Monday evening, April 21st, Bowdoin suffered the first and only defeat of the year at the hands of the Union College, of Schenectady, N. Y. Bowdoin upheld the affirmative of the proposition: Resolved that the Canadian system of liquor control is preferable to that of the United States. The name team which defeated New Hampshire on the question last February, Jenkins, Prince and Walker, came out on the short end of a two-to-one decision. This debate was limited to three, seven-minute speeches and one six-minute rebuttal speech per side. Prince handled the rebuttal for Bowdoin.

The following afternoon, Jenkins, Walker and Lee upholding the affirmative of the question: Resolved that the government should undertake the generation and transmission of hydro-electric power defeated a Syracuse University team. This debate was also broadcast, Lee handling Bowdoin's rebuttal. The decision was to be rendered by an audience vote, and inasmuch as this vote is often slow in coming, the decision was done as a referendum. Bowdoin, however, showed Bowdoin leading by quite a margin.

From Syracuse, the team voyaged to Hamilton College, at Clinton, N. Y. The same question and side was to be used here and therefore the same team as on the preceding day debated. An unfortunate misunderstanding on the part of the Hamilton

(Continued on Page 4)

A.T.O. AND NON-FRAT. VICTORS THIS WEEK

Betas and Alpha Deltas are Soundly Defeated in Interfraternity Games

Another merry-go-round was staged last Monday when the A.T.O. ball team won from the A. D.'s 19-2. With the help of the Alpha Delta sluggers to a lone single as his team-mates proceeded to slash out a dozen hits.

The Maine Street delegation scored two runs in their first turn at the bat and managed to stave off the opponents with fair success until the closing stanza. Not to be denied, the A.T.O. gathering collected 12 runs and then gave up in exhaustion. From all appearances the defeated club should organize a soccer team—they boot the pill with amazing skill.

The batteries: A. T. O.—Witherell, p; McDonald, c. A. D.—Mallett, p; Knight, p; Barvalle, c.

The Deke-Kappa Psi contest, scheduled for last Wednesday, was postponed on account of the absence of necessary equipment. The game will be played Monday, May 6.

The Non-Fraternity nine opened the Interfraternity baseball series last Thursday by taking the hard-hitting Beta team into camp to the tune of 20 to 9. In spite of the size of the score against them the Greek Letter contingent demonstrated themselves as being a club to be reckoned with, totalling 16 hits to the victors' ten. A liberal donation of six bases on balls and ten errors smelted their downfall.

Drew distinguished himself with the bat, netting three hits in five trips to the plate. A triple and a single is credited to Hopkins. Whittier barked out a three-bagger at his first time at bat and Zepher also garnered a three-quarter trip ticket later in the game.

The batteries: Non-Frat., White, p; Fruitman, c; Beta, Hopkins, Kimball, p; Harlow, c.

Umpires: Brown and Barstow.

We wish to correct ourselves for the statements made in the three short separate items on the back page last week. They were taken by mistake from "Bowdoin 50 Years Ago."

In this week's issue of the Orient we have been forced to omit the regular third page feature story, because of the great number of communications. However, we welcome any letters and urge that the present number be maintained, for they show that the College is awake and taking an interest in what goes on—surely a healthy sign! So let's keep them coming.

TRACK MEET TO BE FEATURE OF SUB-FRESHMAN WEEK END

College Will Be Host To Prep School Visitors At Annual Entertainment of Prospective Bowdoin Men

FRESHMAN TEAM IN DUAL WITH M. C. I.

During the coming week end some hundred and fifty members of various preparatory schools throughout Maine will pour into Bowdoin to be guests of the student body at the annual sub-freshman week end. Under the direction of Mr. Herbert W. Hartman and Professor Herbert R. Brown, with the assistance of Alumni Secretary Philip S. Wilder, the committee has evolved an unusually interesting program for the entertainment of the record-breaking number of visitors.

MAINE WINS HEART- BREAKING FOURTEEN INNING STRUGGLE

Under cold leaden skies Bowdoin dropped a heartbreaking fourteen inning game last Friday at Pickard Field to a Maine team that played with heroism in its pockets. With the game practically washed up in the sixth inning, the White team, in the seventh, regulation nine innings, the White constantly ran afoul of a bounding jinx that tripped up every rally.

Two were out as Maine broke the string of score eggs in the sixth inning. Tom Chalmers handled Wells' twister without trouble but threw wildly to Crimmins at first and the enemy runner perched on second base. He was promptly unhurt to the plate by Kitzonak's double. Souther, Bowdoin twirler, curtailed further activities by snatching the next ball hit out of the grass with his bare hand and whipping it across to Crimmins.

Wells and Lee, the two pitchers, in orthodox fashion with a run to tie the score. Ricker reached first on Plummer made one of his quartette of errors and was soon sacrificed to by Whittier's punt. Sonny Dwyer came through handsomely in the pinch bunting sharply to right-field tallying Ricker.

From this point on the game was one of endless opportunity to lift the Bowdoin lead but it required almost an entire contest to discover whether or not the White Bears would reap their just reward. It was fated otherwise. The fourteenth inning was opened by the White team as they were disposed of in short order but the aspect of things was changed when an error put the next Maine batter on base. Palmer drew a base on balls from Souther and the lead was done as Hinkins, the Black Bear's heavy batsman, singled to left. The tragedy was completed by another base hit scoring two more Bricemen.

YANNIGANS TIED BY BRIDGTON ACADEMY, 1-1; TWO HITS GIVEN

Bowdoin Gets Seven Safeties But Lacks Scoring Power—Double Play by Bossy

For six innings last Wednesday afternoon the Yannigans of Bowdoin out-batted the Yankees of Bridgton Academy's crack nine. For three innings they held out a one-run margin and periodically loaded the bases, only to have the runners go to permanent cold storage. Then, in the fourth, Boucher issued two walks and Bridgton proceeded to sacrifice wildly and enthusiastically. One run came in, the score was tied, and stayed that way until the game was called by the umpire in the sixth.

The reserves lost no time in cantering off to the lead. Farmer, first man up in the first, lambasted a double into left field. Rose singled, Crimmins bunted, and Carl came skating home. Then Connolly steadied and struck out the next three men. Nothing happened on the other side of the score-book. Trainer got on by an error, and got off by a neat throw from first to when after Schofield had singled him around a ways. McShane struck out, and Corbett flew to first.

Again, in the last half of the third, Farmer loped up to first on an error at short. He stole second after Rose popped to the catcher, and Dave Means drove out a towering center-field sacrifice fly. Benny Shute struck out, and left Farmer. But it was in the next half-frame that Bridgton went places and did things. Corbett walked, and slid into second inches ahead of Jake Smith's peg from the plate. Comparato got another free billet, and Sharkey dribbled out a beautiful single that both men advanced on. Then Sutcliffe, batting for Ferry, sacrificed to short as Corbett scored. Connolly smacked out a high fly that Shute gathered in.

The fielding gem of the day came in the sixth when Corbett got to second through a walk and a wild pitch. Comparato bided his time and got four balls. Then the two of them pulled a double steal, and things

(Continued on Page 4)

AVIATION SCHOLAR- SHIPS OFFERED AS PRIZES FOR ESSAYS

Bowdoin College students interested in aeronautics will have an opportunity to compete for four scholarships with a total tuition value of $7,100 offered by W. E. Boeing, an outstanding figure in American aviation. Notice of the establishment of these scholarships, which are effective at the Boeing School of Aeronautics at Oakland, Cal., has been received by the administrative officials of Bowdoin College.

The first award, the W. E. Boeing Master Pilot Ground School and Flying Scholarship, is a nine months' course covering 208 hours of flying and 1224 hours of ground school instruction. Second award is the Boeing Master Mechanic course, consisting of nine months' instruction. Third award is the Boeing Master Pilot Ground School course, with nine months of instruction; and the fourth award is the Boeing Private Pilot course, requiring from two to four months of ground and flight instruction.

Any undergraduate student, including the 1930 graduating class, is eligible as a candidate.

Candidates must have maintained a scholastic standing to classify them as upper one-third of their class for the entire period of their enrollment. The candidates must write an essay on one of the following subjects: "Aviation's Contribution to International Relations," "The Development of Air Transportation and its Possibilities," or "The Development of Safety Features on Established Air Transport Lines."

The essays which must reach the Boeing School by June 9, will be judged by a National Committee of Award, composed of prominent educators and leaders in the aeronautical industry.

The Boeing School of Aeronautics is associated with the Boeing aeronautical companies, including the Boeing Airplane Company at Seattle and the Boeing System, operators of the Seattle-Los Angeles and San Francisco-Chicago mail, express and passenger routes.

Full details of the Boeing scholarships competition may be obtained from the Bowdoin Pub. Co., or from the Boeing School of Aeronautics, Oakland Airport, Oakland, Cal.

POLL ON THE POLE

I favor both the proposed form of the War Memorial and its present site.

I am not in favor of the present site, but do approve of the proposed War Memorial.

I am in favor of another form of War Memorial.

—Student

—Faculty Member

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief

Paul A. Walker '31

Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Department Editors

Walter P. Bowman '31, Campus Editor
Frederick R. Kleibacker '31, Sports Editor

Contributing Editors

Harrison M. Davis, Jr., '30
Roy E. Davis '30
Douglas Fosdick '30
John L. Snider '31
John T. Gould '30
Olin S. Pettingill, Jr., '30
William N. Small '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32
Gilbert L. Barstow '32Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $2.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, April 30, 1930.

No. 3

"Give 'Em the Axe"

The Stanford axe has come home! First displayed by peggroused underclassmen back in 1898 at the Stanford-California football game, this talisman was flaunted in the faces of the Californians with accompanying invectives and the rhythmic byword "Give 'em the axe". A body of stalwart Californians, a loyal and true, showed their incensed wrath at the demonstration by wresting the axe from its irresponsible guardians. For 31 years after its triumphal entry into Berkeley the Stanford axe had graced the rallies, the games, and the laurel wreaths of its bitter rival. Last week when this classic axe was being conveyed in a closely guarded armored car for the annual wild celebration of its capture, three young men posing as reporters tossed tear-gas bombs into the procession, rushed the guards, and escaped with the sacred trophy during the ensuing melee. Although all the roads leading out of Berkeley were scoured by California cars and California men, all the good horses and all the king's men couldn't snare those illusive Stanforders. Next year the Stanford axe again will be brandished in California's face, and this time with a vengeance.

This is not the first nor the last instance of intercollegiate or interclass feuds. Every year at Amherst Sabrina usually reappears. Whoever but looks upon this bronze goddess is at once possessed with devilish intent, for she is the symbol of superiority among the undergraduates. Great is the fall of the guardian class that lets her elude its grasp. Sabrina has been surreptitiously purloined, secretly stowed in vaults, on ship-board, in deserted houses; she has been sunk in Golden Gate harbor and spirited around the world. But eventually she always mysteriously returns home and enjoys a momentary peaceful rest under the double watch of an odd or even numbered class. To the winner of the Michigan-Minnesota football game each year goes the coveted "Little Brown Jug." For the possession of "Illibuck", the turtle, Illinois and Ohio State wage a mortal combat. Yale's historic fence was stolen last autumn by Harvard. And so on through the histories of all colleges and universities who are old enough to have hoarded about their campuses certain revered customs and traditions that are just as much a part of the college as the ground whereon it is built.

Two weeks ago at Bowdoin the Freshman president was carried away into safe keeping by members of his class. That meant just one thing: the annual Freshman Banquet was impending. Proclamation Night, the Flag Rush, Rising Night, Freshman Banquet — these are unquestionably the outstanding events of the Freshman and Sophomore years — treasured memories which will always be cherished, always vividly remembered. Later on in the same week approximately 150 undergraduates bodily carried a three ton flag pole into chapel more as a mischievous college prank than an informal protest to its anticipated erection on the campus. A huge bonfire was lighted as a tribute to the mammoth accomplishment. The next morning it took brains more than five hours to remove what co-operative brawn had carried in in ten minutes.

When not of a malicious or destructive nature, such uniform actions on the part of the undergraduates are a healthy sign. Things like that haven't happened around here for years. We feel that it is indicative of the return of the temporarily lost Bowdoin spirit, a disturbing reality that has grown increasingly noticeable in the last two or three years. It has been vaguely rumored that the college authorities or the student council (or both) are in favor of doing away with certain age-old traditions. This would be a serious step. Such vital spirit and morale as these traditions invoke are as much an essential to a college as the curriculum itself. For without it there is something lacking in its corporate body that reminds one of an engine that misses because of a dead spark plug. Every college or university feels complimented when told that it is rich in tradition. Tradition is as great an inducement to prospective underclassmen as winning teams. Bowdoin is proud of her traditions. "Give 'em the axe."

F. R. K., Jr.

Childishness

The ORIENT is conducting this poll on the flagpole in answer to a direct charge of childishness laid at our door by various and sundry people interested in the College in one way or another. The ORIENT BOARD is seeking vindication for the student body. In this poll we need no majority decision to prove our contention that we are protesting and not merely clowning. A good minority showing is all that is necessary to convince our critics that we were, and are, sincere. We appeal to every member of the College Community at this time, and earnestly solicit his vote in the poll. It is not that we believe this poll will have any effect in changing the decisions of the committee; but we do feel that it is about time everyone concerned finds out the actual views of the College on this matter.

Sub-Freshman Week-End

Again Bowdoin College is host to a group of young men from various preparatory schools. These young men are deeply interested in Bowdoin and what goes on here. It is our duty, as their predecessors and possibly their companions for the next few years, to show them every courtesy in our power. The College is planning quite an interesting program for these few days, but however good that may be in itself, the real appeal to the Sub-Freshman will be the personal. He will remember the reception accorded him by the undergraduates much longer than that arranged for him by the College. That is only natural. If we wish to be "good college citizens", we should strive to give these guests of the College a week-end that will be an example of the best in Bowdoin undergraduate spirit.

Communication

To the Editor:

The good old stand-patter instinct is still supreme, I guess. Anything different from the general run seems to have a singularly fierce and calamitous aspect to certain people. A new type of window-cleaning or starting block would be an awful blow to these people.

But why they get so fidgety about the Orient is more than I can see. The Orient may have a little more life than usual. Granted. But no one could say it is startlingly new, or particularly original, or very disgusting. Student opinion may be more apparent than usual, but it is still student opinion and always has been present. No one could call the Orient radical or even more than fairly conservative.

Evidently even this unradical spirit of new life is too much for the dyed-in-the-wool stand-patters. There is no censorship practiced over the Orient so we are told. Yet the stand-patters seek to exercise a financial censorship over it, threatening to discontinue a considerable revenue, unless the present critical and half-liberal tendency is changed. The prattle (?) of undergraduates, they think, will alienate prospective students in preparatory schools — the younger students will become disconcerted at the excesses at Bowdoin. Bowdoin will seem a seething pot of rebellion — to say nothing of student dissolution and dissipation. Bowdoin will seem a place of anarchy — and children with the wrong spirit.

This is nonsense. Any student who is alienated by the tone of the last Orient is well-alienated. If he wants to go to a mud-hole and rest, let him; we are well rid of him. It assuredly is too bad if the slight interest the student body at last shows is going to be construed as detrimental and is going to lead to financial censorship of the Orient and student opinion and freedom of speech.

Yours, W. S.

Communication

April 26, 1930.
To the Editor of the Orient:
Dr. Beale is to be congratulated for his letter in the last issue of the Orient. There are many undergraduates glad to find a member of the Faculty who does not consider their act of protest as "childishness". However, congratulating him is not enough; student opinion should be heard on the subject. If no comment is forthcoming Dr. Beale's letter will not be worth the space it takes up. His attitude will be laughed at as an unsupported theory.

The consensus of student opinion seems to agree perfectly with Dr. Beale's views. We do not want a flagpole for a memorial; we would appreciate more an intangible remembrance with an utilitarian purpose. The scholarship suggested would be far better and its effects more lasting than any flagpole.

The students have been told they were not consulted because they were not asked to contribute and it was none of their business anyway. Perhaps if they had been asked to contribute they would have. Also I fail to see why it is not the students' concern; they have to live with it before them, and after that, they are an important part of the College.

They appreciate the great sacrifices the soldiers made in the World War, and because they appreciate them, they don't want such sacrifices to occur again. Men decide to live after they if they are worthy, and no huge pile is needed on a small and beautiful campus dedicated to learning, to remember those deeds. The men themselves, for whom the memorial is to be erected would probably be most opposed to it. Their reason would not be one of modesty; they have been through the last and most terrible war in history, and they know its horrors far better than we. They would be against it because they are against war, and constant reminders of it are far from promoting peace. We have been told that our protest comes too late. Why have they come so late? Most of us knew nothing acknowledged the Finest Full Dress on the market to retail at $65. Expertly tailored dress wornests in plain or herringbone weaves. Customized to your specification at no additional charge if necessary. Lined throughout with harmonizing silk. Full dress clothes are to be seen at smart functions in ever increasing numbers. Get in line with the times and see yours

ADLER-ROCHESTER FULL DRESS SUITS

at The House of Walsh

Communication

From sources I believe reliable I have learned that my incumbency of the 1931 Chaplaincy is regarded with scant enthusiasm by the permanent faculty and governing boards. In addition to this, in itself a strong inducement for me to relinquish my post, I have my studies to consider, which after all, constitute the lodestone which drew me to college. I am carrying four extremely esoteric, consequently difficult courses. Phi Beta Kappa is my goal and I cannot conscientiously spare the time from my books to attend Ivy exercises which have degenerated into footless frivolity and futile folly. In justice to my college, to my studies, and to myself I find myself unable to fulfill the responsibility with which my classmates have so signally honored me. I am therefore offering my resignation, to take effect at once. I wish to thank the members of 1931 for their good taste and lavish support and I fervently hope that like Elijah of old, my mantle may descend on some new prophet, more acceptable to the college authorities than I.

Warren Brewster Fuller '31 '31 '32.

Communication

The pother that lights up the rocket in Professor Beale's letter of burning indignation is beside the point. The student demonstration the other Saturday evening, which he holds to be a sincere protest against an opinion about the war memorial, was nothing more or less than spring quickening our blood in the spiritual chill of Brunswick. We hold few opinions about the war. We care less.

A war memorial is a glorification of war? A flagpole specifically? Since when? Is What Price Glory one? Is Im Westen Nichts Neues another? I do not think so. A war memorial to me, and to others whom I have talked with, shows the monstrous sacrilege that war does to the spirit and heart of man. Even a military funeral — I saw one Good Friday — reminds one that war is an obscene burlesque on learning and culture and common decency. The taps played at the grave are a cogent and compelling complaint against war. A glorification of war? Hardly.

As to whether the Bowdoin men who went to war were taken for a ride is beside the point. We wish to recognize the spirit of generosity and utter devotion to an ideal that these men showed in taking a gun. Were they duped? Has nothing to do with the question at hand. Romantic, perhaps. Fine. In a world in which smugness and greed predominate this romantic impulse is all too rare. This is what the Dean meant, I take it, when he spoke of Bowdoin's undisciplined undergraduates. The cause and purpose of the war, who is right and who is wrong, we know now. But this has nothing to do with the war memorial. Can't Professor Beale see that?

Of course we object to Memorial Hall. Not because it is a war memorial. We never think of it as that. Memorial Hall is ugly, unpretty, and squats perpetually like a grey distended elephant. I should like to see it razed, but we shan't if we are going to block the source of funds with namby-pamby criticism. Our campus is not the most beautiful, nor one of the most beautiful, in America. That is more nonsense. I should hate to say what Ralph Adams Cram thinks of it.

There are many things at Bowdoin which should be righted. And I shall lead a mob any time — with or without the faculty — right into the Library to burn up that damnable system called the Boyer Budget. A disgrace and an unmitigated nuisance in a college as wealthy as Bowdoin.

WILLIAM MURPHY ex '27.

Editor's Note: It appears that Mr. Murphy is at present indebted to the amount of seventy cents at the library.

Sunday Chapel

(Continued from Page 1)

the reformers themselves too often approach the existing system in a spirit of hatred rather than one of constructive policy.

"The vocation of man is to seek brotherhood. In the ever-increasing complexity of the world this has become only the more true. You young men, who in a few years will dictate the will of our industries, it is upon your shoulders that the burden of achieving this is placed."

Speed of the aspen,
Strength of the oak

The Bell System has vitality. It grows. It meets the needs of the nation for more and more service, for many new kinds of service.

To do this it has increased plant investment in twenty-nine years from $181,000,000 to more than three and three-quarter billions. Rapid growth, yet growth that has gone step by step with smoother operation, greater efficiency.

From laboratory and field constantly come developments and improvements which add to the System's usefulness. Here there is a dynamic urge to do it better. The telephone organization stays young — it thrives on new ideas.

BELL SYSTEM

A nation-wide system of inter-connecting telephones

"OUR PIONEERING WORK HAS JUST BEGUN"

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

Symmetric Golf Clubs at $3.50

Set of Five Related Irons . . $17.50

Have you tried the New Dunlop Ball at . . . 75c

Silver Kings . 85c Repaints . 25c, 30c, 40c

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Sub Freshman Week-End

After the Inter-Fraternity Vaudeville, eat at

THE COLLEGE SPA

across from the campus gate

LUNCHEON

Open from 7 a.m. to 2 a.m.

SODA

Mustard and Cress

"Dulce et decorum est"

(y-writ anonymously on purpose)

"The flag-pole memorial is no concern of the students."—Pres. Silla.

Tune: The Stein Song

1.

You may speak of the Chapel and Union—

You may mention the delta and rink—

You can praise it or blame how the office is run so long as the printer has ink.

We can holler and whoop at the majors.

We can laugh at board walks all we care—

But the flag and the pole and the hole in the ground are none of the students' affair.

Chorus

Oh, it's none of the students' affair—

Oh, it's none of the students' affair—

We just have to stay here and look at the thing.

So it's none of the students' affair.

2.

We didn't subscribe any money—

We didn't draw up any plans—

But we just stayed here at home and twiddled our thumbs and then found the thing dumped on our hands.

They got it to honor the soldiers—

The soldiers who never would care—

But how it would look or where it would set—'twas to be none of the students' affair.

(Chorus)

3.

The guys who contributed money

Were pretty good fellows at that—

It's no little item to hand out the dough when the President passes the hat.

But it's somewhat delightful to know—

A quite pleasing notion to share;

That although we're the ones to see it each day—it is none of the students' affair.

(Chorus)

4.

So let us erect as a monument

A flag and a pole and a base.

Let us stick 'em around in the funniest style, erect 'em in any old place—

So long as they ruin the campus.

—Or don't—we really don't care—

For the flag and the pole and the hole in the ground are none of the students' affair.

(Chorus)

Mr. Wilder's class is still enjoying adjourns yet.

The President's private golf course on Federal Street has been destroyed.

The President had approximately 40,000 holes laid out with bunkers, greens, traps, and a lot of roughs, but the town road commissioner made a mistake and sent up a man and a tractor, ruining the entire links. It is ex-

Sophomores Tour Three-Quarters of New England in Pursuit of Frosh

By George B. Pottle '32

After a week of battling over three-quarters of New England, the Class of '32 (existence questioned by many good authorities) is patting itself on the back for its conspicuous courage and good judgment in selecting a banquet location so remote as to preclude all possibility of having to fight for their dinner, an idea repugnant to our chivalrous freshmen unless they can get six to one odds. Thus there was no sophomore intervention at the banquet, but on the other hand there were no compulsory sophomore guests.

On Monday our efficient match-bearers (irony, don't miss it) became alarmed at the terrifying spectacle of four casual sophomores in a car, and rushed their eminent president out of town, lest the above-mentioned four sophomores should take him away from the twenty or thirty freshmen on guard. Later in the night '32 visited the D. U. in search of the sophomore president, but decided that discretion pected that another week will restore the course to its former condition.

Professor Means has been compiling statistics about the campus clock, amusing his Latin 2 class with them on various occasions. According to him, when the clock strikes four and points at eleven-thirty, it means a quarter of two. This information will kindly be converted into daylight time now.

Hear the sad tale of the student who came in Saturday night, set his alarm-m-m clock ahead an hour, and went to bed. Hear more sadness concerning the room-mate who drifted in later, set the clock ahead an hour, and went to bed. Hear also, that the clock was twenty minutes fast in the beginning. Imagine our embarrassment. How many other Bowdoin men have seen the chapel at 5:55 a. m.?

Flow Tide!

(Being a backhanded criticism of something found in the latest Quill, blamed on Curtis Stuart Laughlin.)

My big old black cat
Tears into the deep woods
And has kittens.

Funny black cat, she might,
Arch her back against the dim Outline of the neighbor's barn door,
Yowling at the distant stars,
Do re mi.

As she purrs, a Tom-cat stands, Sleek and beautiful, upon the greenward.
They things happen,
And a boot tossed out stops the noise.

(euphemism) was the better part of abduction and took it out in gazing at the house and then going to bed.

On Tuesday the Class of '32 started its masterly program of elimination. Augusta was eliminated by bribery and corruption among the bellhops, confirmed by a diplomatic phone call from Coby (?!!). More telephoning disposed of the Lewiston possibility, while police headquarters of Portland, Saco, and Biddeford put them out. During Tuesday and Wednesday the upperclassmen, with misplaced good opinions of the courage and sportsmanship of their opponents, were proceeding on the assumption that said opponents, according to tradition, would hold, or endeavor to hold, their festivities in the State of Maine. But on Wednesday it was discovered, what the true calibre of the freshmen was. Hold a banquet within a hundred miles of possible interference? Ridiculous! Rather than risk their food and imperil their persons they must go where the sophomores cease from troubling and the freshmen are at rest.

In the meantime a group of sophomores and a God-sent steam roller had been the undoing of the frosh secretary-treasurer, and he had vanished from the ken of his comrades. The remaining freshman officer found it advisable to seek foreign parts, and his frantic class scoured the state for their missing officer and the badly wanted sophomore president. Lewiston, Augusta, and points north, south, east, and west yielded nothing to the first-year men, and they were forced to content themselves with lesser lights. And even so they found themselves unable to retain even these. A few car wrecks and abductions netted nothing, while the freshman president covered in Bangor and the sophomore president played golf with the freshman secretary within an hour's drive of Brunswick.

On Thursday the men of '32 displayed their real prowess in arms. They screwed their courage to the sticking point and defeated the sophomores in a pitched battle by the Art Building. To be sure, there were ten sophomores to thirty-odd freshmen, but was it not in such wise that the Persians won their historic victory at Thermopylae? All afternoon the future prides of Bowdoin displayed singular military genius and remarkable fearlessness in removing trousers from lone sophomores, six or seven frosh doing the removing while the remaining thirty or forty stood by to see fair play. Of such are world conquerors made.

Thursday night saw a brief but deadly battle. Fifty sophomores swarmed out of Winthrop into the horde of freshmen, who showed fight for a few minutes. But Kelley and Sperry having been temporarily removed from the rainy landscape, the complexion of matters changed. The warriors who were so valorous while there were half a dozen sophomores felt quite otherwise before fifty. "Fight with only one and a half to one odds in our favor? Never!" was the chorus of '32. "Wouldn't it be much nicer, fellows, if we should all run over and get the flagpole? Let's be friends now, there are too many of you. Come on, boys, the flagpole!" Disdaining such pathetically futile enemies, the sophomores left, while the freshmen broke for the station, preferring a train at 2:10 a.m. to remaining in such company.

Having failed in a well-meant but poorly generated attempt to get Hay, having mistimed a try for Biddeford, fearing to lay hands on Creighton who lounged about the Psi U House in perfect ease, the banqueters felt that they must obtain some sophomore guest to save their faces. They therefore laid hands upon Buzz Studley and carted him off to a prison cell, i.e., the Kappa Sig House at M. I. T. But the watchful sophomore eyes were wide open. Knight and Watt strolled nonchalantly into the house, took Studley from between the two guards who were sleeping by his side, and strolled out again with him and the trousers of the guards.

Robbed of their only captive, the frosh trickled out of Brunswick. Having assured the safety of their own officers and foiled all kidnapping plots, the sophomores went home to enjoy the week end, leaving Hickok to get to the Westminster in time for dessert and the rest of the class to rush a hundred and fifty miles from danger, there to sit and look around for the sophomore captives who weren't captured, and listen to compliments on their prisonerless feast. It's too bad that Benny had to wait till his senior year to get to a freshman banquet.

WHITEMAN OLD GOLD ORCHESTRA TO PLAY MAINE STEIN SONG

The Whiteman-Old Gold orchestra, which for the past year and a half has been one of the stellar attractions over the Columbia network, will play its concluding radio concert on the night of Tuesday, May 6th. The feature of the farewell program will be the rendition of "The Stein Song". This will be the first time this famous old number has ever been included on the Whiteman-Old Gold program, and it is also perhaps the first time the old college song has been presented by an orchestra of the proportions of the Whiteman group.

Mr. Whiteman's closing program will be broadcast to the United States and adjacent countries over station WABC and the Columbia system between the hours of nine and ten o'clock, Daylight Saving Time, on the evening of Tuesday, May 6th.

Bowdoin's State Series leading baseball team is making its annual tour of New England this week. The Polar Bears met M.A.C. yesterday and are playing at Amherst today. Tomorrow they will take on Wesleyan, followed by Northeastern Friday and Tufts Saturday.

Life is a one way street

You are not coming back . . and the impression you leave behind is the lasting one. Every man of sound judgment realizes the value of a good appearance, and how much it means in business and social life . . . Harmon's are prepared to better your best appearance.

Spring Suits . . . from $35

Spring Topcoats . . . from $30

HARMON'S

INCORPORATED

Good Clothes for Every Man.

Feldman Lecture

(Continued from Page 1)

There has been a change in social conditions throughout the country. The younger generation seems to have a different conception of right and wrong than their fathers had. It is quite generally believed that there is considerable drinking in colleges today. Although facts will not prove it, it is probably true that prohibition has cut down the consumption; if there were no prohibitory law, there would probably be more drinking than there is. Professor Feldman said that he firmly believed that the home was the place to drink if you wanted to drink. That is one result of prohibition, it has doubtless driven many people to confine their drinking to their home.

Considering all the faults and all the good points of prohibition, we can't afford to throw it over until some form of federal control is ascertained. We should have the sort of control which would permit people to buy, but at the same time the government should keep a firm check upon it. In closing, Professor Feldman again said that in seeing the faults of prohibition we unfortunately overlook many of the good points which are worthy of consideration.

FORDHAM LAW SCHOOL

WOOLWORTH BUILDING

NEW YORK

CO-EDUCATIONAL

CASE SYSTEM

THREE YEAR COURSE

TWO YEARS

One Year of College Work

Required For Admission

MORNING, AFTERNOON AND

EVENING CLASSES

Write For Catalogue

Charles P. Davis, Registrar

Room 2861

CUMBERLAND

Friday - May 2nd

-VAUDEVILLE-

— on the screen —

THE LOVE RACKET

- with -

DOROTHY MACKAILL

Also Paramount News

Saturday - May 3rd

IRENE BORDONI

- in -

PARIS

Comedy—The Night Owls featuring

Laurel and Hardy

Mon. and Tues. - May 5 and 6

SARAH AND SON

- with -

Ruth Chatterton and

Frederick March

Comedy - News - Sound Act

Wed. and Thurs. - May 7 and 8

AL JOLSON

- in -

SAY IT WITH SONGS

also SHORT SUBJECTS

...off the springboard it's

FORM!

in a cigarette it's

TASTE!

GETTING DOWN to brass tacks, a cigarette is a smoke—made and bought for your own enjoyment.

But between just something to smoke, and tobacco character, richness, delicate aroma—in short, something to taste—well, that's the difference that accounts for Chesterfield's ever-mounting popularity—

"TASTE above everything"

MILD...and yet
THEY SATISFY

Chesterfield

FINE TURKISH and DOMESTIC tobaccos, not only BLENDED but CROSS-BLENDED

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

LYMAN B. CHIPMAN
PURE FOOD SHOP
Wholesale-Retail
574 Congress St., Portland, Me.

'Anything y'want Pressed?'
Give it to
LAVENDER OR ESTLE
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE

Town Building - Brunswick
PLAY SAFE —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

PRINTING . . .

of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.

Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

QUALITY ALWAYS.
Brunswick Publishing Company

Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets
Telephone Brunswick No. 3

NEW HAMPSHIRE TRACKSTERS HERE FOR MEET TODAY

Whittier Field Scene of First Dual Meet of Season This Afternoon

Bowdoin opens her track season today by a dual meet with the University of New Hampshire. This will be the first outdoor appearance of the team together and should give a lineup on the team's chances in the coming State Meet.

New Hampshire defeated the White last year by 27 points, but the charges of Jack Magee hope to tell a different story this year. The relay team gained plenty of experience at Philadelphia last week and Jack expects the men who were on the trip to turn in some good performances today.

In the dashes Bowdoin will have Dan Johnson, Gatchell, Vaughan, and Tar-bet in the quartet. Johnson and Tar-bet will be the favorite to win, but Thistlewaite, Davis, Barbour, and Hayes should garner some points among them. Thistlewaite and Cobb will be the White hopes in the half mile and Usher, Sewall and Lavender in the mile. Ben Whitcomb and Steve Lavender will be entered in the two mile.
Johnson, Stanwood, and Soule are slated to compete in the high jump while Soule, Johnson, and Briggs will be in the broad jump. The pole vault will have Cushman, Appleton, and Arnold. Bowdoin will have Johnson and Olson in the shot put, Olson and Galbraith in the discus, and Galbraith, Chapman, Hay, and Thayer in the hammer throw. Charlie Stanwood and McLaughlin are depended on to place in the hurdles.

Colby Game

(Continued from Page 1)

and Dwyer, who started the scoring topped off by a single to center while Stiles trekked in before him.

In the third, Bowdoin threatened but failed to score. Urban started off by lacing out a double and Chalmers counted with a short single. Urban, trying to make third on the hit, was out. Bell's hit enabled Colby to get Chalmers on a fielder's choice. Mc-Kown line to Donovan at first to end the inning. In Colby's half of the third Heddericg hit to the infield and was out at first. Brown got the first hit of the afternoon for Colby and it looked as if there would be some action for the White Mules, but Davan's single only served to catch Brown coming down to second. Karkos walked and there were two on the sacks but the best Lovett could do was to fly to center for the final out of the inning.

The fourth found Crimmins fanning, Stiles singled, but was out at second on a fielder's choice. The first hit, Whittier ended this half by hitting to the infield. Colby's best in this frame was one, two, three order. Klusick lined to Crimmins, Donovan drove to the infield with apparent ease, Stiles' superb pitching continued unabated in Colby's half. Deetjen, Heddericg and Brown going down in order. Colby's efforts from then on were negligible.

After Saturday's game it was quite obvious that Ben Houser has a ball club that is fighting and improving every inch of the way and will, unless the unforeseen occurs, be strong contenders for the State Title. The fielding in both the Maine and Colby games has been top-notch. It is now a question how well the pitching stands up under the strain of a full schedule and whether the batting punch is sufficient for victory.

The summary:
Colby
Davan, cf 2 0 0 1 0 0
Karkos, rf 1 0 0 2 0 0
Lovett, cf 4 0 0 1 0 0
Klusick, ss 4 0 0 0 8 1
Donovan, 1b 3 0 1 8 0 0
Ferguson, 2b 4 0 0 6 4 1
Deetjen, 3b 3 0 0 2 2 0
Heddericg, c 3 0 0 1 0 0
Brown, p 2 0 1 4 0 0
(A) Roberts, cf 1 1 0 0 0 0
(B) Waite, p 1 0 0 2 0 0
Totals 28 1 2 27 14 2

Bowdoin
Ricker, cf 5 1 2 3 0 0
Whittier, ss 5 2 2 1 4 1
Dwyer, c 5 1 2 0 2 0
Urban, if 5 1 2 3 0 0
Chalmers, 2b 5 0 2 2 0 0
Bell, rf 3 0 2 0 0 0
McKown, 3b 2 0 1 1 3 1
Crimmins, 1b 2 0 0 13 0 0
Stiles, p 3 2 3 2 4 0
Totals 34 7 14 27 15 2

Innings:
Colby 0 0 0 0 1 0 0-1
Bowdoin 2 3 0 0 0 1 1-7
Two base hit, Stiles. Three base hit, Chalmers. Home runs, Dwyer, Whittier, Stolen base, Davan. Base on balls, Stiles 4, Waite 1. Umpires, Mc-Donough, Gibson.

Seconds Tie Bridgton

(Continued from Page 1)

looked bad. Sharkey hooked one into left field that Barstow hooked hold of.

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

SOULE'S BARBER SHOP
For First Class Haircutting
Near Campus - Two Expert Barbers

With a count of three and two, Perrigo drove a sailing twister at Monsieur Bartholomew Bossidy, who separated it one-handed and dropped on top of Comparato, who was trying to get back to second. The reserves got two men on in the next half-inning, and left them there.

The box-score:
Bowdoin Reserves (1)
Parmenter, 2b 3 1 2 1 1 1
Rose, 1b 3 0 1 6 1 0
Crimmins, 3b 1 0 1 1 0 0
Means 1 0 0 0 0 0
Shute, cf 3 0 1 0 0 0
Bell, rf 2 0 0 0 0 0
Bossidy, ss 3 0 2 2 0 0
Barstow, lf 3 0 1 1 0 0
MacLachlan, c 1 0 2 1 0 0
Smith 2 0 4 0 0 0
Morrell, p 1 0 0 1 0 0
Boucher 1 0 1 0 0 0
Totals 24 1 6 18 7 2

Bridgton Academy (1)
Trainor, 1b ab r bh po a e
Schneiflin, rf 2 0 1 0 0 0
Graham, cf 2 0 0 2 0 0
McShane, ss 2 0 0 0 0 0
Borden 1 0 1 1 0 0
Corbett, 2b 1 0 3 0 1 0
Comparato, lf 1 0 1 0 0 0
Sharkey, 3b 1 0 0 0 0 1
Ferry, c 1 0 0 5 0 0
a, Sutcliffe 0 0 0 0 0 0
Ferrigo 1 0 0 1 0 0
Connolly, p 2 0 0 0 5 0
Totals 16 1 2 18 7 4

a-batted for Ferry in the fourth.

Two base hit, Parmenter. Struck out by Morrell, 3 in 3; by Boucher, 2 in 3; by Connolly, 5 in 6. Bases on balls, off Morrell, 1 in 3; off Boucher, 5 in 3; off Connolly, 0 in 6. Wild pitch, Boucher. Hits, off Morrell, 2 in 3; off
Boucher, 0 in 3; off Connolly, 7 in 6.
Hit by pitcher, by Morrell (Graham).
Sacrifice hits, Sharkey (2), Sutcliffe,
Means, Bell. Double play, Bossidy (unassisted). Double steal, Corbett and Comparato. Stolen bases, Trainor, Corbett (2), Comparato, Parmenter.
Umpire, Lancaster.

Score by innings:
Bridgton 0 0 1 0 0-1
Bowdoin Reserves 1 0 0 0 0-1

Debating Trip

(Continued from page 1)

manager compelled a sudden change in plans, however, and Bowdoin debated the affirmative of another question: Resolved that the State of New York undertake the development of the St. Lawrence project. The decision, made by two judges and a third vote from the audience, gave a two-to-one verdict for Bowdoin. Lee again handled the rebuttal speech.
From Clinton the team went by forced marches to Amherst, where Bowdoin argued the negative of the liquor question. The decision, audience vote, gave the Bowdoin team of Walker, Prince and Lee the victory.

The Amherst debate closed what has proved to be a very good debating year. Prospects are bright for 1930-31, with four of the five taking part in this year's debates returning to college. Debating Council elections for next year are to be held shortly and it is hoped that an additional trip, in mid-winter, will be possible for the coming season.

TENNIS SCHEDULE FOR YEAR COMPLETE; TOURNAMENT NOW ON

Dick Obeas, manager of tennis, has arranged a ladder tournament to be run off in order to get a line on the candidates for the team. The tournament is under way now and is expected to be concluded this week. Practice is still limited to the cement court, the clay courts being rough and not in condition to be used yet. There is no telling when they will be available, but it is hoped that they will be fit to play on some time this week.

Four assistant managers have been selected from the candidates. The men selected are Harold Durand, Dominic Antonucci, Dana Lovell and Alden Lunt.

The schedule has at last been completed. The first trip being on Tuesday, May 6, when the team will play Williams. The next day they play at the Hartford (Conn.) Golf Club. May 8 the team meets Wesleyan at Middletown and on the ninth they have a match with Holy Cross at Worcester.
The following week, on May 13th, 14th and 15th, Colby, Bates and Bowdoin will fight it out for the Maine State championship here at Brunswick. The next Intercollegiate matches will be played at Boston May 19, 20, and 21. The final match of the season will be with Bates here. The schedule is as difficult this year as in the past, and the team will have to play a good brand of tennis in order to capture the State championship.

Maine Game

Continued from Page 1

thriller. Time and time again the affair was within a hairbreadth of being sailed away in anybody's favor yet each instance was stopped short by a lapse of fortune or an especially brilliant save.

Smith, the capable Upstate initial sacker, credited with handling eighteen putouts, robbed Herb Rose of a hit in the seventh when he received wide of his base and snared the ball and dove in ahead of Rose barely in time to make the play.

In the next inning Ricker brought the shivering spectators to their feet with a sparkling catch of a long Maine drive to left center field while traveling at top speed. Rose was in a position to take the fly but Ricker over-reacted and was forced to assume the responsibility because he was unable to shut off the power of the amazing speed that had carried him all the way from his own sector of patrol. A pretty bit of garden work.

A budding rally was snuffed handily by McKown in the 13th canto as he took a nose dive in the dirt and came up with Kizosnak's hard hit grounder which seemed slated for the wide open spaces.

All individual performances for the day were overshadowed, however, by Luke Urban's superlative one handed spear of the longest wallop of the game. The imperturbable Urban was off in the direction of the fence as Wells connected solidly with the orb sending it for what looked like a round trip ticket. It came to pass, happy to relate, that the errand apple fell to rest in the clutch of the Polar Bear selder as he deerfooted it for the Chapel with his back to the ball game. The greatest catch since the inauguration of Pickard Field and one of those priceless hits that find a place among the fond reminiscences of college days.

Souther lasted the whole route for Coach Houser's charges accounting for 11 strikeouts while Taft, the Maine pitcher, managed to work himself out of many tough positions by bearing down in the pinches.

Bowdoin made the first bid to score in the second when Chalmers opened the inning with a loping single to center field. Mr. Jinx showed up ominously when Rose slashed the next pitched ball on a line between first and second hitting Chalmers, plowing on his way toward the keystone, reflecting him automatically. McKown flew out to left and Rose stole second and went to third on a passed ball. The bid was lost on King Crimmins' pop fly to Corbett.

Again in the eighth frame Bowdoin failed to capitalize on a fine opportunity to break the tie after Ricker and Whittier singled in succession with one down, only to get into a jam around third base which wound up with a force out at the plate. Another chance to score in the 10th found the breaks still against the home nine. Souther lengthened Crimmins' walk with a pretty sacrifice bunt and Ricker followed once again with a timely hit, placing the native first baseman on third. A sudden end was put to the enthusiasm in the shape of Whittier's pop bunt which the third baseman from the realm of Rudy turned into an unassisted double play on Mr. King Crimmins.

It looked for a moment in the 13th as if everything would be successfully rounded off as Ricker, on base by virtue of a base on balls, went to third on Dwyer's well-placed lob but Urban retired his side when Kizosnak caught in his long foul fly.

In valiant effort to retake Maine's three run lead in the last of the fourteenth Rose collected his second hit after Chalmers had flied out. Mc-Kown was safe on a fielder's choice when the play for Rose at second was fruitless but Crimmins and Stiles, who batted for Souther, could do no better than follow Chalmers' example and the bitter battle was over.

Maine
Plummer, ss ab r bh po a e
Palmer, rf 6 1 0 2 0 0
Hincks, cf 6 1 3 2 0 0
Wells, c 6 1 1 6 2 0
Kizosnak, lf 5 0 2 4 0 0
Smith, 1b 4 0 1 18 1 0
McCabe, 3b 6 0 1 2 1 0
Corbett, 2b 2 0 0 2 4 0
Taft, p 5 0 0 0 4 0
Ferreira, c 0 0 0 0 0 0
Pratt, 2b 2 0 0 1 1 0
Totals 49 4 8 41 17 4

x-batted for Corbett in 9th.

Chalmers out; hit by batted ball.

Bowdoin
Ricker, cf ab r bh po a e
Whittier, ss 5 1 2 3 0 0
Dwyer, c 6 0 2 11 6 0
Urban, if 6 0 1 2 0 0
Chalmers, 2b 5 0 1 3 2 0
Rose, rf 6 0 2 1 0 0
McKown, 3b 6 0 0 2 1 0

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is
custom tailored to
your individual measure, has
that distinctive touch which
always marks the wearer as
well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Crimmins, 1b 5 0 0 16 0 0
Souther, p 4 0 0 1 5 0
Stiles, 2 1 0 0 0 0 0
Totals 49 1 9 42 17 5
x-batted for Souther in 14th.

Maine
0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 3-4

Bowdoin
0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0-1

Stolen bases, Ricker, Rose 2, Plummer, Hincks, Sacrifices, Taft, Smith, Whittier, Souther. Double plays, Wells to McCabe; Wells to Smith; Whittier to Chalmers to Crimmins. Base on balls, off Souther 5; Taft 3. Struck out, by Souther 11; Taft 3. Hit by pitcher, by Souther (Wells, Corbett), Umpires, McDonough and Gibson.
Time 3:05.

SARGENT STUDIES SHOWN

The charcoal studies by John Singer Sargent recently given to the College are now on exhibition, having been hung in the small lecture room downstairs in the Walker Art Building. They are eight studies in the nude, treated with Sargent's usual vigor and forceful hand. One in particular will be very interesting to art students since it shows the artist's plan of work very clearly. The figure is sketched in over a background of squares, as if it had been drawn upon graph paper.

John Singer Sargent was one of the greatest modern painters. His murals in the Boston Public Library reveal the highest genius, and his death recently was a tremendous blow to art.
These studies are of such value that any museum would be glad to have them in its possession.

"DON'T SHOOT!"
cried the willowy Winona

"And why not, my gal?" demanded Wellington Threecoves, thrusting his classic chin against her heaving bosom.

"Because," replied Winona, "you will not be annoyed at bridge by his hushiness any longer. He has promised that, if spared, he will change to OLD GOLDS, made from queen-leaf tobacco. Not a throat scratch in a trillion."

OLD GOLD

FASTEST GROWING CIGARETTE IN HISTORY... NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD
On your Radio... OLD GOLD-PAUL WHITMAN HOUR. Paul Whiteman and complete orchestra... every Tuesday, 9 to 10 P. M., Eastern Standard Time

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Department Editors
Walter P. Bowman '31, Campus
Frederick R. Kleibacker '31, Sports

Contributing Editors
Harrison M. Davis, Jr., '30
Roy E. Davis '30
Douglas Fosdick '30

John T. Gould '30
Olin S. Pettingill, Jr., '30
William N. Small '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY
Business Manager
Artine Artinian '31
Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32
Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College.
All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, May 7, 1930.

No. 4

Vindication

The results of the Poll on the Pole certainly indicate that a good percentage of the student body are opposed to the present flagpole site or to the flagpole itself. As we stated last week, this poll was run to answer a charge of childishness brought by several alumni and others who for one reason or another took issue with us on the flagpole. An editorial by a certain alumnus is reprinted in another column of the paper. Read it and judge. Are we childish? To our mind, childishness lies in the threats to take us to the woodshed put forth by these alumni instead of arguments. The Student Council, believed by the uninitiated to be the representatives of the Bowdoin student body, have announced that there was no protest. Let them interpret the Poll results. When two hundred and twenty-eight votes are polled from the College Community on the two issues of opposition to site and opposition to memorial combined, it would seem that the Student Council were not trying to be particularly representative in their pronouncements. Two hundred twenty-eight is a rather large minority to ignore.

But let it be close the issue of the flagpole. The memorial is decided upon, and the protests of the students and faculty have come too late for readjustment here. As for the location of the memorial, this is being reconsidered by a committee. The results of this reconsideration are not public as yet, but we do wonder at the filling in of the foundation hole at the end of the Library walk. Possibly it means nothing; we hope not; we hope the committee or the architects will be able to change the location of the pole and find one which will be agreeable to all. Meanwhile, we of the ORIENT BOARD feel that we have, through the poll results, received confirmation of our stand on this matter and have been completely cleared of the charges of not knowing what we were talking about and childishness.

Fire!

Sunday afternoon, thanks to a lusty wind, a mysterious fire levelled Dr. Lippincott's house to the ground. The Fire Department did everything in its power to save the dwelling, but to no avail. Bowdoin men present turned to with a vengeance and succeeded in saving no small amount of the household furniture. That sort of cooperation with the town is what we need to insure the continuance of the present friendly relations between "town and gown." That sort of cooperation does much to repay the town for such thoughtless and childish pranks as the ringing of false alarms by certain would-be jokesters among us. A fire such as this should impress upon all of us the importance of cooperation with the town in all matters. It is time we thought about it. Let us have more of it, and less of the blithe and carefree ringing of alarms on occasions such as the cremation of Litchfield Hall.

Hail, Bates!

In a paternalistic tirade The Bates Student has taken upon itself the sacred duty of admonishing the ORIENT concerning an editorial which recently appeared in this paper. The editorial under the heading "Life" has thrown the Bobcat machine out of stride just when "The Little Yankee College" was about to arrive.

"Bowdoin has picked a poor time for a spurt," states The Student. And with an utter disregard for common modesty the editor proceeds to flaunt before us "the glories that are Bates." With the pathetic lavishness of the nouveau riche he parades his glitter before our eyes. In a melange of verbosity, self-satisfaction, and archaic collegiatism Bates mounts the throne and declares "that a cat cannot look at a king." And all this despite the fact that only "now can the Bates administration begin to discriminate" in the selection of its student body. The ORIENT is not in the least convinced by the Bates pose.

Before we proceed to our original task we beg to congratulate Bates upon its athletic prowess during the year 1929-1930. The record has been unusually fine. The Garnet athletes have done their part and have done it well. We are sorry that we cannot say the same of The Student!

The Student finds itself sadly incapable of molding a student opinion which smacks of anything but collegiatism of the gay nineties, or the simpering sentimentality of high school days. The editors seemed quite amazed that fair co-eds no more wave their kerchiefs to glorious Apollos; that "the fire and snap of former celebrations is dimmed; that no more do students parade down-street to greet triumphant teams; and that no more does Mount David gleam with festive fires!" A deplorable condition! An unhealthy state!

Perhaps the editors fail to recognize that this gross sentimentality was cold and dead when they were still at mothers' knees; and that this essence of bunkum rests amid the eternal shades of Limbo. Is it not possible that Bates men and women are just clearing away the cobwebs of yester-year? Is it not possible that at last "The Little Yankee College" is awakening to the spirit which has dominated American colleges for almost a decade?

You'll find a wealth of smart Spring accessories designed expressly for your most critical needs . . . Too, you'll find our prices most attractive and the merchandise held strictly to a high quality standard . . . That's why we repeat, for IVY

Don't wish . . . "Walshize"!

The House of Walsh

ALL SENIOR CANES ARE HERE

The Student smacks of the dim past, of a dark age when such monstrosities as "The Rover Boys" existed. An age long since laughed off the stage.

In the words of one of the more modern Bates men: "How's to can the collegiatism 'and come to college.'"

P. C. A.

Communication

Augusta, Maine,
April 23, 1930.

Editor, Bowdoin Orient,
Brunswick, Maine.

Dear Sir:

I would suggest that in fairness to the alumni, you reprint the enclosed editorial from the Lewiston Journal in full.

I personally know that it expresses the feelings of influential alumni.

Also, I might add that there is a quite general feeling that the parents ought to take the youngsters responsible to the woodshed and vigorously apply a strap.

C. S. PETTINGILL '98.

(From the Lewiston Journal)

Students of Bowdoin have not helped matters much by their rude behavior toward a memorial, selected by supposedly good friends of the college and dedicated to those who fought in the great war under the banner of Bowdoin.

When the memorial is thus far advanced, it should have become sacred; for better or for worse to be respected, and if not appreciated, should be accepted in silence.

It appears to be a difference of opinion on art, that troubles these young gentlemen who say (through the Orient) that they, with the faculty represent the Bowdoin group living in closest contact with the college. We may not deny that statement, under the circumstances. The "contact" is beyond peradventure. But they seem to have gone farther than that. They have decided everything; insulted the Memorial; brought it into public question; made it an unhappy recollection for those who have given their time, money and effort to erect a suitable memorial; and have reproved those artists and architects who are representative of the best of American art, in such matters.

The Orient says, "Possibly, we have made our protest in a rather sudden and crude manner." We would go farther than that and add "probably." Among those of us who have worked on the memorial; raised the funds; contributed; had expected a reasonable attitude from college-youth, and are now properly abused, we will say even more than that; we will add "certainly." It seems a "crude" awakening; out of a clear sky to have Sunday so employed at Brunswick. It suggests that hereafter those who live so "close to the college," should not be disturbed by further offerings, from anybody.

A flag is to mount the flag-pole. Is it crude—"possibly"—to desecrate the flag or the staff? Personally, we do not know exactly whether the chief objection is to the location or the memorial itself. The memorial was designed by McKim, Mead and White of New York, rather good architects and artists. The location was also made by them, in the axis of the college walks on the campus.

In a sensible editorial in the Orient the memorial itself seems to be accepted. But its location is not pleasing to the Orient. It asks for a reopening of the subject. It suggests petition. THAT would have been a very fair procedure previous to Sunday. It says that all have cooled down to normalcy. And that IS a good time to talk it over. Personally we have not seen the location—trusting that the college-architects who are responsible for the location of all things on the campus and who are concerned for and responsible for its beauty, are capable of making a finished product.

For about ten years this memorial has been under consideration. A score of sessions has been attended by the committee. It was early decided by the College Board that the memorial should be symbolic—not utilitarian. This vote was recalled; submitted; again affirmed; again reaffirmed, by alumni and college boards. The committee felt that a simpler memorial of pure and complete devotion to the abstract thought were better than building a "memorial heating plant" or a "memorial swimming-pool" or purchasing a "memorial carpool of fuel."

And the flag, under which these lads fought in the great war, seemed then as it seems to us, even now, to be a suitable memorial. Bowdoin men of later years may be pleased to rally around it; instead of uprooting it and ringing in a fire alarm. It may perchance cause the emotion of some Bowdoin man to surge proudly in recollection of the supreme sacrifice.

Not entering on the subject of its beauty or its location at all, we join the Bowdoin Orient in suggestion that the outbreak was "possibly crude." And we suggest that the words "infamous flag-pole" are also crude and are under a rebuke to good-will; to contributions of money; to attempts to serve the college, by those who once were close to it and would continue to desire to be permitted to be close to it but who have committed the error of wishing well to the college, working hard for the college and leaving the determination of art to the wrong persons. Instead of leaving the determination of art-matters to McKim, Mead and White, they should be left to the young men who know how to carry a flag-pole into the chapel and ring in fire-alarms, at midnight.

We wish to comment.

We are quite willing to agree that we have not helped matters by our flagpole protest. Inasmuch as everything was decided before we completely realized what was going on, that outcome was to be expected. But we have brought about the reconsideration of the question of the site, and that is something. As for rude behavior, we fail to see the point. We feel that our conduct may have been impulsive but we see nothing ungrateful therein. Surely even Mr. Staples cares to know student opinion on this subject. And this has driven it home. There was no sacrilege intended, and if our critics will but be just, they will see that none is taken. POSSIBLY it may be that Mr. Staples himself may have said unkind things against poor old Memorial Hall in his undergraduate years. Memorial Hall is a very good example of the undergraduate's point of view. How many times, in speaking of that building, or looking at it, do we remember the men and the deeds for which it stands? Rather do we think on the incongruities of this relic of a once popular type of architecture and ponder on the why thereof. Isn't that so, Mr. Staples? That is the example of a sacred and lasting tribute to the College dead. It is not that we fail to appreciate them, Mr. Staples; it is not that we are not proud of our flag and its symbolism; it is not that we wish to be insulting to those Bowdoin men who have conceived this pole as the fitting tribute. It is, rather, that we look at such things differently; it is that we prefer the act to the symbol—and for that reason have those among us advocated

(Continued on page 3)

Communication

To the Editor:

It seems that a former ailing squib of ours has met alien eyes. Perhaps we should feel flattered that the Bates Student has taken notice of our efforts. Someone, at any rate, reads the Orient.

But it is rather painful that the Student should take notice of us in such a way. It seems that the "spurt" we heralded so hopefully two weeks ago is just a flash in the pan. The Student says so, and further implies that Bowdoin's spurt when compared to the spurt of Bates is as "water unto wine"—or in other words, the phenomenal progress that Bates is making makes Bowdoin's thorny progress resemble a snappy retreat. So be it! The Oracle has spoken!

The Student most modestly points out more of our shortcomings—ridicules our debating team and scoffs at our baseball prospects—and, in order to emphasize our obvious deficiencies very succinctly and cursorily expatiates on the undying fame of the Bates Two Mile Relay Team—and other Garnet, newly-won championships. This was unnecessary. We know all about Ossie Chapman and wish him luck. It has been brought to our attention that the Hockey Crown has flown and that baseball and football have not been so good. Also Bowdoin still recognizes the famous tactics of Bates' debating teams. If Twelfth Night is a sample of the theatricals, however, we cannot conceive why theatricals were included in Bates' long recent list of achievements.

The Student has certainly attempted to quench our reviving hopes. But its complete air of puerility has rather made a fiasco out of it. The good old high school spirit is making its last stand in the Bates mouth organ. The Student is making its faces at us while it can, and the only thing we can do is to hold up a mirror to it. Bowdoin has attempted no disparagement of Bates' athletic and intellectual prowess, so why this voluntary outburst from the school paper occurs is a palpable mystery to us. We assume that the Student does

(Continued on Page 3)

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:

Russia has repudiated religion. Communism considers Christianity cacophonous, atheism is avidly embraced by the whiskered inhabitants of the steppes. Bowdoin College in refusing to ratify the 1931 chaplain has shown herself to be Moscow-minded.

For years the Ivy exercises have been opened with prayer, and the juniors have reverently chosen one of their number to fulfill the sacerdotal duties. This year, pressure from within forced the reluctant renunciation of the incumbent. Two conclusions can be drawn, either that the former chaplain was deemed unworthy or that the college believes prayer can be dispensed with.

I know the recently resigned chaplain well. I am aware of his occasional frivolities, of his petty peccadilloes but my fervent faith in his essential piety has never wavered. Long study of the Epistles of Paul coupled with an existence of abstinence and rigorous asceticism had well prepared him for his sacrosanct supplications. There is much of Thomas Aquinas in young Fuller and an unthinking administration has shut off a veritable well-spring of warmly devoted piety.

No Christian college could conscientiously repudiate Fuller's chaplaincy. The only conclusion is the obvious and unpleasant one, that on this campus prayer is passe, that we have graduated from God. The Black Mass soon will be celebrated in the chapel, a verisimilar witches' Sabbath looms near at hand.

I do not hold the entire college at fault. I do charge that some of the local administration are not adamant to insidious offers of Russian kopecs. Let me finally urge that we cleanse these Aegean stables, that we have a collegiate catharsis and especially that we abrogate these atheistic accessions.

LAWRENCE R. LEACH '30.

Light is the first of painters.
—EMERSON

BUILDINGS in Which You Take Pride

ON THE CAMPUS, where class buildings and memorial structures are so often distinguished by their noble form, floodlighting equipment serves to prolong the enjoyment of their beauty and to enhance pride in the institution. * * Such an application is made for the new 165-foot campanile at South Dakota State—magnificent gift of an alumnus. Electrically operated chimes sound the hours and are heard in concerts. At night, shafts of light from General Electric floodlighting projectors effect a picture of superb beauty done in the school colors and white. From the air, the tower is identified by the beam from a G-E airway beacon surmounting the floodlighted dome. * * Thus, G-E equipment plays its part in promoting progress and fine appreciation. Back of every G-E product is an organization in which college-trained men are largely responsible for the planning, production, and distribution.

Drawing of the Campanile at South Dakota State College, Brookings, S. D. Perkins and McFarlane, architects

GENERAL ELECTRIC
GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY, SCHENECTADY, NEW YORK

95-767048

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

Symmetric Golf Clubs at $3.50

Set of Five Related Irons . . $17.50

Have you tried the New Dunlop Ball at . . . 75c

Silver Kings . 85c Repaints . 25c, 30c, 40c

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Mustard and Cress

THE BAFFLED STUDENTS

(A hitherto unpublished ditty which might have been written in 1786, but which probably wasn't.)
 God prosper longe our president;
 our lifes and safeties all—A woeful battle once there didde on Bowdoin Campus fall.

To raise a flagge-pole uppe on high Lord Kenneth didde essay—
 The childe may rue thatte is unborn the planning of thatte day.

The pole was bought, a hole was digged,
 the worke wasse under way,
 These tydings to the students came,
 a howle was raised straightway.

Then uppe they rose in awfull ire,
 and e'en so loud they spake
 That with their gries the hills and dales an echo shrill didde make.

They grasped that flagge-pole butte and peak and lustily didde work Thatte longe before the cock did crew the thinge wasse in the kirk.

"Loe, yonder doth Lord Kenneth come,
 and e'en so loud they spake
 He hath arisen from his bedde this gamesome sport to see."

"What ho! What ho!" now doth he crye,
 "My heart doth sorely burn,
 Do ye not ken, this flagpole, men,
 is none of your concern?"

It's not for you to pay or say or choose where itte shall bee, Whatever plans we elders make,
 we'll keepe them all, or dee."

But uppe and spake a younger lad,

all sweating from the broll,
 "Wist ye not the flagge-pole will our lovely campus spoil?"
 "That is", made answer Lord Kenneth,
 "another witch to burn,
 Likewise thyssse flagge-poleisse, please of the students no concern.
 You only have to wander out and see the thing, so learn Thatte whether ytte isse nice or no, it's none of your concern."

The students thereat were content, and eke were satisfied.
 Lord Kenneth hied him back to bedde,
 the battle didde subside.

God save Lord Kenneth, blesse thyssse lande with plenty, ioy, and peace,
 And grant henceforth that foole debate twixt noble menne may cease.

Hear the story of the bee and the bull, if you haven't heard it before.
 The bee was playing about the pasture one fine morning when the flowers were sweet, and the bull found it great sport to tease him.

Every time the bee lit on a flower
 the bull would come up and scare him off. It got to be quite a game after a while, and the bee didn't think much of it.

Finally he decided that the next flower he went to, he would stay there just as long as he wanted to, bull or no bull. So he went to a nice bloom, and was just getting a good taste of nectar when up came the bull to scare him off.

The bee wouldn't scare, so the bull got mad and swallowed the bee. The bee found himself somewhere he'd never been before so he looked around.
 Finally he decided that before he stung the bull he would take a nap.
 So he went to sleep.
 Well, when he woke up the next morning he found that the bull had gone.

(Continued on Page 4)

Problems of Legislative Control of Early Importance To CollegeSeparation of Maine From Massachusetts Brought About Perplexing Situation

This week we resume our history of the early years of the College, using the same source as previously. After a sufficiently long period has been dealt with in this cursory fashion we will use it as a background for more detailed sketches and accounts of prominent characters and important events.

President Appleton Dies

The autumn of 1819 witnessed the death of President Appleton, who had held that office since 1807. He had been a zealous president, stern in his discipline, and constantly watching to improve intellectual and moral conditions of the college. His period of office had been a stormy one, and his was the guiding hand that brought it through the difficulties of those tempestuous and sometimes almost hopeless final years.

Constitutional Troubles

With the following spring the boards assembled to elect a successor to President Appleton and for the consideration of other important affairs. There had been a great change in the State, Maine having only just become a separate entity. The politics of the new State were essentially different from those of Massachusetts, from which it had been created, and some of the leaders of the new government were known to be unfriendly to Bowdoin. In drawing up the Constitution of Maine, however, just such a situation had been anticipated, and a clause had been inserted insuring the continued payment of the legislative grant to the College, and provided that the president and boards should "have, hold, and enjoy their powers and privileges in all respects, so that the same shall not be subject to be altered, limited, annulled, or restrained, except by judicial process, according to the principles of law." By this clause the College was intended to be protected from the almost inevitable storms of party and personal feeling. But another clause restrained the Legislature "from making any donation, grant, or endowment to any literary institution, unless the said Legislature shall have, the right to grant any further powers, to alter, limit, or restrain any of the powers vested in any such literary institution." Here was the quandary that faced the boards at their May, 1820 meeting—should the College receive financial aid from the State and lose its independence of action, or should it maintain its freedom by forfeiting State support?

Legislature in Control

President Allen, who had recently been elected, was strongly in favor of submission to the Legislature in return for aid. After a period of animated discussion on the boards, a vote was taken and the majority favored submission. The legislative bodies of Maine and Massachusetts consented to the alteration of the College charter in accordance with this new policy, and the Maine legislature enacted the changes. These changes were to be effective, however, only upon agreement of both legislatures, according to the terms of the Act. Through some slip or oversight an act of approval was never passed by the Massachusetts body, a fact unnoticed at the time, but later to prove a matter of importance.

The Maine Legislature then proceeded to take the College into its own hands, and by the Act of March 19, 1821 the numbers of trustees and overseers were greatly increased, and appointment of these officials was given to the Governor and council. Governor King, whose ire, it will be remembered, had previously been incurred, proceeded to this duty. The Massachusetts trustees, however, refused to assent to the changes, and the Maine Legislature until the charters of the banks should expire in 1831.

Medical School Founded

At the same time the Legislature established the Bowdoin Medical School, with an annual grant of $1,000 during the pleasure of the Legislature. (This grant ceased in 1834.) President Allen was the prime mover in the project and he brought in Dr. Nathan Smith, of the Yale Medical Department, to open the school. Dr. Smith was a capable and distinguished physician and surgeon. He was aided by Dr. John D. Wells, a young Harvard graduate, who early showed his ability as a teacher of anatomy, and he was appointed to that chair at the end of the year. The upper story of Massachusetts Hall had been fitted up for the use of the school and other parts of the building were also used for lectures. Until the gift of Mr. Seth Adams of Boston, in 1862, of a sum of money for the erection of Adams Hall, the Medical School continued to be housed here.

G. T. S.

Communication

An open letter to the Orient:
 I thought this might be of interest to the Bowdoin undergraduates—Tom Riley '28.

Munich, Germany, April 9, 1930.
 To the Readers of the Orient:
 Certain phases of Bowdoin's influence in the world are kept before your eyes continually, whether or not hardly less important are known to only a few Bowdoin people.

Here in Munich we have an excellent example of that. One of the greatest factors in student life here came into existence several years ago through the work of a Bowdoin man. That is the university "Commons", known to the Munich students as the "Verein Studentenhäuser".

Such a house denotes a revolution in German student life. The latter has always been famous for its lack of unity. Its only center has been the lecture halls and libraries of the university building, places not very adapted to sociableness and good fellowship.

Soon after the war, however, the great need among the student classes called for organization of some sort, which could help the students financially. With this tendency towards unifying the student body came other ideas, mostly from the American university system. Common eating places were built, as well as common club rooms, study rooms, and living quarters similar to our dormitories. In Munich, these were first scattered about in various buildings near the university. Then the organization here, interested in such work, became a part of the World Student Christian Association, in which a Bowdoin man, David R. Porter, '06, Bowdoin's first Rhodes Scholar, plays a leading part. Porter raised the largest part of the money needed for the Munich "Commons", and some of the first contributions were from Bowdoin undergraduates.

Now the Munich "Studentenhäuser" forms the center of all student activities. Its cafeteria takes care of 3000 students daily. A meal of two courses costs about 12 cents, a price about which none can complain. All other additions to the meal (beer, of course) may be had at corresponding prices. Besides the cafeteria are several well-furnished study-rooms, and smoking-rooms, where newspapers from all parts of the world are at hand. An enormous hall gives space for meetings, dances, concerts, lectures, banquets—all the gatherings we have in our own universities.

Besides this there are accommodations for a more serious part of student life—offices which provide work for students lacking money. This work is of a somewhat different type from that in America. One of the offices deals only in translation, for which, of course, foreign students are in demand. A great many of the English guidebooks in use in Germany come from this office. All of the Oberammergau propaganda, coming directly from the village itself, has been translated into English by English and American students here. Another office manages a School of Lan-

(Continued on Page 4)

Men of Judgment Buy Their Clothes at Harmon's

Day in and day out Harmon's offer to their customers, clothing of real merit constructively tailored of long wearing fabrics that "stand the gaff." Day in and day out more men are realizing the wisdom of wearing "clothes from Harmon's."

HARMON'S
INCORPORATED

Staples Editorial

(Continued from Page 2)

a different type of memorial, a living one in preference to the dead, such as a graduate scholarship in the field of international relations, for instance. Like yourself, Mr. Staples, we fail to see any sense in purchasing a "memorial heating plant" or a "memorial carload of fuel." We are not campaigning for this type of a memorial when we use the term "utilitarian."

And as for the site, we have an unartistic, "crude" desire to keep the Walker Art Building and Hubbard Hall as our beautiful campus buildings. We think the flagstaff at its present location would detract from these buildings. We hate to sacrifice as fine a tree as found on campus when there is no absolute need for it. We don't quite relish the idea of placing a war memorial within the academic quadrangle.

There are our cards on the table. Judge. And then, if you still feel that we, the Bowdoin undergraduates, have desecrated this memorial, we are willing to apologize for our views.

PAUL A. WALKER.

Poll on Pole

(Continued from Page 1)

Delta Kappa Epsilon returned a majority for the architects' first proposed plan, but failed to make any official vote. Lack of interest in the question is shown in only a very few places, the totals of ten ballots cast at the D. U. house and fifteen by the Kappa Sigmas being the lowest in evidence. Most amazing of all the returns is Sigma Nu's unwavering demand for some alternate memorial scheme.

It was apparent on Friday morning that some action was under way, for the grounds force removed the pole to the carpenter shop. On being interviewed, President Sills stated that the College Architect, Mr. Kendall of McKim, Mead and White, had made a preliminary survey of the situation, but that no official report had as yet been rendered. He further added: "The proposal of an alternative design for a memorial is out of the question. Absolutely all work has been completed on the flagpole and base, save for its final erection. As soon as the site has been picked, the memorial will be assembled."

Faculty Opinion Given
 In a highly interesting letter Professor Chase has made plain the stand which the faculty is taking in the entire affair. At a recent meeting, an informal vote showed that a large majority favored the choosing of another site for the erection of the memorial. A committee has been appointed to formulate the faculty attitude toward the proposed action of the architects. Professor Chase heads this committee, with Professors Mitchell, Means, and Bartlett.

"We took the position," says Professor Chase's letter in part, "that the question of the form of the memorial had already been settled. On the question of its location a considerable diversity of opinions was found. A summary of the views encountered was included in the report, together with a statement of the arguments used in support of the two alternate sites which were chiefly favored. These suggestions, it is understood, along with communications from individuals and from the Student Council, have been taken under advisement by the Committee on the War Memorial."

Small Communication

(Continued from Page 2)

not very well reflect the Bates spirit in spite of the fact that it has half the college on its editorial staff; for it would be almost heresy to think that any American college, in these peaceful and illuminated days, should stoop to high school mud-throwing, and seminary cat-calling comparisons are interesting and often salutary, but when they serve as the basis for the most childish boasting, and the most uninspired disparagement, they are futile, and unfortunate and self-slapping.

W. N. S.

PROCTORS NAMED

The following men were named proctors for the year 1930-1931 at a meeting of the faculty this week: P. T. Hayes, R. De Gray, R. S. Ecke, J. C. Flint, Jr., H. H. Rose, S. R. Foster, P. A. Walker, and F. M. Appleton.

FORDHAM LAW SCHOOL

WOOLWORTH BUILDING
NEW YORK

CO-EDUCATIONAL

CASE SYSTEM

THREE YEAR COURSE

TWO YEARS

One Year of College Work

Required For Admission

MORNING, AFTERNOON AND

EVENING CLASSES

Write For Catalogue

Charles P. Davis, Registrar

Room 2861

CUMBERLAND

Friday—May 9

-VAUDEVILLE-

—on the screen—

THE GRAND PARADE

—with—

Helen Twelvrees — Fred Scott

Also Paramount News

Saturday—May 10

VILMA BANKY

—in—

A LADY TO LOVE

—also—

COMEDY SOUND ACT

Mon. — Tues. — May 12 - 13

THE GOLDEN CALF

—with—

JACK MULHALL - SUE CAROL

COMEDY NEWS

Wed. - Thurs. — May 14 - 15

GARY COOPER

—in—

ONLY THE BRAVE,

COMEDY AUDIO REVIEW

Engraved by JOHN MERRILL JR.

"LOVE LIKE OURS CAN NEVER DIE."
MUTTERED MARMADUKE, Thickly.

"You'd be surprised," replied the sprightly Sophia. "With a rasping voice like yours, love is likely to fly out of the window and land on the back of its neck. What our love needs is insurance."

"What insurance?" he wondered.

"The insurance of OLD GOLDS, boy friend. Throat-case and tender tones caused by the mellow, mild, heart-leaf tobacco; vocal cords that act without a struggle; no tickle, scratch or scrape. OLD GOLD yourself, Marmie, and we shall be inseparable. There's not a bark in a billion."

OLD GOLD

FASTEST GROWING CIGARETTE IN HISTORY
.....NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

© P. Lorillard Co.

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pottery,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

LYMAN B. CHIPMAN
PURE FOOD SHOP
Wholesale-Retail
574 Congress St., Portland, Me.

'Anything y'want Pressed?'
Give it to
LAVENDER OR ESTLE
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER

KAYWOODIE PIPES
ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

PRINTING
of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.
Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

QUALITY ALWAYS.
Brunswick Publishing Company
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets
Telephone Brunswick No. 3.

BOWDOIN TRACK MEN TO BATTLE TUFTS IN SATURDAY MEET

In spite of the defeat at the hands of the New Hampshire State track team, prospects for a successful season still look bright. The Bowdoin team should be able to overcome the Tufts team next Saturday. Bowdoin and Tufts have been meeting regularly for several years, in return encounters. Although the Tufts team is not as strong this year as it has been in the past, nevertheless, the meet will not be easy. Tufts has not such a strong team as New Hampshire is supporting this year. New Hampshire defeated Brown by about forty points, twenty points more than they beat Tufts. The Bowdoin team made a better showing against New Hampshire and showed improvement in several events. New Hampshire defeated the White last year, 27 points and this year by only 13 points. With the same team that went against New Hampshire, Bowdoin will go down to Boston next Friday.

Bowdoin should do good work in the high and low jump and in the 100 yard and 220 yard dash. Foster will be taken to run the quarter mile and will certainly be a point winner. Both Thistlewaite and Cobb will compete in the half mile. Although Bowdoin was shut out of the mile run in the New Hampshire meet, Usher will probably place at Tufts. Bowdoin will be taken to run the two mile. He ran a pretty race against the Wildcats, and should be able to do better still at Tufts.

Captain Soule will be entered in the broad jump and Johnson may possibly be entered in his running race. Stanwood and Jenkins will represent Bowdoin in the high jump and should be able to show up to better advantage than in the New Hampshire meet. Appleton and Williams will go to take part in the pole vault and should pick up some points. In the weight events Bowdoin will be well represented. Galbraith, Chapman, and Thayer will probably all place in the hammer throw as in the New Hampshire meet. Olsen and Johnson have a stiff job on hand in the shot put. Olsen will also compete in the discus.

The javelin both Soule and Olsen will be entered and Bell may compete. Some of the freshmen who competed last Saturday against Maine Central Institute may be taken to Boston, several having done unusually good work.

M. C. I. has a strong team and will probably win the Conference title this year. The thirty-three aggregation had to work to defeat them, but must hold their own in time trials to get a chance at intercollegiate action.

WHITE TENNIS TEAM TAKES SPRING TRIP

State Championship Matches to be Held Here Next Week

Seriously handicapped by the loss of two of the most dependable men on the squad, Bowdoin's tennis squad trained for the front and the annual spring trip last week end. Ray Jensen, all-round star, was forced out by the study requirements of his major, and Marion Short found it necessary to devote his time to making up work lost of during illness.

Jim Parker, E. Farrington Abbott, Bill Altenburg, Dave Perkins, Harry Sprague, and Eddy Christian were finally picked to make the trip. Williams is the first match scheduled, being played on Tuesday. In the next three days Bowdoin successfully meets Trinity, Wesleyan, and Holy Cross. On their return they are booked to plunge into the thick of another struggle for the Maine Collegiate Championship, won last year by the White.

At time of going to press, the doubles selections had not been announced. It is possible that Altenburg, and Parker, with Perkins and Christian, will carry the burden of the attack there. During the last week plans have been maturing for the formation of a Freshman team. No men have been picked as yet, but a tentative team met Hebron this afternoon in the first match of the year.

Sunday Chapel

(Continued from Page 1)
extra calls. In case of extreme poverty, he works without pay.

A great deal of ignorance and superstition has to be counteracted. If the country became independent now, it would be ruled by a few men of education. But now teachers and doctors are making continuous trips around the rural districts and conditions are improving slightly. India is calling, not for leaders, but for men to work with her and with her people.

Dr. Wilder graduated from Harvard Medical School in 1919 and for ten years has been working in India. At the present time he is connected with the hospital at Madras, India.

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

SOULE'S BARBER SHOP

For First Class Haircutting
Near Campus - Two Expert Barbers

Sportsman's Pen

The ball team is meeting the Black Bears at Orono today. After the spring trip the game with Maine will have different results than the first Maine-Bowdoin column.

The track squad will go to Boston Saturday to meet Tufts. New Hampshire conquered the Tufts tracksters with a forty point margin. Bowdoin lost to New Hampshire by half that amount. Bowdoin should have an easy time with the Jumbos.

The Tennis Team goes off on its Southern swing with a fairly strong aggregation. It returns to the State Tournament to be held here at Bowdoin.

Houser has been doing wonders with the ball club this year. The undergraduates appreciate the change from losses to wins.

The football men have been reporting to Coach Bowser in dribs and drabs this spring. Stronger support is imperative if the new coaching system is to bring about the necessary changes.

The undergraduates are looking forward to the fall with no small amount of anticipation. After three years of losing football the College is about ready for an improvement. The undergraduate body is going back Bowdoin to the limit. The situation of football at Bowdoin will be towards the happier side next year.

Despite the sudden rise to athletic affluence on the part of Bates, there is plenty of reason to believe that this condition will be short lived.

We are informed that Bates holds the Baseball Crown of 1929. It is very much of a question as to whether the Garnet will hold that honor in 1930.

In the track meet this year will be one in which strength will be fairly evenly divided. The Bates, Colby and Maine aggregations have strength in many places where the Polar Bears are weak.

Magee has faith in the Polar Bear outfit to make a big jump from last year's position.

Once again the Bowdoin Track will come into use for the Annual State Meet. The Bowdoin Freshmen have run some remarkable races on this track in previous meets. Magee hopes for a repetition this year.

Interfraternity Baseball has called a goodly crowd to the year. The games as usual have the faculty for large scores, from poor pitching and heavy batting.

The Swimming team has been going through continual practice this Spring. Coach Miller's outfit is keeping in trim. Perhaps Bowdoin will have a swimming team in 1931.

RILEY LETTER

(Continued from Page 3)
guages, similar to the famous Bertiz speech, of the season, being done by English speaking students.

Connected with this building is the "Studentenheim", similar to the International House in New York, only on a much smaller scale. Here a number of students of all nationalities are comfortably housed, also having special social rooms, card rooms, etc.

And these two buildings owe their existence directly to a Bowdoin man, David R. Porter, whom two of the three Bowdoin graduates now studying in Germany have cause to thank for his good work. To us this "Commonwealth" has meant just as much as any German student.

THOMAS A. RILEY '28
Mustard and Cress

President Sills translated, for his Literature class, Montaigne's definition of "friendship" thus: "thunder duty"; "Because it is him, because it is me." Harry Davis will now sing a song entitled "Mr. Jones from Bowdoin."

One of our brilliant professors who makes funny cracks which are sometimes funny, but mostly sometimes, referred to our little "Flower Tide" appearing in these columns last week, as a "heavy parody". Through this statement the dear professor unconsciously admits something that he would probably deny were he accused of it, and demonstrates effectively the uselessness of trying to pick figs from thistles, or trying to plant roses in a desert. Were we trying to parody the Quixote poem, we insist that we could have done a better job, for even though these professors may give us D's and E's now and then, there are some things that we know more about than they do. Of the truth herein the present object made probation.

We attempted to point out something that we didn't like in poetry, and the result was that we were given an opportunity to point out something that we don't like in professors. There is nothing any sorer than the sight of a con-dog barking up the wrong tree, unless it's a fox-dog out hunting rabbits. There's an awful surprise coming for some one without doubt.

We do not blame people if they disagree with us in literary criticism, but it is rather disgusting to have a self-styled ignoramus rise in his intelligence and rail at you for something you never thought of, even though the end result is less distressing to you than it is to him. "A wise man opposes to his own counsel" presupposes that a wise man has a soul to keep.

EIGHT WOMEN HAVE RECEIVED DEGREES FROM THE COLLEGE

Since the founding of Bowdoin College in 1794, there have been only eight honorary degrees conferred upon women. To be chosen one of the eight recipients of an honorary degree is an unusual honor when one considers the minimum number of awards in comparison with the number of years reaching back to 1794. The recipients were Sarah Orne Jewett, Kate Douglas Wiggin, Lydia Moulton Chadwick, Annie Crosby Allison, Ida Josephine Everett, Heloise Edwina Hersey, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, and Alice Mary Longfellow. It is interesting to note that no honorary degree was conferred by the College prior to 1909 and that no woman has received a degree since 1925.

Sarah Orne Jewett, the first woman to be honored by Bowdoin College, was the daughter of Dr. Theodore Harmon Jewett, a physician of note and a member of the staff of the Bowdoin Medical School. The larger part of her education was at home although she intermittently attended local schools. She became known through her writings of articles and books. From 1881 she wrote abundantly while enjoying the favor of Mr. and Mrs. Fields, editors of the Atlantic Monthly, and the fellowships of the best literary critics. In 1901, Bowdoin College conferred on her the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters. Thus Sarah Orne Jewett was the first of her sex to be given a degree by this conservative institution. Her works were those concerning Maine characters and Maine life are perhaps the most prominent. She passed beyond in 1909 at her homestead in South Berwick after sixty years of devotion to her calling.

Kate Douglas Wiggin Riggs The second woman whom the College honored was Kate Douglas Smith, born in 1857 as the daughter of Robert N. Smith. She gained her early education at Abbott Academy before journeying west to pursue her career in California after attending Santa Barbara College. She attracted national attention by the progressive methods she employed as the founder of Silver Street Kindergarten in San Francisco.

Following her first marriage in 1880 she devoted herself to literary pursuits. She married George Christopher Riggs six years after the death of her first husband in 1885.

She is best known through her story "Rabbits" of Sunbrook Farm, "Homespun Tales," and her autobiography, "My Garden of Memories," written in 1923. Many of her words have been translated into Swedish, German, Italian, French and Japanese.

Bowdoin College conferred on her the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature in 1904.

Mrs. Riggs left the College a sum of money upon her death in 1923. Through her sister, Nora Archibald Smith, the College was given nearly three hundred autographed books and a collection of scrap books which may be found in the "Kate Douglas Wiggin" collection in the library.

Incidentally the annual Hawthorne Prize for the best short story, open to the Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores, was established by Nora A. Smith in memory of her sister, Mrs. Riggs.

Lydia Moulton Chadwick The third woman, Lydia Moulton Chadwick, received the degree of Master of Arts from the College in 1910. She was born at Saco in 1847, educated at home and in Germany. She devoted her life to teaching and taught classical and modern languages at Saco High School and Thornton Academy. She died in North Carolina in 1924.

Annie Crosby Allison Another Maine girl who gave her life to the undecided as to the college, she graduated from Bryn Mawr in 1892 and gained her degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1896. For three years she taught at the University of Wisconsin and from 1900-05 she was professor of Latin and dean of the Women's College at Brown University. In 1905, she married Professor Francis Greenleaf Allison.

Bowdoin College conferred on her the degree of Doctor of Literature in 1911.

Ida Josephine Everett Ida Josephine Everett was born at Walpole, Mass., in 1860. Following her graduation from Mt. Holyoke in 1883 with the degree of B.L., she taught at the University of California for eight years. In 1901 she commenced graduate work at Oxford, returning in 1902 to pursue her studies at the Yale Graduate School until 1905. She taught at Wheaton Seminary for two years. In 1905 she was chosen dean. Bowdoin College conferred on her the honorary degree of Master of Arts in 1911.

Heloise Edwina Hersey Little information is to be found about the sixth recipient of a Bowdoin degree. Heloise Edwina Hersey, born in 1855, graduated from Vassar in 1876 and became a professor at Smith from 1878-1883. Since 1899 she has been a writer and lecturer. She was awarded the honorary degree of Master of Arts in 1921.

Rose Hawthorne Lathrop The youngest daughter of Nathaniel Hawthorne was born in Massachusetts. Her education was entirely European as she studied in England, Portugal, London and Dresden. Rose Hawthorne became the wife of George Parsons, author of a note, in 1871. Upon the death of her husband and her son she joined the Catholic sisterhood, in 1889. She devoted her life in service to the poor of New York, establishing two hospitals and a home for the cancerous poor.

In June 1925, on the 100th anniversary of her father's graduation from

FOOTBALL PRACTICE CONTINUES IN SPIRE OF BAD HANDICAPS

Work Will Start a Week Earlier Than Usual Next Fall

Though handicapped by other Spring sports, Coach Charlie Bowser has been putting his football hopefuls through their paces during the past few weeks at Pickard Field. Bowser and his assistant, John Roberts, have been working hard with the candidates who have turned out, but have not accomplished much as they expected due to the aforesaid sports.

Sometimes going as large as 18 or 20 and other times numbering only 6 or 8, the daily squads have averaged around 12. For this reason, most of the work has been confined to individual play and fundamentals. On days when there were enough men out to form a team, Bowser has worked through their paces during the past few weeks at Pickard Field. Bowser and his assistant, John Roberts, have been working hard with the candidates who have turned out, but have not accomplished much as they expected due to the aforesaid sports.

Although he has not yet definitely decided as to when the practice sessions will end, the new coach announced that no work will be done after Ivy. Continuation of the Spring training will depend upon the interest shown by the squad as a whole and as long as there are men willing to go out Bowser and Roberts will be there to direct them.

From the sample jerseys which recently arrived and are now being considered, it is evident that the Polar Bears will present a flashy outfit. The new uniforms are expected to be to be ordered and the White will be wearing the latest styles in football paraphernalia when they take the field for the first time under the new regime.

Coach Bowser announced that Fall practice will begin a week earlier than the usual custom and the squad will probably be called out sometime around September. This will give them a good two weeks' drill before the opening of College and three or four weeks before the first game.

Sub-Fresh, Guests

(Continued from page 1)
"Professor Rabbit" is our ideal type of "dear professor" and spoke and thought as thoughtlessly as we sometimes wish instructors would. The class presented as heterogeneous a group as one could hope for. Drunk, stung and various unmentionables were present (somewhat exaggerated, we hope). Someone in a skirt, but looking strikingly like "Pinkie" Flinn, appeared on the stage for the first time. The sketch was brought to a violent conclusion by the appearance of a miniature of a certain article which has recently graced the campus in front of the library.

In the Psi U. sketch attention was most attracted by "Brew" Fuller wearing his blue what-you-may-call-ems. This school soon degenerated into an exciting game of "Farmer in the Dell."

From the five acts which had been presented on the stage of Memorial Hall, the winner was chosen after much discussion by the judges. Professor Stanley B. Smith, Mr. A. B. Holmes, and Jud the Barber.

President Sills speaks

In chapel Saturday morning, the President replaced the Dean's usual talk by one especially interesting to the sub-freshmen. He said that many students come to college because of curiosity to see what college life is like. But the only legitimate purpose, he said, was that of absorbing as much knowledge as possible.

Although many more preparatory school men were expected to visit Bowdoin, there were only fifty-six on campus. But coming as it does during the regular school work, this event can only be attended by those living near the college. Likewise many fellows are still undecided as to the college which they will attend next fall. Therefore there was no general surprise at the small number accepting the opportunities offered.

BOWDOIN LANDMARK PASSES

One of the oldest friends of Bowdoin College has passed away. Standing for over a hundred years, the old elm at the south-east end of Winthrop Hall, after seeing countless events of tragedy and comedy, finally succumbed to Time last week.

Giving up his attempt to count the rings in the old trunk, Philip S. Wilder estimated that the tree was somewhat over a hundred years old and surmised that it had been planted at the time of the building of the first dormitory. Imagine the "proc" nights, the freshman-sophomore battles, the Ivy Days that it has seen. Imagine the fence for a pretty picture, Longfellow's room to see the future proc in his red-flannels. But its end was tragic. After all those years, to pass away on the very eve of an event which was at least equal to anything it ever witnessed, the abduction of a flagpole.

The tree seemed as attached to the intimate scenes around it as we were attached to the tree. Reluctantly did its roots under the wall and the stress of a block and tackle. Science triumphed over age, but the tree's familiar trunk will long be remembered by the students who have enjoyed its shade.

Bowdoin, she received the honorary degree of Master of Arts.

Alice Mary Longfellow In 1860, Alice Longfellow was born at the Longfellow home in Cambridge. She was one of the first students at Radcliffe becoming a member of the Board of Associates in her later life. She pursued graduate work at Cambridge and Bowdoin College conferred on her the honorary degree of Master of Arts in 1925.

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable
BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers
16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY
Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

New England Trip

(Continued from Page 1)
four starts on its road trip by overwhelming Northeastern 11 to 3, in a heavy hitting fray at Huntington Field, Friday. The slugging Polar Bears touched the two Husky twirlers for 16 hits while Howie Skiles allowed nine well scattered bingles.

McKown's home run to deep left in the sixth with the bases loaded clinched the game for the visitors, who started off with a three run lead in the second inning, adding one more in the third and fifth and six more in the sixth.

Gross, freshman catcher, broke the ice for the Huskies in the fifth with a long home along the right field foul line.

It was a big day again with the club for Urban and McKown each garnering four hits out of five chances.

Jumbo Humbles Polar Bear Tufts took their sixth straight victory from Bowdoin on Saturday at the latter, playing practically flawless ball behind the effective pitching of Lou Adams.

The Jumbos took the lead in the first when Souther had difficulty in finding the plate and issued three passes and from then on were never headed. The home club tallied once again in the succeeding frame on Adams' double and Dwyer's overthrow to second.

Bowdoin made a strong bid to break down the lead in the fourth as Dwyer lengthened Whittier's single on his sacrifice hit and Urban and Chalmers contributed a single and a double respectively. The rally was cut short by the umpire who called Rose out on a third strike that was but inches out of the dust. The calibre of the officiating throughout the entire game, especially behind the plate, was not by any means excellent.

The Hill-siders tallied in the next two innings and then settled down to get the game over with. It looked like a seven-for-five for the Black when Tom Chalmers opened up with a double, a pass. Rose popped out to second but everything seemed rosy as the slugging McKown caught hold of one of Adams' slants and drove it against the fence for a pretty picture, sending Chalmers across the platter. Yet 'twas ruled that the mighty "McGillivray" had neglected to make the necessary contact with second on his one-stop light so the ace was trumped and the bid busted wide open.

Again in the eighth things started to look-up for the visitors by virtue of successive singles on the part of Dwyer and Urban with Whittier on base. A close play at home killing off Whittier after a beautiful throw from right field snuffed all hopes.

A feature of the game was the remarkably small number of outfield put outs, Tufts making three, while the Bowdoin outer gardeners did not have a single chance.

SECOND TEAM GAME

(Continued from Page 1)
McKown, 3b 1 1 1 0 0 0
Means, 3b 4 2 2 3 2 0
Ricker, cf 1 1 1 0 0 0
Bell, cf 3 3 1 0 0 0
Barstow, lf 3 0 1 0 0 0
Clark, 2b 3 1 2 0 0 0
McLachlan, c 3 1 0 0 0 0
Smith, c 1 0 0 0 0 0
Travers, p 1 0 0 0 0 0
Boucher, p 2 0 1 0 0 0
Brown, p 1 0 0 0 0 0
Totals 38 13 16 21 6 2

Brunswick High

Bouchard, ss 4 1 0 0 2 0
Abelton, cf 4 0 1 0 0 0
Tetreault, 2b 4 0 1 0 0 0
Tomko, c 3 0 1 0 0 1
Wakely, rf 3 0 0 1 0 0
Racine, lf 3 0 0 2 0 0
Gagnon, lb 3 0 3 0 0 0
Marriner, 3b 3 0 0 2 0 0
Messier, p 1 0 0 0 1 0
Foster, p 2 1 0 0 0 0
Totals 30 2 2 18 3 1

Bowdoin 4 3 0 5 10 -13
Brunswick 0 0 0 0 0 2 -2
Two base hits, Parmenter 2, Shute 2, Bell 2, Home runs—Shute, Bell, Stolen bases, Parmenter, Rose, Shute 2, McKown, Ricker, Bell 2, Bouchard, Foster 2, Sacrifices—Bell, Barstow, Bass on balls, off Messier 2 in 3 innings, off Foster 4 in 4 innings, off Travers 2 in 2 innings, off Brown 4 in 4 innings. Struck out, by Travers 2, by Bouchard 2, by Brown 2, by Messier 1, by Foster 4. Time, 1:50. Umpire, Dwyer.

STATE TRACK TITLE DECIDED HERE TOMORROW

WHITE SLUGS BATES IN EIGHTH INNING RALLY

Maine, Colby, And Bates All Tumble Before Fighting Houser Outfit - Bowdoin Playing Great Ball

POLAR BEARS LEAD SERIES

Returning from an eminently successful New England trip the Bowdoin Polar Bear nine has once again invaded the home hunting grounds to defeat the Maine Bears 5-1, and the Colby Mule 10-8. The team further assured its position in the top berth of the Maine State Series at Pickard Field, Monday, by handing Bates an 8-2 licking. A weird eighth inning rally brought on by an epidemic of errors in the Garnet infield pulled Bowdoin out of the ruck.

Donham, a freshman, held the hard hitting White batsmen to three scattered bingles until the next to last inning when his teammates fell sorry victims to the novel strain of maintaining the large end of the score. Whittier hit to Bornstein at short who failed to make connections and the circus was on. Dwyer laid down a pretty sacrifice bunt and Whittier perched on second. Luke Urban slashed a mean roller to the rotund Garnet horn corner guardian and was safe as the ball eluded his clutch. Another bad bit of judgment filled the bases when Shute grounded to Flynn at third and the attempt to nip Whittier off the bag was unsuccessful. Bornstein contributed an additional mislay on Rose's roller and Whittier romped home with the tying run. Sid McKown gave the visitors their next chance to throw the ball about and the score mounted to 4-2. Chalmers was unlucky and was thrown out by Bornstein. Southern and Ricker followed with Texas leaguers which, incidentally, were the only genuine hits in the entire seven run rally. Dwyer closed festivities by fanning and Bowdoin was sitting pretty on 8-2 score.

Bates opened the game by accounting for a tally through Bornstein's walk and Casaradin's double. Parmenter turned in a sparkling bit of ground work on Rinaldi's smothered, as our alumni have done, would have developed into another run. The White Bears retaliated in exactly the same manner to even the score. Ricker drew a pass and was pushed about by Dwyer's timely double.

Southern hurled masterfully for Bowdoin and Donham became effective as he gained confidence. Putnam was made in rapid fashion until Bates pulled into the lead in the fifth by a lone tally resulting from three hits. Hedderick's opening single was lucky, for a particularly bad hop to right field. The lanky Luce bunted Hedderick to second and Donham surprised all concerned by singling over second, scoring Hedderick. This ended Bates' base running for the day. Bowdoin's half of the seventh looked productive for a while when Chalmers walked and was shoved to second by Southern's sacrifice. Ricker faced Donham and although due for a hit his contribution was a roller to the opposing moundsman which was converted into an easy putout.

The big eighth inning changed the tone of the situation in no little way. The lads from Lewiston blew wide open and Bowdoin started to get on. Bowdoin's stuff. The work done in this frame cinched the game and more securely embedded Bowdoin in the State Series lead. Friday's affair with Maine gives the White opportunity to clinch the championship in certainty.

BOWDOIN 10 - COLBY 8

The Bowdoin Bears battered their way into the lead of the State Series at Waterville last Saturday by defeating the Colby Mules 10-8 in one of the wildest slugfests seen this season. Bowdoin was victorious as a result of sheer hitting strength in the pinches, collecting nineteen safeties.

The feature of the game aside from Deeken's two home runs and Shute's circuit smash was the flashy unassisted double play turned in by Whittier in the ninth when Colby had the bases loaded with only one out. Klusick drove a vicious line drive in the direction of the Bowdoin shortstop that had all the looks of a safe hit but Whittier went up in the air, snared it and touched Karkos on his way to third. If necessary, an unassisted triple play would have been easy meat for the runner stationed on third base before the double killing had streaked for home as soon as Karkos connected with the ball. In any event it was a handsome termination of a dangerous situation.

The Colby team started off in formidable fashion by tallying three runs in the first after the Bears had been to bat. Davan reached first on a scratch hit and Donovan followed him by virtue of Whittier's boot. Lovett received a walk after Roberts and Klusick had been thrown out and the bases were filled. Ferguson did the bases

DR. REILAND, NOTED CLERGYMAN, TO TALK HERE NEXT SUNDAY

On Sunday, May 18, Dr. Karl Reiland, well-known clergyman and divinity student, the rector of St. George's Church in New York City, will deliver the address. He is the guest in Maine of Mr. Henry H. Pierce.

Dr. Reiland has had a long experience as pastor of several churches, following an extensive period of study in various schools. He was born in Brooklyn and has centered a great deal of his attention around New York. He first went to school at Trinity College, Connecticut, and following his graduation there went to a theological seminary in Alexandria, Virginia, and later to the Berkeley Divinity School at Middletown, Conn. Dr. Reiland since received degrees from Trinity and Hobart Colleges.

Upon finishing his schooling, he became the rector of Trinity Church in Westfield, Connecticut. A few years later he was the assistant pastor at Grace Church in New York, from which position he became rector at St. Andrew's Church in Yonkers. Since 1912 he has been the pastor of St. George's Church of New York. He is recognized as a fine speaker and is expected to furnish a high point in the chapel services.

BOWDOIN GOLF TEAM ON ANNUAL CIRCUIT

The golf team led by Ray Deston left this week on its annual southern New England invasion. The team consists of some of the most powerful collegiate foursomes in the East. The White contingent is, however, confident of maintaining or bettering last year's record of four wins out of six starts.

Thursday, the 15th, opened the tour with a match against Worcester Polytechnic at the Wachusett C. C. and today finds the Bowdoin outfit playing Holy Cross on the same course. On Saturday the team stacks up against M. I. T. at Weston Country Club. Further efforts will be at the Union, Stoneham, with Tufts on Monday and the formidable Brown University unit will be the opposition Tuesday, at the Agawam Hunt Club links in Providence.

The Bowdoin team, according to all early season indications, is well-balanced and strong. The addition of Dick Mullin, holder of the Chicago Junior District championship, to Deston, and Dillbeck, veterans of last season's campaign, bolsters up the threat of the Polar Bears considerably. Much is expected of Johnnie De Meyer who has displayed a fine brand of golf all Spring.

NEW ADDRESS LIST SHOWS ALUMNI ARE WIDELY SCATTERED

Only Three States of Union Without Bowdoin Alumni

An address list of alumni of the college has been prepared for distribution from data found in the files of the Alumni Office. This volume contains the addresses for all living graduates and non-graduates of the college and is intended for all living graduates of the Medical School of Maine. This list, compiled as accurately as possible, reveals the fact that there are 4396 such alumni of the college. From the oldest graduate, Rev. Ebenezer Bean, A. A. of Walnut Hill, Maine, to the members of the last graduating class, the alumni are found to be distributed throughout the world.

As might be expected, the largest number, 1646, now reside in Maine, while Massachusetts follows in the list of states with 1030 alumni. The state of New York has the next greatest number, 440, while Connecticut stands in fourth position. A big surprise was found in the report from California, in which state 121 alumni reside, giving this far-western state the fifth-greatest representation of alumni.

Three of the states are not represented.

SMALL AUDIENCE HEARS COLE LECTURE GIVEN BY WELL KNOWN EDITOR

Allen Johnson, Editor of Dictionary of American Biography, Speaks on "Biography—Old and New".

EMPHASIZES REALISM

A lecture, "Biography—Old and New", was thoroughly enjoyed by a rather small audience in Memorial Hall on the evening of May 12. The speaker, Allen Johnson, L.L.D., who gave this annual Annie Talbot Cole Lecture, is a well-known authority on the subject of his address, being the editor of the Dictionary of American Biography.

The speaker presented the growth and change in English biography and illustrated them by readings from various biographies. He emphasized the realism which is found in the modern books of this type.

Since Mr. Johnson is so interested in the topic which he presented, this interest was shared by the audience who left the lecture with a new conception of biography. The donor of the lecture, Annie Talbot Cole, had expressed the sentiment that life is a grand adventure and this thought was carried throughout the address.

Allen Johnson's Lecture

Mr. Johnson began his address by stressing the importance of biography. In recent years, he said, an extraordinary number of books on biographical subjects have been written. During 1929, over six hundred and fifty such works appeared in the United States, a number larger than in any previous year. The history of the world is the history of great leaders, said Carlisle, and the speaker showed the truth of this statement. The lives of men are often directed by fate and the general social laws of the world. So the younger historians have become disinterested in the individual and occupy themselves with group action.

But in spite of this, there is a reaction directed toward the individual as a natural reaction. In all the changes in social groups since the beginning of the world, all people have followed the leadership of one strong individual, usually rather radical, if not abnormal. Biography deals with such exceptional individuals and their achievement in the higher creative works, such as art, science, music, etc.

(Continued on page 2)

WHITE SWAMPS TUFTS TRACK TEAM 102³ - 32³

Bowdoin Piles Up Enormous Score. Making Clean Sweeps in 226-Yard Dash, 600-Yard Run, Pole Vault, and Hammer—Tufts Gains But Three Firsts.

SEVERAL WIN LETTERS

Jack Magee's track and field men completely buried the Tufts team last Saturday at Medford 102-3 to 32-3. This was the first meet of the year for the Tufts team, and the Bowdoin men gave them a severe drubbing. Bowdoin made a clean sweep in four events: 220 yard dash, 880 yard run, pole vault, and hammer, while Tufts was able to win only three first places.

The times in this meet, were all slow and none of the winners were pushed a great deal, in most cases they had everything their own way. The Bowdoin team may be expected to show up well in the State meet, which will take first places in them. This week, although it would take some fine reckoning to figure out how Bowdoin is going to win the state title, there are several events in which Bowdoin has some strong men who will probably take first places in them. Bowdoin is unusually strong in the hurdles both high and low, and in the hammer, while she will also probably show up well in the dashes. The competition last Saturday was quite naturally far inferior to anything that Bowdoin will run up against next Saturday.

Bowdoin started off with a bang and took first and second in the 100 yard sprint. Foster and Johnson placing respectively. In the mile run Usher and Cobb walked away from the competitors to come in for a tie for first place. Ben Jenkins won the 120 yard high hurdles while two Tufts men took second and third. McLaughlin had hard luck in this event. He got tangled up with the hurdles in some way and fell and skinned both knees rather badly, but not so badly out what he could go out and win the low hurdles. The two mile run proved to be the most thrilling race of the day. The men were fairly well bunched during the first mile, but after that Wiles and Laverne began to pull ahead of the other two men. Wiles stepped ahead and took a ten yard lead which he held until the last lap. Then Laverne began his final sprint, which if he had started it a minute sooner might have given him the race. As it happened both men dove into the

(Continued on Page 4)

PALE BLUE COHORTS TO DEFEND CHAMPIONSHIP LAURELS WON LAST YEAR

Chapman of Bates to Run Half and Quarter. Galbraith Follows in Tootell's Tracks. Stanwood and MacLaughlin May Sweep Hurdles

BOWDOIN STRONG IN HURDLES AND HAMMER

With all prayers finally registered, and the dope sheets drifting across the office like a Montana blizzard, we rise to state our own personal opinion as to what's going to take place on Whittier Field tomorrow when the University of Maine begins to defend the state track title that it wrested from the White a year or so ago.

In the first place, Bowdoin's progress is going to be from the rear, and more or less resemble that of a man gently applying a ten pound sledge to the base of another fellow's skull. Heaped second and third places will make up in some measure for the lack of outstanding distance runners, javelin and discus men, and broad and high-jumpers. In the hurdles especially Jack Magee's charges, led by Stanwood and MacLaughlin, should spread a trail of firsts and seconds behind them.

TRUSTEES, FACULTY, AND STUDENTS WILL CONFER TOMORROW

Representatives of the trustees, overseers, Alumni Council, faculty, and undergraduates will enjoy a luncheon in the Union tomorrow. Brought together under the auspices of the Alumni Council, they will join in a discussion of various college topics.

Many of the criticisms of college may be traced to lack of agreement between those governing the school, the faculty, and the undergraduates. Trustees do not understand the faculty and the overseers are seldom considered by the students. The Saturday luncheon is an attempt to bring together the opinions of these groups, said Philip Wilder, Alumni Secretary. This conference is an experiment. In former years formal meetings have been held where much time has been lost in lengthy speeches and little work has been accomplished. Under the new type of meeting, at each table there will sit representatives of the governing board, the faculty, and the students, who may do or discuss what they wish. It is believed that more intimate opinion and information will be thus obtained. After the luncheon those attending will see the Maine State Intercollegiate Track Meet.

LOYALTY SUBJECT OF SUNDAY CHAPEL TALK

President Names Five Distinguished Men Rendering Unselfish Service

In Sunday chapel President Sills spoke on the general subject of Loyalty. In the beginning he mentioned Dante's Inferno in which all those who were disloyal were placed in the lowest circle. He said a selfish man is seldom found to be a loyal friend although loyalty is based on emotion. We never should be ashamed of home or country, for they should be among our most cherished possessions.

In colleges, he went on, men should not allow their loyalty to be dried up for it is there that men should most appreciate the benefits they have received. Disloyalty in the United States are exploiters working for self gain, who put rights of property before rights of man. This type has no interest in civic betterment, he continued. There are two other points of view which represent disloyalty: one, "the getting by attitude" and the other, the cynical view. The first shows absolute lack of moral responsibility while the second sneers at idealism and is lacking in moral stamina.

The president then named five men who he feels are rendering great public service with no thought for personal gain. They are Herbert Hoover, Alfred E. Smith, Charles Evans Hughes, Dwight Morrow, and Owen D. Young, each of whom rose from boyhood hardship coupled with religious respect. In conclusion he quoted the words "Give us grateful hearts, oh Lord, and fit us for Thy service."

YANNIGANS MURDER LISBON FALLS HIGH IN 9 TO 3 CARNIVAL

You can do a lot with just attack and nothing else. That was demonstrated for the ten million time last Thursday when the Bowdoin Yannigans fell on the neck of Lisbon Falls high and one Gaspovich, pitcher. During the course of the afternoon's festivities Ben Houser's midgits committed nine errors, garnered nine runs, and slapped out eighteen hits, including four doubles and a triple. Boucher and Brown walked six men, struck out eleven, and allowed one lonely safety, to the second man up of the afternoon. There was no "big inning" for the White, they were all be-mumped with runs, except the

There is no doubt, of course, that the injury of Dan Johnson at the Tufts meet will warp Bowdoin's scoring considerably. Del Galbraith, one of the best hammer-throwers to turn up since Fred Tootell, should do about one hundred and fifty-five feet for a first in his event. Moulton, of Bates, did one hundred and fifty flat in the Bobcat-Brooklyn meet, and Phil Chapman will be in with bells on.

Ossie Chapman, sensational middle-distance runner from Bates, according to the latest report to come trickling down the river, will run both the quarter and the half. Foster has a handsome chance for second. Wakeley of Bates will push Hodiwickies of Colby for the other place.

Unless Chapman breaks a leg, his victory in the half mile is fairly certain. Rags Lind, his teammate, did a 2:01 2-5 the other day without any tangible training, and should get second, while Thistle and Cobb will decide who takes the third place for the White.

Hercules Webber of Maine tossed the lead out some forty-three feet five inches against Holy Cross, won the event, and will repeat tomorrow. The nearest man to bother him will be Gorham of Bates, who can do forty feet if he has to. Olson has a good chance for the place.

The White team definitely be out of the running in the javelin. Dave Means of the Freshmen did nearly one hundred and fifty feet against Tufts, but he would have to add thirty odd feet to that to meet the mark set by Ashworth of Maine in the Holy Cross meet. Jensen of Maine threw one hundred and seventy-four feet, and should place second. Tommy Teworothy, who broke the Colby record in the recent Interfraternity Meet at Waterville, may push the Mules into a second here, but will have to do better than his mark-setting hundred and seventy-two.

Lindsay and Brooks, Richardson and Gunning, may be the finishing order in the mile and two mile. Usher will run his heart out to place in the mile, but a second is doubtful. In the two mile Norm Whitten, baby marathon jaunter, should take a third for the Garnet.

In the pole vault and high jump, nearly anything can happen. O'Connor, Burnham, Cozzzo and Chase, all of Maine, formed a corporation in the Holy Cross shindig and tied for first at 5 feet six and one half inches. There should be a first and second there, and Stanwood has a good chance for a third, though either Knowlton of Bates or Glazier of Colby can push him. The same situation exists in the pole vault, where Dill has a good chance. Burnham of Maine will do 11 feet, 3 inches for a second. Williams of Bowdoin may be third. Westcott, star pale blue vaulter, has been injured.

The Dope Sheet

Just one thing about the dope sheet. Don't think that we're seeing ourselves up as any 99 and 44-100 percent critics, for we know that anything can and does happen in track. Colby will certainly take more than two points, but probably not more than ten. The purpose of the dope sheet is rather than to forecast the result of

(Continued on Page 4)

CALENDAR

May 17—State Track Meet at Bowdoin; Luncheon; Conference at Union.
May 18—Dr. Reiland in chapel.
May 19—Professor E. K. Rand, Phi Beta Kappa lecturer, "Virgil and Dante".
May 20—Baseball, Maine at Brunswick.
May 20—Bradbury Prize Debate, 8 p.m.
May 23—Baseball, Bates at Brunswick.

THE DOPE SHEET

Bowdoin	Maine	Bates	Colby
100 YARD DASH	Stymest (3)—10 1-5 Knes (1)—10 White (3)	100 YARD DASH	Martin—10 2-5 Giles
220 YARD DASH	Foster (3)—22 1-5 Tarbell Blaine Gatchell	220 YARD DASH	Martin—22 3-5 Giles
440 YARD RUN	Foster (3)—50 4-5 Gatchell	440 YARD RUN	Hedderick (3)—53 4-5 Harbick
880 YARD RUN	Thistlewaite (3)—2:04 Cobb	880 YARD RUN	Caddoo—2:06 2-5 Hodiwickies—2:06 2-5
1 MILE RUN	Usher (3)—4:36 Lowell	1 MILE RUN	Caddoo—4:45 Batten
2 MILE RUN	Lavender (3)—9:24 Sewall	2 MILE RUN	Clement Cabana
120 YARD HIGH HURDLES	Stanwood (1)—15 4-5 MacLaughlin (2)—15 4-5 Jenkins (2)—15 4-5	120 YARD HIGH HURDLES	Fletcher—16 2-5
226 YARD LOW HURDLES	MacLaughlin (1)—25 3-5 Stanwood (1)—25 3-5 Briggs (2)—25 4-5	226 YARD LOW HURDLES	Fletcher—26 1-5 Williams
16 POUND SHOT	Olson (2)—36 ft. Johnson—39 ft.	16 POUND SHOT	Sprague
16 POUND HAMMER	Galbraith (1)—152 ft. Chapman (3)—146 ft. Thayer Ray	16 POUND HAMMER	Sprague Lant
DISCUS THROW	Olson—126 ft. 9 in. Goveil (1)—142 ft. 4 in. Curtis (3)—184 ft. 2 in.	DISCUS THROW	Arber
JAVELIN THROW	Means—144 ft. 9 in. Bell—129 ft.	JAVELIN THROW	Trewoy (2)—172 ft. 2 in.
HIGH JUMP	Stanwood (1)—6 ft. 4 in. Jenkins (2)—5 ft. 11 in. Cushman (2)—5 ft. 6 in.	HIGH JUMP	Glazier—6 ft. 6 in. Williams
BROAD JUMP	Seab (2)—21 ft. 5 in. Briggs—20 ft.	BROAD JUMP	Fletcher—20 ft. 3 in.
POLE VAULT	Appleton Williams (3)—11 ft.	POLE VAULT	Trewoy

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

Symmetric Golf Clubs at $3.50

Set of Five Related Irons . . $17.50

Have you tried the New Dunlop Ball at . . . 75c

Silver Kings . 85c Repaints . 25c, 30c, 40c

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

After The State Meet

Refresh Yourself at

THE COLLEGE SPA

Special Sale of Silver King Pizz, Mission Orange Dry, and Tom Collins, Jr., Ale.

RIGHT ACROSS FROM THE COLLEGE GATES

PI DELTA EPSILON
INITIATES CANDIDATES

The initiation of the new members to Pi Delta Epsilon was held yesterday afternoon. The candidates who were elected to the journalistic society are Artine Artinian of Attleboro, Mass., James Clapp of Chicopee Falls, Mass., John Lincoln Snider of Portland, Maine, Elias Thomas, Jr., also of Portland, and Paul A. Walker of Belmont, Mass. Fred R. Kleibacker of Pittsburgh, Pa., was recently initiated.

The Pi Delta Epsilon Society of Bowdoin is one of the many chapters of the journalistic fraternity throughout the country. Candidates are chosen from those men who have served two years as members of some undergraduate publication.

DEBATING COUNCIL
ELECTS OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

Paul A. Walker and Donald F. Prince to Lead Coming Activities

The Debating Council met Wednesday, May 14, for the election of officers for the coming season, and for the discussion of various other questions.

The Council voted to go on record as favoring two spring trips instead of the customary one of former years. In view of the successful trip this season, Bowdoin might do well to give more prominence to debating.

The office of President of the Council will be filled by Paul A. Walker next year. Walker has been one of the active members of the debating team, and has proven himself a valuable man on the platform. He is well qualified to head the organization.

Donald F. Prince will be the Manager for the 1930-31 season. His work in this activity and in others, notably the Bugle, should make him very capable of conducting a successful year. At this meeting the Council created the office of Assistant Manager, to remove some of the duties from the Manager's shoulders. The first incumbent of the newly made position will be A. S. Davis, Jr., a freshman. Davis has been very active this year in debating and other forms of speaking.

NOTICE

Theta Delta Chi's telephone number will be 8152 instead of 150 until further notice.

Manager's Report of Finances of The Bowdoin Publishing Co.
Year 1929-1930

RECEIPTS ON ORIENT:
Subscriptions	$1,225.85
Sales	35.45
Advertising	1,174.22
Miscellaneous	7.90
Interest on Savings Account	15.86
A. S. B. C.	$600.00
Total Receipts	$2,761.28
EXPENDITURES ON ORIENT:
Printing	$2,209.35
Cuts	17.45
Mailing	38.11
Miscellaneous	37.34
Total Expenditures	$2,302.15
Gross Profit on Orient	$459.13
Manager's Share of Profit	95.70
Net Profit on Orient	$363.43
EXPENDITURES ON ALUMNUS:
Printing	$1,055.24
Cuts	75.35
Mailing List Corrections	6.35
Mailing	8.48
Miscellaneous	37.34
Total Expenditures	$1,182.59
RECEIPTS ON ALUMNUS:
Subscriptions	$422.50
Sales and Advertising	48.81
Total Receipts	$471.31
Less on Alumnus	$206.10
Net Profit on Alumnus	$265.21
EXPENDITURES ON THE QUILL:
Mailing List Corrections	$ 5.00
Printing (May issue, 1929)	182.00
Mailing (May issue, 1929)	1.41
Scholarship to New Quill	200.00
Back subscription payment to Quill	14.25
Total Expenditures	$322.66
QUILL RECEIPTS:
Collections on back subscriptions	$ 11.00
Sales	10.81
Advertising	12.90
Total Receipts	$34.71
Less on Quill	$28.74
Received from Manager Scott	$1,194.95
Total Receipts	$1,194.95
Balance to Manager Artinian	$ 927.27
WILMOT B. MITCHELL, Faculty Auditor.	RALPH B. HITTLE, Manager.

Jug of Cider Former Lure to Create Interest in Track

Perhaps there is no more pertinent time than now for a view into the past concerning Bowdoin's track and field history.

Field and track contests began at Bowdoin in an extremely small way. On October 30, 1868, a "tournament" was held at the Topham Fair Grounds for the Championship of the College. The events were a 220 yard dash, a mile run, and a mile and a half walk. The next fall saw a more elaborate tournament on some eight events. For a few years meets were held both in the spring and fall, but in 1876 the fall meet was discontinued. Several colleges had abandoned fall meets, and the Orient approved of Bowdoin's action. The next year it changed its tune, however. It said "Of the three associations sustained by the student (boating, baseball, and track) this (track) is best calculated to promote health and manly vigor and we believe that there is a good deal of surplus vitality in college that might be worked off in this direction."

Attempt to incite interest

An attempt was made to incite interest in the contests by freak events, and for some years the meets included one or more of the following races, potato, wheelbarrow, sock, knapsack, hop, skip and jump, and three legged. These were for the benefit of the spectator. The contestants were lured by prizes, usually a jug of cider. To the winning class team was presented a jug of cider. On one occasion this resulted disastrously. It was the custom to choose the President of the Y. M. C. A. from the incoming Senior class. The class of '89 which appeared to have been an impulsive crew, had only one man in that worthy organization, he was also a member of the winning track team. Someone "doctored" the cider, the team celebrated the election, the man behaved as no Y. M. C. A. man should, and lost the Presidency. Being a good sport he declared he had rather have his fun with his class than hold any college honor.

In 1895 the Maine Intercollegiate field and track contests began and soon took the place of the Bowdoin field day, but later in 1902 class contests again made their appearance.

We reprint the spicy account of the first Maine Intercollegiate Meet as reported by the Orient in 1895.

Bowdoin Has Won State
Track Title 22 Times

Since the first State Track Meet was held in 1895, Bowdoin track squads have been in first place in 22 out of the 33 meets to date. In the number of firsts the White is far out ahead of the other colleges in the state. Maine being second with 10, and Bates a poor third with one. Colby has failed to get a first thus far.

With so many firsts Bowdoin naturally leads in the total number of points scored in the 33 meets with a grand aggregate of 1776 1-6. Maine is second in this department with 1255 1-6, Bates third with 720 5-6 and Colby fourth with 450.

Maine has scored the greatest number of second places with 16 to her credit. Bates is next with 10, and Bowdoin and Colby bring up in the rear with five and two respectively. Bates leads in the number of third places with 15 and Colby leads the fourth place scorers with 19. The highest score in a single meet was in 1896 when a powerful Bowdoin machine ran up 108 points, Bates being in second position that year with 13. The lowest score winning the meet is 41, Maine's total in 1911 and Bowdoin's in 1925. The smallest score of any team was hung up by Colby in 1902 when they could garner only one counter.

The meets of 1907 and 1925 were possibly the most exciting as far as closeness of scores goes, only one point separating Maine and Bowdoin in the former year and Bowdoin and Bates in the latter.

Bowdoin has the greatest number of successive victories, those nine straight hung up by the pupils of Jack Magee between the years 1919 and 1927. Maine won from 1914 to 1916, there being no meets during the war years 1917-1918.

The record of the meets to date is as follows:
1895—At Waterville—Bowdoin 99, Maine 16, Colby 11, Bates 9.
1896—At Waterville—Bowdoin 108, Bates 13, Colby 10, Maine 4.
1897—At Brunswick—Bowdoin 72, Bates 24, Maine 16, Colby 13.
1898—At Brunswick—Bowdoin 69, Maine 39, Bates 18, Colby 9.
1899—At Waterville—Bowdoin 75, Maine 38, Bates 19, Colby 3.
1900—At Brunswick—Bowdoin 92, Colby 17, Bates 13, Maine 12.
1901—At Orono—Bowdoin 89, Maine 31, Bates 10, Colby 5.
1902—At Lewiston—Maine 60, Bowdoin 57, Bates 8, Colby 1.
1903—At Brunswick—Bowdoin 67, Maine 16, Bates 11, Colby 2.
1904—At Waterville—Bowdoin 64, Maine 50, Bates 10, Colby 2.
1905—At Orono—Bowdoin 59, Maine 55, Colby 8, Bates 4.
1906—At Lewiston—Maine 51, Bowdoin 39, Bates 22, Colby 14.
1907—At Waterville—Maine 46, Bowdoin 45, Bates 23, Colby 11.
1908—At Brunswick—Bowdoin 58, Maine 48, Bates 18, Colby 2.
1909—At Orono—Bowdoin 63, Maine 35, Colby 12, Bates 11.
1910—At Lewiston—Bowdoin 49, Bates 37, Maine 28, Colby 12.
1911—At Waterville—Maine 41, Bates 39, Colby 30, Bowdoin 16.
1912—At Brunswick—Bates 43, Maine 39, Colby 26, Bowdoin 18.
1913—At Orono—Maine 47, Bates 38, Colby 19, Bowdoin 17.
1914—At Lewiston—Maine 54, Colby 37, Bowdoin 21, Bates 13.
1915—At Waterville—Maine 60, Bowdoin 32, Colby 27, Bates 5.
1916—At Brunswick—Maine 61, Bowdoin 39, Colby 13, Bates 13.
1917-1918—No meets on account of war.
1919—At Orono—Bowdoin 73, Maine 36, Bates 17.
1920—At Lewiston—Bowdoin 45, Maine 31, Bates 16, Colby 25.
1921—At Brunswick—Bowdoin 44 1/2, Maine 28 1/2, Colby 26 1/2, Bates 26.
1922—At Waterville—Bowdoin 55 1/2, Bates 32, Maine 26 1/2, Colby 9.
1923—At Orono—Bowdoin 63, Maine 37, Bates 23, Colby 3.
1924—At Lewiston—Bowdoin 50, Maine 35, Bates 25, Colby 16.
1925—At Waterville—Bowdoin 41, Bates 40, Colby 27 1/2, Maine 26 1/2.
1926—At Brunswick—Bowdoin 53 1/2, Bates 37, Maine 33 1/2, Colby 11.
1927—At Orono—Bowdoin 51, Maine 46, Bates 29, Colby 9.
1928—At Lewiston—Maine 65 1/2, Bates 32 1/2, Bowdoin 27, Colby 10.
1929—At Waterville—Maine 81 1/2, Bates 27, Bowdoin 17 1/2, Colby 9 1/2.

PLAN INTELLIGENT
STUDENTS' TOUR OF SOCIALISM SOON

College students throughout the country are expressing keen interest in the first tour abroad arranged this summer by the League for Industrial Democracy in cooperation with the Open Road League to study the labor and Socialist movements of Europe. Tens of thousands of students each year visit Europe to gain knowledge of European culture of the past. This tour, which is described as An Intelligent Student's Tour of Socialism, aims to bring students in contact with the activities and achievements of cooperative, trade union and political labor organizations which are engaged in building the cooperative world of the future.

The group, which will be limited to 15, will be under the leadership of Dr. and Mrs. Harry W. Laidler. The party will leave New York on the new steamship Bremen on June 28 and return to America August 23, 1930. Its itinerary, just completed, will be as follows:

July 3 to 9—London
July 10 to 12—En route to Russia by the Baltic Route
July 13 to 26—Leningrad and Moscow
July 27 to 31—Berlin
July 31 to Aug. 5—Vienna
Aug. 6—Zurich
Aug. 7 to 10—Geneva, with one day excursion to Chamonix
Aug. 12 to 14—Paris
Aug. 15 to 23—Crossing to America

First Maine Intercollegiate Meet
June 8, 1895

"The first annual Field day of the Maine Intercollegiate Athletic Association was held on the new quarter mile cinder track on the Colby campus, Saturday, June 8th. As was expected it proved a complete walk-over for the Bowdoin athletes and we left only a third of the points to be divided among the other three Colleges. Over one hundred Bowdoin men accompanied the team in special cars and Bowdoin owned Waterville for that day and evening. It was a gala day for the wearers of the white, and shows well our relative standing in Maine in the most popular branch of athletics.

Bowdoin scored in 14 of the 16 events, won 13 firsts, 8 seconds, and 10 thirds. Soule in the long run, Horne in the sprints and hurdles, and Bates in the field events did the great work of the afternoon. The puncturing of Stearns' tire prevented us from scoring in the bicycle race. New Bowdoin records were made in the Pole Vault, 120 yard hurdles, and throwing the hammer, and in the latter Kimball also took the New England Intercollegiate record. The distance for the 16 lb hammer was 113 ft., 6 in.

Some of the times were 100 yard dash 11 seconds
Half mile run 2 minutes, 13 1-4 seconds
120 yard hurdles 17 seconds
Two mile bicycle race 5 minutes, 42 seconds
440 yard dash 33 3-4 seconds
Mile run 4 minutes, 52 1-2 seconds
220 yard dash 23 seconds
220 yard hurdles 30 1-2 seconds
Mile walk 8 minutes, 23 1-2 seconds
Two mile run 10 minutes, 29 1-2 seconds
Pole Vault 9 feet, 8 inches.
16 lb. shot 35 feet, 1 inch.
Running high jump 5 feet, 4 1-2 inches
Running broad jump 20 feet, 2 1-2 inches.

Editor's Note: The material for the first part of this article has been taken from Louis Clinton Hatch's book, The History of Bowdoin College. The latter part of this material comes from the Orient of June 19, 1895.

P. C. A.

COLLEGE RECEIVES
ANONYMOUS GIFT

On May eighth the college received a gift of five hundred dollars from an anonymous donor, to be used for the encouragement of undergraduate interest in international affairs. The gift, the source of which has been kept generally unknown, is placed in the hands of the President who is given the power to use the funds as he desires. President Sills stated that the money will be spent in bringing international affairs closer to the minds and thoughts of the student body.

Part of the gift will be used each year, either in sending delegates to model League of Nations assemblies, or in instituting such assemblies or other conferences on current topics at Bowdoin. Whether the principal of the sum or only the interest from it is to be used, has not been decided.

FAMOUS EXPLORER WHO SPOKE HERE
LAST YEAR DEAD

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, famous explorer, statesman, and humanitarian, who, it will be remembered, spoke here last year, died recently in Oslo, Norway. He was known around the world for his explorations in the Arctic. His lecture here last year was the first to be delivered on his American tour. At that time he was planning a Polar expedition in the Graf Zeppelin for the spring of this year, but it is later had to be given up because of lack of financial backing.

As a statesman he made a high place for himself, serving as the first Norwegian minister to England and as a representative to the League of Nations. For his work of repatriation of World War prisoners and the protection of Christian refugees in Armenia Dr. Nansen received the Nobel Peace Prize.

PROCTORS FOR NEXT YEAR ARE CHOSEN

The proctors for next year have recently been named and their districts of surveillance allotted. In Winthrop Sid Foster and Bob Ecke will be in charge, and barring the event of another Pro Night battle on the top floor, peace and order should reign supreme.

Maine, ably aided for this year by Lancaster and Soule, will fall to Herb Rose and Jim Flint. Hayes and Appleton will stalk about Appleton Hall and try to keep the famous bull-sessions under control. Hyde Hall, whose peace is only occasionally disturbed by wars with Appleton, will be left to the guardianship of Paul Walker and Bob DeGray.

In each country an endeavor will be made to see the leaders of thought and to visit significant institutions. Nor will the recreational side be lost sight of. A special leader will conduct the group in each country. The cost from New York and return will be $787. Further information may be secured from the League for Industrial Democracy, 112 East 19th street, New York City.

IVY

White Flannels

Linen Knickers

Sport Oxfords

Neckwear Shirts

Sweaters Golf Hose

HARMON'S
INCORPORATED

FORDHAM LAW SCHOOL
WOOLWORTH BUILDING
NEW YORK
CO-EDUCATIONAL
CASE SYSTEM
THREE YEAR COURSE
TWO YEARS
One Year of College Work
Required For Admission
MORNING, AFTERNOON AND
EVENING CLASSES
Write For Catalogue
Charles P. Davis, Registrar
Room 2861

IVY SUMMER TIES
Stripes — Dots — Solids
— Tux Bows —
EASTON 4 WINTHROP

How About Your College
Expenses for Next Year?

Write us immediately for a good money-making proposition selling (1) college and fraternity jewelry including class rings, (2) attractive high grade individual stationery printed to customer's order, (3) complete line of felt and leather goods, and (4) all styles of college belts carrying buckles with or without your college colors. In your letter, state which of the above four interests you, and be sure to give two references and your summer address.

INDIAN SALES AGENCY
Williamsburg, Va.

CUMBERLAND
Friday - May 16th
- VAUDEVILLE -

— on the screen —
SPRING IS HERE
— with —
Lawrence Gray - Alexander Gray
Bernice Claire
Also Paramount News

Saturday - May 17th
WILLIAM HAINES
— in —

THE GIRL SAID NO
Comedy Song Cartoon

Monday-Tuesday - May 19th-20th GOLD DIGGERS OF BROADWAY
Girls! - Songs! - Dances!
Color! Song Cartoon

Wednesday-Thursday - May 21-22
RONALD COLMAN
— in —

BULL DOG DRUMMOND
Comedy Sportlight

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

LYMAN B. CHIPMAN
PURE FOOD SHOP
Wholesale-Retail
574 Congress St., Portland, Me.

'Anything y'want Pressed?'
Give it to
LAVENDER OR ESTLE
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS AND GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates
of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.
Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

PRINTING . . .
of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.
Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.
QUALITY ALWAYS.
Brunswick Publishing Company
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets
Telephone Brunswick No. 3

BOX SCORE - MAINE GAME

	Bowdoin	ab	bb	po	a	e
Ricker, cf	2	2	0	1	0	0
Whittier, ss	5	1	2	1	5	0
Dwyer, c	4	0	0	9	1	0
Urban, lf	4	0	2	0	0	0
Chalmers, 2b	0	0	2	2	0	0
Rose, rf	3	1	2	0	0	0
McKown, 3b	4	0	0	0	0	0
Crimmins, 1b	2	1	0	1	1	0
Souther, p	4	0	1	1	5	0
Totals	32	5	7	27	13	1

	Maine	ab	bb	po	a	e
Plummer, ss	4	1	0	1	1	0
Smith, 1b	3	0	0	13	1	0
Hincks, cf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Wells, c	4	0	0	12	0	0
Wescott, 2b	4	0	1	1	6	0
Kiszonik, lf	3	0	0	0	0	0
Palmer, rf	2	0	0	0	0	0
Pratt, 3b	3	0	0	0	0	0
Brookway, lf	0	0	0	0	0	0
Taft, p	1	0	0	1	3	0
Perkins, p	2	0	0	2	0	0
Totals	30	1	3	27	14	1

Bowdoin 1 0 0 4 0 0 0 0—5
Maine 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1
Stolen base, Crimmins. Wild pitch, Perkins. Earned runs, Bowdoin five, Maine one. Three base hit, Hincks. Home run, Whittier. Two base hit, Rose. Base on balls, off Taft 7 in 3 and 2-3 innings. Off Souther 1 in 3 innings. Struck out, by Souther 10 in 3 innings, by Perkins 8 in 5 and 1-3 innings. Left on bases, Bowdoin 10, Maine 5. Umpires Kavanaugh and McFadden.

THETA DELTA CHI FAVORED TO TAKE
BASEBALL CROWN

At the end of the first round of the interfraternity baseball league completed last week, A.T.O., Non-fraternity, Zetas, Dekes, and Chi Psi have through their games on top and have entered the second round.

Theta Delta Chi started their second lap when they trounced the Dekes by a 17-11 score to win the right to enter the finals in their league. The winners bagged only three more hits than their opponents, but several errors by the Dekes fielders enabled last year's champions to run up the score. McCreery, Collins, French, and Cleaves each got two hits for the winners while Hedstrom and Crocker starred at bat for the Dekes.

Wednesday the Zetas and Chi Psi's met in the second round of their league. The winner in this game will meet the T.D.'s for the privilege of entering the playoffs for the championship. Yesterday found the T.D.'s in the final game of League A. The former are favored at this writing to renew their annual lease on the interfraternity championship.

CHI PSI DEFEATS
ZETA PSI IN 2ND
ROUND LEAGUE B

In the second round of the Interfraternity baseball League B, the Chi Psi's defeated the Zetas Wednesday by a 12-6 score. Chi Psi will play the Non-fraternity team Monday for the championship of their League.

Ten errors spelled defeat for the Zeta team since the winners amassed only seven hits to the losers' five. Barbour pitching for the Chi Psi's did a creditable job and kept the ball well scattered. Sargent started for the Zetas and lasted through the third, eight runs being made by the winners while he was in the box. Bates, a southpaw, took up the hurling burrs in the fourth and managed to last out the game.

BOWDOIN BASEBALL TEAM OUT IN FRONT

With the State Series schedule half over, the Bowdoin Polar Bears are out in front of the league with a margin of a game and a half over their nearest rival, Maine. Colby was knocked out of the tie for first position by the Polar Bears last Saturday and the Pale Blue kept the Mule on the toboggan Tuesday when they nosed them out 7-6. Bowdoin starts the last lap today and if the team can keep up their present pace they should breeze through to a championship.

	W	L	Pct.
Bowdoin	5	1	.833
Maine	4	3	.571
Colby	3	3	.500
Bates	0	5	.000

Donham, Bates' Freshman hurler, gave a creditable exhibition for seven innings, and even that eighth caught only two hits. If Bates had only known what to do with the ball when they hit, slaughter would have occurred. Bowdoin would have had her title hopes darkened, and Mr. Donham would have walked home with a victory for his successively and successfully losing Bates ball club.

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

SOULE'S BARBER SHOP
For First Class Haircutting
Near Campus - Two Expert Barbers

State Meet

(Continued from page 1)

the meet, is to let everybody know approximately what the outstanding performers in every college have been doing.

Maine first, Bates second, Bowdoin third, Colby fourth. Bates hasn't enough power this season in the field events to kick through, always allowing for Knottson and Knox in the broad-jump and Gorham in the shot. Bowdoin lacks middle distance men, or rather those she has are eclipsed by a sensational performer. Aside from the middle distance, Maine seems to have the best-rounded team. Her distance men are supreme, and her field events fairly well sewed up. Colby has only mediocre material; and Robinson and Pollard are both ineligible.

The dope sheet has been based on various evidence including times in practice, results of meets, both interfraternity and intercollegiate, pre-written from the other college publications of the state (whose cooperation we would like to acknowledge), and the opinions of various members of the varsity squad.

BOX SCORE - COLBY GAME

	Bowdoin	ab	bb	po	a	e
Ricker, cf	5	1	2	1	1	0
Whittier, ss	6	3	2	4	0	0
Dwyer, c	4	2	12	1	0	0
Urban, lf	4	2	3	0	0	0
Chalmers, 2b	4	2	1	0	0	0
Shute, rf	6	4	1	0	0	0
McKown, 3b	4	3	1	3	0	0
Crimmins, 1b	2	1	0	5	0	0
Stiles, p	4	1	0	3	0	0
Souther, p	2	0	0	0	0	0
Rowe, lf	2	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	41	19	27	13

	Colby	ab	bb	po	a	e
Davan, 2b	4	1	4	7	0	0
Roberts, 1b	3	2	0	0	0	0
Donovan, lf	6	0	4	1	0	0
Kiszonik, ss	5	2	2	2	0	0
Lovett, lf	3	1	1	1	0	0
Ferguson, rf	4	2	1	0	0	0
Chalmers, 2b	3	3	5	0	0	0
Hedderg, c	4	0	10	2	0	0
Brown, p	2	0	0	0	0	0
Waite, p	0	0	0	0	0	0
Mansfield, p	1	0	0	0	0	0
Karkos	0	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	38	11	27	13

Innings . . . 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Bowdoin . . . 0 0 2 4 0 1 12—10
Colby . . . 8 0 2 1 0 2 0 0—8

Errors, McKown 2, Chalmers 2, Whittier 2, Bates 2, Klusick 2, McKown 3, three base hit, Urban, Home runs, Deetjen 2, Shute, Stolen bases, Donovan, Roberts, Klusick, Ferguson, Sacrifices, Roberts, McKown, Chalmers, Crimmins, Double play, Whittier (unassisted). First base on balls, off Brown 2, off Waite 3, off Mansfield 2, off Stiles 9, Hits, off Brown 8 in 5 innings, off Waite 4 in 1-3 innings, off Mansfield 7 in 2-1-3 innings, off Stiles 10 in 8-1-3 innings, off Souther 1 in 1-3 innings. Struck out, by Brown 3, by Mansfield 2, by Stiles 2, by Souther, Wild pitch, Stiles. Winning pitcher, Stiles. Losing pitcher, Waite. Umpires, McDonald, Brener, Balk, Stiles, Time, 2 hours, 20 minutes.
*Batted for Mansfield in 9th.

Lisbon Falls Game

(Continued from page 1)
fourth, three flies extinguished Boucher, Farmer, and Clark with agonizing promptitude.

The box score:

	Bowdoin	ab	bb	po	a	e
Farmer, ss	5	0	0	0	0	0
Clark, 2b	4	2	1	0	0	0
Shute, lf	4	2	3	0	2	0
Bell, cf	4	1	3	0	0	0
Barstow, lf	4	1	1	0	0	0
McKown, 3b	4	1	1	0	0	0
Means, rf	4	1	1	0	0	0
Smith, c, rf	4	1	2	8	0	0
MacLachlan, c, rf	2	0	0	3	0	0
Boucher, p, rf	4	1	3	1	0	0
Brown, p	2	0	1	0	0	0
Totals	37	9	18	21	3	6

Lisbon Falls 3

	ab	bb	po	a	e
Yasecko, 1b	1	0	0	2	0
Reynolds, 3b	4	0	1	3	0
Elick, c	5	0	1	6	1
Galgovitch, p	4	1	0	2	0
Davala, cf	4	0	0	3	1
Batchelder, lf	4	0	0	1	0
Bichard, ss	4	0	0	1	1
Combs, 2b	2	1	5	0	0
Atwood, rf	1	0	0	0	0
Totals	26	3	12	5	2

Two base hits, Bell, Shute, Means, Boucher. Three base hit, Clark. Struck out, by Boucher 5, by Brown 6, by Galgovitch 10. Base on balls, Boucher 5, Brown 1, Galgovitch 1. Stolen bases, Clark, Shute, Yasecko, Reynolds, Elick, Galgovitch, Atwood 3. Hit by pitcher, by Brown (Batchelder), by Boucher, 40 minutes. Umpire, Plummer.

Score by innings: . . . 0 1 1 0 0 0—3
Bowdoin Seconds 1 1 2 0 3 1—9

The punch displayed by the Bowdoin ball club in the eighth inning of the Bates game was quite in contrast to that displayed in the Maine game at Fitchburg. First when the Polar Bears seemed to lack the winning drive. But on Wednesday the White showed self-confidence which has long been lacking in Bowdoin athletes.

It is seldom that two hits are put in the same spot successively as in the eighth of the Bates game. Ricker's hit over short stop was followed by Souther's which aided in throwing the Bates cohorts completely out of stride.

Spring football is over. Coach Bowser has had an opportunity to get a slight view of next year's prospects. From a general observation we might say that Bowdoin's chances next year will be quite different from what they were in the fall of 1929.

TENNIS TEAM'S TRIP PROVES DISASTROUS

Bowdoin's tennis team met with disaster at every point on their annual southern trip last week. Out of the four matches played Bowdoin was unable to win a single one as a team, though several individual matches were won and many of them were close and hotly contested. Bowdoin met their first defeat against Williams. Jim Parker was the Bowdoin number one man and he was turned back by the score of 6-1, 6-3. Abbott played number two, Altenburg number three, and Perkins number four. Perkins won his match, the only one that Bowdoin won, 6-1, 11-9. Christian and Sprague played five and six respectively and both of them were defeated. In the doubles Bowdoin fared no better and was beaten three times. Parker and Abbott made up the first double, Christian and Perkins the second, and Altenburg and Sprague the third. The Hartford Tennis Club again took Bowdoin's measure, winning every match. In the single matches the same order as in the Williams match was used with Parker ranking as number one man for the White. In the doubles there was a slight shift which seemed to work a little better. Parker and Altenburg played together as first doubles, Christian and Perkins played second, and Sprague and Abbott third. On Thursday Wesleyan was the victor although Altenburg won his match and several others were hard fought. In the last match with Holy Cross Bowdoin put up a desperate fight, but were beaten out. In the singles both Parker and Perkins played and both men in the Wesleyan match and in this match, were victorious. In the doubles the same combinations played together as in the Hartford and Wesleyan matches. This was the best match from the Bowdoin standpoint, and all of the matches hard struggles.

Although this was not the best showing in the world, it was not bad when one considers that all of Bowdoin's practicing has been done on the cement court, while every match was played on a clay court. The athletic department has been slow in getting the clay courts here in condition, and the result has been that all practice has been confined to the single cement court. The sooner the clay courts are in condition the sooner Bowdoin can have a winning tennis team.

Because of the poor condition of the clay courts, it has been necessary to postpone the State Championship series, which were scheduled to begin last Tuesday. However, it will not be necessary to wait more than a day or two, and the State Championship will be settled soon. The tennis club, which is in the setbacks last week, the Bowdoin team will hold their own in the championship race and will give a worthy account of themselves. The matches will be interesting to the spectators while we go down to Pickard field and give the tennis team a little support.

BOX SCORE - BATES GAME

	Bowdoin	ab	bb	po	a	e
Ricker, cf	4	2	1	0	0	0
Whittier, ss	4	1	2	0	2	0
Dwyer, c	3	0	1	6	0	0
Urban, lf	3	1	1	2	1	0
Shute, rf	1	1	2	0	0	0
Rose, rf	4	0	1	0	0	0
McKown, 3b	3	1	1	0	2	0
Farmer, 2b	2	0	0	6	1	0
Chalmers, 2b	1	0	1	1	0	0
Souther, p	3	1	1	5	0	0
Totals	30	8	7	27	15	0

	Bates	ab	bb	po	a	e
Bornstein, ss	3	1	0	2	2	0
Shute, lf	4	1	1	0	0	0
Berry, 2b	2	0	1	6	1	0
Casadden, cf	4	0	3	1	0	1
Whittier, rf	4	0	0	0	0	0
Flynn, 3b	4	0	0	5	1	2
Hedderg, 2b	4	0	1	7	4	0
Donham, p	3	0	1	0	1	1
Cole, x	1	0	0	0	0	0
Totals	31	2	8	24	5	3

Bates . . . 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 7—8
Bowdoin . . . 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 7—8
Two base hits, Urban, Casadden 2. Stolen bases, Dwyer, Souther. Sacrifices, Dwyer, Souther, Rhuland, Berry, Luce. Base on balls, off Souther 5, off Donham 4. Struck out, by Souther 6, by Donham 6. Passed ball, Dwyer. Time, 2 hours, 15 minutes. Umpires, McDonald and Gibson.

Sportsman's Pen

The Bowdoin ball team pulled a trick last Monday afternoon which may be regarded as a new phase of the growing renaissance. Going into the eighth inning with the score in favor of Bates 2-1, the Polar Bear nine took advantage of the non-support which was accorded the Garnet moundman seven runs and a ball. At this point seven runs and a ball. At this point seven runs and a ball.

The eighth inning of the Garnet and White fracas was chock full of psychology. In the first place a few errors in the eighth inning of the Bates game served to bolster the confidence of the Bowdoin batsmen. Bonehead plays on the part of the visiting fielders followed upon errors. Bowdoin took advantage of the Bates breakdown to bring across the runs. Perhaps there was no more clever example of the rise of one group at the expense of another than this eighth inning. It was clearly significant of the fickleness of fortune.

At the time the Orient goes to press the Polar Bears have yet a few games to play in the State series. Things look fairly rosy for a state championship, but this baseball business is not over until the last man is out!

HUNTINGTON SCHOOL
CRUSHED IN EIGHTH
BY RESERVE NINE

The doctors prescribed a change of air and travel for the Huntington School nine a while ago. Unwittingly they thought the change into worse trouble than before, for there was no balm in Gilead at Pickard Field last Friday. One run up in the last of the eighth, the junior varsity poked in three more and won the game sinfully easily.

Huntington smashed out nine hits, quite enough to win any usual game, but the White soaked out twelve in the same time, and hit when it was needed. Two runs scored in the fourth when Barbour tripped after Farmer and Rose and hit safely. Another triple, this by Means, brought in two more in the sixth and Farmer hit a double in the next inning with Morrell on, scoring a minute later himself. The summary:

	Bowdoin	ab	bb	po	a	e
Farmer, ss	5	2	2	3	5	0
Rose, 1b	4	1	1	11	0	0
Cole, cf	5	0	1	0	0	0
Boucher, p	4	0	0	0	0	0
Barstow, lf	4	1	1	1	0	3
Bossidy, 3b	1	0	0	1	0	0
Means, 3b	3	1	2	0	3	0
Ricker, c	1	0	0	2	1	0
Clark, 2b	4	0	2	1	2	0
Morrell, rf, p	4	2	2	1	0	0
Totals	37	9	12	27	15	6

Huntington School ab bb po a e
Rohrer, 1b . . . 5 1 0 10 1
Freitas, ss . . . 5 0 0 1 3 1
Velho, 3b . . . 4 0 0 1 0 0
Sheehan, cf . . . 4 1 1 2 0 0
Blake, lf . . . 3 1 2 1 0 0
Boucher, p . . . 6 0 0 0 0 0
Yagan, 2b . . . 3 1 0 2 6 0
Hatch, rf . . . 3 2 1 1 0 0
Curtin, p . . . 3 0 2 1 1 1
Totals . . . 35 6 9 24 11 3

Innings . . . 0 0 0 2 2 3 x—9
Bowdoin 2nd . .

Ivy Day Game with Bates
at Pickard Field 3:30 p.m.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Ivy Exercises Friday
11:00 a.m.

VOL. LX.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 21, 1930.

NO. 6

JUNIORS CELEBRATE 56th ANNUAL IVY DAY FRIDAY

PALE BLUE WINNER OF STATE MEET

Maine Track Team Piles Up No Less Than Eight First Places

FOSTER LEADS CHAPMAN

Conceded Only a Second Place to the Bates Star, Foster Upsets Dope and Runs the Fastest Time of His Career for Spectacular Win.

A well balanced University of Maine track squad successfully fought off the determined opposition of a strong Bates cluster last Saturday to take first place in the 84th annual State Track Meet at Whittier Field. Two records were ruthlessly unsmothered by the brilliant Pale Blue runners, Gowell and Styliet as the Maine tracksters piled up eight first places to give them a commanding lead over their Bobcat rivals.

Three startling upsets during the afternoon's festivities lent brilliancy to the meet which found the final score giving Maine a total of 53 1-3,
Bates 40, Bowdoin 33 2-3 and Colby 8.

The first collapse of the dope bucket occurred when Viles of Bates took a lead over Lindsay of Maine in the mile after two laps and was never headed. Running with an easy stride, Viles loped along in fifth position for the first lap allowing his teammate, Hayes, to set the pace. Shortly before the leaders had reached the end of the second lap Viles passed another running mate, Brooks, only to see Lindsay pass Hayes to go into the lead.
Viles refused to allow the favorite to hold his advantage, however, and soon was out ahead. Lindsay did not challenge until they had reached the stretch when the sprint which he had been holding in reserve went for naught as the Bates flier steadily drew away from him at every stride.

Records Decisively Smashed
The two records which went by the board were eclipsed by large margins. Captain Gowell won the Blue cobalt lead in national prominence when he uncorked a heave of 157 feet, two inches in the discus. This mark bettered the old one held by Duke Charles of Bowdoin by nearly 11 feet and closely approached the intercollegiate mark of Eric Krenz of Stanford University.

Inspired by his teammate's performance, Harry Richardson leaped ahead of the field in the two mile and ran away with the highly touted Whitten of Bates to break the yarn in 9 minutes, 35 4-5 seconds. This time was nine and two fifths seconds better than the old record run by Baker in 1922. Richardson runs with a long easy stride that eats up distance and at times Saturday it seemed as though he was merely intent upon setting the pace for the rest of the field for a few laps.

Foster Comes Through
A dark complexioned, well built gentleman, wearing a uniform that was almost as black as the B on the jersey, however, caused the crowd to almost forget the brilliant performances of the Pale Blue record breakers. Perhaps sometime in his career Sid Foster will run a faster 440, but it is doubtful if he ever runs by more thrilling race than the one last Saturday. Conceded only a second place to the Bates star, Chapman, Foster outdist himself to run the event in the fastest time of his career at Hot-town. Chapman was over anxious at the start and was set a foot for jumping the gun. Tolman of Maine leaped out ahead at the gun and was
(Continued on Page 4)

Ivy Ball At Sargent Gymnasium Will Echo Atmosphere of Spring

Clothed in festive garb for the Ivy Ball the Sargent Gym is resplendent in Spring colors. Close to three hundred couples are expected to attend next Friday evening the highlight of the college social season.

Direct from Broadway and the University of Pennsylvania the Ivy Ball comes Fletcher Henderson and his Orchestra to furnish the music which has been characterized as the finest septa-tinctured jazz extant. No matter how low spirits may be prior to this grand wind-up of house parties owing to the usual liberal precipitation and aching feet the Ivy Committee guarantees that Henderson and his music from the heart of Hot-town will dispel all such worries.

Once again Mr. Vincent Cobb has been responsible for the decorating and this time he has outdone himself.
The color scheme of blending sunset and moonlight has been used at the last Ivy dance merited so much comment of admiration that Mr. Cobb has planned his latest original design of decoration in the same colors.

Beneath the deep ceiling of latticed yellow streamers are hung large terraced lanterns of fringed multicolored crape paper. A hanging lantern of much larger proportions than those around the outside of the ceiling forms the

FOSTER WINNING 220 YARD TRIAL

Scene from State Meet in which Sid Foster, Bowdoin middle distance runner is shown leading the field in the 220 yd. trials. This picture is but one of many which shows the brilliance of the Pale Bear star in Saturday's day cornered meet. Perhaps his most scintillating effort of the day, however, was winning the 440 yd. run from Osmie Chapman of Bates (picture on page 4). With the finish in sight in the race Foster cut out to pass Tolman and allowed Chapman to come up over him. Chapman had no sooner moved in when Foster called upon his reserve and in a beautiful sprint leaped ahead of his rivals to win the event.

ARTICLE BY MacMILLAN IN JUNE ISSUE OF QUILL

Final Issue for Year Appearing on May 28th Includes Article by Robert
P. Tristram Coffin, Well Known Author of Poetry and Prose.

FLEURY CONTRIBUTES

The fourth and final issue of the Bowdoin Quill this year will appear probably the 28th of this month. It is hoped that this Commencement number will be the climax of the reorganized Quill. It contains a greater number of renewed contributors than any other issue this year. All of the material both prose and poetry is most readable and of unusual variety. This is the first issue which has been put out by the new board which was recently elected. The new board is looking for the same cooperation from the student body next fall, and hopes to be able to keep up the good record set this year and possibly to raise the Quill still higher in popularity and renown which it has earned.

Contributors
The feature article of this Commencement number is written by Commander Donald B. MacMillan entitled "Real Value of Arctic Work."
This story will be especially timely as Commander Byrd will be returning from his Antarctic expedition trip about the same time as the Quill will appear. The second article is by Robert P. Tristram Coffin, class of 1916; it is an original poem entitled "Sunset at Cape Cod." Mr. Coffin attended Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar after he had seen service in the World War. He is, at present, Professor of English at Wells College in New York, and he has published several well known prose and poetry volumes. His best known and most recent prose writing is "From an Attic Room", a series of essays. His most famous poetry publications are "Golden Falcon" and "Christchurch".

Article by Jean Fleury
Jean Gerard Fleury, teaching fellow in French here at the College, has contributed this latest Quill. He is a correspondent for the French newspaper, "L'Ami du Peuple", and he recently went into Turkey as a journalist.

(Continued on Page 4)

MULE NINE VANQUISHES POLAR BEAR

Visitors Manage to Win by Capitalizing on Wild Pitches

FINAL MARGIN 4-3

White Team Stages Valiant 11th Hour
Rally with Two Away in the Ninth Frame But Team Lacks Batting Punch and Fails to Knot Score.

The Colby ball team took advantage of Morrill's wildness and the lack of a batting punch in the pinches on Friday to win a 4-3 decision over the Polar Bears at Pickard Field. Bow-doin put up a determined rally in the ninth but fell short by one run. The inning was started inauspiciously when Stiles flied out to Ferguson in deep center. Ricker launched another fly this time to right for the second out. Rose, however, batting for Whittier lined a clean drive along the third base line for a single. Dwyer managed to get a base on balls as the crowd in the stands came out of the doldrums to live things up. Urban came thru, as he has all year, and delivered a single. Rose raced home to score. It was now Chalmers' chance to put the tying run across but it wasn't in the bat for he rolled an easy one to Roberts who dampened the White's hope of victory by throwing him out at first.

Bowdoin started the festivities off in good style. Morrill handled his batters with apparent ease although he passed the second man, the other two, however, could do nothing with his delivery. In fact, Colby did not show any great amount of hitting ability in the whole game, corraling only six hits to Bowdoin's ten. In the White's half, Ricker was out second to first on a ground ball. Whittier struck out but Dwyer doubled to right and Urban came through with a single to center scoring him.

Colby evened the count in the second inning. Deetjen singled to right.
Ferguson's sacrifice moved him to second while Davan scored him. Colby took advantage of Morrill in the third,
who by this time was working hard.
Lovett got a base on balls and stole second. Klusick singled, sending Lovett along the paths to third.

(Continued on Page 4)

HOOD'S MERRYMAKERS PLAY AT GYM DANCE

Taking advantage of the State Track Meet on May 17 which attracted many people to Brunswick, Bowdoin arranged for an intercollegiate dance to be held at the gym on the evening of the meet. Although members of the other three Maine colleges were particularly urged to attend, a small number were present to enjoy the music of Hood's Merrymakers.

Though the dance was considered a success, it suffered from a lack of support, particularly from Maine, Colby, and Bates. Handicapped by lack of advertising among the other colleges, the dance became a purely Bowdoin function instead of an intercollegiate event.

The patrons and patronesses were
Mr. and Mrs. Manton Copeland and Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Little.

IVY DAY BALL GAME IMPORTANT TO WHITE

Rivals Slowly Waking Up as Race
Becomes a Three Cornered Affair
With Colby, Maine and Bowdoin Practically Bunched.

As the baseball season speeds to a close the game with Bates Friday becomes increasingly important. Colby's victory over Bowdoin last week gives new vigor to both Maine and Colby.
The game has again been brought to a three corner affair with the Polar Bears having the upper hand, although Maine seems to have a better team than she did two weeks ago and will offer plenty of competition.

If Bowdoin expects to capture the State Championship she must defeat Bates. Although we have twice turned back the Bobcat this year, we cannot merely assume that we can do it again. Bates has a powerful but inexperienced team. The first of the year it lacked hitting power and smoothness, but as the season has advanced it has improved vastly. In the last game here at Brunswick it proved its improvement by gathering eight hits off the delivery of George Southern. This was much better than the single bungle which they earned from Stiles in the first game of the season. Donham, Bates' freshman pitcher, seems to have a high sign on the Bowdoin batters after they have faced him once. In the first game he relieved Marston and put an end to the Bowdoin scoring. In the second game after the first two innings he settled down and Bowdoin didn't get another hit until the Bates infield blew up in the eighth. If he continues to pitch as he did in the second game with Bowdoin and if his fielders give him some support he will prove a hard nut for the Bow-doin sluggers to crack.

Although Bowdoin went strong for several games during the first of the season she has seemed to be in a temporary slump the last two games.
The team as a whole has not been hitting so well or so opportunely, but the fielding has been good with sparkling plays at times. Whoever takes the mound for Bowdoin may be expected to keep the Bates batters under control and the burden of victory will fall on the Bowdoin sluggers.
Considering all factors Bowdoin will be favored to win because of its record so far this year.

Series Standing
The game between Bowdoin and Colby was the only game played last week but it was enough to reduce Bowdoin's lead and place Colby in a tie for second with the University of Maine. Bates is still down in the cellar with no victories to her credit. The game between Bates and Maine was postponed because of rain last week, but as soon as it is played off the tie between Maine and Colby will be broken. The Polar Bear's almost impressive lead in the state championship race has been cut in half and cannot afford to lose any more.

STATE SERIES STANDING
	W	L	Ave.
Bowdoin	5	2	.714
Colby	4	3	.571
Maine	4	3	.571
Bates	0	5	.000

NOTICE

Owing to a delay on the part of the company making the "grav-ings" for the 1931 Bagle, it will not be out Ivy Day, but will appear in the very near future.

FRATERNITIES INAUGURATE THREE DAY FESTIVITIES WITH HOUSE PARTIES TONIGHT

Formal and Informal Dances, Picnics, Outings and Traditional Exercises Will Provide Colorful Program For Coming Week End

IVY BALL MUSIC BY HENDERSON'S ORCHESTRA

With the final touch of gaiety at the Gym Dance on Friday night, where Fletcher Henderson's Orchestra will play, Ivy House Party comes to an end.
For three days college activities will lie more or less dormant while the fraternities give themselves over to a new routine of formal and informal dances, picnics, outings, and all the traditional customs that go to make up Ivy Day.

Tonight formal dinners and dances, the details of which are printed elsewhere in this issue, will take place at all the houses. Outings have been arranged, beginning tomorrow morning, and on the return of the students to Brunswick a series of informal dances will go on, most of the fraternities keeping open house.

IVY PROGRAM

Wednesday Evening
Formal dances at the houses
Thursday Morning
House outings and picnics
Thursday Evening
Informal dances at the houses
Friday - Ivy Day
11:00 Seniors' Last Chapel
11:30 Ivy Exercises
Speech of Welcome
George H. Souther
Class Poem - James B. Colton, 2nd Oration - Albert F. Richmond Presentations:
Presentation of the Wooden Spoon
by George H. Souther Planting of the Ivy
9:00 Baseball - Bates vs. Bowdoin 9:00 Formal Dance, Sargent Gymnasium

ELECTION OF COLLEGE OFFICIALS BEING HELD

Vacancies in the Board of Overseers, in the Alumni Council and Board of Directors of the Alumni Fund Must be Filled.

BALLOT ENDS JUNE 9

Vacancies in the Board of Overseers, in the Alumni Council, and in the Board of Directors of the Alumni Fund are to be filled by Bowdoin College alumni voting by a ballot mailed to each man recently. The returns on the election, which will fill eight of the vacant offices, will be completed by June 9.
From six candidates for office in the Board of Overseers, the alumni must choose one. This man, though theoretically only nominated by the alumni, by custom and a gentlemen's agreement is in practice elected by them. Four candidates from a list of twelve are to be chosen for the Alumni Council in this ballot, while three new members of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Fund will be selected from nine candidates. A similar election is held each year to fill vacancies left after terms of office have expired.

Candidates for Board of Overseers
John Russell Bass, 1900, of Wilton, Maine is one of six candidates for the Board of Overseers. He has been associated with the G. H. Bass and company, shoe manufacturers, since his graduation, as well as being interested in Maine politics. He was a member of the Alumni Council from 1920 to 1923 and of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Fund from 1923
(Continued on Page 5)

Fraternity House Dances Tonight To Be First Ivy Festivities

Eight of the eleven fraternities on the campus will each give a dance tonight at their respective chapter houses with orchestras brought to Brunswick from far and near, while Chi Psi has a dinner and dance in Portland. Delta Kappa Epsilon and Kappa Sigma will have their house dances tomorrow night. Girls from nearly everywhere will grace the campus in the largest party of the year.

All the fraternities have made extensive plans for the three day carnival. Alpha Delta Phi will start their party with a dance tonight in the chapter house for which Perley Stevens' orchestra of Boston will supply the harmony. The hostesses will be Mrs. H. A. Robbins of Portland and Mrs. H. D. Lord of Saco. Friday will again find them at Brunswick for Ivy Day.
Alpha Tau Omega, Beta, and Chi Psi
The Alpha Tau Omega fraternity will have music by the Georgians of Auburn, Maine, at their dance tonight.
Tomorrow will be spent at Sprucewood Lodge at Boothbay with another dance in the evening with the same orchestra. For the house dance the hostesses will be: Mrs. Alfred O.
Gross, Mrs. Edward S. Hammond,
Miss Gertrude McGill, Mrs. Charles

With Seniors' Last Chapel on Friday morning at eleven o'clock, the official exercises of Ivy Day will begin. Half an hour later the Juniors, with Gorman S. Robinson of Bangor as marshal, start their annual march.
Two of the features of the celebration will be the presentation to "King" Crimmins, popular man in the class, of the Wooden Spoon, by George H.
Souther, football-captain elect and class president; and the planting of the class ivy at the base of Memorial Hall.

George H. Souther, who was chosen to head the class at the annual elections, has been extremely active on campus in the last three years. His football service culminated last fall in his election to the captaincy for 1929. A mainstay of Souther's pitching staff, he also starred in hockey, and shot the first goal of the year in the State Series as Bowdoin won a two-one victory from Bates. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi.
Arthur Crimmins, popular man, is another football star. His selection as all-Maine end last fall was unanimous. He likewise holds a variety first-base position, and is a member of the Gamma Gamma Gamma and the Chapel Committee. He was on the Dean's List last fall, and is one of the four Juniors whose election to this recently inaugurated a new scheme of appointments to the society. His fraternity is Psi Upsilon.

Herbert S. Rose, vice president, is Captain-elect of the varsity hockey team, and one of the best ice centers that Ben Houser has developed in some time. He is a regular on the baseball team, and a Kappa Sigma.
Albert E. Jenkins, secretary-treasurer and an A.T.O., was a member of the debating team which recently set up such a brilliant string of victories on its spring trip.

The class poet, James B. Colton, 2nd, has been connected with college publications for several years, and is Captain of the gym team. He is recognized throughout New England as one of the leading college performers on the flying ring. His fraternity is Alpha Delta Phi.

The other class officers are A. J.
Deeks, class orator, of Whitesville, Mass., a Zeta Psi; Gorman S. Robinson, class marshal, of Bangor, a Chi Psi; Albert Francis Richmond, orator, of Taunton, Mass.; Allan Rogers, of Portland, a Chi Psi, and Chairman of the Ivy Committee; and committee members James P. Blunt, a Deke, of Skowhegan; Donald F. Prince, a Theta Delta Chi, of Portland, who has been active in debating and literary circles; James C. Flint, a Beta, of Chicopee Falls, Mass., retiring track manager; and G. P. Carleton of East Bridgewater, Mass., an
A.T.O.

The Original White Cotton Pickers will provide the music tonight for the dance at the Beta Theta Pi house.
This fraternity will repeat the performance tomorrow, again at the chapter house.
Alpha Delta Phi of Chi Psi will be somewhat original and will forsake the Chi Psi Lodge for the Eastland Lodge at Portland tonight, where Hughie Watson's society and the Gamma melody for the dinner and dance. Tomorrow they leave for an outing at Cape Elizabeth. The chaperones for the dance will be Dr. and Mrs. Manton Copeland and Mr. and Mrs. L. H.
Hatch.

Delta Kappa Epsilon and
Delta Upsilon
Delta Kappa Epsilon is not following the lead of the majority of the Greek-letter societies and will not begin their party until tomorrow night.
At that time Billy Loder's orchestra of Boston will provide music for the foot-shuffling. The hostesses will be Mrs. J. E. Hunt and Mrs. Fred R.
Kleinbach. After staying in Brunswick all Friday, they will leave Saturday for an afternoon and evening at the Sprucewood at Boothbay.
(Continued on Page 5)

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

George T. Sewall '32

News Department

Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33

Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33

George R. Booth '33

Robert M. McFarland '31

William N. Small '31

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $2.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance. Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, May 21, 1936.

No. 6

Ivy

We are now engaged in celebrating Bowdoin's 56th Ivy Day. We wish at this time to extend our welcome to all the guests of the College, although we realize we may be a bit belated with our wish. Bowdoin has always been noted for her social occasions, and this, we feel, will measure up to the Ivies of the past. Ivy is easily our biggest social event of the year, despite the sad fact that the weather is frequently inclement, and offers to the visitor much of interest with the Ivy Exercises, the baseball game and the grand finale in the Gym Dance. We sincerely hope these will measure up to the fine performances of last year and years previous. Ivy Exercises have long been neglected—too long. Last week, in this column, we called for a check-up on this part of the program. By this, we did not mean to imply that we feel Ivy Exercises have no place in the party; what we did mean is that they deserve the whole-hearted support of the class interested, and only with such support is their continuance justified. The class officers and the committee have done their part, as always, to make these exercises alive, and not the solemn rites of a past generation. Let us not admit them to be an outgrown tradition.

Track

Although Bowdoin's third place at last Saturday's State Meet was not due to unlucky "breaks" and was in fact about as much as we could expect, the track team cannot be accused of failing in any sense of the word. Coach and men both have worked hard throughout the year, and Saturday's performance is definite proof of this fact. This is no time for censure, but only praise. The team is a decidedly strong machine, and with another year should be able to give the teams of Maine and Bates a stiff battle for top honors, which in late years have passed from their accustomed Brunswick home into foreign climes. With graduation in June, we are to lose a few men—men whose loss will be felt undoubtedly. Yet there is much veteran material for Jack Magee's competent hands in the coming season, and although we realize prophecies do not meet with the approval of many of our contemporaries, we feel that we can safely predict another year of improvement in track.

Student-Faculty-Alumni Luncheon

Last Saturday noon, a group containing representatives of the Alumni, Faculty and Student Bodies met as guests of the College for an informal luncheon in the Moulton Union Cafeteria. The guests were served at tables of four, at which sat at least one representative of each of the three groups. During this meal, topics of interest to all three groups were discussed, many of which dealt specifically with certain phases of college administration. This luncheon was a new idea, first put into operation this year, but we feel it served to afford a common ground upon which three differing points of opinion could be brought into contact. We hope that this interchange of ideas will bring forth lasting results. We compliment the Administration on this novel idea, and hope that this Student-Faculty-Alumni Luncheon will be an annual affair.

The New Members of the Board

With this issue, certain men take their places for the first time as members of the ORIENT Board. They have all been doing work "behind the scenes", and it has been work of a type that deserves much commendation. True, as various interested people have pointed out, it has often merited much stringent criticism. We do not deny it, but we do feel that these men have cooperated in a way which is too often unusual in college journalistic circles.

We are at this time inaugurating a slight variation in the ORIENT Board. The new Associate Editors are divided into two main sub-groups, one to handle sports and the other to cover all other news items that are of interest to Bowdoin men. One of these six each week is to assume the duties of Copy Editor, and thus the over-loaded Managing Editor will be relieved of some of his work. The Copy Editor will at the same time be acquiring more training in the intricacies of running a college newspaper—a difficult, but NOT impossible job here at Bowdoin. The six men have been retained, instead of the usual four, with the purpose of distributing the work of the paper more evenly. The Department Editors, created last year, have been dropped, as we feel that the Associate Editors will be able adequately to handle the work in these various departments.

Communication

Editor, Bowdoin Orient
Brunswick, Maine
Dear Sir:

The writer of the interesting article in the Orient, May 7, about the women who have received honorary degrees from Bowdoin made a statement that rather startled us here in Boston when he said, "little information is to be found about Heloise E. Hersey".

It is certain that few women have been better known or held in higher esteem here in Boston during the past generation than Miss Hersey. Though she is now more than 75, her intellectual leadership remains such that the announcement of a course of lectures by her fills any hall which her voice will fill. Not since the days of Margaret Fuller, close to a century ago, has Boston had a woman who could draw such cultured audiences or command such a distinguished following.

For many years Miss Hersey conducted a private school for girls on Beacon Hill, one of the first and best of its kind, and although she discontinued it about 1900 its loyal graduates still maintain an association, popularly known as "Miss Hersey's Girls", which is active in many good causes. For the past 25 years Miss Hersey has taught every Sunday without fail—except in the summer vacation season—the large and wonderfully successful Bible class for women at Trinity Church. At a recent dinner given in her honor by the class, Dr. Sherrill, the newly made Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts, called her "the most useful and best-loved woman in Boston".

When Bowdoin gave her an honorary degree in 1921—largely through the influence of the late Edward Stanwood who had long known her as a valued editorial contributor to the Youth's Companion—I heard one alumnus say to another at the Commencement dinner, "Of all the women whom I know, Miss Hersey has far the kindest and finest mind." And the other promptly came back with, "Yes, but why limit it to the women?" So much for our honorary graduate of whom little information is to be found. Certain it is that not one of the eight women given honorary degrees by Bowdoin had better earned the distinction, or has better upheld the best traditions of the college.

Miss Hersey's father, a Bowdoin graduate of 1858, was for half a century a well beloved physician of Oxford County. When he went to Chicago in 1860 as a delegate to the Republican convention that nominated Lincoln, his wife and daughter, then a child of only six, went with him, and Miss Hersey, who vividly recalls looking down upon the epoch-making sessions from the gallery of the Wigwam, is perhaps the last survivor of all those who were present. She was graduated from Vassar in 1876, the youngest member of her class, and for many years has maintained at that college two scholarships of which several Maine girls have had the benefit.

JOHN CLAIR MINOT '96

Communication

To The Editor of The Orient:

When I heard that Brother Murphy was to be answered in this issue by certain members of the college, I began to feel a little nervous. I began to imagine my chagrin when, after searching assiduously, I could find no shred of evidence for his defense, no statement made by him which did not call for condemnation, scorn, or loud horse-laugh. This discovery made me very sad. So then I considered again, and decided that the least I could do would be to point out to Brother Murphy, via the same medium which he employed a few of the reasons why his two communications have been met, in the quarters which I frequent, with the aforesaid contradiction, scorn, and loud horse-laugh.

It is my impression that the reception of Brother Murphy's polemics has been as it has because the larger part of the students do not believe that: 1. Calling the Quill "cadaverous" makes it so.

2. The Quill must be judged "by the contributions of the student body". 3. This college newspaper has chosen an editorial policy which is the opinion of a small group infected with a puerile radicalism, or that it listens "to the persuasions of any single member of the faculty".

Since I have not yet attained to the "whittled-down" mental stature of Brother Murphy, which enables him to "state what should be", I will give my reasons for the above statements. As for the first, no one will accept any contentious statement without supporting evidence; for the second, if the students thought that the Quill should be so adjudged, they would contribute a sufficient amount of material fit to print, for they can do so; for the third, the Orient Board has accepted Truth as an editorial policy, concerning which abstraction Brother Murphy might well study up a little; and the last of his contentions is too absurd to merit further comment. For I doubt if there are any students left in college who can avoid the persuasions of more than one faculty member, least of all the students on the Orient board.

The most unfortunate part of Brother Murphy's exertion is his reference to Professor Crook. Now I know that Professor Crook needs no defense; more than he needs or possesses the "emissaries" with which Brother Murphy credits him. But the reference to him in the ex-27 epistle divulges a characteristic flaw in Brother Murphy's personality. It is this: He paid the debt to the Boyer Budget! If he believes the budget to be bad, why does he knuckle to it, Dean or No Dean? The conclusion is too obvious. I cannot draw it, for to me he is "Brother" Murphy.

In conclusion, he and I have agreement and disagreement between us. I agree with him when he says that he does not intend to take care of his own soul's passage through the world. I agree that merely because he is "awfully boring and childishly naive", we should not consider him a reformer. I agree that he is not a leader.

But I disagree when he states that the men with whom he lives are quite original and fearlessly independent in their thinking. Don't believe it, Mr. Editor. And I disagree when he assumes that Professor Crook crossed swords with him. Being included in a postscript can hardly be so interpreted. Before drawing with a mail one must postulate an opponent. No, it seems that Brother Murphy will need the shillalah instead for a long time yet.

COLTON

Communication

After reading two of his bandying communications, I have become fully convinced that Mr. William Murphy ex-27 is insidiously determined to make an ass out of himself. This proclivity seemed particularly apparent in last week's Orient. Now there's nothing drawing with a mail making an ass out of himself if he wants to. If he doesn't mind it, I'm sure the rest of the college doesn't. Nothing has been said about his previous bombastic tirade nor exacted from the identical reason he suggests concerning the Bowdoin vs. Bates editorial controversy; printing an answer to such inane prattle places one on an ignominious level. But when would-be communicators weave prevaricating fabrications for a paper's readers, it is high time that something should be said about such "windy nonsense". I speak with particular reference to the Quill.

The Board of Editors would like to challenge Mr. Murphy's statement that the "editor refused material because the Maine quota was filled up". The Editors defy Mr. Murphy to state explicitly and definitely (for change) just when any of the Editors refused to consider any contributions for the Quill of any nature whatsoever. As Mr. Murphy so astutely pointed out, the Quill is not an undergraduate material, much less being too disdainful to consider possible contributions.

Fresh from the staff of a big New York Daily, Mr. Murphy should be well acquainted with the fundamental precept of journalism: Accuracy of Facts. Perhaps that isn't included in the first ten lessons. At any rate, he reveals a promising affinity to the man possessing the Quill's happy faculty of misconstruing facts and remarks (often from indirect sources) for his own ends—whatever they may be!

And as for the Quill being grossly unstable it is scarcely conceivable that among 600 subscribers there are even a very few who do not discount $1.25 from their Yankee bank-roll by refusing to scan one or two pages of that wretched publication. It has been the expressed hope of the Board to elevate undergraduate standards of writing by offering them the competitive incentive of more mature and experienced writers, and at the same time make the Quill more enjoyable and readable to the undergraduates and the Alumni as a whole. But, alas, it appears that we have failed miserably. Perhaps Mr. Murphy, instead of crabbing in his constant, indefatigable babble, would be so kind as to put his talented pen to paper and dash off a couple of those lusciously charming little lyrics he is so certain to produce in the good old days, when the Quill was in its right and English majors didn't have to take a major exam. But then I anticipate with grave misgivings that such a banal exercise quarterly as the Quill is certainly a medium for the lumbous creative works of the talented Mr. Murphy. How we can "adequately sustain the loss" is one of those many perplexing problems with which the Editors have to deal. I suppose the Quill will have to writhe in its mire, until another Mr. Murphy with the affined propensities to the Mr. Murphy shall masticulate through Bowdoin and float the mired raft on the tide of incomprehensible success. The Board only regrets that Mr. Murphy will not be with us next year (we hope for his sake he will be graduated) to proffer us his well-known helping hand. The Quill greatly appreciates the invaluable, sympathetic, unremunerative assistance he has so generously rendered us and wish him the best of luck in consequent and similar philanthropic undertakings.

Incidentally, let us congratulate Mr. Murphy on his bold and fearless confession that he is an Irish Reformer, although he modestly asserts that he is not a leader. That he is an Irishman, he himself courageously admits. That he is a Reformer must be inferred from his own aggressive statement that "Reformers are awfully boring and childishly naive". F. R. K., Jr.

Mustard and Cress

We suppose that all the little girls stood out on the railway platform with colored lights Monday evening, and welcomed the victorious athletes home from a strenuous but pleasing contest. (Bates STUDENT please copy).

The road to Portland is paved with good intentions.

It is reported that sunset on South Harpswell is beautiful, but Mustard and Cress wasn't looking.

The House of Walah

CAPS AND GOWNS . . . RENTAL OR SALE

IVY DAY FIRST HELD IN THE CLOSING YEAR OF CIVIL WAR

Ivy Day has been a customary event of the college for many years. As early as 1865 the Juniors celebrated their special day. On October 26th of that year the Junior class planted an Ivy, probably, according to Mr. Hatch's "History of Bowdoin College", at the chapel. At this occasion an oration, poem, and ode formed part of the exercises. There were no other Ivy Days until 1874, when the class of 1875 re-inaugurated the idea, and since that time it has been an annual custom, held in the spring instead of in the fall, as originally. In addition to the three original parts, "Junior Honors"—continued in various forms since then—were conferred. The presentation of a wooden spoon to the Popular Man of the class has always been a part of the ceremonies, and it is a real honor to be the recipient. One of the early orators was Robert E. Peary, '77, who later achieved world-wide fame as the discoverer of the North Pole.

Probably the most impressive part of Ivy Day is the Seniors' Last Chapel, when the graduating class marches to the Chapel, where a brief service is held. Following this the Seniors' march out in lock-step singing Auld Lang Syne. The History remarks on the touching quality of the scene, recalling how "one Senior, a big, hardy fellow, the very reverse of a sentimentalist, was so overcome that he had not been supported by his companions he would actually have fallen."

The revival of Ivy Day in the seventies at first seemed likely to fail and the custom to be discontinued, but the contrary proved to be true. It afforded the Orient of June 20, 1877 "great pleasure to note that '78' had not overlooked 'one of the most pleasant and interesting customs of a college course. The proposition of Ivy Day seemed to be opposed, at first, by almost every obstacle, and it was only through the earnest endeavors of the class and its friends that we were allowed to witness so pleasing a spectacle." Besides the presentation of the wooden spoon to the popular man, a locking glass was given the handsome man, a jackknife the homely man, and a mousetache cup the man with the best mousetache. The "dig" and "ponytail" received a special and a home respectivity. The Bowdoin Brass Quartette furnished the music.

At the Ivy exercises in 1879 "friends of the class were present in large numbers. Among the latter the fair sex was largely in the majority, which fact requires no comment of ours." The "long-looked-for race" between the class crews was won by the Sophomores. It was "the first race over our own course in which three crews have competed to the finish," says the Orient of that time. A "select though not very large company" was present at the Ivy Hop that evening. "The floor was graced by the presence of young ladies from Portland, Bath, and elsewhere."

The exercises of the next year were a great success, in spite of a shower that forced them to be held in the chapel. The boat race, a customary feature of those days, was close and apparently very exciting. The Sophomore shell won, and had not Captain Reed's slide given out, the record of the year before probably would have fallen. Chandler's Six furnished the music for the Ivy Hop, this year the "company in attendance" being quite large, "including many ladies from abroad. The dancing was kept up until the 'wee' hours, and all expressed themselves as having an 'immense' time."

Thus the Ivy exercises came to occupy a fixed place in the traditions of the College. By 1884 the Orient could say "The Ivy exercises are beginning to attract nearly as much attention as Commencement, filling an important place in student life and memories."

The crew race in 1884 between the classes developed into a struggle between the Juniors and Freshmen, which the former won. The Senior material was working with the variety, which defeated the Dirigos of Portland that same day, and the Sophomores were kept from the race by the unwillingness of two of their best men to row. Over thirty couples participated in the Ivy Hop. It had been expected to hold the affair in the new Town hall but the structure was not completed in time and old Lemont Hall had to be used again as in former years. Mr. Grimmer and his seven, with their excellent music, "did much to distract attention from the surroundings. The costumes of the ladies, as usual, were charming." The company "separated in ample time for breakfast."

Judging from contemporary accounts in the Orient, each Ivy Day has been a greater success than any previous, with a larger and more brilliant gathering than ever before. Be that as it may, Ivy has come to be one of Bowdoin's greatest events. Compared with our houseparties of the present day, with their ostentatious display from all over the East, and guests coming from many states, these old festivities seem rather remote and provincial but they served to build up the tradition of Ivy—a happy tradition that has grown to be an integral part of Bowdoin. And so for these three days, with exams just around the corner, we participate in Ivy in the same spirit that showed itself in the days when Chandler's Six and the Sophomores played for the ball in old Lemont Hall.

G. T. S.

FINAL EXAMINATIONS

June 2 to 14, 1936
8.30	Definitive Schedule 1.30
Monday, June 2
History 4	English 2
Literature 2	Mathematics 4
Mathematics 4	Zoology 6
Mathematics 6
Tuesday, June 3
Chemistry 8	French 4
English 26	French 6
German 12	French 16
History 14
Wednesday, June 4
Latin 4	Economics 8
Music 2	English 14
Physics 2	Latin 2
Physics 4	Sociology 2
Psychology 2
Thursday, June 5
Art 8	Economics 2
Economics 4	Sociology 4
Economics 10
English 12
Latin 12
Music 4
Friday, June 6
Education 2	Botany 1
Greek 6	Chemistry 6
Spanish 2	German 10
Spanish 4	Government 4
Zoology 2	Greek 8
Latin 6	Philosophy 2
Saturday, June 7
Chemistry 2	Chemistry 4
Economics 6	Government 2
Latin 12	Psychology 6
Monday, June 9
German 2	French 8
German 4	Greek 2
German 6	History 10
German 8	Mathematics 8
Philosophy 6
Tuesday, June 10
Mathematics 2	Astronomy 2
History 12	Psychology 4
Wednesday, June 11
English 22	History 6
Mineralogy 1	Latin 3
Thursday, June 12
English 18	Government 8a
Zoology 12	Music 6
	Physics 8
	Physics 10

NEW BOOKS

Gustav Auman—The legacy of Sun Yatsen
B. H. Liddell Hart—Sherman, soldier, realist, American Denise T. Lynch—Epoch and a man; Marvin Van Buren and his times
Mathematics 4
Philosophy Scheideemann—The making of New Germany, 2 vol.
(Sir) Cecil Spring Rice—The letters and friendships of Sir C. S. R.; a record, 2 vols.
Richard Wilhelm—A short history of Chinese civilization
Marjorie Bowen—William, Prince of Orange
M. Cary and E. H. Warrington—The ancient explorers
Jean Martet—Georges Clemenceau
Charles L. Woolley—Dead towns and living men
Philip W. Wilson—Wm. Pitt, the younger
Roy Chapman Andrews—On the trail of ancient man Jacinto Benavente—Plays, first series
Jacinto Benavente—Plays, second series
David Cecil—The stricken deer, or the life of Cowper.
Gustave Flaubert—Three tales
Kunt Hamsun—Hunger
Alain Rene Lesage—The adventures of Gil Blas de Santallane
Archibald Marshall—Exton manor
Brander Mathews—Chief European dramatists
John Corbin—The unknown Washington
Percy Bysshe Shelley—Lost letters to Harriet Benj. Disraeli Beconsfield—The letters of Disraeli to Lady Chesterfield and Lady Bradford, 2 vol.
Thomas Caldecott Chubb—The life of Giovanni Boccaccio
Rene Dalesme—Beaumarais 1732-1799
Paxton, Hibben—The peerless leader—Don Jennings Britton
Don Carlos Serris—Under the black flag
George R. S. Taylor—English political portraits of the 19th century
Paul Wiegler—William the first

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

- in -
ANNA CHRISTIE
COMEDY AUDIO REVUE

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought.
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all kinds etc. of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St. - Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords - $5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

LYMAN B. CHIPMAN
PURE FOOD SHOP
Wholesale-Retail
574 Congress St., Portland, Me.

'Anything 'w'ant Pressed?
Give it to
LAVERNE OR ESTLE
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE - -
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR
Whitman's Chocolates

PRINTING

of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.

Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

QUALITY
ALWAYS.

Brunswick Publishing Company

Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets
Telephone Brunswick No. 3

SHOTS FROM STATE MEET

State Meet

(Continued from page 1)
leading Foster by a foot and Chapman by two as they went past the grandstand.

The Maine flyer slightly increased his lead as they rounded the turn and for a while seemed destined to win. Foster and Chapman closed up almost imperceptibly and as the three came into the stretch they were inches apart. With the finish in sight Foster cut out to pass Tolman and allowed Chapman to come up even.
From the grandstand it seemed as though Sid had challenged the Bates star to fight it out in the dash to the tape. Anyway, the latter had no sooner moved up when Foster called upon his reserve in a beautiful sprint which carried him ahead of the other two to victory.

Galbraith Beaten in Hammer
The third upset of the afternoon came in the hammer when Del Galbraith failed to reach his peak in any of his throws, five of them being declared fouls, and took a third place.
Lunt of Colby won the event with a throw of 146 feet, 5-8 inches and Phil Chapman added three points to the White score with his toss of 145 feet, 9-7-8 inches. Lunt's mark is some eight feet under the throws that Galbraith has been getting off in practice, but the little competition in which the White sophomore has participated probably accounts for his failure.

Maine cleaned up in the other weight events, Webber putting the shot 43 feet, one inch and Ashworth taking the javelin with a throw of 181 feet, two inches. Trewoy's second in the javelin and Lunt's hammer victory were the sole points scored by Colby.

Next to Foster's great win, the Bowdoin rosters' greatest chance to cheer came in the high hurdles when Stanwood, McLaughlin, and Jenkins finished in that order. Stanwood and McLaughlin were expected to be in front of the timber toppers but Jenkins surprised many when he nosed out Fisher of Bates. McLaughlin came back to win the low hurdles rather easily with Fisher nosing out Stan-wood for second place.

Emerson Styment of the Pale Blue ruled supreme in the 100 and 220 dashes. Styment and O'Connor who took first in both the high and broad jumps were the only double winners of the day. Though tired from his 440 race, Sid Foster somehow came from last place as they passed the grandstand to take a third in the 220 with Knox, Bates colored flash, in second position.

The half mile proved to be merely an exhibition of the Bates two mile relay team with Lind, Chapman, and Cole, finishing in that order. Another Bates man was behind these three to complete the rout.

Dill of Bates vaulted 11 feet, four inches for a victory in the pole vault.
Bowdoin copped two and two-thirds points in this event when Appleton and Williams tied for second with Wescott of Maine.

On the whole, the showing of Jack Magee's men was most encouraging.
The White trackmen scored more points than any Bowdoin team since the end of the Bowdoin reign in 1927.

Sid Foster's win of course was the brightest light and the hurdle superiority of the White also was gratifying. The greatest weakness seems to be in the 880, mile and two mile. The weight events also failed to produce many points for the Polar Bear. If Jack Magee can develop some point winners in these events Bowdoin seems due to assume her old throne at the head of Maine track circles.

Incidentally, it might be noted that of the 53 1-3 points scored by Maine at least 30 will be lost by graduation.

FINAL EVENTS
100 Yard Dash
Won by Styment, Maine; second,
White, Maine; third, Knox, Bates.
Time, 10 seconds.

Mile Run
Won by C. Bates, Bates; second, Lindsay, Maine; third, Hayes, Bow-doin. Time, 4:22 3-5.

(Courtesy of Portland Sunday Telegram)

Above: Bowdoin Flyers Sweeping High Hurdles.
Below: Sid Foster Beating Chapman to the Tape in the Quarter.

440 Yard Dash
Won by Foster, Bowdoin; second,
Chapman, Bates; third, Tolman,
Maine. Time, 50 2-5.

120 Yard High Hurdles
Won by Stanwood, Bowdoin; second,
McLaughlin, Bowdoin; third,
Jenkins, Bowdoin. Time, 15 4-5.

880 Yard Run
Won by Lind, Bates; second Chapman, Bates; third, Cole, Bates. Time, 1:58.

220 Yard Dash
Won by Styment, Maine; second,
Knox, Bates; third, Foster, Bowdoin.
Time, 22 seconds.

Two Mile Run
Won by Richardson, Maine; second,
Whitten, Bates; third, Gunning,
Maine. Time, 9:35 4-5 (new record).

220 Yard Low Hurdles Won by McLaughlin, Bowdoin;
second, Fisher, Bates; third, Stanwood, Bowdoin. Time, 24 4-5 seconds.

Pole Vault
Won by Dill, Bates; second, tie among Appleton and Williams of Bowdoin and Wescott, Maine. Winning vault, 11 feet, four inches.

High Jump
Won by O'Connor, Maine; second,
Stanwood, Bowdoin; third, Cuzzo, Maine. Winning jump, five feet, 10 inches.

Shot Put
Won by Webber, Maine; second, Graham, Bates; third, Gowell, Maine.
Winning put, 43 feet, one inch.

Broad Jump
Won by O'Connor, Maine; second,
Soule, Bowdoin; third, Knox, Bates.
Winning jump, 22 feet, 5-7-8 inches.

Javelin Throw
Won by Ashworth, Maine; second, Trewoy, Colby; third, Jensen, Maine.
Winning throw, 181 feet, two inches.

Discus Throw
Won by Gowell, Maine; second,
Houle, Bates; third, Curtis, Maine.
Winning throw, 157 feet, two inches
(new record).

Point Summary

	Bo.	C.	M.
One Mile Run	6	0	0
440 Yd. Dash	3	5	0
100 Yd. Dash	1	0	0
120 Yd. Hurdles	0	9	0
880 Yd. Run	9	0	0
220 Yd. Dash	3	1	0
Two Mile Run	3	0	6
220 Y. Low Hurd.	3	6	0
High Jump	0	3	6
Shot Put	3	0	6
Broad Jump	1	3	0
Hammer Throw	0	4	5
Pole Vault	5	2 1/2	0 1/2
Javelin Throw	0	0	3
Discus Throw	3	0	6
Totals	40	33 1/2	53 1/2

SHORTS MARKET

-GROCERS-

who cater to fraternity trade

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

SOULE'S BARBER SHOP
For First Class Haircutting
Near Campus - Two Expert Barbers

GOLF TEAM DRAWS ONE AND WINS THREE

Mullin Wins All His Matches Against Worcester Tech. M. I. T. and Holy Cross

As the Orient goes to press, the Bowdoin golf team has won three matches and drawn the other. Two matches remain in the New England trip. A skirmish with Tufts at the Union, Stoneham and the final with Brown at the Agawan Hunt Club links in Providence.

The matches with Worcester Polytechnic Institute and M. I. T. were by 6-0 scores while the Holy Cross encounter was a tie. Dick Mullin, No.
1 man, has won all the matches he has taken part in, both singles and doubles. Dillenbeck and De Meyer with 76 and 77 respectively were the low scorers of the Tech clash.

The Worcester match:
Singles-Mullin, Bowdoin, defeated
Capt. Gill, Worcester Tech. 4 and 2;
De Meyer, Bowdoin, defeated Boyle,
Worcester Tech., 2 up; Dillenbeck,
Bowdoin, defeated Heald, Worcester
Tech., 4 and 2; Capt. Deston, Bowdoin, defeated Peterson, Worcester Tech., 5
and 4.

Doubles-Mullin and De Meyer,
Bowdoin, defeated Gill and Boyle, Worcester Tech., 2 and 1; Dillenbeck and Deston, Bowdoin, defeated Heald and Peterson, Worcester Tech., 4 and 3.

The Holy Cross match:
Mullin, Bowdoin, defeated Doyle,
Holy Cross, 3 and 1.
Fay, Holy Cross, defeated De
Meyer, Bowdoin, 3 and 2.

Dillenbeck, Bowdoin, defeated
Baxter, Holy Cross, 4 and 2.
Mayer, Holy Cross, defeated Des-ton, Bowdoin, 2 and 1.

Mullin and De Meyer, Bowdoin, defeated Doyle and Fay, Holy Cross, 3
and 2.
Baxter and Mayer, Holy Cross, defeated Deston and Dillenbeck, Bow-doin, 4 and 2.

The M. I. T. match:
Twosomes-R. C. Mullin defeated
Richard Yates, 3 and 1; John De Meyer defeated Furside, 4 and 3; A.
O. Dillenbeck defeated Churchill, 7 and 5; Ray Deston defeated William Wood, 7 and 6.

Foursomes-Mullin and De Meyer defeated Yates and Furside, 4 and 3; Dillenbeck and Deston defeated
Churchill and Wood, 7 and 5.

the college will be plunged into final examinations and graduation exercises when it will be practically impossible for the men on the teams to take the time to play. Bowdoin's tennis season will be ended May 28 when they play Bates at Brunswick in an exhibition match.

Season Thus Far
The tennis season thus far has not been very successful, as the team met with disaster at every step in the southern trip of two weeks ago. In order to rectify these matches the team must come through and win the State Championship again. However, the team has been greatly handicapped all the season because of the little opportunity to practice. The clay courts have been very soft and all practice has had to be confined to the single cement court. In spite of little practice Bowdoin should be able to defeat Bates and Colby. The White team has several experienced men and the southern trip brought them against some strong teams.

Colby Game

(Continued from page 1)
passed ball scored the Colby outfielder, then Morrill threw another ball high, wide, and handsome for a second run, Klunk scoring.

Colby put across its winning run to Hedderig, doubling Ricker who was racing from third to home.

The outstanding play of the afternoon occurred in the fifth when Ricker galloped in from center to catch Lovett's hit for a spectacular shoestring catch.

Colby	ab	r	h	po	a	e
Karkos, rf	4	0	2	0	0	0
Lovett, lf	2	1	0	2	0	0
Donovan, lb	4	1	1	0	0	0
Klusick, ss	3	1	1	3	1	0
Deetjen, 3b	3	1	2	1	0	0
Ferguson, cf	4	0	1	0	0	0
Davan, 2b	4	0	2	1	3	1
Hedderig, c	4	0	1	1	1	0
Roberts, p	4	0	0	2	0	0
Totals	32	4	6	27	10	3

Bowdoin	ab	r	h	po	a	e
Ricker, cf	5	0	2	4	0	0
Whittier, ss	5	1	2	1	0	0
Dwyer, c	2	1	4	2	0	0
Urban, lf	5	1	3	0	0	0
Chalmers, 2b	4	2	3	0	0	0
Shute, rf	4	2	2	1	0	0
McKown, 3b	4	0	2	1	1	0
Crimmins, lb	4	0	0	8	0	0
Morrill, p	2	0	0	2	0	0
Stiles, p	2	0	0	2	0	0
Totals	37	3	9	27	10	2

Colby 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 0-4
Bowdoin 1 0 0 0 1 0 0 1-3
Two base hits, Dwyer, Shute 2.
Struck out, by Morrill 2, by Stiles 1,
by Roberts 8. Wild pitches, Morrill 4.
Passed balls, Dwyer, Hedderig. Hit by pitcher, by Stiles (Deetjen). Umpires, Gibson and McDonough. Time, 2:05.

Interfraternity Games

As the interfraternity baseball schedule draws to a close the T. D.
outfit is still favored to cop the championship. They sailed through the Deke team with little trouble and will probably continue to do out front.
The two games left to be played,
which will not be played until after Ivy. The T. D. and A. T. O. will battle some time shortly after Ivy and the winner will meet the champion of League B for the championship of the college. All games which were scheduled for last week were rained out.

Although it is difficult to pick a winner between the T. D. team may be expected to win the championship again this year. They have a strong hard hitting outfit which usually hits in a pinch. McCreery, who will probably do the pitching for them, is the equal of any other pitcher in the League. Not much is known about the A. T. O., except that they are strong in batting. However, they may do the unusual and turn back the T. D. team. The odds between the Chi Psi and the Non-Fraternity outfits are about even with the Chi Psi team having a slight edge.

Sportsman's Pen

The State Series now hangs in the balance. Although Bowdoin has shown herself to be superior in the early games of the Series, the question whether she can stand up under the weight of previous victories, is yet to be proved. The Polar Bears would be looked upon with derision if they fall through now, for who dares to question their superiority.

Mr. Hedderig, the Colby catcher, seems to be the essence of all that is smart. The clever chatter and frequent crabbing, as well as the grandstand act of using Ricker's cap to dust off the plate are charming examples of this.

Luke Urban takes a swing at the ball that is always worth watching.
There is no question that he is the most natural batter in the staff. When the ball comes floating up he steps into it and hits with an even horizontal swing. This of course, counts for the very few fly balls he hits.

If Urban is far excellence at bat,
Ricker is the leader as a fielder.
When an opponent lofts a fly to center, the crowd is sure of an out. They way he catches these fly balls reminds one of Flagstead, former Boston outfielder, who roved all over the park with the ease and grace of a deer.

It is surprising what ignorance the baseball crowd display. When the

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is
custom tailored to
your individual measure, has
that distinctive touch which
always marks the wearer as
well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY.

Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Quill Story

(Continued from Page 1)

ist for this paper. He has written several travelogues on his experiences in that country, and one of these, "En Flanant a Constantinople" is a lengthy and in printing it the editors are trying a new and novel scheme. The travelogue is to be broken up into smaller parts and printed in the original French. It is hoped that this article will be favorably received by the public as it is short and none of the French is difficult to translate.

Maurice Graves '27, who is now employed in a bank at Chicago, has written a story "Bang Bang, Illinois".
This is very humorous, light, and lively and interesting to read. Another interesting contribution will be two letters, hitherto unpublished, by Professor Henry Johnson, who was for more than forty years a member of the Bowdoin Faculty. Mr. Johnson was Professor of the Romance Languages and was a very lovable and delightful figure on the campus for many years. He was rather distinguished as a writer and translated Dante's "Divina Comedia" and published several other noteworthy literary works. There is an aviation article by Marion L. L. Short '32 of which the title is "Wings Over Boston: A Fledgling's Diary". Mr. Short very recently secured his pilot's license and his article is a very fascinating account in diary form of his experiences and feelings during his first hours of flying. There are also two stories, "The Hammock" and "A rural tale whose source is the nearby town of Freeport, and "Two Beers", a psychological study. There are several poems which will include the encomiastic Poem, "Reunion", a sonnet and a ballad. The final contribution is "Excerpts from an Undergraduate Notebook". It is a very interesting series of notes which were jotted down by the writer in the classroom in moments of inspiration or in whimsical wanderings of his mind during a lecture.

writer listens to the remarks about him he wonders whether the "national game" is slipping as it's said or it is just because the fans are so far removed from a superior brand of baseball that they lose interest in the intricacies of the game.

There were three exceptional exhibitions in the State Meet. Foster's performance in the 440 was the finest race as far as interest went. Chapman was all doped to win this event but Foster crossed doings up by doing the extraordinary and beating the Bates ace by a half foot.

Gowell's heave of the discus was elevated feet better than that done at the Yale-Princeton meet on Saturday.
In a few years if he continues throwing the plate something ought to be heard from him but now he is a Senior at Maine and therefore will have to throw up different colors.

The pace Richardson set in the two mile run was bewildering to say the least. The time of 9:35 is exceptional no matter what the competition may be. This record will stand for some years to come.

Maine will lose three of its best men by graduation this year. Captain Gowell, weight thrower, Richardson, two miler, and Styment, dash man,
all will depart from the Pale Blue.

Diogenes

(Continued from Page 1)

that the whole undertaking was carried on with a real seriousness of purpose.

On the 30th of April, 1868, "Diogenes" died, probably at an age of over 90 years. The funeral services were conducted by President Harris, on whom the old man had called each year with great ceremony to receive the order on the College Treasurer enabling him to his pay as janitor.

Today there are to be found in the College library several hundred aging volumes, each bearing the label "From the Library of Thomas A. Curtis".
The old man had successfully built himself a memorial, building it gradually and unobtrusively, through regular additions to his fund, none of them causing hardship to the donors, and yet all significant of a sincere interest in the purpose for which they were intended.

THE BOWDOIN COLLEGE NEWS

SENIORS—Fill in the coupon at the bottom of this page

VOL. LX.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 28, 1930.

NO. 7

IVY PARTY BRILLIANT JAMBOREE

Fletcher Henderson Caps Climax at Gala Ivy Ball

LARGE ATTENDANCE

Outings at Scattered Points Prove Eminently Successful as Weather Continues Fair

Pluvius forebore and Ivy festivities flourished. For the first time in many years rain failed to curtail house party plans and imprison fair guests in the fraternity domiciles. In spite of the inadequate apology for a moon the stars shone in gem-like abundance each night and gave way to the most striking surprises ever witnessed by Bowdoin house parties.

Decidedly the feature of the entire program of events was Fletcher Henderson and his orchestra who brought to the Ivy Ball of Friday night the most potent assortment of syncope that ever quivered the crannies of Sargent Gymnasium. As the evening progressed and dancers became increasingly appreciative and enthusiastic the colored artists from the heart of Harlem cut loose with that savage brand of jungle jazz as only the negro can. The clever dancing and singing of several members of the band attracted many from the dance floor to cluster about the orchestra platform in avid appreciation. Henderson sat unmoved at the piano and serenely surveyed his aggregation as they exacted round after round of applause from the onlookers. His teammates, however, mindful of the unbounded spirit of the occasion contributed their best and the result was the most tepid music that ever rang out over the Bowdoin campus.

With the exception of Delta Kappa Epsilon, Kappa Sigma, and Chi Psi, who held a dinner dance at the Eastland Hotel in Portland, festivities commenced Wednesday evening with dinner and formal dances. All the afternoon girls were jammed by Brunswick by motor and by train with the majority electing the former mode of travel. When dusk was falling Bowdoin was graced by nearly three hundred guests and cluttered with twice as many automobiles.

The usual fare at the fraternities was relegated to remote memory when elaborate dinner was served on beautifully garnished tables. House dances got under way about ten o'clock and continued through until four. The unusual weather permitted extensive visiting from house to house.

(Continued on page 2)

NEW YORKER NAMES FORWARD THE WHITE AS PROMISING SONG

Little-Known Bowdoin Song is Included Among Several College Songs Discussed

The following is taken verbatim from the May New Yorker from the column by "Pop," "Popular Sheet Music"—subheaded: "Alma Mater Suddenly Goes Tin Pan Alley."

I am told that the popularity of the University of Maine "Stein Song" this spring may tend to swell the appreciation at the academy which generated it. It has also influenced our commercial producers of arias, for there is a flood of quasi-martial melody sweeping Tin Pan Alley. A diverting parody has already been written—"The International College Songbook," which is recommended as a counter irritant.

Almost simultaneously with the bacchanale from Maine came "Anchors Aweigh," one of the official songs of the Nava Academy. Whereas the "Stein Song" is not too adroitly wrought, "Anchors Aweigh" is patently an expert job. It is almost the only collegiate fabrication that is free of gush. Play practically any so-called marching or football song in slow tempo, and a canto amoroso comes crawling at you.

Whether the exhortation of college songbooks will stop with Maine and Annapolis I do not know. In past years, the tribute to the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi has entered into non-fraternal company, and once upon a time Frank Crummit discovered on a campus (wasn't it Ohio State?) "Sweet Lady." Nevertheless, the business ought not to be hemmed in by Maine and Annapolis. A search through the "International College Songbook," a singularly useful publication, suggests not a few possibilities for exhortation.

"Pop" offers a list of seven college songs with a descriptive note on

(Continued on page 2)

STRAW BALLOT

I am in favor of the new White Key plan
I am not in favor of this plan

BATES GAME ON IVY DAY DISASTROUS

Garnet Utterly Swamps Polar Bear in Dull Exhibition

WHITE PITCHING WEAK

Bowdoin's Standing in State Series Suffers Another Bad Setback

In a rather shiftless, worthless game the Bowdoin ball team suffered another setback on Ivy Day when the Bates nine who have met with little success on the diamond thus far this season walloped a 15-5 win out of the backsliding Polar Bears. The pitching of the White was far below par. Stiles and Morrill allowed fourteen hits and threw four wild pitches to complete the ineffectiveness. Bates ran wild on the bases. Murphy collected two and Casadevall three. Much of the heavy scoring on the part of the Garnet was assisted by the twelve bases on balls. As a result of the game Bowdoin now stands third in the league with a .500 per cent average.

	Standing	Won	Lost	PC
Maine	5	3	.625
Colby	4	3	.571
Bowdoin	4	4	.500
Bates	4	4	.500

(Figures correct to Tuesday)
(Continued on Page 4)

GUNTHER WILMSEN GIVES LECTURE ON GERMAN FOLKSONGS

An appreciative audience was present at the Moulton Union last evening to hear Gunther Wilmsen, German student, deliver a lecture on the folk songs of his native country. Wilmsen rendered several of the better known German songs accompanying himself on a guitar.

Before entering upon his program of songs, Wilmsen explained to the audience the development and gradual decline of the German Youth Movement which was so influential in reviving and popularizing these ancient folk songs. Mr. Wilmsen explained the aims and principles of the movement, telling of desires to express ideals of life in a more simple mode of living than that of the city dweller. The disciples of this sect wandered through their native country and then through Europe so that in their rustic, carefree life it was only natural that they should revive the songs sung by their earliest ancestors centuries before.

Among the folk songs rendered by Mr. Wilmsen were "The Birds of Passage," "The Saga of the King's Two Children," "Spinning Song," "Brother and Sister," "The Red Hussars," "Pagan War Song," "Ballad of the Merchant," and "Song of the Peasants' Revolution."

ROLLINS SYSTEM OF EDUCATION DISCUSSED IN PRIZE DEBATE

Bradbury Prize Won by Negative Team, Composed of Davis, Morrow, and Prince

Tuesday night, May 20, the annual Bradbury Prize Speaking Contest was held in the Lounge Room of the Moulton Union. A team consisting of Albert S. Davis, Jr., Frederick E. Morrow, and Donald P. Prince won the debate. The prize is twenty dollars to each man on the winning team, ten dollars to each man on the losing team, and a bonus of fifty dollars to the best speaker on either team.

The question was: Resolved, That the Rollins System of Education is preferable to that at Bowdoin. The winning team upheld the negative side, and the team consisting of James C. Flint, George P. Towle, and L. Carter Lee argued for the affirmative. On the affirmative side Jim Flint was the first speaker. He gave an introduction and tried to point out where the present system was unsatisfactory. Towle, the second speaker for the affirmative, explained the merits of the Rollins system. Perhaps it should be pointed out that there was more successful than the lecture system that we use here at Bowdoin. Mr. Lee, the final speaker of the affirmative, explained the aims of the two systems, and to a certain extent he tried to point out what an ideal plan would be. As the burden of proof rested with the affirmative side the negative resorted mainly to rebutting the arguments of their opponents which they did quite successfully. Carter Lee was the best speaker of the evening and won the fifteen dollar bonus, and Mr. Davis was the best speaker for the winning team. There did not seem to be a great deal of interest taken in the contest as the entire audience consisted of the two time keepers and the judges of the debate.

STUDENT COUNCIL PROPOSES JUNIOR WHITE KEY GROUP

New Society to Take Over Task of Entertaining Visitors to the College

The Student Council last Monday night drew up plans for a new honorary organization which will take over the duty of looking out for visiting teams, a task which has received little attention at Bowdoin. The new society will take the name of the White Key, and will be composed of men from the Junior Class. The present Sophomore organization will continue under the title of Vigilantes, or another if it seems fit, and will be restricted in scope to carrying on supervisory of Freshman activities. Its membership will consist of one man from each fraternity and the non-fraternity group as under the present system of the White Key.

The entertaining of visitors to our campus is an important duty, and one which has never been given sufficient planning or organization at Bowdoin. Other colleges have successfully instituted Key societies, and these groups have created favorable relations with the various colleges and universities who come in contact with one another during the year.

Membership
The proposed White Key will be composed of twenty members from the Junior Class, divided as follows:
Appointed by the Student Council:
Two Junior assistant managers of Football.

The Junior managers of Hockey, Track, and Baseball.
Three class officers (Elected in Sophomore Year):
Two from the Musical Clubs.
Two from the Publications.
One from Dramatics.

The above members will be selected by the council acting with suggestions from the various organizations in the (Continued on page 2)

SIX MEMBERS OF '31 ELECTED TO IBIS FOR COMING YEAR

Honorary Society Chooses Artinian, Jenkins, Smyth, Salder, Pinkham, and Walker

Six members of the Class of 1931 were recently elected to membership in Ibis, the only local honorary society at Bowdoin. The men selected were John L. Snider, Paul A. Walker, Artine Artinian, Hawthorne L. Smyth, Albert E. Jenkins, and Stanley D. Pinkham.

The other four Juniors who complete the society are Arthur L. Crimmins, Donald E. Prince, and James B. Colton, 2nd. At a recent meeting Eke was elected president for the coming year and Prince named as secretary-treasurer. This was founded in 1903 as a senior honorary society and up to this year the members were picked mostly on their literary ability. By the policy adopted by the outgoing Seniors, the members of this year are now chosen according to their leadership in the different campus activities.

Robert S. Eke was a member of this year's varsity football squad and is well known on the campus. Prince is editor-in-chief of the Bugle and was chosen as a member of the Ivy Day committee. He has been prominent in forensic activities and is assistant manager of the Debating Council.

Arthur L. Crimmins received the wooden spoon emblematic of his election as Popular Man and is a member of the varsity football and basketball squads. He is the Dean List and is a member of the Chapin committee. Colton was captain of the gym team this year and has been prominent in literary activities. Snider was a managing editor of the Orient this year and is now the managing editor of the Alumnus next year. Walker recently was elected as editor-in-chief of the Orient and was on the debating team this year. Artinian will be the manager of the year.

(Continued on page 4)

CLASSICAL CLUB HAS BANQUET AT EAGLE

On Monday evening, May 26, the Bowdoin Classical Club held its annual banquet at the Eagle.

After the banquet the club proceeded with the election of officers for next year. James B. Colton, 2nd, was elected to the presidency, Hawthorne L. Smyth was chosen as president, Arthur J. Deeks, secretary, and Artine Artinian, treasurer.

According to the custom of this society shingles were presented to the Senior class for next year. Dillenbeck has been a reliable player on the team since his first year, and seems to be the logical man to lead it next year. Bowdoin's golf record this year is the brightest spot of the whole sports chronicle, and we only hope that it will continue as good.

FUTURE PROSPECTS IN TRACK APPEAR FAIRLY CHEERING

With Abundance of Young Material Bowdoin Should Regain Old Supremacy

With the taking of fifth place at Technology Field last Saturday afternoon, Jack Magee's 1930 track squad brought its season to a close. It has been a period of slow recuperation from the defeats of the last two years, and of building up the machine which was shattered in '28 and '29 by the graduation of one of the most brilliant collections of track men ever brought together in a small college. With the addition of fresh material from the lower classes, and the sensational development of some of the runners and weight men he already had, Coach Magee can sit back with a satisfied grin and wait for what's coming.

"We have a team of Sophomores, a young team," he finally said at a recent interview. "With such competitors as Del Galbraith, Charley Stanwood, Gatchell, Dan Johnson, and Thistlewaite having two years of experience before them, we can begin to make the wheels go 'round again. The team is coming along fairly well, relatively weak in track, it has several outstanding men. McLaughlin, of course, is one find, and Hickok, Haskell and Briggs will hold up their end of the scoring a year or so more. Though a few entries have been made at the I. C. AA meet next week, plans for actual competition are doubtful. Galbraith and Chapman may compete in the jumper, and Foster in the four-foot. Stanwood is always a possibility in the hurdles, where he took five points on Saturday. It is probable, though, that Magee will lag his men off for the rest of the spring from actual competition.

It may be of some interest for track fans to sum up just where the strength of Bowdoin in state meets will come next year. To begin with, she will be supreme in the hurdles. Unless something is seriously wrong with every time indication this season, sixteen points would not be too much to hope for when the clans gather in June. As for the mile, Galbraith can submerge anybody left in the state next season at the hammer, as he decisively proved at the New England in getting rid of Lunt of Colby in the mile race.

Then there is Dan Johnson. A point here and there in the weights, except in the javelin, where Bowdoin is notorious for its weakness, is the footwork again. Foster will go places in the four-foot. Oddie Chapman is out of the way in the half-mile, and long strings of eighty-eight men, and long strings of eighty-eight men, and out of the Garnet stronghold. A lot of things depend on Thistlewaite and Cobb, with their middle-distance playmates, in the next year or so. Usher will develop further in the (Continued on page 5)

MANY INTERESTING FEATURES SET FOR COMMENCEMENT

Festivities will be interspersed with Various Activities of More Serious Nature

With the closing of final examinations on June fourteenth, the college gives itself over to the restoration of Commencement Week. In place of undergraduates, alumni of every class will be coming back to fill the campus, and college officials will hold their meetings and conferees throughout the week. An unusually interesting series of events has been scheduled. On Sunday, June fifteenth, President Sills will deliver the annual Baccalaureate Sermon in the College Church at five o'clock. The service will witness the Alexander Prize Speaking finals in Memorial Hall. During the evening, when nine contestants will compete for the twenty-five hundred dollar of the award.

Tuesday will chiefly be marked by the class day exercises under the Thordike Oak, in the afternoon. That evening the Senior Ball will be held in the gymnasium. Of more importance are the meetings of the Trustees at Hubbard Hall, in the Classical Room, and of the Overseers, in the Lecture Room.

Wednesday morning finds the Alumni Council meeting in Massachusetts Hall at eight-thirty. Two hours later 1910 and 1915 will stage an indoor baseball game on the Delta, and the basketball eleven Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Chapter of M. will meet in the Alumni Reading room for its annual elections. The annual meeting of the alumni association takes place at three-thirty, preceded by a buffet luncheon in the Union at the same time there will be a luncheon for the Society of Bowdoin Women.

Later in the afternoon Professor Edward Hames Wass will present an organ recital in the chapel. At three o'clock the directors of the alumni fund meet in Massachusetts Hall, and at four-thirty a band concert will start on the campus. President and Mrs. Sills will be the guests of honor of the Moulton Union after four.

The day will be capped by the out-door presentation of Romeo and Juliet by the Masque and Gown, under the direction of Professor Charles E. Gray. The Commencement Exercises will proper begin on Thursday with an organ recital by Professor Wass in the chapel. Half an hour later comes graduation, followed by the Commencement Dinner in the gymnasium and a buffet lunch at the Union.

(Continued on page 2)

HOUSERMEN DROP GAME TO MAINE

Errors at Critical Moments Count Heavily

DWYER INJURED

Desperate Ninth Inning Rally Falls Barely Short of Victory

The Bowdoin Polar Bear slid back into the doldrums once again on Tuesday, May 20, and took the second successive defeat when Maine slashed a 4-3 decision over the White at Pickard Field in a game overloaded with errors, due in part to the inclement weather. Maine committed two errors while Bowdoin doubled that amount. The White's misuses came at a time when Maine was pressing the battle stiffly and, therefore, were somewhat responsible for the final outcome. The pitching was steady, Perkins having the edge with eleven strikeouts to Southern's two.

In the ninth the White suffered a severe turn of fate when Sonny Dwyer, stepping out to catch a flying foul of Palmer's but with his bare hand, badly injured it. Several stitches were required to close the wound, which will put the Bowdoin catcher out of the game for the rest of the season. Jake Smith will no doubt handle the pitchers from now on. Bowdoin started the scoring in the third with a run and held the lead till the sixth when the Pale Blue pushed one run across to knot the count. Most of the scoring, however, took place in the ninth. Maine scored three runs on a walk, two errors, one by Bell and another by Shute, and three hits. Bowdoin came back with a vengeance but fell short. Smith walked. Urban had a long triple, which he stretched into home run when the catcher failed to get him at the plate. The rally lost all its promise when Chalmers, who had been passed, was caught asleep off first. Shute and McKown then failed in their attempt to bring home victory as the game ended.

WALKER WINNER OF PLUMMER SPEAKING

Tuesday evening, a week ago, three Juniors engaged in the annual Stanley Plummer Prize Speaking Contest. Established by a gift from Stanley Plummer, of the class of 1867, it was first competed for in 1919. The terms of the contest leave it open only to entries from the Junior class, who shall deliver an original oration of some fifteen minutes' length.

Held as part of the English Six Thursday evening class this year, the competition was decided by the vote of two judges and of the audience. First place was awarded unanimously to Paul Walker, who dealt with the place of religion in a college man's life. Second prize was awarded to Donald Prince, who spoke on branch banking, and honorable mention taken by James Flint, who dealt with religion in college. The orations, prepared and rehearsed under the direction of Ralph de Somer Childs, of the English Department, were carefully worded and excellently delivered. Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Childs for the time which he has devoted to extra-curricular forensics this year.

RICHMOND SOUNDS STRONG PLEA FOR MORE TOLERANCE

In Ivy Oration Calls it One of Greatest Needs of World Today

The Ivy Oration was delivered by Albert F. Richmond, who spoke on a prevailing evil in "A Warning Against Religious Intolerance." His address follows in full:
Fortunately or unfortunately I have been chosen the class orator. Fortunately and unfortunately if I can't. If what I have to say is pleasing to some but displeasing to others, I hope at least that it may be of interest to all. In choosing a subject for this oration, my chief aim was to get something that would not be sentimental, for I couldn't conceive of the Junior Class itself in any such mood on this occasion. While it is true that many of us up here may just at present look a bit serious, because, I hope you will realize that it is only temporary and that appearances do not reveal the whole truth. And this is supposedly the reason why once again we are engaged in this, in order to avoid any future conflict after marriage, agreed to be frank with each other in all things. After they had discussed a great many important things in detail, the young lady finally said, "Dear, there's one thing more that I have never told you, I want you to know it now. I am a social democrat." "Aw! is that all," said the young man. "Don't let that worry you at all, Mary, because after we're married you can go to your church and I'll go to mine."

One of the greatest needs that men have today is tolerance. The many aspects of life clearly reveal this need. (Continued on page 2)

MAINE WINS NEW ENGLAND MEET AGAIN

Bowdoin's Little Cluster Takes Thirteen Points For Fifth Place

COMPETITION KEEN

Foster, Usher, Stanwood, Chapman, and Galbraith Win Places as Polar Bears Put Up Game Fight

For the fourth consecutive year, led this time by stocky Earl Gowell, the University of Maine has gathered in the New England track and field championship. Last Saturday afternoon a little group of wearers of the pale blue, just half a dozen in number, proceeded to run fourteen other teams at Cambridge off their legs and into the bush in one of the closest finishes that has ever been seen at these games. Twenty-six and one-half points gave Maine a two and one-half point lead over Northeastern. Holy Cross, crippled by the loss for the time being of Jimmy Daley, was third, and two more points down the list, while Bates fought it out to the bitter end for a fourth place and twenty points.

Bowdoin was fifth, and a praise-worthy fifth, considering the loss of Johnson and Coach Magee's wise decision to save McLaughlin for his Senior year. Taking a first in no event, but piling up points in the hurdles and hammer, the White raked in thirteen points. Stanwood doubled in the hurdles, Usher ran one of the fastest miles of his life for a fourth, and Foster got another in the quarter. In the hammer, where Chapman and Del Galbraith buried Lunt of Colby some four feet under to take second and third behind Flanagan, the Holy Cross strong man of the year.

Records shattered began at the trials on Friday, when Geoffort of New Hampshire heaved the javelin up into the wind for a new record by an inch or so. His mark went for a second record in the hammer, when Forberg from Northeastern slammed the stick out one hundred and eighty-eight feet or so. Oddie Chapman broke another record in the mile race, a second, ran the half in one fifty-four and two-fifths to take three fifths of a second off of the mark set by Leness of M. I. T. Gowell in 1926.

T. Gowell failed to better Duke Charles' old record, falling some ten feet short of the one hundred fifty-seven feet that he did at Whittier Field a week ago. Richardson and Lindsay, joint holders of the national cross-country record, jogged home ahead of Whitten for what looked like a dead heat in the two-mile. After some consultation the judges gave Richardson the five points and a teammate, O'Connor Takes Jumps.

It was Charley O'Connor, though, (Continued on Page 4)

To Get Opinion on White Key Plan

The following men will conduct straw ballots in their houses tonight on the proposed White Key plan and please report the results to Bob Thayer:

Alpha Delta Phi, H. M. Davis, Jr.; Alpha Tau Omega, P. A. Walker, Jr.; Beta Theta Pi, H. B. Thayer, Jr.; Chi Psi, Weston Rankin; Delta Kappa Epsilon, E. B. Whitcomb; Delta Upsilon, Philip Blodgett; Kappa Sigma, E. W. Lancaster; Psi Upsilon, O. S. Pettigill, Jr.; Sigma Nu, Jay Jensen; Theta Delta Chi, H. P. Chapman, Jr.; Zeta Psi, H. V. Stiles; Non-Fraternity, Robert Maynard.

A QUESTION TO THE GRADUATING CLASS

As the Seniors leave Bowdoin this spring they are leaving behind them all the multitude of college activities in which they have taken part for the last four years. It is you of the graduating class to whom this paragraph is addressed. When you leave us do you intend to cut all ties with Bowdoin, or will you make some attempt to keep in touch with the College and with the old crowd?

The latter, we hope. Now there are just two ways of doing this—first, by carrying on an extensive and time-consuming correspondence, second, by reading the Orient or Alumnus, or both. Why not let them help keep old times fresh in your minds? It's much simpler.

The Bowdoin Publishing Co., Moulton Union, Brunswick, Me. Gentlemen:

Please enter my name for a year's subscription to:
☐ The Orient$2.00
☐ The Alumnus$1.50
Bill me next fall at the address below; I shall then remit and advise you of my new address.
Name
Address

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief

Paul A. Walker '31

Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

Sports Department

Robert L. M. Ahern '33

Edward B. McMenamin '33

H. Allan Perry '33

John T. Gould '31

Fred R. Kleibacker '31

Contributing Editors

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artiman '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions: $3.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, May 28, 1930

No. 7

Ivy

This year's Ivy Day and attendant festivities seem to have been voted a complete success, to judge from the comment heard during party. The much-heralded Ivy Day Exercises were fairly well attended, and were very enjoyable. It is only to be regretted that more of the Student Body and Faculty were not present, particularly, the Juniors themselves. We wish again to congratulate the committee and the class officers on the program provided. We hope that this year's exercises, following upon last year's excellent program, will do much to restore the exercises of Ivy Day to their former prominent place among Bowdoin traditions, from which many feared they were slipping. Traditions, in this age, seem destined to oblivion. Yet it is well that we keep certain of these "outworn, empty ceremonies" to remind us of the Bowdoin that was, of the times when our fathers attended college, of a day which, though perhaps slower than today, was none the less alive and fascinating.

The New England

Bowdoin placed fifth. Considering our past record, we cannot exactly rise and cheer at this, but we can be and are proud of Jack Magee's work with this year's track squad. We have fine prospects for the coming year, with the great majority of our men returning in the fall. We should be able to climb higher, and we most assuredly will. In a few years, Bowdoin should be well up in the van, where she belongs. And meanwhile, let us be patient and appreciative.

Student Council

Student Council elections are being held today. Probably by the time the ORIENT reaches its readers, they will have been completed. It is therefore somewhat of a fulsome gesture to plead for an election free from fraternity "politics", or more politely put, "prejudices". We hope that this election has been run with this element at the minimum. Of course, in a fraternity college such as Bowdoin, no election can be exactly "lily-white" in this respect, for no man is free from a certain sense of obligation to vote for his fraternity brother. It is for this reason among others that we feel that the Student Council is not a representative body. It is rather a sort of honorary position for the leading men, usually athletes (though not always), in the College. Lately it has not functioned as much of anything except a sounding board for the administration, a sort of rubber stamp, as it were, on which the opinions and wishes of this body are impressed. It is time we had a reorganization, time we elected a Student Council that would be representative, and as in other colleges, have the strength and breadth to represent the opinions of the Student Body at large. It would seem advisable to have at least one man from every fraternity, and one from the non-fraternity group on the Council, and also to have a certain number of men elected "at large". Thus the Student Council would be as a body, both representative and honorary; it would be more than just a duty to serve on it, for the honorary phase would still exist, not perhaps as prominent as before, but then, Bowdoin has enough honorary societies that exist, if one can apply that word, merely as rewards of merit. Let us make the Student Council graduate from such a position to one of influence and importance.

Phi Beta Kappa Elections

A proposal has recently been made to hold the annual meeting for election to the Bowdoin Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa earlier in the year than the day before Commencement as under the present system. This seems a very logical proposition and one that should prove more satisfactory to the recipients of the Keys. Under the present system, the Senior receives a Phi Beta Kappa Key in recognition for high scholastic achievement, and proceeds to graduate the next day. All that is his at Bowdoin in way of recognition of his work is a mention in the ORIENT and a line in the Catalogue (which is seldom seen). Were he to be awarded a Key earlier in the year, in May perhaps, he would have the satisfaction of wearing it the remainder of the year and would enjoy this recognition that should be his. And in spite of the many slurs against Phi Betes and other scholastic societies of this type prevalent with wags collegiate, there are few who have earned the honor of election to Phi Beta Kappa who do not appreciate its significance and who do not desire recognition of some sort by their classmates. The proposed early election would make the winning of a Phi Beta Kappa Key more to be desired here and would undoubtedly further interest in scholastic achievement to a greater or less extent.

Communication

May 25, 1930.

Editor of the Orient:

Will you be so kind as to print this explanation.

I met Mr. Fossdick on the campus one day in January. We exchanged pleasantries, swapped gossip, and began to talk about the Quill, in which I am interested. He then asked me to write something for the Quill, and I told him that I had a one-act play and would write several short stories about New England people. The play I wrote for Professor Gray's drama course, and Professor Gray's opinion

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

"THE CRITICAL YEAR"

by Professor Beale, on sale May 22

READ DOUGLAS FOSDICK

in The June American Magazine, out May 20

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

of it was that it had an excellent situation with people confronted with a problem loaded with drama, but that I had let go of it. He advised me to work it out and polish it off. This I did. When I came back to the campus this year, I reread the play and liked it more than ever. I decided to give it to the Quill.

"I can't use it," Mr. Fossdick said, "the Maine quota is already filled."

"O, you have geographical quotas, do you?"

"I want you to write a book review," Mr. Fossdick said.

"I can't write book reviews—well, I'll do 'Farewell to Arms' for you, but I don't think an awful lot of that book."

I didn't write the book review. I didn't have the time.

After my letter about the unreadable Quill appeared in the Orient, Mr. Fossdick told me that he did not say "Maine"; he said "main". He meant the main quota. I accepted his explanation and apologized for misquoting, yet he turned around and wrote a letter in which he accuses me of being dishonest.

As for the two constant communicators, one can't say much. I asked Mr. Colton if he understood the rhetorical device of irony. He assured me he did. I accepted his explanation, for he is Brother Colton to me.

I then asked him why he—in view of the fact that he understands what irony is—willfully misquoted me and knowingly distorted my letter. His only defense was: "Well we had to get you." I understand Mr. Colton teaches Sunday School, and that Mr. Kleibacker defends the Christian Religion editorially in the Quill.

William Murphy ex-'27.

White Key

Continued from Page 1

spring of the Sophomore year.

Elected by Junior Class

In the fall of the Junior year the above fourteen will nominate twelve Juniors from which group six will be chosen by the class.

In the event of over-lapping membership in the first fourteen, i.e. should a class officer be a manager, the number of members at large will vary accordingly to fill the quota of twenty. In this case the number nominated will be double the number necessary for completion.

Officers

The officers shall be a president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer. The vice president shall serve as corresponding secretary. The officers shall be elected from the eleven representatives of the various organizations by the first fourteen immediately after selection in the spring of the Sophomore year.

Track Prospects

Continued from Page 1

mile. Sewall has the makings of a strong distance man, and his easy stride should carry him along in the two-mile with Lavender when Richardson and Lindsay of Maine are gone for good. Whitten of Bates will be a good trouble there, however.

Then come the jumps, about as safe a matter to prophesy on as the mean average rainfall of Kalamazoo. Johnson, if his injured leg comes back to form, and all indications point to that at present, is going to go out in front in the broad-jump and stay there. Briggs has the stuff to make another good man in the event, and Stanwood and McLaughlin may try their hand at it. As for the high-jump, Stanwood seems again to be the bully boy with the glass eye.

Yes, Bowdoin has a young team, a fighting team, and a team that's going to come back and nail the flag to the masthead and ring the chapel bell as it used to be rung. Be seeing you in thirty-one.

President Sills and Mr. Philip S. Wilder called on Ebenezer Bean of Walnut Hill last Saturday afternoon. He is the oldest living graduate of Bowdoin College being one hundred and one years old.

THE IVY POEM

HYMN TO TRUTH

in Alcaic stanzas

By James Byers Colton, II

Long years have men been seeking for Wisdom's light;
The quest of Truth forever calls forth the best,
For Wisdom giveth life to them that Have Her,—and happy is he that finds Her.

Years passing by us leave but their shadows dim;
Old times and friends reluctant to part too soon.
No more illusion glids our thoughts with Dreams of the world or our childhood fancies.

Truth! Truth! Art Thou our fostering mother now?
Have we as students sought for a sign from Thee?
Speak! Tell us secrets; show us Wisdom,
Pointing the way to a high endeavor!

Upward the path of knowledge is leading us;
Goals fade before us; stumbling, we lose the stars.
Yet, through the toilsome travail pressing,
Splendid above us, we see Truth shining.
Day follows day, and year after year succeeds.
Old orders change in yielding to new, but still Cry we "Excelsior! The clouded Night shall be crowned with the morning sunrise!"

College Songs

(Continued from Page 1)

each Bowdoin's little song "Forward the White" is included among "Yes, Alabama!", "Lord Geoffrey Amherst", "Fight for the Glory of Carnegie", "Fording Marching Song", "The Panther (U. of Pittsburgh)", and "Oh! Fairest Alma Mater (Smith College)". The explanatory paragraph on "Forward the White" says: "In even tempo this croons magnificently, even if the words are the usual business about doing and daring."

Although the Bowdoin undergraduate body has not the slightest desire to have their song popularized in the manner that the beloved Rudy Vallee has made the "Stein Song" familiar from coast to coast it does seem as if "Forward the White" ought to be more appreciated within the campus portals. That it is a fine, free-swinging composition which merits more recognition cannot be denied. Why, then, should it not be commonly and whole heartedly adopted? Here is a well-known critic of present day music classing it with the best of the college songs. Once again—why not pay some attention to this excellent heritage?

Ivy Party

(Continued from Page 1)

Thursday brought the customary Ivy house party outings and picnics and although the sky was overcast and threatened of rain at times, expeditions to Harpswell, Lake Sebago, Cape Elizabeth, Sprucewood Lodge, Sebago Country Club were all reported as superlatively successful.

House dances were again in order at the majority of the Greek-letter societies in the evening. Sigma Nu remained at Migis Lodge at Lake Sebago and danced to music furnished by Don Morey and his Atlantic City orchestra while the D. U.'s were entertained at Poland Spring by the Jersey Jic-Jacs.

Ivy Day exercises were held under the perfect weather which held sway throughout the day and evening. Attendance was sparse as usual. The athletic affair staged at Whittier Field in the afternoon was also rather poorly supported. It's little less than a crime to require a ball game during the annual Ivy celebration period for the purpose of entertaining guests for it is invariably a farce which is clearly expensive to the welfare of the team. Two nights with but a minimum of rest and without practice is fatal. As it happened this year the Ivy game dropped the White ball team into a ruck which will be quite difficult to vacate at this late date. The 15-5 score in favor of Bates which had passed for Friday's contest not a game to its credit is clearly indicative of the poor condition of the home team.

The Gym Dance in the evening was a gala affair with a larger attendance than in the past few years. The decorations of Mr. Vincent Cobb measured up to expectations and the music by Henderson was unparalleled. Small black walnut jewelry boxes with Ivy '31 carved on the lid were given as favors and were received with little comment. Realization of the expense of the music restricted criticism.

Saturday dusk the festivities and saw a general exit of guests except those of D. K. E. who had their third day of activity at Sprucewood Lodge in Boothbay Harbor and Kappa Sigma who journeyed to Lake Sebago. All concerned tell of a highly successful three days and are still reviewing and recuperating.

CALENDAR

May 29—Reading period begins.

May 30—Final Day.

Baseball—Bates, there.

May 31—Baseball—Colby, here.

June 2—Final Exams begin.

June 14—End of Exams.

Baseball—Bates, there.

Used Books Bought

by John S. Phillips of the Phillips Book Store - Cambridge, Mass.

Thursday, May 29 only, at Room 19
North Winthrop

This is an opportunity to sell all your books that you are now through with

Vacation in the Clouds

—while you learn to fly!

This Summer you can enjoy a memorable vacation while learning to fly — at the Curtiss-Wright Summer Flying Camp in Portland, Maine. Under ideal flying conditions, surrounded by every facility for recreational activities, you'll enjoy every minute of a wonderful vacation.

Flying instruction is under the direction of government licensed, experienced Curtiss-Wright instructors, in new modern planes. As accommodations are limited, you are urged to communicate at once with the camp director, J. Halsey Gulick, Clapp Memorial Building, Portland, Maine.

CURTISS-WRIGHT FLYING SERVICE

"World's Oldest Flying Organization"
PORTLAND, MAINE

Ivy Oration

Continued from Page 1

Intolerance shows a state of mind that has failed to grasp the first principles which any community, which any college or university education should inculcate. That is the respect for the opinions of others and a realization that not one of us possesses the key to the absolute truth. De Toqueville, in his famous "Democracy in America", made this remark against intolerance. "We know very little at the present time. There is much we can justly hope to learn. Everyone of us has seen changes, which when we first learned about them, there was a much greater than there is now. How then can we be certain that we know the whole truth?"

Religious intolerance as shown in politics is to me the greatest evil of intolerance. The three centuries of conflict here in the United States reveal that there has been a steady decrease in the fervor and bitterness which marked the earliest periods. But conditions even today are far from perfection and satisfaction. People may still have a reason to wonder why there is so much religious intolerance and to what end it is all going to lead us. To me religious intolerance today is largely the result of a misunderstanding and misapprehension of things as they really exist. In this connection I wish to mention briefly as an illustration the position of the Roman Catholic Church. There are many Americans who still feel that the Roman Catholic Church is not merely a religious organization but a political power which in it has elements of danger to American institutions. Whether this feeling is justified or unjustified, it has its origin in history.

One may well look back to the Middle Ages to get a basis for the views now held of the Roman Catholic Church. And if one looks into the past, he will see that as an organization the church has been really through those ages, exercised political power. The mere mention of the claims of such Popes as Hildebrand, Hadrian IV, and Innocent III are enough to recall the political power once held and claimed by the church. It is said that these same claims for political power have evolved to the present day, and such documents as Pope Pius IX's and Pope Pius XI's Encyclicals, instituting the Feast of the Kingdom of Christ, are said to contain expressions that can be reasonably interpreted as claiming the supremacy of the church over the state. For the most part these suspicions are wholly unreasonable. To me they appear more like the smoldering embers of a once bitter conflict between the Church and its enemy states. The ascendancy of the Church in the affairs of any nation is an attribute of an age that is past and not one of an age of enlightenment and of great social and human progress.

Up to now, I have spoken of that sort of religious intolerance that has come about from a misunderstanding of the relations between the church and the state. And I have given one illustration. But leaving the Church out of it, this same misunderstanding and the intolerance are reflected from the people in their whole political relation to one another. For instance, here and there, some voice from one religious faction or another has been heard to advocate unity of action through the agency of a political party. So far the chances are that not one in a thousand who heard that voice, gave the suggestion a serious thought. But it is just from such an ill-founded notion as this gives rise to misunderstanding, intolerance, and further to suspicions that either one faction or the other is acting apart from the rest of the American people. And it is here that a real warning must be sounded against intolerance. To most of us it is highly unthinkable that any religious faction should ever get apart from the rest of the American people. Such a thing would seem destructive of all American ideals of government. If, for instance, by a "clan vote" is meant one that is cast for reasons which have nothing to do with the issues themselves but for the exclusive reason that the voter is a member of that particular factor, then the purpose of the existing structure of the American government, as intended by the fathers of the American Constitution, no longer applies. If you can imagine a situation in which a party in power, elected by such a group or faction, were controlling the legislatures for their own welfare and protection, a situation in which the courts were governed and determined by disrespect for the rights of others, then you can readily foresee the results. At present, however, no such conditions exist, but that to me does not mean that such conditions can never exist. If Americans are to continue in our belief in the absolute freedom of conscience for all and the equality of all churches, sects, and beliefs, if we are to continue in our belief in the absolute separation of the church and the state, then we must forget those ancient prejudices that have their origin in ages past and have no place in our modern state of thought and action.

At a time when misunderstanding and intolerance are so widespread among the people at large, have we not reason to wonder if our system of education, that in particular of the college and the university, is founded wholly on the right basis. Are these institutions trying to help offset this general misunderstanding by inculcating the principles of tolerance. In college we have a form of tolerance which always seemed to me should be known as "would-be tolerance". It has all the appearances but some of the reality. In his definition of tolerance Phillips Brooks has given a pretty good explanation of "would-be tolerance". In the first place, he says

(Continued on page 4)

Alteration charge

Harmon's Annual SPRING SALE

Starts Monday May 26th. Surpassing any Previous sale sponsored by Harmon's. This fifth annual sale is by far the largest and most impressive event ever held in this store. Every suit and topcoat, every shirt and tie, in fact, everything in our store will be marked at unbelievable prices! Below are listed just a few of the articles on sale, but the space is much too limited to enumerate a tenth of the bargains. Come as early as you can. Save at Harmon's in this Mammoth Spring Sale. Our loss is your gain!

Cash sale

Quantity		WERE	NOW
37	SUITS	35.00	27.50
25	SUITS	37.50	29.50
40	SUITS	40.00	32.50
28	SUITS	45.00	34.50
47	SUITS	50-55	39.50
35	SUITS	60-65	49.50

Quantity		WERE	NOW
4	TOP COATS	30.00	22.50
12	TOP COATS	35.00	26.50
9	TOP COATS	37.50	29.50
8	TOP COATS	40.00	32.50
10	TOP COATS	45-50	37.50
12	TOP COATS	55-60	44.50

ODD LOT OF SUITS now 19.50

ODD LOT OF TOPCOATS now 19.50

ALL THE BALANCE OF THIS SEASON'S OVERCOATS ½ PRICE

NECKTIES now 79c - 1.19 - 1.69
HALF HOSE now 10 to 50% off
Shoes and Sport Oxfords 10 to 20% off

All Fancy Knickers and Pants 20% off
Lounging and Beach Robes 20% off
Dunhill and Sasini Pipes now 20% off

White Flannel Trousers 10% off
White Linen Knickers 10% off

Mark Cross Leather Goods 25% off
Luggage and Wardrobe Trunks 25% off

Wool Polo Shirts now 2.95

CAPS
20% off

Rayon Polo Shirts 2.50 grade now 1.95

SHIRTS

WHITE OXFORDS were 2.50 - 3.00

1.95

ALL FANCY SHIRTS

20% off

Leather Jackets were 15.00 now

8.95

Special Lots

GOLF HOSE
20% off

Special Lot 98c

Trench Coats
were 8.50 now

4.95

HATS

ALL HATS IN OUR STOCK INCLUDING
DOBBS & SCHOBLE

20% off

GLOVES

20% off

A REAL BONA FIDE REDUCTION OF FROM 10 TO 50% ON EVERY ARTICLE IN OUR STORE. EVERY ITEM FROM OUR REGULAR STOCK—NOTHING BOUGHT ESPECIALLY FOR THIS SALE. FOLLOWING OUR REGULAR POLICY OF CARRYING NOTHING OVER THE SUMMER, OUR STOCK MUST BE CLEANED OUT REGARDLESS OF COSTS OR PROFITS. MAKE ARRANGEMENTS TO COME EARLY TO THIS SALE OF SALES.

HARMON'S

ANTIQUITY SHOP

THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT
SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT

Quality Printing

Town Building

BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10

Also Tennis Shoes, Mocassins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

LYMAN B. CHIPMAN

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale-Retail

574 Congress St., Portland, Me.

'Anything' you want Pressed?

Give it to

LAVENDER OR ESTLE

LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES

Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —

Send Your Washing to the

CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH

AGENT

Special Rates to Students

on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and

FRATERNITY PAPER

KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

PRINTING

of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.

Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

QUALITY

ALWAYS.

Brunswick Publishing

Company

Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets

Telephone Brunswick No. 3

-:- MUSTARD AND CRESS -:-

TALK O' THE TIMES

(Contributed)

Ho! what's this 'merging monster' 'gainst the sky,
That's come to tell us what to say and why.
To censor that which shall from students go
As college life to Messrs. so and so!
Withhold the purse, and you'll have all your say,
(You think) for that is commonly the way.
Sd, and 't would be if prep school boys should find
That Bowdoin men do aught but grind and grind;
Right hard upon alumni to discover
Their "good old days" in these late times lived over.
One loyal alumnus has e'en said,
"Go fetch 'em and then lick 'em in the shed".
(I trust he's never sucked a cigarette,
Or drunk a single sodawater yet);
But there's a history by Dr. Hatch
(For whose's ever read of it a snatch)
Wherein you've opportunity to learn all In better style than Staples' Evening Journal, —
"How time does cure diseases in all things",
You're spurred to say when fretful Staples sings.
But shortly to the point, you editors
Have met a certain censorship of creditors;
And, to be plain, if you don't soon get milder —
I'll not conclude, all's wilder, wilder, wilder.

Now turn we to a late appearing Orient.
There's a grievous tedious sentimental story in't
About traditions, goddesses and tear bombs,
While men are all reduced to muddling mere Toms;
The point is, 't would increase the blanket taxes
By making all the boys go get "em axes".
To publish stuff exacted in your columns
Shows both press vanity and small resources;
If you have naught to say, but say it will,
You ought to save't, and post it in the Quill,
And not go fiddling at a serious tune
That others have thought worthy their communications in the latest Orient issues.

Another donkey'd claw this thing to tissues,
And tell us what it is to be romantic.
Romantic means — but "that's beside the point";
That royal "we" you use is out of joint,
For you have "few opinions" and "care less", —
It's pitiful to publish such a mess,
And common when a man would escape his debts
And mob his creditors that jail he gets.

Time's flown, and this same monster, all inflated,
Has descended on us, and is being
This world of greed, of evil, and of woe —
He's like a buzzard buzzing to and fro.
The latest Orient (if you should look)
Has onions from Mahatma, grapes from Crook:
This one will tell what drinks alumni please,
And that will smart your eyes and make you sneeze;
Mahatma, like a lodestar looming high,
A thundering Jove rampaging through the sky,
Has found his intellectual stature whittled, —
O! Who's so great to be so far belittled!
With logic like to Peter with his keys on
The Golden Gates he prates without a reason:
He says all's missed the mark that's been unfurled
(But space to stand we need to lift the world);
Berating college, and editorial policy,
He, the judge (he! he!) and in his follies he Forgets plain facts; and without a single pang
Would not reform, yet heading any gang
Would rape and ravage just as soon as not —
Is this the price of his "independent" thought!

But hie thee, Muse, — time flies and thou art slow —
Ere tawny Phoebus lift his garish brow
And merge all sprites of darkness in day-dust,
Lest thou too be impaled in lacquer's rust;
Here is no place to reiterate the theme,
But room enough to mark things as they'd seem:
Remind them they have fought their battle well,
And that intentions more than outcomes tell,
That love remains, though signs and symbols pass,
That reverence is like a looking glass,
Reflecting many forms, yet emblem all
Of sympathies as certain at the call,
Of feelings as profound and sure disposed,
As those by grizzled sages oft disclosed.
Who shall forget the ballad of Lord Kenneth?
Or who the wigwag ditty (and what it meaneth)?
Those words of Hawthorne, and of more, reveal That put most trenchantly by Dr. Beale:
And then the student song mellifluous
That to the press without the incense went, — Markers, these, full worthy of the cause
Which I would merely mention ere I pause: —

Shall we (though so remote no one may hear it)
Now countenance a military spirit
In times that make pretense of crushing war?
If so, why send peace delegates so far?
Why laud such gestures as our Kellogg Pact,
If flags and wars are what we wish to fact?
Too oft it chances in our public men,
All year they plead for prosperous peace, and then
On Armistice, or on Memorial day
The rose is found much tainted by the clay:
Methinks 't would be much good for common weal
Not to confuse the fact with the ideal.

In the latest escape (we mean release) of the College Address List we notice a sentence fresh from the pen of the Alumni Secretary in which the subject is "data" and the predicate, "is". And now Harry Davis will sing a song entitled: "Mr. Jones of Bowdoin".

Sportsman's Pen

The Bowdoin ball team resembles the Boston Braves of former years.
Starting out this season they looked as good as any college team around but now that they are coming down the home stretch one would think a cyclone had hit them.

To lose ball games because the material and team play isn't there is one thing, but to lose because it requires too much effort to do otherwise is another, which should not be countenanced for any reason whatsoever.

Bowdoin has had too poor an athletic record in late years to throw away its opportunity for the state title in baseball.

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

SOULE'S BARBER SHOP

For First Class Haircutting

Near Campus - Two Expert Barbers

As the year draws to a close the only team with an outstanding record is the Golf Team who on their recent trip accounted for four victories and a draw. This is the nearest Bowdoin has come recently to a 1,000 per cent average.

Bowdoin athletically this year can look to her past with little satisfaction. Individual performances are bright remembering but little else. In football the Tufts game is the only bright light. Hockey went the way of the baseball team. There is some excuse for the former, however, because of the lack of proper equipment to carry on the sport.

The discovery of a few good men such as Galbraith, McLaughlin and Hickok, along with the veterans, will help Jack Magee considerably in bringing the state track supremacy back to Bowdoin.

It seems about time to realize that a baseball game is useless during Ivy.
Nobody cares about it especially except as a place to give vent to a cynical laugh. Athletics are not deeply enough rooted in the undergraduate of Bowdoin for him to forego any pleasure that he might have from House Party for their sake.

New Englands

(Continued from Page 1)

that created ruin and havoc in the ranks of the other squads, when he got eight points together in the broad-jump and high jump. His twenty-three feet two inches was not up to the Maine State record that he made a year ago, but was easily enough to take the event. In the high jump he did five feet eleven for second place.

Ray Lind and Cole of Bates failed to crash through in the half as had been expected of them. Cole ran about three quarters of the distance in an airtight box, and Huse of Brown and Berry of M. I. T. swung past Lind in the last lap of the grind to race their way to second and third. Viles of Bates took the mile, as had been expected, in the absence of Lindsay.
Half-way through the second lap he moved up, passed Richardson of New Hampshire, and was never passed.
Usher ran a beautiful race for fourth place. The time was four twenty-five and three-fifths.

Northeastern's threat for victory was the result of the work of another little group of outstanding men, just six in number, who averaged better than four points an event in the finals.
That they got into it, Bates racked up a collection in the middle-distance and distance while Holy Cross had to depend on the hundred and quarter, with the hammer first and a point or so here and there in the hurdles. It is not hard to see where the presence of Jimmy Daley might have clinched the meet for the Crusaders for the first time in track history. But keep an eye on Bowdoin next year. That's the watchword along the Androscogin.

Finals:

100 yard dash—Won by Morin,
Holy Cross; second, tie among Troy,
Brown and Stytiest, Maine; fourth,
White, Maine. Time, 10 1/5.

220 yard dash—Won by Milde, Worcester Tech; second, Bicknell, B. U.; third, Stytiest, Maine; fourth, Troy,
Brown. Time, 22 5/8 seconds.

440 yard run—Won by McCafferty, Holy Cross; second, Shea, Northeastern; third, Klumbach, Holy Cross; fourth, Foster, Bowdoin. Time, 49 seconds.

880 yard run—Won by Chapman,
Bates; second, Huse, Brown; third,
Berry, M. I. T.; fourth, Lind, Bates.
Time, 1 minute, 54 1/2 seconds. (New record.)

One mile run—Won by Viles, Bates; second, Richardson, N. H.; third, Moynihan, B. C.; fourth, Usher, Bow-doin. Time, 4 minutes, 25 3/5 seconds.

Two mile run—Won by Richardson,
Maine; second, Lindsay, Maine; third,
Gilman, M. I. T.; fourth, Whitten, Bates. Time, 9 minutes, 37 4/5 seconds.

120 yard hurdles—Won by Powers, Northeastern; second, Stanwood, Bow-doin; third, Sawyer, Brown; fourth, MacDonnell, Holy Cross. Time, 15 3/5
seconds.

Broad jump—Won by O'Connor,
Maine, 23 feet, 2 inches; second, Knowlton, Bates, 22 feet, 9 1/2 inches; third, Odell, Wesleyan, 22 feet, 6 3/4 inches; fourth, White, Brown, 22
feet, 5 1/2 inches.

Pole vault—Won by Martin, Northeastern, 12 feet, 4 1/2 inches; second, tie between Dill, Bates, Brooks, N.
H., and Root, Wesleyan, 12 feet.

16 pound shot put—Won by Wil-czewski, B. C., 46 feet, 3 5/8 inches; second, Chubbuck, Conn. Aggies, 44 feet, 2 1/2 inches; third, Cronal, M.
I. T., 43 feet, 8 inches; fourth, Baker,
Holy Cross, 43 feet, 4 inches.

Discus throw—Won by Gowell,
Maine, 147 feet, 3 1/4 inches; second,
Houle, Bates, 151 feet, 10 3/4 inches;
third, Chubbuck, Conn. Aggies, 130 feet, 5 3/4 inches; fourth, Wilczewski,
B. C., 128 feet, 8 1/4 inches.

Javelin—Won by Forsberg, Northeastern, 188 feet, 2 7/8 inches (New record); second, Geofferton, N. H., 185 feet, 1 1/2 inches; Roberts, M. I. T., 176 feet, 11 7/8 inches; fourth, Treworgy, Colby, 176 feet, 5 1/8 inches.

16 pound hammer throw—Won by Flanagan, Holy Cross, 156 feet, 10
1/2 inches; second, Chapman, Bates, 149 feet, 11 1/2 inches; third, Galbraith, Bowdoin, 148 feet, 4 inches; Lunt, Colby, 144 feet, one and a half inches.

220 yard hurdles—Won by French,
W. P. I.; second, MacDonnell, Holy Cross; third, Stanwood, Bowdoin; fourth, Steverman, M. I. T. Time, 25
1/5 seconds.

High jump: Won by Morang, Northeastern, 6 feet; second, O'Connor Maine, 5 feet, 11 inches; third, tie among Woolley, N. H., Jones, Wesleyan, and Morley, Northeastern, 5 feet, 10 inches.

Team point summary:
Maine 26 1/2, Northeastern 24, Holy Cross 22, Bates, 20, Bowdoin 13, Worcester Tech 10, New Hampshire 9,
M. I. T. 9, Brown 8 1/2, Boston College 8, Wesleyan 5, Connecticut State
5, Boston University 3, Colby 2.

Ibis Election

(Continued from Page 1)

ager of the Bowdoin Publishing Company next year, having filled the position of assistant manager this year.
Jenkins has been prominent in debating activities since his freshman year and was a member of this year's team.
Smyth is art editor of the new Quill Board.

The initiation banquet was held last night at the Hotel Eagle.

Bates Game

(Continued from Page 1)

The team allowed the Garnet five runs in the first, enough to win the game. Bowdoin fanned the breeze, Rhuland walked, and Flynn singled to center field. Another couplet of passes by Stiles forced in a run.
Flynn scored on Coulter's sacrifice and Luce's single brought a grand total for the first canto of five runs.
From the first inning on, Bates had no trouble crossing the plate. The sixth, seventh and eighth were the innings in which the Garnet wielded especially effective bats over the mangled Polar Bear.

The summary:
Bates: ab r bh po a e
Bornstein, ss . . . 7 1 1 2 3 1
Rhuland, lf . . . 1 2 1 0 0 0
Murphy, if . . . 4 2 1 4 0 0
Flynn, 3b . . . 5 4 2 3 1 0
Cascadden, cf . . 3 3 2 2 0 0
Berry, 1b . . . 3 1 0 10 0 2
Hedderg, 2b . . . 4 1 1 0 3 0
Donham, rf . . . 4 0 0 1 0 0
Luce, c . . . 5 1 3 5 1 0
Coulter, rf . . . 5 0 2 0 0 0

Totals . . . 41 15 13 27 12 3
Bowdoin: ab r bh po a e
Ricker, cf . . . 4 1 1 1 1 0
Whittier, ss . . . 5 1 1 4 4 0
Shute, 1b . . . 4 0 1 8 3 0
Urban, lf . . . 5 1 0 2 0 0
Chalmers, 2b . . . 3 0 1 0 0 0
Parmerter, 2b . . 1 0 0 1 0 0
Rose, rf . . . 5 0 1 2 0 0
McKown, 3b . . . 4 1 1 3 2 1
Smith, c . . . 4 0 0 1 0 0
Stiles, p . . . 3 1 2 0 1 0
Morrell, p . . . 0 0 0 0 0 1
Cole, p . . . 1 0 0 1 0 0
Bell, x . . . 0 0 0 0 0 0

Totals . . . 39 5 9 27 12 3

x—ran for Urban in 9th.

Bates . . . 5 2 0 0 0 2 2 4 0—15

Bowdoin . . . 2 2 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—5

Two base hits: Stiles, Flynn, Coulter. Sacrifice hits: Coulter, Shute.

Stolen bases: Murphy 2, Cascadden 3.
Bases on balls: off Donham 1, off Stiles 7 in 6 2/3 innings, off Morrell 5 in 1 inning. Hit by pitched ball: Chalmers by Donham. Wild pitches: Stiles, Morrell 3. Struck out: by Donham 4, by Stiles 4. Umpires: McDonough and Gibson. Time: three hours.

Ivy Orator

(Continued from page 2)

that true tolerance consists in the love of truth and the love of man, each brought to its own perfection and living in perfect harmony with each other. He goes on to say that the boy of whom the stranger asked the way to Farmington is the image of that love of man that is not mingled and harmonized with the love of truth. "It is eight miles to the youth replied. "Are you sure it is so far?"
the weary stranger asked. And the boy with his heart overflowing with human kindness looked at him and replied, "Well, seeing that you are so tired, I'll call it seven miles." Unfortunately the "would-be tolerance" in college is not so well intended. I think everyone realizes that the college has always been and still is one of the worst places for intolerance.
It seems that a traveling evangelist interrupted a service for Dartmouth college students by greeting a respectable local attorney, who was late in entering the meeting house, "Here comes a miserable sinner going straight to hell." Some of you gentlemen who are frequently late for morning chapel can well imagine the man's embarrassment. The annals of Dartmouth College themselves preserve a more dignified but no less significant expression of religious intolerance that occurred in the same year. In that year it is said that a professorship in chemistry and min-eralogy was abolished, and in the following year restored under a new designation, that of chemistry, min-eralogy, and geology. Why? Because the man who held the leading professorship was an Episcopalian, and although an excellent teacher, he was so distasteful to the college authorities themselves that the most effective method was adopted. To me, however, the fault of intolerance today whether it be on the part of the college authorities or the students themselves lies not so much with either, but more with the system of education and in particular with the lack of any encouragement at all. Were it given to such a movement as tolerance, you would see in a short time a real change in the attitude of college men and women towards the more serious problems of life. Evidence of this may be had in colleges and universities where similar movements have recently been started which ten or fifteen years ago were quite unknown. Such, for instance, as the success of the League for Industrial Democracy, in coming in contact with over fifty thousand students and in getting several thousands to join industrial movements, is an indication of what might be done if any encouragement were paid to the problem of enlightening college students on the subject of intolerance. It is probably true that in spite of the growing sophistication about many things, there are great numbers of college men and women who have never heard a real lecture against intolerance, and probably never will.
I make this a plea to the class of 1931. Let us, after we have completed our year here at Bowdoin College, go out into the world with a genuinely liberal and tolerant attitude, and in our future association and contact with our fellow men, let us always contend for a spirit of tolerance and equality. I realize that this may only be a voice crying in the wilderness of men and women; nevertheless, let us contend for and keep on contending for the principles that a man's reputation would have nothing at all to do with his claim for life.

The gallant finish of Foster in the 440 in the state meet to defeat Chapman, Bates' Hermes, will long be remembered as a high light of the 1929-30 track season.

Always Noticed
But Never Notice-ble

BRISK Clothing which is
custom tailored to
your individual measure, has
that distinctive touch which
always marks the wearer as
well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

FORDHAM LAW SCHOOL

WOOLWORTH BUILDING
NEW YORK
CO-EDUCATIONAL
CASE SYSTEM
THREE YEAR COURSE
TWO YEARS
One Year of College Work
Required For Admission
MORNING, AFTERNOON AND
EVENING CLASSES
Write For Catalogue
Charles P. Davis, Registrar
Room 2861

Maine Game

(Continued from page 1)

The summary:
Maine: ab r bh po a e
Hinckes, cf . . . 5 1 2 0 0 0
Smith, 1b . . . 5 0 0 9 0 0
Wescott, 2b . . . 4 2 0 3 2 0
Horne, rf . . . 5 0 2 1 0 0
Palmer, lf . . . 5 0 2 0 0 0
McCabe, 3b . . . 5 0 0 1 0 0
Wells, c . . . 4 0 1 11 2 0
Plummer, ss . . . 4 0 0 0 3 2
Perkins, p . . . 2 1 2 2 0 0

Totals . . . 39 4 8 27 9 2

Bowdoin: ab r bh po a e

Ricker, cf . . . 4 0 2 2 0 0

Whittier, ss . . . 4 0 0 4 4 1

Dwyer, c . . . 4 1 1 2 1 1

Urban, lf . . . 4 1 1 2 0 0

Chalmers, 2b . . . 2 1 0 4 2 0

Parmerter, 2b . . . 0 0 2 0 0 0

Shute, 1b . . . 4 0 0 8 0 1

McKown, 3b . . . 4 0 0 2 2 0

Bell, rf . . . 3 0 0 0 1 0

Souther, p . . . 3 0 1 1 6 0

Smith, c . . . 0 0 0 0 0 0

Totals . . . 32 3 5 27 15 4

Maine . . . 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 3—4

Bowdoin . . . 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 2—3

Two base hits: Horne. Three base hits: Dwyer, Urban. Sacrifice hits: McCabe, Shute, McKown. Base on balls: off Perkins 2, off Souther 3.
Struck out: by Perkins 11, by Souther
2. Hit by pitched ball: by Perkins (Chalmers), by Souther (Palmer).
Umpires: Gibson and Lancaster.
Time: two hours.

LOST

Black Overcoat on Wednesday,
May 21st, name inside pocket.

See the Remarkable Smyth Portfolios in the Library

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Alumni Dinner This Noon Ends Commencement Festivities

VOL. LX.

THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1930.

NO. 8

COMMENCEMENT ENDS TODAY WITH ALUMNI DINNER

ELECT NEW ALUMNI FUND DIRECTORS

New Members of Board Will Serve Terms of Three Years

Members, P. F. Chapman, S. T. Pike, and T. C. White the Three Men Named

The election of Alumni Fund Directors was recently completed. Three new men were named to serve three year terms on this board. The new men are Philip Freeland Chapman, A.B., LL.B., '06, Sumner Tucker Pike, A.B., '13, and Thomas Carter White, A.B., '03. Mr. Chapman has been practicing law in Portland since 1915 as a member of the firm of Thaxter, Chapman and Brewster. He has been chairman of the Board of Health and trustee of the Portland Water District and an officer of a number of charitable organizations in the city. During the war he saw service with the Maine National Guard, being discharged as a Lieutenant-Colonel. He has just retired as president of the Chapman Bank and Trust Company in Portland. Mr. Pike is vice-president of Case, Pomeroy and Company, investment bankers in New York. He is also a director of other corporations in that city. Mr. Pike served throughout the war as an officer of Coast Artillery, being for some time instructor in the Coast Artillery School at Ft. Monroe, Virginia. Mr. White is an insurance broker at Lewiston, where he has served as an officer of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Lewiston-Auburn Rotary Club. He was a member of the Bowdoin Athletic Council from 1924 to 1929.

TAYLOR AND POTTLE WIN ALEXANDERS AGAIN THIS YEAR

Poe's "The Cask of Amontillado" Delivered by the Former Wins Traditional Contest

The annual Alexander Prize Speaking Contest took place in Memorial hall on Monday evening, June 16. Thomas South Taylor, '31, and George Burgess Pottle, '32, repeated their performance of last year, again taking first and second prizes, respectively. Mr. Taylor's prize winning selection was "The Cask of Amontillado" by Poe, while Mr. Pottle delivered "The Legend of the Seven Sleepers" from Mark Twain's "The Innocents Abroad". The other speakers on the program were Albert Samuel Davis, Jr., '33, Robert Harvey Grant, '32, and George Pierre Desjardins, '33.

The judges of this contest, which forms a traditional part of Bowdoin's Commencement week, were Horatio S. Card, '88, Charles M. Pennell, '92, and Robert P. T. Coffin, '15.

PROF BEALE'S BOOK FAVORABLY COMMENTED UPON

Assistant Professor Howard K. Beale's recently published book, "The Critical Year," has aroused much favorable criticism of late from Notably, the New York Times, in its Book Review section of June 1st, Mr. Beale's article by Charles Willis Thompson which is deserving of comment. We quote herewith one or two paragraphs from Mr. Thompson's review.

The year 1930 determined the future of the United States. From the blind and irrevocable decision at the polls against President Johnson dates the new industrialism, the reign of capitalism as we know it, the long domination by the financial interests North and East, the contest, now grown acute, between the East and the West.

(Continued on Page 4)

PHI BETA KAPPA APPOINTMENTS From the Senior Class

Paul William Butterfield, Farmington; Raymond Deston, Fall River, Mass.; William Frederick Johnson, Princeton; James Parker Pettegrove, Machiasport; Herbert Leroy Prescott, Rockland; Edward Schwartz, Portland; George Edward Stetson, Brunswick; Norman Sumner Waldron, Rockland.

From the Junior Class Arthur Joslin Deeks, Whitinsville, Mass.; Lawrence Cooper Jenks, Newton Lower Falls, Mass.; Robert Morton McFarland, Portland; Donald Emery Merriam, Ouel's Head; Paul Andrew Walker, Belmont, Mass.

The following men were elected last year from the class of 1931: Harrison Merrill Davis, Jr., Mar. Beach, Mass.; William Henry Dean, Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa.; James Mitchell Parker, Cape Elizabeth; George Stuart Willard, Sanford.

ZETA PSI WINNER OF IVES TROPHY BY SAFE MARGIN

Followed by Sigma Nu, Theta Delta Chi, Delta Kappa Epsilon and Alpha Tau Omega, All Tied

This year the highly prized Ives Trophy was won by Zeta Psi, according to a recent announcement from the Athletic Department. The Zetas had one first place and two seconds to their credit. Theta Delta Chi, which won the trophy last year had but a single first place this season, as did Sigma Nu, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Alpha Tau Omega. In the competition for the cup soccer was won by Zeta Psi, with Kappa Sigma and the non-fraternity team tying for second place. Swimming went to Theta Delta Chi, with Beta Theta Pi following. Delta Kappa Epsilon won the interfraternity track meet again, although Zeta Psi put up a stiff fight that landed them in second. The basketball tournament was won by Sigma Nu with Zeta Psi coming in here for an other second place. Alpha Tau Omega's victory was in baseball, and Chi Psi carried off second honors in this sport.

The standing of the houses in the running this year follows: Zeta Psi—11 Alpha Tau Omega—5 Delta Kappa Epsilon—5 Sigma Nu—5 Theta Delta Chi—5 Beta Theta Pi—3 Chi Psi—3 Kappa Sigma—1 1-2 Non-Fraternity—1 1-2

FOUR NEW MEMBERS ELECTED TO SERVE ON ALUMNI COUNCIL

Only 752 Votes Cast in Election, Representing 28% of Eligible Voters

In the recent Alumni Council elections only 752 votes were cast, representing 28% of those eligible to vote. Four new members of the Council were picked from among some of Bowdoin's most prominent and able graduates, the group including Joseph Blake Drummond, M.D., '07, George Edwin Fogg, LL.M., '02, Donald Ward Philbrick, LL.B., '17, and Richard Henry Stubbs, M.D., '98.

Dr. Drummond has been a physician and surgeon in Poland since his graduation from the Bowdoin Medical School in 1910. At present he is chief surgeon of the State Street Hospital and consulting surgeon to the Maine General Hospital. He is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of a number of other professional societies. For several years Dr. Drummond was a member of the Bowdoin Athletic Council.

Mr. Fogg practised law in Portland from 1906 to 1917 when he entered the United States Army, serving throughout the war as a Major of Artillery. In 1920 he was connected with the Dupont Company in New York, and since 1921 he has been attorney for the Maine Central Railroad. He is now a Colonel in the Maine National Guard, in command of the 240th C.A.C. (H.D.) at Portland. He has served in various capacities.

(Continued on page 2)

STICK MADE FROM THORNDIKE OAK PRESENTED TODAY

A walking stick has been made from a piece of the Thorndike Oak by Horace Litchfield, mechanic and carpenter at the College for nearly twenty-five years. The stick will be presented at the Alumni Dinner today by the President to the Alumni Fund Agent, whose class has reported the largest percentage of contributors, regardless of the amounts given.

All members of the Classical Club—past and present—who have not a certificate of membership or who have lost their original one, may obtain one free of charge by applying to Professor Means or to Arthur J. Deeks, secretary of the club.

WHITTIER AND FOSTER CAPTAINS

Will Lead Baseball and Track for the Next Season

Moyer to Manage Track with Bolling Handling That End of Baseball

Elections of captain and managers of spring sports took place recently. Sydney R. Foster, '31, of Manchester, Mass., was chosen to lead Coach Magee's track cohorts next year. His thrilling quarter mile victory was one of the features of the State Meet this year, and he has always been a consistently good performer. Robert C. Moyer, '32, of Reading, Mass., will manage track for the coming season. In baseball Gerhard H. Whittier, '31, of Lisbon Falls was elected captain. He has been a mainstay of the team during his years at Bowdoin and should prove a capable leader. Raynal C. Bolling, '32 of Greenwich, Conn., was named manager.

Arthur O. Dillenbeck, Jr., '31, of Manhasset, N. Y., will head the Golf team for next year, having played a steady and excellent game as a member of the team.

BASEBALL FINAL WON BY A. T. O. TEAM

When Alpha Tau Omega finally got on to Johnny Barbour's dirty work a week or so ago, and began to rap their bats around his choicest hooks, they carried the Interfraternity Baseball Title with them, 10-5. For the first time since Hector was a very, very small pup, the T. D.'s had gone down to defeat in League B. In the meantime Chi Psi had been biding its time and patiently slugging the ever-lasting daylight out of three other teams.

Both teams collected a run in the first inning, and battled on fairly even terms until the fourth, when two tremendous drives into deep center field and a minimum estimate of seven errors in the Chi Psi infield put the game into the sack for the A. T. O.'s.

Gerald R. Garcelon '30, Marshal Stuart R. Stone '30, Vice-President

Opening the 125th Commencement Week at Bowdoin College Sunday, President Kenneth C. M. Sills delivered the Baccalaureate address from the pulpit of the historic First Parish Church, scene of many Bowdoin Commencements. His address follows:

It is well known impossible to say anything new or startling in a baccalaureate address. This service which emphasizes that religion has a place of great importance in all education is in itself of more significance than sermons or admonitions—which must be trite and formal in character. All that we can do—and there may be small profit in the doing—is to review together certain principles of life with which we have been concerned at the College and to attempt to connect those principles with the larger and more general life outside of college halls. Today in a time of so great uncertainty an questioning concerning principles and institutions to which we should be loyal, it has occurred to me to examine some of the foundations of loyalty, to endeavor to see in what ways loyalty is engendered, and to inquire into some of those perplexing problems where conflicts of loyalty occur.

In the first place, loyalty has at heart a fine simplicity. It has no close partnership with sophistication or worldly wisdom. In essence it belongs to those emotions and qualities that belong to all the human race, that are primitive and elemental, that depend on character more than upon brains. A dog is loyal; a child is loyal to the objects of their affections; and there is in all true loyalty dependability and trust. One should not quench those childlike simple qualities as life goes on, rather one should allow them to grow and de-

ANNOUNCEMENT OF HONOR MEN IN MAJOR COURSES

Honors—Prince S. Crowell, Jr., David P. Faxon, Edward Schwartz

Honors—James M. Parker Classics High Honors—Herbert H. Fernald

High Honors—William H. Dean, Jr. Honors—Raymond Deston, John W. Riley, Jr.

High Honors—Georg W. Freiday, Jr., James P. Pettegrove Honors—Ronald P. Bridges, Herbert L. Prescott

Honors—Ray E. Davis, Howard A. Davison, Norman S. Waldron

High Honors—Laurel F. Longfellow, Kaspar O. Myrnes Honors—Samuel H. Hloberg

Honors—William K. Heath, Lyman C. Lee

Honors—Harrison M. Davis, Jr., Charles H. Farley, Jr.

Honors—Arthur K. Orne, George S. Willard

Honors—Thomas G. Brame, Frank W. Phelps, Jr.

High Honors—Ellis Spear, 3rd. Honors—Donald C. Congdon

WORK PROCEEDS ON KAPPA SIGMA HOUSE

Work on the remodeling of the Kappa Sigma house is proceeding under the hands of Brown & Brown, contractors, of Portland. The work will be completed September first. The reconstructed house will be in keeping with the rest of the campus buildings, of a general colonial type, designed by Mr. Mayo, a Portland architect. It will be white with green blinds, having a broad pillared porch facing Harpswell street.

Donald E. Prince of Portland, Artistic Artisan of Attleboro, Mass., and Norman A. Brown of Newburyport, Mass., will leave Wednesday for Richmond, Va., where they will attend the sessions of the grand lodge of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity as the representatives of Eta Chapter.

Escalus, Prince of Verona, Ronald P. Bridges '30; Paris, a young nobleman, Benjamin F. Shute '31; Heads of two houses at variance with each other: Montague, Albert S. Davis '33; Capulet, Albert W. Tarbell '32; An old man, uncle to Capulet, Norman S. Waldron '30; Romeo, son to Montague, James P. Blunt '31; Mercutio, kinsman to the Prince, Harrison M. Davis, Jr. '30; Benvolio, nephew to Montague, David C. Perkins '31; Tybalt, nephew to Lady Capulet, William C. Altengrub '30; Franciscus: Friar Laurence, Olin S. Pettigill, Jr. '30; Friar John, George W. Freiday '30; Balthasar, servant to Romeo, George T. Sewall '32; Servants to Capulet: Sampson, Howard Davies, Jr. '31; Gregory, Paul A. Walker '31; Peter, servant to Juliet's Nurse, Paul E. Everett, Jr. '32; Abraham, servant to Montague, Douglas Fosdick '30; Apothecary, Paul A. Walker '31; (Continued on page 2)

PRESIDENT SILLS' BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS

This quality of simple loyalty often marks real heroes. Some of you may remember hearing a year or so ago that great Norwegian explorer and statesman lately given to his reward, Dr. Nansen. He made a deep impression upon all with whom he came in contact, because he rang so true. In his presence you felt a man who was strong and simple and loyal. Do not despise men or things because they are simple. The more knowledge a man gets, the more wise he becomes; he gets to be more and more conscious of the truth that the important things in life are the simple things; among them service and love and loyalty.

When you find a man sneering at loyalty, or veering away from it, or ashamed to acknowledge it, you are liable to find a person spoiled by sophistication, too sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought. One of the cornerstones of loyalty is simplicity. Loyalty is also based on the virtue of gratitude. It is true that we are born into this world without having anything to say about it; not a single human being has even chosen his parents; very few have had anything to say about their early environment; not many have even chosen their country. So many of those things on which the happiness of our life is so largely to depend came to us without any volition on our part; our home, our church, our school, very frequently our college, and not seldom our business or profession, become a part of our lives without our having really exercised the right of choice. As the French say—c'est la vie. And yet despite such limitation in our freedom mankind is not slow to condemn the man who is not loyal to his home, or to his country. Readers of Dante's Inferno will recall that in the lowest and coldest and darkest circle of all and the most heavily punished are those ingrates and traitors who have

SEVEN HONORARY DEGREES GRANTED BY THE COLLEGE

The following honorary degrees were granted by the College at its 125th Commencement exercises held this morning:

Doctor of Laws William R. Pattangall, Chief Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Maine

Doctor of Divinity Rev. Thompson E. Ashby, Minister of the First Parish Church (Congregational), of Brunswick

Doctor of Letters Robert Peter Tristram Coffin, of the class of 1915; Professor of English at Wells College; essayist; poet; author

Doctor of Science Samuel T. Dana, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, of the class of 1904; Dean of the Forestry School, University of Michigan; formerly State Forester of Maine

Master of Arts Henry S. Chapman, of Boston, of the class of 1891, of the Board of Overseers; editorial writer

Leonard A. Pierce, of Portland, of the class of 1905, of the Board of Overseers; distinguished member of the Maine bar.

SENIORS AWARDED DEGREES AT CHURCH THIS MORNING

Many Graduates Back For Festivities Of Bowdoin's Commencement—Alumni Day Program Interesting

SENIOR DANCE TUESDAY A HIGH SPOT

The 125th Commencement of the College began its round of colorful exercises with the Baccalaureate Service Sunday afternoon at five o'clock in the Church on the Hill—for many years the scene of the Baccalaureate as well as Commencement exercises. President Kenneth Charles Morton Sills delivered the address, taking as his subject "Loyalties." The Senior Class made its first appearance in cap and gown since the Seniors' Last Chapel on Ivy Day; Gerald G. Garcelon marshaled the procession.

With Monday given over to alumni arrivals and registrations, and to the Alexander Prize Speaking in the evening in Memorial Hall, the thread of Commencement was again taken up Tuesday. Under the historic Thorndike Oak the Class of 1930 held its exercises. The program was under way at three o'clock, Olin S. Pettigill delivering the opening address. Then followed in order the poem by Lawrence R. Leach, the oration by Harrison M. Davis, Jr., and the history by James M. Parker. The closing address, given by James P. Pettegrove, brought an end to that part of the exercises held under the oak. Harry B. Thayer, class president, was master of ceremonies.

The class then completed the Bowdoin traditions by smoking the Pipe of Peace in a circle between Hyde and Hubbard Halls and by singing the ode, written this year by Richard P. Mallett. After going the rounds "cheering the halls," the seniors dined the College and each other a last farewell.

After these more solemn exercises in the afternoon, the Senior Dance in the Gymnasium that night, with the Ipana Troubadours, directed by Harry Ford, producing their popular dance tunes. The patronesses for the dance included Mrs. Kenneth C. M. Sills, Mrs. Wilmot B. Mitchell, Mrs. Charles T. Burnett, Mrs. Manton Copeland, Mrs. Orren C. Hornell, Mrs. Mortimer M. Mason, Mrs. Henry L. Johnson, Mrs. Charles Bruneau.

(Continued on Page 2)

ROMEO AND JULIET COLORFULLY DONE BY MASQUE & GOWN

James P. Blunt and Miss Elizabeth Graves Appear in Title Roles

"Romeo and Juliet," this year's Shakespearean presentation was given last night by the actors of the Masque and Gown. The play was ably coached by Professor Charles H. Gray of the Department of English. Stage Manager William H. Ferry, '32, is to be complimented on the fine scenic effects attained. The cast was well chosen, and all deserve commendation for their efforts. Mercutio, played by Harrison M. Davis, Jr., '30, was easily the light of the play. James P. Blunt, '31, and Miss Elizabeth Graves gave a fine portrayal of Romeo and Juliet, and Olin S. Pettigill as Friar Laurence, Paul E. Everett, Jr., '32, as Peter, gave excellent interpretations, some of those playing minor roles also gave very finished performances. The cast follows:

Escalus, Prince of Verona, Ronald P. Bridges '30; Paris, a young nobleman, Benjamin F. Shute '31; Heads of two houses at variance with each other: Montague, Albert S. Davis '33; Capulet, Albert W. Tarbell '32; An old man, uncle to Capulet, Norman S. Waldron '30; Romeo, son to Montague, James P. Blunt '31; Mercutio, kinsman to the Prince, Harrison M. Davis, Jr. '30; Benvolio, nephew to Montague, David C. Perkins '31; Tybalt, nephew to Lady Capulet, William C. Altengrub '30; Franciscus: Friar Laurence, Olin S. Pettigill, Jr. '30; Friar John, George W. Freiday '30; Balthasar, servant to Romeo, George T. Sewall '32; Servants to Capulet: Sampson, Howard Davies, Jr. '31; Gregory, Paul A. Walker '31; Peter, servant to Juliet's Nurse, Paul E. Everett, Jr. '32; Abraham, servant to Montague, Douglas Fosdick '30; Apothecary, Paul A. Walker '31; (Continued on page 2)

NEW WHITE KEY MEMBERS ELECTED

Representatives from Different Organizations in New Junior Honorary Society

After further consideration of the matter of the New White Key, the Student Council finds it advisable, in order to avoid complexity, to nominate fifteen instead of fourteen men. But, inasmuch as there is no Junior representative of debating, only fourteen men have been selected—the remaining six to be elected by the class next Fall. Other alterations are: there will be one member chosen from the Musical Clubs, this man to be the Junior Assistant Manager. The two Junior Managers of the Masque and Gown will represent that society. Also, three instead of two men will represent the Publications, these being the two Junior Managing Editors of the Orient and the Editor-in-Chief of the Bugle.

The following fourteen men are to meet early in the fall for the election of officers and nomination of twelve men from their class, six of whom will be elected by popular vote to the White Key. This organization, as was stated in the last issue of the Orient, will take over the duty of looking out for visiting students and in general will do the Green Key at Dartmouth. The Sophomore society which supervises the conduct of the yearlings will

(Continued on Page 2)

BOWDOIN PLATES BEING PREPARED BY FAMOUS FIRM

To be Ready for Commencement Time Next Year

Bowdoin is the first of the smaller colleges to have plates bearing campus views made. Harvard, M. I. T., Vassar, and St. Paul's School are among the larger institutions that have carried out this plan, and now Bowdoin is to have her own set prepared.

A series of six different plates is in the process of preparation at the famous Wedgwood Potteries at Etruria, England. They are to be done in black on white or in blue on white, having a diameter of 10 1/4 inches. These plates will be for sale only by the Alumni Secretary's office and cannot be bought elsewhere. Profits resulting from the sale will be given over to the Bowdoin Alumni Fund. The price is eight dollars for a set of six, three dollars to be paid now and the remainder at the time of delivery, at Commencement next June. Mr. Philip S. Wilder, the Alumni Secretary, is in charge of sales. An illustration representing one of the plates is shown in this issue of the Orient.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief

Paul A. Walker '31

Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

George T. Sewall '32

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George K. Booth '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Thursday, June 19, 1930.

No. 8

In General

Today we are celebrating Bowdoin's one hundred and twenty-fifth Commencement. Great has been the growth of the College since the times of her first Commencement, and great, too, has been the growth of her reputation. In her history we find names of no small number of America's notables. A small, Liberal Arts college, it today ranks with the higher group of our institutions of learning.

This week numbers of her alumni are returned to celebrate this hundred and twenty-fifth Commencement. They will find much that is changed since the days when they were undergraduates. Some they will wish had never changed; some changes they will approve. We hope the majority will be of the latter class. Bowdoin is growing, and as with every period of growth, there is an accompanying period of mutation—experimentation, perhaps. This year has no doubt been one of great unrest to some members of the administrative bodies on account of the revival of a spirit of criticism on the part of the undergraduates. We of the ORIENT, to be specific, have been free, possibly too free, in our criticism of College policies. However, we have endeavored to be consistent in our suggestions, all of which are, we trust, constructive. We cannot see the value in a college newspaper that merely sits back and lazily applauds all that the college is or stands for. We have no need here for such a puerile organ. If the ORIENT has gone too far in the other direction, it has never been with a spirit of malicious radicalism that cannot adjust itself to existing conditions, but rather it has been with a love of Bowdoin and a true desire for her advance that we have advocated certain changes or the institution of new customs. This is what we consider constructive criticism, and we flatter ourselves with the thought that certain of our suggestions have been tried and apparently found good. And yet, these are all minor points relatively speaking. We have done but a little. We hope to continue to help out with suggestions, and sincerely trust that we have proved of service to Bowdoin and have again earned the right to the title of "good college citizens."

We are at present very much in favor of certain changes. Among these we could list the establishment of a College Store, run either on a profit-sharing basis or with the purpose of using the profits in some useful way, such as toward the upkeep of the Moulton Union; we are heartily in favor of a new Dean's List system, based on points rather than the maintenance of a "straight B record"; and so on; we suggest a reconsideration of the chapel situation, with either the abolition of the "compulsory" phase or else the renovation of the services themselves as the end in view; we should like to see the addition of certain new courses in some departments.

And yet we are very well satisfied with Bowdoin as she stands today. We are proud of our high scholastic rating. We are grateful for the opportunities offered us throughout the year to hear eminent lecturers in all fields. We look forward to the Institute of Natural Science coming next year. We are hoping for a year of athletic gain, under our coaches, both old and new. We feel certain that the members of the Class of 1930, now leaving the sheltering walls of Bowdoin, will go out and conduct themselves in a manner worthy of former classes. We hope the same success will be theirs. Bowdoin has well fitted them for their future, and when it is our turn to become alumni of the college, we hope that we shall regret as much as we know they must the termination of our undergraduate days.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF 1929-30 PRIZE AWARDS

Rhodes Scholar now in Residence—Dana Merrill Swan '29.

Charles Carroll Everett Scholar—George Stuart Willard '30.

Henry W. Longfellow Scholar—James Parker Pettigrove '30.

David Sewall Premium in English Composition—Donald Pearson McCormick '33.

Class of 1868 Prize in Oratory—George William Freiday, Jr., '30.

Brown Extemporaneous English Composition Prize—1st, Herbert LeRoy Prescott '30; 2nd, William Montgomery Altenburg '30.

Smyth Mathematical Prize—Melcher Prince Fobes '32.

Sewall Greek Prize—Melcher Fobes '32.

Sewall Latin Prize—Frederick Rushby Eames '32.

Pray English Literature Prize—George William Freiday, Jr., '30.

Goodwin French Prize—Edward David Woodberry Spingarn '33.

Noyes Political Economy Prize—Albert Edward Jenkins '31.

Class of 1875 Prize in American History—No award.

Bradbury Debating Prizes—1st, Albert Samuel Davis, Jr., '33; 2nd, Donald Francis Prince '31; 3rd, Frederic Everett Morrow '31.

Hawthorne Short Story Prize—Walker Parker Bowdoin '30.

DeAlva Stanwood Alexander Declaration Prize—1st, Thomas South Taylor '31; 2nd, George Burgess Potelle '32.

Philo Sherman Bennett Prize—No award.

Almon Goodwin Prize—Paul Andrew Walker '31.

Hiland Lockwood Fairbanks Prizes in Public Speaking—Fred Ernest Miller, Jr., '33, Albert Samuel Davis, Jr., '33, Albert Edward Jenkins '31.

Col. William O. Premium—William Kidder Heath '30.

Stanley Plummer Prize in Public Speaking—1st, Paul Andrew Walker '31; 2nd, Donald Francis Prince '31; 3rd, James Clapp Flint '31.

Forbes Rickard Poetry Prize—Albert Samuel Davis, Jr., '33.

Lucien Howe Prize Scholarship for High Qualities of Gentlemanly Conduct and Character—Harrison Merrill Davis, Jr., '30.

Hannibal Hamlin Emery Latin Prize—Donald Derby '31.

(Continued on Page 4)

Beale Book

Continued from Page 1

no longer be known by this name, but will again assume the name of Vigilantes.

South and the West. We are what we are because of 1866.

Beale of Bowdoin College, maintained with great strength in a crisp and lucid style, and fortified by as astonishing an array of authorities as ever gathered together. His research is prodigious, and his authorities chiefly unpublished manuscripts, letter-books and so on. When he does have to rely on some book, he does so with evident reluctance. He has been at the primal sources, and he is able to disregard utterly the myth-like and semi-traditional history that has been the American credo from 1866 to 1929. He is dispassionately juridical in disposing of the whole group of fashionable historians, most particularly James Ford Rhodes.

Professor Beale deserves much commendation for his truly excellent piece of work. A work such as this will do far more toward enhancing Bowdoin's reputation than will twenty Stein Songs.

To you, to whom this is the time of your life which is filled with anticipation of the future, and mingled with regrets of the passing of your college days, may we earnestly thank you for your kind support and wish you untold success.

The House of Walsh

"More than a Toggery a Bowdoin Institution"

Poem

Within the mossy mouldering college halls
For four long years these callow lads have played
No spectres grim have dared to end their dreams
Of love and lust and power in future times.
Now shines the light of day upon these youths
And life, with all its fearful threat of storms Brings unaccustomed pallor to their cheeks.
But classmates, bear your burdens bravely on Still wet behind the ears and ignorant
Of all the guile and sly chicanery
With which a heartless world assails such innocence.
Alas poor souls, there are but very few
Who fitly shall conceive your reasonings
Whose eyes can pierce and comprehend
The guile with which you veil your youth
And would appear as greatly learned men.
Yet, human spirits, bravely hold your course
And give attentive ear to talk of older men
Those veterans of battlefields of life
Who have endured, made profit by their pains,
Who truly wot the truth whereof they speak.
Yet Virtue teach you firmly to pursue
The varying grooves of active useful life
Pause not nor dally with the sins
Besetting Youth with pleasant primrose paths.
Recall Saint Augustine, the pious rake
Who made attempts to live in lechery.
Weighed Virtue against Evil in the scales Discovered Sin an empty aching void
Of passing joys and bitter regrets.
Lust not for temporal power nor piled up wealth
Seek rather to enrich the deathless soul
And guide desire toward ways of chastity
Be moderate and live the life austere
Achievement can best wake the dormant mind
Impel each man to gain his destined end
And teach him scorn of sensual delight.
Fear not then, Classmates, but strongly onward press
And strain each tendon toward a wisely chosen goal
Use other lives as charts and compass for your own Recall that what is yours can never cease to be
That life however harsh, is always friend to Virtue.

Commencement

(Continued from Page 1)

Mrs. Edward H. Wass, Mrs. Stanley B. Smith, Mrs. Wilfred H. Cross, Mrs. Herbert E. Brown, Mrs. Kenneth J. Boyer, Mrs. Philip S. Wilder, Mrs. Fritz Kölln, and Mrs. Robert B. Miller. Those selected as ushers for the dance were Howard Hall '31, Charles Bloudeau '32, James Donaldson '32, Ned Lippincott '31, William Perry '32, and David Faxon '30.

Mr. Vincent Cobb was entrusted with the problem of decorating the Gymnasium, as has been customary for many years. The committee of the class directly responsible for the success of the affair was the Benjamin B. Whitcomb, chairman, Robert E. Burnham, Charles F. McCreery, Herbert S. McLellan and Harry M. Ridlon.

Alumni Day, Wednesday, was probably the fullest day of the week. It included many regular meetings such as that of the Alumni Council at 9:15 in Massachusetts Hall and of the Alumni Association at 1:30 in the Moulton Union. Both the Alumni Association and the Society of Bowdoin Women held luncheons at 12:30, the one at the Union, the other at 8 Elm Street, the headquarters of the Society.

The annual meeting of Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha of Maine, was at 11:00, at which time the elections were held for this year. Later in the day the candidates were initiated into the society.

One of the outstanding events of the day was an innovation in the form of an "indoor baseball" game on the Delta at 10:30 a. m., between the twenty-year class as challengers and the fifteen-year class as defenders. The new form of class rivalry planted the annual Bowdoin-Bates game which is usually played at this time, but supplied as many thrills combined with plenty of laughs.

An organ recital by Prof. Wass at three o'clock, a band concert on the campus at four-thirty, and the regular reception by the President and Mrs. Sills on the steps of the Union at four, concluded the program of scheduled events for the afternoon.

Practically all the "five-year" classes as well as the class of 1929 were planning reunion dinners to be held Wednesday evening at various inns in the vicinity of Brunswick. At 8:30 the Masque and Gown offered its annual Shakespearean production "this year, 'Romeo and Juliet'" on the terrace of the Art Building. Many of the fraternities held reunions after the play, although some held reunion teas Tuesday instead.

Today, Commencement Day, brings a close to the events of the week. After an organ recital at ten o'clock, came the Commencement Exercises at ten-thirty in the College Church. Robert Hale, marshal of the class of 1930, led the grand procession from the Chapel to the Church. There the President conducted the exercises. The Commencement speakers were George W. Freiday, Jr., William H. Dean, James M. Parker and George W. Willard. The regular degrees were conferred, President Stuart R. Thayer and Vice-President Stuart R. Stone receiving the diplomas for the class. The honorary degrees, conferred by the Boards at their meetings Tuesday and Wednesday, were also conferred, and the many prizes announced.

At the conclusion of the exercises, the procession marched back from the Church to the Gymnasium where the Annual Commencement Dinner took place. All alumni, the graduates and their fathers, and undergraduates were welcomed at the dinner. President Sills announced at this time changes in the faculty for next year and other items of interest which the Trustees' and Overseers' meetings had brought to the fore. The Society of Bowdoin Women held a Buffet

Lawrence R. Leach '30, Poet

Luncheon at this time at their headquarters.

Prof. Marshal P. Cram is chairman of the Committee on Public Exercises which made all the arrangements for the Commencement program. Other members of the committee are Gerald G. Wilder, Librarian, in charge of registration; Prof. Mortimer E. Mason in charge of tickets; Prof. Warren B. Catlin in charge of the dinner; Associate Prof. Edward H. Wass in charge of music; and Mr. Albert Abrahamson in charge of the exercises in the Church.

Address of Welcome

Mr. President, Classmates, and Friends:

We of the Class of 1930 extend to you, our friends, a most hearty welcome. It is indeed gratifying to know that there have been people beyond the bounds of this campus who have had a constant interest in our individual institutional activities. It also gives us great satisfaction to find at the culmination of our four years those particular ones here to join with us in severing the intimate ties which we value so much. We cherish a flattering hope that you will be as well impressed with our commencement as were those who came to Bowdoin for the commencement in 1905. The Portland Gazette of that year remarked: "Those who were so fortunate as to

White Key

(Continued from Page 1)

The names of the fourteen men selected by the Student Council follow: Football—R. M. Lampert, B. M. Binley; Hockey—R. C. VanVarick; Baseball—R. C. Bolling; Track—R. C. Moyer.

Class Officers—W. L. Usher, J. W. Hay, J. Creighton, Jr.

Musical Clubs—R. N. Sanger; Publications—F. C. Ahern, Jr., G. T. Sewall, W. W. Stearns.

Masque and Gown—N. D. Lovell, W. H. Perry.

Debating—No representatives.

Play

Continued from Page 1

Three Musicians, George S. Willard '30, Richard P. Mallett '30, John C. Gatchell '31; Page to Paris, Paul E. Everett, Jr., '32; Gentlemen, guests of Capulet, John M. Stanley '30, Carl K. Moses '30; Citizens, James P. Pettigrove, Arthur K. Orne '30, David P. Faxon '30, George W. Freiday '30, Norman S. Waldron '30, Richard P. Mallett '30; Servants, Arthur K. Orne, David P. Faxon '30, Watchman, Howard Davies, Jr., '31; 2nd Watchman, George W. Freiday '30; Lady Montague, Lydia Riley; Lady Capulet, Fabiola Caron; Juliet, Elizabeth Graves; Nurse to Juliet, Mildred Thalheimer; Ladies, Elizabeth Riley, Eleanor Riley, Jessica White, Muriel Bradbury.

Vacation in the Clouds

—while you learn to fly!

This Summer you can enjoy a memorable vacation while learning to fly — at the Curtiss-Wright Summer Flying Camp in Portland, Maine. Under ideal flying conditions, surrounded by every facility for recreational activities, you'll enjoy every minute of a wonderful vacation.

Flying instruction is under the direction of government licensed, experienced Curtiss-Wright instructors, in new modern planes. As accommodations are limited, you are urged to communicate at once with the camp director, J. Halsey Gulick, Clapp Memorial Building, Portland, Maine.

CURTIS-WRIGHT FLYING SERVICE
"World's Oldest Flying Organization"
PORTLAND, MAINE

be present were highly gratified and somewhat surprised at the very many and sensible compositions of the young gentlemen concerned in the performance of the day. Their style of oratory was animated and correct and free from that frillery which was so frequently esteemed ornamental to college oratory."

Commencement is a time of reflection. Previously the future was centered with many of us about going and being in college. Beyond that we gave little thought. Our ambitions were those of acquiring great heights either in the scholastic or extracurricular pursuits or both. It seemed far away, years and years before that period in our lives would pass. But it has, nevertheless. Four short years have vanished leaving fortunately the more choice memories.

In looking back over our college career we look upon it as a great whole. Into it are blending the detailed attainments. What we have termed mistakes or failures disappear in its immensity, never to hinder our progress in the future. This great whole has been as we have wished to make it and possesses a value for us which we can never fully estimate. The joys and profits which we have reaped from it are ours forever.

All this that we have gained through our life at Bowdoin we dedicate to you who have made our stay here possible. These commencement activities can little show our deeply felt appreciation. Only in the great future that looms ahead can we make manifest our indebtedness to you and that by striving toward success in whatever we undertake.

Classmates: We meet beneath this ancient oak as tradition wills us. Its trunk has been an axis around which our lives have rotated. The circumference of our four years' existence here has been small, enabling us to

(Continued on page 3)

Alumni Council

(Continued from Page 1)

pacities in connection with the Bowdoin Club of Portland, and is also a member of other organizations in that city.

Mr. Philbrick is a practicing lawyer in Portland, where he has shown a decided interest in Bowdoin affairs, serving as secretary of the Bowdoin Club of Portland from 1925 to 1928. During the war he was a First Lieutenant in the Intelligence Department of the A.E.F., and has since been active in the American Legion at Portland. He is Alumni Fund Agent for the Class of 1917.

Dr. Stubbs is a physician and surgeon in Augusta, where he has twice served as president of the Kennebec County Medical Society. He has been a member of the State Board of Health for twelve years. Dr. Stubbs is a 32nd degree Mason and is now president of the Bowdoin Alumni Association of Kennebec County.

Richard P. Mallett '30, Odist

Ode

The aged father speeds his boy upon his way
And feels secure that he is safe
To tread the ways of earth.
The father feels that he has taught him, as he should
The way to think.
There is no other way.
He has learned it from his father, and has taught it
To his heir and then the son shall pass it on to his.
Benign and calm the father rests upon his laurels
Smiles complacently, the weight of duty gone.

The boy
With bolted door behind him,
With virgin world before him,
Stands upon the step and wonders
Where he goes from here.
"What now," he cries to an open sky
And from the blue no answer comes.

Perhaps straightaway he'll win success
A name,
A crown.

I doubt it though.
Perhaps he'll trudge alone in some small school
Or shop
And, listless, find a grave in apathy.

Or cringing on the doorstep,
White and whimper
Like a Greek's unwanted child, Until
The wind
The rain
Take pity, and in mercy chill his heart.

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

Take home a copy of Robert Coffin's - An Attic Room
Prof. Beale's - The Critical Year

The Bowdoin Bugle Tales of Bowdoin

Don't forget that we carry Bowdoin banners, jewelry and other souvenirs of Bowdoin.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

History

In the fall of 1926 a motley crew of befuddled freshmen reached Brunswick to be regaled and admonished with the wisdom and witticisms of Spike MacCormick of prison fame in Memorial hall. The close relation between the ridiculous and the serious became a stark, staring reality when on Proclamation night we received the mandates of the Class of 1929 with an appropriate share of feathers and paste. However, the impression seems to have been more physical than menmaliciously concocted bottle of scent. Harry returned unscathed leaving his gift behind him.

Rising night of this year was weathered by the sophomores with remarkably little ducking in the corn-er trough. The only exterior evidence of freshman exuberance and bad taste being the numerals 31 adorning the pedestals of Sophocles and Demosthenes, and Mulholland's car found on the art building steps. Malicious minds have attributed to us of 1930 the blame for the presence of certain birds in the College Chapel. Whoever the culprit was it offered unopposed opportunity to the Student Council for living target practice with much danger to certain heavenly bodies, the dislocation of several stars and probable puncturing of more than one cloud. And so our sophomore year came to an end with undisputed evidence of physical supremacy and conclusive proof of mental superiority in our smashing victory over the Freshmen in a Freshman-Sophomore debate.

As Juniors we found handed down to us a tradition of Ivy Day—an exercise which many claimed was an out-worn and hopeless fruit of dogma. But strangely enough there were many members of 1930 who believed that Ivy Day still contained the seeds and possibilities of a noble institution. After several conference between class officers and the President and Dean it was decided to give it a final trial. As a consequence Ivy Day was rescheduled for the afternoon of May 1st. It is perhaps the greatest factor in the atmosphere of a college and it is hoped that future classes will do their part in preserving Ivy Day Exercises—an institution to which we feel very close and for which we have great veneration. It is indicative that our Ivy is actually alive and flourishing. In the 1930 Bugle the staff produced a piece of work with surprising minimum of typographical errors. It is even reported that the New York Telephone company finds the photographic section of untold assistance in selecting its future executives from our class.

In campus gossip of our Junior year rumor has it that Tom Chalmers stole a base; upon interview he indignantly denied the charge. But not to be outdone Ben Houser has hinted that Harry Pollock was caught red-handed. Harry's statement is that he was not out for public relations. Inseparably bound up with this last year at college have been major examinations. With reference to this last and greatest of our four-year trials, the Bowdoin Bugle has said that the watchword is "They shall not pass," but graduating classes year after year seem to have proved the fallacy of this statement. Indeed, it is rather the aim of a great teacher is to make himself superfluous as soon as possible. Not only have we learned the truth of this, but further we have come to appreciate the relations between students and faculty which exist here at Bowdoin, to value the confidence placed in student opinion. Our life here has not been made up of conflicting forces of students and faculty but rather by a cooperating combination of the two.

On Ivy Day seniors' last chapel at which there was an attendance far better than warranted by precedent we experienced our last class function in the presence of the whole college community. As a class we have taken an active part in college athletics in a sport of which we might say as a single example the fine work of Stone and Thayer in both football and hockey. The Quill, through the work of Fredrick, has improved enough to be impossible of identification with the product of past years. The Orient has experienced renovation which brings it nearer to the elusive ideal of a college paper. Phil Be-Be-Kaplan has received his usual quota from our number while an unprecedented number of men planning to enter graduate school refutes the popular theory that a man goes to college today in order to obtain a diploma. In spite of any indications to the contrary we have had our serious moments. It is characteristic of lighter ones to come up in reminiscence. Four years of college life is not to be summed up in a few words. If we have tied no flags on the chapel spire, if we fail to reach the stars we aim at as we cross the threshold, we have at least become part of a tradition that will roll down the years.

Address of Welcome

(Continued from page 2)

intermingled. Now we are finally drawn to its center to reflect before parting. On the morrow the circumference of this invisible circle will become larger, giving little opportunity for the personal contact which we have had. Let us hope, however, that we shall return to this first and innermost circle from time to time to meet again.

Lastly we have donned this blackened garb befitting of the occasion. We have assumed a serious attitude, some of us, perhaps for the first time. Tradition has it that we should be sorrowful at this last meeting but it is said that the young man of the present day is not sentimental. Why should he be? The modern world is smaller than formerly, smaller in the sense that it can be covered more quickly. The stage coach of a hundred years ago is a good flier today. Therefore a parting is only temporary. Whether or

Olin S. Pettigill, Jr., '30
Opening Address

not our future is involved in bringing medical enlightenment to some stricken fireside, or wielding justice, or instructing others in educational lines or handling the world's business, we shall meet nevertheless. Therefore why be sorrowful at these our Class Day Exercises.

Closing Address

If you ask the average undergraduate, or perhaps even the graduate of a liberal arts college just what he is getting out of his college, or has got, he will almost invariably stutter and stop to consider, whereupon he will commence to tell you of the fine contacts he has made, of the fun about the dormitories or on the athletic field; but seldom will he break that mysterious silence amongst liberal arts students with respect to what they actually get out of their studies, which are presumably the first reason of the existence of the college. For this reason outsiders have very frequently complained of and berated liberal arts colleges because they are of no practical use, they prepare men for nothing save teaching. The courses, they say, are too general and theoretical. The course in statistics will not make you a statistician; not that in navigation a navigator. On the part of the defenders of these colleges there are many stock idealistic phrases, one of the best of which might be these words of Prof. Whitehead: "The paradox is now fully established that the utmost abstractions are the true weapons with which to control our thought of concrete fact."

I had thought it fitting to conclude these exercises in commemoration of our liberal arts education with an inquiry into the use and purpose of such studies as we of the class of 1930 have just completed. But when this inquiry led me to the conclusion that all the grievances against liberal arts courses converge and may be summed up in the head of Prof. Whitehead: "The paradox is now fully established that the utmost abstractions are the true weapons with which to control our thought of concrete fact."

As men we must remember that first and last we live within the bonds of human experience. If we had pent the past four years at training for profession, we should have deviated by that much time and labor from the line of free choice in life at an age when we could not know where our highest capacities lay. Life is always like a game of checkers in which with each move an irrevocable step has been taken, but never so much as when we specialize early in life. Man is the least specialized of all living creatures. Fish can only swim, birds only fly and walk, whereas man can do all these things and more. There is a virtue in this lack of specialization and preservation of possibilities of activity which in our highly specialized age is not, perhaps, emphasized enough. It is quite obvious that man's potentialities lie in this very fact of his specialization. For by this means he rises above other created things. The diversity of experience which we are able to enjoy is greater according to the amount of possibilities of experience that we preserve within ourselves; and conversely, as we specialize our capacity for experience is diminished. For example, the poet Coleridge, who had never seen an ocean, was able to portray in his "Ancient Mariner" the atmosphere of sea life so that it rings true to seaman who, themselves specialized, can seldom appreciate any other life than their own. Shakespeare portrayed almost every conceivable human experience; his mind, we may say was as completely unspecialized as any man's ever was.

The true measure of a man's maturity consists in the extent of experience he is capable of enjoying. Civilization rests upon the desire that the greatest number shall enjoy their capacities for experience to the greatest extent. We desire to live because of our hopes concerning what experience may bring. Our love of life is constituted of our faith in the goodness of experience, a faith which is based on the all portrayals of experience give up joy. And it is this faith again which gives rise to the dignity of the race that we observe in the face of stirring events, since these tend for the moment to unspecialize multitudes of men. The sublimity of poetic and philosophic striving is also a faith in experience which is carrying men far above any specialization; and in these cases no reward such as professional life seeks is any longer comparable to that contained in the striving itself. Spinoza was content to philosophize by himself and live by polishing lenses even though offered a professorship of philosophy at Heidelberg. Milton did not complain because the first issue of his "Paradise Lost" repaid him with only five pounds, though it was the work towards which his whole life had been preparation. Shakespeare did not care sufficiently for fame as a dramatist to temper his accurate publication of his plays.

Faith in the goodness of experience

is the embodiment of the love of freedom which is our highest desire. We like choices because they exercise our freedom, that is, we enjoy experience because through it we hope to be free; and this is a rational hope, for it is only through increasing breadth and depth of experience that we approach real freedom. Freedom means that, instead of hedging ourselves about with self-delusions, we shall face life freely and squarely and consciously. To do this is the ultimate value of experience; it is the only real value of study, the only improvement derivable from knowledge of whatever sort. Hence, it is obvious that the primary purpose of study is not to develop a mechanical perfection with respect to a single profession, or to impose people with mass of reading, but to promote the ability to act freely and consciously in the midst of life's vicissitudes. This is what Montaigne meant when he said: "We do not educate a child to burden his intellect, but to improve his judgment. Sound judgments are not mixtures but compounds; they are not feelings within burdened intellects but intuitions flowing from knowledge which the mind has been able to assimilate. We may say, therefore, that our theoretical and general studies have been useful and practical according as they have broadened our judgments; and according as they have instilled in us an enduring love of the fine arts, for it is only minds that have not succumbed to the Vice of Specialization which can appreciate the fine arts. By this vice I mean the delusion of any man who becomes submerged in his own field of activity to the exclusion of other fields,—for example, the case of the literary man who closes his mind to mathematics. This is a vice because the mastery of any field of study is not possible within the one field, but only through its affinities with all other fields and finally with human life. The fine arts are the monarchs of the intellectual kingdom; they are the pinnacle towards which all study tends, for in them glimpses of the unity of life are fettered for the joy and welfare of posterity.

The greatest challenge which life lays before us is that of appreciating the lives of as many fellow men as we can; it is that, for example, of discovering what we have in common with the mathematician, the chemist, and the musician in a way that this challenge we are doing all that ever can reasonably be asked of us; for in grasping the experience of the scientist we cannot fail to aid in the advantageous adjustment of human experience to the external world after which the scientist is striving, in grasping the experience of the mathematician and musician we cannot fall short of a feeling for symmetry and harmony. Finally, as we pass in review all the qualities which a varied appreciation of human nature presupposes in us, it is at once evident that together the aptitudes and abstract quality, the beautiful, And through that same quality in our nature which loves experience we invariably strive to impose upon the world about us those principles of beauty that we are capable of experiencing. These are identical with those of the good, for in evil there is absence of symmetry and harmony. The final test, therefore, that a man is open-minded and unspecialized is his love of the fine arts and of his fellow men, among whom he will live in sympathies enriched with his appreciation of the finest feelings that life has to offer throughout the ages. What Sir Philip Sidney said of poetry applies equally well to the other fine arts; "They that do delight in poetry itself should seek to know what they do and how they do; and especially look themselves in an unflattering glass of reason, if they be inclinable unto it."

James P. Pettigrove '30
Closing Address

Oration

"The Old Order Changeth . . ."
Once again the Class of 1930 has committed a great political blunder by choosing as our orator one who has done all in his power to disprove such an assumption. It is indeed deplorable that 109 men of unquestionably high intellect should so defile the Temple of Reason by this single act of delirium. However, trembling as I am at the present moment from my second appearance before this august gathering, I sympathize with the struggle on come what may, and if as the hours go by you find yourselves squirming in your seats, squirm by all means. But remember that this is my last appearance before you, and behind me are alone responsible for this declamatory debacle.

As I cast about for something with which to occupy these moments of your waking hours, my mind at once anchors me to the age in which we live. Yet a precarious anchorage is this age, and so whirling with the tide of change that it strikes the figure of speech beyond recognition. Speed is one of the outstanding char-

VALE!

Good bye and Good Luck to the class of nineteen hundred and thirty, whose consistent patronage we both appreciated and enjoyed. May success go with your sheepskin, and good fortune attend you . . . always.

HARMON'S

acteristics of today. The automobile, airplane, limited express, four-day ocean liner, motorboat, merry-go-round, and roller coaster are all branded with the omnipresent onomatopoeic of speed. The very word "speed" is a new spirit of motion realized by our fathers when they attended college. A story goes that a travelling salesman was boarding a fast train for the West and turned to kiss his wife on the platform. As he was extending himself for a caress in a spirit of marital indulgence, the train started suddenly, and the poor man's lips met not his mate's, but those of a bridled cow five miles out in the country. The emblem of speed, to take one phase of our chaotic civilization, from a point of view of rapid perfection and universality, has been the automobile. Thirty years ago a week-end was probably unheard of. A quick jaunt to some out-of-the-way place

(Continued on Page 4)

Degrees Conferred 1930

Bachelor of Arts

William M. Altenburg, Portland
John K. Ames, Machias
Charles W. Babb, Jr., Camden
Clayton M. Bardsley, Bridgton
Richard L. Barker, Derry, N. H.
George H. Beaumont, Lewiston
Frederic H. Bird, Rockland
Philip R. Blodgett, Chicago, Ill.
George W. R. Bowie, Vanebo
Thomas G. Eraman, Portland
Ronald P. Bridges, West Pembroke
Carleton A. Butler, Gorham
Paul W. Butterfield, Farmington
Henry P. Chapman, Jr., Portland
Vaughan H. Clay, Waterville
Lewis C. Coffin, Ashland
Prince S. Crowell, Jr., Franklin, Mass.
Forrest S. Davis, Portland
Harrison M. Davis, Jr., Marblehead, Mass.
Roy E. Davis, Bethel
Howard A. Davison, Attleboro, Mass.
William H. Dean, Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa.
David Desjardins, Brunswick
Raymond Deston, Fall River, Mass.
Charles H. Farley, Jr., Cape Elizabeth
David P. Faxon, Moorestown, N. J.
Herbert H. Fernald, Topsham
Joseph P. Flagg, Portland
Douglas Fosdick, Lewiston
George W. Freiday, Jr., South Windham
Gerald G. Garcelon, Lewiston
Manning Hawthorne, Scarsdale, N. Y.

William K. Heath, Bar Harbor
Asher D. Horn, Farmington
William P. Hunt, Jr., Woodford
Raymond E. Jensen, Portland
William F. Johnson, Princeton
Asa S. Knowlton, Northeast Harbor
Edgar W. Lancaster, Old Town
John F. Leahy, Milton, Mass.
Lyman C. Lee, Dover-Foxcroft
Laurel C. Longfellow, Monrovia
Oliver C. Lyon, Jr., Montclair, N. J.
Charles F. McCreery, Brookline, Mass.
Elbert G. Manchester, Winsted, Conn.
Theodore M. Marshall, Taunton, Mass.

Carl K. Moses, Dexter
William A. Murphy, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Arthur K. Orne, Rockland
James M. Parker, Cape Elizabeth
James P. Pettigrove, Machiasport
Olin S. Pettigill, Jr., Middleton, Mass.
Herbert L. Prescott, Rockland
Weston Rankin, Woodford
John W. Riley, Jr., Brunswick
Howard M. Sapiro, Portland
Samuel H. Slesberg, Gardiner
Ralph S. Smith, Jr., Adams, Mass.
Clifford R. Snow, Newton, Mass.
Gilmore W. Soule, Augusta
John M. Stanley, Kears Falls
George E. Stetson, Brunswick
Howard W. Stets, St. Augusta
Stuart E. Stone, West Newton, Mass.
Frederic D. Toolt, Salem Depot, N. H.

Burton H. Tower, Adams, Mass.
Ansel B. True, Worcester, Mass.
Herman F. Urban, Seymour, Conn.
Norman S. Waldron, Rockland
Benjamin B. Whitcomb, Ellsworth
Merle R. Wilkins, North Jay
George S. Willard, Sanford
Warner Witherell, Northampton, Mass.
Philip W. Woods, Portland
Leon Ziesel, New York, N. Y.

Bachelor of Science

Pliny A. Allen, Norway
Donald W. Berry, Hackensack, N. J.
Frederick L. Bixby, Salem, Mass.
Emerson M. Bullard, Wrentham, Mass.
Robert E. Burnham, Elmhurst, N. Y.
Herbert W. Chalmers, Framingham, Mass.
William C. Cole, Skowhegan
Donald G. Congdon, Worcester, Mass.

Elliot K. Coulter, Essex, Conn.
Isa Crocker, Freeport
Elmer B. Drew, Melrose, Mass.
Caleb F. Dyer, Dover-Foxcroft
Barrett Fisher, Lowell, Mass.
Ralph B. Hirtle, Malden, Mass.
Benjamin G. Jenkins, Danvers, Mass.
George J. Jones, Somerville, Mass.
Daniel E. Kennedy, Jr., Chestnut Hill, Mass.
William N. Locke, Newtonville, Mass.
Herbert S. McLellan, Malden, Mass.
Alexander B. Mulholland, Ipswich, Mass.
Kaspar O. Myrvagnes, Skarbovik
Aleusund, Norway
Frank W. Phelps, Jr., Old Town
Walter L. Placzankis, Rumford
Edward W. Rayner, Newton Center, Mass.
Robert H. Sargent, Belmont, Mass.
Edward Schwartz, Portland
Henry G. Small, Winchester, Mass.
Edwin B. Spaulding, Bath
Ellis Spear, 3d, Newton Center, Mass.
Alva D. Stein, Jr., Newton, Mass.
Henry H. Stevenson, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Hewlett S. Stone, Lexington, Mass.
Oscar Swanson, Belmont, Mass.
Harry B. Thayer, Jr., Marblehead Neck, Mass.
Wendell Ward, Houlton
Dwight E. Webber, Houlton

CUMBERLAND

Friday - June 20

-VAUDEVILLE-

- on the screen -

RUTH CHATTERTON

- in -

THE LADY OF SCANDAL

Also Paramount News

Saturday - June 21

A MOST IMMORAL LADY

- with -

LEATRICE JOY

Comedy Short Subjects

Monday - June 23

THE VAGABOND KING

- with -

Dennis King - Jeanette MacDonald

Comedy Paramount News

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profit, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

LYMAN B. CHIPMAN
PURE FOOD SHOP
Wholesale—Retail
574 Congress St., Portland, Me.

'Anything y'want Pressed?'
Give it to
LAVENDER OR ESTLE
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

PRINTING
of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.

Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

QUALITY ALWAYS.
Brunswick Publishing Company
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets
Telephone Brunswick No. 3

Baccalaureate

(Continued from Page 1)

been dialyzed to their country, their kin, their benefactors, and to the two great institutions, church and state. With that universality of genius which raises the Divine Comedy out of the limitations of the Middle Ages Dante is here teaching a profound moral truth. The man who has no feeling of gratitude, who has no sense of obligation, can never be loyal and true. It may be well to emphasize this thought in these days when men are so seldom grateful. We prefer to think of the things that we are doing, have done, or can do for ourselves rather than of what has been done for us. We are impatient of being reminded of obligations we are under to men and women of previous generations, now for a long time dead and gone. Let us live our own lives in our own way. It is irksome to think that we are under obligations because our fathers and their fathers and their fathers labored not solely for themselves but for us. Is there not something of this feeling behind the attitude so widely prevalent which prompts to observance of religious and patriotic occasions? A lack of real gratitude dries up the well spring of loyalty. Of course very often the reasons for gratitude are not clearly realized. There is, for example, a great lack of loyalty to the church on the part of the younger generation, and of many others too. But how few realize how deeply their obligations as members of society to the church, or in other words, to organized religion? One has no quarrel with those who are under misconceptions of the church. But if it could only be realized how much good the church does, how it is always ready for duty, always ready to give the consolations of religion to all who call, some feeling of gratitude might engender a different spirit; and if, as is probable, you are not yet ready to be grateful to the church for what it does, there is a great accumulated debt of gratitude for what it has done for you. The same things holds of loyalty to one's country. If we think of all the things that the country has done for us, of all its potentialities for good, then there is real patriotism, a thrill that causes deep gratitude and can be expressed only in devoted service. Thus nearly every department of life you may test your sense of loyalty by your own feeling of gratitude. Thus in nearly every department of life you may test your sense of loyalty by your own feeling of gratitude, and this extends to life itself with all its hopes and fears, its disappointments and triumphs, with its sin and sorrow and victory. We all our heart of hearts know that the gift of life is a great high gift for which we should be devoutly grateful to Almighty God. Some of you may be the poignant and beautiful memory of Henry Newbold called, "He fell among thieves," the story of the young English officer just from school and college, captured on the Afghan borders and to be executed at dawn. The poet passes in review pictures of life in England, of school and college, "He saw the white waistcoat and timbered roof."

The long tables and the faces merry and keen;
The College Eight and their trainer dining aloof.
The Dons on the dais serene.
The youth thinks of those happy days, then he faces his murderers and says,
"O glorious Life, who dwellest in earth and sun,
I have lived. I praise and adore Thee."
Another basis of loyalty is of a very different nature but it is of much more importance than on the surface appears—enthusiasm. If we are really loyal to a cause or an institution, we need to exercise far more than we do the virtue of moral fervor. We ought to be very excited and excited, and to be capable of indignation, if our loyalties are unjustly attacked. In his latest work Thornton Wilder cites the saying of Plato that the true philosopher is the young men of their age; "not because they do it very well but because they rush upon ideas with their whole souls. Later men philosophize for praise or for apology, or because it is a complicated intellectual game." "And what," the woman of Andros asks, "drives them in the next fifteen years to become so graceless, so pompous or so envious, or so visibly cheerful?" As we pass from youth there is very real danger of our losing our eagerness, our freshness, our enthusiasm, and if we let these things wane, we find it difficult to keep our loyalties alive. It is not altogether a happy circumstance that in a proper desire to avoid the rah rah collegiate attitude, of late there seems to have developed on many a campus a depreciation of true college spirit. It is of course well to avoid a blatant and noisy patriotism; but one need not carry this protest so far as to feel no thrill at the sight of the flag, or to have no response in our souls to the heroic and the self-sacrificing. Surely the college ought always to encourage an intelligent participation in public affairs to develop an attitude profoundly critical of all that is vicious and cheap. But college men need also to be on guard against too great sophistication, against a lack of enthusiasm for high causes such as democracy and social justice. There are evils in our public life that cry aloud to be rectified. There are the dangers of corruption to be fought; there are all too many signs of incompetency and cowardice in our legislative halls. But there is not the least good reason to abandon faith in the principles of our democracy, or to be faint hearted about the future. We need a new birth of loyalty to America—loyalty that knows the heart of the country to be sound and true, loyalty that realizes that out of the struggle and turmoil, out of the momentary depression will come a stronger and fairer land on which the deepest loyalty of our hearts may honorably be set.

So far I have endeavored to point out that loyalty is built upon simplicity and gratitude and enthusiasm. The loyal soul has a certain simplicity and directness of temper, a sense of purpose and a willingness to display no more moral fervor. And now let us turn for a few minutes to a discussion of what is more important consideration—to what end should a man be loyal? When should one be ready to subordinate his personal loyalty to the higher loyalty of the larger groups? How far can loyalty to friends, or groups, or country be consistent with loyalty to truth? After all everything depends on this higher loyalty. In other words, loyalty to truth is the test of all other loyalties. Some loyalties are not in the mind; these are loyalties of love not of the intellect. But is there no connection between loyalty to the home and loyalty to truth? You are loyal to all the best that is in your home, to the self sacrifice and to the love that abide there, to all those things that are fair and lovely and of good report. And you can with perfect intellectual honesty be loyal to your college, or your church, or your profession, not necessarily the college for other exercises, or dislike for the day, but loyal to the best that you know.

In the words of Kipling:
"If England was what England seems
And not the England of our dreams Pretty, but only a land of peace,
"Ow quick we'd chuck 'er—but she ain't!"
To be loyal to the best that we know, to be loyal to the truth as God gives us to see the truth is the purpose of life. And as the President Alderman of the University of Virginia told his graduates the other day, "Any scheme of society in which intolerance prevails, in which every exercise is directed to the glorification of the state, and in which they find it fearlessly and reverently, is a society branded with the cheapest infamy possible to the human spirit." Loyalty to truth must constantly be at war with intolerance. Truth is many sided. In a fine Elizabethan phrase we read: "Truth lies open to all; it is the sole possession of no one individual. The country of truth has not yet been pre-empted. There is moral truth as well as scientific truth; religious truth no less than material truth. The search for truth breeds loyalty to truth; but the quest is arduous and full of setbacks. A man who desires to be intellectually honest must be constantly on guard against himself. We are all too ready to take a stand and afterwards to justify that stand by specious argument reading into a situation elements that were not the first place plain. Let me give a rather common example. Many men today profess no interest in the church. As a matter of fact, they prefer to live Sundays for other exercises, or dislike their obligations. But the reason that in many cases would be given is that the church is too dogmatic, or has too much doctrine, or too strict a creed. And passing this objection have never studied for a moment a creed, nor do they know anything about doctrine. Such kind of intellectual reasoning is not based on loyalty to the truth. The political life there are constant cases of lack of intellectual honesty. To vote for or against a bill solely on the grounds of putting your opponent in opposition in one current of opinion is not loyalty to the truth. To oppose a treaty not on its merits but for the sake of embarrassing the administration is another. We suffer more in our public life from evasion and insincerity and passing of responsibility than we do even for stupidity of ignorance. A person who is loyal to his conception of the truth however warped that conception may be may some day see the truth. But beware the intellectual dishonest man, the man who has in his heart no loyalty to truth.

And it is because men have different conceptions of the truth that honest differences of opinion arise and that conflicts of interests occur. Here is a fine man, a candidate for American citizenship, who says he cannot conscientiously take an oath that will obligate him to take up arms, because he may deem unjust. Here is an equally fine man, a judge, who decrees that such a position might render our nation impotent in time of crisis. How are you going to determine which is right? I know of no other way than by testing each case as it comes along, by the reaction of your own conscience to the higher loyalty. If you get to be a lawyer you will no doubt at times have to choose between loyalty to your client and loyalty to your profession. You may be placed in a position where loyalty to your own kind, or your own class, or your own race, may be treason to the higher loyalty you owe to ever increasing groups. But if you begin by being loyal to the local, to your very own and then increase the circumference of your loyalties, as circles are formed by throwing a stone in a pond, you will not go far wrong. For real loyalty is never exclusive; it is inclusive. Like love, it rejects not in iniquity; it rejoices in the truth.

Members of the Graduating Class:
I have chosen for my theme the bases of loyalty with particular reference to your own development in the next few years. Wherever you go and whatever you may do, I hope you will be known as men who are not ashamed of loyalty to the simple things of life, not averse to being grateful and always ready to show enthusiasm for those things that are of good report. We need today not so much brilliance or cleverness as dependability and character. If you begin by showing loyalty to your home and your college, if in the next few years you can like all your ideals high and your enthusiasm aflame, you will be so much the better prepared to put your loyalties to the test of the sorrows and disappointments, the triumphs and successes of later life. All of us need individual training in loyalty, and that training begins with the most simple things which I hope you will never despise. More than anything else in your college life you have been associated with loyalty to truth. Despite many inconsistencies and weaknesses in college instruction, it is a fact that for four years you have all striven to be intellectually honest all through your lives. Go forth as uncompromising champions of the truth as God gives you to seek and possess it; and when there is so much cynicism abroad and so little faith, do not hesitate to be simple and direct and loyal and honest—loyal to your home and your college, loyal to the chosen country of your birth, loyal to those who trust and employ you, and above all loyal to that truth which is revealed to us in Christ. And may God bless you and strengthen and confirm your loyalty to Him.

Forty-Five Men
AWARDED LETTERS
Letters were recently awarded by the National Athletic Association to those who earned them in sports. The major letter men follow:

Track
G. W. Soule, '30 (captain)
J. C. Flint, '31 (manager)
W. M. Applegate, '32
G. B. Arnold, Jr., '32
H. P. Chapman, Jr., '30
R. N. Cobb, '32
S. R. Foster, '31
D. L. Galbraith, '32
D. L. Galbraith, '32
R. E. McLaughlin, '33
R. Olson, '31
C. F. Stanwood, '32
H. B. Thayer, Jr., '30
H. B. Thayer, Jr., '32
W. L. Usher, '32
J. V. Williams, '32

Baseball
L. Urban, '30 (captain)
P. M. Robinson, '31 (manager)
T. M. Chalmers, '30
W. C. Cole, '30
A. L. Crimmins, '31
S. E. Johnson, '32
S. E. Johnson, '32
E. C. Parmenter, '31
J. A. Ricker, Jr., '32
H. H. Rose, '31
B. B. Shupe, '31
G. H. Southern, '31
H. V. Stiles, '30
W. Whittier, '31

Minor letters were awarded in Fencing, Golf, Gym, and Tennis:
Fencing
W. M. Altenburg, '30 (captain)
W. B. Fleck, '32
N. K. Macdonald, '32

Golf
R. Weston, '30 (captain)
J. R. DeMeyer, '32
A. O. Dillenbeck, Jr., '31
R. C. Mullen, '32

Gym
J. B. Colton, 2nd, '31 (captain)
E. A. Driscoll, '32
W. L. L. Shon, '32
A. T. Leavitt, Jr., '30

Tennis
E. F. Abbott, Jr., '31
W. M. Altenburg, '30
J. R. DeMeyer, '32
D. C. Perkins, '31

Oration
(Continued from page 3)

was dependent upon the strength of the horse and the quality of one's driving. In those days a person had indeed to know his oats if he were to get anywhere. But the automobile has been more than a mere consumer of distance. It has contributed to one of the most noticeable changes of our present age. Up to 1910 the auto was essentially a man's instrument. But in that year the self-starter was perfected and the market was broadened by a gradually increasing number of women drivers. The effect of this simple invention was profound. When woman began to move her feet about the pedals, skirts twenty-six inches in length became a nuisance. As "the child is father of the man" so it is the mother of the woman. Year by year skirts climbed higher. A poet, Sir John Suckling, I believe, wrote in the early part of the 17th Century:

Her feet beneath her petticoat
Like little mice stole in and out.
As if they feared the light.

This could have been written with no truth to the Great War. But had Sir John been living in 1919, he would have been forced to say, Her calves beneath her petticoat Like little mice — yet he could hardly have compared calves to mice. A few years later the petticoat was no longer a necessity. "Her knees . . . like little mice . . ." The petticoat had passed into the realm of unwelcome memories. By 1930 — but perhaps I should stop. Poetry was not intended for the non-classical physical culture and the literatus has turned to the distorted meter of unimpaired and mechanical moanings. Instead of dainty, lyric loveliness we have "Hog-butcher for the world," "stacker of wheat," "tool-maker," "player with railroads," and the like. But the elevation of woman's lower hem is only a surface change of a greater and more deep seated movement toward freedom of thought from unwelcome restrictions. Before the Great War our land had been passing through an age of feminine education. The 19th Century saw the foundation of girls' colleges, which went under the titles of Female Seminary, Female College, College for Females, and other physical headings. The slogan of "Votes for Women" began its career. So did Carrie Nation, and this movement was a foundation of the new position of woman today, and belongs properly with the educating and liberating forces of the Great War and its immediate aftermath.

Woman's place in the world, which the new movement for liberation is seeking to improve, was determined by momentous events many years before the Great War. In the sharing of the Crusades of the 11th, 12th, and 13th Centuries. It must be remembered that when mankind leaves for the trenches, womankind trenches in the levings. The Crusader, upon returning home from his Christian duty of saving the world for Christianity, found a different wife. I mean, sometimes he actually did, but in all events she seemed different and wistful. Within a few decades, one million pedestals had been ordered for the knightly households upon which woman placed herself supreme for at least eight centuries. But it was man in his scheming cleverness who put her up there, and once in position she could not get down to tell him where her collar button was. Yet he, smirking in his triumph, could yell up to her where the devil was his collar button. What defeated man was the fact that woman usually knew where his collar button was. But did man wonder at her miraculous vision? He did not. He was too elated over his own cleverness.

This befooling of the male went on for centuries. The soldier, when he returned home in 1919 from his Christian duty of saving the world for democracy and Mussolini, found a different wife. Not actually different, due to the energetic task of keeping the home fires burning, but they seemed different and mysterious. These home fires I just mentioned had been kept burning by the diligent use of the pedestals supplied her in the 11th, 12th, and 13th Centuries. Now it must be remembered that "when country who are being graduated this month, to prevent a stagnation of humankind, to fight against a subordination of the soul to scientific existence, and to beware of a dangerous liberation from restraining influence in morals and manners. We should remember to live our lives and not be content with lives which are lived for us by ingenious devices. One must distinguish between a helpful and rational co-operation and the impending tragedy of mass thinking, of the blind and heedless following of the crowd. The great chain newspaper and the dependence of the brains of journalism on the power of business are making for a standardization of thought. Editorial writers are thinking for us in many phases of our complex life, and bound as they are to material factors for their daily bread, they do not think very clearly or convincingly. Modern organizations are laying a death trap for independent thought and positive expression.

An emotional waving of the flag will turn science from the aid to the destruction of mankind. The Great War is a poignant example of this hysteria. Automobiles kill thousands every year, and the disregard for human life goes on apace. With all our material gains, the luxuries of the past which have become the necessities of the present, the ease and broadened scope of communication and travel, and the increasingly successful fight against disease, it is man that really counts. He is contributing his just share to the mental advancement of civilization. We must remember that man should place himself above and not below material things. We must beware lest he lose himself in the ever multiplying luxuries of life. No amount of labor on the radio can assure us of some one worth hearing when the perfected instrument is ready. No amount of increased knowledge in medicine can build character. If we bear this always in our minds, we shall look to the future with confidence, knowing that the world can never be "too much with us."

Science answered her call and the male paid. Within a decade one million electric ice machines, vacuum cleaners, mangle clothes, and toasters had been ordered for the households of the country. Coal shovels refused to fit a woman's hand and the dog became the furnace man. The stronger sex was won over by the weaker. "Don't kill your wife with hard work, let electricity do it." Even Prometheus was defied by fearless cookery. Behind these devices woman has placed herself supreme, and the button she has to worry about now is the switch. The isolation of the pedestal has gone forever, but the superiority which it afforded has not been lost. Man has found his realm invaded on all sides, in the smoking car, in the barber shop, in the barber shop's offspring, the House of Representatives. In the Middle Ages woman was treated to a statue and have songs sung about her. The Great War liberated her from this passive existence. And yet the songs still go on, not greatly endowed with art or poetry, but so nevertheless. For, along with women who do, we are again beginning to elevate women who are, and upon this, people like Ziegfeld, Al Jolson, and Rudy Vallee are making vast fortunes.

The question before us today is how far should this liberation go? Much of it has been wise, but there is always the danger of excess. A sane and rational understanding of the relations between man and woman is undoubtedly the cornerstone of the advancement of civilization. But such freedom can be carried too far, and we should guard ourselves against a possible condition of too much relaxation from the traditions and conventions of our ancestors. With all our speed, efficiency, and turmoil we are losing touch with the great lessons of the progressive propulsion of the primrose path. We are obviously in an age of change, and this metamorphosis, so pronouncedly material in its outwardness, is also affecting the mental, moral, and spiritual structure of our civilization. It is up to all of us, and more especially the young men of our

tion of woman's lower hem is only a surface change of a greater and more deep seated movement toward freedom of thought from unwelcome restrictions. Before the Great War our land had been passing through an age of feminine education. The 19th Century saw the foundation of girls' colleges, which went under the titles of Female Seminary, Female College, College for Females, and other physical headings. The slogan of "Votes for Women" began its career. So did Carrie Nation, and this movement was a foundation of the new position of woman today, and belongs properly with the educating and liberating forces of the Great War and its immediate aftermath.

Woman's place in the world, which the new movement for liberation is seeking to improve, was determined by momentous events many years before the Great War. In the sharing of the Crusades of the 11th, 12th, and 13th Centuries. It must be remembered that when mankind leaves for the trenches, womankind trenches in the levings. The Crusader, upon returning home from his Christian duty of saving the world for Christianity, found a different wife. I mean, sometimes he actually did, but in all events she seemed different and wistful. Within a few decades, one million pedestals had been ordered for the knightly households upon which woman placed herself supreme for at least eight centuries. But it was man in his scheming cleverness who put her up there, and once in position she could not get down to tell him where her collar button was. Yet he, smirking in his triumph, could yell up to her where the devil was his collar button. What defeated man was the fact that woman usually knew where his collar button was. But did man wonder at her miraculous vision? He did not. He was too elated over his own cleverness.

This befooling of the male went on for centuries. The soldier, when he returned home in 1919 from his Christian duty of saving the world for democracy and Mussolini, found a different wife. Not actually different, due to the energetic task of keeping the home fires burning, but they seemed different and mysterious. These home fires I just mentioned had been kept burning by the diligent use of the pedestals supplied her in the 11th, 12th, and 13th Centuries. Now it must be remembered that "when

country who are being graduated this month, to prevent a stagnation of humankind, to fight against a subordination of the soul to scientific existence, and to beware of a dangerous liberation from restraining influence in morals and manners. We should remember to live our lives and not be content with lives which are lived for us by ingenious devices. One must distinguish between a helpful and rational co-operation and the impending tragedy of mass thinking, of the blind and heedless following of the crowd. The great chain newspaper and the dependence of the brains of journalism on the power of business are making for a standardization of thought. Editorial writers are thinking for us in many phases of our complex life, and bound as they are to material factors for their daily bread, they do not think very clearly or convincingly. Modern organizations are laying a death trap for independent thought and positive expression.

An emotional waving of the flag will turn science from the aid to the destruction of mankind. The Great War is a poignant example of this hysteria. Automobiles kill thousands every year, and the disregard for human life goes on apace. With all our material gains, the luxuries of the past which have become the necessities of the present, the ease and broadened scope of communication and travel, and the increasingly successful fight against disease, it is man that really counts. He is contributing his just share to the mental advancement of civilization. We must remember that man should place himself above and not below material things. We must beware lest he lose himself in the ever multiplying luxuries of life. No amount of labor on the radio can assure us of some one worth hearing when the perfected instrument is ready. No amount of increased knowledge in medicine can build character. If we bear this always in our minds, we shall look to the future with confidence, knowing that the world can never be "too much with us."

Science answered her call and the male paid. Within a decade one million electric ice machines, vacuum cleaners, mangle clothes, and toasters had been ordered for the households of the country. Coal shovels refused to fit a woman's hand and the dog became the furnace man. The stronger sex was won over by the weaker. "Don't kill your wife with hard work, let electricity do it." Even Prometheus was defied by fearless cookery. Behind these devices woman has placed herself supreme, and the button she has to worry about now is the switch. The isolation of the pedestal has gone forever, but the superiority which it afforded has not been lost. Man has found his realm invaded on all sides, in the smoking car, in the barber shop, in the barber shop's offspring, the House of Representatives. In the Middle Ages woman was treated to a statue and have songs sung about her. The Great War liberated her from this passive existence. And yet the songs still go on, not greatly endowed with art or poetry, but so nevertheless. For, along with women who do, we are again beginning to elevate women who are, and upon this, people like Ziegfeld, Al Jolson, and Rudy Vallee are making vast fortunes.

The question before us today is how far should this liberation go? Much of it has been wise, but there is always the danger of excess. A sane and rational understanding of the relations between man and woman is undoubtedly the cornerstone of the advancement of civilization. But such freedom can be carried too far, and we should guard ourselves against a possible condition of too much relaxation from the traditions and conventions of our ancestors. With all our speed, efficiency, and turmoil we are losing touch with the great lessons of the progressive propulsion of the primrose path. We are obviously in an age of change, and this metamorphosis, so pronouncedly material in its outwardness, is also affecting the mental, moral, and spiritual structure of our civilization. It is up to all of us, and more especially the young men of our

Always Noticed
But Never Notice-ble

GRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always makes the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative

PHIL BRISK

FORDHAM LAW SCHOOL
WOOLWORTH BUILDING
NEW YORK
CO-EDUCATIONAL
CASE SYSTEM
THREE YEAR COURSE
TWO YEARS

One Year of College Work
Required For Admission
MORNING, AFTERNOON AND
EVENING CLASSES
Write For Catalogue
Charles F. Davis, Registrar
Room 2861

country who are being graduated this month, to prevent a stagnation of humankind, to fight against a subordination of the soul to scientific existence, and to beware of a dangerous liberation from restraining influence in morals and manners. We should remember to live our lives and not be content with lives which are lived for us by ingenious devices. One must distinguish between a helpful and rational co-operation and the impending tragedy of mass thinking, of the blind and heedless following of the crowd. The great chain newspaper and the dependence of the brains of journalism on the power of business are making for a standardization of thought. Editorial writers are thinking for us in many phases of our complex life, and bound as they are to material factors for their daily bread, they do not think very clearly or convincingly. Modern organizations are laying a death trap for independent thought and positive expression.

An emotional waving of the flag will turn science from the aid to the destruction of mankind. The Great War is a poignant example of this hysteria. Automobiles kill thousands every year, and the disregard for human life goes on apace. With all our material gains, the luxuries of the past which have become the necessities of the present, the ease and broadened scope of communication and travel, and the increasingly successful fight against disease, it is man that really counts. He is contributing his just share to the mental advancement of civilization. We must remember that man should place himself above and not below material things. We must beware lest he lose himself in the ever multiplying luxuries of life. No amount of labor on the radio can assure us of some one worth hearing when the perfected instrument is ready. No amount of increased knowledge in medicine can build character. If we bear this always in our minds, we shall look to the future with confidence, knowing that the world can never be "too much with us."

Science answered her call and the male paid. Within a decade one million electric ice machines, vacuum cleaners, mangle clothes, and toasters had been ordered for the households of the country. Coal shovels refused to fit a woman's hand and the dog became the furnace man. The stronger sex was won over by the weaker. "Don't kill your wife with hard work, let electricity do it." Even Prometheus was defied by fearless cookery. Behind these devices woman has placed herself supreme, and the button she has to worry about now is the switch. The isolation of the pedestal has gone forever, but the superiority which it afforded has not been lost. Man has found his realm invaded on all sides, in the smoking car, in the barber shop, in the barber shop's offspring, the House of Representatives. In the Middle Ages woman was treated to a statue and have songs sung about her. The Great War liberated her from this passive existence. And yet the songs still go on, not greatly endowed with art or poetry, but so nevertheless. For, along with women who do, we are again beginning to elevate women who are, and upon this, people like Ziegfeld, Al Jolson, and Rudy Vallee are making vast fortunes.

The question before us today is how far should this liberation go? Much of it has been wise, but there is always the danger of excess. A sane and rational understanding of the relations between man and woman is undoubtedly the cornerstone of the advancement of civilization. But such freedom can be carried too far, and we should guard ourselves against a possible condition of too much relaxation from the traditions and conventions of our ancestors. With all our speed, efficiency, and turmoil we are losing touch with the great lessons of the progressive propulsion of the primrose path. We are obviously in an age of change, and this metamorphosis, so pronouncedly material in its outwardness, is also affecting the mental, moral, and spiritual structure of our civilization. It is up to all of us, and more especially the young men of our

Benjamin B. Whitcomb '30
Chairman Commencement Committee

Prizes
(Continued from Page 2)

Sumner I. Kimball Prize for Excellence in Natural Sciences—James Mitchell Parker '30.
Nathan Gould Prize—Herbert Hall Fernald '30.
Horace Lord Piper Prize—No award.
Bertram Louis Smith, Jr., Prize Scholarship—Wallace Morse True '31.
Poetry Prize—Walter Parker Bowman '31.
Brown Memorial Prizes—Edward Schwartz '30, Benjamin Zolov '31, Melcher Prince Forbes '32, Edward Bernard McMenamin '33.

Leon V. Walker of the Class of 1903, of Portland, has just been elected President of the Alumni Council.

CLASS OF 1878 MEMORIAL GATEWAY

LIEUT. WARREN E. ROBINSON MEMORIAL GATEWAY

WILLIAM DEWITT HYDE HALL

SOUTHWEST CORNER

SARGENT GYMNASIUM

THORNDIKE OAK AND SCIENCE BUILDING

FRANKLIN C. ROBINSON MEMORIAL

CORNER OF CAMPUS

MEMORIAL HALL

CLASS OF 1875 GATEWAY

GYMNASIUM

WALKER ART BUILDING

MEMORIAL GATEWAY

MASSACHUSETTS HALL

BOWDOIN IN 1860

CLASS OF 1903 M

HUBBARD HALL

CH

MEMORIAL GATEWAY

APPEL

BOWDOIN IN 1820

ART BUILDING AND CAMPUS

BOWDOIN COLLEGE

VOL. LX. WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1930. NO. 9

COLLEGE OPENS WITH GREATER ENROLLMENT

Curricula Remodelled As Colleges Must Meet Changed Times

Curtis Gift of Half Million Dollars and Two Bequests Totalling Eighty Thousand Dollars Amass Increased Salaries for Professors and More Student Aid

FACULTY LARGER

As far over five hundred students crowded into the forms and aisles of the chapel last Thursday morning, the college year of 1930-31 formally began. An augmented faculty and the largest enrollment in several years were two of the outstanding features which accompanied the start of the semester. Approximately one hundred and seventy men are in this year's Freshman class, and six others transferred from various colleges and universities bringing the total enrollment to five hundred and sixty-five.

Most of the fraternities welcomed back their active over the week and they might open the rushing season as soon as the class of 1934 arrived. Pledge smokers and entertainment of all sorts went on until during upper-class registration on Thursday. On Wednesday night the new men met in the lounge of Moulton Union for a smoker, and the next evening found them assembled once again for an All-Bowdoin night.

Curtis Makes Large Gift
During the summer Bowdoin received one of the largest single gifts in the history of American Colleges. When Cyrus H. K. Curtis, head of the Curtis Publishing Company, a trustee of the college, and one of its greatest benefactors, donated half a million dollars outright, the income of which is to be employed in strengthening the salaries of our faculty. A committee, which will report to the Visiting Committee next June, has been formed, and after careful study of the situation will make recommendations as to the course which they believe it would be wise to take. On this committee are President Sills, Governor Cobb of Rockland, Professor Lawrence of Chilton, and Mr. Ellis Spear of Boston.

Scholarship Fund Larger
Another fifty thousand dollars for application on the scholarship fund comes from the estate of Dr. Lucien Howe of the class of 1870. Dr. Howe, who lived in Buffalo, was a distinguished ophthalmologist, and specified that the income from this fund should be placed at the disposal of men intending to enter his field of study.

Yet another thirty thousand dollars was given to Bowdoin during the summer months by Mrs. Maynard, of New York, in remembrance of her father, the late Hon. Henry B. Quinn, '69, who at one time was governor of New Hampshire. The income is to provide three scholarships of five hundred dollars each, which are to be awarded to students from Maine. In company with the scholarships from the Lawrence Foundation this money will provide so well for Maine scholarships that there need be no

(Continued on page 2)

ASKS STUDENT SUPPORT IN BOWDOIN NIGHT TALK

Coch Charles W. Bowser Stresses Pertinent Need of Active and Enthusiastic Backing for Polar Bear Eleven

LANCASTER PRESIDES

Thursday evening of last week the Annual All-Bowdoin Night was held in the Lounge Room of the Moulton Union under the auspices of the Bowdoin Christian Association. The greater part of the Freshman class attended along with a few upperclassmen, but that was more than enough to fill the Union to overflowing.

In order to start the meeting off with a little enthusiasm, Dr. McShane '20 of Portland led the group in singing songs of college life. In spite of the capable leadership, the result was pretty feeble and from that showing Bowdoin might well deserve the title of "the worst singing college in the East." Don Lancaster, Manager of the Moulton Union, acted as toastmaster and he introduced Arthur L. Crimmins, President of the Student Council, as the first speaker. In a short address he welcomed the incoming class on behalf of the Student Council and upperclassmen.

Bowser Urges Support of Football Team

After another song which was a little bit better than the first ones, Charles W. Bowser, Coach of the football squad was introduced. Coach Bowser after a word of welcome confined his talk to football. He pleaded for the support of the student body in the coming football season. He pointed out the necessity of having not only a strong team but also an active and enthusiastic backing from the students of the college. He expressed a desire to see the entire college playing football and spoke of the formation of interclass teams this fall which is discussed elsewhere in this paper. If a larger percentage of the men in college are given a chance to play football, it will not only increase the interest in the varsity team but will also be an excellent means of developing material for the college. Before the speaker in closing his address Coach Bowser repeated the need of a staunch support and hoped that the undergraduates would continue the interest they had shown at the convocation and drill.

Sills Points Out Advantages of Bowdoin

The last speaker of the evening was President Sills. He opened his speech by repeating the welcome of Crimmins and Bowser and then went on to explain the importance of the organizations which they represented. He explained the part that the Student Council plays in the administration of the College and urged wholehearted support by the student body. He then pointed out the advantages of the small college over the large one. In a college of Bowdoin's size new members are quickly taken in by the older men and the Lawrence Foundation has been here twenty-four hours. He has begun to fit himself into the

(Continued on page 4)

SEVEN NEW MEN ADDED TO FACULTY

Dr. Edward C. Kirkland to be Munsey Professor of History

M. Biraud of Poitiers, France, Fellow in French; Dr. Bollinger Instructor of Chemistry; and Dr. Stallknecht in Philosophy; White and Daggett to Teach German and Government

TWO BOWDOIN MEN

The inauguration of Bowdoin's 129th year finds the teaching staff increased in number by the advent of seven new instructors to the campus. Although two of the younger men are Bowdoin graduates, the others will bring ideas foreign to this campus which will aid in broadening the scope of instruction.

Outstanding among the newcomers is Edward C. Kirkland, who to this year begins active service as associate professor of American History. Francis Marie Edmond Biraud comes this year as Fellow in French, the fourth young Frenchman to hold that position. Other departments are to be enlarged by the presence of five new instructors: Giles M. Bollinger of the chemistry department, Newton P. Stallknecht of the philosophy branch, Charles V. Brooke, instructor in Romance languages, James F. White, instructor in German, and Athern P. Daggett of the history and government departments.

Edward Chase Kirkland

Popular as Scholar and Teacher
Mr. Kirkland is a graduate of Dartmouth College in the class of 1916. After service with the American forces in France he began graduate work at Harvard where he stayed for four years on his scholarships. He did special work in history with emphasis also on government and economics. He received his master's degree from that school in 1921 and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1924.

His teaching experience has been varied. In 1920 Mr. Kirkland returned to Dartmouth as instructor in the history department. He then held a similar position at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1924 he moved to Brown and the following year received the assistant professorship of history. He has been highly successful in winning friendly esteem. While at Brown he was twice chosen by the students as the most popular professor on the faculty.

Munsey Professorship Filled
Mr. Kirkland's particular interest lies in the history of the United States.

MEETING ATHLETIC COUNCIL IS HELD IN SARGENT GYM

The Athletic Council of Bowdoin College, which was reorganized at the annual meeting of the Governing Board last June, held its first meeting since its reorganization on Friday afternoon at the Bowdoin Gym with Dr. Allen Woodcock '12 of Bangor as temporary chairman.

The council elected Harvey D. Gibson '02 of New York as chairman and Prof. Boyd Wheeler Bartlett '17 of Brunswick as secretary. Other members are John H. Joy '12 of Boston, William E. Crowder '08 of New York and Charles L. Hildreth '25 of Portland from the alumni; Prof. Morgan B. Cushing from the faculty; Arthur L. Crimmins '31 of Brunswick; George H. Southern '31 of Waban, Mass.; John L. Ricker, Jr. '32 of Medford, Mass.; William L. Usher '32 of Cambridge, Mass.; and Raymond E. McLaughlin '33 of Skowhegan from the student body.

The council voted its commendation for the work of Dr. William L. Casey of Portland during the ten days that he was in charge of the physical welfare of the members of the football squad, while at the Y. M. C. A. Camp at Winthrop, and it awarded a varsity letter to Dwight H. Andrews '31 of Cambridge, Mass., for his services as intramural manager of track.

EX-GOVERNOR BAXTER WELCOMES CLASS OF '34

Speech Concerning Strict Observance of Law Provokes Sharp Retort from Kenneth L. Roberts, Well Known Author

CITIZENSHIP STRESSED

On Freshmen Day, September 23, the class of 1934 was officially welcomed to the college and initiated into a few of the joys and tribulations which they will suffer here. At 8.30 in the morning Dean Paul Nixon addressed the incoming class in the Moulton Union and outlined the problems of the year. At 9.30 the Frosh were conducted to the gymnasium and given a chance to show what they knew about a few simple things some of which they had heard of before and some of which they had not. These "simple things" were, of course, the psychological tests given under the direction of Professor Charles T. Burnett. At the conclusion of these tests Malcolm E. Morrell, director of Athletics, spoke to the new men concerning freshmen athletics and concerning the system at Bowdoin of having required athletics for Freshmen during the fall term.

Immediately after lunch all were conducted to the library and divided into three groups. Gerald G. Wilder and his assistants showed these groups through the building. They explained the system of card indexes used and the method of borrowing books from the library and how to distinguish between books which could be taken from the building and volumes which could not be taken from the rooms in which they belonged.

Baxter Advises Strict Law Observance

At 2.30 everybody gathered in the Lounge Room of the Union where Percival P. Baxter '98, former governor of Maine, addressed the new members of the college and gave them some advice which should prove useful. Mr. Baxter said that the college is the training ground for rulers of tomorrow. Every man in college should strive to make himself a better citizen, and a good citizen must obey the laws of his country. He urged support of the Prohibition Law and other laws of the college and state. Fundamentally no one has the right to choose what laws he will obey and what laws he will disobey. He pointed out to Kenneth L. Roberts, the noted author, astute example of a man who should not be followed, as he advised following not laws but one's own free will. It is interesting to note that this statement of Mr. Baxter's aroused considerable excitement and Mr. Roberts has defended his stand in several newspapers and has attacked Mr. Baxter's speech quite vigorously. In closing Mr. Baxter again pointed out the necessity of law abiding citizens in order to have a peaceful government. In his own words: "A citizen who acts in a deliberately contrary to a certain law because he does not approve of it is a low type of citizen, encouraging anarchy."

As an anti-climax to the day's proceedings a group from the faculty addressed the freshmen in regard to the four freshmen electives. Professor Orren C. Hornell represented the government department; Professor Thomas Means represented the classics, Greek and Latin; Professor Edward S. Hammond represented the department of mathematics; and Professor Noel C. Little spoke in behalf of the physics department.

During the day as well as during the examination period a general information bureau was conducted in the Union for the benefit of the Freshmen.

BOWSER'S WARNER SCHOOLED ELEVEN WELL DRILLED FOR MASS. AGGIE CONTEST SAT.

Grid Season of 1930 Awaited Anxiously By Undergraduates and Alumni—Feeling of Optimism Keypnote of Campus Sentiment

SQUAD SMOOTHS OUT PLAY THIS WEEK

The dawn of what is hoped will be a new era in Bowdoin football annals will break Saturday when the Polar Bears, drilled for four weeks last spring and almost the same period this fall in the intricacies of the Warner system of football, take the field against Mass. Aggies in their first game of the season. The White will start their schedule with only a week's practice on their home field, following their three weeks' sojourn at Winthrop.

Interest in the grid team among Bowdoin students and alumni has never been greater than right now as the time for the first appearance of Bowser's pupils draws near. Ever since a certain sunny day last spring when Charlie Bowser made his debut on the campus, hopes have run high among students and alumni that a turning point in the fortunes of White grid teams has at last been reached and Saturday's game is expected to tell at least a part of the story of whether or not those hopes have been in vain.

COLLEGE WILL SPONSOR INTERCLASS FOOTBALL

Physical Education Department Will Attempt to Stir Greater Interest in Football in Order to Assist Bowser Program

ALL TO BE EQUIPPED

In an effort to stimulate greater interest in football at Bowdoin the Physical Education Department of the college will this fall sponsor interclass football. For the past seven years inter-fraternity soccer has been under the supervision of the college but it has been thought advisable to give the football program which has been inaugurated by Coach Charles W. Bowser greater impetus. Although it is possible that soccer may be played this fall, it will be left entirely to the fraternities themselves whether or not inter-fraternity soccer is to be played. During the past few years there has been a movement to do away with all sports that do not aid the athletic program of the college.

It is hoped that if all four classes are unable to put teams in the field this year, they will do so in the next year. Already the freshman football team is out for practice and will challenge the three upper classes. It is expected as usual that the freshman-sophomore football game will be played, but games with the two upper classes will depend entirely upon the initiative these upper classes take in the matter.

The college will furnish uniforms to the teams and members of the football staff will assist in coaching the teams during the season. All members of the football squad except men on the varsity will be eligible to play with their respective class teams. By means of this newly organized football program it is expected that Bowdoin will be able to swing into the win column. The plan which is an answer to the old question of playing slowly and in the future perhaps inter-class games may be played with other colleges in the state.

Harvard and Yale Adopt Plan
The idea of inter-class competition was introduced at Harvard and was soon followed by Yale where the plan has worked most satisfactorily. Although the inter-class idea has not been widely used in the smaller colleges, there is no reason why it should not work beneficially at Bowdoin.

(Continued on page 4)

Campus Undergoes Many Changes And Improvements During Summer

While students scattered over the country during the summer holidays, Don Potter, superintendent of grounds and buildings, carried on his annual Bowdoin clean up and paint up campaign and thus the returning undergraduate cannot mistake innumerable changes around the campus. A vacancy beside the swimming pool broadcasted the information that the observatory had been waffled away. Lo and behold, the flagpole was standing benignly on the very campus and dim hammerings from the dusky confines of Memorial Hall told of drastic but secret changes. Farther away Pickard Field assumed greater resemblance to an athletic field.

A New Auditorium
Although the details have been rather vague in the minds of the students, everyone has realized that something momentous is happening to Memorial Hall. From the blows of the hammer and the rasp of the saw shall arise an auditorium of which we shall no longer be ashamed.

Almost the entire stage has been removed and a new one is to be built. From a comparatively center stage two low wide flights of stairs will rise to the right and left to slightly elevated secondary platforms. Above the stage a new acousticon ceiling will be constructed to improve the acoustic qualities of the hall. There will be new paneling on the walls and new glass is to be placed in the windows.

Theater Seats and Fireproof Stair
One of the greatest changes will be the substitution of regular theater seats for the movable benches whose scrapings and creaks have for so long been a terror to the lecturer. To add to the safety and convenience of the auditorium a fireproof stairway has been built into the northeast corner with corresponding changes on the first floor to provide for an outside exit to this staircase. In addition to these major changes the whole hall is to be redecorated and made into a modern auditorium.

At Pickard Field also great changes have come during the summer months. The baseball diamond was graded and much improved, with the outfield equipped for intramural soccer. Three other gridirons were put in good condition for soccer and football. A new gate nearer the general entrance has been set in the fence around the baseball diamond to assure greater convenience at games.

A stretch of macadam road was built at the entrance and water pipes laid to several points in the field. To complete the equipment an attractive building was erected to house the rollers and other materials.

Observatory Removed
One of the most noticeable changes has been the removal of the observatory from its position beside the swimming pool. It was built in 1890 but the recent construction of the swimming pool interfered with it. The structure is being rebuilt on a solid ledge of rock in a new position for the summer. The observatory has been set up on the roof of corner of the Pickard Field area near Harpwell Street. A large platform for the Science Building for use in class work.

On September 17 a new painting of Augustus F. Moulton was hung in the Moulton Union by his painter Joseph B. Kahill. The portrait was completed within the last month.

Football Team In Superb Shape After Winthrop Camp

Inaugurating the most ambitious schedule of pre-season training in the history of Bowdoin football, Coach Charles Bowser had a troupe of thirty-four huskies answer his call to football camp at Winthrop, Maine, early in the month. The site selected at the state Y.M.C.A. camp on the shores of Lake Umbagog was one that afforded unusual opportunity for diligent training in addition to tennis, swimming, fishing and boating facilities.

Coach Bowser had as his aides-de-camp, John Roberts of the University of Pittsburgh as line coach, John J. Magee, Bowdoin track mentor and physical conditioner extraordinary in the capacity of trainer and Dr. Henry L. Johnson as attending squad physician. To Varsity Manager Edwin Milner fell the responsible minor duties of camp together with the supervision of the crew and the managers, B. Binley and R. Lampert were the junior assistants to Milner and reporting for managerial competition were W. Copeland, A. Moyer, B. Bostedy and H. Lowell.

Fred Lord '11, vice president of the Gannett Publishing Company comes in for no slight measure of responsibility in the success of the early season at Winthrop, for he made a laborious life of the squad pleasant by frequent calls to camp bearing apples and reading matter besides driving the boys to the movies at town. On the second Sunday Winthrop broke the tedium of football routine by taking them as his guests on a long boat trip while the following Sunday Mr. Lord played host to all at dinner at his Augusta home. Each man at Winthrop has expressed his appreciation for the hospitality of Mr. Lord.

One of the highlights of football camp was the horseshoe pitching tournament which was contested with much enthusiasm yet was unfortunately never brought to close. Safe to say, however, that either Morrell, Southern, Eastman or Milliken were of championship calibre.

The following was the daily schedule of activity:
6:45—Arise
7:15—Breakfast
8:00—Sick Call
8:50—Practice Bell
9:30—Start of Practice
11:45—End of Practice
12:15—Lunch
1:50—Practice Bell
2:30—Start of Afternoon Practice
4:45—End of Afternoon Practice
5:45—Supper
6:45—Sick Call
9:00—Lights Out

On the arrival of the squad at Brunswick last Wednesday Doctor Henry Johnson stated that the work at the Winthrop camp had rounded the boys into superb condition and that he could report but a limited number of very minor injuries. He and all the football men spoke in praise of the fine food served at the training table.

At the present time the outlook is much brighter than it has been for many a campaign. Next Saturday's encounter with M.A.C. will be watched with keen interest.

Backfield Is Fast

The backfield looks to be one of the fastest in recent years with Sid Foster leading the attack. According to reports from Winthrop, Foster is faster than ever and should go places this fall. With Foster will be Jit Ricker at the other half, Lloyd Morrell at fullback and Gatchell at quarter. Gatchell is showing much promise with great speed combined with the necessary weight. Other men who will probably see action are Plaster Clark, Bakanowsky, Dwyer, and Boucher in the backfield and Madeira, Torrey, Eastman, Allen, Bates, Olsen, Loring, and Barton in the line. All these have been action in the scrimmages at the training camp and will be used as reserve material.

Aggies Lack Veterans

While Coach Bowser has refused to make any predictions as to the outcome of the game, pointing to the fact that it will be the White's first battle while their opponents opened last Saturday, Bowdoin will be favored over the Aggies. The latter went down before Bates last week by a 26-0 score and at times looked rather ragged. The team has been shot by the loss of several veterans through graduation and injuries and several of the positions are being filled by green men. The line is light and failed to give the Garnet forwards very much competition. The backfield also is small and is forced to depend upon speed and deception for the greater part of its attack. The Aggies' ace last Saturday was the substitute fullback, Diggs, who showed up to good advantage during the short period in which he was in the game. Foley's punting was an outstanding feature while the defensive end play of Dangelmayr and Staniewski was a bright light. The Aggies' play cannot be taken too lightly, however, since Bates has plenty of veterans back from last year's State titlist who are no soft sort for any team.

Light Sessions This Week
Light practice sessions will be the Polar Bears' program for tomorrow with the work concluding Friday afternoon with a signal drill. It is understood that the team will be in the gymnasium for a practice drill.

(Continued on Page 4)

Fraternity Scholastic Standing

Chi Psi	11.290
Non-Fraternity	11.285
Alpha Tau Omega	10.613
Kappa Sigma	10.217
Zeta Psi	9.666
Theta Delta Chi	9.000
Delta Upsilon	8.846
Alpha Delta Phi	8.363
Beta Theta Pi	8.303
Sigma Nu	7.800
Psi Upsilon	7.750
Delta Kappa Epsilon	7.068

The address of Francis M. E. Biraud was printed incorrectly in the 1930 Freshman Bible. He is now living at 38 College Street.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Associate Editors

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

Contributing Editors

Robert M. McFarland '31
William N. Small '31

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumnius) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, October 1, 1930.

No. 9

By Way of Introduction

You new men who read this editorial hardly need to be welcomed again to Bowdoin and to be invited to participate heartily in the affairs of the College. More people and more groups than you can recall off-hand have probably already done so, but we should like at this time to commend the ORIENT to you and to hope that you will take an active interest in it during the coming year. The ORIENT professes to be an organ for the expression of student opinion as well as a newspaper. In fact, it is in this first function that we take greater pride. We have tried in the past to serve the College in these two capacities, and to a certain extent, have succeeded very well. Quite naturally, our success has been dependent on popular support, not only in contributions but in moral backing as well. It is our hope to continue along these lines this year, and any men interested will find the Staff ready to cooperate at all times. We do not intend merely to applaud the College; we do not intend merely to criticize its acts. What we do intend is to give intelligent praise and constructive criticism whenever and wherever merited. It is in the accomplishing of these that we hope you will be interested and will cooperate with us.

All to the Mustard

We should like to follow out the policy stated in the above editorial by congratulating the Administration on the purchase of the Mustard homestead for use as a rooming-place for such members of the faculty as should desire its facilities. Bowdoin has for a long time needed some such "faculty dormitory", and from all observations its purchase will prove an excellent investment. Many a new instructor has come to Brunswick to find himself in serious difficulties on the rooming problem. After a good deal of hunting, he may find a very desirable place, but the chances are equally good that he will not, and that he will be forced to pay high rent, to live at considerable distance from the campus, to try to keep warm in rooms where weather-vanes would work with great efficiency, or to live in surroundings so dirty and run-down that he is ashamed to have callers. For a college with as high a rating as Bowdoin, such a state could not long be tolerated, and we are highly pleased with the step the College has taken. We have often wondered why the houses on Cleveland Street that the College owns have not been utilized for a similar purpose. Perhaps they will if the Mustard house proves popular, as we have reason to believe it will. At any event, we hope that sometime in the near future they may be made more attractive. In their present state, they are hardly a credit to Bowdoin.

Ave atque Vale!

Changes in both the faculty and student body are bound to occur, and it is at this time of year in particular, with everyone returning and looking for familiar faces on campus, that we realize the fact. The new men we welcome; those that have gone we regret. Naturally, many of us have lost friends through the graduation of another class; we of course will make more among those entering. This applies equally well to both faculty and students. From our faculty this year, we are losing Professor Beale, and Messrs. Pollock, Newton, Daggett and Palmer. We feel sure that all who have been privileged to take courses with these men will feel more or less regret at their departure. Professor Beale is an eminent scholar in his field and one whose loss Bowdoin will feel keenly. Furthermore, he was actively interested in students and student problems, as all who knew him well know. It seems rather unfortunate that the Administration could not have prevailed upon him to stay with us. Men of his ability and scholarship are needed here, and needed sorely. The same is true of the four instructors, though of course some of these men were leaving for work for advanced degrees. Their places will be filled, of course, by the new instructors, and we have confidence that they will uphold the high standards of scholarship of past years. We also hope that their residence here and the associations that they will make will be most pleasant and lasting. In conformity with the small college theory, faculty and students are in very close relationship here, and much of the benefit of a course is to be derived from the contacts made outside the actual class work. We look forward with great pleasure to the new associations that will be formed this year, and trust that they will compensate those broken off by these recent changes in personnel.

MUSTARD HOUSE TO BE HOME FOR BACHELOR MEMBERS OF FACULTY

The purchase of the home of the late Mrs. Fannie L. Mustard by the college was announced September 25. The house, directly across from the campus on Maine street, is to be used as a home for unmarried members of the faculty.

The Mustard house has been used for the last thirty years as a rooming place for students and professors. It is convenient to all college activities as it is situated on the corner of Maine and Page streets directly opposite the Science Building. At commencement time the house is usually the meeting place of members of the governing board assembled under the name of the Mustard Club. The building is to be remodeled in the near future for its proposed use as a home for professors but neither the plans nor the exact date have been decided at the time of writing.

College Opening

Continued from Page 1

withdrawal of funds from other students. Taken as a whole these three gifts add immensely to the power of Bowdoin, both in aiding its members and in strengthening a faculty which already holds respect throughout the country.

Changes During Summer

Considerable change has been made about campus during the summer, notably the shift in the location of the Observatory, the work carried on in Memorial Hall, and the final peaceful erection of the Memorial Flagpole. All of this is commented on at greater length elsewhere in this issue.

The usual large classes in life-saving and Red Cross work were carried on in the swimming pool during the summer. A good many Life Saving emblems of various grades were qualified. It is fortunate that the college can place such facilities as these at the disposal of local people during the summer months. Throughout the vacation the Delta was used by town teams, and hundreds of people were the guests of the college at different times. Two conferences were held on campus during the summer.

Mustard and Cress

We have our shot-gun loaded, our suit-case full of pine-apples, and a frown on our sometimes beautiful brow, and we are perusing with careful attention every stray individual whose trail crosses our bow, hoping and praying with the fervor of a bed-ridden Arab that we meet one R. Vallee, citizen of Westbrook, whom we shall immediately and positively dispatch to his great reward, to his great surprise.

Our one-time friend and counselor, Roue Davis, him that departed hence a la commencement, wrote us a stirring appeal a few days ago telling us that Herr Vallee would broadcast, believe it or not Mr. Ripley, some Bowdoin songs, and that since you could hear Vallee sing on the radio without having to see him at the same time, he thought we could stand it if we tuned in.

We tuned in, and since then we have been looking for Vallee. Out of the pastoral environs of Orono came the Stein song, pretty, stirring, rollicking, and so on, which Mr. Vallee gave to the world with somewhat dubious results.

When Professor Chase tells of hearing the tinkling strains of the Stein Song coming from the tin-pan orchestration of an English country fair merry-go-round, and the movies present it for people to laugh at—picturing the Maine football team parading around disguised as mice, poodles, baby-hippos, and all the other animals of Hollywood's animated cartoons, it makes one wonder just what Vallee did for Maine.

Seriously, a half-dozen or so opposing colleges are going to be bored to death this fall, and next fall, and perhaps ever after, while the Maine band repeats ad infinitum a song which by now is killing off whatever surplus population we once had. The song, once loved, once beautiful, once dear to our State institution (the one at Orono) is now about as popular as a kick in the pants, and people would rather hear chop-sticks and I-love-coffee-I-love-thee any day.

And when Brother Ham rendered Rise Sons of Bowdoin, a song that to every Bowdoin man is a veritable hymn, with a curious metre that suggested the dance hall and Night clubs of the Great White Way, it suddenly made your dear uncle very sick, but not too sick to dance up and down, gnash his teeth, and swear in four languages at once.

What this country needs now, someone says, is a non-croonable song. Better still, they should declare an open season on crooners, especially those who go around popularizing college songs. Westbrook papers please copy.

While we've been writing that Mr. Vallee has made $7,000.

We have a curious sense of humor, admitted, but we don't like to have our friends say that gold-darned sarcastic tone of voice, "Well, how's the team this year?" For several seasons we have always boasted "Fine, fine, fine," and then the team has made minnies of us. This year we don't know anything about the team, having been kicked out twice during secret practices, but we sure wish them all the luck and success in the world.

And those secret practices are funny. You can't be in the field, but anybody can sit on the fence. "You'll have to leave," said the third assistant to the second vice president of the assistant manager, "We're going to have secret practice." "Who are you afraid we'll tell?" a student asked with a sly twinkle in his roguish eyes. "Why," was the retort brilliant, "Nobody, but it's secret practice and you'll have to get out." "We beech!" the team will be stage-struck when all those peoples get out there Saturday, huh?

WELCOME 1934

Thru the contacts we have already made with you, we congratulate Bowdoin on a splendid entering class. If at any time throughout the year we can serve you in any way, we can assure you of quality merchandise at reasonable prices.

The House of Walah

"More than a toggery . . . a Bowdoin Institution"

W E
L
C O
M
E
1 9
3
4

The College Spa

An Eating Place of Refinement

FACULTY VACATIONS

The first week of college this semester found the faculty once again gathering to Bowdoin from their summer homes. Professors Livingston, Stanwood, Cushing and Cobb return from their sabbatical leaves. Professor Wilnot Mitchell possibly was the busiest during the summer months. After six weeks at the Bates Summer School, where he presented two English Literature courses, he gave six lectures at the Bangor Theological Seminary, where the Methodist clergy of the state were convened. A trip to New Hampshire followed this. Professor Ham spent his summer in study at Brunswick. Professor Gram made a rather extensive trip through Eastern Europe and the Balkans, visiting Athens and Constantinople during his travels. Another traveler in Europe was Professor Hartman, of the English department, who summered in England after his marriage in June.

A number of the faculty made their vacation trips through New England by automobile. Professor Catlin visited the White Mountains and Connecticut. Professor Hornell took several short motor trips, and Professor Andrews was at Kennebunk Beach. On his return from sabbatical leave Professor Carson Stanwood spent some time on a fishing trip in the north of the state. Professor Little, while not engaged in research here at the college, was at Cliff Island.

Professor Copeland of the biology department returned once again to Woods Hole, Mass., made famous by the government biological investigation station located there. After attending his twentieth reunion at Yale, Professor Means read the Latin and set the Greek for the College Entrance Examination Board. Trips to Nantucket and Michigan followed this. Another visitor to Michigan was Professor Smith, after he had spent the first part of the summer in his camp at Franconia, N. H.

An extremely interesting trip abroad was that of Professor Stanley P. Chase. Following extended study in Paris, he toured England, devoting most of his time to Cornwall, Devon, and Wales. Doctor Johnson summered at Watch Hill, where he has an extensive practice. Two more of the faculty remained in Maine, Mr. Boyer at Mere Point and Professor Gilligan at Beechwood.

Professor Cobb and Coach Miller were associated in the management of a large chain of boys' and girls' summer camps in the northern part of the state. Mr. Wilder had a cottage at Pembroke. Professor Gross spent a busy summer in Wisconsin, studying the prairie chicken, which has become so scarce in recent years as to give the State Conservation Commission fear for its survival. Professor Gross made several thousand feet of film, which will be used in lectures this year.

Taking Electrical Convenience From Ol' Man River

THE total capacity of waterwheel generators built by General Electric in the last ten years is more than enough to supply light and power for twenty cities of one million population.

Installed in power houses along the waterways, these machines transform the strength of mighty rivers into useful electric energy for homes, for industry, and for transportation.

The vision and skill of college-trained men are largely responsible for the continuing leadership of General Electric in its service of furnishing machines and devices that provide the swift, sure convenience and the economy of electricity — on land and sea and in the air.

Join us in the General Electric program, broadcast every Saturday evening on a nation-wide N.B.C. network

GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY, SCHENECTADY, NEW YORK

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

If you are intending to sometime turn in that old Typewriter for a NEW REMINGTON PORTABLE—

DO IT NOW

This week we can offer you a better deal on a NEW REMINGTON than we shall ever be able to do again.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

WEBSTER'S COLLEGIATE

The Best Abridged Dictionary because it is based upon WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL—The "Supreme Authority". Here is a companion for your hours of reading and study that will prove its real value every time you consult it. A wealth of ready information on words, persons, places, is instantly yours. 106,000 words and phrases with definitions, etymologies, pronunciations, and use in 1,256 pages. 1,700 illustrations. Includes dictionaries of biography and geography and other features.

See it at Your College Bookstore or Write for information to the Publishers. Free specimen paper. If you name this paper.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO.

Springfield, Mass.

C-72-a

COACH MILLER CALLS OUT NATATORS TODAY

Along with the other varsity sports swimming got underway this afternoon when Coach Robert Miller met candidates. This group includes men of the last year's varsity and all Freshmen. The squad will meet three times a week, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 3.30 to 4.30 until after Thanksgiving when it goes on its regular schedule of work.

Coach Miller will start conditioning work on the deck. Exercises intended to stretch and harden the muscles will be the first step. After this fundamental instruction, that is—strokes, turns and starts will be mastered. The squad will be carried along carefully so that it will be at its peak when the meets begin on Jan. 9. Harvard will be the opponent at that time.

This year there will be a pretty good nucleus to start. Bob Smith, this year's captain, ought to count many points in the sprints. He is much improved this fall after an operation. There is a good group coming along. Howard Esson, Bowman and Easton are expected to strengthen the team considerably. Easton will handle the backstroke; Sperry and Bowman will be counted on in the medley swim while Carpenter and James will fill the gap left by Chalmers. Densmore is trying to maintain breaststroke honors which Bill Locke coveted last year. Perhaps the most improved man on the squad is Bowman who displayed remarkable improvement in the spring. At that time he was breaking many of the pool records. With the new men coming along better things are hoped for in swimming this season.

The Freshman team will have five meets, two with Hebron, one with Exeter, and two pending further developments.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912.

Of The Bowdoin Orient, published weekly during the college year at Brunswick, Maine, for October 1, 1932.

STATE OF MAINE

County of Cumberland, ss.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and County aforesaid, personally appeared Artine Artinian, hereinafter called the publisher, who being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the business manager of the Bowdoin Orient and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true and correct statement of the ownership, management, and circulation of the said publication for the date above captioned, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, entitled "An Act to Regulate the Publication of Newspapers, and to Regulate the Circulation of the Same," printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Name of Publisher, Bowdoin Publishing Company.

Name of Editor, Paul A. Walker, Brunswick, Maine.

Name of Managing Editor, Philip C. Ahern, Brunswick, Maine.

Name of Business Manager, Artine Artinian, Brunswick, Maine.

2. That the owner is: The Bowdoin Publishing Company, of which Artine Artinian is Manager, and Wilcox B. Mitchell, Thomas C. Van Cleave, Paul A. Walker, and Artine Artinian are Directors.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.) None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the names of all such persons, but also, in case where they appear upon the books of the company as trustees or in any other fiduciary capacity, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which such stockholders and security holders do not appear upon the books of the company as such, and that affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

ARTINE ARTINIAN.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 26th day of September, 1932.

WILLIAM K. HALL.

(Seal)

(My commission expires February 11, 1932)

FIRST CHAPEL TALK STRESSES REAL VALUES

Smokers and Entertainment Welcome Entering Class to Campus Life

LIBERAL SPIRIT NEEDED

In his opening address of the college year, delivered at chapel last Thursday morning, President Sills evaluated the more vital issues of college for the undergraduates. Showing wherein something more than exterior polish must be achieved, he pleaded with the students as a mass to realize the adaptability of the college to the demands of life at the moment and called on them to follow the best.

"Bowdoin College opened its doors 128 years ago," he said, "and as its charter dates from 1794 its history has been to all intents and purposes coterminous with that of the American nation. As we contrast these early days with the present we think first of the development of a small local institution into an important national college with an unusually rich heritage in tradition and in well known and useful graduates. One necessarily compares scanty equipment and most limited resources with the beautiful campus and with the strength of the college today. Outputs beside the narrow curriculum of those early times, hardly worthy of a good modern academy, the varied departments and courses available for present undergraduates that would take scores of years to complete. One is aware of change and growth and progress along many lines. And then one comes right up against the significant fact that the purpose of the college has not altered, that it has remained all these years, to quote an editorial in a New York paper—a traditional small New England college of the first quality, remaining true to type through many generations." In the words of the charter, Bowdoin is 'a college for the purpose of educating youth' and it is 'to promote virtue and Piety and the knowledge of the useful and liberal Arts and Sciences.'

Lesson in Growth

"There is in the growth and evolution of Bowdoin College an important lesson for all of us. It is the lesson of holding fast to principles and standards and aims, all the time recognizing that methods and means must vary with the changing years. The same rule applies to many other walks of life—in the political field, in social institutions, in religion. The man who is rooted and grounded in conviction, the man who has principles of conduct and character ought never to be afraid of change of circumstance or unwilling to try new methods.

"One of the aims of a college education is through the study of the civilization of the past and of the present in literature, in science, in history, in art, in philosophy to get hold of standards and principles to apply to the problems of today and of tomorrow.

Aim of Education

"In many ways life becomes infinitely more varied and complex each passing year. The individual mind and individual capacity remain pretty constant. You have no better brains than your fathers or your grandfathers and probably no better brains than your remote ancestors. And yet each year the problem of adjustment in an environment becomes increasingly difficult. That is one reason why the training of the mind, why education, is so important and so thrilling. The boy in college who has not the wit to see this is really a tragic figure; and the student who realizes it has a purpose and an aim that will make the most routine work take on a glow and be filled with inspiration and interest.

"It is often claimed that at college one learns to think. I am not so sure of this as I once was. The human mind is so intricate and delicate an instrument that it would certainly be folly to assert that one particular method can best start it on a thinking expedition. But a college training, properly conceived and executed, can free and liberalize the mind; can open unexplored avenues of exploration and discovery; can conduct a ceaseless warfare against prejudice and intolerance and the closed mind.

Discerning Minds Needed

"From this it follows that one should stand by conviction but always be ready to change one's mind on the presentation of new evidence or new reasons. To do this it is decidedly helpful to note constantly the distinction between the end and the means. So much confusion comes from failure to do this. You can find illustrations of this truth on all sides. Take the vexed problem of prohibition. Great harm has been done by conceiving of prohibition as an end in itself rather than as a means. The end is temperance; the question full of increasing complexity is whether or not prohibition is the best means to that end. Or consider world peace. As far as our country is concerned, is isolation or co-operation the best means to that end? Remember, too, that peace itself is a means to a kind of life that shall give ample scope to liberty and justice.

"Again, most of us are agreed on the necessity of making some change in our social order that shall render less oppressive and less hideous the dangers of unemployment. The college man with all his privileges and luxuries has no more important duty staring him in the face than the answer to such a problem. You are here because of those who toil. If in your studies and your thinking you fail to see your obligations to the working men and working women of America you are indeed blind and ungrateful. A task that is now baffling the best minds not only in this country but in Europe will indeed be a hard one for your generation to solve. But as earlier Americans did find a solution for the problem of political independence—as your grandfathers did work out an answer to the problem of slavery, so you will have to deal with the more complex task of securing social and industrial democracy and freedom. And you can do this only by working for the desired end through constant and intelligent experimentation with varied means.

Curricula are Adaptive

"The importance of the liberal spirit, the willingness not to be satisfied with the status quo is one of the vital characteristics of every good college. For the pursuit of learning and the search for truth are the least

SEVENTY FROSH TURN OUT FOR 1934 ELEVEN

On Tuesday afternoon in the Hyde Athletic Building seventy freshmen reported for football to Donovan D. Lancaster, freshman coach. At that time equipment was distributed to members of the squad who will report for practice immediately at Pickard Field. As yet little is known of the capabilities but numbers counted, can free and liberalize the mind; can open unexplored avenues of exploration and discovery; can conduct a ceaseless warfare against prejudice and intolerance and the closed mind.

static things in the world. The true scholar can never be satisfied with things as they are; the seeker after truth pursues an ever flying goal. It is the attitude which is all important—far more important than marks and grades and courses and honors, which, after all, are merely the necessary impediments of a collegiate education and not to be confounded either by teacher or student with education itself. Nor is the material with which we deal as important as the attitude we endeavor to inculcate. That material may shift and change. One generation will put emphasis on the classics; another, on the social sciences; another, on natural science—for generations like individuals have different tastes. We must expect and welcome from time to time new fields of knowledge in our curriculum. There is surely nothing sacrosanct about the program of the moment; it is simply the best that for the time being can be devised. Nor, as President Hopkins of Dartmouth recently told his students, is there anything static about culture. Art is long and life is short; and to the succeeding generations of men beauty speaks through different media. But good taste is permanent; impatience with the cheap and shoddy and artificial should not vary with the ages.

Real Values Stressed

"In a word, your job is to find out what is the permanent and to cling to it, to distinguish between the end and the means, to strive for those intangible and eternal qualities that follow in the train of a good education—a right judgment in all things—an appreciation of the beautiful—a tolerant point of view and a desire to make these things effective in a richer and more useful life. What I have been trying to do in this opening address is to start you out in the year's work about your college work. Try to be alive and awake; never necessarily satisfied with things as they are; really liberal, clinging to principles and convictions but never hesitating to change your personal opinions. At the end of four years you may graduate after going through the motions and getting the necessary marks but unless you acquire some real interest and the attitude of which I speak you will not have won for yourself a place in the society of educated men."

Welcome Bowdoin

With summer over and Bowdoin opening on its one hundred and twenty-ninth fall term, it seems good to see the new, bright young faces of the first year men, and the familiar faces of our old friends, the undergraduates.

... This feeling has been Harmon's privilege and pleasure for nearly a decade.

Likewise familiar to you, perhaps, are the famous names of Langrock, Gamer, Dorward, Dobbs, Lotus, Mark Cross, etc., whose quality merchandise has helped to make Harmon's the choice of an ever growing clientele

HARMON'S

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

President Sills Wears Historic Gown

President Kenneth C. M. Sills while presiding over the first chapel service at opening of the 129th academic year of Bowdoin College Thursday morning wore an historic doctor's gown which has recently come into his possession. This gown, which is of heavy black silk, was the property of the Rev. Leonard Woods, D.D., LL.D., who served as president of Bowdoin from 1839 to 1866. It was given by him to Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, LL.D., of the class of 1852, who was a member of the college faculty from 1855 until the outbreak of the Civil War and who returned to the college as president in 1871. The gown has recently been in the possession of General Chamberlain's daughter, a resident of Brookline, Mass., who this fall presented it to President Sills.

VARSITY SWIMMING SCHEDULE 1931

Jan. 9—Harvard at Cambridge
Jan. 10—Wesleyan at Middle-town.
Jan. 17—M. I. T. at Brunswick
Feb. 14—Springfield at Brunswick
Feb. 21—Williams at Brunswick
Feb. 28—Brown at Brunswick
March 7—Worcester Tech. at Worcester
March 13-14—New Intercollegiate at Wesleyan
March 20-21—Eastern Intercollegiate at Columbia.
March 27-28—N. C. A. A. at Columbia

DICTIONARY OF CHEMICAL EQUATIONS

Contains twelve thousand completed and balanced equations, classified and arranged for ready reference. It is no more difficult to find a desired equation in this book than it is to find a word in the Standard Dictionary.

F. W. Chandler & Son

CUMBERLAND

Friday - October 3rd

-VAUDEVILLE-

- on the screen -

SCARLET PAGES

- with -

Elsie Ferguson - Marion Nixon

Also Paramount News

Saturday - October 4th

NUMBERED MEN

- with -

Conrad Nagel - Bernice Claire

Raymond Hackett

Also Short Subjects

Mon. and Tues. - October 6th-7th

COMMON CLAY

- with -

Constance Bennett - Lew Ayres

Also Short Subjects

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

LYMAN B. CHIPMAN
PURE FOOD SHOP
Wholesale—Retail
674 Congress St., Portland, Me.

'Anything y'want Pressed?
Give it to
LAVENDER OR ESTLE
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KATWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR
Whitman's Chocolates

PRINTING
of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at
the office of The Brunswick Record.
Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

QUALITY ALWAYS.
Brunswick Publishing Company
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets
Telephone Brunswick No. 3

Following is the list of members of the entering class at Bowdoin this
year:

Kendall P. Abbott, Wakefield, Mass.
Frank H. Abbott, Waterboro
Samuel Abramovitz, Revere, Mass.
Carl A. Ackerman, Swampscott, Mass.

Robert M. Aiken, Wellesley Hills, Mass.
Charles W. Allen, Portland
Horatio C. Allen, Jr., New Bedford, Mass.

Paul S. Ambler, Natick, Mass.
James P. Archibald, Houlton
John L. Arnold, Brookline, Mass.
Francis C. Appleton, Newton Center, Mass.

Richard P. Atwood, Auburn
Francis C. Bailey, Gardiner
Sanford O. Baldwin, Framingham Center, Mass.

Thomas D. Barnes, Ojai, Cal.
George C. Bartter, Waban, Mass.
James E. Bassett, Jr., Larchmont, N. Y.

Nicholas Bashkoff, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Frederick C. Batchelder, Wenham, Mass.

Frank D. Bates, Winchester, Mass.
George S. Bennett, Quincy, Mass.
Gordon C. Bennett, Winchester, Mass.

Herbert S. Bicknell, Jr., Woonsocket, R. I.
Howard R. Black, Jr., Flushing, N. Y.

Norman H. Bowley, Camden
Dudley H. Braithwaite, Auburn, Mass.
Raymond S. Brown, Jr., Allentown, Penna.

John D. Brookes, Stoughton, Mass.
Philip E. Burnham, Elmhurst, N. Y.
Frederick W. Burton, Auburndale, Mass.

George D. Cabot, Jr., Canaan, N. H.
Kenneth G. Cady, Waban, Mass.
Ralph F. Calkin, Malden, Mass.

Colin Campbell, Elizabeth, N. J.
Robert J. Carson, Jr., Philadelphia, Penna.
Alexander P. Clark, Stamford, Conn.

Barrett Clark, Thomaston
William W. Clay, Clinton, Mass.
George M. Cleaves, Bar Harbor

Kennedy Crane, Jr., Rockland
Henry J. Curtis, Jr., Melrose, Mass.
Vinson F. Philbrick, Kittery
Frederick P. Pickard, Ipswich, Mass.

A. A. Pike, Jr., Fryeburg
Gardner C. Pope, East Machias
Robert C. Porter, Philadelphia, Penna.

Raymond F. Prince, Bangor
Seth H. Read, Belfast
M. Chandler Reiman, Bangor

Donald E. Reid, Dorchester, Mass.
Bertram Q. Robbins, Lincoln
Richard C. Robbins, Lincoln

Richard C. Robbins, Rockland
William P. Sherman, Belfast
John M. Sinclair, Rumford
Neal T. Skillings, Portland

Norman T. Slayton, Watertown, Mass.
Donald M. Smith, Concord, Mass.
Leo Sternberg, Quincy, Mass.

Robert B. Stetson, Brunswick
Arthur D. Stone, Danvers, Mass.
Thurston B. Sumner, Somerville, Mass.

Frederick N. Sweetair, Merrimac
Russell W. Dakin, Jamaica Plain, Mass.
Woodbury K. Dana, Cape Elizabeth

Byron S. Davis, Concord, N. H.
Richard H. Davis, Wellesley Hills, Mass.
Stephen R. Deane, Leeds

Edward Delong, Bath
Clement L. Donahue, Presque Isle
Frederick E. Drake, Bath

Bryant C. Emerson, Somersworth, N. H.
Richard P. Emery, Rochester, Mass.
Harold H. Everett, Wellesley, Mass.

John G. Fay, New York, N. Y.
Prescott W. Ferguson, Belfast
J. Neally J. Fernald, Nottingham, N. H.

Franklin H. Fiske, Greenfield, Mass.
Robert S. Fletcher, Portland
Laurence B. Flint, Jr., Milton, Mass.

Robert M. Foster, Melrose, Mass.
James R. Fox, Norristown, Penna.
James C. Freeman, Portsmouth, N. H.

John D. Freeman, Arlington, Mass.
John C. Gazlay, Jr., New Rochelle, N. Y.
Gordon E. Gillett, Winchester, Mass.

Bartlett E. Godfrey, Winchester, Mass.
Richard L. Goldsmith, Skowhegan
Charles E. Gould, Portland

SHORT'S MARKET
—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

SOULE'S BARBER SHOP
For First Class Haircutting
Near Campus - Two Expert Barbers

Donald K. Graham, Manchester, Vt.
Brady Gray, Old Town
John U. Griffin, Pittsfield

James E. Gupitli, Fryeburg
Garnet R. Hackwell, Bridgewater, Mass.
Robert L. Hackwell, Worcester, Mass.

Albert L. Hagerthy, Ashland
Frederick G. Hall, 2d, Scituate, Mass.
Roger S. Hall, Central Valley, N. Y.

J. Gardner Ham, Scarsdale, N. Y.
James W. Hand, Jr., Elizabeth, N. J.
Charles E. Hardies, Jr., Amsterdam, N. Y.

Robert W. Harrington, Jr., West Newton, Mass.
Robert F. Hayden, Newton Center, Mass.
Alfred S. Hayes, Boothbay Harbor

Frank A. Helton, Beechwood, Penna.
Herbert C. Hempel, Essex, Mass.
John B. Hickok, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Walter D. Hinkley, Lancaster, N. H.
Julius J. Hohl, New Haven, Conn.
Luther G. Holbrook, Walpole, Mass.

Albert P. Holt, Jr., Braintree, Mass.
Henry B. Hubbard, Torrington, Conn.
Enoch W. Hunt, 2d, South Portland

Eugene G. Ingalls, North Bath
Alan B. Johnson, Melrose Highlands, Mass.
Donald F. Johnson, Reading, Mass.

Charles F. Kahill, Portland
Stanley Kamyskowski, Milford, Conn.
Ralph A. Kelley, Peabody, Mass.

Jerome H. T. Kidder, South Straford, Vt.
Robert F. Kingsbury, Ithaca, N. Y.
Arno T. Koempel, Jr., Amherst, Mass.

John H. Kozlowski, Milford, Conn.
Thurman A. Larson, Machias
George Lauder, Greenwich, Conn.

James W. Lawrence, Gardiner
Henry G. Lewis, Jr., Skowhegan
Herbert C. Lewis, Newton, Mass.

Thomas W. Libby, Augusta
Arthur B. Lord, Jr., Melrose, Mass.
John W. Lord, Pittsburgh, Penna.

Eric C. Loth, Jr., Elizabeth, N. J.
Charles H. McKenney, Wellesley Hills, Mass.
C. Richard Mandeville, Lake Bluff, Ill.

Harrison P. Martin, Wyncote, Penna.
Gordon H. Massey, Wollaston, Mass.
Robert J. Meehan, Gorham

Brewer Merriam, Framingham, Mass.
Karl E. Miller, Turner Falls, Mass.
Nathan C. Miller, Brunswick

John Morris, Newtonville, Mass.
John E. Mullen, Brookline, Mass.
Richard F. Nelson, Squantum, Mass.

Alden S. O'Brien, Lubec
Lawson Odde, Belmont, Mass.
Carl G. Olson, Belmont, Mass.

George F. Peabody, Houlton
Philip C. Pearson, Jr., New Castle, Penna.
James B. Perkins, Jr., Boothbay Harbor

Roger K. Taylor, West Kennebunk
William R. Tench, Portland
Blake Tewksbury, Cumberland Mills

Henry N. Tibbets, Mount Vernon
Edward C. Uehlein, Lawrence, Mass.
Henry P. Van DeBogert, Jr., West Medford, Mass.

Alden H. Vose, Jr., Westport, Conn.
Robert B. Wait, Reading, Mass.
Malcolm S. Walker, Grand Beach

Carl F. A. Weber, South Portland
Carlton S. Wilder, Eye, N. Y.
Jack H. Wilson, New York, N. Y.

Robert W. Winchell, Newton, Mass.
George B. Wood, Rockland, Mass.
James G. Woodruff, Barre, Vt.

Richard Y. Woodsum, Braintree, Mass.
Blakeslee D. Wright, Newtonville, Mass.
Theodore A. Wright, West Hartford, Conn.

The following students have transferred to Bowdoin from other colleges:
Stanton W. Gould, Junior, of Chicago, Ill.

Arthur S. Jordan, Sophomore, of Swampscott, Mass.
Edward H. Morse, Sophomore, of Minneapolis, Minn.

James H. Norton, Sophomore, of Detroit, Mich.
Robert T. Smith, Junior, of Gloucester, Mass.
Norman Von Rosenvinge, Sophomore, Winchester, Mass.

TRACKMEN REPORT FOR CROSS COUNTRY

This afternoon all the men interested in track reported at the office of Coach Jack Magee. This group included both candidates for position on the varsity and Freshmen who will endeavor during the next four weeks to maintain the high standards of Bowdoin track team. Within a few days men will come out from the class of '34 to seek the position of manager of track. During the fall season the usual training period will get men prepared for the indoor season. The squad will do its training outdoors as is the custom in the fall.

MEMORIAL FLAGPOLE TO BE DEDICATED ALUMNI DAY, NOV. 8

Programs of the annual alumni day were sent to the Bowdoin college alumni Saturday in an attempt to bring a large number of them back to this important occasion which will take place this year on November 8. The chief attractions will be the Maine game and the dedication of the memorial flagpole.

The committee in charge, consisting of Principal William E. Wing of Deering High School, Dr. Joseph B. Drummond of Portland, and Professor Philip Meserve, met at Deering High school Monday September 15 and discussed the plans.

The day will start off with an Alumni Council meeting at 9:30 a.m. At 11:00 a.m. the War Memorial Flagpole will be dedicated followed by an alumni luncheon in the Sargent Gymnasium which President Sills and Coach Bowser will speak. In the afternoon the big attraction will be the Maine football game after which President and Mrs. Sills will be at home to the friends of the college. An informal dance will be held as usual in the evening at the gymnasium.

At the luncheon in the gymnasium the speakers will be heard by means of the new amplifiers which have been installed. The wives and friends of the alumni will at the same time have luncheon in the Moulton Union and will hear the address of the speaker through an extension of this amplifier system.

All Bowdoin Night

(Continued from Page 1)

mechanism of the college, he becomes a part of the system which is Bowdoin. Every upperclassman is familiar with every other upperclassman, and it is not long before the freshmen reach that same familiarity. The social advantages of the small college far outstrip the large university; the small college is a single unit whereas the large university or college is broken up into several disjointed parts, one part having very slight social connection with the other divisions. In closing his address Dr. Sills pointed out how much easier the requirements of a college today are as compared with the college of the eighteenth century, but in contrast he showed how very little the purpose and aim of the college had changed.

To end the program everybody stood up and sang "Bowdoin Best" with some real life and pep. After this strenuous exertion refreshments were served and thus brought to a close this annual meeting.

SEXTANTS WANTED

Due to the unusually large number of students taking astronomy this year, Professor N. C. Little has requested the loan of two or three good sextants to the Physics Department. The usual instruments are inadequate for the work. All alumni who desire to make such a loan should get in touch with Professor Little.

New Professors

(Continued from Page 1)

States, both social and economic, and he is now engaged in writing a book concerning this phase of history. He is also the author of "The Peacemakers of 1864".

The Frank A. Munsey Professorship of History is filled for the first time by the appointment of Mr. Kirkland to this chair. This professorship was founded in the spring of 1925 by Frank A. Munsey of New York City, an honorary graduate of the college in the class of 1918. The donor showed his generosity and interest in Bowdoin by a bequest of a quarter of a million dollars at the time of his death a few months later.

New Fellow in French
Bowdoin is likewise glad to welcome another well-known scholar, Mr. Braud of Poitiers, France. He is a graduate of the schools of Poitiers, and of the University of Poitiers, where he received his license in Philosophy and Letters. During the past year he has been teaching in seminary at Meaux. He is the fourth young frenchman to be brought to the college on the fellowship established in 1926 by Mr. Frederick W. Pickard of the Board of Trustees.

Athens P. Daggett, a Bowdoin graduate in the class of 1925, returns to the college in the department of history and government. On leaving Bowdoin Mr. Daggett went to Lafayette College as instructor in history and debating, remaining in this position for two years. Since that time he has been at the Harvard Graduate School where he has received his master's degree. He is now working for his doctorate in the field of political science.

Other New Instructors Come

Giles M. Bollinger becomes instructor in chemistry, increasing the staff in that department from two to three. A graduate of Allegheny College in 1920 and a holder of the master's degree from the same school, he was a member of its faculty for three years, later going to Harvard where he received the degrees of M.A. and Ph.D. James F. White of the Bowdoin class of 1929 becomes instructor in German. Since graduation he has been doing advanced study in Germany. Charles V. Brooke, a graduate of Queen's University in Canada in the class of 1925 and holder of an A.M. from Harvard, will be instructor in Romance languages. Mr. Brooke has taught French and Spanish at his own alma mater and at Harvard and Dartmouth, from which institution he comes to Bowdoin.

Newton P. Linsmeyer, graduate and holder of the doctorate from Princeton University, becomes instructor in Philosophy. In addition to this work at Princeton he has done considerable studying abroad.

Interclass Football

(Continued from Page 1)

Within a few years it is expected that many colleges will take up this plan which endeavors not only to aid in getting further material for the varsity but also gives a greater number of men a chance to play football.

Always Noticed But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative

PHIL BRISK

Mass. Aggies Game

(Continued from Page 1)

likely that many plays will be used Saturday since scouts from all three other Maine colleges will be in the stands as well as representatives from Williams, Tufts, and Wesleyan.

Bowdoin will be garbed in snappy new uniforms when they take the field, a complete equipment having recently arrived. Jerseys will be white with black trimmings, the stockings, white with three black bars, and the helmets, white.

Sports fans all over northern New England will be watching the results of the clash since the result will afford them a chance to dope the State Series standing of Bowdoin and Bates. The Alumni are expected to be back in larger numbers than usual at the opening game to determine the results of their prodigious efforts last winter to secure a miracle man who would lift the White out of its annual mire of defeat.

Art Catalogue on Sale

Copies of the fourth edition of the Art Catalogue have been received from the publishers and are now on sale at the Curator's desk in the Walker Art Building. The catalogue contains a complete description of the art collection of Bowdoin College and is profusely illustrated. The catalogue was edited by Professor Henry E. Andrews, director of the Art Museum and head of the College Art Department.

TRUTH STRANGER than FICTION

It required a host of official and unofficial observers, scientists, writers, travellers, statisticians, journalists and other authorities from all parts of the world to gather the facts to be used in one advertising series of a local concern.

Photographs, newspapers, magazines and educational and scientific publications of many lands contributed to this collection of amazing FACTS!

More than one year was required by a highly trained staff of journalists, advertising men and artists to marshal these TRUTHS in the form you are soon to see them in!

Beginning next week, these amazing truths will be published in The Orient weekly, by Harmon's

HARMON'S INCORPORATED

COND WATER EXTINGUISHES FIERY FROSH

Proclamations are Delivered with Plentiful Supply of Molasses

SEVERAL CASUALTIES

No Serious Injuries, However, During Annual Interclass Struggle — This Year's Scrap Held Entirely Out of Doors

After three-quarters of an hour of melee in which two hundred odd men attempted to drown each other in the sea of mud behind the gymnasium, the freshman class emerged with traces of molasses and proclamations on their several backs while the sophomores cheered and raised their flag of victory to the summit of the Memorial Flagpole. This traditional battle, which this year took place on Thursday evening, was carried on in a manner most satisfactory to the spectators, though rather fatiguing to the combatants.

As the two classes dragged themselves from the mud, they seemed to be united in at least one thought, that a finer and gamier fight had never been fought. For in the face of icy water under pressure and confined by the walls of the swimming pool and the gym the freshmen offered spirited resistance to the advances of the sophomore class and only lost when the elimination method used in fixing the proclamations on their backs finally decided their ranks.

Frosh Barred From Ends

Enriched by the experience of last year, the Student Council, proctors, and fraternity presidents held a mass meeting on the evening set for the episode and their combined efforts kept the freshmen from organizing in the dormitories. In the open the opportunities for a fair and unobstructed competition were much greater.

The freshmen this year were exceptionally well organized and conducted themselves in a creditable manner. At the sound of the chapel bell they fled en masse to the gymnasium, which lies to the rear of the gym next to the swimming pool. At the same time the sophomores with a slowly accumulating force advanced from the Delta to the gym with the suggestions of many sub-leaders to guide them. But though they were smaller in number than the class of '34 they moved on to the scene of the activities with a vanguard carrying a fire-hose and several buckets of freshman lotion — molasses.

Contest Is Wet

After the second-year men had conquered the intricacies of the five-sided nut of the fire-hydrant with an ordinary wrench — no easy task, they turned the refuse of the freshmen and the battle royal began. For a few minutes the most interested spectator could see nothing but a sea of mud, a few bedraggled specimens of humanity, and countless detached articles of apparel.

None of the cheering onlookers could have caused of complaint. Taken as a whole it might have been imagined to be either a battle between "Macbeth" or a part of a prison riot. But when it was observed in its many details it appeared mostly to be a combination of a wrestling match, a bull fight, and a lunatic asylum. For who could see clearly in the flickering lights of myriad flashlights, dimmed by the icy-spray which seemed to dampen the ardor of none?

Little Damage Is Done

Though rivaling the battles of yore in ferocity, the chances of injury seemed to have been almost entirely removed. For throughout the whole combat no serious offence was done to anybody with the exception of the destruction of clothing which would have been sufficient to start a small-sized haberdashery.

The contest was notable for its lack of unfair methods of scraping. Many times through the spray from the hose men would be seen, apparently battling to the death, but upon rising

(Continued on page 4)

CHANGES MADE IN CHAPEL SERVICES

Recommendations of Committee of Investigation Acted Upon in New Schedule

Last spring a committee composed of both undergraduate and members of the faculty was appointed by the President to investigate the chapel programs and recommend any changes they deemed advisable. As a result, beginning this week there will be several alterations in these exercises. Each Saturday the scheduled for the coming week will be posted on the College bulletin board. The services will vary more than formerly. As in the past members of the faculty will make addresses in chapel, but under the new schedule, the subject of the man's speech will be posted in advance. Besides these talks there will be musical programs. Occasionally the entire service will be devoted to music, either by the choir or organist and sometimes by both. Under this broader plan it is hoped that the programs will be more interesting and helpful.

MISS DENEKE APPEARS AT BOWDOIN AGAIN IN NEW LECTURE-RECITAL

"Programme Music" to be Subject of Evening at Her Second Visit Here Friday

On Friday, October 10, the students, professors and friends of Bowdoin College will have the opportunity of hearing a lecture-recital on the subject of "Programme Music" given by Miss Margaret Deneke of Oxford, England. She will illustrate her lecture by selections on the piano.

Members of the College will remember that Miss Deneke spoke here last November on "Chopin's Life and Works" and she was so well received that the College has made arrangements for her return this fall.

During the talk on programme music Miss Deneke will offer illustrative selections from William Byrd, Kuhnau, Vanden Gheyn, Rameau, Bach, Beethoven, Schumann, McDowell, Ravel, and other composers.

Miss Deneke is choirmaster of Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford, England, under whose auspices she is traveling, and she has given recitals of this kind in the fourth annual, are turned over to it.

FINANCE COMMITTEE REPORT SHOWS UP INTERESTING FACTS

The report of the Finance Committee and Treasurer of Bowdoin College for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, has just come from the press and will soon be mailed to alumni. Presenting as it does an enormous mass of financial detail, there are still many points which may be of interest to the general public and to the student body.

Since the close of the books in June, 1929, the endowment of the college increased by more than $400,000, bringing the total figure to $5,407,924.05. This figure is more than double the amount reported at the close of the year ending in 1920 and shows an increase of nearly $3,000,000 since President Sills assumed the leadership of the College. Approximately $35,000 has come to the College during the year in the form of gifts for designated purposes. One of the most

(Continued on Page 4)

NEW WHITE KEY STARTS ACTIVITY ON THE CAMPUS

Junior Organization to Take Part in Entertainment of Visiting Teams

Seldom have two organizations differed as radically as the old White Key which was in operation on campus during the last college year, and the new Junior honor society bearing the same name. In place of a hooded and secretive group enforcing freshman rules through the business end of a paddle, Bowdoin has acquired a service organization comparable with that already in existence at so many Eastern colleges. The Green Key at Dartmouth is only one of the many examples followed in the engendering of the new plan.

In the first place, the function of campus discipline has vanished for good and all from the society's aims. In its stead, they have taken upon

(Continued on Page 4)

ATTENTION FRESHMEN!

Freshman competition for positions on the Orient board will start this week. All those wishing to try out should report at the publications office on the second floor of the Union tomorrow night (Thursday) at seven o'clock sharp. At this time the competition will be explained and there will be a chance for new men to find out about the paper and the work connected with it. So if you are interested, come on up! Don't forget the time, 7:00 p.m. Thursday.

MUSEUM CURATOR VISITING WESTERN ART COLLECTIONS

The number of visitors to the Walker Art Building during June, July and August was three thousand and one. The English landscape artist, Augustus W. Enness of London, was among those notably interested in Art.

During the month of October the Curator of the Bowdoin Museum, Miss Anna E. Smith, will be absent. She is to visit the important mid-western museums, and returning take in the Annual International Exhibition of Paintings at Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh.

WHITE FACES STIFF GAME ON SATURDAY

Strong Williams Eleven to Test Real Strength of Polar Bears

ENTHUSIASM IS HIGH

Purple Team Said to be Strongest in Years, with Stout Aerial Threat—Bowdoin's Offensive Good Though Defense Needs Polishing

Fresh from their rather easy victory over the very ragged M.C. aggregation last Saturday, the Bowdoin Polar Bears stack up against one of the strongest small college teams in New England when they meet Williams at Whittier Field next Saturday. Williams, boasting a lineup made up entirely of veterans except for one position, looks like the hardest eleven on the Bowdoin schedule. Bowdoin in her game last Saturday showed potential power but at the same time exhibited many rough spots that will have to be smoothed out before any hope of victory over teams of the Williams calibre can be held. The White's greatest weakness was on the defense which even the feeble M.A.C. offense was able to penetrate for goodly yardage. A tendency to fumble also considerably slowed up the White attack, due either to poor passes from center or over-eagerness. With all this, however, the White showed more offensive power than any seen in long years around these parts. When the backs took the ball there were men in front of them to clean out would be tacklers, and it was this veritable man screen of interference more than anything else that warmed the hearts of Bowdoin supporters.

Williams, on the other hand, from all that can be learned has one of the greatest teams in years, and considering the fact that almost the same men defeated Bowdoin 28 to 6 last year, they must be favored in the doping.

Williams had no trouble in defeating Middlebury last Saturday 26 to 0, two of the toughest scores.

CLASS FORMED TO READ LATIN BIBLE

Group Will Meet Each Sunday to Read and Discuss Text of Latin Vulgate

For the benefit of those who wish to know their Bibles better, and of those who, being interested in the Classics, wish to read Mediaeval source material not available in the curriculum, an informal class has been instituted by James B. Colton, 2nd, '31, with the help of several members of the faculty.

The class, which began last Sunday, meets on Sunday afternoons at 3:30 in the B.C.A. room of the Union. The texts are furnished free. The course of study and discussion will include the Gospel of Luke, some of the Psalms, and whatever other material is desired by the class after the completion of the first two items. The text is that of the well-known Vulgate version of the Bible, being in the Latin of Jerome, who translated it from the Greek of the Septuagint.

The larger part of the hour and a half period will be spent in discussion of the text, on whatever topics, ancient or modern, are found to be related to the portion of the text read that day.

An intimate knowledge of Latin is not necessary to the appreciation of the text, which is held for the Latin of Jerome, who translated it from the Greek of the Septuagint. The larger part of the hour and a half period will be spent in discussion of the text, on whatever topics, ancient or modern, are found to be related to the portion of the text read that day.

An intimate knowledge of Latin is not necessary to the appreciation of the text, which is held for the Latin of Jerome, who translated it from the Greek of the Septuagint. The larger part of the hour and a half period will be spent in discussion of the text, on whatever topics, ancient or modern, are found to be related to the portion of the text read that day.

INDIVIDUALITY OF STUDENT STRESSED IN CHAPEL ADDRESS

Tendency to Conform is Threatening Principles of College Men, President Says

In a talk at Chapel last Sunday, President Sills stressed for his text "Ye are the salt of the earth." He emphasized the danger of losing individuality and stress both principles and individuality. In college where there is such a tendency to conform, one should be on guard against letting the tang of his own character be lost. The savor of his own individuality may be squeezed out. As salt is useless when it has lost its own characteristic, just so a selected group such as college men is all too liable to go to waste if it loses its idealism and principles.

He closed his talk by reading a letter from the famous English teacher and scholar, Benjamin Jowett, to his students at Balliol College at Oxford University shortly before his death in which he urged them not to waste the precious opportunities of college days.

CANON SCOTT HONORED WAR CHAPLAIN TO TALK AT BOWDOIN SUNDAY

Popular Clergyman Will be Heard in Chapel and at Informal Union Gathering

The college will have the opportunity next Sunday of hearing a man who is perhaps the outstanding teacher of religious doctrine in Canada when Canon Frederick George Scott of St. Matthews Rectory, Quebec, speaks in the chapel service. Arch-deacon of Quebec, he is said to have great power in his sermons.

Canon Scott has had varied experiences in the field of religion. From preaching to soldiers during the war he has turned his attention to peace-time religion and his face and voice are well known throughout the dominion.

He was born in Montreal while his father was professor of Anatomy at McGill University. Brought up within the influence of learning, he has been a great scholar during his whole life. He was ordained priest in 1886 and became rector of St. Matthews Rectory, 1899. Seven years later he became Canon of the Quebec Cathedral and was then made Arch-deacon of Quebec in 1925. He has received the following honors and degrees: C.M.G., M.A., D.D., LL.D., D.C.L., D.S.O., F.R.S.C.

Though of middle age when the war broke out, he went across with the first Canadian Expeditionary Force and served throughout the war. During the war he was made Senior Chaplain of the Canadian forces. In spite of his position he did not remain behind the lines but spent a great deal of his time in the trenches. Wounded once, he was mentioned four different times in dispatches.

He is likewise a great student and writer. He has written many books of poetry, many about the Great War and in 1922 wrote a book entitled, "The Great War As I Saw It."

Besides hearing Canon Scott in the Sunday chapel service, the students will have the additional privilege of hearing him again in the evening. At this time he will speak informally of his experiences during the war and his work in the trenches.

PROMISING SQUAD OF FIRST-YEAR MEN OUT FOR FOOTBALL

Contact Work This Week Should Show Real Merit of Those Trying Out

Freshman football practice has been getting underway the past week under Coach Donovan D. Lancaster at Pichard Field. Practice is being held the first five days of the week and about 55 fellows are showing up at each session. This week contact work will be started. With so large a squad it will be difficult for some time to determine who will be there when the season officially gets started. The squad will be brought along gradually so that the best efforts will be obtained. At the present writing some of the men who have shown speed, coordination, and weight are: Centers: Dakin, Davis and Sternberg.

Tackles: Drake, Fay and Wait. Ends: Brooks, Flint and Miller. Backs: Godfrey, Koslowsky, Larson, Lewia, Hubbard, Odde, Read and Robbins.

This of course, is only a partial list and only serves to give the names of those who have come under early observation. With a few days more work will be known of the progress of the team. There are, no doubt, a great many men who will show performances as good if not better than these already listed as time goes on. The freshmen ought to prove a very formidable opponent for teams the calibre of Hebron.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR FATHERS' DAY MADE

Open House to Fathers of Freshmen October 18, the day of the Tufts Game

October 18 has been set as the date for the annual Bowdoin Fathers' Day to which all the fathers of freshmen are invited by President C. K. M. Sills. This event, which was held for the first time last year and which was so successful is expected to bring many visitors to the college.

The outstanding entertainment of the day will be the football game between Bowdoin and Tufts. Other plans for the occasion are in the hands of Donovan Lancaster, manager of the Union, and Philip Wilder, Secretary. At noon time there will be a luncheon in the Union to enable the fathers to meet the faculty members.

This event was tried last year for the first time and with the greatest success. It was planned as a means of acquainting the families of new students of the college with the aims, ideals, and methods of Bowdoin.

Through error it was stated in last week's Orient that Dr. Edward C. Kirkland was the first man to hold the Frank A. Munsey Professorship of History. It appears that he is the second, Prof. Thomas C. Van Cleave having held that position for the first time in the year 1925-1926.

Powerful Bowdoin Team Sweeps Over Mass. Aggies To Win by Margin 45-0

Weak Opponents Give Polar Bears Little Trouble in Season Opener as White Rolls Up Enormous Score — Much Flashy Running

DEFENSE SHOWS ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

What may become a great Bowdoin team, led by a snake-hipped weaving broken field runner, in the person of Sid Foster, opened its season on Whittier Field Saturday afternoon by crushing a dispirited eleven from the Massachusetts Agricultural College, 45-0. There is plenty of room for improvement yet, the defensive play has evidently been only a matter of secondary consideration, but when the ball came down the field and the Aggy benches were yelling for a score, Bowdoin rose up in the shadow of her goal-posts and beat the attack flat.

In many ways Saturday's game was more like scrimmage than anything else. When the assignments were all filled, nothing but merciful Providence or an act of God could stop the relentless drives of the backs. When one man went wrong, then the play piled up on the spot. One refreshing evidence of Coach Charley Bowdoin's work these last few months was plain, though, for once Bowdoin's backs were not falling over their interference, and for once the interference went through like baby tanks. About ten plays at most were used, and as an enthusiastic alumnus jovially remarked — "Try and stop 'em."

AMPLIFIER SYSTEM USED SUCCESSFULLY AT SATURDAY'S GAME

Gift of Class of 1920 a Great Aid in Keeping Stands Informed

More indicative than anything else of the real interest that the college and alumni are taking in the team this fall is the manner in which the various departments are cooperating to aid it. The amplifier system which was in use at Whittier Field last Saturday is one of the best examples bearing out this statement.

When the class of 1920 met last spring at its ten-year reunion, a fund of two thousand dollars was handed over outright to the college, with the suggestion that it be used for the purchase of some form of public address system. Such a hookup was already provided at Commencement, though it was only rented. The acquisition of twelve hundred dollars worth of material by the physics department, under the direction of Professors Bartlett and Little, followed this, and the announcements during the game were made over a loud-speaker arrangement prepared by them.

At the same time that Bowdoin was engaged in this, Dartmouth announced that it was trying such a device for the first time in the East. Public address systems are widely used at collegiate games in the West and along the Coast, but it remained for the Big Green and the White to set the example in New England.

Aside from use at football games, a wide variety of purposes await the

(Continued on Page 4)

BASEBALL SQUAD TO WORK OUT ON THE DELTA EVERY DAY

Fourteen Report to Coach Ben Houser — Material the Best in Some Time

Fourteen men, the largest squad in some years, turned out to Baseball Coach Ben Houser last week for practice. This Freshman group does not include those who are working for positions on the Freshman football squad. No doubt when the spring call is sent out many more will be on hand. Practice will be held on the Delta every afternoon because of the promise shown by the squad. Rudiments of batting, fielding, and base running are being worked on at the present time.

Along with Ben Houser, Ben Shute, varsity utility man, is assisting in the work. The team will be captained this year by Gerhard H. Whittier and managed by Ray Bolling. With such promising prospects to fill the shoes of the men who graduated, there should be little pessimism as to the outcome of the baseball season when the spring comes around once again. The varsity will have a large share of veterans and will be especially well supplied with infield and catching material. Ben Houser will have to seek someone to assist George Souther and Lloyd Morrell on the hurling end but this ought not to be a difficult task with so many candidates.

Freshmen trying out for the management will not report until the call is issued for varsity practice in the latter part of February.

There were almost as many scouts and pressmen in the stands as students when the white-shirted second string tore out onto the field and began to run signals. But the roar that went up to greet their entrance was nothing in comparison with the wild howl that accompanied Southern and his team-mates as they trotted out of the field house. The old jinx reared its ugly head for the last time as Bowdoin lost the toss and the Aggies elected to receive.

Souther lifted a fair kick-off to Wood, who dodged his way back to the twenty-seven yard line before he went down under six or seven tacklers. It had been evident in the press box before the game that the Massachusetts team were jumping their signals, and on the first play of the game Referee Butler set them back five yards as all four backs swung into motion too soon. Sylvester battered through tackle for five yards, and then punted to Ricker, who squirmed as far as the forty-nine yard line. Foster smashed into the line on the right side for six yards, and then fumbled on what started out to be a left end run, falling on the ball for a loss of six yards. A crack at left tackle brought three yards, and Ricker punted out on the Aggy twenty-eight yard stripe.

The third down, with a foot and a half to go, and Ecke smacked Wood flatter than flat. Ricker ran back Sylvester's kick to Bowdoin's forty yard line, and then fumbled on what started out to be a left end run, falling on the ball for a loss of six yards. A crack at left tackle brought three yards, and Ricker punted out on the Aggy twenty-eight yard stripe.

The third down, with a foot and a half to go, and Ecke smacked Wood flatter than flat. Ricker ran back Sylvester's kick to Bowdoin's forty yard line, and then fumbled on what started out to be a left end run, falling on the ball for a loss of six yards. A crack at left tackle brought three yards, and Ricker punted out on the Aggy twenty-eight yard stripe.

(Continued on Page 4)

BOWSER SPEAKS AT OPENING RALLY OF FOOTBALL SEASON

Enthusiastic Student Gathering Meets in Gymnasium for Pep Session

A peppy rally, held in the Gym last Friday evening and attended by approximately 150 students, many of them freshmen, resulted in a considerably improved cheering section at the game last Saturday.

The gathering started off with a series of cheers by cheerleaders Appleton, Colton, and Kretzer followed by several songs. Next Colton introduced the only speaker of the evening, Coach Bowser. The latter spoke very briefly and pleaded for wholehearted support of the team this year whether in defeat or victory. As he left the hall a wall bending cheer showed the approval of the Bowdoin supporters. Following this a short time was spent in rehearsing cheers and songs and the gathering closed in time for the boys to attend the movie. The great improvement last week in the cheering at the game demonstrated the value of a gathering the night before a game and a bigger turnout at future rallies should insure a well drilled cheering stand for the wearers of the White.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Me.

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31

Robert M. McFarland '31
William N. Small '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College.
All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial columns; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, October 8, 1930.

No. 10

The Pledgeman

A large body of the readers of the ORIENT are now in this status, and are quite new to it. Anything we might say here may seem unnecessary and fulsome after all you have been hearing and reading from various sources. We should like to echo the Hand-book once again, however, and counsel each pledge to be loyal to his house, but at the same time to be so without narrowing his social contacts and general vision on campus subjects. One other point we should like to make is that you be sure to keep your head. Do not think because you are a fraternity man that you are automatically singled out as better than others of your class who have not, for one reason or another, "gone" fraternity. If you do get this idea, the shock will be sudden when you wake up. No combination of Greek letters is an "Open Sesame" for success, and no one combination is better than any other on campus because of its traditions, history, and so on. Each fraternity's success is in direct proportion to the ability and worth of its members. It is therefore up to you new men to take an interest in things both inside your house and out and to work in both fields if you desire your house to be a leading one. In a few short years, you will be the mainstays of your respective houses, and your attitude now may well decide the fate of your chapter then. However, as we have said before, do not let the fraternity go to your head. You are primarily in college, secondarily at Bowdoin, and after these two, in some other, smaller group. Your first allegiance, therefore, is to college work; your second is to Bowdoin and those things that she cherishes. After these two are satisfied, you are a member of your particular group, and should work for its betterment.

Proclamation Night

"Proc" Night has come and gone once again. This year's set-to was in few ways exemplary and in many ways can hardly match the epic struggle on the "heights of Winthrop" last year. One welcome feature was that the festivities occurred outside the college buildings, and all concerned, from the Student Council to the enterprising Freshman "Council", are to be congratulated on that fact. Injuries ran about the same this year, however, even though the battle was in the open. The three or four men whom we saw taken to the Infirmary and the unestimated number who nursed their own wounds make us wonder if the stake is perhaps a trifle overrated. And yet, "Proc" Night almost alone remains to us of the glorious traditional interclass wars of former years. In spite of all the temporary excitement, resentment perhaps, and even actual injuries that follow in its wake, it is a worth while institution still. The team-work on both sides is in itself invaluable, not merely for offense and time of war, but because of friendships made, respect won and so on. Times like Thursday night show up the true sportsman. With but one or two exceptions, cases who now probably regret their own actions, both Sophomores and Freshmen fought cleanly, and no doubt parted as good friends as Sophomores and Freshmen can be. It is of course regrettable that those injuries had to occur. We feel, however, these were minimized by the choice of the field of battle, and hope that they will not cause the ceremony of "Proc" Night to fade away into oblivion as have Flag Rush, Rising Night and other scraps of former years.

Intramural Sports

A suggestion reached our ears the other day that interfraternity competition in touch football supplant interfraternity soccer, in which many feel there is too meagre an interest here at Bowdoin. We should like to say a few words in its favor. For one reason, it is very popular. Go around to the various fraternity houses just before or just after the noon meal, and that fact will automatically be driven home. Large groups from the various houses on Maine Street will be playing it on the Mall; up McKean Street the Beta gang will be in it; the houses on College Street will most likely be at it also; and traffic will be slowed up down Federal Street by two A. T. O. teams. A second reason, or perhaps we should call it a corollary of the first, is that it is very good exercise. Many are wont to scorn the sport as lady-like, to wit one of its names, "lady-football", but when played as it usually is here, it can be equally as hard and as rough as soccer. Another reason in its favor is that soccer, unlike baseball, basketball, and the others, is not generally played except at the time set for the various fraternity contests. The results are as might be expected: green, inexperienced teams, unscientific play, and rough stuff. Good individual players do crop up, in spite of an inadequate training in the sport here, but they are few and far between. The great majority of the men playing soccer on the various house teams know little about the finer points of the game, and while this does not prevent their enjoying it after a fashion, one would think that the playing of a game which most of the fellows do like and do know would be a greater inducement for participation in intramural sports. We should like at this time to call this to the attention of the Interfraternity Athletic Council or whatever body is

There are Tea Dances Saturday !!

That leaves three days in which to visit

The House of Walah

"More than a toggerly . . . a Bowdoin Institution" authorized to regulate intramural sports. We feel certain that the substitution of this sport for soccer would result in fewer withdrawals by the various houses and in a livelier competition by virtue of the popularity of "touch" at the present time.

Editorial Shavings

It would be difficult for any observer of the Mass. Aggies game to be pessimistic concerning Bowdoin's chances during the football season of 1930. The reaction of course is one of optimism and in certain quarters a tendency towards over-optimism. Obviously, the team has great possibilities, yet on the other hand it is plain that much work remains to be done.

Notwithstanding the brilliance of a number of Mass. Aggie men, it can be safely and fairly said that the team as a whole did not offer the type of resistance necessary to test the real power of the Bowdoin team. Next week the White will meet Williams and it will be on the basis of this rather than on last Saturday's contest that the White should be judged.

The cautionary note which we offer does not fail to take into account the great strides which Coach Bowser and his men have made. The team is in splendid condition, it is well grounded in the fundamentals of football, and is fast growing familiar with the intricacies of the Warner system.

The observer sees a certain "esprit de corps" growing under Bowser's leadership. It is this spirit which is always the best insurance for winning aggregations. From every possible angle, it is apparent that the undergraduates and alumni are being assured of a team of which they may be justly proud, whether it meets with victory or defeat. Staunch support from all will complete the circle of cooperation, in an effort to produce the best football team Bowdoin has seen for many years.

It has been very boldly and very frankly stated by those who know, that Bowdoin has and still is one of the worst singing colleges in the country.

The Orient, realizing this very unhappy state of affairs is attempting to revive the lost art of Singing among the undergraduates. Despite the fact that the cantatory endeavors of dear old Bowdoin have been notably nauseous, the college has four or five songs which have survived, despite their annual wear and tear. "Forward the White", one of the less worn (being less used) of Bowdoin songs has met favor with as brilliant a periodical as the New Yorker.

The Orient is running the chorus to the afore-mentioned song. Sometime during the week this chorus will be sung in chapel and we beg that the fraternities carry on the good work by rendering it (not meaning "to tear apart") at their various houses. The band will play this song on Saturday and it is expected that the level of Bowdoin's collegiate cantatory endeavors will rise from its ancient depression.

The chorus to "Forward the White" follows:

Forward the White,
On through the fight,
Emblem of honor,
Peerless and bright,
Through stress and strain,
Peril and pain,
Borne to the end
With ne'er a stain.
Loyal and true
Always to you
Each son of Bowdoin
Will dare, will do,
Victory's fair light
Ever in sight,
Bowdoin will triumph,
Forward the White.

HOUR EXAMS

Oct. 14
Psychology 1
Oct. 16
Physics 7
Oct. 17
Chemistry 1
Oct. 18
English 13
Oct. 20
French 7
Oct. 21
French 3
English 11

Mustard and Cress

The Amplifiers

"Foster carried the ball ten yards through the center, making a first down . . . Dr. Plettis is wanted on the telephone. . . . On the next play Mass. Aggies held Bowdoin for no gain. . . . Dr. Plettis is wanted on the telephone, this is an emergency call. . . . Foster next carried the ball thirty yards. . . . Dr. Plettis, P-L-E-T-T-S, is wanted on the phone under the grandstand. This is an emergency call. . . . On the last play Morrell went through left tackle for five yards gain. Chief Edwards is wanted on the telephone under the grandstand . . ."

Mustard and Cress announces that persons wishing their name to come to public attention may assure themselves that this will happen if they will leave their card and fifty cents at this office before every football game. During the game Mustard and Cress will call the grandstand, when Announcer Bartlett will call the name in loud, clear tones over the extensive amplifier system in use during games. Emergency calls will be twenty-five cents extra. This is a wonderful opportunity for rising young lawyers, physicians, and plumbers to achieve distinction at a very small fee.

We would have went (I know it, I know it!) to the football rally last Friday evening, but we thought it was going to be secret.

Being in correspondence with a fair damsel at Dalhousie University, which is situated in Halifax, we will pass along to the sophomores, and various house committees a bit of news transmitted hitherto by the fair damsel. She writes that it is a custom there for the sophomores to compel the

THE COLLEGE SPA

Is open for the convenience of the students, from 7 a. m. until 1 a. m. Before retiring come in and try one of our TOASTED SANDWICHES.

BE SURE AND GET IT AT THE SPA

freshmen to shave only one side of their face for the first month in the institution. The bushy adornments of various first-year men skulking about our campus (squirrel-studded variety) show that even one side would be an improvement.

Just the same, we lament the loss of Memorial's expansive hollowiness in one vital matter. Where, but in the dim vastnesses of that unbounded interior, stretching yawningly into unfathomable distances, will our old favorite English 4 speeches amount to anything? How will Spartacus regale the gladiators, or the broad platform be laid out to stand upon, or a line of Federal forts be stormed in any of our small, mean, class-rooms? Something should be done about this.

A freshman is a person who wildly waves his hand in the air when a lecturing professor asks, "Have any of you ever read so-and-so before?"

The marriage of Miss Agnes Chalmers, of Framingham, Mass., and Henry Ward Stoneman, of Albany, N. Y., took place at the home of the bride's parents, September 27th.

Mr. Stoneman graduated from Bowdoin in the Class of 1930. During his four years in college he was prominent in athletic circles, being a member of the varsity football, track and gym teams, and of the Outing Club. His fraternity is Delta Upsilon. Ushers at the wedding were Raymond Leonard, '31, and W. Lawrence Usher, '32.

Communication

Being present at the football rally before the M. A. C. game, I was impressed by two things: first, the fine spirit that was shown by those few who attended; secondly, the great number of men who had so little regard and interest for the success of the football team that they could not spend a few short minutes in practicing the cheers. Evidently the majority of Bowdoin men have no desire to see their team win.

Since the loyalty alone of the students seems insufficient to create a really successful rally, why do we not have some physical stimulus which will help in instilling such an interest in their minds? Other colleges, before their more important games, make use of the bonfire for the purpose of calling all the student body together. If this has proved valuable to these other schools, why not institute this custom at Bowdoin?

In regard to this matter I would suggest that such a bonfire be held on the evening before the Tufts game, this being one contest which we are particularly desirous of winning. It could be carried out under the official management of the college by the assistance of all of the students. Such materials as boxes, barrels, kerosene, etc., necessary to a large fire, could be collected by the student body in advance in some suitable place, such as on the Delta. I truly believe that some such effort would help unite the students into one body and improve the morale of the school as a whole and of the football team in particular. G. R. B. '33.

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

A group attack on the "X" of industry

Research, finding answers to the eternal $x = ?$, keeps step in the Bell System with the new industrial viewpoint.

The joy in working out studies in development is shared by many. Results are reached by group effort. Striving together, the mature engineer and his younger assistants, each contributes to the final solution of the problem.

Men of the Bell Telephone Laboratories are sharing in useful, interesting research. They are getting valuable training in the modern strategy of organization attack.

And because that strategy assures them the aid of men and material resources, they are actually turning some of their vision into fact.

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF MORE THAN 20,000,000 INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

CORONA SPECIAL TYPEWRITERS

- NEW IN COLORS -

$39.50

Including Carrying Case - (One Year Guarantee)

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Recommended by
The English Department of Bowdoin CollegeWEBSTER'S
COLLEGIATE

The Best Abridged Dictionary because it is based upon WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL - The "Supreme Authority". Here is a companion for your hours of reading and study that will prove its real value every time you consult it. A wealth of ready information on words, persons, places, is instantly yours. 106,000 words and phrases with definitions, etymologies, pronunciations, and use in 1,256 pages. 1,700 illustrations. Includes dictionaries of biography and geography and other features.

See it at Your College Bookstore or Write for Information to the Publishers. Free specimen pages
if you name this paper.
G. & C. MERIAM CO.
Springfield,
Mass.

The engagement of Miss Frances McDougall of Portland to John H. McLoon of Rockland has recently been announced. Mr. McLoon was a member of the Class of 1930 and of the Sigma Nu fraternity. At present he is in business with his father in the A. C. McLoon Co., Penobscot Fisheries.

RUSHING SEASON
CLOSES WITH FULL FROSH DELEGATIONS

One Hundred Forty-One Freshmen and Six Upperclassmen Pledged

With the active rushing season for the fraternities completed, first year men are fairly well distributed over the campus. Of the large freshman class one hundred and forty-one have been pledged by the eleven national fraternities represented here. Besides this number, four sophomores and two juniors have likewise been pledged. Following is the list of names of those pledged to each of the several fraternities:

Alpha Delta Phi
Charles Allan, Portland.
Sanford O. Baldwin, Framingham Center, Mass.
Thomas D. Barnes, Ojai, Cal.
George C. Bartter, Waban, Mass.
Gordon C. Bennett, Winchester, Mass.
Philip E. Burnham, Elmhurst, N. Y.
Alexander Clark, Stamford, Conn.
Byron S. Davis, Concord, N. H.
Henry P. DeBogert, West Medford, Mass.
Robert Dowling, Boston, Mass.
Burton Flint, Milton, Mass.
John D. Freeman, Arlington, Mass.
Bartlett Godfrey, Winchester, Mass.
George F. Peabody, Houlton.
Robert Winchell, West Medford, Mass.

Psi Upsilon
Paul S. Ambler, Natick, Mass.
Edward F. Appleton, Newton Center, Mass.
James E. Bassett, Jr., Larchmont, N. Y.
Ralph F. Calsin, Malden, Mass.
Richard H. Davis, Wellesley Hills, Mass.
Edward DeLong, Bath.
Frederick S. Drake, Bath.
Robert L. Hackwell, Worcester, Mass.
J. Gardiner Ham, Scarsdale, N. Y.
Arthur B. Lord, Jr., Melrose, Mass.
M. Chandler Redman, Bangor.
Arthur D. Stone, Danvers, Mass.

Chi Psi
Kendall Parker Abbott, Wakefield, Mass.
Garnet Rodney Hackwell, Bridgewater, Mass.
Eugene George Ingalls, Bath.
Philip Combs Pearson, Jr., New Castle, Pa.
James B. Perkins, Jr., Boothbay Harbor.
Richard R. Sherman, Belfast.
Neal T. Skillings, Portland.
Blake Tewksbury, Cumberland Mills.
H. Nelson Tibbets, Mt. Vernon.
Robert C. Hill, Sanford (Junior).
Delta Kappa Epsilon
James P. Archibald, Houlton.
Frederick C. Batchelder, Wenham, Mass.
Braley Gray, Old Town.
Luther C. Holbrook, Walpole, Mass.
Henry B. Hubbard, Farrington, Conn.
Jerome H. T. Kidder, South Stratford, Vt.
Harrison P. Martin, Wyncote, Pa.
Thurman A. Larson, Machias.
George Lauder, Greenwich, Conn.
Henry G. Lewis, Skowhegan.
Richard C. Robbins, Waban, Mass.
Donald M. Smith, Concord, Mass.
Carl F. A. Weber, Portland.

Theta Delta Chi
Carl A. Ackerman, Swampscott, Mass.
John Arnold, Brookline, Mass.
Richard Atwood, Auburn.
Dudley Braithwaite, Auburndale, Mass.
William W. Clay, Clinton, Mass.
Russell Dakin, Jamaica Plain, Mass.
Woodbury K. Dana, Cape Elizabeth.
Robert S. Fletcher, Portland.
Robert M. Foster, Melrose, Mass.
James C. Freeman, Portsmouth, N. H.
Charles E. Gould, Portland.
John B. Hickox, New Rochelle, N. Y.
Perry A. Holt, Braintree, Mass.
Enoch W. Hunt, 2nd, South Portland.
Alan B. Johnson, Melrose Highlands, Mass.
Robert F. Kingsbury, Ithaca, N. Y.
Gordon H. Massey, Wollaston, Mass.
Robert C. Porter, Germantown, Pa.
Malcolm S. Walker, Grand Beach.
Theodore A. Wright, West Hartford, Conn.

TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION

You can fry an egg
on a cake of ice!

This stamp which originally cost a penny - is now worth $40,000.
(BRITISH GUIANA)

It is Also True

That our new Fall Suits, Topcoats and Furnishings are the best values we've offered in years. :: :: ::

Come in and be convinced.

HARMON'S

Thomas B. Card, Somerville, Mass.
(Sophomore).
Frederick G. Jordan, Swampscott, Mass. (Sophomore).
Edward H. Morse, Minneapolis, Minn. (Sophomore).

Delta Upsilon
Horatio C. Allen, Jr., New Bedford, Mass.
Frank D. Bates, Winchester, Mass.
Frederick W. Burton, Auburndale, Mass.
Gordon E. Gillett, Winchester, Mass.
John U. Griffin, Pittsfield, Me.
Richard C. Mandeville, Lake Bluff, Ill.
John Morris, Newtonville, Mass.
John E. Mullen, Brookline, Mass.
Richard F. Nelson, Scituate, Mass.
Robert B. Stetson, Brunswick.
Thurston B. Sumner, Somerville, Mass.
Edward C. Uehlein, Lawrence, Mass.

Zeta Psi
Robert M. Aiken, Wellesley Hills, Mass.
Raymond S. Brown, Jr., Allentown, Pa.
George M. Cleaves, Bar Harbor.
Henry J. Curtis, Melrose, Mass.
R. Ferguson Hayden, Newton, Mass.
James M. Lawrence, Gardiner.
Herbert C. Lewis, Newton, Mass.
Thomas W. Libby, Augusta.
Asa O. Pike, Jr., Fryeburg.
Donald E. Reid, Dorchester, Mass.
Robert M. Wait, Reading, Mass.
Warren K. Lewis, Jr., Newton, Mass. (Junior).

Kappa Sigma
Kennedy Crane, Jr., Rockland.
Charles F. Kahill, Portland.
Stanley Kamykowski, Milford, Conn.
Ralph A. Kelley, Peabody, Mass.
John H. Kozlowski, Milford, Conn.
Brewer Merriam, Framingham, Mass.
Alden S. O'Brien, Lubec.
Gardiner C. Pope, East Machias.
Bertram Q. Robbins, Lincoln.
William D. Rounds, Rockland.

Beta Theta Pi
John D. Brookes, Stoughton, Mass.
Kenneth D. Cadv, Newton, Mass.
Richard P. Emery, Dorchester, Mass.
John C. Gazlay, Jr., New Rochelle, N. Y.
Frederick Hall, Scituate, Mass.
John W. Lord, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Charles H. McKenney, Wellesley Hills, Mass.
Alden H. Vose, Jr., Westport, Conn.
James G. Woodruff, Barre, Vt.
James H. Norton, Detroit, Mich. (Sophomore).

Sigma Nu
Robert J. Carson, Jr., Germantown, Pa.
Clement L. Donahue, Presque Isle.
Bryant C. Emerson, Somersworth, N. H.
John G. Fay, New York, N. Y.
Franklin H. Flake, Greenfield, Mass.
James R. Fox, Norristown, Pa.
Charles E. Hardies, Jr., Amsterdam, N. Y.
Frank A. Helton, Beechwood, Pa.
Walter D. Hinkley, Lancaster, N. H.
A. Koempel, Philadelphia, Pa.
Seth H. Read, Belfast.
Norman T. Slayton, Watertown, Mass.
Roger K. Taylor, West Kennebunk.
Carleton S. Wilder, Rye, N. Y.
G. Wood, Rockland.
Richard Y. Woodsum, Braintree, Mass.

Alpha Tau Omega
George D. Cabot, Jr., Parkersburg, W. Va.
Harold H. Everett, Wellesley, Mass.
James E. Gupstall, Fryeburg.
Albert L. Hagerthy, Ashland.
Julius J. Hohl, New Haven, Conn.
Eric C. Loth, Elizabeth, N. J.
Joel Y. Marshall, Alfred.
Nathan C. Miller, Brunswick.
Arden E. Nilsen, Whitefield.
Lawson Odde, Belmont, Mass.

Carl G. Olson, Belmont, Mass.
Frederick P. Pickard, Ipswich, Mass.
John M. Sinclair, Rumford.
Fred N. Sweetair, Merrimac, Mass.

DR. JOSEPH SMITH
BOWDOIN ATHLETE
MOVES TO BATH

Bath has a new physician. Dr. and Mrs. Joseph I. Smith and son Robert came Friday from Concord, Mass., where he has practiced the past year. He will occupy the office of the late Dr. Seth S. Mullin.

The new doctor was an outstanding athlete at Bowdoin college in 1920, 21, 22 and 23. During that time he was selected All-Maine quarterback and mentioned by the late Walter Camp as All-American calibre. In baseball Dr. Smith was equally brilliant, holding down the shortstop job. Following graduation in 1923 he attended Tufts Medical school in Boston from which he graduated in 1927. He practiced a year in Somerville, Mass., where he served his internship and later at Concord, Mass., where he specialized in mental work at the State hospital. He was also connected with the pediatric department of the Boston City Clinic.

DICTIONARY OF
CHEMICAL EQUATIONS

Contains twelve thousand completed and balanced equations, classified and arranged for ready reference. It is no more difficult to find a desired equation in this book than it is to find a word in the Standard Dictionary.

F. W. Chandler & Son

CUMBERLAND

Friday - October 10th
- VAUDEVILLE -

- on the screen -
THE WAY OF ALL MEN
- with -
Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Dorothy Revier - Noah Beery
Also Paramount News

Saturday - October 11th
WALTER HUSTON
- in -
THE BAD MAN
Also Technicolor Reel

Monday and Tuesday - Oct. 13-14
JOHN McCORMACK
- in -
SONG O' MY HEART
Also News and Sound Comedy

Wednesday - October 15th
LET'S GO NATIVE
- with -
Jack Oakie - Jeanette McDonald
Also Comedy and Pathe Review

Thursday - October 16th
THE SPOILERS
- with -
Gary Cooper - Kay Johnson
Betty Compton
Also Short Subjects

ONE will always stand out!

HOME RUNS are made at the plate - not on the bench!

Likewise what counts in a cigarette is what a smoker gets from it - not what is said about it.

Chesterfield has a policy - give smokers what they want:

MILDNESS - the wholly natural mildness of tobaccos that are without harshness or bitterness.

BETTER TASTE - such as only a cigarette of wholesome purity and better tobaccos can have.

Chesterfield Cigarettes are manufactured by LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

BETTER TASTE

They Satisfy

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

VOL. LX.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1930.

NO. 11

PURPLE ELEVEN TIES WHITE IN LAST MINUTE OF PLAY

CHARITY, CANON SCOTT'S SUBJECT IN CHAPEL TALK

Feels That Most People Mistake Real Sense of the Word

SPEAKER APPRECIATED

Was Called the Bravest Chaplain of Canada's Expeditionary Forces During World War. Is Now Archdeacon of Quebec

A gentleman never fails, sheer grit, one of the most beautiful verses in the Bible, an etching of the sympathetic and pithy talk which the Reverend Canon Frederick G. Scott delivered at chapel last Sunday afternoon. President Sills introduced him with a few words, mentioning a decoration for bravery and reading six lines of a poem by Canon Scott, "Armistice." The kindly, venerable clergyman began his address emphatically and with no preliminaries. His sermon was an illumination of his text, the thirteenth chapter of St. Paul's first epistle to the Christians. He started with the line, "Charity suffereth long and is kind."

Canon Scott stated that this is rightly given a place as one of the most beautiful verses in the Bible. But these are catchwords of the sympathetic and pithy talk which the Reverend Canon Frederick G. Scott delivered at chapel last Sunday afternoon. President Sills introduced him with a few words, mentioning a decoration for bravery and reading six lines of a poem by Canon Scott, "Armistice." The kindly, venerable clergyman began his address emphatically and with no preliminaries. His sermon was an illumination of his text, the thirteenth chapter of St. Paul's first epistle to the Christians. He started with the line, "Charity suffereth long and is kind."

Then, with a warm voice and vigorous gestures, the distinguished preacher pictured the ideal of a gentleman's life. The base color of a gentleman's life is found in the first line, "suffereth long and is kind." Because Paul was able to write those true words in such a time as he did, Canon Scott thinks one should believe in the New Testament, and not the lines, "Charity envieth not; vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up." "Doth not behave itself unseemly." New Year's celebrations are often examples of disgraceful conduct. A gentleman should be full of fun, and full of spirits, but he knows the line beyond which he must not pass. "Is not easily provoked." A great amount of unnecessary damage is due to pitiful touchiness and sensitiveness. "Thinketh not evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth." It is easy to condemn acts and sins into which, perhaps only through chance, we ourselves have not fallen. The idea of enjoying and exploiting the mistakes of another is unchristian. Sorrow, and not joy, ought to be the emotion felt for anyone who has fallen. "Beareth all things, endureth all things." To hope, to endure, to stick to a thing with plain grit, these battles belong to the gentleman. Grit won the war. Grit wins when one faces an operation, a temptation, a big piece of work. "Charity never faileth." In the crises the gentleman always comes through. Remember this strong verse, memorize it, put it up in your room, keep it before you as an ideal. "Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up. Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own; is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; Beareth all things, endureth all things. Charity never faileth." There was only one perfect gentleman, and He was Jesus. Christ never faileth.

BUGLE CANDIDATES

The editor of the Bugle requests that all freshmen interested in competing for positions on the Bugle staff report at a meeting held Thursday noon, October 16, at the Chi Psi Lodge.

The following men were elected to the White Key at the election held last Monday:
D. H. Galbraith
C. E. Gatchell
J. A. Ricker, Jr.
C. F. Stanwood
H. W. Thistlewaite
F. A. Vaughan

Langmaid, captain and one of the aces of the Williams backfield, being smothered beneath an avalanche of Bowdoin players after futilely attempting to skirt the Bear's end in the third period. Lloyd Morrell, wearing number 20, is actually making the tackle with John Milliken boring in to his assistance from in front. (Courtesy Portland Sunday Telegram)

"PROGRAMME MUSIC" IN LECTURE-RECITAL

Miss Denek's Return to Bowdoin Provides a Pleasant Evening

"Programme music is that music which tells a story without words," began Miss Margaret Denek in her lecture-recital on that subject which she gave last Friday evening in the Union. Her talk, illustrated by selections on the piano, explained the development of this type of musical literature in a most delightful way. Due to the extraordinarily successful reception with which Miss Denek was accorded last year when she lectured on the life and works of Chopin, a very large audience was present to enjoy her lecture and playing. Besides being of charming personality and an excellent lecturer, she seems to know how to get the great effect from a piano with very little effort. Her rendition of several complete selections and part of other compositions impressed everyone present.

"I shall attempt to explain and follow the development of programme music, wordless stories in music, from its beginning down to the present time in a rather sketchy but comprehensive way," began Miss Denek. The first piece of programme music she played was "The Swan" by Maurice Strakosky, which she explained was written by William Byrd who in the sixteenth century wrote a piece in which he attempted to describe a battle scene. She played a short simple sketch from this composition.

The next step in its development was found in the music of Kuhnau. The first real piece of programme music for the piano was his "David and Goliath," parts of which she played and explained. Only four years later in reality John Sebastian Bach had a style a century in advance of that of Kuhnau. While the latter described the outer things of life—actions and actions—Bach turned to the inner things and explained thought and emotion.

The reproductions of noises were very realistic at the time. Miss Denek gave examples of the song of the cuckoo, the chicken, and the bluebird.

MANY ATTEND SMOKER WITH CANON SCOTT IN MOULTON UNION

Those who missed hearing Canon Scott reminisce at the Union Sunday night are really unfortunate, for he described the outer things of life—actions and actions—Bach turned to the inner things and explained thought and emotion.

Canon Scott told in a charmingly simple way of his first experiences, of the apprehensions he felt at the start, and of the varied feelings that gripped him as he sailed with the first troops of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. On the way over to Europe a man fell overboard and the whole column of troops stood by while he was rescued. Later, with so many men dropping in the lines, unheeded, the singularity of the incident often came back to the Canon. After setting sent to England chiefly through his own determination to go, he got to France through the same expedient, rather than stay at the base. From then on his life was one of intense and tireless activity. Canadian soldiers still speak reverently of the fearless padre and his deeds, though he himself subordinates those acts which earned for him the name of "bravest chaplain in the service." He spoke of days of uncertainty and peril in the first days of fighting, when supplies of all sorts were limited and

THE CHATEAU OF OLD TOURAINE TRAVELER'S SUBJECT THURSDAY

Lecture Will Be Illustrated By Lantern Slides and a Short Motion Picture Film

Miss Marie Ware Laughton of Boston will give a lecture in the lounge of the Union tomorrow evening, October 16, on "The Chateau of Old Touraine." Although this is Miss Laughton's first talk at Bowdoin, she has lectured extensively throughout New England. The talk will be illustrated by fifty slides and a short moving picture. As Miss Laughton has travelled extensively in France during the last few years, she is very familiar with the country and its beauty spots. Among the places she has visited are Chambord, Blois, Tours, the old chateau of Amboise where Mary Stuart and her young husband Francis II saw the Huguenots slaughtered at Marie de Medici's command. She will also describe Loches, the cradle of the Plantagenets, England's famous line of kings. The history, architecture, and romance of all these spots will be fully discussed by Miss Laughton.

SOPHOMORE SOCIETY WILL CHANGE NAME

Twelve sophomores, representing each fraternity of the college and the non-fraternity group met recently to elect the officers of the Vigilantes for the coming year. Other business accomplished was the decision to change the name of the society from the Vigilantes to Phi Chi, subject to the approval of the Student Council.

In the elections Albert Madeira, D. W. Chubb, and Francis A. Ricker, Jr. were chosen as president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively.

(Continued on page 2)

PLAY BY PLAY ACCOUNT OF WILLIAMS-BOWDOIN GAME

First Period
Captain Southern kicked off to Good, who carried the ball back forty yards to the Williams forty-eight yard line. Williams loosing the ball on downs. Morrell crashed through center for five yards. Foster was stopped dead at right tackle by the secondary defense, which had come up to plug the hole. Ricker cut through left tackle and almost cut away, gaining twenty yards, and bringing the ball to the Williams forty-five yard line. Foster went through right tackle, reversed to the left and gained ten yards. Williams took time out. Griffin stopped Morrell at right tackle for a gain of only a yard. Ricker cut through left tackle, reversed his field twice while going through the secondary defense, and was brought down by the safety men after a twenty-four yard gain. Williams took time out. Foster cut through right tackle for two yards. Morrell made four yards off left guard. Foster went through right tackle for a yard gain, swept to the right, and went over for a gain of four yards and a touchdown. Southern kicked off to Fowle, who carried the ball thirty-nine yards to the Williams thirty-six yard line, being tackled by Gatchell. Brown stopped a line back for a gain of two yards. Langmaid made four yards through center. Gatchell threw Tuttle for a gain of a yard through center. Tuttle punted and the ball hit the Bowdoin safety man. It was recovered by Eyrone and another player on the Bowdoin thirty-one yard line. Fowle took a yard on a right end sweep. Fowle made two yards off right guard. Fowle threw a forward pass to Langmaid, who carried it two more yards for a total gain of eight. Gatchell tackled Langmaid for a yard loss as he started through right tackle. Williams loosing the ball on downs. Morrell crashed through center for five yards. Foster was stopped dead at right tackle by the secondary defense, which had come up to plug the hole. Ricker cut through left tackle and almost cut away, gaining twenty yards, and bringing the ball to the Williams forty-five yard line. Foster went through right tackle, reversed to the left and gained ten yards. Williams took time out. Griffin stopped Morrell at right tackle for a gain of only a yard. Ricker cut through left tackle, reversed his field twice while going through the secondary defense, and was brought down by the safety men after a twenty-four yard gain. Williams took time out. Foster cut through right tackle for two yards. Morrell made four yards off left guard. Foster went through right tackle for a yard gain, swept to the right, and went over for a gain of four yards and a touchdown. Southern kicked off to Fowle, who carried the ball thirty-nine yards to the Williams thirty-six yard line, being tackled by Gatchell. Brown stopped a line back for a gain of two yards. Langmaid made four yards through center. Gatchell threw Tuttle for a gain of a yard through center. Tuttle punted and the ball hit the Bowdoin safety man. It was recovered by Eyrone and another player on the Bowdoin thirty-one yard line. Fowle took a yard on a right end sweep. Fowle made two yards off right guard. Fowle threw a forward pass to Langmaid,

BOWDOIN TEAM SCORES IN SEVEN SWIFT PLAYS EARLY IN FIRST CANTO

Greatly Improved Defense Serves To Halt Repeated Attacks of Highly Reputed Williams Backs—Aerial Game Baffles Bowdoin and Leads to Score

Fickleness of fortune alone served to give a much outplayed Purple eleven the wherewithal to tie a valiant White team 7-7 at Whittier field last Saturday in the final minute of play. From the opening whistle until well into the final quarter Bowdoin was easily the more brilliant and the more aggressive. Williams looked inert, lackadaisical, and almost awkward through nine-tenths of the game and only arose to the occasion when the watch was ticking away the final minutes of the conclave.

Bowdoin-Williams Statistics
	Bowdoin	Williams
First downs	10	10
Gained from scrimmage	191	106
Lost from scrimmage	17	12
Forward passes—
Attempted	9	17
Completed	2	7
Yardage	20	58
	(+11)	(+23)
Enemy passes intercepted	1	4
Fumbles	2	0
Recovered	0	0
Penalized	25	10
Punts	5	7
Avg. yardage	32	33
Run-back of	41	40
Kick-offs	53	27
Run-back of	17	71

JUMBOS FACE WHITE TEAM ON SATURDAY

Polar Bears Seek Revenge For Doubtful Loss to Tufts Last Year

BIG CROWD EXPECTED

Prediction That Tufts Backfield Made Up of Uanna, Haber, LeCain, Clayman Will Surpass the Famous Offense of Two Years Ago

With memories of a certain sad Saturday afternoon in Medford last year, a grim Bowdoin football team will take the field next Saturday against Tufts determined to wipe out the stain of that doubtful 7-6 loss last year. In spite of the fact that this game comes about mid-season of the year, the Massachusetts members of the squad and student body have raised it to the position of almost The Game in point of desirability of victory.

Bowdoin will have one advantage over the visitors in that it will be the third start for the Polar Bears while Tufts did not get underway until last Saturday when they eked out a victory over a crippled Colby eleven 7-0. The Jumbos, like Bowdoin, are under a new coach this year, and the game will attract considerable interest throughout New England. Tufts looked fairly good for their starter last year, but according to reports and Boston papers freely predicted that the backfield of Uanna, Haber, LeCain, and Clayman will surpass the Tufts backfield of two years ago.

FINAL FATHERS' DAY PLANS ANNOUNCED BY FACULTY COMMITTEE

The second annual Fathers' Day at Bowdoin College has been definitely set for Saturday, October 18, the day of the Tufts game, and the committee in charge has made arrangements for the entertainment of the guests.

Last year about forty fathers and guardians of freshmen visited the College on the day of the Wesleyan game. Mr. Philip S. Wilder, Alumni Secretary, Mr. Donovan D. Lancaster, and the Faculty Committee have prepared the schedule of events for the day.

From 9 to 9:30 the men will register in the office of the Moulton Union where they will receive tickets which will admit them to the luncheon in the cafeteria and to the Bowdoin-Tufts football game. Two hours, from 9:30 to 11:30 will be devoted to visiting classes and visiting the various places of interest on the campus. From 11:30 till twelve, the President, Dean, and members of the Faculty will hold an informal reception in the main lounge of the Moulton Union which is to be followed by a luncheon in the cafeteria. The freshmen will not be present at this luncheon but will accompany their fathers to the football game.

Bowdoin opened with a decidedly improved defense. In a short succession of line bucks Fowle tested the stamina of the Bowdoin line enough, and elected to kick. The ball sailed high and far, going into play on Bowdoin's twenty yard stripe. Then the fun began.

Sid Foster began things by skirting right end with the speed and drive of a Western cyclone. For no less than thirty-three yards did he go when he was halted by Fowle. Ricker next carried the ball to add eleven more and another first down. Morrell hit the line but was held with but a yard gained. Once more Mr. Ricker was carrier and got away for twenty-six. Morrell and Foster plugged the line successively for six good yards. The ball was now on the Purple's 13 yard marker. For the third time Foster took the ball, rounded Kippis, at right end, and dashed across the final stripe for Bowdoin's touchdown. Southern place-kicked successfully.

Williams received the ball on its thirty-six yard line and returned it to the fifty-yard line. After a series of plays, indicative of an impotent offense, the ball once again came into the White's possession.

Morrell drove through right tackle for five yards. Ricker tried the same but gained no ground. Again the ball went to Ricker and on this attempt twenty stripes were passed before he was downed. Foster was next carrier for Bowdoin and trailed on for fifteen yards. This notable advance an attempted forward was snared by Captain Langmaid of the Purple, and here the Bowdoin offensive ended its attack.

The Purple initiated the attack with a series of line bucks. It was evidently the thought of the Williams backs to test the putty defense which had given the Argie outfit its few brilliant spurts. After three unsuccessful tries in the vicinity of Mr. Ecke and Mr. Pollock the Williams outfit felt they had been tricked, for on each of these occasions the intended assault was very rudely rebuffed. To the observer of both of Bowdoin's contests the newly developed defense was nothing short of a revelation. In the Argie contest defense stood out like a sore thumb in contrast to the offense. Not so Saturday! Every yard gained through the White line was paid for in no small measure.

It was the Purple passing attack that was the greatest source of worry to the White. In the department Bowdoin seemed to lack a dependable defense. Whenever the Williams passers were at all accurate, they gained the objective without strenuous opposition on the part of the White.

Just one of these passes seemed to give the visitors their lone opportunity to score, despite the fact that the pass which did all the mischief was aided and abetted by the gods of chance. The last minutes of the final quarter were at hand, when Mr. Tuttle, whose performance all afternoon had been decidedly in arrears of his reputation, came into the Purple backfield to replace Brown. The atmosphere of calm which had distinguished the visitors vanished into oblivion. Williams received Ricker's kick on their 34 yard stripe. Langmaid came back for a 15 yard gain. A well aimed pass nestled in Tuttle's arms on the twenty-seven yard stripe. A second attempt failed, however, but the Purple cast their dice with abandon and followed the first failure with another attempt.

This was the fatal thrust! Tuttle to whom the pass was aimed was far out of reach when the ball shot through the air, but Plaisted in attempting to ground the ball had the misfortune to knock the ball into the arms of this lately arrived Purple back. The White made a glorious stand. Langmaid was thrown for a loss, but came back on another attempt, to gain four yards. Bowdoin was set for another attack by the Purple captain, but Corraele took the ball and crossed the Bowdoin line for a touchdown. Langmaid drove a perfect place-kick through the cross bars and the score was tied.

(Continued on page 4)

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Me.

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. - Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance. Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, October 15, 1930.

No. 11

The Williams Game

A 7-7 victory! That was last Saturday's game. Coach Bowser and his men deserve the hearty congratulations of the College for their excellent playing against a college which for years has defeated Bowdoin and which a majority believed would repeat the process Saturday. That smashing Bowdoin attack of the first period should give encouragement to all those of us who are weary of cellar status in the State Series. And for that matter, throughout the entire game, the spirit that pervaded both team and spectators was a totally different one from that of the past few years. We do not wish again to be overconfident. Perhaps the team will collapse, die off, be spirited away or a thousand and one other things may occur. However, one thing we can say with assurance: the College has never before been more wholeheartedly behind any football team. We hope that, win or lose, we can keep this spirit. The team needs our support, and furthermore, merits it. Let's show Tufts next Saturday, and the remaining teams in the schedule as well, that the Polar Bear has a flock of loyal cubs!

Student Directory

Last week, the ORIENT published the Student Directory. A careful perusal of the list of names shows a remarkably small number of individuals represented. Is this because this certain few are so actively interested in campus affairs or rather because there is a lack of interest in them generally on campus?

From all observations, however, these prominent few are not ambitious to the extent of excluding others from participation and competition for the various societies. In fact, a far different spirit is manifest, in that these leaders feel that there is a woeful lack of interest in extra-curricular activities, generally speaking that is, among the undergraduates and faculty. This inertia is not universal. Some of our organizations, the Musical Clubs for instance, are very much alive and doing excellent work in their respective fields. Even the ORIENT, reviled lately in Chapel Services, shows prospect for improvement with a squad of some twenty promising Freshmen answering the first call for reporters. And even the Flagpole Committee will admit that the ORIENT is active. Other organizations, on the other hand, are little better than ghosts. Who ever hears of the Government Club, for example, save when the time comes for Bugle pictures to be taken? Or what function has the Bowdoin Christian Association? Pi Delta Epsilon is another society that could well stand rejuvenation. At other institutions, the Pi Delta charm denotes a position of importance, and the chapter has an important function in journalistic criticism and censorship. This year, of course, the Bowdoin Chapter did sponsor the publication of the Freshman Handbook, but that step, although admittedly it indicates activity and progress, was made at the expense of the Christian Association. Again, consider the Outing Club. That is an organization of which Bowdoin can hardly be proud. Dead wood, again, and there is too much of this around Bowdoin. The Student Body should be encouraged to support these extra-curricular activities, which in many ways are every whit as important in the life of the College as are athletic teams. We suggest, that unless support by the undergraduates is not forthcoming, a weeding-out of some of these decadent societies be begun and not ceased until the campus is rid of those organizations in which there is no interest. This we give as a challenge to the Student Body.

Chapel

Bowdoin has Compulsory Chapel, though a large number of her sister colleges have abandoned the system as archaic and unsuited to the spirit of modern education and of modern youth. The old question of whether modern youth knows what is good for itself or whether age should continue to judge for it again arises here. This is an old question, and one that can hardly be settled by a war of words alone. We should like to see this system put to the test here. The President has himself said that our Chapel Services are traditional. He has likewise admitted that there is no value in a tradition once its purpose is outworn. We submit the hypothesis that the tradition of Compulsory Chapel is outworn at Bowdoin, and propose a referendum, to be held in the columns of the ORIENT next week, on the subject. We urge all undergraduate and faculty readers of this paper to vote on this poll, for we feel that in this manner we may arrive at some definite conclusions about the subject.

Before closing, we should like to make one observation. Attendance these first weeks has been about as heavy even though no monitors were present, as it averages throughout the year. Upperclassmen, surely, knew they did not have to go to Chapel. Yet they went. This seems to us a very good argument for the theory that Chapel could be popular and could succeed without the help of compulsion to get an audience.

Communication

To the Editor of the Bowdoin Orient:
Dear Sir,

It was with great interest that I read the sketch of Beautiful Bowdoin in our paper, Old Gold and Black. Being in the Southland, nevertheless I am a loyal son of Maine, and any mention of that State arrests my attention immediately.

I can assure you the tribute paid to Bowdoin is sincere. Though the Mason and Dixon line remains in the mind of many, and the North is not of the South, yet in the things of the Spirit there is no middle wall of partition. Beauty will be recognized wherever it is found and respect will be paid by its admirers. It is in this light that the article Beautiful Bowdoin appears. I am proud of Bowdoin, being in my state, and I am proud of Wake Forest, my alma mater. May the common interests and aims which exist and have been recognized continue to grow, fostered by love.

Please find enclosed the article as appeared in our paper. I hope I am sure you will be interested. Also I am sending a copy of a poem written by a Maine son while in Philadelphia. It appeared in the Boston Post.

Fraternally yours,
OSCAR A. WITHEE.

Beautiful Bowdoin

The following is a letter sent in to the editor by Dr. W. R. Cullom, Albritton professor of Bible here, relating some of his cherished memories upon visiting beautiful Bowdoin:

"It was a Saturday afternoon that I stepped off at Brunswick, Maine. The main center of attraction for me at this point was Bowdoin College. This was the college of Nathaniel Hawthorne. It was the college of Longfellow. It was the college of Peary. On the second floor of the Library building they have a sled that was used by Peary when he discovered the North Pole. This building was erected by General Hubbard and presented to the college. Peary was a special friend of General Hubbard's, and it was through the General that the sled was secured and presented to the college.

"It would be hard to find a more beautiful campus than that which surrounds the dozen or more buildings at Bowdoin. Three of these buildings impressed me especially. One was the gymnasium. And the thing about the gym that interested me most was the beautiful swimming pool. When I was in it it seemed to me that every young boy in town was in it! And what a happy time they were having. Modern machinery and modern methods of work are giving to people more and more leisure. To induce people to use and to train people in the higher use of this leisure in the interest of body and mind and spirit is one of the major issues before the world today. The man who gave this gymnasium and swimming pool to Bowdoin provided for its perpetual maintenance—a most important factor in any such gift—and was making a very important contribution to the civilization of his day.

"Another building that impressed me was the Art Museum. In this building one might see in a little while reproductions of the world's best output in the way of paintings, sculpture and other expressions of the aesthetic. Appreciation of such is a most important part of a liberal education.

"The other one of the three buildings in question was the beautiful chapel. It stands right in the midst of all the rest, a silent witness in itself to the fact that this institution stands for the things of the spirit as well as for those of the hand, the mind, and the sense of the beautiful.

"It was also a matter of interest to see in Brunswick the house in which Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote 'Uncle Tom's Cabin'. The impression of Brunswick and of Bowdoin will linger with me as a pleasant memory through the days."

POSTGAME TEADANCES

Following the football game with Williams on October 11, the Alpha Delta Phi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Sigma Nu fraternities entertained at tea dances. In the evening an informal dance was held in the Sargent Gymnasium with music furnished by the Polar Bears.

At the A.D. house the patronesses were Mrs. Charles T. Burnett and Mrs. John Winchell, while Joe Loomis' orchestra played for the dance. The Polar Bears divided forces and played at the D.K.E. and Sigma Nu houses. The patronesses at the D.K.E. were Mrs. Frederick Kleibacker, Mrs. J. W. Blunt, and Mrs. Hartley Baxter, and those at the Sigma Nu dancer were Mrs. Stetson and Mrs. Jensen. At the gym dance the patrons and patronesses were Prof. and Mrs. Noel C. Little and Prof. and Mrs. Daniel C. Stanwood.

Professor Stephen P. Duggan, Director of the Institute of International Education, will deliver over a nation wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System twelve addresses on the general topic, "Our Changing World" on successive Thursdays, beginning October 9, 1930, at 6 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

FOR OCCASIONS WHEN YOUR GROOMING IS AS IMPORTANT AS YOUR PRESENCE

Adler Rochester fine clothes for the college man are tailored with custom precision. Join our ever mounting list of pleased customers at your earliest. Time to begin thinking of ABBOTT SHOES. Choose a pair now, and prepare yourself for the longest period of shoe satisfaction you can enjoy.

The House of Walah

"More than a toggery ... a Bowdoin Institution"

Communication

To the Editor of the Bowdoin Orient:
Dear Sir,

It was with great interest that I read the sketch of Beautiful Bowdoin in our paper, Old Gold and Black. Being in the Southland, nevertheless I am a loyal son of Maine, and any mention of that State arrests my attention immediately.

I can assure you the tribute paid to Bowdoin is sincere. Though the Mason and Dixon line remains in the mind of many, and the North is not of the South, yet in the things of the Spirit there is no middle wall of partition. Beauty will be recognized wherever it is found and respect will be paid by its admirers. It is in this light that the article Beautiful Bowdoin appears. I am proud of Bowdoin, being in my state, and I am proud of Wake Forest, my alma mater. May the common interests and aims which exist and have been recognized continue to grow, fostered by love.

Please find enclosed the article as appeared in our paper. I hope I am sure you will be interested. Also I am sending a copy of a poem written by a Maine son while in Philadelphia. It appeared in the Boston Post.

Fraternally yours,
OSCAR A. WITHEE.

Beautiful Bowdoin

The following is a letter sent in to the editor by Dr. W. R. Cullom, Albritton professor of Bible here, relating some of his cherished memories upon visiting beautiful Bowdoin:

"It was a Saturday afternoon that I stepped off at Brunswick, Maine. The main center of attraction for me at this point was Bowdoin College. This was the college of Nathaniel Hawthorne. It was the college of Longfellow. It was the college of Peary. On the second floor of the Library building they have a sled that was used by Peary when he discovered the North Pole. This building was erected by General Hubbard and presented to the college. Peary was a special friend of General Hubbard's, and it was through the General that the sled was secured and presented to the college.

"It would be hard to find a more beautiful campus than that which surrounds the dozen or more buildings at Bowdoin. Three of these buildings impressed me especially. One was the gymnasium. And the thing about the gym that interested me most was the beautiful swimming pool. When I was in it it seemed to me that every young boy in town was in it! And what a happy time they were having. Modern machinery and modern methods of work are giving to people more and more leisure. To induce people to use and to train people in the higher use of this leisure in the interest of body and mind and spirit is one of the major issues before the world today. The man who gave this gymnasium and swimming pool to Bowdoin provided for its perpetual maintenance—a most important factor in any such gift—and was making a very important contribution to the civilization of his day.

"Another building that impressed me was the Art Museum. In this building one might see in a little while reproductions of the world's best output in the way of paintings, sculpture and other expressions of the aesthetic. Appreciation of such is a most important part of a liberal education.

"The other one of the three buildings in question was the beautiful chapel. It stands right in the midst of all the rest, a silent witness in itself to the fact that this institution stands for the things of the spirit as well as for those of the hand, the mind, and the sense of the beautiful.

"It was also a matter of interest to see in Brunswick the house in which Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote 'Uncle Tom's Cabin'. The impression of Brunswick and of Bowdoin will linger with me as a pleasant memory through the days."

POSTGAME TEADANCES

Following the football game with Williams on October 11, the Alpha Delta Phi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Sigma Nu fraternities entertained at tea dances. In the evening an informal dance was held in the Sargent Gymnasium with music furnished by the Polar Bears.

At the A.D. house the patronesses were Mrs. Charles T. Burnett and Mrs. John Winchell, while Joe Loomis' orchestra played for the dance. The Polar Bears divided forces and played at the D.K.E. and Sigma Nu houses. The patronesses at the D.K.E. were Mrs. Frederick Kleibacker, Mrs. J. W. Blunt, and Mrs. Hartley Baxter, and those at the Sigma Nu dancer were Mrs. Stetson and Mrs. Jensen. At the gym dance the patrons and patronesses were Prof. and Mrs. Noel C. Little and Prof. and Mrs. Daniel C. Stanwood.

Professor Stephen P. Duggan, Director of the Institute of International Education, will deliver over a nation wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System twelve addresses on the general topic, "Our Changing World" on successive Thursdays, beginning October 9, 1930, at 6 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

CONTINUAL PRACTICE, MILLER'S PROGRAM FOR WHITE NATATORS

After two weeks of extensive practice, in which conditioning exercises played a main part, the Freshman and the Varsity swimming teams are gradually rounding into shape for the regular schedule of work which will start immediately after the Thanksgiving recess.

The following Freshmen have reported to Coach Robert Miller: H. C. Allen, Jr., G. S. Bennett, H. R. Black, Jr., R. F. Calkins, R. J. Carson, Jr., R. M. Foster, J. R. Fox, A. L. Hagerthy, E. H. Morse, A. E. Nilson, E. C. Uehlein.

Twelve veterans of last year's varsity are available this year. Among those are: W. P. Bowman, J. F. Carpenter, D. M. Dana, E. D. Densmore, N. P. Easton, L. K. Eaton, J. E. Es-son, Jr., F. Howard, J. C. Roper, R. H. Smith, and J. W. Trott.

During the second time trials, over the longer distances, held last Friday, several unofficial records for the pool were broken by Densmore in the breaststroke, and by Easton in the backstroke. Coach Miller is optimistic over the outlook for the coming season.

Schedule for 1931

Jan. 9—Harvard at Cambridge
Jan. 10—Wesleyan at Middletown
Jan. 17—M.I.T. at Brunswick
Feb. 14—Springfield at Brunswick
Feb. 21—Williams at Brunswick
Feb. 28—Brown at Brunswick
Mar. 7—Worcester Tech. at Worcester
Mar. 13-14—New Interscholastic at Wesleyan
Mar. 20-21—Eastern Interscholastic at Columbia
Mar. 27-28—N.C.A.A. at Columbia

FROSH NINE DOWNS SOPH AGGREGATION 9-6

Concluding their second week of practice with a scrub game against a Sophomore nine, the Freshman baseball squad earned a 9-6 victory, last Friday on the Delta. More com-

THE COLLEGE SPA

Is open for the convenience of the students, from 7 a. m. until 1 a. m. Before retiring come in and try one of our TOASTED SANDWICHES.

BE SURE AND GET IT AT THE SPA

Phi Chi

(Continued from Page 1)

Other members who were present at the meeting were: Leo Christopher, Kappa Sigma; Elston Eaton, Chi Psi; Russell Hall, Jr., Sigma Nu; Clyde Johnson, A. T. O.; Guy Kelley, A. D.; Ray McLaughlin, Zeta; Edward McMenamin, Psi U.; Walter Travis, D. U.; Fred Whittier, non-fraternity.

During the meeting it was decided to change the name of the group from the Vigilantes to Phi Chi, subject to the approval of the Student Council. The Council will consider the matter at its next meeting.

As can be divined from the intended change of name, this organization has received from the former White Key the work of enforcing the freshman rules. Any infraction of these rules will be met by a summons to appear before Phi Chi at its weekly sessions.

Fielding and bunched hits gave the first-yearmen their win over the disorganized Sophs.

The Freshman squad, all members of which participated in the game, consists of twelve men: Henry Curtis, Arthur O'Brien, Gardner Pope, Herbert Hempel, Blenn Perkins, George Bennett, James Freeman, R. G. Dowling, Jack Griffen, Edward DeLoe, Jack Wilding and Perry Holt. Freshman batterymen were Curtis and Hempel, with Travis and Cannon upholding the Sophs.

POLAR BEARS HAVE BIG DANCE SCHEDULE

To Appear at D. U. and A. T. O. Houses Saturday Afternoon, and at Gym in the Evening

After the Tufts-Bowdoin game October 18, the Polar Bears orchestra is scheduled to play for the tea-dances to be held at the Delta Upsilon and Alpha Tau Omega houses and at the informal dance in the gymnasium that evening, just as last Saturday it furnished the music for the dances at the Sigma Nu and Deke houses and the gym dance.

This Bowdoin dance orchestra consists of the following members: piano, Eliot Smith '33 and Gordon Bennett '34; drums, Joseph Kraetzer '31; bass, Richard Mawhinney '33; saxophone, Edward Fuller '31 and Francis Donaldson '33; banjo, Raymond Leonard '31.

The orchestra has been very well developed by regular rehearsals under the direction of Raymond Leonard, leader for two years. The Polar Bears' performance compares favorably with that of many professional orchestras. However, more brass could be used to advantage and Raymond Leonard requests that all who desire to try out, or who feel that they have not had a fair trial, see him at the Delta Upsilon house.

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

Scientist and Salesman

THE MODERN PARTNERSHIP

Like every other modern industry, the Bell System requires the combined effort of scientist and salesman. The commercial man has again and again shown the public how to use new products of the telephone laboratory, and how to make new uses of existing apparatus.

Transmitting pictures and typewritten messages over telephone wires are services right now being actively promoted. Scientific selling by long distance is among many ideas originated to increase the telephone's usefulness.

In short telephony is a business, with problems that stimulate commercially minded men and a breadth of opportunity in step with the fast moving world of industry today.

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF MORE THAN 20,000,000 INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONE-

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

CORONA SPECIAL TYPEWRITERS

— NEW IN COLORS —

$39.50

Including Carrying Case — (One Year Guarantee)

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Recommended by
The English Department of Bowdoin CollegeWEBSTER'S
COLLEGIATE

The Best Abridged Dictionary because it is based upon WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL — The "Supreme Authority". Here is a companion for your hours of reading and study that will prove its real value every time you consult it. A wealth of ready information on words, persons, places, is instantly yours. 106,000 words and phrases with definitions, etymologies, pronunciations, and use in 1,256 pages. 1,700 illustrations. Includes dictionaries of biography and geography and other features.

See it at Your College Bookstore or Write for Information to the Publishers. Free specimen pages if you name this paper.
G. & C. BROWN CO.
Springfield, Mass.

Rhodes Scholarship Candidates

Lawrence C. Jenks '31

Paul A. Walker '31

Arthur J. Deeks '31

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP
CANDIDATES CHOSEN

Faculty Committee Selects Four to Go Before State Committee at Augusta

James Parker Pettigrove '30, Arthur Joslin Deeks '31, Lawrence Cooper Jenks '31 and Paul Andrew Walker '31 were selected by the faculty committee on Rhodes Scholarships to represent the college before the Maine State Committee at Augusta on the sixth of December. The Maine State Committee will nominate two candidates from the four Maine colleges to appear before the New England district committee in December.

For the first time in the history of the Rhodes awards the state committees will not make the final choice. Professor Thomas Means has been named secretary of the Maine committee for 1930.

The faculty committee which selected the Bowdoin candidates consists of Professor Charles Harold Gray, chairman, and Professors Edward Sanford Hammond and Stanley Barney Smith. Dean Paul Nixon will serve as a member of the New England committee which will make the final appointments in December. Four men will be selected to represent the New England region at Oxford.

The new plan of selection which goes into effect for the first time this year will mean that there will be a competition in every state each year. Formerly each state named its own scholars. Maine is in the New England region which includes colleges and universities in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

All of the Bowdoin men selected by the committee are members of Phi Beta Kappa and prominent in extra-curricular activities. Pettigrove is Longfellow Scholar in Philosophy and English at Harvard this year. Deeks was class orator and is assistant in classics. Jenks has been connected with the Bowdoin Orient and the Fresh-

Miss Deneko

(Continued from page 1)

bottle fly by such composers as Von Dein Gheyn and Rameau. These selections are not noted for their accuracy in representation but rather because of the beauties which have been added to the sounds in the music.

This type of music is also found in the works of the master, Beethoven, but particularly in his sonata in which he describes a farewell to a friend, which Miss Deneko played in its entirety.

In the romantic age of music Robert Schumann was the outstanding example of a composer of programme music. He had a somewhat different conception of this term and so he composed first and interpreted afterward. Miss Deneko played his "In the Night" with very fine effect.

Brahms approached the question with a still different idea. He took poetry as his plan for compositions and made the music fit the words. The lecturer chose as an example his "Edvard" which is the musical transcription of the old ballad by that name.

Skipping to modern times Miss Deneko played descriptions of a fountain and of a horse and concluded her recital by musical portraits of her own family composed by Dr. Ernest Walker of Oxford.

Upstate Academy Team
Hands Frosh 12-0 Licking

The hardhitting Bridgton Academy team defeated the Freshmen 12 to 0 on Pickard Field Monday afternoon. Bridgton kicked off and Bowdoin attempted to punt, but the pass went wild, going over the kicker's head. Fenton, formerly all interscholastic linesman on Malden High, broke through and fell on the ball. On the next play Borden, all interscholastic star on Medford High, received the ball and scored. They scored again in the second period by an aerial attack.

ROCKNE FOOTBALL FILMS TO SHOW AT CUMBERLAND SOON

America's Master Football Coach and His Notre Dame Eleven Re-Enact Epic Moments of the Gridiron

Beginning Wednesday and Thursday, October 22 and 23, the Cumberland theatre will present the six reel football scenes of Knute Rockne which have invited so much comment this fall.

The Last Yard
Knute Rockne in Pathe's Rockne Football Series of six single reels re-enacts with the Notre Dame squad many famous plays of famous coaches. This subject opens with Coach Rockne, photographed in color, making a highly entertaining talk on the great gridiron game. In the first of the group, "The Last Yard", he shows as his initial play a forty-yard pass for a touchdown, from Benny Friedman to Osterbaum of Michigan. Slow motion photography adds greatly to the effectiveness of the presentation. Odd angle views of the huddle and of plunges through the line are included in this reel.

The Hidden Ball
Every section of the country is represented in this gridiron series. Reel two, "The Hidden Ball", opens with a sequence photographed by Pathe's color camera. It shows the famous Notre Dame band playing the school's stirring "Victory March". The first scenes on the gridiron reveal a series of three scoring plays, all done in slow motion. One of these is Coach Rockne's favorite hidden ball play, a cleverly arranged maneuver which has fooled many of Notre Dame's opponents. Stirring plays and slow motion photography distinguish the reel. It closes with a thrilling run by Chris Cagle of the Army for 50 yards and a touchdown in the Yale Bowl.

Flying Feet
Reel three, "Flying Feet", opens with scenes of crowds in many stadia at leading games of the last three years. Student rooting sections form human letters and figures of mascots in greeting their rivals. First of the plays re-enacted by Coach Rockne's squad is the favorite ground-gainer of the famous Four Horsemen backfield of 1924. Next Red Grange is seen catching the lead on the kick-off in the Illinois-Michigan game and racing down the field from goal line for a touchdown. The finale of the reel is a thrilling play through the line, shot from four or five different angles.

Touchdown
How a great eleven attempts to move down the field after accepting the first kickoff is told by Coach Rockne in reel four, "Touchdown". The Notre Dame eleven runs off a sequence of plays calculated to advance the ball from the 30-yard line to the opponent's goal line. Rockne, master of trick formations, illustrates many of his favorite deception plays in this reel. The Irish backs, famous for their hard hitting, plunge into these plays with all the dash and go of a big game. Odd angles shot by two slow motion cameras help make this a splendid reel.

Two Minutes to Go
Shift plays take an important role in the fifth reel, Two Minutes to Go. Coach Rockne has his squad present the plays that they would use in an attempt to score a touchdown in the final moments of the game when they are six points behind. There are among the most interesting that Coach Rockne has done for any subject of the series. They are deceptive and clever and the team runs them off smoothly, each man carrying out his assignment just as though he were playing the big game of the season. One of the scoring plays in this subject is a masterpiece never before revealed to the camera.

Backfield Aces
Master shown as well as master Coach, Knute Rockne in reel six, "Backfield Aces", rings down the curtain with a thrilling finale for the Pathe football series. Plays he designed especially for illustrating his talks are run off in this reel. Some of these plays are duplicates of those that his 1930 squad will use in their games with leading eleven of the country. They're tryout and matrix sequences for this final reel. Rockne's famous backs play the leading roles in this subject, doing some of the deceptive work for which Notre Dame and its coach are famous. A subject that closes the series with a smash.

MUSICAL CLUBS ELECT

At a meeting of the musical clubs Thursday afternoon Richard A. Mahoney, '33, was elected assistant manager, filling the place left by Richard Sanger, '32, who now holds the managership.

No definite statement can be made in this issue concerning the glee club choices, but a list of names will be posted soon. Professor Wass reports that the interest in the tryouts this fall was the greatest in four or five years. The quality of the voices is so high, he declares, that there is difficulty in making selections. The first cut in the glee club will be made at Thanksgiving time.

The instrumental club tryouts will probably take place this week. Here, too, there should be much interest for many talented men have appeared among the freshmen.

man Handbook, president of varsity debating, a member of Pi Delta Epsilon and Ibis.

In the past eighteen years Bowdoin has sent eleven Rhodes scholars to Oxford and has maintained an enviable scholastic record at the English university. Dana Merrill Swan '29 is the present Bowdoin man in residence at Oxford.

TRUTH
STRANGER THAN FICTION

Come in and ask for proof of every statement in this advertisement.

The average man speaks 12,000,000 words a year!

An oak tree in Athens Ga. holds a seed to the land it occupies.

Beards are subject to a tax in Omsk Siberia.

Another surprising truth is that many men buy their shirts from us a dozen at a time. This is proof of the exceptional quality of our furnishings.

HARMON'S
INCORPORATED

GOLF AND TENNIS TOURNAMENTS OPEN WITH MANY OUT

Competition in the intramural golf and tennis tournaments, which started on Wednesday, October 8, is now well under way with the probability that the matches will be completed in another week. The tournaments, besides giving the men playing a chance to compete for a prize, are also revealing promising material for the varsity teams in the two sports.

Twenty men, about one half of them freshmen, enrolled for the tennis tournament. The matches are played off daily except during the hours set aside for freshman athletics, Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. The winner of each match must defeat his opponent in two out of three sets. The results of the games are posted on the bulletin board at the gymnasium. The following members of the freshman class have entered the tournament: Aiken, Bassett, Braithwaite, Davis, Deane, Ferguson, Goldsmith, Holbrook, Kidder, Miller and Porter. The sophomores that enrolled were Baker, Beebe, Cannon, Frost, Kellet, and Travis; and the juniors, Creighton, Gould and Leo.

The men signed up for the golf tournament are playing 18 holes according to the rules of the United States Golfers' Association. In order to have a match count for the tournament, a score card signed by all the players must be handed in to the Manager of Intramural Athletics. The men enrolled for the tournament are Brown, Lawrence, Braithwaite, Lauder, Woodsum, Batchelder, Baldout and Caslay of the freshman class; and Burke and Andrews of the senior class.

Other men who have not yet signed up may enter the golf tournament by playing according to the rules posted and then turning in their attested score cards to Edward Merrill, the Manager of Intramural Athletics, at the Zeta Psi House.

TWENTY FRESHMEN OUT FOR ORIENT

In reply to the notice concerning the competition for positions on the "Orient" board, a large group of freshmen appeared in the publications office, last Thursday night, where they received advice and instruction in newspaper work.

After the candidates had been introduced to the staff, they learned something of the purposes of the paper from Paul Walker, '31, Editor-in-Chief. He outlined the plan of competition for positions, and divided the freshmen into two groups, respectively, news and sports writers. Managing Editor spoke, stressing journalism.

The men trying out, twenty one strong, were: N. Baskeroff, James Bassett, Dudley Braithwaite, Raymond Brown, Alexander Clark, Edward DeLong, James Freeman, C. Golberg, James Guptill, R. S. Hall, Julius Hohl, Jerome Kidder, Thomas Libby, Richard Mandeville, Edward Miller, John Morris, John Mullen, Carl Olson, John Sinclair, Nelson Tibbets, Theodore Wright.

SPORT NOTES

The Jumbos look forward to the annual Bowdoin football games much as the Polar Bears look forward to the Maine game. It will be a warlike, fighting eleven that will travel to Brunswick for the game Saturday.

Jack Magee has been doing a fine job as trainer for the Varsity. The team is in the best of shape. Training and condition makes all the difference between winning and losing teams.

Scott Smoker

(Continued from Page 1)

the men were green. He told of nights of horror in hospitals where he went to comfort the dying, and of scenes of trust and comradeship in his contacts with men wounded or overwrought in spirit.

All through Canon Scott's intimate discourse one felt the quiet strength of a brave, modest personality and a sincere faith. Even with his own sons lost in the war, he clung to the ideal that hate should never be used as a personal force. And when the call "Cease firing!" thrilled along the lines of both armies, this man came out unshaken in his faith and stronger than ever in his belief in the Christian teaching of charity to all men.

Marion L. L. Short Thrills
Spectators With Air Stunts

Marion L. L. Short '32, entertained the spectators at the Bowdoin-Williams football game Saturday with an exhibition of air stunts. Short, who is a qualified flier, keeps his plane at the Portland air port. Saturday he came to Brunswick, arriving over the field between the halves of the game and for fifteen minutes thrilled the spectators with his many stunts.

DICTIONARY OF
CHEMICAL EQUATIONS

Contains twelve thousand completed and balanced equations, classified and arranged for ready reference. It is no more difficult to find a desired equation in this book than it is to find a word in the Standard Dictionary.

F. W. Chandler & Son

CUMBERLAND

Friday - October 17

-VAUDEVILLE-

- on the screen -
ROAD TO PARADISE
- with -

Loretta Young - Jack Mulhall
Also Paramount News

Saturday - October 18th

MEN OF THE NORTH

- with -
GILBERT ROLAND
Also Short Subjects

Mon. - Tues. - Oct. 20th-21st

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT

The Smashing War Story by Eric Maria Remarque
Also Paramount News

Wednesday - October 22nd

MILTON SILLS

- with -

THE SEA WOLF

Also Comedy and Sportlight

SPECIAL ATTRACTION

Two Minutes to Go

by Knute Rockne

Thursday - October 23rd

THOSE THREE FRENCH GIRLS

- with -

Fifé Dorsay - Reginald Denny

Also Short Subjects

"Promises fill no sack"—
it is TASTE and not words you enjoy in a smoke

milder
and better taste

ONE will always stand out!

-SPORTS-

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?
Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS and GROCERIES

Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —

Send Your Washing to the

CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

PRINTING . . .

of all kinds handled efficiently and promptly at the office of The Brunswick Record.

Modern machinery and
competent workmen.
Estimates and samples
cheerfully furnished.

QUALITY
ALWAYS.

Brunswick Publishing Company

Cor. Maine and Dunlap Streets
Telephone Brunswick No. 3

Sid Foster who with "Jit" Ricker were the big guns of the Bowdoin offensive is seen breaking away from Captain Langmaid (No. 10) to freely dash on his way until halted some 15 yards further down the field by Fowle, the Williams safety man.

Sid Foster, consistent Bowdoin ground gainer, cutting back through a beautifully opened hole at right tackle to reel off a substantial gain before being hauled down to earth by a Williams secondary defense man. (Courtesy of Portland Sunday Telegram)

SPORTSMAN'S PEN

It has been twenty-six years since a Bowdoin eleven has defeated a college opponent by a score equalling the 45-0 debacle of a week ago Saturday. The victim was the Colby Mule at the bottom of a 52-0 avalanche. In 1919 Bowdoin won from a Fort McKinley team 73-0.

The great trek of alumni has started and will increase as the weeks pass until the climax is reached at the Maine game. Of late years Bowdoin grads have had to go in mourning in the fall. It has been a long time since the ticket takers at Whittier field have earned their pay.

Pre-game carousing seems to be in order at Bowdoin. Despite the fact that such celebrations as we refer to are perfectly assinine and smack of a rather detestable collegiatism, as the French said in 1789, "it will go on." The chief objection to this practice is that it seriously interferes with the night-before rest of the football men. The undergraduates and alumni will do well to celebrate, if they must, after the game.

We hardly dare speak of injuries for fear that we may share the same fate as our opponents. Mass. Aggies was riddled with injuries before the season started. Williams lacked the services of its captain, Langmaid, because of a foot injury. From Colby comes news daily of new casualties. Let us hope that the long training season will protect us from such an end.

Now that we have a team which is a credit to the college, how long will it be before we rid ourselves of the bad "breaks" which seem ever to be ours.

Fowle, the Williams quarterback who ruined Bowdoin supporters' hope of at least a one point victory, seems to be made of "hero" stuff. Last year after a Williams back had run 37 yards to a touchdown in the final minute of the Union game, Mr. Fowle stepped calmly out to boot the goal that gave the Purple a tie. Incidentally, the Williams spectators were considerably surprised to see the "hero" allowed to make the try for point last Saturday, since his efforts during the previous week's practice sessions resulted mostly in failure.

Although post-mortems are as obnoxious here as elsewhere we cannot refrain from mentioning four leaf clovers and the fact that Columbia is the only team to have defeated a Williams eleven in the last three seasons.

Williams—Bowdoin

(Continued from Page 1)

brought down on Bowdoin's thirty-six yard line.

Second Period

Ricker made a yard and a half through left guard.
Ricker lost a yard around left end.
Foster made four yards through right tackle, being stopped by Tuttle.
Ricker punted to Markowski, who came twenty-five yards to the Williams thirty-nine yard line.
Morrell came in fast and stopped Tuttle at left end for a loss of two yards.
Fowle threw a forward to Good, who carried it six more yards for a total gain of eight.

Langmaid made a yard and a half through center.
Olson stopped Fowle with a gain of two yards at right tackle.
Milliken stopped Fowle for a one yard gain at left tackle.
Fowle threw a forward over Langmaid's head.

Langmaid and Good worked a lateral around left end. The latter picked up the ball on the bounce, but under the new ruling it was called complete for a gain of thirteen yards.
Foster batted down a forward from Markowski, who had been sent in to pass, to Reynolds.

Another Markowski-Reynolds pass was wild, and Williams was penalized five yards.
Fowle threw another wild pass, and Williams was penalized five yards more.
Foster made three yards at right tackle.
Foster threw a forward to Crimmins, who caught it, but fell out of bounds.

Ricker swept around left end for a gain of a yard, the tackle being made by Good.
Ricker punted to Markowski, who came back eleven yards to the Williams twenty-four yard line.
Crimmins made the tackle.
Markowski completed a forward to Tuttle, who was stopped dead for a gain of fifteen yards.

Markowski failed to complete a forward to Corneale.
Markowski threw a forward to Fowle on Bowdoin's forty-four yard line—gain, seven yards, as the half ended.

Third Period

Fowle kicked off to Morrell who came back sixteen yards to Bowdoin's thirty-four yard line.
Foster made three yards off right tackle.
Ricker made four yards around left end.
Ricker made four yards around right end.
Morrell made a yard and a half through center.

Foster's attempted forward pass was intercepted by Markowski on the Williams thirty-two yard line.
Markowski made seven yards around right end.
Good was stopped by Brown for a yard gain.

at right tackle.
Brown again stopped Good at right tackle, this time after a two yard gain.
Crimmins threw Markowski for a loss of a yard at left end.

Eynon caught Markowski's forward at his very finger-tips and then made another yard for a total gain of three.
Good made four yards through center.
Good punted very poorly, the ball going out on the Bowdoin forty-six yard line.

Foster made a yard off right tackle. Thayer making the tackle to Markowski, who was in a beautiful flying tackle.
Ricker was stopped for no gain at left end.
Ricker made a yard through center.
Ricker was stopped by Southern in a beautiful flying tackle.

Ecke threw Markowski for no gain on a mass play at right guard.
Markowski made six yards around right end.
Eynon was stopped short by Ecke at left tackle.

Good made another poor punt, the ball going out on the Bowdoin forty-nine yard line.
Ricker threw a forward to Foster for a gain of four yards off right tackle.
Foster made two yards around right end.

Foster threw a forward pass to Ricker, who made six yards more for a total gain of thirteen yards.
Foster lost five yards on a right end sweep.
Foster threw a forward to Foster for a gain of a yard.

Ricker lost four yards on an attempted spinner.
Foster's forward pass was intercepted by Fowle who came back four yards to the Williams twenty-five yard line.
Markowski made no gain at left tackle, being stopped by Blodgett.

Blodgett again broke up the play, stopping Brown for a gain of two yards.
Morrell broke through and threw Corneale for a loss of three yards.
Fowle punted to Ricker, who was stopped dead on Bowdoin's forty-five yard line.

Foster was stopped by Tuttle from behind after a six-yard back through right tackle.
Brown made nine yards through the same hole.
Ricker was stopped at left tackle, and Bowdoin was penalized fifteen yards for holding.

Foster threw a forward pass to Southern, who made five yards more for a total gain of five yards.
Foster lost a yard at left tackle as Corneale stopped him.
Foster's forward pass was intercepted by Eynon on the thirty-one yard line.

Markowski was stopped at center.
Ecke threw Corneale for a loss of a yard at left tackle.
Good punted to Ricker, who came back ten yards to the Williams forty-five yard line.

was incomplete.
Bowdoin was penalized five yards.
Fowle made ten yards through right tackle.
Southern stopped Markowski dead at right end.

forward pass from Markowski to Corneale made six yards, but was ruled incomplete as Corneale had stepped out of bounds.
Williams twenty-six yard line.
Brown made two and one-half yards at left guard.

Foster was stopped at right tackle.
Ricker made three yards through left tackle.
Tuttle punted, and the ball went out on the Williams twenty-six yard line.
Markowski made eight yards through left tackle.

Markowski made five yards through right tackle.
Plaid interrupted a forward thrown to Fowle by Markowski on the Williams forty-four yard line.
A forward pass from Ricker to Southern was incomplete.

Ricker started to skirt left end, but Thayer broke through and threw him for a loss of six yards.
Ricker was stopped dead at left end.
Ricker punted to Markowski, who was driven out by Crimmins on the Williams twenty-two yard line after a gain of three yards.

Markowski made two and one-half yards through right tackle.
Tuttle was stopped dead at right tackle.
Langmaid made five yards through left tackle.

Good punted to Ricker, who came back a yard to Bowdoin's thirty-five yard line, but Bowdoin had been offside on the play and was penalized five yards.
Bowdoin took time out.

Markowski threw a wild forward pass.
Fowle threw a wild forward over left end.
Tuttle made six yards through left tackle.
Tuttle made four yards through right tackle.

Fowle made four yards through left tackle.
Markowski made four yards through right tackle.
A forward pass from Fowle to Tuttle with an added gain of one yard made eleven yards.
Fowle was stopped dead at right tackle.

Fowle's attempted forward pass to an end was incomplete.
A lateral pass from Markowski to Fowle was completed for a gain of four yards.
Fowle threw a wild forward over left end.
Plaid batted it down, and it fell directly into the hands of Tuttle. The ball was now on Bowdoin's four yard line.

Tuttle was thrown for a yard loss off right tackle.
Fowle made three yards through right tackle.
Corneale went through left tackle for what was barely a touchdown.
Fowle dropped-kicked the point tying the score.
Tuttle deliberately kicked a slow roller to a Bowdoin lineman, who was immediately mothered by six Williams tacklers.
Gatchell lined Bowdoin up, and started the signals, but the game ended before play started.

INTER-FRAT ROAD RACE ON OCTOBER 23

Magee's Long Distance Men Out to Bring Home Bacon
in Annual Competition

Interfraternity track competition gets underway this year on October 23, the date of the annual road race. Following this event is the Interfraternity Outdoor Meet and the competition for the Ives Trophy.

The road race will be conducted in the same manner as in previous years. A minimum of five men is required to constitute a fraternity team and the first quintet to finish for each house will be reckoned in the scoring. The customary three mile course will be followed.

Last fall seventy-eight men started the race and seventy-two found their way to the finish line at Whittier Field. Nearly as large a squad of starters is entered for this year's race. Many are conditioning with cross country work daily and by the twenty-third should be capable of turning in some fast times.

For the past two years fraternity honors have gone to Psi Upsilon, Lambda, Sewall, Usher and Cobb look like safe bets for individual honors this year.

M. A. C. Game Statistics

Bowdoin	M. A. C.
First downs 15	8
Yardage from scrimmage 476	125
Yardage lost in scrimmage 31	31
Forward passes—
Attempted 7	10
Completed 5	2
Yardage 36	12
	(+16) (+8)
Punts 5	5
Yardage 144	144
Avg. yardage 40	36
Fumbles 6	1
Recovered 4	1
Penalized 15	30
Kick-offs 38	50
Averaged 55	32
Run-back of 55	32

Tufts Game

(Continued from Page 1)

which was led by the famous "Fish" Ellis. Clayman, flashy sophomore quarterback, is said to be the equal of Ellis at the same stage of development while Haber, halfback, and LeCain, fullback, are both veterans of last year. The line also contains four veterans while the other men are from last year's second team or from freshmen. The Jumbos showed considerable power against Colby and had threatened to duplicate their early score in the closing minutes of the game.

The Polar Bears showed a marked improvement last Saturday over the Mass. Aggies game and gave promise of making it hot for their remaining opponents. While a weakness against an aerial attack cropped up, the play on both offense and defense was a treat to watch. The White line which was not too strong against the Aggies time and again piled up the mountainous Purple forage heaped to fall in the final minutes as the White tried gallantly to make a goal-line stand that would save them the victory. Tufts substitutes may play an important part in the game Saturday. The forward wall of the Jumbos, however, is not so heavy as that of Williams, and with a continuation of their aggressiveness of last week, the Bowdoin linemen should give a good account of themselves.

Ricker and Foster will probably come in for lots of attention from the Tufts tacklers after their sparkling play of the first two games. Gatchell was probably remain at quarter with Lloyd-Morrell or Morris Brown starting at fullback. The line is expected to be the same as started against Williams last Saturday.

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative

PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity Trade

574 Congress Street

Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

SOULE'S BARBER SHOP

For First Class Haircutting

Near Campus - Two Expert Barbers

Varney's Jewelry Store

Watch Repairing

By An Experienced Watchmaker

Shaffer Pains for College Men

103 MAIN STREET

"FRANCIS"

"The College Jeweler"

Diamonds and Watches

Fine Repairing and Engraving

141A MAINE STREET

SHORT ELECTED GYM

TEAM CAPTAIN AT

FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the gym team was held last Thursday in Mr. Cobb's office at the gymnasium. Only three men were lost last June by graduation. Those returning are Short, Bowman, Colton, Artinian, Bradt, Clarke T. L., Davies, Desjardins, Eaton, Jackson, Thomas, Watson, and Whittier. Nearly all of these men were present Thursday afternoon. R. W. Dana, after two years' absence, is back. Cabot and Bennett, freshmen, are also on the roll.

R. H. Morrell, athletic director; R. H. Cobb, gymnasium director; T. Means, coach of the gym team; M. L. Short, captain; and D. F. Brown, manager; are the officials of the Bowdoin gym team for the year 1930-1931. As last year Colby, Christian, and Short made their "B.G.T." and Colton made his "B", the team is looking forward to a very successful season.

Thursday Prof. Means made temporary assignments to the men according to their ability and inclination. He also discussed the tentative schedule which is as follows:

December—Exhibition, Bridgton
December—Exhibition, Fryeburg
Jan. 10—Contest, Army
Jan.—Exhibition, Augusta
Feb. 21—Contest, Harvard (Home)
Feb. 28—Contest, Dartmouth (Home)
Mar. 7—Contest, Tech.
Mar. 14—Contest, Springfield
Mar. 21—Contest, Inter-Collegiate Apr.—Contest, New Eng. Junior (Springfield)
Apr.—Contest, New Eng. Senior (Tech)

Williams Game

(Continued from Page 1)

It was a silent, dumbfounded crowd that drifted off Whittier. The Bowdoin supporters felt they had deserved an honest win, and no nebulous moral victory. The Purple's performance during the entire contest hardly merited the sudden turn of the tide of fortune.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Register your opinion in Orient Chapel poll

Back the team at Colby Saturday

VOL. LX. WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1930. NO. 12

BOWDOIN FACES COLBY MULE IN SERIES OPENER

Followers of Polar Bears Hopeful as Game Approaches

WHITE UNDEFEATED

Outcome Uncertain in Spite of Paper Superiority of Bowdoin Outfit—Donovan and Johnstone Powerful Colby Threats

In the dying moments of the Tufts game in 1929, a little knot of Bowdoin players on the big oval at Medford suddenly found themselves and began an attack that blazed down the field to within inches of the gates of victory. The same flame has burned through the games of 1930, and on Saturday the White goes undefeated into battle with Colby.

If there is anything in the idea of experience being worth touchdowns, then Tufts against Bowdoin was a touchdown stronger than Tufts against Colby. A little more than a week ago LeCain battered his way over the Colby forwards for the touchdown that meant a 7-0 victory. Which would all seem to bring Bowdoin to an 18-6 favoring.

There are other things to consider. The usual floods of crocodile tears have been shed at Waterville over the number of injured stars, but Colby, always strongly phoenix-like on the eye of the State Series, have this year found their strength in the coming game. And twenty-four hours before his last opportunity to scout Bowdoin, Jimmy Connellan finally came to the stands and joined the Mules. He was in the stands on Saturday.

It may be that Bowdoin had an off day against Tufts. One thing is certain, the defensive will have to be greatly improved before it can stop Wally Donovan, fully as fast and powerful as LeCain. Gatchell and the secondary defense had no small task in plugging the gaps in the line.

As far as aerial attacks are concerned, Williams set up a big question mark. Only four forwards were thrown by Tufts, two of which were wild, one knocked down, and one completed. There is little doubt that this year will see freshmen and scrub backs filling the air at Whittier with passes. The overhead game to scoring should be fairly well closed Saturday.

Everything seems to depend on Bowdoin's ability to shake Foster and Ricker loose in the secondary defense. A seventy-five yard run for a touchdown by one of them would solve in a good measure the bruises of last year. And while Colby watches Ricker and Foster, Morrill and Brown will be tearing the line apart.

To date, Bowdoin has unleashed practically nothing starting in the way of attacking formations. The wool

(Continued on Page 4)

QUILT TO ENTER ITS SECOND YEAR OF REJUVENATION

Board Plans November 15 Appearance of First Issue for the Current Season

The rejuvenated Quilt will begin its second year under its new editorial policy with an issue about the fifteenth of November, according to a statement made yesterday by Fred Rawlings Kleibacker, Jr., '31, the editor-in-chief.

Although the format and general plan of the quarterly will be similar to the issues of last year, there will be a marked change in the cover which will be of cream colored vellum or semi-parchment with black printing. The editorial policy instituted last year will be continued. The columns will again be open to distinguished contributions from those outside the college as well as undergraduates. Among the notable names in the numbers of last year were:

(Continued on page 3)

FIVE FRATERNITIES HAVE TEA DANCES AFTER TUFTS GAME

On Saturday, October 18, after the football game with Tufts College, several fraternities held tea dances. Theta Delta Chi's music was furnished by the Arcadians while the Polar Bears played for Delta Upsilon, Joe Roman and his orchestra were the musicians at Alpha Delta Phi house and the Georgians at the Alpha Tau Omega. Kappa Sigma had Trafton's orchestra playing during their dance.

The patron and the patronesses at the Delta Chi were Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Hammond and Mrs. Wilmet Mitchell, while at Delta Upsilon they were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Means and Mrs. Joseph Stetson. Mrs. Charles H. Gray and Mrs. Boyd W. Bartlett were the patronesses at the Kappa Sigma House and at the Alpha Delta Phi house, Mrs. Charles Burnett and Mrs. J. Winchell were patronesses. At the dance given by Alpha Tau Omega Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bathrick were the patron and patroness. These dances were all held at the respective chapter houses immediately after the game.

ACTIVE SEASON FOR BOWDOIN DEBATERS

Heavy Schedule to Include Several Trips and a Number of Debates Here; Interscholastic Debating League to be Continued

The Debating Council held its first meeting this year in the Debating Room of Hubbard Hall, last Wednesday afternoon. The time was given over to a discussion of the plans for the forthcoming year.

The Council is planning to hold several debates at Brunswick, this winter, including one with Amherst and another with the University of California, whose team will stop here on its Eastern tour. Our team will journey to Medford, Mass., where it will start on a trip that may extend into the Middle West. On this tour it will debate with several colleges, including Union at Schenectady. Last year in competition with colleges like Hamilton, Union, Amherst, and Syracuse, the team won six out of its seven contests.

The Interscholastic Debating League will be continued this year. The league is composed of a number of accredited Maine high schools competing each year for a cup given by Bowdoin. The purpose of the league is to arouse interest in debating and in Bowdoin among the high school students of Maine. This year plans are being made to enlarge the league. Invitations to participate in the contest and a choice of debatable questions of current interest are being sent to over one hundred and fifty high schools in the state. The preliminary rounds of the contest will be held in the earlier part of December and the final rounds will come after the Christmas vacation. Albert S. Davis, '33, the assistant manager of the debating team, is in charge. The Council decided to hold an end meeting of men interested in debating. At this conference, which was held yesterday, October 21, at Hubbard Hall, a topic for the annual Freshman-Sophomore debate was chosen.

The Debating Council is an organization composed of men who have participated in intercollegiate or interclass debates. The president is Paul A. Walker '31. The manager of the debating team is Donald F. Prince '31 and the assistant manager Albert S. Davis '33. The other members of the Council are J. C. Flint, S. Jenkins, A. Richmond, B. R. Shute, W. M. True, of the senior class; G. B. Pottle, L. Smith, and A. W. Tarbell of the junior class; and G. Desjardins and G. P. Towle of the sophomore class.

CALENDAR

Thursday, October 23: Inter-Fraternity Road Race.
Saturday, October 25: Football: Colby at Waterville.
Thursday, October 30: President Sills and Professor Mitchell attend meeting of the Association of New England Colleges at Tufts.
Friday, October 31: Freshman Football, Fryeburg Academy at Brunswick.

HOOR EXAM SCHEDULE

October 23
English 1
History 17
October 28
Psychology 3
French 3
Economics 1
October 29
Philosophy 1
Mathematics 1
October 30
English 15a
Government 1

JULIAN HUXLEY FAMOUS WRITER TO SPEAK HERE

"Development, Heredity, and Evolution" Subject of Lecture

AMERICAN DEBUT

Renowned Scientist Appearing Here November 5 Has Contributed Much in Recent Discoveries

Professor Julian Huxley, world-renowned biologist and writer of King's College, London, will deliver an illustrated lecture on the subject "Development, Heredity and Evolution," Wednesday, Nov. 5. If completed, Memorial Hall will be available for the talk.

Since the recent discoveries in the field of science by Prof. Huxley and his colleagues are of utmost importance today, particularly in regard to the future of the human race, a more opportune topic could hardly be chosen. It is said, however, that Huxley's method of presentation appeals to the general as well as scientific audiences.

This is the scientist's debut as a lecturer in the American field, he having recently returned from a four months' sojourn in East Africa where he undertook work on behalf of the British Colonial Advisory Committee on Native Education.

Prof. Huxley's talk deals primarily with a comparison of the relative growth of parts of the body. He will explain in detail the effect heredity exerts upon development, as well as the bearing these facts have upon various aspects of evolution.

(Continued on Page 3)

E. A. THOMPSON '91 HERE IN READING OF "CAPONSACCHI"

Blind Dramatic Reader Charms Enthusiastic Bowdoin Audience

Last night Mr. Edward Abner Thompson of the class of 1891 appeared before a Bowdoin audience in a reading of the play "Caponsacchi," at the Moulton Union. His presentation this year was received with much enthusiasm by a large gathering, many of whom heard an equally finished performance of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" by Mr. Thompson at Bowdoin two years ago. The play "Caponsacchi," written by Goodrich and Palmer and based on Robert Browning's dramatic poem "The Ring and the Book" was awarded a gold medal by the Theatre Guild as the best play of the year in which it was produced. Mr. Thompson's interpretation showed careful study of meaning and a fine sense of dramatic values.

Mr. Thompson attended the Franklin Family School in Topham and later graduated from Bowdoin in 1891 after a college career of distinction both in the classroom and on the athletic field. Shortly after he graduated Mr. Thompson was struck by a tennis ball and has been blind ever since. In 1928 the College, in recognition of his achievement, conferred an honorary master's degree upon him. At that time President Sills said of Mr. Thompson:

"Edward Abner Thompson of the class of 1891, teacher in various schools and colleges of oratory and dramatic reading and himself an admirable exponent of the art he teaches; physically blind, he has substantial vision and he has been to

(Continued on page 3)

POWERFUL SPEAKER POINTS TO CONTRAST

"Dynamite or Morphine?" Subject of Incisive Talk by Rev. F. J. Neal in Chapel Last Sunday

The original Greek of a New Testament verse shows a contrast between two words. From one word the English word "morphine" is derived; from the other, "dynamite." These two words, morphine and dynamite, formed the text of the chapel sermon preached last Sunday by the Rev. F. J. Neal on the St. Lawrence Congregational Church, Portland.

In the second epistle of the Apostle Paul to his pupil Timothy, the third chapter, the fifth verse, are these words, "Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." If we were to consult the original Greek, we would find that there is much more contrast. Are there any two words that contrast more than morphine and dynamite? Each of these English words is derived from a Greek word found in the passage quoted above. We have religion that contrasts in the same way. On one hand we have that like morphine, a drug, which stupefies; on the other hand we have dynamic religion throbbing with life and power. Here we have opiate; there, opportunity. We can choose the drug, or we can choose the dynamite. Blind believing of what one hears results in tragic deception. Nowadays too many judge rather by form than by actual power. Study Christ thoroughly, and study him sincerely. You will find that he never appeals to the secondary. He appeals to the primary.

(Continued on Page 3)

LAUGHTON LECTURE FEATURES HISTORY OF OLD CHATEAUX

Architecture and Social Standards of Medieval France Described with Lantern Slides

Before a large gathering in the lounge of the Moulton Union last Thursday evening Miss Marie Ware Laughton, of Boston, gave a pleasing informal lecture on the Chateaux of Old Touraine.

Miss Laughton, who has travelled extensively in France and has visited and studied most of its principal spots of interest, began her talk with a brief summary of the origin and history of the chateaux in general. Most of the old chateaux, she explained, were built over the remains of the Roman fortresses which were left open to pillage and plunder when Rome finally lost control of what was then called Gaul. Successive barons and feudal lords, as they acquired the various chateaux, would alter and add to the building originally there, until the chateaux became veritable towns in themselves, each having its own artisans and small army. Many still bear the marks of battles which took place hundreds of years ago. But, upon the advent of cannons and gun powder, the chateaux became useless as forts and gradually were developed into magnificent residences. The Renaissance, with its ornate carving, painting, and weaving, all imposed upon the original massive background of the chateaux, made them doubly majestic.

The Court of France, Miss Laughton explained, moved continually from one chateau to another and throughout the Touraine district were many estates which at one time or another had entertained the royal assemblage.

Miss Laughton, aided by lantern slides, took her audience on an imaginary journey down the River Loire, which flows through central France. Views of the Chateau de Blois were

(Continued on Page 3)

Bowdoin Triumphs Over Tufts In Close Game At Whittier Field Saturday

Jumbos Threaten Polar Bear Defensive Throughout Uncertain Game Fraught With Thrills and Surprises

FIRST VICTORY OVER TUFTS SINCE 1925

For the first time since 1925 when Tufts went down before the White 14-7 at Medford, a Bowdoin team that at times appeared bewildered defeated the Jumbos by a 19-14 score in a game that seasawed back and forth from the opening minutes almost to the final whistle. Bowdoin, apparently suffering from the battering it received last week from Williams and from lack of practice due to the weather, at times looked woefully weak especially when on the defensive, and only the brilliant running of Sid Foster enabled the Polar Bear to preserve its clean record.

BOWDOIN - TUFTS Statistics

	Bowdoin	Tufts
First Downs	10	12
Gained from scrimmage	209	185
Lost from scrimmage	36	15
Forward passes	1	4
Completed	0	1
Yardage	0	10
Intercepted enemy forwards	0	0
Fumbles	3	6
Recovered	1	0
Penalized	25	65
Punts	7	3
Punts, total yardage	161	99
Punts, average yardage	23	33
Run-back of, total yardage	5	4
Kick-offs	4	4
Total	212	194
Averaged	53	49
Run-back of, total	42	93
Lateral passes	0	1
Attempted	0	1
Completed	0	0
Yardage gained	0	0
Yardage lost	0	2
Total net gain	568	503

Tufts presented one of those "now you see it, now you don't" offenses with even the spectators at times having difficulty to keep the ball in sight. The ancient spinner play, outworn but still able to reap yardage, was the greatest groundgainer of the Jumbos repertoire and time and time again the Bowdoin linemen would charge in to nab backs that were seemingly bound for end or off tackle runs only to see LeCain sneak through right or left guard to journey deep into the secondary defense territory. At times the Jumbo backs would vary the play by really giving it to Haber or Clayman for an off tackle shoot or an end run, but it was the sneak through the middle of the Bowdoin line that was the greatest groundgainer for the Jumbos.

Foster and LeCain Outstanding
As usual, the stands were thickly populated with enemy scouts and Bowser chose to play his usual cage game in allowing them to see as little as possible. The Polar Bears tried only one pass and this was not completed. Tufts backs swimming in hordes over Sid Foster before he could get the ball away. Foster it was who scored all three of the White touchdowns and brought fear into the hearts of the Tufts rooters every time he took the ball. The brilliant Bowdoin back turned in a fine performance and was the big gun in the Bowdoin attack as well as doing his share to back up the line when the Tufts backs leaked through.

As Foster was the shining light in the Bowdoin offensive so did LeCain shine almost as much for the Jumbos. He scored both of the losers' touchdowns and continually smashed the line to reel off substantial gains.

Tufts Scores
Tufts started the game looking like a veritable whirlwind when Clayman and LeCain figured in a march which started at the Bowdoin 44-yard marker and ended behind the goal line. Ricker had received the kickoff and advanced it seven yards to the White 21-yard line. After Bowdoin had failed to make a first down from that point Ricker, attempting to punt was hurried and his kick rolled out of bounds at the White 44-yard line. Clayman and LeCain next advanced the ball to the Bowdoin 15 and on the next play the former, sweeping

(Continued on page 4)

Compulsory Chapel Yes or No?

In accordance with the announcement made last week, the Orient is conducting a poll on compulsory chapel services. We are making an special appeal, at this time, that everyone vote in this poll. We are very anxious that the results will give us the opinion of the student body on this subject which should be of great interest to all. The following men have kindly consented to serve as ballot collectors in the various fraternity houses. Non-Fraternity voters should be left in either of the two Orient Contributors boxes (one is located in the Union entry and the other at the main desk in the Library). Faculty votes may be left in these boxes as well. All votes must be made on the ballot printed in this paper, and must be in the hands of the collectors or, in the Orient boxes by eight o'clock, Sunday evening, October 26.

Ballot Collectors

Alpha Delta Phi—James B. Colton, 2nd
Alpha Tau Omega—Paul A. Walker
Beta Theta Pi—John A. Ricker, Jr.
Chi Psi—Albert S. Davis, Jr.
Delta Kappa Epsilon—Louis C. Stearns, 3rd
Delta Upsilon—G. Russell Booth
Kappa Sigma—Donald E. Merriam Psi Upsilon—Philip C. Ahern
Sigma Nu—David C. Perkins
Theta Delta Chi—Donald F. Prince Zeta Psi—H. Allan Perry

POLL ON COMPULSORY CHAPEL

—I am opposed to the continuance of the compulsory chapel services
—I am in favor of the continuance of the compulsory chapel services
—student —faculty

Foster off on 36 Yard Dash to Score Second of His Three Touchdowns Against Tufts (Courtesy of Sunday Telegram)

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Associate Editors

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31

Contributing Editors

Robert M. McFarland '31
William N. Small '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager
Artine Artinian '31
Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College.
All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday evening preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including postage) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, October 22, 1930.

No. 12

Compulsory Chapel

Last week in this column, we announced that the ORIENT would in this issue conduct a poll on compulsory chapel. In another column, you will find a ballot for use in this poll. We cannot urge you too strongly to make use of this. We must have some definite index of student opinion on this question, an index which we feel will be furnished through the medium of this poll. However, on a subject of such high interest as this, we must demand a ballot for every vote in order that no partisan of the losing cause may be able to insinuate any toying with the results.

We are calling for this vote at this time because we feel that the time has come for a definite reorganization in the chapel system. We may find ourselves practically alone in this opinion, but we feel that we are right in assuming the greater part of the student body and quite a number of the faculty behind us. The poll will prove or disprove this assumption. Compulsory chapel years ago was the correct feature of practically every college. In those days, too, we hear of bustles and of crinolines. Times have changed. We cannot see that abolition of compulsory chapel would indicate any concession to immorality or to an irreligious spirit. That phase of the question, by mutual agreement of all save the more bigoted in our midst, can be ruled out. Admitting, then, the fact that neither religion nor morals is at stake, what is the reason for maintaining this compulsory phase of chapel? A tradition? So was Freshman Flag Rush. So was Rising Night: Traditions are not iron-bound rules, laid down by supernatural powers, and for that reason as constant as Keats's "bright star." And as President Sills himself admits, traditions, when outworn, should be abolished.

The question narrows down, therefore, to the point: Is compulsory chapel becoming outworn? We feel that it is. We look at other institutions, similar in many respects to our own, and talk with members of their undergraduate bodies. We find a growing feeling against this archaic system of compulsory chapel. We find more and more that the number of schools embracing the system is diminishing. Modern tendencies in education have wrought quite a change in the curricular requirements of "the good old days." Modern tendencies in religion have likewise wrought quite a change in the religious ideas and ceremonies of the past. We cannot see that education and intellect have gone down-hill. The teacher who today taught as did those teachers of the Class of 1831 would be laughed at by the modern educators. Was not that method of teaching every whit as much a tradition as our compulsory chapel services?

Ah, but someone rises to point out that we have had a reorganization of our chapel services: musical programs, interesting, profane and semi-humorous talks on such subjects as "Undistinguished Undergraduates", and singing of various college songs. We are quite willing to grant this and to praise the changes made. But the main point has not been met. It has merely been evaded. Why the adjective "compulsory"? It is reminiscent of a musty and mistaken theory of college discipline or of the stringent laws of a prep school. Bowdoin is very liberal in most respects in her discipline; why we cling to a relic like compulsory chapel is puzzling. Are we "asking for the moon" when we ask that this last shred of the absolute discipline be discarded? We do not think so. Bowdoin men, notwithstanding their freedom from strict supervision and proctorship, are on the whole no worse than their fellow-students at institutions where the lock-step method rules: scholastically, athletically, spiritually and socially, Bowdoin is about on a par with any college of her class. Why, then, not go the whole way?

Do we, in consideration of all this, need Compulsory Chapel services. The answer, we feel is "No." Suppose we abolish the custom. Then what? Will our beautiful chapel merely stand empty till it crumbles away? No, let the chapel services still continue — just as they have been conducted so far this year, and the Administration will find that there will still be a use for the chapel. Those of us who went to chapel regularly the first of the year were impressed with one fact: attendance in all the forms was very heavy — as heavy if not heavier in the upperclass forms as it will be later in the year when mornings are chilly and cuts are numerous. These upperclassmen who attended knew very well that their presence was not compulsory, that no penalties were involved if they failed to appear; and yet, the attendance was heavy. Surely, that is a significant fact. It would seem that the compulsory phase of chapel were hardly necessary to insure attendance — and it would also seem, perhaps, that we were creating a tempest in a tea-cup over the whole affair. If students like to go to chapel, why fight about it?

The answer is, that granting the popularity of the chapel services among quite a number of the undergraduates, no one likes to feel that he is obliged to be present. If he can go out of his own volition, if he feels that he is in chapel for his own enjoyment or spiritual uplift instead of to avoid going on "pro" for overcutting

MT. ROCK FLEECE OVERCOATS

have raised themselves far above the ruck of competitive imitation, and into the realm of merited preference for college men — see them around the campus — ask for them at —

The House of Walsh

"Don't Wish - - - - - Walshize"

"prayers", if he can worship God or listen to a talk or some music for ten minutes in company with others who are of the same mind and not trying to be funny or catch up on their French, — if these conditions hold, then and then only can he enjoy the service. The presence of men who are there because they have to be is not exactly conducive to a highly successful chapel service, and the canine element's presence is probably of small help. Why not abolish the rule of the "big stick" and try a period of chapel services that are non-compulsory?

In connection with a program of non-compulsory chapel services, we should also advocate a change in the time. By starting the first two periods ten minutes earlier, and setting the time of chapel between the second and third periods, we feel that a larger and more interested audience would be secured. This, however, is a minor consideration, and is something to be settled after the major issue: whether or not the chapel services should be compulsory. We feel that the compulsory phase should be discarded as outworn and unnecessary, and should the undergraduates, through this poll, give us support in this stand, we should like the Administration to present our views to the proper authorities.

Communication

Editor, Bowdoin Orient,
Brunswick, Maine.

Dear Sir:

You may be interested in knowing that the progress of the Bowdoin team is being followed with interest not only in New England but also in other parts of the country. The attached clipping was taken from the Post Standard of Syracuse, N. Y., and is a comment made by George A. Ahern, the Sport Editor.

I hope the future comments may be as satisfactory and the team continues with its success.

Sincerely yours,
SANFORD B. COUSINS,
Bowdoin 1920.

It was Booth, Booth and more Booth at New Haven but it appears that Harry Mehre's Georgians don't read the papers. . . . And if they do they don't believe everything they read. . . . Please notice that Williams tied Bowdoin, not Bowdoin tied Williams. . . . Charley Bowser is making progress. . . . Carnegie proved it has the man-power. . . . The Tartans may later prove too much for Notre Dame. . . . Brown did as expected and without uncovering much until late and then only for a flash. . . . Gettysburg is not to be laughed at. . . . Oklahoma husked the Cornhuskers, 20 to 7. . . . Howard Jones better get somebody to teach those Trojans how to get that extra point. . . . Washington State's victory is one of several that have gone against the Trojans that way. . . . Notre Dame has collected a couple by converting the try. . . . If Michigan is better than Purdue and Michigan State can hold Michigan scoreless, how much work will Colgate have to do to Laning this week? The answer is all it is capable of. . . . Fordham and Boston College, idle Saturday, tear into each other today at Boston. . . . Bruden has smallpox and Northeastern dogs Ohio State, 19 to 2. . . . If Bruden will not go and get himself a half dozen other ailments the Wildcats will walk into that Big Ten title.

DEVOTION TO DUTY IS URGED BY DEAN

Choice Between Pleasure and Duty Is Important Question Before Every College Student

Pleasure or duty, the choice between two highways of life, was the keynote of Dean Nixon's brief but pointed talk in chapel Saturday morning in which he applied the mythical "Choice of Hercules" to the college man possessing all the opportunities of the present day.

He cited a story from mythology in which Hercules encountered two women, Pleasure and Duty, who tried to bribe him with gifts. Hercules, although not commonly considered an example of the strictest piety, chose Duty and ever afterwards strove to obey her commands.

The question of such a choice is before every student but by the time that he reaches the college age each one should have resolved upon his course. With the opportunities open to students, duty should not be a hard path to follow. We can blend a great amount of recreation with our studies and still be able to cling to our decision.

The final point stressed by Dean Nixon was that humans are not machines, but that each person is a living soul with the power of the Almighty instilled within him. Therefore everyone should spread his personality abroad by living a life devoted to the path of duty.

John Whitcomb, Bowdoin 1925, will act as the Master of Ceremonies on the new Vermont Lumberjack's Program which will be heard each week-day morning over WJZ and a large NBC network.

Mr. Whitcomb, a resident of Ellsworth, has spent much of his life in the lumber camps of Maine, learning the business from the bottom up. He will create a picture of the logging camps with anecdotes of the life he knows, told in the language of the lumberjacks themselves. This is Mr. Whitcomb's first experience in broadcasting.

Mustard and Cress

While roamin' about the wild and wider regions of Medford last Saturday, in the performance of attempting to let people up there know who won the ball game, a Bowdoin student reports having seen an automobile bearing a banner—"For president, Alfred E. Smith." Well, well, what could Professor Means have been doing in Medford?

Speaking of the football game and who isn't, did you, too, have a man sitting behind you who kept putting little diagrams in a note-book?

Topsham Fair has been and gone, and there was nary a freshman went up to bet on Triangle!

Perhaps this needs an explanation, this Triangle. Professor Moody, mathematics professor retired, was supposed to have a fine harness race-horse named Triangle, and the sophomores herded the freshmen to the

THE COLLEGE SPA

Serves Regular Dinners - 40 cents
Come in and Give Us a Try

Get It at the Spa

fairgrounds every fall to bet on some old plug which was named, temporarily, Triangle. Triangle, like a large number of the freshman math students, always flunked out.

Here lies a fullback
Six feet down,
He tried to run
A play through Brown.

Then there's the one of the Policemen who stopped the Baby Austin driver with the words, "Judas, man alive, your car was off the ground—all four wheels were off the road at once."

"Well," says B. A. D., "I've got the hiccups".

There may be funnier things in the world, but it's fairly hilarious to see Professor Little trying, by gestures and crooked fingers, to signal to Professor Bartlett that "Foster, failing to forward pass, was grasped by somebody and thrown for a twenty yard loss."

Well, Colby, Bates, and then Maine. The Chapel bell is sure going to take a beating this year.

The uproar emanating from the Tufts bleachers throughout the game was not the Jumbo cheering section; merely one of Sam Davis's more conservative shirts. One fair damsel mistook said shirt for the sunset. (Note: Davis asked that his name be mentioned at least once in this issue).

Editorial Shavings

Once in a blue moon a good picture comes to Brunswick. On Monday and Tuesday of this week "All Quiet on the Western Front" was run at the Cumberland and provided an occasion. The picture is tremendously powerful and produces an effect which is not readily dismissed. The average theatre goer would not choose to see "All Quiet on the Western Front" twice but he has been too often inveigled into seeing the average tawdry offering a very unhappy one.

We cannot refrain from giving a word of congratulation to Mr. Edward A. Thompson for his very brilliant, dramatic reading last evening. One receives an inspiration from the achievement of Mr. Thompson. His fortitude under one of the most unhappy physical handicaps is remarkable. Bowdoin is always happy to have Mr. Thompson return to give his widely known readings.

This time of the fall is always conducive to a very subtle, but nevertheless real spirit of melancholy. What this is or where it comes from, we do not know. Perhaps it is due to the tendency to look back over the peace and quiet of a pleasant summer, while on the other hand the chill breezes and scurrying breezes make us feel that grim, harsh winter is just around the corner. Then again it may just be the proximity of hour exams.

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

They shut the door on hybrid styles

Quantity production of equipment has long been practiced by the telephone industry. Telephone designers years ago shut the door on many hybrid styles—seeking first to work out instruments which could best transmit the voice, then making these few types in great quantities.

This standardization made possible concentrated study of manufacturing processes, and steady improvement of them. For example, the production of 15,000,000 switchboard lamps a year, all of one type, led to the development of a highly special machine which does in a few minutes what once took an hour.

Manufacturing engineers, with their early start in applying these ideas, have been able to develop methods which in many cases have become industrial models. The opportunity is there!

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF MORE THAN 20,000,000 INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

CORONA SPECIAL TYPEWRITERS

— NEW IN COLORS —

$39.50

Including Carrying Case — (One Year Guarantee)

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Sunday Chapel

(Continued from Page 1)

peals to the primary, the heroic. The noblest lives, the finest temperaments have been those of men who were closely attracted to Jesus Christ. When Garibaldi, the noble patriot and man, appealed to the youth of Italy he told them frankly that as men they would find glory, hardship, difficulty, wounds, and death. In response the flower of Italy's manhood rose to that appeal to the finest that was in them.

David Livingstone, a noble and persevering man, was told before his exploration of South Africa, "I will take you to a place from which you can see the smoke of a thousand villages where Christ has not been heard of." It was a challenge to the finest that was in Livingstone, and he accepted the challenge.

One of the finest pictures I have seen is that familiar one, "The Boyhood of Raleigh." In it one sees the weatherbeaten, browned, old seaman pointing out to the west as he tells his marvelous stories of adventure and heroism. At his feet is the boy, lost in contemplation, his chin in his hands, his elbow on his knee, while his eyes reflect the story. Just as he little realized the adventurous life which lay before him, so it is with followers of Christ. They little know where the path will lead. What if the sturdy fishermen who left their nets and their boats to follow Jesus had been able to look into the future? What if the intrepid forefathers had been able to realize the destiny of the great republic with whose mighty deeds they were to have such a close connection? How little we know where our consecration will lead us. God is often hidden. Morphine or dynamite, religion which is dead or religion which is alive and flaming—which shall we choose? Richard Roberts of Toronto, Canada, in a recent sermon, spoke of radio-active Christians. He was talking of men with radiating power, men who inspire to holy endeavor those with whom they come in contact, men who revive the spirit of the crusades. He was talking of just such a radiant personality as Jesus had. When he climbed the hill to Capernaum, a woman, deceived, tragic, broken, came to him and thought, "If I could touch only the very hem of his robe!" What a strong, virile, radiating personality must have been his! The glowing possibility of consecration is toward the farseeing glory of Christ. Will you take morphine or dynamite, religion that kills or religion that lives, and lifts, and laughs?

AMERICAN ALUMNI COUNCIL TO MEET

Alumni Secretary, Philip S. Wilder, Director of Williams Conference

On October 23 and 24, the American Alumni Council will hold a district conference at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. Mr. Philip S. Wilder, Bowdoin Alumni Secretary, will be the director. The last district conference was held at Brunswick last January 24 and 25.

The American Alumni Council is an association of the men and women in charge of alumni work at the colleges of the United States, Canada and Newfoundland. Among the purposes

BOWDOIN ALUMNI TO ADDRESS STATE TEACHERS MEETING

Smith, Mitchell, and Cobb to be Representatives of Faculty at Bangor Assembly

The meeting of the Maine Teachers' Association will take place at Bangor October 23 and 24, at which several Bowdoin alumni and present members of the faculty will fill prominent places. A combined meeting of the Bowdoin Teachers' Club of Maine and the Penobscot Valley Bowdoin Alumni Association will likewise be held there October 23.

S. L. Merriman '97, principal of the State Normal School, Presque Isle, is a member of the Committee on Legislation of the Maine Teachers' Association. On Thursday afternoon, when the Department of Classics takes charge, Dr. Stanley B. Smith, now Assistant Professor of Classics at Bowdoin, will be chairman. During the course of the afternoon, Mr. Edward Buxton '28, instructor in Latin, Wasscokeag School, Dexter will discuss the subject: "Certain Problems Raised by the New College Entrance Examinations."

The Department of English has as one of its speakers Dr. Wilmot B. Mitchell '90, Professor of Rhetoric and Oratory of Bowdoin College. His subject will be, "Can Rhetoric be Taught to Freshmen? And if so, how?" The Vice Chairman of the Department of Secondary School Principals is Principal Ernest R. Woodbury '95, Thornton Academy, Mr. Harrison C. Lyseth '21, State Agent for Secondary and Corrective Physical Education, will be the speaker on "The Use of the Shadow Graph in Preventive and Corrective Physical Education" will be Mr. Roland Cobb's subject on Friday morning. He was of the Class of '17 and is now Assistant Professor of Physical Training here.

Principal Arthur B. Scott '17, Bath High School, is Vice Chairman of the second group of departmental meetings. Again Mr. Harrison C. Lyseth '21 will speak, this time on "The Edison Contest."

The Department of College Faculty Members has Mr. Philip S. Wilder, '23, Alumni Secretary of Bowdoin College as its Secretary. On Friday October 24, The Elementary and Secondary Teacher-Training Council will have its meeting, Principal W. G. Mallett '91, Farmington Normal School, Farmington, Maine, speaking on "Adjustment of the Supply of, and the Demand for, Thoroughly Qualified Teachers."

On Thursday evening, October 23, the dinner of the combined Bowdoin Teachers' Club of Maine and the Penobscot Valley Bowdoin Alumni Association will take place at the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, Bangor, at 6:00 p.m. The speakers will be President Sills and Professor S. B. Smith, Chairman of the Committee on State of Maine Scholarships.

of this association are the furthering of friendly relations between its members, the interchange of ideas on their common problems, and the stimulating of the individual alumni association.

Quill

(Continued from Page 1)
Arthur Garfield Hayes, Commander Donald B. MacMillan, Robert P. Tristram Coffin, Austin H. MacCormick, and Wilbert Snow.

The Editorial Board for the ensuing year is: F. R. Kleibacker, Jr., '31, J. B. Colton, '2nd, '31, H. L. Smythe, '31, P. C. Ahern, '32, A. S. Davis, Jr., '33, L. T. Steele, '33, and G. D. Briggs, '33. The Business Board will consist of E. Thomas '31, Business Manager, R. M. Lemport, '32, Advertising Manager, and R. L. Heller, '32, D. N. Antonucci, '32, W. H. Lowell, '33, L. C. Stearns, '33, and A. P. Madeira, '33.

Huxley Lecture

(Continued from Page 1)

For a number of years Huxley's articles have been appearing regularly in the leading publications of both England and America. His most recent literary effort is his forthcoming book, "The Science of Life," written in conjunction with the celebrated H. G. Wells.

Professor Huxley is a graduate of Eton and Balliol Colleges, and has been instructed in such institutions as Rice Institute, Texas. He capped his former achievements by his election as president of the National Union of Scientific Workers. For two years he has been Professor of Zoology at King's College.

S. K. Ratcliffe, journalist and lecturer, says of Julian Huxley: "He occupies a unique position among British thinkers and men of science. At the Universities of Oxford and London he has taught a succession of England's young scientists. . . . Alike in the college classroom and before larger audiences his gifts have triumphed. Julian Huxley is the most important of recent recruits to the American lecture platform."

Laughton Lecture

(Continued from Page 1)

shown first. Next, Chambord, with its four hundred and forty rooms and thirteen staircases, and then Chaumont were viewed. The ornate and beautifully tapestried bedroom of Catherine de Medici was the subject of another slide.

Supposedly the oldest of the Chateaux of Touraine is Amboise. It is said that King Arthur was actually at this castle. It was here also that Mary Stuart (later Mary Queen of Scots) with Francis II, her husband, saw the great massacre of the Huguenots for which Catherine de Medici was responsible.

Several views of Tours were shown and commented on by Miss Laughton. Perhaps the most remarkable was that of St. Martin's Tower, centuries old, which a few years ago collapsed in only twenty-four hours. At Tours there are also standing today the ruins of old Greek-style theatres and of aqueducts left by the Romans. Many battles have centered around Tours, the most famous being the one in 732 A.D. when western Europe was saved from Moslem invasion by Charles the Hammer.

One chateau, Miss Laughton said, had originally been built for a place of amusement and as a home. This was the Chateau of Asidero. Once a Roman villa, it now is used as an art museum. This somewhat smaller chateau was perhaps the most beautifully situated of all.

To conclude her lecture, Miss Laughton showed some views of more modern and perhaps more ornate Versailles, for part of which the unfortunate Marie Antoinette bought furnishings which the course of one of the world's bloodiest revolutions prevented her from using. Fontainebleau, the palace of Napoleon was shown also. This is now used as an art museum and school.

Though a few of the old chateaux are still owned by private individuals, most of them belong to the French Government and are kept open for the public as museums and Government buildings.

TOUCH FOOTBALL REPLACES SOCCER AS AUTUMN SPORT

Interfraternity Competition Starts with Games Scheduled for This Week

As an interfraternity sport, soccer is out, and in its place we shall have Touch Football. The first games of the series, between the Kappa Sigma and the Zeta Psi, were to be played Monday but were postponed. The games slated for today at Whittier Field are between the Delta and Delta U, and between the Alpha Delta and the Sigma Nu. After today the schedule published in this issue of the Orient will be carried out as closely as possible. As the schedule is arranged at present, all the fraternities, including the non-fraternity group, are divided into two leagues. League games are to be played through the fall by the different fraternities and the winners of each league are to meet in a final game at the close of the season.

There are a few changes in the ordinary touch football rules, but they will make a big difference in the game. The two most important ones are as follows: A tackle must be a two-handed touch below the belt. It is thought that this will be a great disadvantage to the defensive, but it is somewhat counterbalanced by the second rule. Only one pass per down is allowed, and this must be thrown from behind the scrimmage line. This, as some claim, will slow up the offensive, and will cut down the too frequent use of the aerial game. At any rate, the game should develop some broken-field runners, as stiff-arming is barred. The rules about the forward pass and the two-hand touch are experimental, and if they prove to be practical in the first few games, they will be retained. Members of the Varsity and Freshman squads are not eligible in the interfraternity competition. A complete summary of the rules follows:

Rules for Interfraternity Touch Football

1. Officials: Two men for each game.
2. Field: Regulation size football field.
3. Time: 10 minutes for quarters; 2 minutes between quarters; 5 minutes between halves.
4. Uniforms: No cleats or spikes of any kind allowed.
5. Regular time out: Three for each team for one game.
6. Time out:
 - (a) Grounded pass.
 - (b) Ball outside field.
 - (c) Injury to player.
 - (d) At referee's discretion.
 - (e) Tackle: Two hand touch below belt.
7. Lateral pass at any time.
8. Every man eligible for forwards or laterals.
9. Penalties:
 - (a) Offside: offensive team, loss of down; defensive team, add down.
 - (b) When referee places ball play, must be played within thirty seconds; five yard penalty.
 - (c) Blocker must have both feet on ground, must not get down; five yard penalty.
 - (d) Only one forward pass per down; must be from behind scrimmage line; penalty, loss of down.
 - (e) Forward thrown from beyond scrimmage line is dead from point of throw.
 - (f) Second forward pass on same down; ball is dead from point of throw.
 - (g) Distance to be made on down: twenty yards.
 - (h) No stiff arm by ball carrier; five yard penalty.
 - (i) Interference with receiver of forward pass; goes to opposing team at point of foul.
10. Intramural manager and the committee of the Interfraternity Council are the final court of appeals on all questions.
11. Eligibility: No member of the Varsity or Freshman squad is eligible.

COLLEGE VERSE TO BE PUBLISHED IN HARPER ANTHOLOGY

A new anthology of American college verse will be published in May 1931 by Harper and Brothers, it has been recently announced by the publishers. The book will consist solely of poetry written by students attending college during the 1930-31 college year. It will be edited by Miss Jessie C. Rehder, Randolph-Macon '29 and Columbia University '30.

All students, either undergraduate or graduate attending any college during the current year, are invited to submit poems for inclusion in the anthology. The verses will be selected for publication solely upon their literary merit, it was announced. If the venture is a success it is expected that it may become an annual affair.

The verses may be written upon any subject, but must be limited to fifty lines or less. Students wishing to make contributions should mail their manuscripts to Anthology of College Verse, c/o E. F. Sargent, Harper & Bros., 49 East 33 Street, New York City. All contributions must be in the publishers' hands by December 10, 1930.

A musical program and reception will be given to Dr. and Mrs. Thompson E. Ashby at the First Parish Church, Thursday evening, October 23, at 8 o'clock. All Congregational students are invited.

Donald Webber, Bowdoin cum laude 1927, was admitted to the Maine Bar on the 7th of October.

Protection for at least two

When you travel to Waterville Saturday for that important game with Colby, you won't mind the wintry blasts if you're overcoated in a Harmon Viking. Made in the manner of a polo coat, with an abundance of style and warmth, they're eminently fairly priced at fifty and sixty-five dollars.

Warm Gloves, too, and Socks, and Mufflers.

HARMON'S

MEMORIAL HALL RENOVATION SOON TO BE COMPLETE

Although the details concerning the improvements in Memorial Hall have been rather vague everybody realizes that something is happening. However, the work is progressing rapidly and we shall soon have a much better auditorium.

Practically the entire stage has been removed and a new one has been built in its place. From a comparatively small center stage two low, wide flights of stairs rise to the right and left to slightly elevated secondary platforms. A new acousticon ceiling has been constructed over the entire hall to improve the acoustic qualities.

The panneling has been extended from the top of the former wall seats to the baseboards, and new glass has been placed in the windows. There will be approximately four hundred and fifty stationary, cushioned seats. Examinations will be held in the hall as soon as the work is completed. A fireproof stairway has been built into the north corner of the auditorium to add to its safety and convenience. Corresponding changes have been made on the first floor to provide for an outside exit to this staircase.

All of these changes, along with the repainting that has been done, greatly improve the general appearance of the auditorium.

ALUMNI FUND GOAL OF 1930 EXCEEDED

Total of 411 Contributors Build Up Sum of $11,071.15 in Gifts to Income and Endowment

It is reported in the Alumni Secretary's October Report of the Alumni Fund that the sum of $8,000, which was named as a goal for returns in 1930, was exceeded despite the fact that the percentage of contributors was only fifteen. The percentage of contributing Dartmouth alumni was fifty, and that of some others of the small colleges was between twenty and thirty.

It is believed that too many men feel it necessary to give large amounts; however, if they would give such as from two to five dollars, it would help not only the pecuniary part of the fund but it would raise the number of contributors.

Mr. Wilder commends the work of Dr. George F. Freeman, agent for the class 1890, who secured donations last spring from 70% of his classmates.

Gifts were received from members of classes from 1864 to 1923. The class of 1864 boasts one contributor, while 1890 is the oldest class with a relatively large number having twenty-one donors. The whole number of contributors is 411 whose gifts totalled $11,071.15 of which $8,307.30 went to the income fund and $2,763.85 to endowment.

LINOLEUM PRINTS OF GRADUATES NOW IN BOOKLET FORM

An artistic little booklet of linoleum prints has been prepared for all those who wish to remember the Bowdoin men of the 19th century who became prominent. "Eight Bowdoin Graduates" is the work of Hawthorne Lewis Smyth '31, who made the cuts and Ronald Perkins Bridges '30, who arranged the pamphlet. Nathaniel Hawthorne, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Franklin Pierce, William Pitt Fessenden, Thomas Brackett Reed, Melville Weston Fuller, Oliver Otis Howard and Robert Edwin Peary are pictured. Any one may have a copy by asking at the office.

Thompson Lecture

(Continued from Page 4)

many young persons of our country a source of inspiration and a discriminating literary guide; an outstanding example of the Bowdoin truth expressed in old Phi Chi that "pluck beats luck!"

CUMBERLAND

Friday - October 24th

- VAUDEVILLE -

- on the screen -

BRIGHT LIGHTS

- with -

Dorothy Mackall - Frank Fay

and Noah Beery

Also Paramount News

Saturday - October 25th

COLLEGE LOVERS

- with -

Jack Whiting - Marion Nixon

Also Short Subjects

Mon. - Tues. - Oct. 27-28

FOLLOW THRU

- with -

Charles (Buddy) Rogers and Nancy Carroll

Also News and Short Subjects

Wednesday - October 29

THE FRENCH VERSION OF THE BIG POND

- with -

Maurice Chevalier

Also Short Subjects

Thursday - October 30

WAY FOR A SAILOR

- with -

John Gilbert - Wallace Beery

Also Short Subjects

You can bet your bottom dollar —

They Satisfy

ONE will always stand out!

VOTE OPPOSES TRADITION OF DAILY CHAPEL

Vast Majority of Voters Oppose Compulsory Attendance

FACULTY FAILS TO EXPRESS OPINION

But One House Stands in Support of an Otherwise Soundly Defeated Issue

Compulsory attendance of chapel services was decisively rejected by nearly two-thirds of the college in a test ballot conducted by the Orient last week. Counting of the votes revealed the fact that the college was opposed to the traditional method of required attendance at chapel by a majority of three to one, though the true sentiment is still questionable because of the number of students and faculty failing to vote.

The largest vote was found among the fraternities where 373 votes were recorded. Of this number an overwhelming majority showed preference for voluntary attendance, 289 opposing the present system while 84 favored it. A census of the houses revealed the same sentiment. Of all the fraternities all but one were decisive in rejecting the tradition which has been the order of things for so long in Bowdoin chapel services. Delta Upsilon alone maintained that required presence at these services was necessary to the continuation of this part of college life.

Faculty Fails to Vote
One of the surprising and somewhat discouraging results of the poll was the disinterest of faculty members. Only two votes were recorded from this body from which at least fifty votes had been expected. Although absolutely nothing can be decided about faculty opinion in the matter, the votes recorded were, in opposition to compulsory chapel.

Another weakness in the vote lies in the scarcity of ballots from the non-fraternity men. Of this number only seven votes were shown in turning in their votes. Of this number four were opposed to compulsory attendance and three showed favor toward it. Again the results may be misleading.

Even the returns from the fraternities proved rather disheartening. The average number of men voting in each house was only about thirty-four or five from an average of forty-two men. However this number seems large enough so that we can say that the fraternity vote is representative of the group and that in general fraternity men are predominantly in favor of voluntary attendance. Beta Theta Pi voted unanimously against compulsory chapel attendance, and returned thirty-four men, opposed to it and none in favor of it.

Chi Psi was also strongly opposed to compulsory services. By a vote of twenty-nine to three they expressed criticism of the system as used at

PROF. HORMELL TALKS ABOUT TAXATION AT MANAGERS' DINNER

States That Present System is Great Handicap to Small Towns

Orren C. Hormell, De Alva Stanwood Alexander, professor of Government, declared the system of taxation in Maine towns to be the greatest handicap that the small communities have to face, before the New England City Managers' convention at Hotel Eastland, Portland, last Friday night.

Professor Hormell, a proponent of the city manager system, ascribed the trend toward that to the failure of the obviously antiquated system of town meetings, once so popular in New England; and the degeneracy of finance boards.

In brief Professor-Hormell said: "The unjustifiable inequalities of the burden of taxation resulting from a lack of any intelligent method of determining values is growing rather than diminishing."

"The method of taxation in vogue in this state grew up in the day of

Continued on Page 3

CLASSICAL CLUB MEETS

The Classical Club of Bowdoin will have its first meeting of the current year on Thursday, October 30. This will be held at the Zeta Psi House at seven-thirty in the evening. After the usual business procedure has been terminated the initiation of the new members will take place. Following this, various discussions will be held. One will be on the probable performance of one of the "mimes" of Theocritus. Then a general discussion will be held regarding the various lectureships to be filled this year, after which the type of observance to be made of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Classical Club, will be talked over by the members.

Professor Alfred O. Gross Elected To Fellowship In Am. Ornithologists Union

Professor Alfred O. Gross, Ph.D., who has been a member of the Bowdoin faculty since nineteen twelve, and who is, at present, Professor of Zoology, was elected, at a recent meeting of the Congress of the American Ornithologists Union, to a Fellowship in the association. This honor was given him in recognition of a life of distinguished work in the field of ornithology.

In being singled out for such an honor, Professor Gross attained no small achievement. In the United States and Canada there are only fifty Fellows and one hundred members in the Ornithologists Union while the Associates are unlimited in number.

At the Congress, Dr. Gross presented an illustrated lecture on "The Prairie Chicken in Wisconsin". This lecture is the result of last summer's work in that state.

CHAPEL POLL

Following are the statistical results of the Orient poll on compulsory chapel:

Alpha Delta Phi
Votes Cast 31; For 6; Against 25
Zeta Psi
Votes Cast 33; For 3; Against 24
Chi Psi
Votes Cast 32; For 3; Against 29
Delta Kappa Epsilon
Votes Cast 32; For 8; Against 30
Theta Delta Chi
Votes Cast 32; For 10; Against 22
Delta Upsilon
Votes Cast 40; For 73; Against 17
Kappa Sigma
Votes Cast 31; For 8; Against 23
Beta Theta Pi
Votes Cast 34; For 0; Against 34
Sigma Nu
Votes Cast 41; For 5; Against 36
Alpha Tau Omega
Votes Cast 32; For 6; Against 26
Non-Fraternity
Votes Cast 7; For 3; Against 4
Faculty
Votes Cast 2; For 0; Against 2
Total Faculty and Students 617;
Number Voting 382; Number
Not Voting 235
Percentages
Percentage Voting 62%; Percentage
For 77%; Percentage Against 23%

MEMBERS GLEE CLUB WILL SING IN TOPSHAM LIBRARY CLUB BENEFIT

To Appear Wednesday and Thursday Evenings in
"Aunt Lucia"

Members of the Glee Club are to sing in the comedy "Aunt Lucia", a benefit performance for the Topsham Library Fund, which is to be presented Wednesday and Thursday evenings, October 29 and 30, at the Brunswick Town Hall. However, this appearance will not be a function of the Glee Club as a whole.

Although the Glee Club plans for the year have not been completed, the schedule will probably be similar to that of other years. The club in the past has taken trips which included appearances at New York, Boston, Springfield, and other places not so far away. It also made good showings at several Glee Club contests held at Springfield College. At all its engagements, the Glee Club has always sung before large and appreciative audiences.

If the ability and attitude of the members is any indication to its success, the Glee Club is about to launch upon another successful year.

The Glee Club this year has forty-five members headed by Joseph Kraetzer '31. The managers are Richard Sanger '32 and Richard Mahwinney '33.

The group is divided according to voice ranges into four groups: first tenor, second tenor, first bass, and second bass. Rehearsals are held Tuesday and Thursday afternoons under the direction of Professor Wass of the Music Department.

BOWSER SPEAKS AT PORTLAND LUNCHEON

Coach Bowser at a luncheon given by the Portland Bowdoin Club, in that city, last Wednesday noon warned against an excess of optimism. The superb showing against Williams was largely the result of a determined and unlooked-for opening assault against a team that was greatly overconfident.

"I doubt," said Coach Bowser, "if we will look as good defensively all season as we did last year. We need a less rounded attack from any of our remaining opponents. Tufts gave us a hard ball game and if we were to meet them later in the season I believe that they would be at us, as they had strong tackles, as well as speed and power in the backfield."

Continuing with his resume of past

"The Growler" Independent Humorous Magazine To Appear at House Parties

"The Growler", an independent, humorous magazine, published by students of Bowdoin will make its first appearance shortly before Christmas houseparties according to an announcement last night.

"The Growler" is the first independent publication on this campus in several years as well as being the first attempt at humor by Bowdoin students with the possible exception of the annual "Occident" since the demise of the old "Bowdoin Bearskin". The subscription list started last week with nearly every fraternity house on campus signing up one hundred per cent. Added to this, material being submitted in unexpected quantity and the support received from the student body thus far, seems to insure the success of the magazine.

In the statement issued by the Growler board last night it was stated that the magazine wants any publication in the line of humor and the publication may be a medium for any one registered in the Debating Room of the Union. Short stories, verse, drawings, and jokes are wanted for the magazine and two prizes, the first of $10 and the second of $5 will be

TRIALS FOR FRESHMAN SOPHOMORE DEBATE SCHEDULED FOR NOV. 3

"Resolved That Compulsory Chapel Be Abolished" is Subject

In reply to a notice concerning the Freshman-Sophomore debate, a number of men, most of them freshmen, assembled in the Debating Room at Hubbard Hall, Tuesday evening October 21. The plans of this year's variety team, outlined in the preceding issue of the "Orient", were described by Paul A. Walker, the president of the Debating Council. Mr. Ralph D. S. Childs, the coach of the team, then spoke stressing the interest and value of debating.

The annual Freshman-Sophomore debate, it was announced, will be held on Tuesday, December 9. The topic will be decided upon by the participating teams each of which will consist of three men and an alternate.

Tryouts for positions on the teams will be held next Monday, November 3, at seven o'clock in the Debating Room at Hubbard Hall. The topic for the speeches during the tryouts will be: "Resolved That Compulsory Chapel Be Abolished". The freshmen and sophomores interested in participating in the debate should possibly gain a place on the variety team are requested to prepare five minute speeches on either the affirmative or negative side of the question and to be ready to give a two minute rebuttal. Members of the Sophomore class who are interested in debating but who did not attend Tuesday's meeting are urged particularly to come to the tryouts.

Last year the present sophomore class, as freshmen, defeated the present junior class in the Freshman-Sophomore Debate the topic being "Resolved that the present jury system be abolished."

FACULTY MEMBERS ATTEND ANNUAL TEACHERS' MEETING

"Can Rhetoric Be Taught to Freshmen? And If So How?" is Prof. Mitchell's Subject

A large number of the faculty journeyed to Bangor, Thursday and Friday October 23 and 24 to attend the annual convention of the Maine Teachers' Association. A total of about four thousand teachers from the various schools and colleges of Maine participated in the mass-meetings of the Association. In addition to attending the large gatherings, the teachers, divided into departments according to their type of work, held conferences and discussions in the smaller assembly halls of Bangor. Several members of our faculty took prominent parts in these department meetings.

Professor Wilnot B. Mitchell spoke, at a meeting of the English Department, on "Can Rhetoric Be Taught to Freshmen? And if so, How?" Assistant Professor Herbert R. Brown was elected chairman of this department. At the meeting of the Department of Physical Education, Associate Professor Roland H. Cobb spoke on "The Use of the Shadow Graph in Preventive and Corrective Physical Education". Associate Professor Stanley B. Smith was chairman of the Department of Classics and Mr. Philip S. Foster was secretary of the Department of College Faculty Members.

President Sills speaks
On Tuesday evening a dinner of the Bowdoin Teachers' Club of Maine and the Penobscot Valley Alumni Association was held at the Chamber of Commerce in Bangor. The meeting was presided over by William F. Newman, president of the Alumni Association. Approximately seventy-five alumni were present.

Continued on Page 3

awarded by the Editorial Board for the best two contributions in each issue. Short articles will be limited to 1500 words in length.

All students who show ability by the worth of their contributions will automatically become members of the Board of Editors.

The makeup of the Board is similar to that of the Harvard Lampoon in that all contributions will be judged by the entire Board and the only officers will be a chairman and secretary, both the business and editorial policies.

The members of the temporary Board include: Chairman, Raymond J. Sunkala, Secretary, Richard C. Mullin, Philip C. Ahern, James E. Colton, Albert S. Davis, Frederick C. Dennison, Howard S. Hall, Lawrence C. Jenks, Christy C. Moustakis, George T. Sewall, Donald D. Sloan, William R. Small, Lendall A. Smith, Warren W. Stearns, Lewis T. Steele and Norman von Rosenzweig.

All members of the Board are ready to receive contributions at any time between now and publication and any student who feels he has ability in any line of humor is asked to make "The Growler" his medium.

TEMPERANCE SUBJECT OF PRESIDENT SILL'S SUNDAY CHAPEL TALK

Urges Students to Look on Question in Terms of Moral Welfare

Emphasizing the fact that true temperance is more a matter of moral resistance than of legislation, President Sills addressed the college on the subject "Temperance" in the chapel Sunday afternoon, October 27.

He maintained however that abstinence is not synonymous with temperance although it may easily be an "effective means toward that end."

President Sills stated that temperance is not a question of political opinion but of immediate moral welfare. In proving the value of a real goal to students, he gave the illustration from Marshal Foch, "You can never win war simply by holding the line."

The president directed his address toward drinking among college students and particularly urged temperance in this respect. Picturing the uselessness and danger of this practice, he said that the greater importance of moral rectitude over any legislative action.

"Since the adoption of the prohibition amendment we have heard of comparatively little about temperance. Those people who have been most ardent in support of prohibitory law have certainly given the impression that prohibition is more important than temperance, and that the evils of intemperance can be effectively cured by legislation. On the other hand, prohibitory laws are thinking of more personal liberty and personal indulgence than they are of true temperance."

"It seems to me, then, highly important that in our colleges from time to time attention should be drawn to the necessity of temperance. When all is said and done, we cannot put too much trust in mere law. It is doubtful whether people can ever be legislated into a happy state of morals. We must rely in the future, as in the past, on the training of character, on persuasion, and on the inculcation of proper Christian principles."

Abstinence is Not Temperance

"Now let me say in the first place that there is a very real difference between temperance and abstinence. Temperance, the moderation and con-

Continued on page 3

N. E. COLLEGE ASSOC. TO MEET AT TUFTS THIS WEEK END

Pres. Sills and Prof. Mitchell Will Attend Annual Gathering of Eastern Educators

On Friday and Saturday, of this week, President Sills and one representative from each of the fourteen leading colleges and universities of New England will come together at Tufts to attend the annual meeting of the Association of New England Colleges. President Sills will arrive at Medford from New York where he will have previously visited a session of the College Entrance Examination Board at Columbia University. Professor Wilnot B. Mitchell will be the representative from the faculty. The meeting will be devoted to a discussion of problems which have to do with college life and administration.

Although the subject matter of the conferences is not published, the meetings are of great importance as they are attended by some of the leading educators of the country. Once in every fourteen years the annual sessions of the Association are held at Bowdoin and in past years they have been attended by men famous in the educational world, like President Eliot of Harvard and President Hadley of Yale.

Amplification System To Include Moulton Union, Gymnasium and Chapel

In addition to the amplification system which has worked so successfully at Whittier Field this season, a similar device is now being installed in the Gymnasium, to amplify the voices of speakers at dinners and various other functions. Wires are being run to the lounge of the Union, where a loud-speaker will transmit the speeches which are unable to be present in the Gym. The work is expected to be completed by November 8.

The entire system will include wiring of the chapel, so that during intervals between speakers organ recitals can be heard in the Gymnasium. Mr. Potter, grounds foreman, says: "We are installing permanent wiring in the Whittier Field system, which until now has been only temporary, but there will be no connection between the two installations, as many people would not go to the field if they could hear games in the Union."

STATISTICS OF THE GAME

	B	C
Gained from scrimmage	193	220
Lost from scrimmage	39	19
First downs	9	9
Forward passes	3	0
Completed	0	0
Intercepted	0	1
Runback of intercepted	0	21
Fumbles	9	5
Recovered	6	3
Penalties	15	15
Punts	10	10
Punts, total yardage	206	246
Punts, average yardage	21	25
Punts, runback of, net	0	13
Kickoffs	1	5
Kickoffs, total yardage	54	234
Kickoffs, average yardage	54	47
Runback, total yardage	105	12
Runback, average yardage	21	12
Net yardage gain	504	715

USHER LEADS FIELD IN ANNUAL INTER- FRAT. ROAD RACE

Zetes Capture Shield from Psi U Team Which Comes in Second

Larry Usher led a pack of seventy Interfraternity Road Racers a merry chase last Thursday, and managed to take first place with a very substantial lead. Zeta Psi was the winner, however, taking the shield away from the Psi U's who finished second, for the first time in three years. The Zetes managed to bunch their men and piled up a score of sixty-nine points. Psi U finished second with eighty three.

Sewall and Lavender of Psi U came in neck and neck to tie for second position while Hayes finished up in next position.

Usher ran a good race to the cross roads, making the turn under the record at that place. His final time however was not a new record.

The following list shows the points earned by each house:

Zeta Psi	69
Psi Upsilon	83
Chi Psi	102
Delta Upsilon	105
Delta Kappa Epsilon	113
Kappa Sigma	143
Alpha Delta Phi	167
Alpha Tau Omega	171
Sigma Nu	210
Theta Delta Chi	279
Non-Fraternity	286
Beta Theta Pi	303

Officially no score. Not a full team entered.

FIRST EVENTS OF INTER-FRATERNITY MEET ARE HELD

Three events have been run-off in the Interfraternity track meet at present writing.

The 75 yard dash was won by Stanwood D. K. E. in 8 2-5 while Thistlewaite, Winslow and Johnson followed in order.

Usher won the mile and half. Time 7:40 1-5. Sewall, Pottle and Lavender came in his wake.

Galbraith set a new fall interfraternity record, with a throw of 136 feet. 1 1-2 inches. Vose and Arnold won second and third places.

L'OURS BLANC HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of "L'Ours Blanc" the French Club, was held in the Moulton Union Monday evening, Oct. 27th. Plans for the meetings which will follow were discussed, particularly for the next meeting which is to be held the latter part of next month, and at which time the new members will be taken in. The Membership Committee consists of the following: Warren Winslow, Melcher Fobes and Dwight Andrews. Anyone who is interested in spoken French and who might wish to join the club should submit his name to any of the officers or members of the committee on membership.

MULES BEAT POLAR BEARS IN MUD TILT

Johnstone Slithers Through Bowdoin to Pile Up Big Lead for Colby

FINAL SCORE FINDS WHITE DOWNED 20-7

Lloyd Morrell Leads Invaders' Attack by Great Gains in Line Bucks

"Boy Scouts of Bowdoin through the Dismal Swamps" would be the only fit title for a story of last Saturday's game with Colby. Floundering through a soupy morass of mud the White finally sank for the third time under the terrific line plunges of Johnstone and Donovan, pounds heavier than the Brunswick backfield, and was unable to hold their feet in the slime.

But for the first five minutes of the game, while her backs could still run, while the lighter line was still fresh and opening great gaps off tackle, Bowdoin blasted down to the Colby line once for a score and once again for a lancing threat that bid fair to bring her once again to the championship of Maine and the undefeated ranking.

It is greatly to Bowdoin's credit that they could handle the ball at all under the worst conditions ever seen on a state football field. It was an afternoon of slithering backs and slipping balls, an afternoon when backs slipped without being tackled and went down under geysers of black water, and when linemen came off the field looking like nothing human. "Here's mud in your eye" was the toast of the day.

When Ricker's punt on the second down after the White had received the ball went out on the Colby nineteen yard line, Donovan spun at right tackle, and hurled himself high in the air only to have two linemen smash him flat. He dropped back to smother the punt, and the first break of the day asserted itself when the ball skidded off his toe and went over the sideline without a foot of gain. Ricker crashed at the line for a hole that wasn't there. Then Foster dropped back, swung to the right, skidded over a couple of secondary defense men, and went over for a touchdown. Southern place kicked the extra. A drop-kick would have been impossible, for he lifted the ball out of a sloppy puddle an inch deep. And up in the stands shivering Bowdoin rooters were beginning to yell for a victory that seemed all but certain.

A Colby back took Southern's kick-off and squirmed back fourteen yards to his own twenty-one yard line. Bowdoin rose up in its wrath and crushed the next three plays, was stopped in turn, losing eight yards at off-tackle attempts and Ricker waited the ball out on the Mule's twenty-one yard line. Karkos made eight yards off tackle, and Donovan ground through remorselessly for very nearly twenty more. With the ball on Colby's thirty-seven yard line, the Bow-

Continued on Page 3

GARNET NEXT RIVAL FOR POLAR BEAR TEAM IN STATE CONCLAVES

Bates Has a Powerful Defense But is Impotent
on Offense

On Saturday, the state series will continue when the Bowdoin Polar Bears and company will march to Lewiston to take on the Bates Boncats. While the two downstate teams are battling it out, Maine, stung by the measly 2-0 defeat at the hands of Bates, and Colby, coked on account of this state series has engendered. The game with Bates remains very much of a question mark at this writing. All year Bates has shown great defensive work while Bowdoin has been the cause of much concern for its offensive play. Which is to fall is more or less conjectural. It may be that the Murrey coached team has the ability to hold in check Bowdoin backs. On the other hand maybe the tricks of the Bowdoin men will baffles the men from Bates. Two or three factors must determine the outcome.

Continued on Page 4

JACK MAGEE CHOSEN DELEGATE

The election of John J. Magee, Bowdoin track coach, as delegate to the national convention of the Amateur Athletic Union to be held in Washington November 17, 18 and 19 was recently announced. Following this he will attend the meeting of the American Olympic Association on November 20 and 21 in the same city. At the American Amateur Union he will be a member of the Track and Field Championship Committee and of the Record Committee which investigates and establishes the standing of records. At the Olympic meeting he is one of the six representatives from New England.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Associate Editors

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31

Robert M. McFarland '31
William N. Small '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College.
All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumnius) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, October 29, 1930

No. 13

Colby Game

Technically, Bowdoin was defeated last Saturday by a 20 to 7 score. There is little virtue in bawling the fact now. In fact, there is little need to bewail it at all. It was, of course, extremely unfortunate that we did lose, but let us remember that Saturday was hardly the most ideal football day. The game was anybody's. We are not insinuating here that Colby did not deserve to win; we are not offering any apologies for Bowdoin's defeat. But under those conditions no true comparison between the two teams can be made. We feel, and we do not think this is a case of bigoted Bowdoinism on our part, that we have a fine team, perhaps as good if not better than Colby's. The relative position of these two teams will not be settled this year; at least, last Saturday's mud and rain gives us no grounds for a definite conclusion. Perhaps the better team did win; perhaps the better team lost. Let us think the latter, and continue to back Bowser and his men to the limit. We have still a chance to tie for State Series supremacy. Let's show the team, and our friends the enemy from Lewiston, that a wet day and an unavoidable defeat cannot kill the spirit of Bowdoin.

The Growler

This past week there have been very definite signs of life along certain lines, namely the publications. We have a new organ in our midst: The Growler. This magazine, we are told, is to be published independently (thanks to Faculty ruling) and will be the successor (unofficial, of course) to the lamented Bear-Skin. Perhaps we should not use that adjective. In certain groups, at least, the Bear-Skin was not lamented—anything but, in fact. We have every reason to believe, however, that The Growler will be above the general level of its predecessor. It should be, and if it is, it can be of real service to the College. A humorous magazine is something we have needed here for a long time, for it is this type, rather than the type of the ORIENT, Alumnus or Quill, that has a strong appeal to men of college age and younger. The Dartmouth Jack-O-Lantern, the Harvard Lampoon, the Penn Punch-Bowl and others have been successful in this, and we think, have benefited their respective institutions on account of the certain amount of "advertising" they furnish. The Faculty could not see this point, but then, it does exist. Also, we are certain that there is a definite field for such a magazine here on the campus, particularly around house-party times when the college is being "shown off" to THE guests. We of the ORIENT should, therefore, like to welcome our new half-brother (even though his legitimacy may be questioned in the inner circles) to our midst, and to wish him good luck.

Chapel

Some very skeptic and over-bored student prophesied that the ORIENT would come forth in this issue and boast about the results of the Chapel Poll. If only more of the Student Body had voted, we might well have done so, to judge by the partial results of the ballot. However, we can only say that a large portion of the Student Body is opposed to the continuance of this quaint custom. This same student also made the remark that we had failed on the Flagpole question and that the stony walls of the chapel and the no less stony conservatism of the Administration would withstand any assault the ORIENT was capable of delivering.

To go back into ancient history, we do not feel that we failed on the Flagpole issue. We helped to keep it off the middle of campus, and almost succeeded in getting it out of the way altogether. It may be that the Administration can see the weight of our present objections, and that something will be done which will either improve the quality of our chapel services or else, will abolish them in the compulsory sense.

The former step, improving the chapel services, might be possible, but it would mean discarding much of the present system and going back to the religious services of former years. The average chapel service of today offers little to the religious student, and even less to the students to whom religion is of little import. As religious services, most of them are rank failures. And, another phase of the situation, do we need religious services? Some students feel we do; for them, let us keep chapel. Why, however, make it compulsory? Why not separate sheep from goats? Why not introduce a bit of freedom of choice in the matter?

This leads us to our second alternative. Before going any farther, let us go back to one of the early chapel services of the year, at which a large number of students were present despite the fact that attendance was not being taken. The President was the speaker, and he talked at some length on the subject of chapel. In the first place, he said that the provision for compulsory chapel was to be found in the By-Laws of the College, and that it was closely linked to Bowdoin's traditions. He also said that there was little sense in keeping a tradition that was outworn. Is it, then, outworn? We believe that the Poll results will answer this question as far as the students are concerned, and although the Faculty

If you're snugly wrapped in a LUXURIOUS PILE COAT or a MT. ROCK FLEECE OVERCOAT, shod with ABBOTT SHOES at the Bates game, you'll learn the true meaning of comfort as well as appearance. Mr. Mattice, special college salesman for NETTLETON shoes will show the complete NETTLETON and MILLER-COOK line from $10.00 up, at our store Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. If you are anticipating shoes in the near future, do not fail to see this display.

The House of Walsh

in general did not deign to vote, we believe the scant attendance in the Faculty forms is a reliable index as to their feelings on the matter.

The President continued his defense of chapel by saying that it was a very good thing in corporate institutions for the College to meet together once a day,—that this made for a feeling of unity. On paper, this sounds quite good, but when only about half the students and only a very small group of Faculty attend, whence comes this spirit of unity? And for that matter, in a college of this size, it would seem that every student would have the opportunity, if he desired it, of course, to meet each and every man he wished to meet without the need of the medium of chapel.

The President went on to say that our chapel was one of the most beautiful in the country, and spoke particularly of the fine organ. True, the chapel is a beautiful structure, one which we are proud to claim as our own. We wish we could say the same about the chapel services, but these, alas, are usually far from beautiful. We do not propose, however, to let this building fall into disuse. Many would still like to have their morning period of devotion. And there are other uses to which this building could be put. And as for cleaving to the beautiful and abjuring the ugly—if that were to be carried out, classes would be held in the chapel instead of Adams.

Of course, there is much truth in President Sills's statement that it was not a bad thing that the young men be brought into contact with the literature of the Bible, even though it be very casual. This was to be gained from attending chapel. Of course, the President continued, what you get out of this (i. e. chapel service) depends on you. The College won't force it down your throat.—No, the College will not force it down your throat; but it will force it in one ear, either to go out the other or to be re-

THE COLLEGE SPA

Serves Regular Dinners - 40 cents

Come in and Give Us a Try

Get It at the Spa

tained. If one type of forcing is renounced, why not renounce the other? You do not need to fear that you will be forced into accepting it, but exposed to it you must be. Those are the sailing orders.

Every student who comes to Bowdoin, went on the President, knows in advance this requirement; there are no false impressions.—We are ready to admit this. However, if this were the ideal system, if this compulsory chapel were working as it should, then would it be the underclassmen, upon whom the beneficent effects had not been so strong, who should be leading the radical party. Unfortunately for the logic of the conservatives, this is not so. It is the Senior, or the Junior, who has experienced all the "benefits" of this system and who should therefore be its most loyal supporter,—it is this man who opposes it most vigorously. Something is surely amiss with any system that in four years cannot impress a man favorably. Something is surely lacking in the present system of compulsory chapel service.

Now probably all this will fail to impress the Faculty or those

(Continued on page 3)

ONE will always stand out!

KEEPING UP THE PACE... never letting down... that's what wins on the track—and in a cigarette, too.

Chesterfield smokers stick to Chesterfield, because here they find those essentials of true smoking enjoyment which never tire, never vary:

MILDNESS—the wholly natural mildness of tobaccos that are without harshness or bitterness.

BETTER TASTE—such as only a cigarette of wholesome purity and better tobaccos can have.

for Milder

Chesterfield Cigarettes are manufactured by LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

BETTER TASTE

They Satisfy

THE favorite—whose flashing hoofs have brought him in ahead so many times! Again he shows his mettle! Again he leads the field.

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET
—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?
Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR
Whitman's Chocolates

Good Typography

Reasonable prices and prompt service — the aim of

The Record Press
Get in touch with us for your next job of printing.
Tel. 3
Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

-SPORTS-

Mose Johnstone Plunges Over For First Mule Score

Photo by Staff Photographer

The Sunday Telegram sharpshooter nails Mose Johnstone ramming over the Bowdoin goal line for Colby's first touchdown in the State Series tussle at Seaverns Field, Waterville, Saturday afternoon. At this stage of the game the Polar Bears were leading as the White Mule failed to pick up the point after touchdown on a running play. Colby's first score came in the second period but a little bit later the Waterville collegians were rolling along out in front to eventually win by the score of 20 to 7.

Pictures by Staff Photographer

Top—Creighton Gatchell of Bowdoin being stopped by the Colby White Mule with the goal line in sight in the third period. Colby took the ball as it was fourth down and the Polar Bears failed to make their distance. Bottom—Lloyd Morrell of Bowdoin running back the kickoff after Colby's first touchdown in the second period.

Complete Summary In Play-by-Play Account of Colby Game

First Period
Glazier kicked off to Foster, who ran the ball back eleven yards to his twenty-one yard line.
Foster made two yards at right tackle.
Ricker punted, the ball going out of bounds on the Colby nineteen yard line.
Donovan made a yard at right tackle.
Donovan punted, the ball going out of bounds on his twenty yard line.
Ricker lost one yard at right tackle.
Foster crossed through right tackle, swung past the secondary defense, and dodged over the line for a touchdown. Bowdoin 6; Colby 0.
Southern place-kicked the point. Bowdoin 7; Colby 0.
Southern kicked off to Davan, who returned the ball twelve yards to his eighteen yard line.
Donovan punted, the ball going out of bounds on the fifty yard line.
Ricker lost two yards at right end.
Ricker lost six yards at left tackle.
Ricker punted, the ball going out of bounds on the Colby twenty-one yard line.
Davan made eight yards through right tackle.
Donovan made nineteen yards around left end.
Karkos failed to gain at right tackle.
Colby fumbled, Donovan recovering on his thirty-seven yard line.
Donovan punted, Southern blocked the ball and recovered on the Colby seven yard line.
Foster made two yards off right tackle.
Foster failed to gain at right tackle, Bowdoin being penalized five yards for offside.
Foster lost a yard at right end.
Foster was stopped dead at left tackle.
A forward pass by Foster was intercepted by Karkos, who ran the ball back twenty-four yards to the Colby seven yard line.
Donovan, on an attempted cross-cross coming in through left tackle, was stopped with a loss of eight yards.
Davan made five yards at right tackle.
Donovan punted to Foster, who fumbled on the fifty yard line, a Colby lineman recovering.
Davan made twelve yards at right tackle.
Karkos made two yards at left tackle.
Donovan made five yards off right tackle.
Davan ran the ball outside for a gain of two yards.
Donovan went through left tackle for seventeen yards.
A back at right tackle failed to gain.
Donovan made two yards at right tackle.
Donovan made one yard around left end.
The quarter ended with the ball in Colby's possession on Bowdoin's nine yard line, fourth down, and seven yards to go.

Second Period
A bad pass from center went wild in the Colby backfield, and Crimmins recovered for Bowdoin on his own eleven yard line.
Ricker punted, almost missing the ball, and Southern fell on it on the line of scrimmage.
Foster recovered a bad pass on his own eight yard line, a loss of three yards.
Ricker punted, the ball going out of bounds on his own twelve yard line.
Johnstone made four yards at right tackle.
Johnstone made four yards at right tackle.
Johnstone went over for a yard and a touchdown through left tackle. Bowdoin 7; Colby 6.
Johnstone attempted to rush the point, but fumbled, and Bowdoin recovered.
Glazier kicked off to Morrell who came back thirty-five yards to his forty-five yard line.
Foster made six yards at right tackle.

Morrell was stopped at right tackle.
Foster lost a yard at right tackle.
Ricker punted, the ball going out of bounds on the Colby forty yard line.
Donovan made six yards off right tackle.
Ricker fumbled, Deeten recovering for Colby on the Bowdoin seven yard line.
Donovan made three yards at right tackle.
Johnstone made four yards and a touchdown through right tackle. Bowdoin 7; Colby 12.
Glazier place-kicked the point. Bowdoin 7; Colby 13.
Glazier kicked off to Morrell, who came back twenty yards to Bowdoin's thirty-six yard line.
Bowdoin fumbled, Gatchell recovering on the Bowdoin thirty-four yard line.
Foster made two yards off right tackle.
Morrell made five yards at right tackle.
Ricker punted to Deeten, who came back three yards to the Colby thirty-seven yard line.
Donovan punted out of bounds on the Bowdoin twenty-eight yard line.
Bowdoin fumbled, Morrell recovering on his eight yard line.
Bowdoin was penalized five yards for excess time in the huddle.
Morrell made eight yards at right tackle.
Morrell made five yards at right tackle.
Ricker punted to Donovan, who was thrown for a yard loss by Southern on the Bowdoin twenty-eight yard line.
Donovan was stopped at left tackle, Colby being penalized fifteen yards for unnecessary roughness.
Donovan punted over the goal line.
Morrell made four yards at left tackle.
Foster made six yards off right end.
Ricker was stopped for a six yard loss at left end.
Crimmins took the ball from Ricker on the Statue of Liberty play, a faked forward developing into an end sweep, and made eleven yards and a first down.
The half ended with the ball in Bowdoin's possession on her forty-five yard line, first down, and ten yards to go. Foster was carried from the field, having been injured on the play.

Third Period
Glazier kicked off to Foster, who came back thirty yards to Bowdoin's thirty-eight yard line.
Morrell made six yards at right tackle.
Foster made six yards at left tackle.
Morrell made six yards at left tackle.
Foster made six yards at left tackle.
Morrell fumbled, and Donovan recovered after the whistle had blown. Bowdoin was awarded the ball, gaining four yards.
Morrell made three yards off right tackle.
Foster made six yards around right end.
Bowdoin was penalized five yards for offside.
Foster made sixteen yards around left end.
Morrell made a yard through right tackle.
Crimmins fumbled on the Statue of Liberty play, Bowdoin recovering with a loss of ten yards.
Foster barely failed of a first down around right tackle.
Donovan made one yard at right tackle.
Donovan went through right tackle for sixteen yards.
Davan made two yards at left end.
Donovan made a yard through right tackle.
Donovan made a yard around left end.
Donovan made seven yards at right tackle.
Johnstone made three yards at right tackle.
Donovan made five yards at left tackle.

Johnstone failed at right tackle. Brown stopping him.
Donovan punted, the ball going over the goal line.
Morrell made three yards at left tackle.
Foster made a yard at right tackle.
Donovan punted out of bounds on the Bowdoin thirty-three yard line.
Donovan went through right tackle for three yards.
Davan made three yards at left tackle.
Donovan made eight yards at right tackle.
The period ended with the ball in Colby's possession on the Bowdoin nineteen yard line, first down, and ten yards to go.

Fourth Period
Johnstone failed at left tackle.
Donovan made six yards at left tackle.
Donovan made three yards at right tackle.
Donovan made two yards around left end.
Donovan made two yards through left tackle.
Donovan made a touchdown and three yards through left tackle. Bowdoin 7; Colby 19.
Johnstone rushed the point. Bowdoin 7; Colby 20.

Glazier kicked off to Morrell, who came ten yards to his thirty-two yard line.
Foster made four yards through right tackle.
Morrell made two yards through left tackle.
Morrell made three yards through left tackle.
Donovan made eleven yards with a stoppage with a loss of a yard for Bowdoin.
Donovan made three yards around right end.
A back at right tackle was stopped with a loss of a yard for Bowdoin.
Donovan made a yard and a half through right tackle.
Morrell made three yards through right tackle.
Foster lost a yard at left tackle.
Foster made four yards through right tackle.
Morrell made five yards through right tackle.
Morrell made a yard through left tackle.
Bakanowsky made five yards through left tackle.

Foster recovered a fumble for a loss of a yard.
Foster punted over the goal line.
Deeten made three yards through right tackle.
Donovan made seven yards through left tackle.
Davan made eight yards through right tackle.
A back through right tackle was stopped dead.
Donovan made six yards through left tackle.
Morrell made a yard through left tackle.
Davan made a yard around left end.
Donovan punted six yards, the ball going out of bounds on Bowdoin's forty-four yard line.
Foster threw an incomplete forward pass.
Foster made eight yards through right tackle.
A fumble was recovered by Bowdoin for a loss of three yards.
Clark failed to gain at right end.
Foster threw an incomplete forward pass.
The game ended with the ball in Colby's possession on Bowdoin's forty-nine yard line, first down, and ten yards to go.

FORMER BATES BOWDOIN SCORES

The scores of the Bowdoin-Bates games for the past five years follow:

	Bowdoin	Bates
1925 At Brunswick	6	7
1926 At Lewiston	13	7
1927 At Brunswick	0	0
1928 At Lewiston	12	0
1929 At Brunswick	0	26

It is seen that Bates has won only two out of five games. The first victory for Bates was in 1925 and then they won only by a one point margin. The second Bates victory came last year when Bowdoin went down to a stinging defeat.

Bates Next Rival In State Conclaves

(Continued from Page 1)

for Bowdoin, the first, whether the weather, which served as a bugbear to the White in its initial series start gives us a break. For the efficiency of a fast moving aggregation such as Bowdoin is limited in a swamp—for instance Seaverns Field. Secondly whether Bowdoin's battering at Colby will show its effect at Bates and lastly, whether Bowdoin's fighting spirit can surpass itself in its effort to win.

From last Saturday's games there is little sure evidence of the potentialities of the two teams. Chamberlain of Bates proved that his punting is going to count much in the game to come while the running of Morrell put a new light on the White's full-back. The fact that Bates failed to make a first down is something which may give cause for the Bates cohorts to worry about. The Bowdoin line which has been an in-and-out for all season will give many a Bowdoin man gray hairs during the next few days.

During the past few years the spirit between Bowdoin and Bates has been very much in the ascendency; next week's game will only prove more conclusively that Bowdoin spirit is unquenchable as the game at Waterville displayed when perhaps one of the largest Bowdoin crowds in years fountained its way to Waterville. The game next week will, no doubt, find a far greater gathering going to Lewiston to see Bowdoin cut loose a vicious attack which will be

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY
Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.
PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity Trade
574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers
SOULE and WALKER
JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD
We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store
Watch Repairing
By An Experienced Watchmaker
Shaeffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"
"The College Jeweler"
Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S
Candy and Ice Cream
74 MAINE STREET

Complete Travel Service Free—
Booklet Tours Cruises Bermuda, Havana, Florida, West Indies, Europe. Phone, call or write PORTLAND TOURIST CO. 198 Middle St., Portland, Maine.

needed to bring home our first state series victory in two years than has heretofore been the case.

Sportsman's Pen

The Bowdoin squad reported for practice this week somewhat battered and bruised from the battle on the clay beds of Seaverns field last Saturday but major injuries were absent once again.

The flip that gave Bates a chance to nip a 2-0 victory from the throne Saturday saw Maine defeated on her own field in a state series game for the first time since 1921, when Bowdoin scored a victory.

Yale is giving the football officials a lot of trouble this season. The legality of one of Georgia's touchdowns was questioned and also the play which brought a tie score for Army at the Bowl last Saturday caused considerable do-do. Bowdoin supporters are praying for clear weather over the week end so that Waterville's Tragedy in the Mud will not be enacted all over again.

Wesleyan came out of the infantile paralysis area like a freight train, collided with the Lord Jeff outfit, collected a 19-19 tie which surprised everybody, and left Amherst with her entire first string backfield incapacitated.

Zeta Psi finally broke the three year predominance of Psi Upsilon in cross country.

FRENCH CLUB OFFICERS
Artine Artinian, President
Richard Durham, Vice-President
Donald Merriam, Sec.-Treas.

Don't Forget the Rally
Friday Night!Flagpole Dedication at Eleven o'clock Saturday

VOL. LX.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1930.

NO. 14

BOWDOIN BOWS
BEFORE FINAL
BATES ATTACKLast Quarter Onslaught of Garnet Is Fatal to White
COSTLY FUMBLEFinal Score of 13-0 Result of Constant Fierce Attack Held Through First Three Periods Only to Break Through Bowdoin Defense in Last Period

There's an old, old fable about the worm that is trodden on once too often turning around and taking a healthy swat at the gentleman with large feet. Last fall Bates College rose from the push-around state won the state championship. Last Saturday the worm developed bow constrictor tendencies and proceeded enthusiastically to swallow Bowdoin. The last period, 13-0, the mud pie that Colby flung hither and yon with such gay abandon have turned to a slough of despond.

Just what caused the shattering of the team that was tied by Williams on a fluke in the last two minutes of play, that buried the Mass. Aggies, and was undefeated until it entered the State Series, is something that nobody knows. It can't be blamed on the weather, which was perfect, nor on the condition of the men, for the regular line-up started. Possibly it was a lack of fire, Bowdoin played methodical football. Bates played to win, and in that may lie the secret of the score.

Up to that fatal last period, though Bates had from home territory, they way deep into scoring territory. Bowdoin had held like a rock when it had to. Ricker was out-punting McCuskey, and the toll of first downs, though overwhelmingly in Bates' favor, was not as important a thing as it usually is. Even a forward passing attack had been stopped at the close of the half.

Bates Threatens Goal
Then something snapped. As the period had ended, McCuskey snapped out a quick kick which bounded outside on the Bowdoin ten yard line. Foster slipped towards the left end of the line, but found himself blocked by the end and the line. Bates slammed him down for a five-yard loss. Ricker dropped back of the goal-line, and punted out to Valentici. Crimmins making the tackle with Milliken after the stock Bates over-terback had gained three yards. Then the riot started.

Farrell had difficulties at left tackle, and made barely two yards. Then Brown legged it for left end. He found Southern and Foster waiting for him, and the two immediately dumped him for a yard loss. Valentici ran the ball out of bounds with no gain, and on the fourth down, with nine yards to go, came the break that ruined the ball game. Brown threw a bullet-like pass fifteen yards over the line to Kenison, who snapped it in and made two yards more before Ricker and Foster smacked him down. Then Farrell broke through left end, cut towards the right, and was finally pulled down on the one-yard line. McCuskey took a flying start and cannoned his way straight through the center of the line for a touchdown. And Valentici gracefully kicked the point, the ball again struck the fence and hitting McCuskey's numeral on the score-board.

Bates Scores on Fumble
Then the trouble started again. McCuskey kicked off, Plaisant snatched the ball, and made eleven yards before he went down in a knot of Bates tacklers on the Bowdoin twenty-four yard line. Someone fumbled in the backfield, and Kenison, who had made White hair stand on end earlier in the afternoon fell on the ball at the nineteen yard line. Brown hit right tackle, went through it, and made eleven yards before they dragged him down. Two more of his backs gave way.

Bates Game Statistics
First downs	3 16
Yards from scrimmage	85 245
Lost from scrimmage	25 15
Lost ball on offense	0 3
Forward passes:
Attempted	5 7
Completed	1 2
Yardage gained	0 44(5)
Yardage lost	2(-3) 0
Intercepted	0 1
Back of intercepted	0 5
Fumbles	0 3
Recovered own fumbles	1 3
Lost on fumbles	0 3
Penalties	20 60
Points	12 8
Total yardage	245 245
Average yardage	26 34
Run-back of yards	9 54
Average run-back of	2 5
Total yardage	0 157
Average yardage	0 39
Run-back of yards	29 0
Average run-back of	10 0
Laterals passed:
Attempted	1 0
Completed	1 0
Yardage lost	6 0
Yardage gained	6 0
Total net gain	211 392

CHAPEL SPEAKER ASKS IMPORTANT QUESTIONRev. J.C. Schroeder Wonders Whether We Do Not Neglect Simple Facts of Life

While encountering, day by day, new adventures in the life around us, soaring into heights in search of more knowledge of God and truth, and delving deep into the unknown spheres of human influence, do we not at times estrange the simple, fundamental facts of life? This is the question that would naturally arise in one's mind upon hearing the Rev. John C. Schroeder's talk in Sunday chapel. And it was the basis for his discourse. First citing as his text the familiar Biblical story of the two houses, one built upon rock and the other upon sand, he launched into his subject, "The Religious Quest."

Trundy was a boy who, with his companion, went to go boating in a large bay near his home. Soon he came to know all the shoals and reefs of that harbor as well as he knew his name. Upon growing up, he became a skipper. For three years he sailed abroad, bringing his ship through many dangers, but upon coming into the familiar harbor on his return, he grounded his ship on a reef that he had always known to be there.

Is this not a parallel with study? As we uncover some new phase of literature such as the truths of Keats, or marvel at the discoveries of Beebe, at the stupendous business organizations of the modern world, it is an adventure as much as Trundy's was, while sailing the seven seas. Furthermore, as we widen our understanding of morality and religion, we are none the less encountering adventure.

The greatness of the scope of adventure depends, of course, upon one's demand upon God. If we ask small narrow things of God, we can but expect to receive in kind; but if we put a broad, generous demand upon him, we will share to a greater degree in the true discovery of Him and His works. The larger our idea of God, the larger the possibility of adventure.

While these new adventures are always being encountered and new fields opened to our understanding, we tend to forget the familiar, basic things of life. Honesty, loyalty, good sportsmanship, self control, and true bravery are thrust aside in the search for strange, new ideas. The reason for many religious shipwrecks is that, always pursuing something just beyond our reach, we disregard the essential truths. We must first learn the fundamentals of the Religious Quest, and keep them in mind as a solid foundation, throughout our climbings and aspirations.

YEAR'S FIRST ISSUE OF ALUMNUS TO APPEAR THIS WEEK

This week the first issue of the year of the Bowdoin Alumnus appears. It contains an editorial written by Albert W. Tolman '88 of Portland the subject of which is "Why College?" Mr. Tolman has attracted the attention of the public by his short stories and this editorial by him should prove of particular interest to undergraduates. There is an appreciation of Prof. Wass by E. King Ferguson '22, and who, last June, was appointed the Assistant Professorship of Romance Languages at Amherst.

Other articles include "The Cup Defender of 1930" by James P. Pettergrove. The author spent the summer as a member of the crew of the yacht Resolute and all of the illustrations (Continued on Page 2)

FRESHMEN TRIUMPH OVER FRYEBURG IN SENSATIONAL GAMESmall Crowd Watches Cubs Romp to Easy Victory at Pickard Field

Presenting a smooth running offense and a strong defense, the Bowdoin Freshmen easily overcame a lighter Fryeburg Academy team by a 28-0 score on Pickard Field last Friday afternoon. In spite of the perfect football conditions, a meagre crowd was present. The team showed a marked improvement over the Bridgton game. Wait and Kozlowski were sensational in the tackle battle. Time and again they opened wide holes in the Fryeburg line for their backs to romp through. Odde showed himself to be a hard plunging full-back and came through with many fine gains while Heinke's brokenback gave a good exhibition of football running.

The opening kick-off was taken by Kozlowski on the nineteen yard line and he returned the pigskin to the thirty-five. Odde hit right tackle for a couple of yards but a fumble put the ball back to thirty-one. Lewis' punt went offside on Fryeburg's thirty-eight. Led by Glover, the Academy boys started on drive which carried the ball down to Bowdoin's fourteen. Here the home team braced itself and on the fourth down Hubbard kicked a Fryeburg pass, which Odde had partially blocked. A Bowdoin procession up the field placed the ball on the enemy's thirty-one as the period came to a close.

The White started to click at the (Continued on Page 4)

WORLD-FAMOUS LECTURER HERE
THIS EVENINGProf. Julian Huxley Speaks on "Development, Heredity, and Evolution"
SPEAKS IN UNIONOwing to Lack of Space, Admission to be by Ticket Only, Contrary to Custom of College

Professor Julian Huxley, well known English biologist and writer, will speak here tonight on "Development, Heredity, and Evolution", illustrating his lecture with lantern slides. The alterations of Memorial Hall are not yet complete, the lecture will be delivered in the main lounge of the Moulton Union. Admission will be by tickets only, as lack of space limits the audience.

Professor Huxley, who has just returned from a four months' tour of East Africa, is now starting on his first American lecture trip. In this field he is continuing the work of his famous grandfather, Thomas Huxley, in bringing Biology closer to the general public.

Professor Huxley was for two years Professor of Zoology at King's College, London, and since 1927 has been honorary lecturer there. For four years he has been president of the National Union of Scientific Workers and has also been Pullerian Professor of Physiology in the Royal Institute. Together with H. G. Wells he has written "The Science of Life", and his many works include "Individuals in the Animal Kingdom", "Essays of a Biologist", "The Stream of Life", and "Essays on Popular Science".

SIX FRATERNITIES
PLAN INITIATIONS
FOR THIS WEEK ENDAlpha Delta Phi, Psi Upsilon, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Theta Delta Chi,
Delta Upsilon and Zeta Psi

Six fraternities will uphold the old Bowdoin traditions, and will initiate their pledges just previous to the Maine game. In all cases the full list of pledges will go through the initiation ceremony, unless Freshman warnings make it necessary to postpone initiating in individual cases. Warnings have not come out at this writing.

The fraternities initiating are: Alpha Delta Phi, Psi Upsilon, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Theta Delta Chi, Delta Upsilon and Zeta Psi.

SEVEN HOUSES TO GIVE TEA DANCES
AFTER MAINE GAMEGym Dance to Take Place in Evening After Maine Game

Immediately after the Maine game next Saturday, November 8, tea dances will be held at the Alpha Tau Omega, Chi Psi, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Nu, Delta Kappa Epsilon, and Alpha Delta Phi fraternity houses. Following a reunion of its members, the Kappa Sigma fraternity will give a dance later on in the evening.

At the A. T. O. house, Professor and Mrs. E. S. Hammond will be the patron and patroness while music will be furnished by the Pioneers from Augusta. Mrs. Daniel C. Standwood, Mrs. Stanley Smith and Mrs. George Woodman will be patronesses of the tea at the Beta Theta Pi house and the Polar Bears will provide music for the dance. The patron and patroness at the Chi Psi dance will be Professor and Mrs. Copeland while music will be supplied by the Arcadians. The Georgians of Lewiston will play at A. D. house. The patron and patroness at the evening dance of the Kappa Sigma fraternity will be Professor and Mrs. Charles H. Gray (Continued on page 2)

BOWDOIN STUDENTS APPEAR IN LOCAL BENEFIT COMEDY

Members of the Glee Club sang in the comedy, "Aunt Lucia", a benefit performance for the Topham library fund, presented Wednesday and Thursday evenings, October 29 and 30, at the Brunswick Town Hall. However this appearance was not a function of the Glee Club as a whole.

The performance was well received by two full houses and a dance after the last evening was also well attended. The college was represented in both the cast and chorus. The leading part (of a lady) was played by

NEW MEMBERS ADDED
TO CLASSICAL CLUBCommittees Appointed to Consider Plans for Biennial Play and to Arrange for Club's Anniversary Celebration

Most animated and lifelike impersonations of mythological characters by the initiates, as well as general hilarity from all concerned, marked the ceremonies of the Classical Club, when eleven new members were added last Thursday night, at the Zeta Psi house.

The following were admitted into membership: F. R. Evans '33, A. T. O. J. Fine '32, G. C. Knight, A. D. P. E. Jackson '32, Psi Upsilon, G. B. Parker '32, D. U., A. F. Meyer '33, T. D. W. W. Travis '33, Chi Psi, B. Crystal '33, W. W. Galbraith '33, Chi Psi, A. S. Davis '33, Chi Psi, and George Bartter '34.

When the initiation ceremonies had been completed, the members went to a business meeting. Two committees were appointed to consider plans for the coming season. The first will take over the possibility of producing the Mime of Theophrastus, entitled, "The Syracusan Women".

To Celebrate Anniversary
Plans will be formulated by the other committee concerning the observance of the Classical Club's twenty-fifth anniversary. It is expected that many former members will return for this celebration. The anniversary is of immense importance because the organization is Bowdoin's oldest.

A committee on programs for the day hopes to secure several lectures, two of them, at least, public. The poet Vergil is considered as a subject for one of these talks, as this (Continued on Page 3)

ALUMNI FUND TO BE DISCUSSED AT SATURDAY MEETINGHon. Robert Hale '10 to be Chairman of Conference on Fund Policy

On Alumni Day, among other events to take place is a meeting of the Alumni Fund directors. This will be held in the Moulton Union at six in the evening. The discussion will be on fund policy and Hon. Robert Hale '10 of Portland will be chairman. The directors attending this meeting will be George C. Webster '05 of Auburn, Willard S. Bass of Wilton, Dwight R. Pennell '08 of Boston, Max Sidney W. Noyes '02 of New York City, Thomas C. White '03 of Lewiston, Philip F. Chapman '06 of Portland, Sumner T. Pich '13 and Earle E. Thompson '14 both of New York City, and Philip S. Wilder '23 who is secretary.

The fund has been rapidly increasing but the percentage of contributors is very small. It is just under 15%, while Dartmouth's is 50% and Harvard's 25%. As Mr. P. S. Wilder points out in the last report, it is not the amount that is lacking but the number of contributors. Too many men feel they must give from (Continued on page 3)

Hon. Robert Hale '10

'96 of Wilton, Dwight R. Pennell '08 of Boston, Max Sidney W. Noyes '02 of New York City, Thomas C. White '03 of Lewiston, Philip F. Chapman '06 of Portland, Sumner T. Pich '13 and Earle E. Thompson '14 both of New York City, and Philip S. Wilder '23 who is secretary.

The fund has been rapidly increasing but the percentage of contributors is very small. It is just under 15%, while Dartmouth's is 50% and Harvard's 25%. As Mr. P. S. Wilder points out in the last report, it is not the amount that is lacking but the number of contributors. Too many men feel they must give from (Continued on page 3)

CHAPEL TO BE USED FOR CELEBRATION OF
MASS EACH SUNDAY

Through the cooperation of President Sills and the faculty, the Bowdoin College Chapel is to be used Sunday mornings for Roman Catholic Services. At eight o'clock and ten o'clock each Sunday mass will be held for the English speaking people of Brunswick. Beginning last Sunday the first mass was celebrated by Father Dunsan of Portland. The Chapel will be used until such time when a small church for the French speaking people of the town. Services will probably be continued for some time but it might be mentioned that church lectures have already been looking at several locations in town where an English church might be constructed.

Polar Bear Supporters Hopeful As Traditional
Maine Game ApproachesWhite Followers Look For Return of Early-Season Spirit
To Bring Victory In Annual Battle Back to Bowdoin HOSTS OF ALUMNI TO COME FOR GAME

The University of Maine football team and followers will invade Brunswick once again to tackle a valiantly fighting Polar Bear team which has borne the marks of defeat in the two previous State Series encounters. Whittier Field is waiting in readiness for the crowds that will see the traditional rivals meet on Saturday. The alumni too will find their way back to Brunswick to see a team that has shown early season greenness but has as yet been unable to break the Gordian knot which lies between them and a State Series victory.

ALUMNI ASSEMBLE FOR ANNUAL MEETING HEREBusy Program for Saturday Includes Maine Game, Flagpole Dedication, Luncheon, Committee Meetings and Gym Dance

Alumni will gather from all parts of the country next Saturday to attend Bowdoin's annual Alumni Day. Committee meetings, an alumni luncheon, the memorial flagstaff dedication, and the Maine game are activities planned.

In the morning, following Alumni Day custom, there will be several meetings of executive groups. The Alumni Council, under the leadership of Leon V. Walker '03, will meet at 9:30, while the Athletic Council will also hold a meeting. Harry D. Gibson '02 of New York is chairman of this group. The Executive Committee of the Governing Boards will also hold a meeting during the morning. The meeting of the Alumni Council will be at six o'clock, when the Directors of the Alumni Fund gather for supper in the Moulton Union.

The feature of the day will be the dedication of the War Memorial Flagstaff. In this ceremony the student body will march behind the College Band from the Gymnasium to the Flagstaff site. Governor Gardner will be present as representative of the State, and will deliver the introductory address. The formal presentation on behalf of the alumni will be made by Robert Devore Leigh '14, president of Bennington College, and a former member of the Alumni Council. The memorial will be accepted for the College by President Sills. As the thirty foot ceremonial flag is raised for the first time by representatives of the student body, the band will play the "Star Spangled Banner" and the assembly will then be led in singing "America the Beautiful" by the band and the College Glee Club.

At noon luncheon will be served in the Sargent Gymnasium for an expected gathering of about 400, who come to bring the address by President Sills and Coach Bowser. A. L. Richan '20 of Lewiston will lead the singing. The amplifying system presented to the College last June by the Class of 1920 will be used indoors for the first time at this luncheon. At the same time a ladies' luncheon is scheduled for the dining room of the Moulton Union, where an attendance of 175 is expected. The ladies will hear the speeches and songs from the Gymnasium through an amplifier hookup running by underground cable to a loudspeaker in the main lounge of the Union.

General arrangements for the observance of Alumni Day have been in the hands of a committee of the Alumni Council including Pres. Will (Continued on Page 3)

TEAMS PICKED FOR ANNUAL FRESHMAN-
SOPHOMORE DEBATEFreshman Candidates Deliver Trial Speeches on Compulsory Chapel Question

A number of rather uneasy freshmen assembled in the Debating Room of Hubbard Hall last Monday, November 3, for the tryouts of the annual Freshman-Sophomore debate. The topic for the speeches during the tryouts was one now much discussed on the campus, "Resolved, That Compulsory Chapel Be Abolished." The candidates delivered five minute speeches and two minute rebuttals. Paul A. Walker '31, president of the judges, were Mr. Ralph D. S. Childs, coach of the Debating Team, Paul A. Walker and Albert E. Jenkins of the Debating Council.

The fact that college students are sufficiently mature to decide questions for themselves, the fact that more benefit would be derived by students attending a variety of chapel services, and the fact that compulsion destroys much of the atmosphere of the chapel services were some of the arguments brought forward by the affirmative speakers. The speakers on the negative stressed the benefit of compulsory chapel in furthering the spirit of unity in the college, the advantage of compulsory chapel as a method of starting the day, and the conserving of compulsory chapel with many of the established features of a college as required courses, required attendance at lectures and required examinations.

During the deliberation of the judges, Albert S. Davis '33 and Nor- (Continued on Page 3)

It will have to be a fighting Bowdoin team, one perhaps like the eleven that faced Tufts last year at the Medford Oval, to win Saturday's game. It may on the surface be for Bowdoin that the eleven men will seek to smash their way to victory but beneath it lies the desire for Coach Bowser, who has tried with all his ability to bring Bowdoin football teams out of the morass which has long dogged their path.

No series title lies ahead for the Polar Bears but victory from a long standing rival will be the prize if we win. Maine enters the game with three victories and two defeats while the White stars have two wins and a tie. If we should take this alone as evidence the gap that lies between the two would seem not too wide, but on the other hand Maine has grown in power both offensively and defensively since the series got under way. Even though the Bates game was lost it is no reason to believe that the team was not improved for Maine was able to match that super defense for which the Bates Bobcat is famous while on Saturday the offense showed up to particular advantage when two fast recruits raised ructions with the Colby line. Walter Riley and Johnny Wilson will be worth watching when they enter the fray. It is reinforcements like these that will help the Maine cause along considerably. Maine therefore has a great edge on us when replacements are in order. Then too there is the weight factor which will play a large part in the outcome of Saturday's game. The line of the Pale Blue almost outshadows the Polar Bear line in this respect. Bowdoin linemen will face strenuous opposition; in fact, they might have to inspire in inspired fashion to prevent a recurrence of Saturday's outcome. To turn to offensive play Bowdoin will have to watch the spinners for which Coach Fred Briggs has fondness. These are of no little concern for the Tufts Jumbos worried the Polar Bears plenty by them in their game this fall. A passing game will no doubt result if Maine is in the rear.

Bowdoin men realize that this has raised some havoc in the games thus far played this fall. It will be sorrowfully remembered that the first score in the Bates game was made by Kenison had grabbed a pass hurled by Brown to bring it down to the 19 yard line.

Bowdoin's chances are more or less conjectured. If the White line can work itself back into the same position it held in the Williams game, Bowdoin will carry a heavy threat to the team from Orono. Then too, the interference which once worked so well must be pulled out of the hinterland to which it disappeared in last Saturday's game before we can expect to trample the Pale Blue under foot and allow the backfield force of Gatchell, Ricker, Foster and Morrell to scintillate. The team will go into the game without injuries but on the other hand, as we have already said, lacking in good reserve material, in all it may be summed up in one short sentence. The team must "click" as it has shown it can in order to win. We or the Bowdoin student body has no reason to falter at this time. The support on Saturday should be as unwavering as if we were fighting (Continued on page 4)

PLANS FOR RALLY
BEFORE MAINE GAME SHOW CONFIDENCE

Intense excitement pervading the college on the eve of the Maine game will come to its climax Friday night, when, bringing with it monster bonfire, band music and a monster rally will be held on the Delta back of Adams Hall.

Coach Magee will address the students, alumni and other interested spectators present. An alumni representative will also be present to speak on behalf of Bowdoin's graduates. In addition to the inevitable impromptu demonstrations of the students, there is planned a huge bonfire. Bowdoin's band will be present to add to the enthusiasm of the evening.

Professor Roland H. Cobb, director of Physical Education in the college, struck upon a pertinent topic when he addressed the students gathered last Friday night in the gym for the Bates game rally.

Mentioning during the past five years, Prof. Cobb called the attention of the students by saying: "If there is any athletic project in Bowdoin which is worth having at all, whether it be football or any other sport, the students should back it to the limit."

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

George T. Sewall '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $2.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, November 5, 1930.

No. 14

Football

The showing the team made against Bates last Saturday was unfortunate, but not "deplorable" as one Bates man put it. Granting it did prove that Bates had the better team, Bowdoin has every reason to be proud of her coach and of her sons who wear her colors. There is little need to review the game and to criticize either coach or players. Another game, the Maine game, is almost upon us. In former years, not only has Maine defeated Bowdoin, she has trampled all over her. This year, we feel, there will be a far different story to record. We have still every confidence in Coach Bowser and his men, and we know that the Alumni are going to see a real football game to climax their annual Alumni Day.

The Flagpole

This Saturday, as one of the features of Alumni Day, we dedicate our Memorial Flagpole. Those words conjure up reminiscences of certain scenes of last Spring, of the Student Protest against the original site. Now that the pole has been erected, we cannot help but feel, and we know that even many of our quondam opponents also feel, that the present site is quite an improvement over the first. We do not care to go deeper into the matter. The pole is a memorial to our worthy dead, and while some of us would have perhaps preferred a memorial of a different sort, this represents the homage of Bowdoin to those of her sons who died in the World War. As such do we honor it.

Science

To have the opportunity of hearing Julian Huxley, grandson of Thomas Huxley and Thomas Arnold, lecture on such a subject as "Development, Heredity and Evolution" is one that few people would care to miss. It is a distinct honor that Huxley comes to Bowdoin on his first American lecture tour, and it speaks much for the College's attitude toward the sciences that he was secured at this time. Liberal Arts colleges in general, it is often claimed, pay but small attention to the science department. This year, with Professor Huxley and the various speakers at the Institute of Natural Science to be held next Spring, Bowdoin is most certainly disproving the truth of any such statement in her case, and is proving herself the well-balanced small college she has always claimed to be.

Chapel

Again an editorial on chapel, but this time in a slightly different vein. We believe we have demonstrated sufficiently that there is quite a feeling against this antique institution; we hope that at the next meeting of the Boards, steps will be taken either toward abolition of the compulsory phase, or else toward a modification of the present system along lines which will be more in accord with modern tendencies in education.

Meanwhile, however, we still are faced with the old situation, and we must make the best of it, we suppose. It is therefore with great pleasure that we note the latest modification of the chapel system: the holding of masses in chapel on Sundays. To our mind, these services will be a means of intensifying the religious significance of chapel, and perhaps will make for a better religious spirit. It also, of course, gives opportunity to those of us who profess the Catholic Faith to worship according to our own beliefs in our chapel.

In addition to this, however, the institution of masses has a much deeper significance. It is a concrete and definite proof of the fine spirit of toleration which exists at Bowdoin. We are eminently a college without religious bias: Protestant, Catholic and Jew find a welcome within our walls. What, then, could be more fitting than a mass in the College Chapel? And by the same token, the institution of services conducted by a rabbi for the benefit of our Jewish brethren would be another opportunity for the expression of this tolerance of the Administration.

These services, also, should give more opportunity for the development among the members of the student body, of a better spirit of tolerance and of a better understanding of religion itself.

MEMORIAL HALL
REHABILITATION IS NEARLY COMPLETE

The repairs and rehabilitation of Memorial Hall are still underway. The date of completion is still uncertain. However affairs are progressing rapidly, and the work is being pushed ahead as swiftly as possible. The chairs have arrived, and the stage with its tiers on each side is near completion. The walls have been finished in buff. The stairs leading down to the side door are nearly finished.

ished. It is hoped that the hall will soon be ready for use.

Hour Examinations
Wednesday, November 5
French 5
Thursday, November 6
History 11
Zoology 9
Economics 5
Friday, November 7
History 7
Monday, November 10
English 23
French 7
Wednesday, November 12
History 5

From the world's fine shoes THE HOUSE OF WALSH has selected NETTLETON and has received appointment as EXCLUSIVE REPRESENTATIVE for this fine footwear in Brunswick. With an inexhaustible array of styles immediately available and a custom service to meet the fancies of the most fastidious we are now prepared to meet the exacting demands of Bowdoin men. Prices range from $10 upwards.

The House of Walsh

Alumnus

(Continued from Page 1)
are snapshots taken by him from the deck of the Resolute. Another article is the Undergraduate Editorial by John L. Snider '31, the subject of which is "The Bowdoin Undergraduate of Yesterday and Today". It is based largely upon items from the Oriens of 1880. There is also an article on the class of 1884 featuring James C. Freeman who is the first fifth generation Bowdoin man to enter college. His great, great grandfather was the second treasurer of the college which was during 1776 to 1779. There is the usual commencement article which features a singular occurrence. Last June John W. Riley '05 celebrated his 25th reunion, his son John W. Riley, Jr., '30 graduated and his father Thomas H. Riley '80 had his fiftieth reunion. John W. Riley, Sr., is Secretary of the Trustees as his father was before him. The remainder of the issue includes several pages of individual class notes.

Communication

Being the skeptic and over-bored student mentioned by Mr. Orient in the last issue of the college weekly, it seems that I might break into print in my defense, if it is possible to offer a dissenting argument in these columns of "student opinion". To be sure, my name is in the column of contributing editors. I also hear that the title of count is still appended to names in France.

To complete my article on the chapel situation, several useful paragraphs of which I note in Mr. Orient's column in the Oct. 29 issue, there are a few more interesting considerations of the matter. Since the above mentioned gentleman has never had the opportunity to bask in the beneficial influence of philosophy 1, certain discrepancies in logic are excusable.

In the first place, my stand is definitely against compulsory chapel. In that respect I might indeed be considered over-bored. My unwelcome contributions to the Oriens' columns merely took the form of a protest and criticism against the blatant, preparatory-school display of countless editorials on a subject which was worn out before we were born and which has acquired an impregnable abode and college laws to assure its continuance. College by-laws are not broken in a day by the students, nor particularly by the attempt of one man, nor again by a straw vote which would draw "Against" from the students on anything connected with academic work. Congratulations are also in order for the two votes resulting from faculty interest. I only hope that the rehashing of the subject is less boring to other students and faculty than to myself.

The pen may be mightier than the sword; but then again, actions speak louder than words. I would unconditionally support my antagonist in this dispute if he should attempt to lead the oppressed students away from chapel in a general walk-out, but my present platform is to see the limited space in the Orient used for something interesting and to have the editorial column filled with a more useful, popular, and novel subject.

R. M. MCFARLAND '31

The Bowdoin A. A. has planned to have some 9,100 seats at Whit-tier Field for the Alumni Day tussle, the largest seating capacity in Bowdoin history, we're told.

RED CROSS PROGRAM
MEETS NEED OF POPULAR ATHLETICS

In some instances, as one observer commented, too specialized athletics has resulted in what might be termed a course in "sports appreciation" but has added no credits to the individual student's record. What is needed, apparently, is a program which is valuable to all students primarily as physical recreation, and which has besides, a certain practical aspect.

For years the Red Cross has been welcomed in universities and colleges with its program of swimming instruction, life-saving and first aid. These courses have been adopted as official requirements in certain institutions where physical education is stressed. In the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, among others, and most state colleges the Red Cross certificate is the highest award for swimming and life-saving. In technical institutions, such as schools of mining and engineering and in normal schools stressing physical education the first aid course is recognized for its practical value after graduation.

The Red Cross, it is explained, has no part in a discussion of two specialized sports; nevertheless, as the problem has arisen, it has suddenly been realized that in the Red Cross program which is a part of the work at so many institutions of higher learning, there is an answer ready to hand.

As one Red Cross instructor put it, "the college man is supposed to have higher academic qualifications than one who is not college trained—why should he not be better equipped for practical sport? He very likely will be a golf enthusiast, a tennis devotee, and in summer at least, will spend part of his time on the water. He may be a good hand at the former games, and through Red Cross instruction he can be sure of his qualifications as a swimmer."

The degree of interest in these Red Cross college sports is indicated by the fact that a considerable part of the instruction is by qualified students who give volunteer service. This service has its reward in a certificate from the Red Cross in recognition of a certain number of hours of such service, a higher award in a medal, and of course, the distinctive emblem of the life-saver. Should the graduate elect physical education as his field, he has a valuable asset in this official recognition of his effort.

These facts are generally recognized among college leaders consequently each year sees a closer degree of cooperation between the Red Cross and the country's educational institutions. Educators are found among the important groups of Red Cross leaders in the country, while the contact of students with the practical values of Red Cross service to themselves and to the communities over the United States has drawn into local leadership of Red Cross chapters many younger men as they have graduated and started their careers.

Debating

(Continued from page 1)

man von Rosenzweig staged a semi-humorous debate on compulsory chapel.

The judges later announced that the freshman team would consist of Frederick Burton, Stephen Deane, Charles Kahill and Carl Olson while the sophomore team will be composed of Albert S. Davis, Jr., Norman von Rosenzweig and George P. Toole, Jr.

Why Not Come to the Spa and Try One of Our Special Dinners? . . .

only 40c

Do It Today . . . Get It at the Spa

CALENDAR

Wednesday, Nov. 5.—The President will deliver the third talk in the series "Bowdoin Worthies", discussing President Joseph McKean.

Thursday, Nov. 6.—Musical Service. Prof. Mitchell presiding.

Friday, Nov. 7.—The President Saturday, Nov. 8.—Alumni Day. Prof. Mitchell will speak discussing the purpose and significance of Alumni Day.

Sunday, Nov. 9.—Rev. Chauncey W. Goodrich, D.D. Subject: "Lessons of Armistice Day". Dr. Goodrich was pastor of the American Church in Paris during the war.

Editorial Shavings

Merely because Bowdoin has failed thus far to "come through" in State Series games, is no reason why the student body should slacken the slightest in supporting the team. When Saturday comes, let's forget those defeats! Remember the victories of earlier in the season, and above all remember that the team can repeat them—if we are out there giving all our enthusiasm in support. Of course they can't get up to the necessary fighting pitch if the whole student body does its best to keep the place shrouded in gloom.

It's up to us to see that enthusiasm reaches a high pitch Saturday. It's not just another game—it's the Maine Game! If we win, it will be the greatest Bowdoin victory in years. If we lose, it will be just another hope gone up the spout.

If we lose, who should shoulder the weight of defeat? Not the team—they have come through a hard, fighting season. Not the coaches—they have done their utmost and done it well.

The student body should bear the blame, for not giving their wholehearted support, for letting the team down. Anybody can cheer a victory, but it takes nerve and courage to keep faith in defeat.

Tea Dances

(Continued from Page 1)

and the orchestra will be the Trafton Collegians of Auburn.

An informal dance will be held the same evening in the Gymnasium. Many alumni are expected to attend. The patronesses of the dance will be Mrs. K. C. M. Sills, Mrs. Gerald Wilder, Mrs. Charles T. Burnett, Mrs. Alfred O. Gross, Mrs. Noel C. Little, Mrs. Stanley P. Chase, Mrs. Edward H. Wass, Mrs. Boyd W. Bartlett, Mrs. Roland H. Cobb, Mrs. Nathaniel C. Kendrick, Mrs. Herbert W. Hartman, Mrs. Donovan D. Lancaster and Mrs. Peter B. Ferguson.

Following nomination by the Student Council, the President has appointed the following undergraduates as members of the Committee on the Union: Gerald H. Donahue '31, of Presque Isle, Harold V. Durand '32, of Montclair, N. J., and Walter W. Travis '33, of Mahwah, N. J.

Johnny Milliken will have his hands full with Mr. Fickett Saturday while Messrs. Ryan and Wilson will bear watching.

Professors Bartlett (right) and Little at the microphone of the new amplifying system.

Evidence that university faculties are giving thought to the need of a sports program which will attract general participation on the part of the students in their institutions is seen by Red Cross representatives having extensive contacts with the educational centers of the country.

The discussion of too much specialized athletic activity, in which only super athletes are wanted, or developed, leaving the majority of the students on the sidelines, has drawn attention not alone of the public, but has aroused interest among the students themselves, even though the charge is not necessarily applicable in all cases.

Above: Bornstein, Bates sub, scoring second touchdown of Saturday's game. Below: Brown of Bates carrying ball through Bowdoin line

COLLEGE BOOK STORE

CORONA SPECIAL TYPEWRITERS

— NEW IN COLORS —

$39.50

Including Carrying Case — (One Year Guarantee)

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Since the publication of the list of men newly pledged to fraternities, in the second issue of the Orient, Colin Campbell from Elizabeth, N. J., and Neally J. Fernald from Nottingham, N. H., both of the class of '34 have been pledged to the Zeta Psi and the Beta Theta Pi fraternities, respectively.

There will be no tea dance in the Union Armistice Day, owing to number of dances being held at the College Saturday, but it is planned to have one sometime in the near future, possibly November 22.

The first picture of the faculty made in recent years was taken by Webber on Monday.

Alumni Fund

Continued from Page 1

$25 to $30 and therefore only a few give anything. If more gave from $5 to $10 the total returns would be increased as well as the percentage of contributors. The money is being collected mainly by class agents, a system that has been found to be most satisfactory.

Alumni Day

Continued from Page 1

Liam E. Wing '02 of Deering High School, Portland, Dr. Joseph B. Drummond '07 of Portland, and Prof. Philip W. Meserve '11. The special committee appointed by President Sills to arrange the flagpole dedication comprises Prof. C. T. Burnett, Dean Paul Nixon, Prof. H. E. Andrews '34, E. O. Achorn '31 of Brunswick, and Maj. W. D. Ireland '16 of Portland.

SWIMMING TEAM HAS BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR COMING SEASON

Miller Believes He Has Makings of the Best Team He Ever Had

Although it will be difficult to fill the vacancies left by the graduation of Capt. Locke, breaststroker, Chalmers, diver, and Collins, sprinter, Coach Miller of the swimming team believes that he is working with the "makings of the best team he ever had". The reason for such belief lies in the fact that Capt. Smith, Walter Bowman, Norm Easton, Jim Esson, and Frank Howard are all swimming faster than they have ever done before.

Ted Denamore is improving in the breaststroke, and Frank Carpenter, a natural diver, showing a great deal of promise. Jimmy James, another leading candidate for diving honors, is getting back into form after a recent illness, and Coach Miller looks to him to score points in coming competition.

Freshmen who look very good are Calkins and Foster. The former is one of the fastest first year men ever to enter Bowdoin, while the latter is bound to show well in the distances and the backstroke.

Prospects Seen in Time Trials There have been two time trials during the past three weeks of practice, and in these trials, Bowdoin records have been broken. However, Coach Miller did not care to divulge in what distances nor by what swimmers these new times were set, although he said that Capt. Smith far exceeded any of his past performances in the fifty and one hundred yard swims, and that he would undoubtedly figure in the intercollegiate meets.

Improvements Made in Building The building crew is working on a new varsity room in the basement of the gym which will be used by the swimmers as a club and exercise room. It is hoped that a sun ray lamp will be installed in this room, so that in the winter colds may be prevented and sore muscles relieved. Incidentally, this will enable the men to have an August tan throughout the season. There is also in the course of construction a diving pit which will be very instrumental in the training of divers, especially those who are making their initial attempts. In this pit a safety belt will be used in order that men may jump into space with little fear of a physical hurt.

Recently in the mail to the Athletic Department have come letters from Union College and Connecticut Aggies requesting that arrangements be made for dual meets, and it is very possible that both these requests will be met. The team will probably swim Conn. Aggies during the week end of January tenth when it travels to Wesleyan.

Classical Club

(Continued from page 1)

year marks the two thousandth anniversary of his birth. Every two years the Classical Club presents a play, and this being the lucky year, the Mime will be produced. There will be at least two performances, the first for the faculty members of the club, and their friends. The second will be for the college in general. It will be given sometime after the opening of the second semester, but not at Ivy Day.

BLACK AND WHITE SWIMMING TEAMS IN DUAL MEET TODAY

Two Halves of Squad Slated for Competition as Orient Goes to Press

Swimming came to the front this afternoon when the powerful Black team faced the equally powerful White in a meet at the Curtis pool. To be more specific, let it be known that the Black and White teams were carefully chosen halves of the present swimming squad, and that each team was as determined to win as if it were at an intercollegiate meet. Conjectures were freely given as to the outcome, but neither side would definitely assert that it was a sure thing. The contest was open to the public and every event was run off as at a properly conducted meet.

It is worthy of notice that Coach Miller has had enough material to form two teams at such an early date. There has hardly ever been shown such great student interest in swimming as this year's turnout indicates.

Following is the list of events and the participants from each team. The results of the meet have not yet been ascertained as this goes to press.

Continued as this goes to press.
Whites			Blacks
(Smith, Capt.)	(Bowman, Capt.)
Medley Relay
Eaton			Easton
Murray			Denmore
Trott			Bowman
50-Yard
Esson			Howard
Smith			Calkins
220-Yard
Foster			Bowman
Trott			Morris
300-Medley Swim
Sperry			Durham
Diving
Carpenter			James
Colby			Carson
150-Yard Backstroke
Foster			Easton
Eaton
100-Yard
Smith			Howard
Foster			Carson
200-Breaststroke
Murray			Denmore
Sperry			Durham
200-Yard Relay
Foster			Easton
Esson			Howard
Stetson			Bowman
Smith			Calkins

A Lamb or A Llama

Or a Bear, or a Camel Hi-Pile. Whatever your choice you'll find it here. They're hot ideas for cold days — $50 to $65.

Our Kenwall Suits

Are a Worthy Achievement $45.00

HARMON'S

SURVEY OF MAINE-BOWDOIN CONTESTS IS DISAPPOINTING

For thirty-four years Maine and Bowdoin have struggled together on the gridiron, in which time Bowdoin has won thirteen, lost seventeen, and tied four games. In the last few years, however, the results of the games show a preponderance of scores for Maine.

In 1918 Bowdoin did not have a regular football team but had several spirited fellows who banded together to form an unofficial phalanx which defeated Maine 7-0. In 1919 when Roger Greene was coach and Brewster led the Polar Bears, Maine broke Bowdoin's lucky era by winning 18-0.

Nineteen hundred and twenty saw a compromise in a 7-7 tie. This game, the last in the state series, was noted for an eighty-yard run by a man from the much heavier Maine team. In '21 Fred Ostergren was coach and Capt. Al Morrell proved to be the hero at Orono as Bowdoin took a 14-7 victory from Maine. The '22 game was very close; the Polar Bears had one touchdown to their credit but had failed to make the point. Then Maine made a touchdown and their kick for the goal was blocked, but the ball freakishly bounced over for the extra point.

Maine Victories Predominant

In 1923 Maine won by a score of 28 to 6. Next year a no-score game. In '25 Bowdoin fumbled twice, and each time Maine turned them into six points apiece. The final score was: Maine 28, Bowdoin 14. In '26, a pass from Hovess to Forsythe made Bowdoin's only six points, while Maine made 21. In '27 a tie or a win would have given us the state series; but unfortunately three passes were intercepted, and Maine won the game, 27-0. In '28 Buzzell and Moran of Maine were our jinxes. Maine made 27 first downs and took the honors, 26-0. In '29 Souther scored our only touchdowns as Maine won 25-6.

SIGMA NU AND T. D. VICTORS IN TOUCH FOOTBALL THURSDAY

Three Teams Withdraw from League But Other Houses are to Continue Contest

Bowdoin's Interfraternity touch football program was literally thrown for a loss in the second week of competition when three teams were withdrawn. Psi Upsilon and Delta Kappa Epsilon in League A, and Beta Theta Pi in League B, have decided to forfeit their scheduled games. Last Wednesday Zeta Psi and Chi Psi, by virtue of forfeits by Psi U, and the Betas respectively, were credited with technical victories.

Theta Delta Chi defeated Delta Upsilon 12-0 on Pickard Field last Thursday. Things were very even until the second half, when Art Jordan intercepted a Delta U pass and ran for a touchdown. Toward the end of the game, Cleaves grabbed a forward which had been juggled considerably by the defense and went for another Theta Delt score. On the whole, the contest was very evenly fought with the T. D. outfit showing a smooth attack.

Sigma Nu Is Victorious

While Delta Upsilon was being badly treated at Pickard Field, Sigma Nu was pasting an artistic 18-0 beating on the Non-fraternity men on the Delta. Sigma Nu had a good man in Al Edwards, who tallied all 18 points. He converted two forward passes and one intercepted lateral into touchdowns. The poor playing surface seemed to hinder the teams less than their inexperience in playing with full teams.

Edward N. Merrill, Zeta Psi, in charge of Interfraternity touch football, is of the opinion that the lack of support accorded the idea in some cases is due to conflict with interclass football. When a group from any house goes bodily into interclass football, it is hardly possible to put an entire team on the field for the interfraternity games. In any case, however, the idea is helping to make Bowdoin football-conscious. The list of games will probably remain intact, and a team which is scheduled to meet Psi U, the Betas, or the Dekes, will get credit for a technical win.

SIGMA NU TEAM IN VICTORY OVER ALPHA DELTA PHI OUTFIT

Sigma Nu, high scorers of the campus in Interfraternity touch football, had little trouble in downing Alpha Delta Phi 24-0 Monday on the Delta. Dave Perkins threw forward passes to Lloyd Miller for three touchdowns, and Jerry Donahue snatched another wayward aerial to complete the scoring. It was a battle for both teams, notwithstanding the heavy scoring by Sigma Nu; and the Alpha Delt spirit was strong throughout the game. The A. D. team, incidentally, had a team which is scheduled to meet Psi U, the Betas, or the Dekes, will get credit for a technical win.

Zeta Psi advanced again by default in Interfraternity touch football, when Delta Upsilon failed to appear on the Delta on Monday. The Zetas are getting to be a jinx in their league. Last week it was Psi U who gave up the ghost with the Zeta Psi game in the offing, and now D. U. chooses not to play. It is a technical possibility for a team to win the league pennant without a game, but the Zetas will doubtless find an opponent soon enough.

MAINE FOOTBALL STANDING

Bates	1,000
Colby	500
Maine	500
Bowdoin	000

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - November 5th
GOOD NEWS
- with -
Bessie Love - Cliff Edwards
Stanley Smith
Also Sportlight
Knute Rockne Football Series

Thursday - November 6th
RAMON NOVARRO
- in -
CALL OF THE FLESH
Also Short Subjects

Friday - November 7th
VAUDEVILLE
- on the screen -
CAZAR OF BROADWAY
with Betty Compton
Also Paramount News

Saturday - November 8th
THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST
- with -
Ann Harding - James Rennie
Also Sound Comedy

Mon. - Tues. - November 10-11
MONTE CARLO
- with -
Jeannette MacDonald and Jack Buchanan
Paramount News - Sound Comedy

One will always stand out

CHESTERFIELD CIGARETTES are manufactured by LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

The banks of G-E floodlights at Georgia Tech's Grant Field can be adjusted to illuminate track meets as well as football games.

G-E Floodlighting Wins Favor for Football - Hockey - Track - Baseball - Tennis

G-E floodlighting equipment has a winning record. Its victories are counted in terms of pleased spectators, increased attendance, satisfied coaches and players.

The development of G-E athletic-field floodlighting equipment was planned with every consideration for the fundamental and special playing conditions it must meet. That is why the big Novalux projectors give ample and evenly diffused light over the entire playing area.

The development of General Electric floodlighting equipment has largely been the work of college-trained men in the G-E organization — other college-trained men are largely responsible for the continuing leadership of General Electric in furnishing the many other products which bear the G-E monogram.

JOIN US IN THE GENERAL ELECTRIC PROGRAM, BROADCAST EVERY SATURDAY EVENING ON A NATION-WIDE N.B.C. NETWORK

GENERAL ELECTRIC

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET
—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?'
Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS AND GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick
PLAY SAFE —
Send Your Washing to the

CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

Good Typography

Reasonable prices and prompt
service — the aim of

The Record Press
Get in touch with us for your next job of printing.
Tel. 3
Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

Bates Game

(Continued from Page 1)

six yards and then Bornstein went into action. Swinging far over to the left, he dodged King Grimmin's flying tackle by inches, and though Gatchell dove at him a second later, it was in vain. Pollock batted down Valenti's drop-kick.

So much for the scoring of the game. It was merely the consummation of one attempt after another, that had continually kept threatening Bowdoin. The first and greatest unfulfilled thrust, though, came earlier in the game when a series of punts had ended with the ball in Bates' possession on their thirty-nine yard line. On the next play, which failed to gain, Olson ripped a tendon and had to be carried from the field. Farrell made eight yards through tackle, and then McCluskey broke through the left side of the line. He cut towards the right, and, equipped along for twenty-four yards and a first down. His next smash at the line gave six yards, and he and Ted Brown teamed for a first down.

Valenti fell on a fumble, Farrell made a couple of yards, and as the quarter ended McCluskey got another two. On fourth down, with six yards to go, Brown chucked a pass over the line. It was fairly in the arms of Kenison and Valenti when Foster jumped up from nowhere and knocked it down, Bowdoin holding for downs on the play.

The last minutes of periods always seemed bad for Bowdoin. Affairs were going giddily with a minute or so to play in the second quarter, when Foster threw a forward pass to the field to Kenison. This time it was completed for a total of twenty-two yards, and Bowdoin braced for a line assault. Instead Bates took to a flying tackle, and a slight brawl ensued. A fifteen yard penalty for Bates was the only result. Pollock cuffed down another forward before it was well on its way, and as Bates grew desperate Kenison raced into the clear and had a forward rip off a finger-nail or two. Bowdoin stopped Valenti's plunge at the line, and took the ball on downs.

That was that as far as scoring plays and threats went. But we would like to know what happened. And we still think that Maine may go on the skids just a little interference, little stiffening of the line, and off we go.

The lineups: Bates—Kenison, lg; Carnie, lt; Long, lg; Shapiro, c; Perry, rg; Puler, rt; Italia, re; MacDonald, Valenti, qb; Browne, Garcelon, lhb; Farrell, Bornstein, rlb; McCluskey, rb.

Bowdoin—Grimmin, Barton, re; Ecke, rt; Pollock, rg; Milliken, c; Olson, Blodeau, Cramer, lg; Brown, Hay, lt; Southern, le; Plaisted, Gatchell, qb; Ricker, rlb; Foster, lhb; Morrill, fb.

Bates 0 0 0 13-13
Bowdoin 0 0 0 0-0
Touchdowns, McCluskey, Bornstein. Point by goal after touchdown. Valenti (drop kick), Ricker, R. N. Swofford, Brown, Umpire, F. W. Lewis. Linesman, R. N. Good, Colby. Field Judge, J. S. Nelson, Springfield. Time, 15m periods.

Maine Game

(Continued from Page 1)

ing the final battle for the state title. This year a new spirit has been apparent and it is this new spirit which must continue to permeate the halls of Bowdoin if we are to overcome the gloom which has persistently darkened our athletics. A victory on Saturday will carry us in the right direction.

DEKES' LEADING IN INTERFRATERNITY FALL TRACK MEET

Due to various and sundry causes, but chiefly the weather, the Fall Interfraternity track meet was not run off entirely last week. The events completed, and the men placing in them are as follows: High Jump, Stanwood, 5 feet, 9-1-2 inches, Kahill, Cushman, Packard. Broad Jump, Stanwood, 18 feet, 9 inches, Allen, Galbraith, Olson, 300 Yard Dash, Stanwood, 35 seconds, Thistlewaite, Sewall, Wingate, Mile and a half run, Usher, 7 minutes, 40 1-2 seconds, Sewall, Potler, Lavender, Hammer Throw, Galbraith, 135 feet, 11 inches, Vose, Arnold, Shot Put, Haskell, 35 feet, 11 1-2 inches, Vose, Galbraith, Stanwood. Seventy-five Yard Dash, Stanwood, 8 2-5 seconds, Thistlewaite, Winslow, Johnson. Three-quarter Mile, Sewall 3 minutes, 22 2-5 seconds, Usher, Thistlewaite, Cobb. Pole Vault, Appleton, 10 feet, 9 inches, Arnold, Cushman, tie, Hickok third.

The house standings in these events are: Delta Kappa Epsilon 27
Zeta Psi 18
Chi Psi 143
Psi Upsilon 11
Sigma Nu 9
Alpha Delta Phi 83
Delta Upsilon 8
Kappa Sigma 7
Beta Theta Pi 6
Alpha Tau Omega 6
Theta Delta Chi 0
Non-Fraternity 0
Stanwood is the outstanding man in the meet with five first places. Several other men are showing up exceptionally well in the races and much may be expected of them next spring.

Fryeburg Game

(Continued from Page 1)

start of the second period and in two rushes Hubbard made ten yards and a first down. Then on an off-tackle thrust, Odde broke through the line, eluded the secondary and dove across the line for a touchdown. The same man added the extra point on a short side play.

The next tally came in the third quarter when "Don" Reid downed Lewis' kick on Fryeburg's one yard line. An attempt by Glover to skirt right end was frustrated by "Red" Miller who brought this little flash down behind the goal-line for a safety. Again Kozlowski received Fryeburg's kick; this time on the forty-three. He returned it twenty yards before he was brought down. A pass from Lewis to Hubbard landed the ball on the thirteen. Odde smashed his way through for five yards and then on a reverse Hubbard carried the ball around left end for the remaining distance. A completed pass from Lewis to Hubbard gave the Freshmen a total of sixteen points.

Taking the ball on their own forty-five, the Polar Cubs started on another drive for a touchdown in the final quarter. Odde and Hubbard alternated in carrying and with the exception of Odde, the last named crossed the final white stripe. A forward pass for the extra point was intercepted. At this point in the game, the entire first string, with the exception of Odde, was replaced. In the final minute of play, Winchell got his fingers on a Fryeburg pass on the thirty-five and raced to the six yard stripe. On the first play, Robinson wormed his way across the line for the final six points. The final score: Bowdoin Freshmen 28, Fryeburg 0.

lg, Webster, Rankin Ackerman, Massey, lg; Kilburn
Wait, Drake, lt; Hill
Miller, Stone, le re, Charles, Clemens
Lewis, Winchell, Hayden, qb
Hubbard, Robbins, qb, Jones, Solari Larson, Burton, lhb rhb, Lawrence, Shaw
Odde, fb fb, Glover, Brew

Touchdowns: Odde 2, Hubbard, Robbins. Points after touchdown: Odde (rush), Hubbard (pass from Lewis). Referee, Shute, Umpire, Rosenfeld. Head linesman, Cobb. Time, four twelve minute periods.

Sportsman's Pen

Well, hopes are blasted once again but it wasn't just another Bowdoin football team that succumbed as a result of mediocrity; it was rather a defeat at the hands of a powerful line that couldn't be staved off longer than three quarters of an hour.

The Garnet line was easily the hardest driving seven Bowdoin has faced all season.

It's no exaggeration to say that Red Long of Bates is one of the best linemen in the Eastern small college ranks.

Suffering a pulled muscle in his side as Doc Brown did in the Tufts game, Olson had to give up the bat early, but will probably be on hand to answer the call against Maine.

Ricker was lightning getting away his punts Saturday. He had to be.

A Bowdoin victory over Maine is long since due. The Varsity has spent alumni away well satisfied. We wouldn't be surprised to see . . .

JUNIOR VARSITY TO MEET FROSH IN FRIDAY GAME

Rumor That Jayvees Will Play Other Junior Teams of Maine Colleges Next Fall

For the past three weeks, a group of men thirty-four strong, made up of thirteen seniors, ten juniors, and eleven sophomores, has been holding daily football practice under what is being called, in Bowdoin athletic circles, a Junior Varsity System. This system is supervised by Coach Bowser of the Varsity, while its actual working is directed by Mr. R. H. Cobb of the Athletic Department. The group uses varsity formations. It is rumored that next fall this junior squad will play a schedule of games, probably with similar teams from the three other Maine colleges.

Linemen who stand out as players with experience are Lippincott, tackle, Thomas, end, and Gould, tackle, while outstanding candidates for backfield positions are Richardson and Shute. All these men have seen service with Bowdoin's first squad. Coach Roberts, who assists Coach Bowser with the Varsity, has spent several afternoons with Mr. Cobb helping to coach. He has spent time especially with the linemen.

ZETES HOLD IVES TROPHY FOR LAST YEAR'S ACTIVITY

This Cup, Comparatively Unknown, Is Awarded for Prominence in All Sports

The announcement of the Ives Trophy Track Meet has set everyone thinking about the trophy itself. Strange as it may seem, very few students about the campus could tell what the trophy is, who donated it, who holds it now, who has won it in the past, or what events count in winning it.

The Howard R. Ives '98 trophy was donated four years ago as an inducement for interfraternity sports. It is surprising to learn that it was given not by Howard Ives but by an anonymous donor. It is a huge silver cup, nearly three feet tall, with the names of the winners engraved upon it. At present it stands in the trophy room of the gym where it may be seen at any time.

Cup Held by Zeta Psi
The trophy has changed hands every year and at present is held by Zeta Psi. Four years ago Sigma Nu won it, three years ago, Kappa Sigma, and two years ago, Theta Delta

PLAY BY PLAY STORY OF BATES GAME

Bowdoin won the toss and chose to receive. Chamberlain kicked off to Ricker, who returned the ball twelve yards to the Bowdoin thirty-five yard line.

Morrill made four yards off left tackle. Ricker swung around right end, being almost brought down three times, and was finally brought down after making seven yards and a first down.

Long broke through and sneared Ricker for a loss of two yards on a reverse play through Ricker's right side. Foster was thrown for a three yard loss on a criss-cross developing at right end.

Ricker swung around right end, being almost brought down three times, and was finally brought down after making seven yards and a first down.

McCluskey hit right tackle for seven yards and a first down.

Brown stopped Brown for a gain of only a yard. McCluskey pointed to Ricker, who was thrown for a yard loss on the Bowdoin thirty-five yard line.

Foster ran the entire width of the field, gaining five yards. Morrill ran the ball out at right guard, fast to the line.

Morrill failed to gain in a fake reverse at right end. The ball rolled out of bounds on the Bates thirty-eight yard line.

Bowdoin was penalized fifteen yards for holding. Ricker punted, Crimmins and Southern falling on the ball on the forty-yard line.

Valenti made a yard through right tackle. Farrell fumbled, but recovered for a loss of two yards.

Farrell made two yards through left tackle. McCluskey punted. Ricker falling on the ball on the Bowdoin thirty-five yard line.

Morrill made seven yards through left tackle. Ricker hit five yards on a criss-cross. Ricker punted to Valenti, who ran the ball back six yards to the Bates thirty-nine yard line.

Ricker failed to gain at right guard. Olson was injured on the play, and carried from the field.

Farrell made eight yards through left tackle. McCluskey hit right tackle, reversed his field, and dodged through the secondary for twenty-four yards and a first down.

McCluskey hit left tackle for two yards and a first down.

Valenti fumbled, recovering the ball with a loss of one yard.

Farrell made two yards through left tackle. McCluskey made three yards through left tackle. The period ended with the ball in Bates' possession on the Bowdoin fourteen yard line, four downs and seven yards to go.

Second Period
Brown dropped back to throw a pass; it was over the line and Foster jumped up, batting it almost out of the arms of two Bates receivers, Kenison and Valenti. Bowdoin took the ball down.

Foster went through right tackle, and ground off fifteen yards to the secondary defense could bring him down. The line had opened up a wide hole and the interference was good for the first time. First down.

Foster started towards left end on a criss-cross, but was thrown for a six yard loss. A trick forward pass behind the line, played to Ricker, was complete, but Long and Shapiro were on the neck and he threw him for a four yard loss.

Ricker punted to Valenti, who was thrown for a one yard loss by Crimmins and Milliken on the Bates twenty-nine yard line.

McCluskey went through left tackle for two yards and a first down.

Brown broke through right tackle, cut towards his left, and was in a clear field. He went to the line of scrimmage and Bates finally bringing him down with a first down.

Bates was penalized five yards for offside. Brown made three yards through left tackle. Pollock, as Brown tried right tackle to go, broke through the line and drove him back for a five yard loss.

A wild forward pass from Brown was incomplete. McCluskey punted over the goal line. Bowdoin taking it on their twenty yard line.

Foster took the ball on a criss-cross and made a yard at right tackle.

Morrill went through left tackle for three yards and a first down.

Morrill made a yard at left tackle. Ricker punted to Valenti, who dodged back fourteen yards to Bowdoin's forty-six yard line. Farrell made two yards through left tackle. Brown stopped McCluskey for a yard gain at right tackle.

McCluskey made three yards through right tackle. On fourth down, with one yard to go, Pollock dropped Farrell for a three yard loss. Bowdoin took the ball on downs.

Morrill went through right tackle for seven yards. Foster went through right tackle for seven yards. Ricker punted, and Valenti ran the ball back three yards to the Bates twenty-six yard line. Brown made seven yards through right tackle. Morrill went through right guard for three yards and a first down.

Chi. The trophy is a reward not for merely one sport or event but for an entire year's record in all sports. Baseball, basketball, track and swimming are the main sports. Soccer was formerly included but this has been dropped. Football has taken its place but it has not been definitely decided whether or not this will count toward the trophy. Winter sports also were formerly included but were discontinued two years ago. If sufficient interest is shown in them this year it is possible they will be revived.

Freshman Game Statistics	Bowdoin	Fryeburg
Yards gained by rushing	309	75
Yards lost by rushing	37	16
Yards lost by penalties	10	30
Number of first downs	12	4
Total runbacks	68	60
Kicks	6	3
Forward passes	7	16
Attempted	3	3
Completed	4	1
Intercepted	3	1
Yards gained by passing	31	26
Average distance of rushes	5	3
Average distance of kicks	32	35

PLAY BY PLAY STORY OF BATES GAME

finger tips. Bates was penalized five yards for a second incomplete forward pass.

Valenti crashed into left tackle, and was promptly thrown a fine of one yard by Pollock. Bates lost the ball on downs.

The half ended with the ball on the fifty yard line in Bowdoin's possession, first down, and ten yards to go.

Third Period
McCluskey kicked off to Gatchell, who was run out of bounds for six yards' gain on the Bowdoin twenty-four yard line.

Foster made one yard at right end. Morrill hit left tackle for one yard.

Ricker made one yard at right tackle on a criss-cross. Valenti carried the ball out of bounds for no gain.

Farrell punted to Brown, who ran the ball back fifteen yards to Bowdoin's forty-nine yard line.

Valenti carried the ball out of bounds for no gain. McCluskey hit right tackle for three yards.

McCluskey hit right tackle for three yards. Morrill hit left tackle for one yard. The ball going to Bowdoin on its twenty yard line.

Souther swung around right end on a reverse for seven yards.

Morrill hit right tackle for two yards. Morrill hit left tackle for one yard and a first down.

Foster lost five yards on a right end sweep. Ricker went around left end for nine yards. Ricker made one yard around left end.

Ricker punted to Valenti, who ran the ball back three yards to the Bates thirty-three yard line.

Farrell made one yard around left end. On a fake kick that developed into a spin on the ball, Valenti was thrown for three yards.

McCluskey punted to Ricker, who was thrown three yards on the Bowdoin thirty-two yard line.

Foster lost six yards on a lateral pass. Foster made five yards through left tackle. Ricker punted to Valenti, who came back ten yards to the Bates twenty-seven yard line.

Valenti ran the ball out of bounds for a gain of less than a yard.

Farrell made five yards through left tackle. Brown stopped Brown dead at right tackle. McCluskey punted to Foster, who came ten yards to the Bowdoin twenty-five yard line.

Foster made two yards through right tackle. Foster was stopped dead at right tackle. McCluskey punted to Valenti, who was stopped without gain by Crimmins, on the Bates thirty-eight yard line.

McCluskey hit right tackle for five yards. McCluskey hit right tackle for three yards. McCluskey made half a yard through right tackle.

McCluskey got off a quick kick, which rolled out on Bowdoin's ten yard line.

The quarter ended with the ball in Bowdoin's possession on its ten yard line, first down, and ten yards to go.

Fourth Period
Foster lost five yards around left end. Ricker punted to Valenti, who ran the ball back three yards to Bowdoin's thirty-four yard line.

Farrell made two yards through left tackle. Brown stopped Brown dead at right tackle. McCluskey punted to Foster, who came ten yards to the Bowdoin twenty-five yard line.

Foster made two yards through right tackle. Foster was stopped dead at right tackle. McCluskey hit right tackle for five yards.

McCluskey hit right tackle for three yards. McCluskey made half a yard through right tackle.

McCluskey got off a quick kick, which rolled out on Bowdoin's ten yard line.

The quarter ended with the ball in Bowdoin's possession on its ten yard line, first down, and ten yards to go.

Foster lost five yards around left end. Ricker punted to Valenti, who ran the ball back three yards to Bowdoin's thirty-four yard line.

Farrell made two yards through left tackle. Brown stopped Brown dead at right tackle. McCluskey punted to Foster, who came ten yards to the Bowdoin twenty-five yard line.

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY
Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail
A Specialty of Fraternity Trade
574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers
SOULE and WALKER
JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD
We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store
Watch Repairing
By An Experienced Watchmaker
Shaffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"
"The College Jeweler"
Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S
Candy and Ice Cream
74 MAINE STREET

Complete Travel Service Free—
Booklet Tours Cruises Bermuda,
Havana, Florida, West Indies,
Europe, Phone, call or write PORTLAND TOURIST CO., 198 Middle
St., Portland, Maine.

There will be a meeting of all the men interested in the religious activities of the college in the B. C. A. Room of the Union at 7:00 p.m., on November 13th. The members of the faculty committee on religious activities in the college will be present. Every man should come prepared to hear, discuss, and offer suggestions on a possible program for a Christian Association.

DUNHILL LIGHTERS now
$4.95
Formerly Sold from Ten to Twenty Dollars
HARMON'S

BRILLIANT BOWDOIN TEAM TURNS BACK ANCIENT RIVAL 13-7, FOR FIRST TIME IN NINE LONG YEARS

WAR MEMORIAL IS DEDICATED ON ALUMNI DAY

General Pershing Unable to Attend, Sends Regrets to President Sills

GOVERNOR GARDINER REPRESENTS MAINE

Flagstaff is Styled by President as "Simply a Fitting and Decent and Beautiful Symbol of Affectionate Gratitude"

Breaking free in the frosty breeze just as the college band finished the "Star Spangled Banner," the great ceremonial flag floated triumphantly over the heads of the assembled crowd. It was a splendid climax to the dedication of the Bowdoin War Memorial Flagstaff, erected to honor those of this college who gave their lives during the World War.

Several hundred people, alumni, friends of the college, and students gathered on the terrace of the Walker Art Building last Saturday morning, Alumni Day, to witness the formal presentation of the flagstaff, which, as President Sills remarked in his address, "is simply a fitting and decent and beautiful symbol of affectionate gratitude."

Following the parade of the student body led by the band, the doors of the Library swung open, and the Bowdoin faculty appeared, garbed in cap and gown, the President leading; they filed slowly to the terrace of the Art Building which was utilized as an outdoor rearm.

Governor Gardiner Speaks
Before introducing Governor William Tudor Gardiner, of Maine, President Sills read a personal letter from General Pershing, expressing his regrets at not being able to attend the ceremonies. Another communication, from Admiral William V. Pratt, Bowdoin Alumnus, was also read. On behalf of the State of Maine, Governor Gardiner said in part: "It seems suitable for Maine to join in the dedication of a monument to graduates who have served their city, state and nation. . . . The state is proud of Bowdoin men; and Bowdoin opens her doors in a spirit of patriotism and hospitality to the recruiting of a regiment. Their names will endure on this monument."

President Robert Devore Leigh, of Bennington College, and a former member of the Bowdoin Alumni Council, delivered the presentation speech as representative of the college alumni. Addressing President Sills he said: "Among those gathered here today are teachers, classmates, fraternity brothers, and intimate friends of those whose names appear on the base of the flagstaff. Solemn memories make speech but rude interruption."

Flagstaff a Permanent Object
"This monument will be a permanent landmark on the Bowdoin campus. It is not only a shrine, but a living symbol for those in daily contact." President Leigh continued by citing the utter uselessness of war, and its tragedy. "Listen to the scholars," he said.

The justification for this sacrifice is that through the tragic drama of death periodic national anarchy may be ended. Dare we not hope that the intimate appeal of man will weave strength and purpose for youthful lives?"

"The task of world peace calls for the united resources of varied intellects. May this flagstaff stand on the campus as a monument that men serve other ends than self-ambition. May it be an inspiration, and a sanctuary."

President's Acceptance

When the applause for President Leigh's speech had died away, President Sills delivered a brief acceptance, in main a plea for world peace. He said in part: "In accepting and dedicating this flagstaff erected in memory of the sons of the college who offered their lives and their services to their country in the World War."

(Continued on page 3)

ASSISTANT PROF. BROWN SPEAKS AT PORTLAND

Herbert Ross Brown, assistant professor of English, read a paper entitled "The Longfellow Tradition" to members of the Fraternity Club of Portland at the residence of Judge Ingraham last Monday night. Within the last few years the Club has heard papers by Professor Burnett on the life of the late President Hyde; by Professor W. B. Mitchell on Benjamin Franklin; and by Dr. Lincoln on his impressions of the situation in China.

A Decidedly Close Call Near White Goal Line

An action shot of the Bowdoin Maine game Saturday, in which the Polar Bears triumphed, 13 to 7. This Maine forward pass was intercepted by Ricker on Bowdoin's five yard line and led to the first Bowdoin score, the Polar Bears putting on a sustained drive of 85 yards which ended in Maine's end zone. In the picture, Lamb, the Maine receiver missed the ball by inches and as it sailed over his head it was seized by Ricker, who is nearly hidden behind Morrell, number 20. Ricker ran the ball to his 15 yard line before being dropped.

"A Garrulous Grad"

The very first person to climb to his seat in the grandstand at the game last Saturday was John Clair Minot '96, one time Editor-in-chief of the Orient, present Literary Editor of the Boston Herald, overseer of the college, and, in his own words, "a garrulous old grad."

The thing about Mr. Minot of pertinent interest is that he was center on the sophomore team of '93, the first football team representing Bowdoin that played Maine.

Bowdoin won by the score of 12-10.

This game was played in 1893, the first year Maine had a team.

Bowdoin did not have a varsity team till 1896.

Mr. Minot has never missed a Maine-Bowdoin contest. Last Friday night was the first time in 38 years that he has been absent from a Delta Kappa Epsilon initiation.

CAPACITY CROWD HEARS JULIAN HUXLEY LECTURE

Subject of Eminent Biologist "Development, Heredity and Evolution"

Last Wednesday evening, Professor Julian Huxley, eminent British biologist and writer, lectured before a capacity audience in the Moulton Union Lounge. In a sense, perhaps, this lecture opened the Bowdoin Institute of Natural Science, the main part of which will be held this spring.

Professor Huxley's subject, "Development, Heredity and Evolution," though admittedly one of popular interest, is nevertheless one which lends itself with difficulty to popular presentation. Professor Huxley, however, delivered his material with a minimum of technicalities and quite impressed his audience.

He stated first that all life comes from preceding life, and hence there is a continuity of living substance from one generation to the next. Certain characters, furthermore, "seem hereditary"—to mark one line. These characters transmitted? Again, one notes a gradual change in certain races, or evolution. How does this come about?

Biologically speaking the proof of evolution was the greatest discovery of the nineteenth century. The great triumph of the twentieth century has been the development of Heredity to the large subsistence it is today, due to the rediscovery of Mendel's Laws in 1900. These discoveries of Mendel have shown us a picture, or rather a mosaic made up of independent units. They have also shown us these changes, to which Evolution

(Continued on Page 3)

FIVE FRATERNITIES HOLD INITIATIONS BEFORE MAINE GAME

Large Body of Alumni Return for Traditional Ceremonies

Five fraternities continued Bowdoin's time-honored custom of fall initiations when, last week, they received seventy-two men into membership. Hell Week, in all cases, was culminated by formal banquets. Alpha Delta Phi, with nearly thirty alumni present to view the ceremonies, initiated fifteen men, after which they served a banquet. Over thirty old graduates returned to Psi Upsilon for the occasion, when twelve men, all freshmen, were made brothers. Doctor Lincoln, '91, addressed the banquet.

Thirteen men comprise the new membership of Delta Kappa Epsilon. At dinner last Friday night, twenty-five alumni present. John Eliot, '73, of Boothbay, the chapter's oldest living graduate, spoke. Judge Fisher, '81, of Lowell, Mass., was also a guest of honor.

By far the largest delegation, twenty-one men in all, was initiated by Theta Delta Chi. Ceremonies were conducted from Monday until Friday because of this number. Professor Wilmot B. Mitchell was toastmaster at their Friday night banquet. Theta alumni were present.

Eleven men were taken into Zeta Psi Friday evening, and one Saturday.

(Continued on page 3)

Play by Play Account of Bowdoin-Maine Contest

First Quarter
Foster took Fickett's kickoff on his own two yard line and dodged his way to the 23 where he was tackled by Sims. Sims was hurt and was replaced by Wilson at left half.

On the first play, a cross back, Ricker fumbled and Romanovsky recovered for Maine on the Bowdoin 35.

Wilson got two yards around right end being stopped by Sargent.

Wiser headed by beautiful interference, twisted his way for 15 yards and a first down on the Bowdoin 29.

Calderwood nailed Ricker for a one-yard loss.

Morrell picked up three through right guard before being stopped by Davis.

Scrubbed by beautiful interference, twisted his way for 15 yards and a first down on the Bowdoin 45.

Ricker faked a punt and went through left tackle for 27 yards and a first down on the Maine 27 yard line.

Maine took a time-out and on the next play Morrell plunged through left guard for 5 yards.

Morrell picked up another on the crossback side of the Maine line.

Foster went off right tackle and continued to the Maine 10 yard line for another first down.

Ricker got a yard at left tackle.

Foster turned the right end for 4 more.

Morrell hit the middle of the Maine line to be stopped by Davis.

Ricker went around left end, but failed to make a first down and it was Maine's ball on their own 2 yard line.

POLAR BEAR ELEVEN TO WIND UP SEASON WITH WESLEYAN GAME

Inspired Bowser Outfit Has Large Chance of Winning Biennial Contest

Bowdoin will wind up her football season this Saturday at Middletown, when the team meets Wesleyan. Overconfidence is an unhealthy state of mind, and conjectures as to results of football games this fall have been a decided waste of time. Especially is this true when we consider what little weight predictions concerning this year's State series have really held.

However, the temptation to compare the boys from Middletown with the boys from Bowdoin, who were suffering from infantile paralysis when they met Williams, but the latest reports have it that the epidemic down there in Connecticut is all over. This would make it a little harder for the Bowdoin team.

Everything else being equal, a comparison of the players alone means a loss for Wesleyan. Bowdoin has a stronger line and a much classier backfield. Ricker and Foster form a double speed threat that Schlums will have trouble in equalling. Last Saturday Fowle, Tuttle and Markowski, battered great holes through the Wesleyan line. Morrell should follow in their tracks without much difficulty.

(Continued on page 3)

MAINE GAME STATISTICS

	Bowdoin	Maine
First Downs	18	12
Gained from scrimmage	407	149
Lost from scrimmage	16	25
Average gain from scrimmage	7	3
Forward Passes:
Attempted	5	6
Completed	1	3
Yardage	17	12
Enemy forwards intercepted	3	2
Rumback of yardage	27	16
Average rumback of	9	3
Fumbles	4	2
Own fumbles recovered	2	2
Lost on fumbles	2	10
Penalties	5	0
Punts	4	6
Total yardage	138	195
Average yardage	35	33

(Continued on Page 4)

MANY HOUSES HOLD POST GAME DANCES

Large Crowd Fills Sargent Gymnasium as Bowdoin Celebrates Victory

Immediately after the game last Saturday tea dances were held at a number of the fraternity houses on campus. Dinner dances later in the evening preceded the informal at the gymnasium, where the Arcadians played. Patronesses at the gym dance were Mrs. K. C. M. Sills, Mrs. Charles T. Burnett, Mrs. Boyd W. Bartlett, Mrs. Stanley P. Chase, Mrs. Roland H. Cobb, Mrs. Peter B. Ferguson, Mrs. Alfred O. Gross, Mrs. Nathaniel G. Kendrick, Mrs. Donovan D. Lancaster, Mrs. Noel C. Little, Mrs. Edward H. Wass, Mrs. Herbert W. Hartmann, and Mrs. Gerald Wilder.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Wilder were patron and patroness at the Alpha Delta Phi dance, where the Georgians played. At the Chi Psi lodge Mr. and Mrs. Manton Copeland were patron and patroness. The Arcadians furnished the music. Mrs. John Baxter and Mrs. Emily P. Chase were patronesses at the D. K. E. house, where the Trafton orchestra played. Clyde Condi and his Romanians played at the Sigma Nu house, where Mrs. Stockman and Mrs. Roehr were patronesses. At the Beta house the patronesses were Mrs. Daniel C. Stanwood, Mrs. Stanley B. Smith, and Mrs. George Woodman. Dinner dances were given at the A. T. O. and Kappa Sigma Houses. Professor and Mrs. Charles H. Gray were patron and patroness at the A. T. O. house, while the Trafton orchestra furnished the music. At the Kappa Sigma house the patron and patronesses were Professor and Mrs. E. S. Hammond and Mrs. Florence Appleton. The Finlanders played.

WHITE'S SPEED PUZZLES PALE BLUE ELEVEN

Bowser Inspired Polar Bears Completely Outplay Orondo Contingent

MORRELL GAINS 75 YDS IN FOUR LINE BUCKS

Valiant White Line Raises Particular Havoc on Massive Maine Forward Wall and Opens Holes For Hurricane Offense

Driven by a force which was quite evidently the inspiration of its coach, Charles W. Bowser, one of the most valiant of Bowdoin aggregations upset the dope of the dopsters and humbled the much touted Maine outfit to the lyrical melody of 13-7, last Saturday at Whittier Field.

It was a flashy elusive and ghost like attack which the rampant White Bear launched forth upon a completely baffled Bruin from the north. The game was all Bowdoin grinds and undergrids have dreamt of during those long desolate years which go back into the dim reaches of 1921.

It would be hard to pick any individual stars of the game for they worked in a union which was perfection itself. In the backfield Foster and Ricker never looked better on those famous end runs while Morrell outshone himself in hammering thru the corpulent Maine line while Gatchell led the way for him in admirable fashion. Crimmins and Southern were down under punts like shots out of the blue while Barton who relieved Crimmins made the Maine backfield lose heart by his flash-like tackles behind the line. Eke, Pollock, Milliken, Blodreau, and "Doc" Brown were in there from start to finish viciously smacking the Maine forward line although outweighed 15 pounds to a man. Davis and Horne helped rated Pale Blue linemen were helped before the siege of the White's first defense.

All that was left of the supposedly great Maine backfield was a shurled memory of the Colby game. Even that was erased in the battering onslaught.

During the game Bowdoin made six magnificent surges. The first saw the White carry the ball 80 yards only to falter but this acted only as a spur to their efforts. The second drive was rewarded after travelling 95 yards by score. Another charge of 80 yards made the score 13 to nothing with additional charges of 75, 50, and 30 yards kept the White cohorts in a frenzy. They were dazed by the exhibition before them. Old Alumni who hadn't seen a victory since 1921 and others who realized that 1929 was the date before that when Bowdoin tasted victory lost all the dignity for which they are renowned. Now was the time to show appreciation for the efforts of Charlie Bowser and surely it was manifest here. At last a Bowdoin team has learned to fight back with a viciousness that is enough to give the most disgruntled alumnus heart.

Statistics show how completely out rushed Maine was entirely throughout the game. Bowdoin gained 435 yards via the rushing route against 177 for the Pale Blue. This alone would show that the Maine men were baffled at every point throughout the game. The figures on first down are not indicative of the exhibition, however, for the long runs of Ricker and Foster and the twisting drives of Morrell were of no mean length. During the afternoon Bowdoin collected 16 first downs to 12 for Maine.

The start of the game was none too auspicious for Bowdoin but this lasted only a matter of seconds. Fickett kicked off to Foster who picked going to the White's two yard line. Foster ran it back twenty six yards where Ricker on the next play on an attempted cross back fumbled, Romanovsky recovering. Maine on the Bowdoin 20 yard line attempted a punt. Bagley but it rolled over the line.

(Continued on page 4)

FRESHMAN WARNING

A comparison of the last four fall freshman reviews and warnings for the first year men shows a gradual improvement, an improvement more noticeable in the major warnings than the minor warnings. Starting with the fall of 1927 we have charted below the statistics so that the reader can make his own comparisons:

	Major Warnings	Minor Warnings
1927	30	49
1928	31	42
1929	20	50
1930	27	38
Average	27	45

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Associate Editors

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

Contributing Editors

Robert M. McFarland '31
William N. Small '31

John T. Gould '31

Fred R. Kleibacker '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $2.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance. Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, November 12, 1930.

No. 15

The Maine Game

After Saturday's brilliant performance, Coach Bowser and his men deserve great praise. And yet, anything we say here seems trite and unnecessary. The team, the student body, the faculty, the alumni — in fact, anyone who has followed the season — all know how superb that game was. Smarting from a somewhat unexpected defeat at the hands of Bates, the Polar Bear awoke, and did what every Bowdoin man has wanted him to do for years — beat Maine. To the coach and to each member of that team — "Well done!"

The War Memorial

Last week, surprise was expressed in certain quarters that we of the ORIENT should write as we did about the war memorial. To be sure, we opposed it, and vigorously, last year. Since then, however, it has been erected in a much more pleasing location than the one originally chosen. Moreover, last Saturday it was officially dedicated as Bowdoin's tribute to her World War dead. It is no longer that troublesome flagpole; it is a monument to that group of young men who died for their country and her ideals. It is to them, however, and not to war. We are distinctly opposed to glorification of war in any manner. We hope that those who consider this monument in such a light will be few in number. The sacrifice itself may have been noble; the principle involved was not. In thus honoring those who died, let us not lose sight of the significance of that horrible barbarism, war. Let us hope that Bowdoin will have to erect no more memorials to war dead!

Union Cafeteria

As most of us know, the College has been running the cafeteria in the Moulton Union at a decided loss. It would seem that this had gone on long enough, and that something drastic should be done, either by the students or by the College itself to remedy this situation.

Now, of course, the College should not expect, nor does it, to make money out of this enterprise. The students, however, cannot expect that the cafeteria will be continued at a loss.

What is the situation? Judging from what information we could gather from those who patronize the cafeteria, the food is, in general, well-cooked, reasonable in price, and generous in quantity. We heard but minor criticisms of the management — such as a slight irregularity in prices of dishes, some being a bit higher than necessary and others a bit lower. One of the persons consulted felt that the men behind the counter were not as efficient as they should be. We feel that more criticisms would be helpful and welcomed by the Manager.

Well then, if this is the situation, why is the patronage so small? The answer perhaps lies in the fact that, after all, the Union is relatively new. Before its time, boarding houses and various restaurants in town fed the non-fraternity group and others. In each of these, quite definite eating clubs were formed — that is, a certain group ate together and had much in common. Survivals of those groups exist today and are faithful to these eating houses. Moreover, men who have entered College since the cafeteria facilities were installed have been taken into these "clubs". Perhaps these are admirable in their way, but we feel that they do work against the financial success of the cafeteria.

Of course, there is one big problem in the system itself, and one which cannot be changed unless the system itself be discarded. This is the fact that unlike the various boarding houses, the cafeteria offers quite a large variety of food from which its patrons may choose. Imagine a fraternity dining club (which, after all, serves roughly the same number of men) with a choice of three meats on the bill-of-fare! Or a private boarding house either! Variety may not only account for the price, but the price as well. Quite a howl would arise from the patrons if the cafeteria were to adopt the boarding house system. And yet, if more patronage is not secured, it would seem that this might be a very logical step for the College to take: the formation of an eating club at the usual weekly rates and serving the table d'hôte style. At least, this would give the management a definite number of meals to prepare and consequently do much toward the elimination of the waste which so often prevails under the a la carte plan.

This problem of the cafeteria deficit is a real one, and one in which the College as a whole should be interested. We may not realize now the convenience of having this cafeteria in the Union, once taken away, however, its loss would be felt keenly by almost everyone. As we said above, we feel that the students and faculty could help much with suggestions. We know that such appeals have been made before, and with little success. We can hardly expect that we are capable of overcoming that huge discouraging inertia which is the characteristic of so many members of both student body and faculty. However, we may at least stir up a few helpful suggestions by this editorial, and if so, its purpose will be served.

VARIOUS PHASES OF WORLD WAR RECALLED
BY REV. C. W. GOODRICHMemories of Armistice Day of Twelve Years Ago Told by Chapel Speaker

The speaker at Chapel, Sunday afternoon, November 9, 1930, was the Reverend Mr. Chauncey W. Goodrich. In introducing the Rev. Mr. Goodrich, President Sills remarked that no more appropriate speaker than this one could be chosen to give an address the Sunday before Armistice Day, because Mr. Goodrich was pastor of the American Church in Paris during the World War.

Mr. Goodrich was a fine preacher, striking in appearance, and with a strong voice that carried his thrilling message to everyone present. Mr. Goodrich illustrated his address with impressive and colorful incidents.

If I were to choose any text for my sermon this afternoon, I would take it from that stirring chapter in the Bible, the eleventh of Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews. There is there a roll of honor of the faithful. The last two verses are, "And these all, having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promise: God having provided something better for us, that they without us should not be made perfect."

Verdun
Twelve years ago two men found themselves together in the city of Verdun, a city which, if any were, was baptized in blood. The day was the eleventh of November. One of the men was a chaplain, whom I knew. The other was a colonel in the French army, a gray-haired man, who had aged in the service. The two were standing at the top of the wide steps leading from the square to the doors of the Cathedral of Verdun. The doors were closed behind them as they looked out over the square. A seething crowd filled the space, a mob that moved restlessly as if waiting for something. Then word came of the signing of the Armistice. Behind the two men the doors of the cathedral swung open. With a surge the mob turned toward the church; and, following some instinct, poured up over the steps, down the aisles, stopping only at the cancel rail. The two men had been borne along with the crowd; and, as they turned, they saw an unforgettable sight of a heterogeneous congregation. The American chaplain realized that he should conduct the service. Since his voice had been affected by gas a few days previous, he turned to a group of Englishmen standing near, and uttering the words, "Behind our army immediately all the Englishmen joined in. After that he hesitated, trying to think of some prayer to say. The congregation realized more keenly than he what to say, and started the Lord's Prayer, the French joining in. As they prayed, realizing the uniqueness of such an occasion, the chaplain glanced out over the people. Everyone had fallen to his knees. The English were praying with their heads lifted up, and the light from the holes in the roof shone in their faces. The Americans and French were praying with their heads bowed. What an illustration of the fine impulses that do show themselves at a turning point!

Guerre a la guerre
We have become so used to peace that we are not thankful for it. What would those who endured the unendurable say now? Behind our army was an impetus, behind our men a purpose. Americans do not do just what they are bidden without some thinking. There is a bit of the man from Missouri in every one of us. Thank God. For two and a half years our men had been watching the conflict, and they came to it with a definite mind. First, negatively, they were not fighting for their own country. It is one thing to be a Frenchman, fighting for one's own home and native land, and it is quite another thing to be fighting miles from one's own American home for another country.

If one were to ask the average man disembarking at Brest what he was there for, he would probably in some way try to say that he was there to curb tyrannical autocracy. He might say, "Can the Kaiser?" At the war went on they began to realize the inefficiency and the inutilty of war as a final means of decision. This thought grew to a fierce hate for war and a hope that this was a war to end war. This became the idea of the English, too, and on many a French memorial are these words, "Guerre a la guerre", war against war. It seems, sometimes, as if our men had an instinctive sense of the relations between the allied forces, the ideas of hospitality that have been fostered by thinkers for two centuries.

A prominent and fine statesman once said that slavery should be perpetuated, that God intended it, and it would be on the earth forever. At the same time, here in this town a woman thought differently and wrote an inspiring and useful book. The woman was Harriet Beecher Stowe; the book, Uncle Tom's Cabin. Today people say that war is inevitable. They may be proved to be wrong also.

Sandbags and Flood
When the river Seine was at an unprecedented fullness in 1910, and news came to Paris that a large swell, moving up the river would reach Paris in nearly two hours, people feverishly set to work to fill up the spaces in the walls with sandbags. The swell slowly rose until only twelve inches of sandbags were between the river and the homes of Paris, but the twelve inches were enough. Who can say that each barrier which we set up against war may not someday save us?

It is not without emotion that I

Mustard and Cress

"Time and again we've sworn to 'lay off' the Lewiston Journal, never again to poke fun at it, never again to laugh at it, never again to pity it, and never again to care what it does. Then the Lewiston Journal did something that makes our earnest vows like nothing, makes us forget our good manners, makes us laugh, pity, etc., all over again. The latest is their scare-head of last Saturday's first edition which went like this, 'BOWDOIN HOLDS MAINE 0-0 IN FIRST PERIOD.' Having seen with what gigantic convenience Bowdoin accomplished this, it made us add a little P.S. to our Saturday evening prayers, in the interest of Lewiston Journal intellectuals."

Doubtless last Saturday was the first time that foes of the Stein Song have ever resorted to aerial warfare.

Maine's football team wasn't the only thing that took a beating Saturday. All honor to Gilman and Winslow, roommates who run the band, for downing the Maine 150, 46 of whom showed up. From the press stand it was clear that Bowdoin men know the Stein Song better than Maine men.

Anyway, Maine has one of the best engineering colleges in the section.

Being an undergraduate, and not privileged to make a fool of myself, we could only join mentally in the antics of the alumni who played rinz-around-a-roy shouting the while, "Bowdoin made a touchdown, goody, goody, goody."

A Maine man, before getting on the train Saturday night said, "Bowdoin never saw a Maine team play like that, now, did they?" Hats off to the Bowdoin freshman who piped up, "No, and Maine never saw a Bowdoin team play that way, now, did they?" The Maine student boarded the train for — lessee, now, O, yes — Orono.

Maine's football team concerning which we have probably heard much of late years, seems to have gone from the sublime to the pediculous.

It didn't take the alumni long to understand that the Baby Volstead act had been repealed.

recall the times I stood upon this platform in 1914, 1915, and 1916, before boys like you, with their fullness of life before them, a little more serious than you because of the future they looked forward to. They offered all they had to give. Some of them gave all they had to give. Let us run with the patience the race before us. For them it was a swift, courageous decision. For us it must be a strong determined perseverance. God grant that no one of us will fail because of indifference or cynicism. For without us they can be of no avail.

Why Not Come to the Spa and Try One of Our Special Dinners? . . .

only 40c

Do It Today . . . Get It at the Spa

ALUMNI COUNCIL HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING IN MASSACHUSETTS HALLPlans for Early Mailing of Alumni Ballots to Grads
in Europe Discussed

The Bowdoin Alumni Council, an organization which acts as the executive committee of the general Alumni Association, held its annual meeting last Saturday morning at 9.30 o'clock in upper Massachusetts Hall, Leon V. Walker '03 presided.

The Council first considered routine business and, then, proceeded to discuss the practicability of an early mailing of Alumni ballots to Bowdoin men in foreign countries. At present, the alumni resident in Europe and particularly the alumni in the Near East are often unable to return the ballots mailed to them by the Alumni Secretary for electing various officers in the Alumni Association in time to have their votes counted. If a scheme of early mailing was adopted, it was felt that the alumni abroad could then be sure of having their votes included.

Composition of the Council
The Alumni Council is composed of fifteen members. Of that number, twelve are chosen from the general body of the alumni for a three year term, four men being chosen every spring. There is one representative of the alumni in the faculty, one representative of the Governing Board and the Alumni Secretary.

The following alumni were present at last Saturday's meeting: Henry H. Hastings '90 of Bethel, Harry L. Palmer '04 of New York, William E. Wing '02 of Portland, Albert T. Gould '08 of Boston, Frank A. Farrington '27 of Augusta, George E. Fogg '02 of Portland, Donald W. Philbrick '17 of Portland, Hon. Wallace H. White '09 of Boston, Professor Philip W. Meserve '11 and Philip S. Wilder '23.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL OF COLLEGE HOLDS
ANNUAL MEETING

A meeting of the Executive Council of College Business was held in the President's office on Saturday morning. Among those present were Judge Hale of Portland, Mr. Henry H. Pierce of New York, of the Board of Trustees, Mr. John F. Dana of Portland, Mr. Clement F. Robinson of Portland, and Mr. Hoyt L. Moore.

Various matters of college business were considered, among them plans for remodeling the Mustard House into small apartments for unmarried members of the faculty. Additional appropriations were made including an appropriation of $200 for a state conference on Physical Education.

Famous Portrait Accepted
A portrait of E. P. Mitchell '71, for many years editor of the New York Sun, given by Mr. William T. Dewart, President of the paper, was accepted with gratitude. The portrait is now on exhibition in New York City with other works of its painter, Soulebury, an English artist of distinction. It will come to the college in a month or so, and will be placed in the Walker Art Building.

The Ideal Hotel for You
In BOSTON

is the NEW
Hotel MANGER

At North Station
Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot
and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS
Each Room equipped with Tub and
Shower • Built-in Radio Speaker
(Three Station Service) • Servidor
Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Modern
Equipped and Perfectly
Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster
Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH
FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00
FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 5.50
No Higher Rates

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

6-ton reels of cable distributed with the speed of perishable food

A carload of telephone poles laid down a thousand miles away within 36 hours after getting the order! Rush calls of this sort must frequently be handled by Western Electric, distributors for the Bell System.

But even more remarkable is the regular day by day flow of telephone supplies. The Chicago warehouse—one of 32 in the national system—handles 1,400 orders a day. In 1929 more than $400,000,000 worth of equipment and materials was delivered to the telephone companies.

Distribution on so vast a scale presents many interesting problems to Bell System men. The solutions they work out mean much in keeping this industry in step with the times.

The opportunity is there!

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

RENT A REMINGTON PORTABLE

YOU only need a typewriter temporarily? Come to us! We'll rent you a Remington Portable at very reasonable rates... as low as one cent an hour.

Chandler's Book Store

WAR MEMORIAL IS DEDICATED ON ALUMNI DAY

(Continued from page 1)

War. I feel that the occasion calls for but few words and those of fairly obvious content.

"This memorial is the gift of more than seven hundred of the alumni and friends of Bowdoin and is thus in a very real sense an expression of a widespread interest. No more than the bronze tablets on the walls of Memorial Hall commemorating those who fought to preserve the Union, do these inscriptions and names in any way glorify war."

"To many of us these names are those of dear and familiar classmates and comrades. . . . The flag floating from yonder height will mean a little more to us because of their sacrifice; but it will mean not nearly so much as it should if we in our day, inspired by such examples, fail our own generation in duty and in service."

World peace, according to the speaker, is a duty for all. But a pacifism of ease and selfishness is as menacing to our republic as "blatant militarism." "Earnestly we hope," said Pres. Sills, "that this flagstaff with its simple message may still be bearing the flag of our country aloft long after war has become unknown. But that will never be unless we and our successors are willing to make sacrifices for peace."

"In the twelve years that have passed since our chapel bell pealed out the tidings of the Armistice three or four generations of youth have passed through these college halls . . . until today to the under-graduates the memory of those days seems rather remote and unreal."

"But the college, Alma Mater, does not forget. In her own eternal youth she thinks with tenderness and gratitude of those who gave their merry youth away . . . She calls the roll of the missing whose bodies are buried in peace, but whose name liveth for evermore."

On one face of the base of the staff the simple Latin inscription reads: BREVE TEMPUS AETATIS SATIS LONGUM EST AD BENE HONESTIQUE VIVENDUM. "Our short span of life is long enough to live well and honorably."

Although the dedication was the principal feature of the Alumni Day activities, other enjoyments were found. Old acquaintances on the faculty were renewed; President and Mrs. Sills held open house to visitors; familiar scenes were again recalled. At twelve noon the alumni gathered in the gymnasium for a luncheon, after which all adjourned to the Maine game.

MOTION PICTURES TAKEN

The outstanding events of Alumni Day were recorded on 125 feet of motion picture film taken throughout the course of the day by Philip S. Wilder, Alumni Secretary. The films are intended primarily for Bowdoin men in the West and will be shown at various reunions probably including a reunion at Los Angeles where it is expected that an Alumni Association will organize this winter.

MR. LEON V. WALKER '03 PRESIDES AT ALUMNI DAY LUNCHEON IN GYM

President Discusses Freshman Year and Senior Major Examinations

The annual Alumni Day banquet was held on Saturday Nov. 8, in the gymnasium. After the meal, Leon V. Walker '03, the presiding officer, introduced A. L. Richan '20 who led the assembly in the singing of Phi Chi. Following a short introductory speech, in which Mr. Walker outlined a few of the essentials of an ideal football coach, Charles Bowser was introduced as a good example of the ideal coach. Mr. Bowser's speech was brief and to the point. Among other things he hoped that the Alumni would enjoy the game with Maine, which he thought would truly be a game worth seeing. After Coach Bowser's speech, the Alumni sang "Glasses Clinking High."

President Sills Speaks

Mr. Walker next presented President Sills to the assembly after a very short introductory speech. The president stated that there were many phases of College life, upon which he could speak, but that he would confine his speech to a few of the more interesting features of Bowdoin life. The most important of these were first, the main problems of the freshman year at college, and secondly, the question of the general examinations taken by the senior class. Concerning this first question, he stated that the freshman year was the most interesting and critical of the four years. He said that the freshmen were thrown on their own in college and that they were usually baffled by the proceedings of the college. They were, as a rule, graduates of preparatory schools where they led a more or less easy life. They find themselves at a loss as to how to study when they reach college. At Bowdoin, said President Sills, we have a system in which the freshman is made to work hard and in which he still has the desired social life. This system, according to the President, is very well worked out. He also mentioned the fact that out of the freshman class of 175, only 24 failed in two or more subjects. This goes to show that the system is not so severe that the freshmen can not pass their subjects.

The next main point which President Sills brought out was concerning the general examinations taken by the seniors. He stated that Bowdoin was more or less of a pioneer in this phase of college life. Thus far the system, although in its experimental stage at Bowdoin, has worked out very well. The advantages of this plan are obvious. It makes the last year of college what it should be. In other words the average senior is inclined to take his studies in a rather easy way. These examinations, which the seniors take in their various majors, force them to keep up in all their studies in order that they may pass the examinations.

The President next mentioned the work being done in several of the courses given in Bowdoin. For example he mentioned the economics department, which he said was not merely going into the academic side, but that it was also delving into the practical side of life. He stated that the college had engaged several prominent men who are to give lectures and courses of instruction in some of the courses at Bowdoin. Among the most prominent of these is Enrico Bompiani who will give a two month course in Mathematics.

At the close of President Sills' speech, the luncheon was closed with the singing of Bowdoin Besta.

The ladies, who had their luncheon at the Moulton Union, were enabled to hear these speeches by means of the amplifier hookup, which connected the gymnasium with the Union.

FROSH SQUAD WILL OFFER MANY RECRUITS FOR 1931 VARSITY

Many Large Sized Men in Ranks of This Year's Yearling Aggregation

Bowdoin's varsity squad will be somewhat depleted by graduation next June, and Coach Don Lancaster's Freshman team is being examined already with regard to future varsity material. The yearlings have several big fellows in the line who can be made into varsity squad replacements with little trouble. John Kozlowski, who started the season as a fullback, has been made into an excellent tackle. He hits hard, out-plays all opposition, and has unbounded energy. A substitute at his position is John Fay, a six-footer and very nearly as good a football player. Another tall man is Carl Ackerman, guard, whose game has been dependably smooth all season. The pivot man is Byron Davis, with Leo Sternberg and Bob Dakin as understudies. Davis has made great progress since his first game. James P. Archibald, holds down the other guard berth. He has developed speed this year, a great asset to running interference. Gordon "Red" Massey, George Bartter, Fred Pickard, and Clement Donahue are substitute guards of the first order, Massey in particular splaying the opposition's line backs lately.

Plenty of Weight

Bob Wait looms at left tackle, 195 pounds of defensive power and of offensive drive, and one of the team's outstanding regulars. Every bit as big as Wait, if not as potent, is Fred Drake, able second at that position. The team is strong in ends, Nathan Miller and Don Reid are staunch defensive wingmen and very fast under the kicks. Ralph Kelley and Arthur Stone are hardly less dependable. Henry "Pete" Lewis of Skowhegan, firststring quarter back, has been developed into a canny field general, and a good man on the business end of kicks and forward passes. His recent ascent is a toss-up between Bob Hayden and Bob Winchell. Henry "Heenie" Hubbard and Thurman Larson are two halfbacks of promise, as those who will agree who saw them work against the Junior Varsity last week. Prominent among the second-string halfbacks are Dick Robbins, who has a way of shaking off tacklers; and Fred Burton, a new hand at football, but with speed to spare. Lawson Odde, fullback, has picked up power and speed since September, and is a consistent gainer in off-tackle smashes. Jack Morris can be depended on to pinch-hit for Odde.

Large Squad of Subs.

Other men on the squad who have shown up well are: ends, Kenneth Cady, John "Pete" Brooks, Neal Skillings, and Eugene Ingalls; tackles, Jack Freeman, Fred Hall, Bob Kingsbury, Chandler Redman, Henry Van de Bogert, and Ray Prince; backs, Thurston Sumner, Stanley Kamykowski, Bert Robbins, Donald Smith, Seth Reid, and Arthur B. Lord.

In spite of the good showing made in some cases, there is yet much to be done. As Coach Don Lancaster remarked, "They aren't ready-made football players by any means, and they still have a lot to learn." The Hebron game of next Saturday may seem like a large order, but with the spirit that the varsity showed in beating Maine last Saturday, the Frosh will stand an even chance. Coach Lancaster's accomplishment in bringing the ponderous squad to its present stage of achievement must not be underestimated, and if the boys come through, as they yet may, against a favored adversary, a full half of the credit must go to their coach.

The Tailcoat comes into its own

It is not too early to think of the house parties and the holidays, and the tailcoat. This garment, as sponsored by Harmon's, embodies every detail of distinction — at eminently fair prices.

Sixty Dollars from Stock Sixty-five Custom Tailored

HARMON'S

INTERCOLLEGIATE COLUMN

Turning out in large numbers, Boston University freshmen recently made a desperate attempt to win the annual flag rush. However, the sophomores, clustering around the pole in a compact mass, succeeded in preventing the yearlings from securing the victory. One definite freshman, nevertheless, did manage to climb half way up the greased pole before he was dislodged. This was only one of the several activities in which the first and second year men engaged. As the result of a predominance of sophomore wins in these encounters, the freshmen must continue to enter via the back door and wear the be-dazzling bow tie—outlawed by our own Phi Chi.

FRATERNITIES INITIATE

(Continued from Page 1)
day, after the Maine game. Sixty five alumni, among whom were Judge Farrington, Chief Justice of the Maine Supreme Court, and Lyman A. Cousens, '02, attended the banquet Saturday night.

Five Fraternities Hold Initiations

The men initiated into Alpha Delta Phi were: Charles Allen, Sanford O. Baldwin, Thomas D. Barnes, George C. Bartter, Gordon C. Bennett, Philip E. Burnham, Alexander Clark, Byron S. Davis, Henry P. DeBogert, Robert Dowling, Burton Flint, John D. Freeman, Bartlett Godfrey, George F. Peabody, Robert Winchell.

Psi Upsilon's new members are: Paul S. Ambler, Edward F. Appleton, James E. Bassett, Jr., Ralph F. Calkin, Richard H. Davis, Edward DeLong, Frederick S. Drake, Robert L. Hackwell, J. Gardiner Ham, Arthur B. Lord, M. Chandler Redman, Arthur D. Stone.

New men in Delta Kappa Epsilon are: James P. Archibald, Frederick C. Batchelder, Braley Gray, Luther G. Holbrook, Jerome H. T. Kidder, Harrison P. Martin, Thurman A. Larson, George Lauder, Henry G. Lewis, Richard C. Robbins, Donald M. Smith, Carl F. A. Weber.

Theta Delta Chi's delegation consisted of: John Arnold, Richard Atwood, Dudley Braithwaite, William W. Clay, Russell Dakin, Robert S. Fletcher, James C. Freeman, Robert M. Foster, Charles E. Gould, John B. Hickox, Perry A. Holt, Enock W. Hunt, Alan B. Johnson, Robert F. Kingsbury, Gordon H. Massey, Robert C. Porter, Malcolm S. Walker, Theodore A. Wright, and three sophomores, Thomas B. Card, Arthur G. Jordan, and Edward H. Morse.

The delegation of Zeta Psi included: Robert M. Aiken, Raymond S. Brown, Jr., Colin Campbell, George M. Cleaves, Robert F. Hayden, James W. Lawrence, H. Clay Lewis, Thomas W. Libby, C. Edward Miller, Asa O. Pike, Jr., Donald E. Reid and Robert B. Wait, and a Junior, Warren L. Lewis, Jr.

Capacity Crowd Hears Julian Huxley Lecture

(Continued from Page 1)

tion owes its impetus, take place in all directions and at random. And yet Evolution still proceeds in definite lines.

He next illustrated the chromosome mechanism by various slides, and pointed out the localization in the chromosomes themselves of the factors governing this transmission of characteristics. Much work on this independent recombination of the factors has been done by Morgan in his studies of the Fruit Fly.

Professor Huxley said that a return to the ideas of Darwin might be necessary to explain certain evolutionary phenomena, although his views must be modified to some extent. The struggle for existence still holds, and variations still occur. These tend to modify the race and to bring it up to certain specifications. He spoke of Castle's work on the hooded rats in this connection, and showed how Artificial Selection works toward certain ends. Castle succeeded in changing the race in a specific direction, and he feels that once a beginning is made in one direction, changes in that same direction are the more favored subsequently. Hence, in Nature, we have an explanation of the directive influence of evolution, although thousands of generations may be required.

He also mentioned the effects of isolation in the development of new species and gave illustrations of this. Next followed a discussion of the way that the Mendelian factors actually work. External influences, of course, are brought to bear on this, and changes in these various external stimuli produce corresponding changes in the development of the individual. Internal factors, such as the hormones carried in the blood stream, are also of influence. In connection with this, Professor Huxley brought up some interesting material on preformation in the egg. Regeneration in young and adult of some of the lower vertebrates was next mentioned in connection with the influence of growth on development. This phase of development occupied the major part of the remainder of the lecture, and Professor Huxley elaborated to show how growth and growth gradients may explain much which other theories have found troublesome. He also mentioned briefly the theory of Orthogenesis.

He then proceeded to apply this growth theory to the case of man, who is somewhat different from his other examples in that he possesses a permanent adult phase, whereas the crab, for example, never stops growing. At this point, he also discussed the relation of physique to intelligence. Physical types depend partially on the secretions of certain ductless glands and on relative growth, and these also have an effect upon the intellect. In every organism there is an extremely delicate mechanism which is affected to a greater or less extent by the outer world and also by certain internal factors. The changes thus produced figure in the development of both individual and race, and hence are of significance in both heredity and evolution.

WEDGWOOD PLATES ARE PUT ON DISPLAY

A set of six different plates ten and one-fourth inches in diameter are now being prepared for Bowdoin College by the famous Wedgwood Potteries at Etruria, England. The border design will be the same on all plates, the Bowdoin seal and coat of arms, with maple and oak leaves, and sprays of pine. The centers of the six plates will each depict a different Bowdoin view. The colors are black on white or blue on white. When ordering it will be necessary to specify what colors are wanted. Plates will be prepared only on order, through the Alumni Secretary's office and cannot be procured commercially. Sets of six with different centers are eight dollars and a dozen (two sets) will cost fifteen.

Orders will be filled next June, in order of receipt and must be accompanied by a three dollar deposit for each set ordered. Samples may be seen at the Moulton Union, manager's office, or for further particulars, see Mr. Wilder at Massachusetts Hall.

It took some time to understand that short kick-off of Maine's. But it must have been that new pee-wee football.

Ray Dyer, former Sigma Nu chef for years and years and as true a Bowdoin man as if he were president emeritus, was at the game. His daughter Alice, a freshman at Maine, was also present, but the two of them were not together.

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - Nov. 12
UP THE RIVER

Spencer Tracy - Claire Luce
Pathe Review - Sound Comedy
Knute Rockne Football Series

Thursday - Nov. 13
HER MAN

Helen Twilvetrees
Phillips Holmes
Sound Comedy - Cartoon
Knute Rockne Football Series

Friday - Nov. 14
VAUDEVILLE

on the screen -
BIG MONEY

Eddie Quillan - Robert Armstrong
James Gleason
Also Paramount News

Saturday - Nov. 15
CAPTAIN OF THE GUARD

John Boles - Laura LaPlante
Also Short Subjects

Monday and Tuesday - Nov. 17-18
FOUR MARK BROS.

ANIMAL CRACKERS
Also Short Subjects

Less talk and more taste—

better taste

ONE will always stand out!

-SPORTS-

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all kinds etc. of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET
—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?'
Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS AND GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

Good Typography

Reasonable prices and prompt
service — the aim of

The Record Press

Get in touch with us for your next job of printing.

Tel. 3

Brunswick Publishing Co.

Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

WHITE'S SPEED PUZZLES PALE BLUE ELEVEN

(Continued from Page 1)

and Bowdoin took the ball on the twenty. From this point the backfield trio clicked in runs of 12, 15, 27 and 10 yards along with plunges of lesser distance to bring the ball to the two yard line where Ricker took the ball and failed to make a first down and Maine punted out of danger.

The first score was made in the second period. After Lamb let a beautiful pass trickle through his fingers Bowdoin took the ball on their own 30 yard line. Morrell slid thru to Maine's 46 yard line by dodging the secondary defense. Ricker ripped off twelve more for a first down. Short gains by Morrell and Foster brought the ball to the twenty-four yard line when Foster outwitted Maine completely by balking and then tossing a pass to Southern over in the left corner of the field who stepped across the line for the first touchdown. Southern then added another point by a kick right between the bars to put the Bowdoin stands in a worse frenzy than they already were.

In the third period Maine forgot what a football felt like. The Polar Bear had Maine standing on its head by this time. It was a period of further colorful rushes and terrific ground gaining. Ricker intercepted a pass from Bagley to start things off in good fashion. In a few seconds Foster ran wild in characteristic fashion when he tore down 47 yards to Maine's 28 yard line. By this time Bowdoin stands became almost paralyzed with excitement. Morrell then helped to take it to the eighteen while Maine was forced to call time out to find out whether it was the state track meet or a game of soccer. Morrell then fulfilled the life ambition of many a Bowdoin alumnus by scoring what proved to be the winning touchdown. Words can not display the feelings of the Polar Bear cohorts. In fact your correspondent found it difficult to maintain his mental equilibrium and it was minutes before he could recover from the dazed condition.

Maine came to life in the fourth only too late. Riley who had looked so good in the Colby exhibition tried to regain a fading reputation by collecting a pass and bringing it down on the Bowdoin 32 yard line. Spinners added the cause along considerably and before the White realized it the ball was resting on the 12 yard marker. Ricker and Riley were knocked at this point and the Maine man withdrew to safe cover. Roman- sky aided the cause along a bit but was removed only to allow the au- dience to know how gripped he was about it. Curtis replaced the per- turbed Mr. Romanaky. Soon the judg- ment of the all knowing Brice was vindicated when the recruit put the ball over the line by successive plunges. Means made the count 13-7 by kicking the goal.

Only time cut short another score for the White when the whistle blew on the two yard line after Morrell had intercepted a pass. But as it was the complete rout of the Pale Blue was so apparent that the score proved nothing.

Sportsman's Pen

All praise and appreciation to Coach Bowser and his men who turned the trick so handsomely.

The Bowdoin team last Saturday would have had the edge on any team in the state. That—without reser- vations!

Referee F. J. O'Brien of Tufts made the statement of the game that it was the cleanest contest in which he had ever officiated. It is noteworthy that an offside penalty of five yards tells the whole story. That's far more than can be said of the other state series games this year.

Notwithstanding, it was a savagely fought battle.

Riley of the Brown Bears put up the gamest fight seen on the Whit- tier gridiron for a long day. Actually weighing in at 132 pounds he is sub- ject to smashing treatment.

Courtesy on and off the field such as Maine displayed Saturday goes a long ways. Colby especially could profit by a little of this.

Coach Fred Brice was one of the first to congratulate Coach Bowser and the squad in the locker room after the game. Thank you Fred—you're a sportsman.

One yard to go for a touchdown and a Maine man was offside long enough to bring the final whistle of the game. A minor tragedy, how- ever, in the light of the complete predominance of the White through- out the entire game.

Hugh Barton showed us Sat- urday that he won't rattle in King Crimmins' shoes next season.

How Plays Went in Saturday's Bowdoin-Maine Game

Play By Play Account of Maine Game

(Continued from Page 1)

ter for seven yards.

He picked up three yards on the same play. The play worked again for six yards and a first down on the Bowdoin 35.

Means went off right tackle for 11 yards and another first down on the Bowdoin 24.

Romanaky picked up three yards through the line.

Riley made another three on a criss-cross. Bagley passed to Lamb who went to the Bowdoin 15 for another first down.

Romanaky again tried the spinner but Doc Brown loomed up to throw him for a loss. Ricker intercepted a long pass after it had bounced off another Bowdoin player's hand and was downed in the Bowdoin 12.

Foster made a yard around left tackle. Ricker punted to the Bowdoin 44 where Bagley signaled for a fair catch as Southern and Crimmins closed in. The Bowdoin ends were sneaking all run backs of pants.

Riley tore through left tackle for five yards. The spinner worked again, Romanaky tearing off 10 yards for a first down on the Bowdoin 29 yard marker.

Two Maine backs fumbled and Means recovered to be sneared by Doc Brown for a five yard loss.

Bagley tried a pass but it was knocked down. Riley dodged 11 yards to be brought down by Southern on the Bowdoin 28.

With a clear field Lamb dropped a pass from Bagley and the ball bounded into the end zone. Bowdoin's ball and first down on their own 20.

Ricker picked up four on a fake kick. Morrell went through left guard, dodged the secondary defense, and was nearly free but was brought down by Bagley on the Maine 46. Bowdoin's ball, first down.

Ricker led by beautiful interference tore off 12 yards of tackle for another first down on the Maine 34.

Foster tried right tackle, seemed to be stopped, but leaped high into the air for a three-yard gain.

Morrell knifed the center of the Maine line for another three yards.

Foster went off tackle for a first down on the Maine 24. Crimmins was knocked out, but resumed play after a few minutes.

Ricker was run offside after a gain of about a yard.

Southern over in the left corner of the field who stepped over the goal line. The Bowdoin stands were going berserk. Score: Bowdoin 6, Maine 0.

Southern placed-kicked the goal. Score: Bowdoin 7, Maine 0.

Means got the kick-off and ran it back to his own 45 before being stopped. Barton was in for Crimmins.

Romanaky got five yards on the ever successful spinner.

A lateral, Romanaky to Bagley netted Maine a first down on the Bowdoin 45.

Means got a yard at right tackle. Lufkin carried the ball on a cross buck to the Bowdoin 39 for another first down.

Romanaky could get only a yard on the spinner.

Barton sneared Moran who had been sent in for Riley for an 8 yard loss.

Moran let a long pass from Bagley slip through his fingers and Bagley punted the ball going offside on the Bowdoin 6.

Morrell disappeared into a mass of players at right tackle, emerged, and continued to the Bowdoin 28. The Bowdoin fullback was having little trouble in gaining through the line.

Curtis was sent in for Romanaky. Morrell again plunged through for six yards. The next added three more.

Morrell shot through the line, twisted away from the secondary defense and ran to the Maine 25 before being brought down by three Maine players.

Morrell fumbled and Bagley recovered for Maine as the whistle blew to end the half.

Second Half
Maine's kick was short and was grabbed by Fickett for a first down on the Bowdoin 48.

Bilodeau stopped Romanaky for no gain. Barton pushed Riley back four yards and the Maine back was injured.

Bagley punted offside on the Bowdoin 39. Morrell made three yards through guard. Ricker fumbled but recovered on his own 35.

Bagley took Ricker's punt and was downed on his own 33 by Barton.

Milliken brought Romanaky after he had made a yard.

Ricker intercepted Foster's pass on his own 44. Maine took a line-out for a first down on the Bowdoin 29.

Foster sent the Bowdoin stands into hysterics as he turned right and tore down the Bowdoin 47 yards to the Maine 28, being tackled by Romanaky.

Morrell made seven yards through the left side of the line.

Morrell collected three more for another first down on the Maine 18.

Maine took a line-out in an effort to collect herself after the dazzling exhibition by Foster.

Foster made three off tackle. Ricker started for the right end, cut through tackle for 4 more.

Morrell went through center, twisted back his way over the line. Score: Bowdoin 13, Maine 0.

Southern failed to place kick the goal. Bagley took the kick-off and ran it back to his own 44 yard marker.

On the same play he picked up another yard. The Bowdoin line was piling up Maine plays with regularity.

Maine tried a pass but Lufkin let it slip through his hands.

Bagley punted offside on the Bowdoin 35 as the quarter ended. Horse's ankle was hurt and was taken out.

Fourth Quarter
Foster tried right tackle and made two yards. He made three more in the same place.

Ricker lost a yard as he tried to round right end.

Ricker punted to Bagley who traveled to the Bowdoin 46 before being downed.

Milliken tackled Romanaky after he had made a yard.

Romanaky plunged through for a first down on the Bowdoin 19.

Riley left the field but Ricker resumed play. Curtis came in for Romanaky who left the field in high duddon.

Romanaky made three more on a spinner. Curtis hit the center for a yard.

Curtis went over for the score. Means placed-kicked the goal.

Barton fumbled Maine's short kick by grabbing the ball on his own 47.

Morrell made three and was tackled by Calderwood.

Ricker lost them, however, on a long end run.

Ricker cut through right tackle for five yards. Ricker punted to Blockinger who was downed on his own 17.

Moran got five off tackle. Crimmins replaced Barton.

Means fumbled momentarily, but recovered for a five yard loss.

Morrell intercepted a long Maine pass and was stopped on the Maine 35.

Ricker tore off five at left tackle. Platted came in for Getchell.

Morrell got four in the same place. Morrell went through left guard for a first down on the Maine 23.

Foster got three off tackle. Morrell picked up three in one of his little jumps through center.

Foster made two more on the right side of the line.

On the next play Southern came around right end to hug it behind Doc Brown to the Maine 2 yard line.

As Bowdoin lined up, the whistle blew, robbing the Polar Bears of another score.

Final score: Bowdoin 15, Maine 7.

Always Noticed
But Never Notice-ble

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.
PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity
Trade
574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers
SOULE and WALKER
JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD
We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store
Watch Repairing
By An Experienced Watchmaker
Shaeffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"
"The College Jeweler"
Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
1414 MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S
Candy and Ice Cream
74 MAINE STREET

Complete Travel Service Free—
Booklet Tours Cruises Bermuda,
Havana, Florida, West Indies,
Europe. Phone, call or write PORT-LAND TOURIST CO., 198 Middle
St., Portland, Maine.

There will be a meeting of all the men interested in the religious activities of the college in the B. C. A. Room of the Union at 7:00 p.m., on November 13th. The members of the faculty committee on religious activities in the college will be present. Every man should come prepared to hear, discuss, and offer suggestions on a possible program for a Christian Association.

The towheaded sophomore center, Johnny Milliken, has seen more actual playing time than any other man on the squad.

Musical Clubs
Much interest is being shown at Boston University in the organizing of a dance orchestra and banjo club. A University dance orchestra is needed there, since many people who arrange for a Glee Club entertainment are desirous of holding a dance after the concert. The banjo club when formed will take part in the Glee Club programs.

Maine Game Statistics (Continued from Page 1)
Runkback of, total,	23
Average runkback of	9
Kick-offs	2
Total yardage	84
Average yardage	42
Runkback of, total,	26
Runkback of, average	13
Laterals passes:
Attempted	0
Completed	3
Total yardage	0
Average yardage	5
Total net gain	701

WHITE SEASON
ONE OF FINEST
IN MANY WAYSEnds with Four Victories,
One Tie, and Two
DefeatsFIRST TRIUMPH OVER
MAINE SINCE 1921The in Williams Game Upsets Predictions of All the Dopesters

When the final whistle blew at Wesleyan last Saturday announcing another Bowdoin football victory, it marked the end of the most successful season enjoyed by any Polar Bear football team since 1926, the last year of Jack Cates' reign. The four victories, two defeats, and one tie of Charlie Bowser's men compare most favorably with the five wins, two losses, and one tie of the 1929 season.

Thus it is that the end of the first year of Bowser's coaching finds the Polar Bear seemingly starting on an upward grade to more respectable position among the smaller colleges of New England. After an all-winter's hunt for a coach during which every one from Knute Rockne to the most obscure high school coach was mentioned for the berth, the naming of Charlie Bowser, formerly of Pittsburgh, as head coach was the first step in the rescue of the fast dwindling Polar Bear. Next came four weeks of spring practice with fundamentals being stressed, but little else accomplished due to the numerous other athletic activities of many of the returning regulars.

Training Camp

Shortly after Labor Day Bowser started his real drilling at the Y. M. C. A. Camp at Winthrop, which continued for three weeks, returning to Brunswick for a week's practice before the first game. It was on October 3 that the long awaited rejuvenated Polar Bear made his first appearance, going up against Mass. Aggies on Whittier field. In spite of the pitiful exhibition of football shown by the visitors from Massachusetts Bowdoin gave evidence that a new order of things had come into being. For the first time in many a long year Bowdoin supporters were seeing their ball carrier running behind a wall of interference that tore to shreds the weak Aggies line to run up a score of 45-0. Sid Foster and Ricker seemed to be the particular White threats in this game, the former especially running wild through the Aggies line and secondary defense. Bowdoin looked good but showed enough flaws to merit plenty of drilling and practice.

The next week found the White facing an entirely different kind of opposition in the shape of Williams, probably the leading small college aggregation in the East. Williams took the field with a front wall of giants and a backfield that looked like a coach's dream. The Polar Bear, however, just could not seem to be impressed either by the size of the visitors or by their speed, and taking the ball shortly after the kickoff had a touchdown in seven plays. Foster

(Continued on Page 4)

PROFESSOR BOMPIANI
BEGINS WORK HEREVisiting Lecturer on Math
Under The Tallman
Foundation

Professor Enrico Bompiani of the University of Rome, Italy, now in America as visiting professor of the University of Mathematics at Bowdoin, has just begun active work at Bowdoin as visiting professor of mathematics on the Tallman Foundation. He is one of the world's leaders in this branch of mathematics known as Differential Geometry. Professor Bompiani has been in the United States since last spring, having spent the summer at the University of Chicago and having been at Johns Hopkins University during the past month. He has also given lectures at Harvard, Cornell, the University of Iowa and at Ohio State College.

He will be at Bowdoin during the remainder of the first semester, conducting an advanced course in the "applications of calculus to geometry." This course is made up of juniors and seniors and was conducted under the leadership of Professor Edward S. Hammond until the arrival of Professor Bompiani, with whom Professor Hammond formerly studied. During the second semester it will be broken into two groups, in charge of Professor Hammond and of Professor Cecil T. Holmes. Professor Bompiani is also lecturing to the members of the departments of mathematics and physics at Bowdoin on Absolute Differential Calculus or Tensor Analysis, which is the mathematical foundation for the theory of Relativity.

Professor Bompiani received his education in the schools of Rome and at the University there and has taught at Bologna, Milan, and Paris in addition to his work at Rome. He leaves Bowdoin in January and will begin his courses at Rome on February 1st.

EXTENSIVE REPAIRS ON MEMORIAL HALL
COMPLETE THIS WEEKHall Modernized with New Stage, Seats, and Redecoration

Completion of the improvements on the interior of Memorial Hall has been set for the middle or latter part of this week, according to statements issued by Don Potter, in charge of buildings and grounds of Bowdoin College. Extensive repairs which have been going for several months will provide the college with a modern and attractive assembly and lecture hall.

Work on the entire second floor of the building has been progressing rapidly since it was started last August. The renovation includes an entirely new stage, installation of theatre seats, and complete redecoration. The improvement, planned several years ago, was delayed somewhat until conditions made it necessary. The cost of the work was about twenty-five thousand dollars and was paid for by the college improvement fund. The necessity for such a hall has been felt particularly this year while it was under process of reconstruction.

Extensive Improvements

The hall has been vastly improved both in appearance and utility. The walls and ceiling have been decorated in a light buff color and the new woodwork is in the natural finish. The small round windows have been removed and the larger ones supplied with plain white frosted glass. The stage is also greatly changed. The central section is somewhat as before, but tiers of seats have been built up on both the right and left of it. The temporary benches which were used before on the main floor have been replaced by regular theatre seats with leather upholstery. Thus the capacity of the hall as well as its convenience and comfort has been increased. These seats can be supplied with wide arms which are now being constructed and thus hour examinations can still be held there. These arms can be fastened on or detached with great ease and will undoubtedly prove very satisfactory.

Capacity Increased

By the addition of these theatre seats the capacity of the hall has been greatly increased. As now arranged there are about 400 seats on the floor and sixty more on the right and left of the stage.

(Continued on Page 2)

HORMELL SPEAKS ON MAINE STATE SURVEYPoints to Opportunity of State in Talk at Bates Meeting

If any one suggestion in the recent survey of the State Government of Maine deserves special mention and more unquestioned support, it is that relating to highways, declared Prof. O. C. Hormell in a talk before the meeting of social scientists at Bates College last Friday.

"A single highway commissioner appointed by the Governor with the advice of the Council should displace the present commission," he said. "The power of appointing and removal of the chief engineer is vested in the commissioner. The danger of bureaucratic tyranny is to be removed by the appointment of an unpaid advisory council of three members representing the different parts of the State."

"I unreservedly approve of the recommendation that the highway program and expenditures be brought under the proposed budget system and that the state highway development should cease to be jeopardized by granting 36 per cent of available funds to the state aid roads built under the incompetent management of local officials. The appropriations ($150,000) for emergency construction in the towns may be discontinued as recommended by the survey to eliminate what the survey calls 'purely political' pay. Divisional storage places for highways equipment located in the several geographical districts should replace the plan of central storage at Augusta. Likewise I

(Continued on Page 2)

REV. T. E. ASHBY
TO GIVE SERIES OF LECTURES ON BIBLETo Discuss General Aspects in Tuesday Morning Chapel Talks

This coming Tuesday the Rev. Thompson E. Ashby, who has been the preacher of the chapel for many years, will begin a series of talks on "A General View of the Bible." Owing to the shortness of the morning chapel he intends to divide the subject into several parts and deliver them separately.

Mr. Ashby is known to many students as a man of attractive personality and sound intellect. Those who have never heard him should find him a forceful and worthwhile speaker. However, everyone should find his topic extremely interesting as well as instructive.

REV. R. H. HAYDEN IN POWERFUL SUNDAY
CHAPEL TALK HEREPoints Out Great Need for Simple, Aggressive
Faith

"Without faith we are not able to please God or to live an aggressive Christian life." These words sum up the thought which the Reverend Ralph H. Hayden clarified in his talk in chapel last Sunday. It was no dissertation on theological theory nor an admonition as to what doctrine we should follow, that he impressed so forcefully upon his audience, but a simple, fundamental fact, that faith is needed every day in every walk of life.

It is a tremendous challenge to us in this modern world who are prone to quibble over methods of conduct and to argue heatedly for and against the various religious theories. If we would only face the question squarely and seek the real way to enter into the spiritual life, we would find that it would be simply "by faith." All the wrangling parties and would disappear, no matter in what way we worshipped God, and we could accomplish much more with the added power and clearer vision afforded us.

Searching Passages

Many of the passages found in the Bible are perfect examples of this challenge to our clear thinking. The fifty-first Psalm has a wealth of truth that runs throughout its length like a pure stream of water: "Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight; that thou mightest be justified when thou speakest, and be clear when thou judgest. Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts; and in the hidden part thou shalt make me know wisdom." And let us go back to the book of Genesis. Though much of its context is questioned today, none can deny the great truth that "God created man in his own image, in the

(Continued on Page 3)

PROF. W. B. MITCHELL HEARD IN PORTLANDSpeaks Before Meeting of Economics Club on Saturday

Professor Wilmot B. Mitchell was one of the prominent educators who spoke on "Are There New Ideals in Economics?" before the meeting of the Economics Club of Portland at the Eastland Hotel. Professor Mitchell's address followed a discussion of the same subject by President Hamilton Holt of Rollins College in Florida and by Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education in Massachusetts.

Dr. Holt, who became president of Rollins College after serving for a number of years as editor of the Independent, brought out in his speech the revolutionary features of the Rollins College plan. He pointed out that the day is divided into two-hour conference periods during which the students meet informally with the members of the faculty. In his discussion, President Holt, illustrating profusely from his own experience, pointed out failings of modern colleges such as excessive specialization, the promotion of teachers on the basis of outside work, and particularly the lack of contact between teacher and student. Professor Mitchell, in addressing the club, agreed with Dr. Holt's opinion.

(Continued on Page 3)

CAST OF CHRISTMAS
PLAY 'ESCAPE' NAMED
BY PROFESSOR GRAYMasque and Gown to Produce Gal-worthy Drama at Christmas
House-Party

Since the tryouts last Wednesday for the cast of the annual Christmas play, "Escape," by John Galsworthy, Professor Gray of the English Department has chosen the male members of the cast. Following is a list of the characters and the students who are to play the roles: Matt Denant . . . Robert Ecker '31
The Plain Clothes Man . . . Joseph F. Carpenter '32
First Policeman . . . Russell Hall '33
Second Policeman . . . Robert F. Hayden '34
The Fellow . . . E. W. Spingarn '33
First Warder . . . B. Q. Robbins '34
Second Warder . . . William Rounds '34
The Old Gentleman . . . David C. Perkins '33
The Shopkeeper . . . Charles L. Kirkpatrick '33
The Captain . . . John Henry Gordon '33
The Man in Plus Fours . . . Frederick W. Burton '34
The Dartmoor Constable . . . Frederick W. Burton '34
(Continued on Page 3)

TO HOLD TEA DANCE
IN UNION SATURDAY

There will be a tea dance at the Moulton Union on Saturday, November 22, from 4 to 8 P. M. Present indications point to a large crowd, and those in charge promise a good time. The music will be furnished by the Polar Bears and the price of admission will be .75 per couple, or .50 stag.

BOWDOIN WINDS UP SEASON WITH VICTORY OF 24-12 OVER WESLEYAN
ON DRENCHED MIDDLETOWN FIELDDESJARDINS NAMED CANDIDATE FOR WEST POINT BY GOVERNOR

George P. Desjardins '33, a member of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity, was recently appointed by Gov. Gardner as candidate for West Point.

Desjardins was graduated from Brunswick High school with the class of 1929. In April 1930, he joined the National Guards in Battery C, 240th, Coast Artillery Corps as a private. Desjardins ranked the highest of four National Guardsmen who competed in a two-day physical and mental examination by army officers for the honor of representing the Maine National Guard at West Point. He will enter the Military Academy next July as one of the 80 National Guardsmen selected from all states. He successfully passes the entrance examination. If Desjardins is successful, he will be the first man to be admitted to West Point from the Maine National Guard since 1925.

George P. Desjardins '33

1932 BUGLE WELL
STARTED ON ROAD
FOR PUBLICATIONContracts for Production of Junior Year Book Already Made

The production of the 1932 Bugle to be published on or about Ivy Day has already been started under the leadership of Warren William Stearns '32, editor-in-chief. The business manager this year is Gordon Curtis Knight '32. The editorial assistants are Albert Pierpont Madeira and Francis Horton Donaldson of the sophomore class while Dominic Norbert Antonucci '32 is photographic editor. A large group of freshmen have entered the competition for positions on the staff of the 1932 Bugle. The freshmen trying out for editorial positions are T. Barnes, N. Baskinoff, L. Flint, J. C. Freeman, J. D. Freeman, R. Fletcher, R. Kingsbury, J. Marshall, P. Pearson and B. Tewksbury while G. C. Bennett and Robert Dowling are working for positions on the business staff.

The forthcoming Bugle will be printed principally in black and white with some touches of a light yellow brown. It will have an eight page photographic section containing a new set of views of the campus printed
on a special antique tweed-veined paper.
The contracts for the publication of the Bugle have been completed. The photographic section containing a new set of views of the campus printed
on a special antique tweed-veined paper.
The contracts for the publication of the Bugle have been completed. The photographic section containing a new set of views of the campus printed on a special antique tweed-veined paper.DELTA UPSILON TAKES ELEVEN NEW MEMBERS

Due to our oversight the account of the Delta Upsilon initiation was left out of last week's issue of the Orient. The ceremony took place Friday evening, November 7, at eight o'clock. The charge was delivered by Mr. Samuel Furish. The banquet was held the following evening and was attended by the alumni. At the latter event Dean Paul Nixon was the master of ceremonies while William S. Piper '31 spoke for the chapter and John Ernst Muller of Brookline, Mass., followed with an address. Following freshmen were initiated: Horatio Cushing Allen, Jr., New Bedford, Mass.; Frank Donald Bates, Winchester, Mass.; Frederick Warren Burton, Auburn, Mass.; Gordon Edward Gillett, Winchester, Mass.; John Ulric Griffin, Pittsfield, Mass.; Richard Canterbury Mandeville, Lake Bluff, Ill.; John Morris, Newtonville, Mass.; John Ernst Muller, Brookline, Mass.; Richard Franklin Nelson, Squantum, Mass.; Thurston Bradford Sumner, Somerville, Mass.; Edward Carl Uehlein, Lawrence, Mass.

The Orient begs to apologize for the omission of the preceding article in the initiation article of last issue.

P. C. A., News Editor.

Foster, Morrell and Ricker Star In White Offensive As Polar Bears Smash Thru Heavier Cardinal Team

TIRRELL AND SCHLUMS SCORE FOR WESLEYAN

ALL - MAINE ELEVEN NAMED BY TELEGRAMBowdoin Represented by Souther, Foster, and
Morrell

Placing three men on the Portland Sunday Telegram's All-Maine team was one of the accomplishments of Bowdoin's 1930 football aggregation as George Souther, Sid Foster and Lloyd Morrell were chosen to fill berths as end, half-back and full-back, respectively on the mythical eleven. In number selected the White was second to Bates with its six representatives, while Colby had two and Maine but one. With two men drawing equal recognition, Foster of Bowdoin and Farrell of Bates, the hypothetical team was composed of twelve members.

The speed with which he got down under punts and his dangerous end-running won Captain Souther one of the end positions while the other was filled by Sam Kenison of Bates. Crimmins followed closely on their heels, though his playing was rated slightly less consistent.

Morrell and Foster Outstanding

Bowdoin's backfield seemed particularly powerful to the Telegram. Lloyd Morrell easily won the full-back position from all other contenders.

(Continued on Page 2)

POLYPHONIC SOCIETY
CONCERT MONDAY IN NEW MEMORIAL HALLLarge Audience Expected For First Entertainment In Rebuilt Auditorium

The Portland Polyphonic Society will appear here again after an elapse of two years on Monday evening, November 24, in Memorial Hall at 8:15 o'clock. It may also be noted that this will be the first entertainment in Memorial Hall since its reconstruction. A large audience is anticipated and it is expected to be one of the outstanding presentations of the current year.

This society is a small choral organization which was founded about ten years ago by Alfred Brinkler, for the purpose of singing old and modern part songs and madrigals written for more than the usual four voice parts. The people who compose this unusual musical group are all specially selected singers, including some of noteworthy talent, and it will be found that their ensemble presentations are most excellent.

Their program on Monday evening will be a well-varied and profuse one, which will include examples from the early English school of madrigal and part song writers, as well as modern English, German, Italian, Russian, and our own American writers, who are represented in particular by J. W. Clokey in his most praiseworthy works.

RELIGIOUS ASPECT OF COLLEGE LIFE
TO BE DISCUSSEDDr. Goodrich to Lead Discussion With Talk on "Programs of Religious Activity"

On Thursday evening, November 20, at 7:30 o'clock, Dr. Chauncey W. Goodrich, retired pastor of the Congregational Church at Brunswick, will speak on "Possible Program of Religious Activity at Bowdoin" in the small assembly room on the second floor of the Moulton Union. All members of the college are invited to attend. A discussion concerning the starting of a program of religious activities will follow the talk.

Dr. Goodrich's talk is the outgrowth of a meeting of men interested in the religious activities of the college held last Thursday evening at which plans for the discussion were made and at which a committee headed by Warren S. Palmer '32 was appointed to make arrangements for the talk.

Dr. Goodrich has been connected with social and religious work for many years. During his undergraduate days at Yale, he was prominent in the social work of the college. After his graduation from Yale and from the Union Theological Seminary, he carried on his religious work in many churches including the Fifth Avenue Church of New York, the American Church in Paris, and the Congregational Church at Brunswick. He is an honorary graduate of Bowdoin. Dr. Goodrich is known and admired by many students at Bowdoin as being the leader of the student Bible class at the Congregational Church and having been a Sunday Chapel preacher several times.

A white-flaming juggernaut from Maine rolled into Middletown last Saturday and for two thunderous periods proceeded gaily to smash Wesleyan's face into one of the wettest fields this side of Halifax. It was an afternoon that recalled the soapy sloughs at Colby, and the hideous day that Bowdoin spent there a while ago. It also recalled the fact that seven men were playing their last game.

A good deal has been said at one time or another this year to the effect that Bowdoin is a dry-weather team. Fast, but no drive in bad going. Saturday saw that myth as efficiently drowned as the one that Maine couldn't be beaten. For a slipping squirming dry-field battle by the name of Foster ran forty-five, fifty, and seventy-five yards through a dazed Wesleyan defense, and a ripping grinding full-back by the name of Morrell punched a thirty-yard touchdown through the line, and a mite by the name of Jit Ricker skittered gaily around on top of the mud. It was a great day.

Schlums and Streibinger were the best that the Cardinals had to bring up against this combination. They played gamely, Schlums was carried from the field, but they lost. And in the line Captain Miller found Milliken hanging on his neck like a long-lost brother. There was no sudden second-half crumpling of Bowdoin's forward line, they simply took it easy. They could afford to, the score was twenty-four to six at the end of the first thirty minutes.

In the first moments of the game the White opened up a drive frustrated by the invariable fumble. Bowdoin kicked off to Wesleyan, who lost the ball on downs on their own thirty-yard line. Then Sid dropped back, scooped in the ball, and skidded twenty-five yards around right end. With what looked like a certain touchdown in sight, somebody fumbled. Wesleyan recovered, and Tirrell kicked. Far back up the field, in the double safety man formation, Foster took the ball, dodged a tackler or two, and tore down the side-line, his interference forming as he came. He stopped under the goal-posts. Bowdoin took a deep breath, and everybody relaxed for the rest of the period. But with the whistle he began again. After an exchange of punts, the White went into a huddle in mid-field. Foster scratched his head reflectively, tucked the ball under his arm, and swung around end once more, this time for over fifty yards and six points. But all of this was merely a little warming-up drill. Four minutes later, when the boys had booted the ball around a time or so, Foster took over some twenty yards from the man on the Cardinal team seemed to have a crack at him. It did about as much good as flagging down the Empire State Express. And while the standees were howling Morrell and Foster came down the field once more, and Lloyd crashed through left tackle to grind along for a thirty yard touchdown and Bowdoin's total contribution for the day.

Wesleyan's second period touchdown was scored on a break, when somebody fumbled in the muck, and Tirrell recovered on the three yard line. He took it over on a line burst. In between halves an oration to the gladiators must have been in progress, for the Methodists came out on the field with a frantic determination to do something about it. Tirrell and Schlums began driving through off tackle, straight battering football, un-

(Continued on Page 4)

ABBE ERNEST DIMNET
TO SPEAK HERE SOONRenowned Author of "The Art of Thinking" Appears
December 16

Abbe Ernest Dimnet, the world renowned, French philosopher will speak here on Tuesday December 16. The lecture will be held in Memorial Hall at 8:15 p.m. Judging from his previous lectures there is no doubt but what a large crowd is to be expected.

Abbe Dimnet will speak on "The Art of Thinking" which is the title of his greatest book. The Abbe's flawless use of English is decorated by bewitching Gallic accents and it is hard for one to believe him to be a Frenchman. The book, the title of which he has chosen for his subject, was written in English. After its greatness, Abbe Dimnet is now on tour in the United States having already lectured at Boston and the vicinity.

In his lecture at Boston the Abbe referring to thinkers spoke of Musolini as of the Napoleonic type. He branded him as dangerous. After the lecture he was asked "Is there danger of war between France and Germany?" "No, it is with Italy, Musolini is preparing Italy for a war with France. Italy wants to expand

(Continued on Page 2)

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

George T. Sewall '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31

John L. Snider '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artino Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonicucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumnius) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, November 19, 1930.

No. 16

The Football Season

It is always interesting, even though perhaps not always pleasant, to review the football season. This year, however, we can do so with a pardonable display of pride. We do not wish to break forth into any fulsome effusion over our college and her superiority in the approved Bates manner. In the first place, we could not do so for ethical reasons. In the second place, we do not feel that our showing in the State Series warrants any such acclamation. Bates clearly defeated and outplayed us in that last quarter at Lewiston. Colby's victory, though not quite so well merited, was nevertheless a victory. But the team's showing against Maine, against Tufts and against Williams quite evens the tally. The College should, and does, feel proud of her coach and her team. Bowser has done his job well; he has built up a team which far surpasses any Bowdoin team in many long years. His machine has, furthermore, no mercenary troops as its cogs — merely men who have chosen Bowdoin as their college. There is no financial reimbursement of any sort as an inducement for these men. In a week or so, little will remain to them of the transient glory of football, — little, that is, outside of warnings for some and injuries for others. And yet these men have gone out and produced the best season Bowdoin has had in years. It is no small honor that we have downed Maine for the first time in nine years, that we defeated another ancient rival, Tufts, that Williams, champion of The Little Three, managed to tie us by what was admittedly an enormous "fluke." We feel that this 1930 season has been a big one for Bowdoin. We hope that next year will see a bigger one. With Bowser and the many veterans that will be back, we see much promise.

The "All-Maine" Team

The ORIENT and the student body congratulate those three men who have been selected to the mythical "All-Maine" eleven. Captain Southern played a fine game at left end all season; to our mind, there was no better fighter in the State. Foster and Morrell in the backfield have shown themselves to be of the first water, both defensively and offensively. All three have done splendid work, and are more than fit to take their places among the best that our sister Maine colleges can boast. To those others of the team who have also made the "All-Maine" squad, we owe praise as well. The selection is a mirror, reflecting good work, hard work and clean work on the part of every man. We can add little.

Compulsory Chapel

Quite naturally, we were pleased the other day in chapel when we heard the President announce that the issue raised by the ORIENT on the question of compulsory chapel was soon to be referred to the proper authorities. Whatever may be the outcome, it is highly gratifying to observe this cooperation of the faculty with the student body. We hope that we too shall be as ready to cooperate when should occasion arise. At any rate, we appreciate the attention our plea has received.

The Tea Dance

It is a fine thing that the College occasionally blossoms forth socially with a tea dance, such as the one this Saturday in the Union. Quite often, unfortunately, the social side of college, particularly a men's college, tends to be neglected. We therefore applaud the sponsors of this dance. However, one big question comes into our mind, even as we know it does into the minds of many others; why cannot we have an orchestra that will furnish music, not merely a blare of brass, with drum solos intermingled? This is a criticism that exists for no small number of those attending the dances given thus far this year. The Polar Bears have failed to produce much of anything in the way of good or new music. What should be corrected within the orchestra we leave for the musically talented to settle. Until they do settle it and correct it, however, let us have music, not just sound!

The Cafeteria Problem

Last week, we wrote an editorial on this subject. During the week, the student body have received letters from the Committee on the Moulton Union. Both editorial and letter were written independent of each other. (No, the ORIENT is not seeking the credit for the ideas set forth by the Committee in their letter!) The similarity in thought between the two is striking. It must seem, therefore, that the formation of an eating club on the boarding house plan is the regrettable, but inevitable, step, unless of course patronage increases. Will it increase? Probably not. Undoubtedly, it is too much trouble for some of us to be that loyal. Much as we hate the idea of compulsion in any form, we might suggest the following wild idea. Let each fraternity delegate each week a certain number of its Freshmen, perhaps two, to eat for a week at the cafeteria. This would increase the clientele by twenty-two men, which should prove a considerable help. It would also be of benefit to the Freshmen so delegated in that they would in this way have more of an opportunity of meeting men from other groups. It might even be well to extend this plan to apply to the three upperclasses as well, making it two delegates from each fraternity. We feel strongly that such a system would not only be of benefit to the cafeteria, but would also tend, even though possibly only in a small way, toward the establishment of closer relations between men in the various fraternity and non-fraternity groups.

Communication

Nov. 9, 1930.

The Editor of the Bowdoin Orient

Brunswick, Maine

Dear Sir:

For the purpose of giving an account to the undergraduates in particular and in general to all interested, it is requested that publicity in your pages be given to the disposal of the Blanket Tax Fund for the current academic year.

The Faculty, on Nov. 3rd, voted to approve the report of its Blanket Tax Committee which report is hereby attached. In explanation of the figures it should be stated that every interest received every cent it applied for. The non-athletic interests are, accordingly, perfectly taken care of. The block figure for Athletics is to be subdivided solely by the Faculty members of the Athletic Council, for the protection of minor sports. All of these actions by Faculty Committees are pursuant to instructions of the Governing Boards of the College.

The "Quill" applied too late for consideration on Nov. 3rd. However, by vote of the A. S. B. C., they have been allowed to petition for funds, and may rest assured that they will be given prior consideration in the disposal of any present or future funds available.

These funds are imposed by taxation on the part of the Governing Boards, collected by the Bursar of the College, appropriated by the proper Faculty Committees and spent with the advice and under the direction of proper Faculty advisors. It should be of distinct interest to the undergraduate to know how these funds are being managed and it is for this purpose that this open letter is being submitted for publication in the Orient.

Very truly yours,
THOMAS MEANS,
Chairman Blanket Tax Com.

REPORT OF BLANKET TAX COMMITTEE

	1929-1930	1930-1931
Appropriated	Recommended
Band	$ 317.00	$ 526.25
Debating	450.00	475.00
Musical Clubs	500.00	500.00
Publishing Company	500.00	500.00
Y. M. C. A.	150.00	100.00
Total Non Athletic	1,917.00	2,101.25
Total Athletic	9,200.00	9,200.00
Total Appropriation	11,117.00	11,301.25
Surplus Balance	65.24	163.38
Total Available	$11,182.24	$11,464.63

Respectfully submitted,

DANIEL C. STANWOOD,

ROLAND H. COBB,

RALPH DE S. CHILDS,

THOMAS MEANS, Chairman.

All-Maine Team

(Continued from Page 1)

His four successive smashes netting 75 yards through the Maine line were rated as the most spectacular individual effort of the season.

The choice between Sid Foster and Sid Farrell of Bates was so close that they both finally found positions. Farrell's weakness in the Maine game was decidedly not in his favor. The lack of spectacular playing on the part of Sid Foster, however, in the Colby and Bates games was likewise against him. Nevertheless, considering Foster's work against three most formidable foes, Williams, Tufts and Maine, the Telegram showed a very slight preference for him.

Gatchell and Ricker Mentioned Valentic, Bates quarter-back, easily won that berth on the all-state team. Though Gatchell's interference and defensive work was most valuable, his weakness in other lines lost him the position. Ricker's play, though exceptionally good, was overshadowed by the work of the two half-backs chosen.

The choice of Horne, Maine captain, and Fuller of Bates for tackles was made without much chance for argument. Ecke of Bowdoin, however, was worthy of commendation in the eyes of the Telegram's selector. The Bates line again proved its superiority as both its guards, Long and Berry, received positions on the team. Pollock of Bowdoin, though playing a fine game, was not as conspicuously good as either of those chosen.

Milliken Commended Milliken of Bowdoin was commended for his playing of center position, but Pollard of Colby was considered the better man. The whole line of the Mules appeared to have been built up around him and he was outstanding both in offense and defense.

Of all the men on the team Bates was represented by the largest number. Four of the seven linemen were from the Garnet team and two of her backfield were considered better than

Abbe Dimmet

(Continued from Page 1)

and wants colonies. I look for a war with Italy in two years. Had Italy the finances now Mussolini would bring about war," Mussolini, he said, is a great thinker and has accomplished great things for Italy.

The following paragraph has been taken from an article in the Providence Journal, written, after he had lectured at the Plantation Club: "There was of course immense curiosity to see what he looked like—the provocative Abbe whose famous book has been sold by the hundred thousand to a nation anxious to comprehend but far too busy to pursue the art of thinking. And there he was—slight, of middle height, with white hair somewhat sparse upon a moderately lofty brow; there he was, in his clerical attire which, for its simple black, managed to suggest thoughtfulness in dress; there he was, the man behind a very famous book."

The Abbe comes to us very highly lauded and we should realize how fortunate we are to have such a man to speak before us. He is a most prolific writer, having written about a dozen books and scores of magazine articles. "The Bronte Sisters," "Paul Bourget," "France Herself Again," "Tendencies of French Thought," "From A Paris Balcony," etc., not to mention the Lowell lectures (printed in book form later) at the Institute of Politics, Williamstown, Mass.

In closing let us read what John Dewey says of "The Art of Thinking": "Before a work of art one is likely to be dumb or to indulge in ejaculations; and when asked why one likes it, to reply 'go and see for yourself.' This is the way in which I feel about this genial and witty book."

REPORT OF BLANKET TAX COMMITTEE

	1929-1930	1930-1931
Appropriated	Recommended
Band	$ 317.00	$ 526.25
Debating	450.00	475.00
Musical Clubs	500.00	500.00
Publishing Company	500.00	500.00
Y. M. C. A.	150.00	100.00
Total Non Athletic	1,917.00	2,101.25
Total Athletic	9,200.00	9,200.00
Total Appropriation	11,117.00	11,301.25
Surplus Balance	65.24	163.38
Total Available	$11,182.24	$11,464.63

Respectfully submitted,

DANIEL C. STANWOOD,

ROLAND H. COBB,

RALPH DE S. CHILDS,

THOMAS MEANS, Chairman.

Hornell Lecture

(Continued from Page 1)

believe the recommendation is sound to create decentralized supervision of field work under a divisional engineer responsible to the chief engineer.

"I was much interested to see what recommendations would be made concerning the Public Utilities Commission. No drastic changes were proposed except to remove from among the duties of the commission those functions which functionally belong to the department of health and to the proposed Department of Conservation. This recommendation I believe is unquestionably sound, as well as the recommendation, that some of the dead wood handed down from the railway commission should be cast off.

"In my opinion the survey has already justified itself, whatever the final action of the state may be. The average citizen of Maine has learned more truth about this government in 10 years.

"Opposition is inevitable and of course desirable. The only danger is that concentration on the trees may obstruct the view of the forest.

"It is claimed that the plan is idealistic, but not practical under Maine conditions. But every worth while reform in government has had to face such criticism. Some say that the constitution should not be tinkered with. Fortunately the constitutional changes proposed are comparatively simple and easily comprehended by the people. Besides the framework of government is a legitimate subject for constitutional treatment.

"Probably the greatest protest will come from those who fear vesting so much power in the Governor. They fail to recognize that effective gov-those of her opponents. Of the twelve selected Bowdoin men filled three positions, Colby two, and Maine only one.

Sunday Telegram's All-Maine Team

Sam Kenison	Bates	End
"Hank" Horne	Maine	Tackle
"Red" Long	Bates	Guard
"Snub" Pollard	Colby	Center
Herb Berry	Bates	Guard
John Fuller	Bates	Tackle
George Souther	Bowdoin	End
Pete Valentic	Bates	Quarterback
Wally Donovan	Colby	Halfback
Sid Foster	Bowdoin	Halfback
Sid Farrell	Bates	Halfback
Lloyd Morrell	Bowdoin	Fullback

Why Not Come to the Spa and Try One of Our Special Dinners?

only 40c

Do It Today . . . Get It at the Spa

Mustard and Cress

HERE THEY ARE!

Mustard and Cress takes wicked delight in presenting this "All-Time" team, because it is chosen, unlike so many other teams solely on the basis of color of hair, length of eyebrows, and other similar traits of phom and character which after all is the main thing to be considered in a football man.

What difference does it make whether or not a man can skirt an end, knock a tackle for a row of Listerine labels, or gain twenty yards through guard? This is not the main thing. No, no. What we like to see is a chap who can give exactly the main trends in religion during the dark ages, write out the 23 reasons why Jefferson was a great man, or recite sections of the Comedia. These are the things that count, these the things that win games, these the things that . . . oh well, have it your own way.

However, here's our first "All-Maine" team, hope you like it: Fullback, Donovan, Bowdoin.

Quarterback, Long, Bowdoin. Quarterback, Donovan, Maine.

Center, Mitchell, Bowdoin, Tufts, Sat., 10-30, Adams. Right Guard, Spinks.

Left Guard, Barnes. (With both Tackles, Wetten and Damp, both Colby. (By Permission of the Gannetts of Augusta.)

Ends, Appleton and Hyde. Substitutes, Long, Donovan, Long, Donovan, Long, Donovan, and Donovan and Long.

Backfield, the four horsemen, Bowman, Johnson, Gray and Sills. Center, Betty Co-Ed.

Right Guard, Barnes. (With both Tackles, Wetten and Damp, both Colby. (By Permission of the Gannetts of Augusta.)

Ends, Appleton and Hyde. Substitutes, Long, Donovan, Long, Donovan, Long, Donovan, and Donovan and Long.

It is suggested that persons had better come around and fight it out the gentlemen, instead of taking pot-shots through our window. All right, officers, we'll go peacefully.

ernment rests upon the recognition that responsibility for policy making should rest with the Legislature, while the policy executing function or administration should be centralized in a responsible executive.

"Maine has the opportunity to join the forward looking states. Let us hope that progress will not be retarded by narrow provincialism and petty selfish interests.

"Considering the proposed innovation seems to be that of the 'executive department.' The duties of the Secretary of State relating to keeping of records, issuing commissions, and issuing of ballots should be assigned to this proposed executive department.

"It is interesting to note here that the investigation seemingly overlooked the duties of the Secretary of State relative to primary nominations, election returns, and the administration of the corrupt practices act. We can only guess where they might have been placed in the proposed executive department.

"The proposal to create, in the executive department, a bureau of administration with a budget officer and a personnel officer offers a remedy for two most outstanding defects in Maine's state government, namely the lack of a budget system worthy of the name, and the complete absence of any civil service reform. I believe that the survey is sound in its recommendation that the responsibility should rest squarely on the governor for the preparation and execution of the state budget. The permanent budget officer in the executive department would be indispensable as an agent for fact finding and compiling the necessary financial data. Sound financial practice in cities as well as states includes a budget which presents a comprehensive plan of the state's financial requirements. There can be no justification of Maine's so-called budget system which embraces less than half of the annual expenditures. The proposals relating to budgetary control are no less important than those relating to the preparation of the budget.

"I likewise give my whole approval to the proposal for an up-to-date accounting system, and for a centralized purchasing plan such as is now in operation in 36 of our 48 states. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the value of proper control of goods in storehouses and storehouse accounting.

"Personal Management: An effective civil service plan has been in operation in Massachusetts for 46 years. Why Maine continues to hire, pay, promote or remove her administrative employees under the outworn spoils system of Andrew Jackson's day is almost beyond comprehension.

The Ideal Hotel for You
In BOSTON

the NEW
Hotel MANGER

At North Station
Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot
and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS
Each Room equipped with Tub and Shower, Built-in Radio Speaker
(Three Service Service) Servitor
Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Modern Equipped and Partially
Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster
Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH
FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00
FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 6.00
No Higher Rates

When it is understood that there are at least 2,500 persons regularly employed by the State and that personal service is the largest single item of the cost of government, the importance of civil service reform is no longer a controversial question.

"Those who are familiar with the situation can not question the truth of the indictment that among the employers of the State there are no standards of compensation for positions of comparable value; titles of many positions have no relation to work actually done; length or efficiency in service apparently bear no direct relation to increases of compensation or promotion; appointments are not made on the basis of the actual qualifications of the employees and promotion to higher positions is purely fatuous; and many employees are utterly unqualified for their position by experience, training, age, or physical condition."

Memorial Hall

(Continued from page 1)

the northeast corner of the building. Completely enclosed on all four sides by steel walls and with a cement ceiling and floor this structure was opened at any time from the interior of the hall.

Another improvement which has been added is the treatment of the ceiling so as to improve its acoustic properties. Lack of funds prevented the purchase of new lights, but the old chandeliers have been rebuilt and are expected to serve temporarily. Next year new lighting fixtures will probably be obtained. The old fixtures have been so changed as to give an indirect lighting to the hall.

Other Minor Improvements

A method of signaling from the stage to the balcony has been arranged. This will enable lecturers who are using lantern slides to control the appearance of the slides.

The benches which were built along the walls have been kept as they were, though refinished. Likewise the bronze tablets have kept their place on the eastern wall. However, the pictures which formerly were hung on the walls have been taken down and the old organ which stood on the left hand side of the stage has been moved upstairs.

Christmas Play

(Continued from page 1)

The Foxhunter . . . John E. Mullen '34
First Laborer . . . Robert F. Hayden '34
Second Laborer . . . Russell Hall '33
The Farmer . . . John G. Fay '34
The Parson . . . Walter D. Hinkley '34
The Bellringer

Raymond R. Brown, Jr., '34
This Galsworthy drama was first produced in London in August of 1926, and ran there for nearly a year. Brought to America by Winthrop Ames in October, 1927, it played successfully through the season at the Booth Theatre in New York, with Leslie Howard in the chief role.

The play deals with the experiences of an escaped convict, who has just been jailed for the accidental killing of a policeman. There are several distinct episodes, in which the convict meets persons in various walks of life, who reveal their different reactions to him.

The performance this year will take place at the Cumberland Theatre on December 19, the Friday of the Christmas House Parties.

The following men are trying out for the assistant business manager-ship of the Masque and Gown: P. S. Ambler '34, Chandler Redman '34, Fred Miller '33, W. Bashkirkoff '34.

At a recent meeting of the officers and the membership committee of "L'Ours Blanc" at the French Club, the following men were admitted to membership: B. Beaton, W. Berry, G. Booth, R. Buffington, J. Burke, T. Card, B. Crystal, C. Doherty, W. Grey, H. Kellett, C. Kirkpatrick, E. Mandeville, A. Moyer, R. Moyer, L. Smith, E. Spingarn, and B. Staples.

At present the roster of L'Ours Blanc comprises about thirty members. The club is planning an active program for the year, and it is hoped that it will be possible to present something of popular interest during the year. The first regular meeting will be held next Monday evening at seven-thirty at the Kappa Sigma House when Mr. Francis Biraud will speak on his impressions of America.

For the continual whirl of events during your Thanksgiving recess, may we suggest a Mt. Rock Fleece Overcoat. A Mt. Rock Fleece, conservative in appearance and most conservative in cost, can assure you of attaining that well dressed feeling. Hats, Gloves, Mufflers, Shoes, Linen and Ties, as well as Evening Wear and Accessories, are merely reminders of what you may need over the recess.

The House of Walsh

RENT A REMINGTON PORTABLE

YOU only need a typewriter temporarily? Come to us, we'll rent you a Remington Portable at very reasonable rates . . . or sell you one on easy terms.

Chandler's
Book Store

Mitchell Talk

Continued from Page 1

ion that an intimate contact between the faculty and the students is highly necessary, pointing out that any means to secure this result was desirable. He then described how Bowdoin while retaining the old lecture and recitation system has made exceptional progress within the past fifteen years in establishing a contact between the teacher and student. Problem Like One in Public Speaking. In discussing the subject, "Are There New Ideals in Education," Professor Mitchell said that he wished to take an illustration from the art of public speaking. There are, he said, two attitudes which a public speaker may take towards his audience, two different ways in which he may interpret his task. One way is this: He may write out his address carefully in correct English. He may check up his statements of fact painstakingly. He may make sure that his reasoning is sound and that good authorities believe as he does. He may then go before his audience—perhaps in some country village in Maine—and his attitude may be this: "What I have to say is all right; I know it is. It is truth; it is good, sound doctrine. Now you may listen or not just as you like. You may take it or leave it as you please. That's none of my business."

The other way seems much the same yet is very different. It is this: He may prepare his address with equal care. He may verify his facts and opinions in every way he can. But after all he will remember that that is not enough. That in a sense is only the beginning of his job. His supreme task is to make those facts and principles so interesting to his audience that they will listen. Perhaps by a skillful use of his voice, by unique or poignant phrasing, by apt allusion, and concrete illustration, by humorous anecdote, in some way or other he must hold their attention. It is his task to deliver his speech to the men and women for whom it was intended. It has often been pointed out that the telegraph boy does not deliver his message by throwing it over the fence or into the back yard; neither does a man really deliver his address by shouting it into the air. Unless he can win his hearers' attention and hold it, he has failed. He has fallen down on his job.

Now it seems to me that almost exactly the same thing is true in teaching. And the principal changes that have taken place in teaching, especially in college teaching, during the last twenty years have been largely due to this conception of the teacher's task. He must, of course, as the student puts it, "know his stuff." He must be sure that his facts are facts, his logic logical, and his principles sound. He must, of course, have a message to deliver. And he must also be able to "deliver" it.

Teacher Must Reach Student

The other day I saw a book with this title: "Reaching Other Minds." That is the task of the teacher which is being recognized today as perhaps never before—to reach the other mind. And any device that he can use, any method that he can invent, any skill that he can employ to help him in accomplishing that great task he should value and cherish.

I would not imply that this is a recent discovery. It is not. It is a pedagogical platitude. Great teachers have always recognized it. It was well known by Socrates who in his desire to help thoughts and ideas to be born from other minds used to call himself an intellectual midwife. It was known and used by Dr. Arnold of Rugby and by Mark Hopkins of Williams and by many great teachers whom you and I have known. But both secular and religious education is extremely likely to become institutionalized and too often methods that at first in the hands of a master are vital and efficacious, in the hands of his successors become perfunctory and futile.

So long as the classes are small and the students few, the problem of reaching the other mind is not felt to be so pressing; but when, as in some of our large universities, the classes run into the hundreds, if not thousands, then arises the conviction that some way must be devised by which we can retail rather than wholesale education.

That I think we may well say is one of the new ideals in education. And we are all grateful to President Holt and Rollins College for what they have done and are doing today to achieve this ideal.

Progress Made at Bowdoin

As I look back over the last twenty years at Bowdoin, the most significant changes that we have made have perhaps been in this direction.

To most of the principles that President Holt has mentioned and suggestions that he has made I can say "Yea and Amen." I do, however, have to take exception to some of them. I cannot help thinking that in some respects President Holt is describing the college of thirty years ago rather than the college of today. At Bowdoin certainly there is no great gulf fixed between student and teacher. In general our class sections are small; and because of our system of advisers, of fraternities, of departmental clubs, of small group conferences as supplementary to the lectures, and because of the frequent meeting of the instructors and students in preparation for their major examination, to say nothing of the house parties and athletic games, our students and teachers mingle together easily and happily and have vital and human contact. And one thing more: I cannot subscribe to the suggestion that the lecture system or the recitation system, or any other system should be scrapped "in toto." I believe that the teacher should be free to use any method that he wishes to arouse the student's curiosity, to keep him mentally awake and alive, in other words

DRAGGING home the TURKEY

Is no doubt a good equivalent of "Bringing Home the Bacon."

A still more modern version is taking home a "Kenwall".

Then there can be no question that your Thanksgiving will be highly successful!

"Kenwalls" are our new suits at $45.00. In English Worsteds and Sharkskins, they are everything good suits should be . . . and more.

HARMON'S

ONE WILL ALWAYS STAND OUT

Whole-hearted, natural, real!

EQUALLY genuine is the response of smokers to Chesterfield's satisfying goodness, its wholesome smoothness.

No one ever has to "acquire" a taste for Chesterfields. You don't have to learn to like them. Smokers take to their pleasing flavor instinctively . . . and here's why:

MILDNESS — the entirely natural mildness of tobaccos that are without harshness or bitterness.

BETTER TASTE — Such as only a cigarette of wholesome purity and better tobaccos can have.

for Milder

BETTER TASTE

Chesterfield Cigarettes are manufactured by LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

They Satisfy
— that's Why!

ATHLETIC COUNCIL MEETS TO CONDUCT ROUTINE BUSINESS

The Athletic Council of Bowdoin College held its second meeting of the year at the gymnasium on Saturday, Nov. 3, 1929. The meeting was very short and nothing of any great importance was discussed, only the usual routine business of the Council being carried on. The new set of by-laws was approved and there was a discussion of dual track meets at Bowdoin. It was also voted to procure a new set of boards for the sides of the hockey rink. The Athletic Council consists of the following members: Harvey D. Gibson, Chairman, Malcolm E. Morrell, Dr. Henry L. Johnson, Boyd W. Bartlett, Morgan B. Cushing, Arthur L. Crimmins, '31, George H. Souther '31, John L. Ricker '32, W. Lawrence Usher '32, Raymond E. McLaughlin '33.

HOOR EXAMS

Wednesday, November 19
French 5
Chemistry 5
Thursday, November 20
Gov. 7—10:30
Gov. 9—1:30
Math. 1—3:30
Friday, November 21
Spanish 1
German 3
Saturday, November 22
English 1
Monday, November 24
Philosophy 7
Tuesday, November 25
Psychology 3
Eng. 18—10:30
Economics 1
Economics 7—10:30

Sunday Chapel

(Continued from Page 1)
image of God created he him." Can we help but cease our blundering and find a clarity of perception, can we not disregard the text book technicalities for a deeper, boundless faith, if we take the significance of these readings to heart?

The Need for Faith

Many men of today have a sort of slipshod faith, either blindly following a set of rules, or trying to get by as best they can. But does this find favor in the sight of God? Did he choose his prophets and apostles on this basis? In fact, he only chose a small number because of the singularly simple faith of these few. When we follow a "faith-life", we feel as if we were floating on a stream, being pushed irresistibly forward to a career of accomplishment.

In this changing age, we do not need a restatement of theological doctrine, but a rebuilding in terms of character and action. Our duty is not one of repose, and faith is greatly needed to forge ahead in both the spiritual and everyday world.

In truth, faith is the one great (Continued on page 4)
to reach his mind. In some courses, on some days, with some men the lecture system may be best; under other circumstances, the recitation method; and under still others, the conference. At any rate, however much we may differ in method, we all agree that we are working for the same result—to impart the truth, to advance scholarship, and to develop men and women of power.

VULGATE CLASS TO HEAR LECTURES ON RELATED SUBJECTS

The student Bible class engaged in reading the Vulgate at 3:30 on Sundays in the Moulton Union under the leadership of James B. Colton, 2nd, '31, is now entering the second month of its existence and has made considerable progress in reading the Latin version of the Gospel of St. Luke. Some very interesting facts concerning the history and the text of the Vulgate have been brought out in past meetings. There is still room for those who wish to join. No extensive knowledge of Latin is necessary to join the class as the Latin in the Vulgate is comparatively simple.

On about every third Sunday a speaker from the faculty or from Brunswick will address the class on some subject relative to the Vulgate. On November 23, President Sills will speak on "A Comparison of the Styles of the Septuagint and of the Vulgate." Later on in the year, Dr. Goodrich of Brunswick will address the class on "Conditions Giving Rise to the Need for Jerome's Translation of the Bible." At such meetings of the class the student body in general is invited to attend. Other speakers will be announced later.

Ives Trophy Meet

Three days of interfraternity competition for the Ives Trophy concluded, Alpha Delta Phi has snatched the lead from Psi Upsilon, the scores standing 21 to 17. Sigma Nu and Beta Theta Pi, in a deadlock, trail the leaders with 15 points each. Zeta Psi stands third; Delta Kappa Epsilon and Kappa Sigma tied for fourth; with Theta Delta Chi and Chi Psi bringing up the rear.

Henry S. Dowst '29 has just begun work completing the catalogue record of approximately a thousand alumni who have died since 1912.

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - Nov. 19th

RENEGADES

- with -
Warner Baxter - Myrna Loy
Noah Beery
Also Sport Light - Comedy
Knute Rockne Football Series

Thursday - Nov. 20th

WAY FOR A SAILOR

- with -
John Gilbert - Wallace Beery
Also Comedy - Sound Act
Knute Rockne Football Series

Friday - Nov. 21st

VAUDEVILLE

- On the Screen -
THE GORILLA
- with -
Lila Lee - Joe Frisco
Also Paramount News

Saturday - Nov. 22nd

OUTSIDE THE LAW

- with -
Mary Nolan - Edward G. Robinson
Owen Moore
Also Short Subjects

Mon. and Tues. - Nov. 24 and 25

THE BIG TRAIL

- with -
Marguerite Churchill
El Brendel - John Wayne
Also Paramount News

ANTIQUITY SHOP
THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

STUART & CLEMENT
Quality Printing
Town Building
BRUNSWICK - - - MAINE

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET
—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?'
Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick
PLAY SAFE —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

Good Typography

Reasonable prices and prompt
service — the aim of

The Record Press

Get in touch with us for your next job of printing.

Tel. 3
Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

Football Review

(Continued from Page 1)
and Ricker were running wild through the Purple line and in ten plays Bowdoin had gained 110 yards. Williams braced however and for the greater part of the remainder of the game the two teams fought on even terms. The weight of the visitors began to tell in the closing minutes, and after the Purple had penetrated into Bowdoin territory, a long heart-breaking pass batted into a Purple back's hands by Bowdoin player spelled the end of the White's hopes for an upset. Bowdoin was at a peak in this game, a peak the team did not reach again until the Maine game, and the feat of getting Williams attracted considerable attention to Bowser and Co.

Apparently showing the effects of the Williams battle the White had all it could do the following week to eke out a 19-14 victory over Tufts, the first, incidentally since 1925. Tufts scored first on a 40 yard march but Bowdoin came back with two scores before the end of the first half. Both teams scored once in the second half. Tufts made several substantial gains through the White line on punners plays but the wizardry of Sid Foster and Jit Ricker offset these, both getting away for long gains.

Two Defeats
The story of the Colby game marked the defeat of the Polar Bears when the Mule kicked the high scoring Brunswick team into the mire on Seaverns Field by a 20-7 score, after Bowdoin had led the way by one touchdown in the early stages of the game. The loss of this game had little to do with the result of the game to come a week later with Bates, for at Colby the field was well named by an Orient reporter "a dismal swamp" and the weight of such men as Donovan, Johnstone, "Snub" Pollard and others did much to wreck an otherwise competent Bowdoin team. The game resembled water polo on the Ganges more than America's fall sport of football. The ardor of the Bowdoin spectators, which was by the way the largest group to attend an "away" game in years, was not as dampened as might be expected. In fact the spirit that was manifest was unusually loyal when a victory appeared hopeless.

At Bates the story was entirely different. There was no doubt as to the superiority of Bates over the White that Saturday afternoon. It was apparent from the start that Bowdoin wasn't clicking. The interference that had been up to this time had completely disappeared. Despite this Bates fought vainly for three periods, carrying the ball most of the time but failing to work a consistent offense. At last, on the fourth period, a pass which brought the ball to the 13 yard line when the far-famed Bates line began to do its bit by tearing holes in the side of the Polar Bear, which resulted in the first score. The second goal followed immediately on a fumble and an end run by Bornstein.

Triumphs Over Maine
To reconcile the play in the final State Series game with Maine and the Bates exhibition is an impossible task. That the team reached its peak twice in the same season seems to be the answer. Once in the Williams game and once in the Maine game the Polar Bears looked like a football team worthy of any praise that might be heaped on them. Anyone who saw the Maine game would agree that they were inspired from start to finish. It was the first victory over Maine since 1921 and only the second since 1909, which is none too conspicuous a record but does point out how much commendation is due Coach Bowser for his efforts in the first year. It is difficult to point out any outstanding performance in the White's play for they played as a unit, not as individuals. The runs of Foster and Ricker, and the line plunging of Morrell cannot soon be forgotten. Gatchell proved even more conclusively his power as an interfering back. Crimmins, Barton, Southern raced down under punts in perfect fashion all afternoon, while man to man the line smashed under the Pale Blue defense which was pounds heavier to the man. Alumni did not forget this game soon. They had waited long, but the game was a fitting reward for such patience. It was an astounding crowd that poured out of the gates of Whittier Field that afternoon: Maine because "Foxy Fred" Brice had been badly "foxed," and Bowdoin because it had become apprehensive after the games of the two preceding Saturdays. The Maine game alone was proof enough to both graduates and undergraduates that Charlie Bowser had had inculcated a real football spirit which had been dormant for years.

The result of the Wesleyan game remains only an anticlimax to the Maine game so we need not draw conclusions from it. That the season as a whole was a success there is no doubt. The record of this year has done much to dispel the caustic criticism of all except a few—we are glad to say a very few—who expected the superhuman of Charlie Bowser in his first year at Bowdoin. But critics like these we shall always have with us. However, we need not draw a new era ahead. Optimism is a keynote, while athletic prosperity seems not far distant.

The story is told of the college official who, on showing a foreign visitor the plans for a proposed new university, including a football field, baseball diamond, golf course, swimming pool and billiard room, remarked that they had money enough left over; they might put up a recitation building.

In accordance with this comes the

GYM TEAM WORKING IN ANTICIPATION OF AN ACTIVE SEASON

Schedule to Start With Exhibition at Fryburg December Thirtieth

The gym team is working hard in anticipation of a long season of exhibitions and matches. On December 13th a number of the gymnasts will go to Fryburg to start the year officially with an exhibition. Some of the dates on the tentative schedule which was published a few weeks ago have been definitely agreed upon. The team will go to West Point for a match on January tenth, and Dartmouth will come here on the seventeenth. The Harvard meet, scheduled for here in February, is still an undecided event.

The number of men who are to perform on the high bars has been cut to six. These are Bradt '33, Bowman '33, Dana '32, Eaton '33, Peabody '34, and Colton '31.

The squad, as it is today, comprises twenty men, six of whom are Freshmen. There are seven of last year's competitors in the group, and only one of the Colby team.

The rest are Capt. Short, Davies, Bradt, Bowman, Eaton, and Clark.

Professor Means, the gym team coach, believes that his men show promise, and looks forward to a successful year.

HOCKEY CANDIDATES TO REPORT FOR WORK AFTER THANKSGIVING

Candidates for the Hockey team will report directly after the Thanksgiving recess to Coach Ben Houser. Preliminary training in the form of "Houser-ball", and shooting practice in the gymnasium will be in order until after the Christmas vacation, when actual practice on the ice will begin. The dates of the Northeastern and Boston University contests may be changed to make way for the Boston Bruins, but this will be the only change on the schedule, which is as follows:

Jan. 7—New Hampshire at Durham
Jan. 10—Colby at Brunswick
Jan. 12—Bates at Lewiston
Jan. 14—Colby at Brunswick
Jan. 16—Northeastern at Boston
Jan. 17—Boston at Lewiston

Feb. 11—Bates at Lewiston
Feb. 14—Colby at Brunswick
Feb. 17—Open

JUNIOR VARSITY RECEIVES PRAISE FOR HARD WORK

The junior varsity football squad is commended by Mr. Cobb for its interest in a sport for which there is no reward other than the fun of playing.

A new plan, the system of having a voluntary eleven, is proving to be most successful; no schedule is followed, but the frequent scrimmages keep the players in trim. The freshman team put them to the wall the other day, but the freshmen are naturally more serious about their game, for they have a reward in the form of numerals at the end of a hard season.

Junior Varsity line-up:
L. E.: J. C. Flint, A. S. Ferguson, F. B. Cleaves.
L. T.: S. Gould.
G.: R. T. Sperry, A. S. Davis, Jr. C. A. R. Smith, E. M. Fuller, Jr. P. A. Walker.
R. G.: L. C. Stearns, 3rd, J. Keefe, J. Creighton.
R. T.: E. N. Lippincott, R. E. Morris.
R. E.: E. Thomas, Jr., D. N. Antonucci.
O. R.: J. C. Rosenfeld, M. Lo-Cicero, R. H. B. P. J. Shute, D. D. Sloan.
L. B.: G. D. Briggs, P. T. Hayes.
F. B.: H. Richardson, H. Rising.

Wesleyan Game

(Continued from Page 1)
til the Sophomore back took it over. Late in the game Wesleyan rose again, but when Tirrell fumbled deep down in scoring territory, and a Bowdoin back leaped up in the air to grab a forward, the goose was cooked.

It's M.A.C. in October, following spring and fall training grid. Be seeing you at Amherst.

The lineups:
Bowdoin (24) (12) Wesleyan
Southern, le re, Odell, Bailey
Eke, lt rt, Sweet, Wollneck
Billodeau, lg rg, Eldridge, Bears
Miller, lg lg, Miller
Pollock, rt lg, Means, Dunlop
Brown, rt lt, Lum, L. Brown Crimmins, re le, Warner, Frescoln
Gatchell, Plained, qb
Foster, Dwyer, lb, Wells, Guernsey
Ricker, rh lh, Schlums, Houssey
Ricker, rh lh, Streibinger, Hodgman
Morrell, lb lb, Tirrell
Score by period: Bowdoin 6 18 0 24
Wesleyan 0 6 6 0-12

Touchdowns, made by Foster '3, Morrell, Schlums, Tirrell. Referee, Swaffield. Umpire, Johnson. Time, 15 minute periods.

statement from the head coach at Princeton saying that present day college is in most cases a football stadium with an adjunct of a few other buildings off to the side—that football will suffer from this present over-emphasis and will disappear in its present form and spirit, in five or ten years!

FENCING TO GET UNDER WAY AFTER THANKSGIVING

The Fencing team, under Capt. Norwood K. Macdonald '32, will commence training soon after Thanksgiving. Matches are being arranged with Dartmouth, Boston College, Boston University, Harvard, Norwich, and Massachusetts Tech. The Norwich and M. I. T. contests will probably be in Brunswick, though nothing definite has as yet been decided. This year's team will be formed with Capt. Macdonald, Douglas Anello, and Fred Miller as a nucleus. Besides the regular schedule, Capt. Macdonald hopes to enter his team in the New England Amateur matches at the Boston Athletic Association late in the season.

PLANS FOR TRACK MEET WITH ARMY NEARLY COMPLETE

Arrangements are under way for a dual track meet with the Army at West Point next spring, according to an statement issued recently by Coach John J. Magee. With many veterans back in the White ranks, prospects for a successful year look fairly bright. This meet with the Army is a new feature on Bowdoin's regular track schedule. Mr. Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the Athletic Council of the College, has offered his yacht to transport the team up the Hudson from New York City to West Point, and back. At the present time it is planned to take a fairly large squad on this trip.

SCORELESS TIES IN INTERFRATERNITY TOUCH FOOTBALL

With the aid of several forfeits, the interfraternity touch football leagues are rapidly coming to a close. During the past week only two games were actually played. On Wednesday, November 12, Kappa Sigma and Theta Delta Chi played to a scoreless tie. The game was very even throughout with neither side ever getting into a scoring position. In the only other contest of the week, Zeta Psi tied Alpha Tau Omega, with neither side scoring. Only one first down was made, and that by Zeta Psi.

LEAGUE STANDING
	A	W	L	T	PC
Zeta Psi	3	0	0	.875
Theta Delta Chi	3	0	0	.875
Kappa Sigma	2	0	2	.750
Delta Upsilon	2	2	0	.500
Psi Upsilon	0	4	1	.100
Delta Kappa Epsilon	0	4	1	.100

	B	W	L	T	PC
Sigma Nu	4	0	0	1.000
Alpha Tau Omega	3	0	0	1.000
Non-Fraternity	2	1	0	.667
Alpha Delta Phi	2	0	0	.500
Chi Psi	1	4	0	.200
Beta Theta Psi	0	5	0	.000

Games to Play
Nov. 17—Kappa Sigma vs. Delta Upsilon.
Nov. 19—Zeta Psi vs. Theta Delta Chi; Alpha Tau Omega vs. Sigma Nu.
Nov. 21—Alpha Delta Phi vs. Non-Fraternity; Alpha Tau Omega vs. Non-Fraternity.

TRAINING TABLE INAUGURATED FOR VARSITY SWIMMERS

Coach Miller Expects New System to Improve Condition of Team This Year

Last Saturday at noon, the swimming team partook of its first meal at the training table in the Union, and thereby inaugurated a system entirely new at Bowdoin. Besides Coach Bob Miller, there were nineteen men who gathered round the board. They are Capt. Smith, Mgr. Kirkpatrick '32, Bowman '33, Carpenter '32, Denmore '32, Eaton '32, Essex '32, Sperry '32, Trotter '33, Durham '32, Murray '32, Calkins '34, Carson '34, Foster '34, Nilson '34, and Hagerthy '34. On week days meals are served to these swimmers at 7.45, 12.45, and 6.00. In Coach Miller's opinion, this training table will mean much to the success of the season. Swimmers, to be in good condition, need very carefully selected and prepared food. Moreover, eating together is bound to build up the spirit and boost the morale of the team.

The varsity room in the basement of the Curtis Club building has been completed, and for over a week has been used by the team. Furnishings in this room at present include mats for exercising, and four cots for relaxation after hard workouts. A sun ray lamp will be added just as soon as Dr. Johnson completes his investigation as to what type of machine is best for the swimmers.

It is expected that the team will be strengthened this week and next when some of the varsity and Freshman football men join the ranks. Hayden, Kingsbury, and Ackerman, all of '33, will be back. Coach Miller's guidance as will probably Lloyd Morrell '32, a diver.

The Interfraternity Swimming Meet which comes on Dec. 11 will be some stiff competition, and for fourth until the last seconds of play, it looked as though the rampant scoring for the day was finished. But stepping

POLAR BEAR CUBS DOWNED BY FIERCE HEBRON ONSLAUGHT

Green Passing Combination and Heavy Line Too Much for Yearlings

Hebron's thunderous steam-roller proved conclusively that the Polar Bear Cubs have not the sharp claws of their sires, when it trampled the Frosh 44-0 last Saturday at Whittier Field. Except for one fruitless march to the Green zero marker, the striped players were held powerless by the forward wall of the Hebronites, and out-classed by their fleet backs. The faultless forward and lateral passing combination of Harlow to Bleiler spelled destruction to the first-year men. Time and again they functioned perfectly, reeling off long gains around the ends by the lateral, and skippers over the heads of the helpless cubs with the forward.

Occasionally, however, the young Bears would break into a play, and smear the Green men for substantial losses. Johnny Kozlowski showed himself an adept at this phase of the game. He was the outstanding Bowdoin defense star, while Hubbard, Odde and Robbins did most of the home team's ground-gaining.

Green Opens Up
It didn't take Hebron long to find the cubs' weakness on the aerial game. After two plays by Hubbard and Odde had been stopped dead Bowdoin punted, Bleiler, on the first play, an attempt to gain around left end, was brought to earth by Kozlowski before he could get under way. They punted to Bowdoin; and after Hubbard, who received it, was downed in his traces on his own 30 yard tape, the Frosh tried a forward, Robbins to Hubbard.

Hebron, not daunted by a 5 yard offense penalty, shot a long forward, O'Connor to Lockery. The latter, picking it out of the air on the Bowdoin 38 yard stripe, dashed under cover of Borden, for the first score of the game. O'Connor drok-kicked the extra point.

Hebron Scores Again
Hubbard took the Hebron kickoff, and after juggling it for a moment, made three yards before being tackled on his 15 yard line. A plunge by Bowdoin's fullback, Odde, netted three yards; but this small gain was lost on the next play, a criss-cross by Hubbard. Kozlowski punted to his own 45 yard line, and after two unsuccessful tries, Hebron returned the kick, which rolled out on the White's goal line. Kozlowski soon kicked again, which also went out, on the 42 yard line. Here Hebron began an irresistible jaunt down the field. On a sweeping sprint around left end, carried the pigskin 15 yards to first down. Three plays brought the ball to the 20 yard stripe, from whence Harlow to Harlow, with neither side safely over the goal for Hebron's second six-point. The kick was missed. For the remainder of the period Bowdoin held, and a punt, just before the whistle, sent the ball on the Green's 30 yard line.

Harlow and Borden Score
Bowdoin took over the spheroid on a punt, and after smashing their way from their 26 yard line to the 45, Kozlowski booted down to Harlow, who ran it back seven yards to his own 30 yard marker. A lateral, from Harlow to his old faithful, Bleiler, resulted in first down; Hubbard forced the fleet Green right end out on Hebron's 46 yard line.

Notwithstanding a 15 yard penalty for holding, the Hebron machine drove their way down to Bowdoin's one yard line, via a Harlow-Bleiler lateral which ticked off 41 yards; a twisting, dodging end run by Harlow and a fuke pass which bounced into two players' arms, and finally into Gordon's of Hebron, who ran thirty yards to the goal line. The ball in action on the Bowdoin's 8 yard tape, was carried over by Borden on an around end play. At this stage of the fray Hebron's second string had replaced the regulars. The reserve men took advantage of a fumble by the cubs on the White 28 yard mark, when Bennett fell on the ball. The Green then crossed the goal line on a pass, Butler to Borden. Krause made the extra counter.

Hebron Firsts in Again
The big Green tallied again before the third quarter ended, when Trafon ran back a punt 25 yards by dint of skillful blocking. On this point, Bowdoin's 38 yard streamer, and McLean on a whirlwind slide around the Polar cubs' right end brought the ball to the 4 yard line. Three plays eliminated in Borden's slipping over the goal line on another end-around play.

Hebron's regulars went in, en masse, in the final period, as the ball rested on their own 10 yard stripe. And straight away, on this point, the White showed their first burst of pep. After the Green punted to their 30 yard line, Robbins passed to Hubbard, who ran the remaining ten yards to the goal line. On the first down, Odde galloped along the right side-line for an easy touchdown, which was unfortunately called back because of Bowdoin offense.

Intercepted Pass Scores
With the same seaway back and forth until the last seconds of play, it looked as though the rampant scoring for the day was finished. But stepping

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY
Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity Trade

574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers

SOULE and WALKER
JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD
We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store

Watch Repairing
By An Experienced Watchmaker
Shaffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"

"The College Jeweler"
Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S

Candy and Ice Cream

74 MAINE STREET

Complete Travel Service Free—
Booklet Tours Cruises: Bermuda, Havana, Florida, West Indies, Europe. Phone, call or write PORTLAND TOURIST CO., 198 Middle St., Portland, Maine.

in the way of a clear forward pass from Robbins, which was meant for Winchell, the White quarter, Harlow folded it into his arms and from his own 23 yard tape, after waiting for his interference to form, ran straight to Bowdoin's goal line and a touchdown.

The line-ups:
Bowdoin Frosh (8) (44) Hebron
Reid, Stone, Brooks, re le, Borden Kozlowski, rt lt, Reese, Horne
Archibald, Massey, rg lg, Higgins
Davis, Kingsbury, Sternberg, c Ackerman, lg rg, Mooney, Lowe Waite, Drake, lt
rt, Robertson, Bennett Miller, le re, Lockery
Winchell, Lewis, Hayden, qb
Robbins, Burton, rhb
lh, Bleiler, McLean
Hubbard, lbh
rh, Jensen, Blanchard, Trafon
Odde, fb fb, O'Connor, Butler
Touchdowns: Harlow (2), Borden (3), Lockery and Bleiler. Point after touchdown: O'Connor, Krause. Officials: Referee, Morrell; Umpire, O'Brien (Maine); Head Linesman, Cobb (Bowdoin). Time, 12 minute quarters.

Sunday Chapel

(Continued from page 3)
characteristic needed. In the parable of the talents, the servant that buried his talent should have been rewarded instead, since he relied only upon one simple thing to sustain himself, and did not bother about the complicated ideas of his fellow servants. Although we may learn and profit by worldly experience, our real love and willpower comes only from the soul depths. So, not until we learn this one fact will we be able to find the true faith life, and our God and Redeemer.

Finish Up The Annual
Red Cross Roll Call

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

VOL. LX.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1930.

No. 17

POLAR BEARS CHOOSE RICKER LEADER FOR '31

New Captain Has Starred for Three Years on White Teams

LAMPORT TO SUCCEED MILNER AS MANAGER

Ricker and Lamport are Prominent in Campus Activities—Members of Beta Theta Pi

One of the fastest lightest backs in the history of the White will carry the title of Captain next fall when the Bowdoin eleven sweeps out onto the M.A.C. field at Amherst in the first game of the season. At a meeting of the letter-men a day or so before vacation John Albert (Jit) Ricker, a Junior, and brilliant football and baseball player, was picked to bear the burdens of the war in 1931.

Ricker, who prepped at Medford High and New Hampton and Huntington, has starred in football at Bowdoin for three years. After having played outstanding ball his Freshman year, he was crippled in the Williams game a season ago, and it was thought that he might never play again. His comeback this season is one of a series of events that have signalled the development of Bowdoin's grid machine.

A passer of great ability, unusually fast, and one of the best punters in the state, he will be a thorn in the side of any opponents given a reasonable amount of interference. In addition to football, he is probably the best collegiate outfielder in the state.

At the same time Richard Morey Lamport, of South Bend, Indiana, was named football manager. He and Ricker are both Beta's, and active in other campus activities.

EIGHTEEN FOOTBALL LETTERS GIVEN OUT BY ATHLETIC COUNCIL

Lowell and Moyer Chosen Assistant Managers at Same Meeting

The Athletic Council has awarded major letters to eighteen members of the varsity football squad. At the same meeting Arthur E. Moyer '31, and William H. Lowell '31, were elected to assistant managerships, while William V. Cope and Robert S. Eckel, of South Portland; Dwight S. Olcott, of South Union; Harry M. Pollock, of Brookline, Mass.; Sidney Reister, of Manchester, Mass.; Brooks Eastman, of Lowell; all of the class of 1931. Manager Edward Milner '31, was awarded a manager's letter.

Juniors who received major letters are John A. Ricker, of Medford, Mass.; E. Lloyd Morrill, of Brighton, Mass.; Creighton Gatchell, of Newton, Mass.; Morris Brown, of Evanston, Ill.; John W. Hay, of Westbrook; Charles C. Bildeau, of Augusta; Herbert C. Barton, Jr., of South Amherst, Mass.; and Roland Cramer, of Douglas, N. Y.

John Milner, Saco, and Harris Plaisted, of West Newton, Mass., were the only sophomores to be awarded letters.

PAUL E. EVERETT '32 STUDYING ABROAD

With University of Delaware Foreign Study Group at Nancy and Paris

Paul E. Everett, a sophomore at Bowdoin last year, is spending his junior year as one of the members of the University of Delaware Foreign Study Group. Everett received his scholarship from the University of Delaware as a result of a competitive examination last spring. He is the only Bowdoin man to have ever been a member of this foreign study group.

From July to October, Everett and the other sixty college men and women who comprise the group, studied at the University of Delaware. In the examinations held at the end of the semester at Nancy and conducted wholly in French, Everett stood fourth among the members of the group, having placed third in the only one hundredth of a percent. In October the group transferred to the Sorbonne in Paris where it will spend the rest of the academic year. Everett will return to Bowdoin next fall.

CALENDAR

- December 5—Randolph Churchill Lecture
- December 8—Freshman-Sophomore Debate
- December 9—Organ Recital by Raymond Robinson in Chapel at 8:00 p.m.
- December 11—Interfraternity Swimming Meet

Facts and Figures Prove Polar Bear Football Team Is New England Champion

There have been many discussions in the past few weeks concerning the probable football champions of New England. Some people will give the championship to Harvard, some to Yale, while still others will give it to one of the various other colleges in New England. Many of these people, however, will "award" the championship with reference to the various scores of the year. They might be extremely surprised to read the following, taken from "The Boston Globe," of December 1st.

"If by any chance you are trying to figure a New England college champion, these scores will help you: Bowdoin 14; Tufts 10; New Hampshire 8; New Hampshire 9; Brown 0; Brown 13; Holy Cross 0; Holy Cross 27; Harvard 0; Harvard 13; Yale 0; Yale 0; Dartmouth 0. Simple isn't it?"

However, when we consider the following, where are we? Bates 13; Bowdoin 0; Dartmouth 20; Bates 0. The question now is, did we beat Bates?

GENERAL CATALOGUE OF BOWDOIN BEING REVISED BY DOWST '29

Rev. Ebenezer Bean of '57 is Oldest Living Graduate—
Only Centenarian

The work of revising the General Catalogue of Bowdoin College is being carried on by Henry Dowst '29 at Hubbard Hall. Mr. Dowst has his headquarters among the "stacks" and is checking up on the Bowdoin graduates who have died since 1912, at which date the last General Catalogue was issued. This catalogue, supposedly issued every ten years, contains a list of the presidents, trustees and overseers, officers of instruction, and graduates, whether by honor or from the college or the medical school which closed in 1921. In looking up deaths of graduates Mr. Dowst has had to add any honors or degrees conferred since 1912, and any changes in business or residence since that date. Scrap books have been kept for each class and a page for each member of the class whether a graduate or not. The work which Mr. Dowst is undertaking requires considerable correspondence with friends and relatives of the men he is checking up on.

Mr. Dowst is a graduate of Bowdoin College, class of 1929. He was a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity.

ADMIRAL PEARY'S SON TO LECTURE MONDAY IN MOULTON UNION

Speaker Has Been Active for Many Years in Arctic Exploration

Robert Edwin Peary, a graduate of Bowdoin College in the class of 1925 and well known as the son of the famous Arctic explorer, will deliver an illustrated lecture on the Arctic in the Moulton Union at the college on the evening of Monday, December 8th. Since his graduation from Bowdoin Mr. Peary has shown an active interest in Arctic work and has twice been north to Baffin Land with expeditions sponsored by George Palmer Putnam. He has kept a rather complete motion picture record of these trips and has prepared lecture material to use in connection with these films.

Mr. Peary has also been employed as an engineer in various important construction projects and has prepared a second lecture which illustrates some of the more interesting features of bridge building.

BOWDOIN GRADS GO FAR AFIELD IN EDUCATIONAL WORK

Hawthorne '30 in Switzerland, Fowles '26 Now Teaching in Hawaii

After College—what? Is an oft-repeated question. But equally interesting is—where? The best in life are said to be few and far between. Comparatively speaking this may be true of Bowdoin graduates. Naturally Bowdoin graduates are less numerous than graduates of larger Universities and Colleges. Nevertheless, two Bowdoin Alumni and former members of the Classical Club have been discovered to be entirely opposite parts of the world. One Lloyd W. Fowles '26, is now after teaching at the Loomis School in Windsor, Conn., an instructor in the Punahoa School, Honolulu, Hawaii.

The employment by reputable schools both at home and abroad of Bowdoin graduates may certainly be considered as a bright feather in the caps of both the College and the Classical Club.

Exceeding Liberality Displayed As Midsemester Warnings Appear

The results of the mid-semester review are always of interest, not only to those students who do or do not receive the warnings, but of interest also to those who follow the fortunes of Bowdoin College with an anxious eye and to whom the results show whether or not the College is progressing as it should. Last year at this time the best record of major warnings, that is, the least number, was turned in of all the records that had been turned in since 1920. Therefore it will not be with as great misgivings that one surveys this year's record as it would be if last year's record was merely mediocre, and in this year's record there is little to fret about. In 1929 thirty-five major warnings were issued at the fall midsemester review. Of these, fifteen, or forty-two and six-sevenths per cent were from the freshman class of that year. This year, 1930, forty-eight major warnings were recorded, and of those, twenty-five, or fifty-two and one-half per cent were from the class of 1934. This is a general increase of thirty-seven and one-seventh per cent, and in proportion to the whole number of warnings, an increase of nine and one-fourth per cent of freshman warnings.

Interfraternity Standing

Let us turn to a comparative record of the fraternities, always interesting in a strong fraternity college like Bowdoin. The eleven fraternities together with the non-fraternity group differed less in number of major warnings this year than they did last year. Of the three fraternities who were tied for first place last year, only Alpha Tau Omega fraternity retained its place, but with two warnings instead of none. The Theta Delta Chi fraternity came second this year, rising from a position with the four last of last year and reducing its number from five to three warnings. The Chi Psi and the Zeta Psi's, tied last year with the Alpha Tau Omega's for first place, this year tie with the Kappa Sigma, Alpha Delta Phi, Delta Upsilon, Beta Theta Pi fraternities and the non-fraternity group for third place with four warnings each. Last year, with five warnings each came the Sigma Nu, Psi Upsilon, and Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternities.

QUILL MAKES FIRST APPEARANCE OF YEAR

Literary Quarterly Distributed Gratis for First Time
Among Student Body

The Bowdoin Quill, literary quarterly published by the undergraduate body, under the leadership of Fred R. Kneibacker, Jr., '31, Editor-in-chief made its first appearance this year, on Tuesday. It may be noted that the format and general appearance is marked by a decided change, the cover being a cream-colored vellum with black printing. The quarterly will be given gratis to the student body for the first time.

President Sills begins a series of articles which will be succeeded by articles from the presidents of the three other Maine colleges entitled "College Teaching as a Career." A very scholarly article has been contributed by George W. Friday '30 called "The Poetry of A. E. Housman." Friday won the Gray Eagle Prize last year. "S. S. Panama" by H. S. Bradt '33, is taken from his diary written while on a trip on a freighter. A. S. Davis '33 who won the poetry prize last year has contributed a poem entitled "Castles of the Sea." The winner of the Hawthorne Prize last year, Walter P. Bowman '31, has written a short story entitled "Louisa." An article styled after "College Teaching as a Career" is contributed by Luis T. Steele '33. E. D. W. Spingarn '33, has written a diary called "Leaves From a Western Diary."

PROF. MITCHELL NAMES PROVISIONAL LIST OF 1868 PRIZE SPEAKERS

Semi-Finals Will be Held in the Latter Part of December

Annually, a prize amounting to forty-five dollars is awarded to that member of the senior class who produces the best written and spoken oration of the year. This prize is given by the class of "sixty-eight" who have left a fund sufficient to carry on this work.

Professor Mitchell has chosen the delegation from which this year's prize winner is to be chosen. The following men comprise the delegation: W. M. True, J. L. Snider, W. P. Bowman, R. M. McFarland, H. L. Smyth, R. A. Walker, D. F. Prince, A. E. Jenkins, J. T. Gould, A. J. Deeks, J. B. Colton, and L. C. Jenks. Six men will be chosen from this number to compete in the finals sometime in January. The semi-finals will be held late this month.

MITCHELL PORTRAIT GIFT TO BOWDOIN

Later this month Bowdoin is to receive another work of art to add to its present wellknown collection. This time the masterpiece is of double interest. Aside from the artistic point of view it is a portrait of Edward Page Mitchell a graduate of the College in the class of 1871. Dr. Mitchell for many years has been editor of the New York Sun. The portrait was executed by Salisbury the noted English artist, and is now on exhibition at New York City. It is being given to the college by William DeWart, president of the New York Sun and for many years a close associate of Dr. Mitchell. Upon arrival here it will go on exhibition in the Walker Art Building.

INSTRUMENTAL CLUBS START SEASON'S WORK

Arrangements Now Being Completed for Annual Musical Club Trip

The musical clubs of the college are getting off with a rapid start since the Thanksgiving vacation and plans for public appearances are being made.

The Instrumental Club held its first rehearsal on Wednesday, December 3, at 4:30 p.m. in Memorial hall and rehearsals will be held hereafter on Monday and Wednesday of each week. Concerts will be held in Bangor and Augusta during the early part of the second semester. Plans for the annual trip are also being completed. On its trip the club will appear several times in and near the State of Maine and will proceed to New York where it will appear a number of times in the city and its environs. The Glee Club, under the leadership of Joseph G. Kretzer, has been rehearsing since the early part of the college year. The turnout for the Glee Club this year has included a considerable number of men of exceptional talent and an extraordinary successful season is expected. One of the early appearances of the Club this year will be on February 27 when the club will participate in the New England Intercollegiate Glee Club contest held at Hartford, Conn.

NEWS RELEASE SYSTEM IMPROVES PUBLICITY

Listing Boards Provides for Posting Events Three Weeks in Advance

Bowdoin is inaugurating this week an improved publicity service with a view to making official and semi-official college news more readily available to student and local newspaper correspondents. Henry S. Dowst '29, who has recently returned to the college as an assistant to the alumni secretary, will devote a portion of his time to the news service, which will be centered in the alumni office, as has been the case in earlier years. The principal mechanical feature of the service is a release board which has been set up in the vestibule of the administration building. This board is divided into twenty-one sections and provides for listing news releases three weeks ahead. This will enable correspondents to know what news can be expected for release from the office and also to have an idea as to what athletic and other events they should cover independently.

INTERNATIONAL MIND CHAPEL TALK SUBJECT

In chapel Monday, December first, Mr. Gaylord W. Douglass, the Eastern secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, spoke to the student body on the "international mind." He was introduced by Dean Nixon as a "most convincing speaker." The message that he brought was that of creating a habit of thought, especially when the world is turning toward the gospel of goodwill. He emphasized the mind that thinks beyond team, beyond the college, beyond the state, beyond the nation, to an international state of well-being and cooperation.

NOTICE

Those wishing to be ushers at the Gym Dance, are requested to apply to Paul E. Hayes, 23 Appleton Hall.

Six ushers will be drawn for from those who apply.

Lax Student Memories Keep "Boyer Budget" Busy Despite World Depression

Intense perusal of the files of the "Boyer Budget" has brought to light many facts, interesting though often damning. For compilation shows that students already owe the library over thirty-two dollars for books kept over-due. Amounts vary: "Stan" Palkham is indebted to the amount of $2.64 while the notorious "Sam" Davis will be prosecuted for the two cents which he owes.

Investigation proves that football men, contrary to the belief of magazine writers, sometimes study, for Souther, Foster, Pollock, Bildeau, M. Brown, and Barton all have debts to settle with the library.

In the race for the honor of owing the most money, Sigma Nu leads with a total debt of $6.44. Kappa Sigma seems to be very prompt in returning books for its owes but twenty-five cents.

Predictions are bright for a prosperous year, with the possibility of quite a large income coming in.

POLYPHONIC SOCIETY PRESENTS DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM IN MEM HALL

Acoustical Qualities Greatly Improved by Recent Renovations

Before an appreciative audience in the recently renovated Memorial Hall, the Portland Polyphonic Society, conducted by Alfred Brinkler, gave a delightful recital of part songs and madrigals on Monday evening, November 24.

At exactly eight-fifteen in the evening the society consisting of twenty-two voices filed out upon the stage and sang together the first part of its program beginning with the "Gladness Light" by A. Yesauloff. The society at once proved itself to be excellently trained.

Soloists Present Selections

The first soloist of the evening, Miss Irene Eagles, then presented a group of songs beginning with Handel's "Oh Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me?" Her tones were pure and airy and her renditions were well received by the audience.

The entire society sang the third part of the program which was a group of songs all written by J. W. Clokey a modern American composer. Of these, "My's Gone Away" a Southern mountain song was sung with particular atmosphere and color.

Continued on Page 2

COLLEGE GIVES STRONG SUPPORT TO ANNUAL RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Attempt Being Made to Exceed Record of 70%
Set Last Year

The Red Cross drive which is now being carried on in the College, under the leadership of James Clapp Flint '31, is progressing very rapidly. Each fraternity house on the campus has been requested to attempt to make itself 100%, for the goal of the College is this high percentage. Last year the College's percentage was 70% of the total student body, which is rather high for any college. This year, however, it is expected that the College will back the project in such a manner that the 70% record will be left far in the rear. Manager Flint recently stated that he hoped and expected that the College would back this drive with the cooperation and sincerity possible. He also said that the drive was advancing extremely well, and that before long he expected to see all the men in the College, members of this nation-wide organization.

DR. GOODRICH SPEAKS BEFORE REORGANIZED CHRISTIAN ASSOC.

Warren S. Palmer '32 is Chosen President of B. C. A. for This Year in Election of Officers

On Thursday evening, November 20, officers were elected for the Bowdoin Christian Association during this year. The officers are Warren Palmer '32, President; James Byers Colton, 2nd '31, Vice-President; Richard Merrill Sprague '32, Secretary-Treasurer. A constitutional committee was also appointed and includes Beaton, Obeart, Lunt, Graham, and Packard.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Chauncey W. Goodrich of Brunswick who gave a general talk on the importance of having a strong Y.M.C.A. organization at Bowdoin. The speaker suggested planning six Sunday evenings for talks on the Bible. He also stressed the importance of self expression in organized Christian life.

The meeting was well attended, including four members of the faculty and fifteen undergraduates. After Dr. (Continued on page 2)

CHURCHILL TO SPEAK HERE THIS EVENING

Will Take as Subject for Lecture "Can Youth be Conservative?"

SPEAKER IS SON OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

Follows Family Tradition and Remains a Sturdy Adherent to Conservative Party

Randolph Churchill, the 19 year old son of the great English orator and statesman, Winston Churchill will lecture here this evening. It is the first American Lecture Tour of this young man who, after holding Oxford Union speakership at his first debate last February by his fearless arguments and smashing reasoning has aroused widespread interest by his brilliant: "Youth Challenges the Church." He has drawn even more attention in England by his exposition: "Britain's Troubles as Youth Sees Them". His amazing straightforwardness in this trenchant article is such that nobody who reads it could help but have a strong desire to hear him speak. In all his talks he takes youth's point of view. As witness: he says "Once the passing generation shows that its usefulness is exhausted, the choice of these men—his present leaders of democracy—and methods must be wrested from their hands by youth."

Randolph Churchill follows his father, that eminent statesman, Winston Churchill and grandfather, the famous Lord Randolph Churchill, two immediate forebears who have stamped their names upon the history of their country. Will he succeed? The opinion of the press and public of England is that this latest generation of the famous Churchill family bids fair (Continued on Page 2)

BOMPIANI COMMENTS ON ABBE DIMMET'S VIEW OF MUSSOLINI

Suggests That People Know
the Man and His Problems
Before Judging

Last week's Orient carried with it an article about the coming of Abbe Dimmet. The various remarks made by this famous French philosopher in regard to the Franco-Italian situation were so interesting that Professor Bompiani, who is from Italy, it was considered wise to hear what he had to say upon the policies of Mussolini. During this interview Professor Bompiani said: "It would like to know upon what data Abbe Dimmet based his statements. He pointed out that anybody to judge the situation at all fairly should know a great deal about Mussolini and what he is actually doing. Furthermore, one should know the real and lasting results of these plans and operations. An historical background would also be needed, according to Professor Bompiani to understand the present situation. Therefore Professor Bompiani, though just from Italy, does not feel competent to prophesy concerning the future of Mussolini's work. Let the people know the man and his problems before they judge, is his main idea.

EMINENT ORGANIST TO GIVE RECITAL

On December ninth Professor Raymond C. Robinson of the School of Music at Boston University will give an organ recital in the college chapel. This affair should be well attended, since Professor Robinson is an eminent and experienced musician, being the organist of King's Chapel in Boston. He is well known in musical circles, being the dean of the New England chapter of the American Guild of Organists. The Professor is an accomplished composer as well as a musician, and Bowdoin is certainly fortunate to be able to secure the services of this artist. Although his program is not known at this writing, it will be a specially selected one for the faculty, students, and friends of Bowdoin College.

Governor's Council Meets

President and Mrs. Sills, Professor Orren Hornell, and Mr. Albert Abrahamson attended the meeting of the Governor's Council, which met recently at the City Hall in Portland. President Sills and Professor Hornell were speakers at this meeting, the principal object of which was discussion of the recent Maine State Survey. Professor Hornell declared that the survey has been worthwhile, regardless of the ultimate action of the state.

As a result of this survey laymen uninitiated in the state system of government have learned a vast amount concerning the state's management.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sewall '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

William N. Small '31
John L. Snider '31
Philip T. Walters '32

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager
Artine Artinian '31
Assistant Managers

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumnius) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

New Editor for This Issue

Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Friday, December 5, 1930.

No. 17

Junior - Varsity

This year, Bowdoin inaugurated a Junior-Varsity team. While as yet, no organized schedule has been developed for the Jay-Vees, we feel certain that another year will see these men playing other college Junior-Varsity teams. If Bowdoin does want to develop more football and athletic spirit, we can think of no better way to do just this than by encouraging a more complete participation in the game. Many men in college might develop into excellent varsity material were they given this opportunity to build up a certain added confidence in themselves. The Junior-Varsity also affords a chance for transfers and other ineligible men to keep in the game.

This year, as we have said, was the first time Bowdoin had attempted Junior-Varsity football. Results were very encouraging. Quite a large squad responded to the call, and each man played the game to the best of his ability. The squad showed up very well in scrimmage, and in the one game, they held a superior Freshman team to two touchdowns. We look to next year for a bigger schedule and perhaps a more seasoned team; however, we need not think we can find a team with better spirit.

The 1931 Team

And while we are on the subject, we should like to congratulate Don Lancaster and his yearling charges for a fine season. Bowdoin's football enthusiasts may well look to 1931 for some excellent replacement material for the varsity. Robbins, Odde and Hubbard all showed up well in the backfield, while in the line Koslowski, Wait, Reid, Miller, Ackerman and others did commendable work all year. In our opinion, this Freshman team has proved itself the best in some years.

With such material, why should we merely schedule such games as Bridgton, Fryeburg, and Hebron? Not that we always trample these schools underfoot — not at all. But why could not a State Series for the various Freshman teams be arranged? Such a suggestion we should think would meet with favor at Maine, Bates and Colby. It would undoubtedly tend to heighten the athletic rivalry and interest among the four colleges and would prove more of an inducement to the yearlings in that they would be representing their chosen colleges in a more complete way.

Decadence

During vacation, we chanced to be talking with two men, each of them Seniors at their respective colleges. One of these men came from a college of our own size; the other, from one quite a bit larger. The subject of conversation turned to scholarship, and thence to the faculties of our institutions.

The chap representing the smaller college grew quite eloquent in his praise of her faculty and their accomplishments as scholars. He discoursed at great length on, we guess, practically every member. They were a very learned and scholarly group, but most important of all, they were active, — writing, publishing, editing, etc., all the time.

The other man was much less enthusiastic. He spoke contemptuously of the "decadence of certain departments", not one member of which had published (probably in fact not even had written) anything in several years. "We may have one or two excellent men," said he, "men of real ability, but do they do anything? I should say not!" All they cared to do apparently was to make fun of the young, enthusiastic worker or of the elderly scholar, calling them "bundles of useless energy" and "old shell-backs" respectively. As for their own scholarship, they were always "about to publish" something, but never getting to it.

We were spared any attempt at description of the activities of our own faculty by the armistice occasioned by dinner. Perhaps it was just as well.

Bowdoin Column

Professor Orren C. Hornell addressed the citizens of Dexter on Dec. 3. He read a paper which reviewed the conditions of the town since the latter decades of the 19th century.

Dean Paul Nixon and Alumni Secretary Philip S. Wilder of Bowdoin College left today for Boston where they will represent the college at the annual meeting of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. President Sills of Bowdoin is chairman of the Standing Committee on Institutions of Higher Education of this organization and was expected to preside at the delegates' luncheon at the Hotel Statler on Friday. President Sills is detained in Brunswick, however, and his place will be taken by President Cousins of Tufts.

John C. Thalheimer, Bursar of Bowdoin College, left today for Easton,

Pa., where he will represent the college at the annual meeting of the National Association of College Business Officers. The association will meet as the guests of Lafayette College.

Donovan D. Lancaster of the Mount Union, left Thursday, Dec. 4, for Brown University in Providence where he will be representative at the Eleventh Annual Convention of the Association of College and University Unions. This Convention, which is being held in Rockefeller Hall at Brown, lasts during three days: Dec. 4th to 6th.

News has recently reached here of the death of Dr. Alfred Lewis Pinner Dennis, author and professor of international relations at Clark University since 1923. After receiving his Ph.D. from Columbia in 1901, Dr. Dennis served as instructor or professor of history at Bowdoin, Chicago, Harvard, and Michigan, achieving marked prominence in the field of international relations.

THE TAILCOAT

Increased formality in women's evening fashions makes the wearing of the tailcoat imperative at almost all evening functions of any importance. Christmas parties are important. The new tailcoat favored by well dressed men is a trifle shorter than last season. The waistline is higher. Shoulders are broad. Trousers are of medium width. As low as fifty dollars; peerless at sixty-five

The House of Walah

"More than a toggery . . . a Bowdoin Institution"

Mustard and Cress.

There was much cheering. Several frowning pieces went off (within). Bells rang, two windows were broken, and a pile of hats were smashed. "Wh-wh-what's a matta?" yelps somebody who naturally thought that something important was going on. "It's a golf match," explained a man with red pants and three chins, "and 'Sugar' McFarland and Will Smut got beaten."

"No wonder they cheer," thought the man who naturally thought something important was going on.

Somebody said (a phrase calculated to produce the supposition that this wheeze is not original with this department) that the old style football is largely passing, and is being replaced by the new-style football, which is largely passing.

For the benefit of professors who might not yet have noticed it (primarily directed at Professor Hornell) this department would advise that the boardwalks have been laid, and that they are sometimes hard to see late at night when one is returning home from the library.

It has been figured out by many who have taken the matter seriously that it is going to be a long, hard, winter.

Feeling that many of the present students will not appreciate the news items recently concerning the retirement of Mike Madden, Mustard and Cress wants to turn serious for a moment, and say a few words about him.

For years and years Mike has been a porter at the local depot, in the employ of the railroad, loading mail into the cars. He was known to every mail-clerk, who ever learned state of Maine distribution, and although he was not in the mail service he kept up on distribution, and knew more about it than many of the clerks. He was, as far as is known, the only man outside the Postal Service who was kept informed by official general orders as to handling mail.

To Bowdoin men of a few years ago, and before that, Mike was well known. But of late years he has not visited at the dormitories so often. Mike's canes, from a collection of really noteworthy walking sticks, are always used on commencement and class day occasions. Mike himself, bearing a cane and with coat covered with medals and buttons, is always at games.

He was just a local citizen, known to all the town, who took more than an interest in Bowdoin. He loves the college as much as the most loyal alumnus, and in his own way has shown it on many occasions. Mike's retirement from the porter job was an occasion for the presentation to him of a desk and chair by his friends in the mail service.

Bowdoin's Art Collection

There is hardly a college in the United States of America or anywhere else that does not boast to some extent of its art museums and art collections. Most of the important aggregations, to be sure, are found at the large colleges. Harvard in particular is famous in this respect. The Yale School of fine arts and the Columbia Collections are also noted.

Bowdoin College is fortunate in owning one of the finest art collections in this section of the country and among the best of College Collections to be seen anywhere in the United States. The Walker Building and Collection is not large but the quality and value of its contents is altogether responsible for its fame.

Most important of its galleries is perhaps the one containing the Bowdoin Collections of painting and drawings. Most any stranger is inclined to ask how Bowdoin came into possession of such things as Gilbert Stuart's Jefferson, the four Fekes and drawings by such as Titian, Benevolence and sheer fortune perhaps form the largest part of the answer.

The Stuart portraits of Jefferson and Madison were not painted for those particular Presidents but were done for the Honorable James Bowdoin, the first patron of the college, who left his library, paintings and drawings to the college in appreciation of it having taken its name after his father, James Bowdoin, who was Governor of Massachusetts when the college was founded under charter from the legislature of that state in 1794. These two presidential portraits have been reproduced on magazine covers and elsewhere. Five other Stuarts augment this already invaluable collection.

The painter whose works are most in vogue at present is Robert F. Walker. The Walker Art Building is honored with four of these: Governor James Bowdoin; his brother William; William's wife, Phoebe; and a life size portrait of General Samuel Waldo.

Perhaps more remarkable than any of these paintings are the drawings by great and old masters which the Hon. William Bowdoin collected while in Europe. This original Bowdoin Collection is now supplemented by Professor Johnson's collection of draw-

Interfraternity Council

Wesleyan

The Wedgewood Pottery, Inc., of England, are making a set of Wesleyan plates on the same style as those for Bowdoin. These will be ready for the Centennial of Wesleyan next October.

Our Daily Bread

We have all received letters informing us of the difficulty of effectively operating the Cafeteria of the Mount Union with so small a patronage. Perhaps that is where the trouble lies — or could this be the reason? — A sophomore at the Ohio State University manages to dine on ten cents per day! This student claims to have gained twelve pounds during the past year in spite of his slightly restricted diet. This sort of thing is hard on any restaurant — worse than going in with a bouillon cube and ordering a cup of hot water.

The Bowdoin Seal

In spite of its strong resemblance to the flag of Uruguay it is different in its Latin inscription — "Bowdoin Collegii Sigillum" which makes no pretense of being a motto but simply reads — The Seal of Bowdoin College. Therefore there can be no such rank misunderstanding as came to the front at Loyola College.

"A freshman, on inquiring the meaning of 'Lobo y Olla', on the college seal, was told by an upper-classman that it meant 'All above 65 is wasted effort.' Such interest and concern in the proper enlightenment of freshmen is indeed commendable." — The Greyhound, Loyola College.

Water!

That familiar war-cry has been rather rare around the Ends during the last month. Perhaps the pepper, pineapple and squash fight which took place at North Winthrop one night, was somewhat responsible for curtailing the enthusiasm of the "town faction" which so enjoyed being a target for scrap-baskets full of water, thrown from windows of the dormitories. Dean Hawkes (at Columbia) ings, also by famous artists some of whom are not represented in the Bowdoin Collection. The college hopes eventually to secure this valuable Johnson collection for its own.

Why Not Come to the Spa and Try One of Our Special Dinners? . . .

only 40c

Do It Today . . . Get It at the Spa

announced the expulsion of three freshmen for "making asses of themselves." The particular actions referred to were the frequent occasions of throwing water and "various articles" — including a trunk — out of dormitory windows!

Pinch Hitters

No, it's not baseball season, but recently a Boston University professor thought that one of his young lady pupils seemed to have become rather laid and gray, over night. On investigation it was discovered that due to the illness of one of his pupils, her mother was attending classes for her, taking notes, and finding the professor's course very inspiring indeed.

Pledging

Not satisfied with its present rushing system, George Washington University is considering new tactics. Some of her student body are in favor of deferring the pledging season for a month, while others suggest postponing it until the second semester or even until the sophomore year. The general consensus of opinion seems to champion a free association period, the vital problem being how long that period should be.

ALUMNI NOTES

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Edith M. Peckham of Washington, D. C. and Prof. S. Lorenzo Merriman of North Harpswell, Me. has just been made in the National Capital.

Prof. Merriman is a graduate of Bowdoin College and is now principal of the Aroostook County State Normal School at Presque Isle, Me. Miss Peckham, who has been assistant national director of the Junior Red Cross at Washington for eight years, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Angell Peckham of Middletown, R. I. The wedding will take place this winter in Middletown.

Charles N. Cutter, Bowdoin 1926, will make a survey of the state of Maine to determine the feasibility of establishing a trunk air line into the state in the near future.

The Ideal Hotel for You
In BOSTON

is the NEW
Hotel MANGER

At North Station

Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS

Each Room equipped with Tub and Shower • Built-in Radio Speaker (Three Station Service) • Separate Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Modernly Equipped and Perfectly Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH

FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00

FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 5.50

No Higher Rates

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

It looms up large in their lives

The telephone has a big place in the daily lives of most people today, but its place will be even bigger tomorrow.

Its importance has been fostered by the work of men in all phases of the telephone business and no little part has been taken by those engaged in selling. They have helped to effect an increase of more than three and a half million Bell telephones in the last five years. In the same period they have been instrumental in making the public realize more completely the telephone's usefulness. Result: an increase from 49,000,000 calls per day to 65,000,000.

For men with a leaning toward sales promotion, the opportunity is there!

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

Chandler is Going to Have a

RUMMAGE SALE

at 53 Maine Street

In St. Onge Block - Thursday, Friday and Saturday - Dec. 4, 5 and 6 Fraternity Papers - 10c box Sweat Shirts - $1.00 each

FRANCOIS BIRAUD IS SPEAKER BEFORE THE FRENCH CLUB

Cleanliness of American Cities Makes Great Impression Upon Young
Frenchman on Arrival Here

On Monday evening, November 24, the French Club, L'Ours Blanc, met at the Kappa Sigma House at seven thirty. After the business meeting had been conducted, Artime Artinian '31, President of the club, introduced the speaker of the evening, M. Francois Biraud, Fellow in French, gave his first impressions of America.

He said, that the general cleanliness of America impressed him first on landing at New York. Next the size and organization of our hotels was very striking. The fact that sports play such an important part in our school life made a strange impression upon Biraud. He was very much impressed by what the American home requires in addition to the French. Such utilities as the telephone, radio, and automobile were emphasized by the speaker. Our good humor also favorably impressed M. Biraud.

After the talk by M. Biraud light refreshments were served and the meeting was adjourned. The time and place of the next meeting will be announced later.

Fifty Prints of the Year Exhibited at Art Museum

From December 7 to 21 there will be shown at the Walker Art Building of Bowdoin College the fifth annual exhibition of the "Fifty Prints of the Year," held by the American Institute of Graphic Arts. The choice of the fifty prints has been largely in the hands of John Sloan of New York, a leading artist of the time.

One of the finest prints of the exhibition is an etching by the well known John Taylor Arms, entitled "Gothic Glory." The exhibition contains prints ranging from the conservative style to the modernist, with a decided predominance of the latter. The exhibitors include John Taylor Arms, Gifford Seal, Richard Bennett, Walker Cole, Saul and Shelly Shackelford. There are a number of etchings, and the rest are wood cuts, lithographs and drypoints.

In reviewing the exhibition, which was shown recently in Boston, the Christian Science Monitor says of it and of the man who chose most of the items: "Everywhere in art circles, academic or modernist, Mr. Sloan's aesthetic sincerity is respected. Being himself an artist of leading rank, he is as personal in his choice of prints, naturally, as he is in the choice of materials for his own pictures. For one thing, he will bar out all that is mawkish, sentimental, trivial and too obviously imitative. In the prints of his choice there will be found mental pressure and individuality, humor, integrity of form, good craftsmanship, clarity of design and variety of subject, if we are to judge by this selection."

MATHEMATICS CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Form of Initiation Will be Introduced for New Members This Year

The first meeting of the Mathematics club was held in the Moulton Union at 7:30 Friday evening, Nov. 24. The presiding officer was President Maynard. The business discussed was plans for the present year. It was decided that the meetings would be held monthly. The next meeting will be on Dec. 12. At this meeting the Juniors eligible for the club will be initiated. This plan is a new one in that previously any Junior or Senior taking advanced Mathematics and paying the necessary dues could become a member. This year however, the eligible Juniors are to undergo a form of initiation.

Lawrence C. Jenks '31 presented an interesting paper on the fallacies of Mathematics. He brought out a great number of very unusual facts about the fallacies.

There were fourteen members present at this meeting. The members of the faculty at the meeting were Prof. Hammond, and Mr. Hammond of the Mathematics department, and Prof. Little of the Physics department. Professor Enrico Bompiani, visiting professor of Mathematics, also attended this meeting.

The present officers of the Mathematics Club are as follows: President, Robert E. Maynard '31; Chairman of the Program Committee, Lawrence C. Jenks '31; Secretary-Treasurer, John C. Roper '32.

NOVEL UNIVERSITY

The World Peace Movement which has attained such popularity during the past year is to find practical expression in education in the Abraham Lincoln University which is expected to open in the fall of 1934. The plans for the University are being made by the Abraham Lincoln Foundation, which is intended to establish and finance the University, and the whole project represents the vision of Roy Curtiss of New York and his desire to work for greater understanding and co-operation between nations.

The detailed plans, which should be of great interest to all who are watching the progress and development of new ideas in education have not been made generally known yet, but in the June issue of Progressive Education Dr. Eugene R. Smith tells some of the ideas which the organizers are seeking to incorporate in the University. The students are to come from all countries, and the total enrollment is to be 1,200, because there are to be six classes of 200 in the University at once, four undergraduate classes and two graduate ones. Each class is to include 80 students from the United States, one from each state and the remainder from the country at large, and 120 students from the other countries of the world.

The above picture shows the many changes which have been made in the Memorial Hall auditorium by its recent renovation

CHURCHILL SPEAKS HERE TONIGHT

(Continued from Page 1)

at least to uphold the prestige of the name, if not to endorse the brilliance, of his ancestors. The London Sunday Dispatch is very enthusiastic. It praises him highly and Oxford students who heard him predict that Churchill should have a brilliant career in the Conservative Party and will perhaps leave his mark on British politics.

On the other hand, what about American opinion? Here is a States point of view expressed by the Omaha World-Herald. In an editorial entitled "An Old Man of Nineteen" this newspaper flays Churchill for his imperialistic ideas. Great Britain's foreign policy in India and Egypt, on the "great joke" of naval disarmament, and his cynical treatment of the American prohibition and English unemployment problems. It makes this declaration: "Ramsay MacDonald and all he stands for, says young Churchill, must go if England is to recover. But of the two visitors to these shores, the one who offers the world the more youthful, optimistic and promising outlook is the man whose career is near an end, not the man whose testing is yet to come. England may send us charming and gifted men to instruct us in the arts of peace and the way of international affairs, but Randolph Churchill has no message for this country. He needs sadly to return to his books."

HISTORY OF EARLY BOWDOIN SOCIETIES

American Colleges in the early years of the 19th century were quite as much pervaded with the "gang spirit" as the fraternized colleges of today. Bowdoin was no exception to the rule.

A literary society was founded here upon the graduation of the first class. On November 22, 1805, some eight students formed a society called Philomathian (Lover of Learning). The constitution was drawn up and a preface which had a singularly familiar sound as that of the constitution of the United States was adopted. It read: We the members of Bowdoin College in order to form a more perfect union to promote literature and friendship and realize the benefits resulting from social intercourse do establish this constitution of our society.

In 1814 this group was divided into a "General Society" which consisted of old members, graduate and undergraduate, and which had final authority, and an undergraduate society which made its rules subject to the approval of the General Society.

After the Philomathian club had been established a short time there arose a clamor to change the name to the Peucinian Society. The argument used in favor of the new name seems to have been its peculiarly local color. One advocate said "Cambridge has its willows, Oxford its oisiers and we have our pines. What object around us can give us a better name?" This argument carried a great deal of favor and with various others carried the day. The Peucinian, the new society, took for its motto Pinos loquentes semper hoberemus.

Meetings were held fortnightly in fall and winter, and weekly in the summer terms. Among the subjects discussed were: "Whether the District of Maine becoming a separate State would be an advantage to the inhabitants? Whether the fear of shame or the love of honor be the greater inducement to Virtue? Whether the practice of Duelling be justifiable or not? Whether eloquence be advantageous to a commonwealth? Whether the crimes resulting from barbarism or the vices allied to refinement be most pernicious to Society?"

Meetings were held in rotation in the rooms of the various members then they were allowed to use first one and then two of the recitation rooms in Maine Hall. These rooms were the inside ones, one room became the library of the society and the other its assembly hall.

November 22, 1805 being the date of the founding of the society, it was a year later when a celebration of the first birthday was voted "to celebrate the approaching anniversary by a festive agglomeration of social atoms over materials of bliss."

This annual birthday celebration became an important and much touted event of the college year. Professor Packard in his Reminiscences describes how "Members decked with the society medal and blue ribbon, President and officers with broad blue scarfs, and the elite of the town tramped from Maine street, through the dark muddy lane to a hall in the house of Mr. John Dunning and listened to the oration by the President of the society, and a poem, if the Muse had inspired anyone with the gift of song. After exercises, members had a supper served in the best

PRES. SILLS DISCUSSES PRACTICAL FAITH IN SUNDAY CHAPEL TALK

Remarks on Discouragement Naturally Prevalent at This Time of Year

Taking as his text the verse from St. Paul's Epistle to the Hebrews, "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen," President Sills spoke, on Sunday November 23 in chapel on faith as a practical support for us in life. He treated it not from the viewpoint of Christian ethics nor from any theological standpoint, but as a natural and necessary part of our everyday life.

In beginning, President Sills said that this is about the time of year when many men get discouraged. The glory, excitement, and tenacity of the opening days have all passed and the time to attain the final goal is too far off to affect us greatly. We are liable to ask about this time, "Is it all worthwhile?" Our expectations and hopes have not been realized and not a few of us have this sense of discouragement and inability.

Discouragement is perfectly natural. We feel it many times as we go through life, no less when we get out into our life work than now. It is not weak, nor is it unmanly. It is so only if we allow it to get the better of us, if we do nothing to stop our feelings. When we thus give in we are not courageous. President Sills said it was not as a Christian virtue that he was going to advise faith. It was as a help. The word faith is not popular in academic circles. It is the direct relationship between a matter of faith? We take much for granted whatever we do. We think that when we get through college and into professional life that we shall see the relation between our study and our life. It is now a question of faith. And we shall find it not a matter of kind, but a matter of degree. The medical student may not see the direct relationship between his study of anatomy and his first client that comes in the door. Nor may the law student see the direct relationship between his study of torts, his early course in bills and notes, between his first client.

Most things have to be taken on faith before they can be worked out. It is so with our scholarly life. Why try to do good work in college? What is it that we shall find in our close application to study that will benefit us in later life? One must have the belief and faith that if he does a thing it will be to advantage. The same is true of religious life. One believes in order to know.

Believe and Experiment
Many principles have to be taken in faith and then followed and worked out. All precepts and admonitions, that we read in books or hear will be of little use to us if we have no faith in their efficacy. Take things not necessarily in terms of religion, but in a feeling of the advantage of trust and see how the things work out.

The late Hiram Ricker, who died recently was a citizen of Maine, one to whom the state came for help on practical affairs, and one who never failed the state. When this practical, hardheaded man died this quotation from Bacon was found on his desk. "It is as natural to die as to be born." In this faith he had lived. A instance of it was when, although pressed by business, he made a trip to Bowdoin to tell President Sills that Bowdoin men which he had employed had lately not been as much filled with the sense of responsibility as they should be.

Others have struggled through the same problems as we. Let us do everything so that it may be said of us that we "walk in faith."

General Catalogue

(Continued from page 1)

ternity. While in college he did considerable newspaper work being the correspondent for nearly all the Maine papers and also the Boston Herald, the Boston Globe, and the Boston Post.

In his work Mr. Doust has reached the class of 1866. Among the facts which he has noticed is that many Bowdoin men go west and become prominent men in their communities. Several classes, Mr. Doust said, have only one living member. As most Bowdoin undergraduates know, the Rev. Ebenezer Bean, class of 1867, is now the oldest living graduate. He is, in fact, the only centenarian Bowdoin has had.

style of the favorite boarding house of the Viceroy in the parlor here? On the roll of the Pencilmen were Henry W. Longfellow, George Evans and Sargent S. Prentiss, men later distinguished in the literary world.

Among those presents

How about a tie for the room-mate, or some gloves, or a pair of English Hose? How about a dressing gown for your Dad, or some MARK CROSS leather goods, or a Dunhill pipe? How about it?

HARMON'S

Polyphonic Concert

Continued from Page 1

Miss Evelyn Badger Carroll, contralto, presented a series of songs and madrigals including the familiar "Oh Dear, What Can the Matter Be" arranged by Arnold Bax. Before giving her second selection, "Water Boy," Miss Carroll explained its imaginary setting. "Imagine yourself in Georgia, Negro convicts are working amid heaps of stones piled up on the road. Beside them is a small negro water boy. When the boy wants to go away, a convict threatens to tell his 'mammy,' a serious threat for the boy." Miss Carroll then rendered the song in the negro dialect. Miss Carroll combines with her fine contralto voice a pleasing personality both of which were very much appreciated by the audience. After her final selection the onomatopoeic "Night Wind," Miss Carroll replied to the persistent applause by singing a humorous song "He Met Her on the Stairs."

The fifth and final part of the program was sung by the entire society with the only parts of "In the Great Hall" by Gustave Ferrari rendered by John P. Thomas. Tennyson's well known poem "The Splendor falls on Castle Walls" set to music by Gilbert Alcock concluded the program of the society.

The complete program of the concert was as follows:

1. Gladstone Light . . . A. Yessaloff
Amidst the Myrtles . . . J. Battishill
Lay a Garland . . . B. L. Pearsall
2. Oh Sleep, Why Dost Thou Leave Me . . . Handel
A Spirit Flower Campbell-Tipton
Damon . . . Max Stange
Irene Eagles Close
3. If I But Knew . . . J. W. Clokey
I Dream of Jeannie . . . Foster-Clokey
4. Cousin Jedediah . . . Thompson-Clokey
He's Gone Away . . . arr by Clokey
Polyphonic Society
5. Oh Dear, What Can the Matter Be . . . arr by Arnold Bax
Water Boy . . . Avery Robinson
The Night Wind . . . Roland Farley
He Met Her On the Stairs . . . Encore

Evelyn Badger Carroll
Nights of November 18
The Virgin's Slumber Song . . . Max Reger

In The Great Hall
Solo by John P. Thomas
The Splendor Falls on Castle Walls . . . Alcock

Prof. Kirkland Is Speaker

The accurate research of historical facts is no more important than the accurate writing of them. Prof. Edward C. Kirkland, head of the American History Department, told the Portland section of the Reciprocity Club of America at their monthly meeting on November 18.

Scientific research forms the basis for physical laws on which our mechanical age depends. Prof. Kirkland pointed out, while history in the background for the political thinking of the nation, "Fake" history books are written by those who have either selfish or magnanimous ideals. He concluded by saying that true presentation of history is nearly impossible because the writers' attitudes are different from those of the times about which he writes.

B. C. A. Meeting
(Continued from Page 1)
Goodrich's talk, Colton, the chairman of the evening, took charge of the meeting and asked for suggestions for organization. The election of officers was held and committees were appointed. The meeting then adjourned at 9 o'clock, and the time of the next meeting was left to the discretion of officers, and will be announced later.

Dr. Barker Lectures Here

Yesterday Dr. Charles F. Barker, personal physician to the late ex-President Taft, visited Brunswick and Bowdoin under the auspices of the Brunswick Rotary Club and the College. He made four speeches, one in the morning to the High School boys and girls, another to the women of the town, at two-thirty a lecture to the Bowdoin Class of '34, and finally he spoke before a mass meeting of the men of Brunswick and Topsham and the Student Body of Bowdoin at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall.

LIBRARY NOTES

New Books
Robinson—Glory of the Nightingales.
Strange—Stranger Fig.
Undset—Son Avenger.
Young—Miss Mole.
Sackville-West—The Edwardians.
Vose—Strike.
Ford—The John Riddell Murder Case.
Maugham—Cakes and Ale.
Munthe—Story of San Michele.
Galsworthy—On Forsyte Change.
Sassoon—Memoirs of an Infantry Officer.
Macaulay—Staying with Relations.
Wallace—The Fourth Plague.
Biggers—Charlie Chan Carries On.
Gunnasson—Seven Days' Darkness.
Sayers—Strong Poison.

FRATERNITY HOUSES

Telephone Numbers
Kappa Sigma	270
Zeta Psi	276
Delta Kappa Epsilon	179
Delta Upsilon	34
Psi Upsilon	6
Theta Delta Chi	150
Beta Theta Pi	123
Sigma Nu	290
Alpha Delta Phi	119
Chi Psi	293
Alpha Tau Omega	10
College Office	157
Treasurer's Office	230
Library	5
Infirmary	112
Alumni Secretary's Office	117-R
Union	639-W
Cafeteria	639-R

CUMBERLAND

Friday - Dec. 5th	VAUDEVILLE	on the screen
EAST IS WEST
Lupe Velez - Lewis Ayres
Edward G. Robinson
Also Paramount News
Saturday - Dec. 6th	THE CAT CREEPS	with Helen Twelvrees - Raymond Hackett - Lillian Tashman
Screen Song	Comedy
Mon. - Tues. Dec. 8th - 9th	JUST IMAGINE
El Brendel - Maureen O'Sullivan
John Garrick - Marjorie White
Paramount News	Screen Song
Wednesday - Dec. 10th	WILL ROGERS	in LIGHTNIN'
Pathe Review	Comedy
Thursday - Dec. 12th	MARIE DRESSLER
WALLACE BEERY
in	MIN and BILL
Comedy.	Sound Act

"Gothic Glory" an Etching by John Taylor Arms

SPORTS

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

RISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY
Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity
Trade
574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers
SOULE and WALKER
JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD
We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store
Watch Repairing
By An Experienced Watchmaker
Shaffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"
"The College Jeweler"
Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S
Candy and Ice Cream
74 MAINE STREET

GENERAL CATALOGUE OF BOWDOIN COLLEGE
PLANNED FOR 1932

Various rumors have been circulated about recently concerning the General Catalogue. It might be wise to crystallize these rumors. The last General Catalogue was published in 1912 with a supplement in 1915 containing the non-graduates up to that time.

What is a General Catalogue? This question can probably come to the minds of many. A General Catalogue is a complete, detailed list of all past officers of government and instruction, all past graduates of the college including the medical school, and all non-graduates of both.

A new catalogue is due to appear about 1932. Last June a committee was appointed by the governing board to undertake this task. The committee consists of President Sills, chairman, the Librarian, and the Alumni Secretary.

FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE GAME STATISTICS

Yards gained by rushing	34	33
Yards gained by passing	12	0
Yards lost by rushing	21	71
Yards lost by penalties	30	5
Number of first downs	9	10
Passes attempted	2	5
Passes completed	1	0
Passes intercepted	1	0
Average distance of kicks	29	23
Average distance of rushes	3.9	3.3
Total runback of kicks	3	58

cided to take swimming for a pipe see Mr. Miller 4.30 - 5.30, Mon., Wed., and Fri. You'll change your mind about that mighty soon.

*Kind of rough on this year's Seniors, knowing that Senior's of next year will not be forced to take athletics. That also is another one of those college rulings which always tend to make us smile.

FROSH TEAM UPSETS DOPE TO DOWN SOPHS BY NARROW MARGIN

Hubbard Scores Touchdown on Reverse Play in the
First Period

Upsetting tradition and the pre-game dope, the Polar Bear yearlings fought their way to a victory over the Sophomores by a 7-0 margin in their annual game which was played at Whittier Field the Friday before Thanksgiving. A large crowd of students witnessed the fray and class spirit was not lacking. Both teams proved fairly consistent, ground gained but the attack of 1932 failed to show the necessary drive when they penetrated into Freshman territory.

Kozlowski's kick off traveled to the ten yard line where it was gathered in by Bakanowsky to open the encounter. "Bakky" wriggled his way back sixteen yards before he was downed. A line buck yielded a solitary yard but on a dash around right end, Boucher gave the Sophs a first down on the thirty-six. Trying the other flank, Bakanowsky added seven yards. Clark hit the line hard and carried the ball in to the Freshmen's forty-eight. Continuing their attack, the '33 eleven penetrated to the thirty-two yard line before they were finally repulsed. The Cubs took the ball on the thirty-seven after the Sophomores had failed to make the necessary ten yards in four downs. The march of the first year men was rapid and was aided by a fifteen yard dash by Odde and another one of seventeen yards by Hubbard. The Sophs tightened their defense as the yearlings came within striking distance of the goal line. With fourth down, six to go and the oval resting just fifteen yards away from a touchdown, Robbins completed a pass to Hubbard, placing the ball on the three yard line. An offside play set the Freshman back five yards but on a reverse around his left end, "Heinie" Hubbard scampered across for a touchdown. A forward pass for the extra point was unsuccessful but the Sophomores were offside, thereby giving the yearlings a second chance.

The second period found the upper-classmen threatening only to lose the ball on downs twenty yards away from the goal line. In the last half, the story was reversed. Success gains through tackle by Odde and Robbins carried the ball to the six yard line but no further. All this time Boucher was playing a whale of a defensive game. He made tackle after tackle in backing up the line. During this half the 1933 failed to enter the Freshman territory and as the game came to a close the latter held the ball on the twenty-four yard line.

The Freshman team as a unit played a great game with "Don" Reid and John Kozlowski standing out as individual stars. The victory was a splendid way to end the season and the team staged a great comeback from the playing which they presented the week previous. "Bakky" was of course, outstanding for the Sophomores, while Clark and Madeira both played exceptionally well.

1933
Reid, r. le, Jordan, Frost
Miller, l. lb, Madeira, Loring
Ackerman, rg. lb, Bates, Stearns
Davis, c. c, Milliken
Archibald, Massey, Donohue, lg

1934 Kozlowski, lt. rg, Torrey
Miller, lb. lb, Kimball Winnell, qb. qb, Means, Rosenfelt
Robbins, rb. lb, Boucher, Briggs
Hubbard, lb. rb, Bakanowsky
Odde, fb. fb, Clark, Richardson Touchdown, H. lb, Poole touchdown, (Sophomore offense)
Referee, Butler, Umpire, Aldred.
Head linesman, Morrell. Time, two 10m, and two 8m. periods.

Sportsman's Pen

There is a certain must about Compulsory Athletics which is not exactly an inducement to the average undergraduate. This must is, however, a kin to the rest of the college system and therefore is nothing extraordinary.

It has often appeared quite impossible to make athletes of non-athletes at Bowdoin. There are exceptions of course. By and large if a man is fairly good in some line of sports when he gets to college the chances are ten to one that he never will be.

Ben Houser has got his hands full this year. Losing Stone and Thayer from last year's sextet was a great blow. It will be a very much renovated sextet that swings into action this year.

Jack Magee can brace his feet this year and drive with a real goal in mind. The team is down in the dirt flash of May, but it exists as a possibility of a great comeback for Polar track men.

The Gym Team developed in mean fashion under Prof. Tom Means. It is that Means drive, touch and go, or what have you which has turned the trick.

Rolly Cobb will be a big asset to the Gym Team. If Prof. Means can do what he has done alone, what a magnificent job both of them will do.

Miller is handling a squad of rookies large enough to crowd Madison Square Garden. If anyone de-

WHITE NATATORS TURN IN NEW POOL RECORDS

Bowman and Easton Each Cut Slice Off 150 Yard
Backstroke Time

In a recent practice session of the swimming team, Walter Bowman set a new pool record of 2 minutes 1 1/2 seconds in the 150 yards backstroke swim. Immediately after this performance, Norm Easton jumped in and made better time at the same distance swimming it in 2 minutes and 1-5 seconds. Both these times are faster than any previous Bowdoin natator has been able to turn in. Perhaps the reason for such speed is the giving of an extra desert at training table for new records.

Coach Bob Miller says that, since the inauguration of a training table, every man except one has gained weight. This, of course, is gratifying.

Although managers were unsuccessful in trying to arrange meets with Trinity and Connecticut Aggies, it is very probable that the team will swim Boston University in March, as B. U. is sponsoring a team again this year after a lapse of two years.

The Freshman on the squad are coming along fine, according to Coach Miller. Bob Foster is doing particularly well over the distances, and is developing at the backstroke.

The members of the team preparing now for the Interfraternity meet in December. From all appearances it would seem that Beta Theta Pi and Theta Delta Chi are about nip and tuck for first honors.

The team this year will at least be very well appearing. New suits, bathrobes and cloths have been acquired, and all that is needed now to make Curtis pool look like Bailey's Beach are a few colored sun shades.

HOCKEY GETS SIXTY- SEVEN CANDIDATES

A New Rink Will Replace Dilapidated Boards of Last Year

Ice Hockey, fastest-moving sport of them all, made its annual debut here Tuesday when sixty-seven candidates reported to Coach Ben Houser. Of this group thirty-four are freshmen, and five were with the team last year. The veterans are Captain Herbert H. Rose, George H. Souther, Frederick C. Dennison, Charles C. Bildeau, and Caleb F. Dyer, all seniors. Conditioning drill from now until the Christmas holidays will consist of contact work in the form of Houser-ball on the Delta. Three afternoons every week practice in passing, stick-handling, and shooting will be held at the gymnasium, probably in the handball room.

A new rink this year replaces the decrepit boards of other seasons, and a supplementary rink may be erected near it on the Delta. In case the boys are blessed with cold weather before the holidays, light practice sessions, with stress on speed skating and passing, will be attempted on the neighboring ponds.

The game with Boston University has been cancelled because of lack of a date convenient to both teams. The only time available conflicted with Bowdoin's mid-year examinations. However, taking into consideration the large number of men trying out, the season's outlook is exceptionally sunny.

EIGHTY-FIVE SIGN FOR WINTER TRACK

Ample Supply of Veteran Material on Hand as Indoor Season Begins

Eighty-five track men, over half of them freshmen, signed the roster in Coach Jack Magee's office Monday, making an auspicious start on the winter season. There is an ample supply of veterans, and the team is well as some newcomers who have shown up well thus far. Among the dependables of past campaigns are: Larry Usher '32, Al Wingate '31, Dick Cobb '32, Delma Galbraith '32, Milton Hickok '33, George Sewall '32, Steve Lavender '32, Charles Stanwood '32, and Raymond McLaughlin '33. Stanwood and McLaughlin will get strong competition from Charles Allen of the class of '34, according to present indications.

The Ives Trophy Meet has been completed, and Alpha Delta Phi is the victor, the trophy margin of 51 points to 35 for Sigma Nu. The runner-up, Bill Haskell, Sigma Nu, won the javelin throw with a toss of 133 feet 64 inches, followed by Charles McKenney, Sigma Nu, and Richard Boyd, A.D. The 600 yd. race was won by Charles Allen, A.D., and the other places were taken by Sewall, Psi U, Gray D.K.E., and Davis of A.T.O. The final score for the meet reads as follows: Alpha Delta Phi 51, Sigma Nu 35, Psi Upsilon 28, Beta Theta-Pi 24, Delta Kappa Epsilon 10, Zeta Psi 9, Kappa Sigma 6, Theta Delta Chi and Chi Phi with 3 points a piece, and Alpha Tau Omega with one point.

ment has been greatly improved and the swimming pool built. A complete system in physical training has been inaugurated, and the compulsory drill put into effect. Now the students spend most of their time, not in swinging Indian clubs in a drafty building of yore, but in planning arguments whereby they may be exempted from compulsory athletics.

COMPULSORY ATHLETICS CALLS OUT ANNUAL CROWD TO SARGENT GYM

Track, Swimming, Hockey and Basketball Have Largest Registration

Monday afternoon found a large majority of upper classmen reporting for the sport of their choice which they intend to follow during the winter. Also a large number of Freshmen transferred from the completed sports of football, tennis, and golf. After completing his tabulations Professor Cobb announced that a total of 427 students had enrolled on the first day. The remaining crowd is expected to appear or be summoned before the close of the week. The schedules for these athletic activities are now engrossing their director.

As usual track claims the largest group with 85 reporting. Only ten less than that signed up for work in the swimming pool, while Coach Houser has a squad of 69 puck chasers. The basketball court drew 68 and 31 expressed their intentions to ride horseback for their required exercise. Handball, a sport limited to Seniors, had 29 recruits. The largest fencing squad in many years reported to Captain Macdonald numbered 23. The gym team claimed 10 wrestling, boxing 5, the advanced 4, course 6, and 19 are in the body-building class.

BOWDOIN ATHLETIC HISTORY

At the beginning of Bowdoin's history no serious consideration was given to the matter of athletics as a part of the curriculum. In fact physical training nowhere played a part in American college life in the eighteenth century. Trustees and faculty members considered physical health incompatible with scholarship and the "silliest student" was the custom and the ideal.

However, reform at Bowdoin was not long in coming, though it took a century to bring it to its maximum height. In 1802 President McKenney decided that students should have some physical training and so set aside plots in his garden for members of the first class, that "they might obtain exercise and recreation by cultivating them."

From this crude and rustic form of exercise developed an intricate athletic system. In the early date, except for such agricultural workouts, students were discouraged in all forms of physical development. Though game and fish were in abundance in the country around Brunswick, hunting was expressly forbidden except by special permission. This state of affairs certainly had a weakening effect on Bowdoin undergraduates.

In 1824 a longfellow wrote home, "This has been a very sickly term in college. However, within the last week, the government, seeing that something must be done to induce the students to exercise, which is the game of ball now and then, they communicated such an impulse to our limbs and joints that there is nothing now heard of in our leisure hours, but ball, ball, ball."

About this time interest in athletics brought about the construction of an open-air bowling alley where the chapel now stands and students immediately proved it a success. Such was the enthusiasm over the new game, that had fallen into disuse, the students constructed an out-of-door gymnasium in the pines on the site of the present athletic building. The advantages of this institution were so large, that the following enthusiastic terms in the Bugle for 1860:

"... summary of the present condition of the great department of Callisthenics in Bowdoin College, two ropes (suitable for swings), 2 do. (considerably shorter), 1 ladder (movable), iron rings (four inches in diameter, one inch wide), 1 chopping block (for leaping over), 1 wooden frame (a cross between a rail fence and a saw horse), 4 big stones (for feats of strength), little ditto (for quoits), quant. suf. Pine trees (for climbing and raising emotions of the sublime), ad. lib."

Already, though, successful attempts were being made to obtain, not only equipment, but also a building for a gym. Upon the plea of the students this institution was located on Bath street, formerly used as College Commons was partially repaired and proved immediately popular. In fact the enthusiasm was so great and the number interested was so large, that "Commons Hall" soon became inadequate and the lower floor of Memorial Hall, though only partly completed, was used for a gym in 1873. Forced from here by the completion of the building, the "gymnastics," as they called themselves, took half of the lower floor of Winthrop Hall as their headquarters.

This place served until 1885 when Dudley A. Sargent, former physical trainer at Bowdoin, donated money for equipment of a new gym and the following year found a new era in Bowdoin's life with the construction of a separate athletic building. In fact interest in athletics took on such a decided increase that in a few years petitions for an even larger building were going around. As a result came the present completed 1911, the culmination of a century's work on the part of the students in obtaining equipment for physical training and in promoting athletics at Bowdoin.

The tendency in the past few years is a matter difficult to state. Equip-

GYM TEAM PREPARING FOR EXHIBITION AT FRYBURG ON DEC. 13

Prof. Roland Cobb Will Aid in Training Squad Along with Prof. Means

After another week of intensive training and drilling, the Gym team has been more specifically organized, according to the ability of each man. Following is the list of events and the men selected by Professor Means for the Fryburg exhibition on December thirteenth:

First Event: Horizontal Bar—Bowman, Bradt, Dana, Eaton, Peabody, Smythe, Watson.

Second Event: Horse—Bowman, Dana, Davies.

Third Event: Parallels—Bennett, Bradt, Colton, Dana, Short.

Fourth Event: Rings—Colton, Clark, Eaton, Peabody, Smythe, Watson.

Fifth Event: Ropes—Colton, Clark, Davies, Eaton, Smith, Smythe, Thomas, Whittier.

Sixth Event: Mats—Bennett, Bradt, Clark, Peabody, Short, Thomas, Watson, Whittier.

Every man is being trained on the rope, although only eight have been chosen for the coming exhibition. From now on, Professor Means will have the assistance of Professor Cobb in developing the team.

BILL ROPER ARGUES FATE OF FOOTBALL

Football is again the storm-center of controversy in the college and public press. The public attitude toward the game, the problem of recruiting and subsidizing of players, and the whole question of the place of athletics in university life, are receiving their annual discussion.

This fall the situation is arousing an unusual amount of feeling, with the recent pronouncement of Grantland Rice, sports writer, and Bill Roper, Coach of Princeton University, that American football is definitely on the decline. They declare that it is being approached as a business, not as a sport; that too much emphasis is being placed on winning, and too little on sportsmanship; in a word, that football is dying. These statements have not passed unchallenged. Several western college newspapers arise to defend the game, and to insist that the strictures of Mr. Rice and Mr. Roper do not apply to the West, however true they may be in the East.

The Professionalism in football is being attacked in the Middle West. The University of Kansas was recently dropped from the Big Six Conference because two of its varsity players were found to be receiving payment. Commenting on this the Daily Nebraskan places "the blame squarely on an athletic-minded public. These wolves are to blame, in all probability, for the present catastrophe at Kansas." On the other hand, the University of Nebraska and Missouri as well as other large universities in trying to guard against the danger of athletes transferring simply for the sake of playing football, have instituted an eligibility rule which forbids transferred students engaging in any activity until they have attended the institution for one year. This rule is causing a great deal of protest at Nebraska as being too extreme, and barring valuable athletes from taking part in activities which really need interest. It is undoubtedly the effort to avoid the stigma of professionalism which has led to this rule.

At the other extreme is the opinion of the editors of the California Daily Bruin, who deprecate the subterfuge now being used to secure and keep good football players, and who see no other solution to the problem than "open athletic subsidies, openly avowed. This stand assumes that good athletic teams are absolutely necessary to the development of a university. In fact, it seems to declare that the university exists for athletics, and not the athletics for the university—a point of view which has been attacked by other college newspapers.

An editorial in the Columbia Spectator comments: "We do not believe athletics are doomed to professionalism. We should like to see some encouragement given to a return of the amateur spirit. . . . The only deduction to be made from it (the California editor's declaration) is that the expenditure of funds for books, for the establishment of professorial chairs, in brief, any money not spent on extra-curricular activity is just so much coin of the realm that has been scattered to the winds."

College football is in a strange position. Some colleges are attacking it as merely "a form of intoxication for the spectators" (Oregon Daily Emerald); others are defending it as the mainspring of university life, and urging more financial support for it; and while athletic experts are pronouncing it dying, thousands gather weekly to watch it.

Tea Dance Held on Nov. 22

On Saturday afternoon, November 22, a tea dance was held in the Moulton Union. A crowd suitable to the size of the floor was on hand and the dance was fairly successful. The dance began at 4.00 and lasted until 8.00. Music was furnished by the Polar Bears. The patronesses at the dance were as follows: Mrs. Roscoe J. Ham, Mrs. Boyd W. Bartlett, Mrs. Robert W. Miller, and Mrs. James F. White.

ANTIQUITY SHOP

THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St. - Brunswick, Me.
Old Furniture, China, Glass, Pewter,
Stamps Bought
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

20 ENGRAVED CHRISTMAS CARDS

with name printed - $1.75
STUART & CLEMENT
Town Building

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?'

Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —

Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students

on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the facilities of

THE RECORD PRESS

are at your service. Tel. 3

Let us estimate on your next job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work done in this shop.

Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

CHURCHILL'S PEACE PLAN HEARD HERE

Calls for Anglo-Saxon Alliance to Regulate World Affairs

EVADES QUESTIONS

Speaker Shows Keen Wit and Clever Handling of Material

The most startling, the most discussed and one of the most clever speeches of the season was delivered last Friday evening, December 5, by Randolph Churchill, to a capacity audience in the auditorium of Memorial Hall. Mr. Churchill is the son of the famous British statesman, Winston Churchill, and, as he puts it, has torn himself away from his studies at Oxford to make a lecture tour in the United States.

Mr. Churchill's subject was "Can Youth Be Conservative?", which question he answered with an emphatic "Yes". Mr. Churchill spoke of conservatism in its abstract sense, in regard to world politics.

Though Mr. Churchill comes here from England as a conservative, he does not, in his view, really represent England or the Conservative Party, but actually, he represents, Mr. Churchill—Mr. Randolph Churchill. Indeed he states that British politics are so muddled up that it's hard to tell what any party really stands for. After a few introductory comments including an apology for his extreme youth, Mr. Churchill proceeded to outline his recipe for a state of world peace which he heartily believes may be made possible if the younger generation (of which he is a member) will take timely action to prevent the spread of the contagious, mopey and sloppy policy of the men—such as Ramsey MacDonald—who now, according to Mr. Churchill, feebly hold the reins of the English Government.

As his premise, Mr. Churchill took the very true statement, shared by both England and America, that peace is wanted. To secure peace Mr. Churchill emphasized that a logical and active policy of peace is essential, that the present "silk hat" and

CHAPEL TALK USES ANALOGY OF PETER

Pres. Sills Shows We Should Look at All Sides of Man's Life

Three related passages from St. Matthew and St. John dealing with the character of St. Peter formed the basis for President Sills' Sunday chapel talk on the general topic of passing judgments on other people. In the first passage, we find Christ designating Peter as "the rock upon which I shall build my church" and in the second passage, Peter denies Christ thus failing his Master in the crisis of his career. In the third, Christ appearing to Peter and Simon after his restoration again asks Peter if he loves him.

These three passages as well as many others in the New Testament give excellent delineations of the character of the apostles. The apostles were not as perfect as they are often imagined. Some were jealous of one another, some could not understand Christ, one of them doubted Christ and regularly failed him. In passing judgment on their characters and in choosing them as disciples Christ saw their worth as well as their bad qualities.

A Problem in Daily Life
We are daily passing judgment upon people in political life, upon our friends, and upon our teachers. Judging other people adds a great deal of zest and interest to life. In passing judgment on them we must not in

SWIMMERS TO HOLD 4th ANNUAL INTER- FRATERNITY MEET

On December 11 and 12 the fourth annual interfraternity swimming meet will take place at the Curtis pool. The trials will be held on Thursday at 4:00 and on Friday evening at 8:00 the finals will come off. The competition is expected to be close, as the coveted Ives trophy, which must be won for three consecutive years for permanent possession, has been won for the last two years by Theta Delta Chi. Beta Theta Pi has a very strong group this year including Easton, Carpenter, and Evans. Over 50% of the present day T.D.'s is its strongest opposition.

The program will be of regulation New England Intercollegiate style with one exception, namely, that the regular quarter mile race will be substituted by a 200 yard swim. The order of events will be as follows: Medley Relay, 50 Yard Dash, 200 Yard Swim, 300 Yard Medley Swim, Diving, 150 Yard Backstroke, 100 Yard Swim, 200 Yard Breaststroke, and 200 Yard Relay. All students will be eligible to enter this competition with the exception of varsity letter holders.

ROBINSON RECITAL PROGRAM CHARMS BOWDOIN AUDIENCE

Long and Well-Balanced Program Delightfully Played by Boston Organist

Last night in the college chapel, Professor Raymond C. Robinson of the School of Music at Boston University gave the first of a series of organ recitals to be presented here this winter by visiting organists and by Professor Wass. Professor Robinson, who is an eminent and experienced musician, organist of King's Chapel in Boston, and dean of the New England Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, played a long and carefully balanced program. The choice of numbers and the finished manner in which they were played completely enchanted Professor Robinson's audience, and their interest was held to the very end of a long program. The visiting artist played the following selections:

Toccata De Maleingreau
March of the Night Watchman
Bach-Widor
Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring Bach
Fugue in E flat (St. Anne) Bach
Allegretto Parker
Rhapsodie Catalane Bonnet
Wind in the Pine Trees Clokey
Final of Ave Maria St. Louis Dreams Stoughton
Finale (Symphony I) Vienne

CURRENT ISSUE OF QUILL IS REVIEWED FOR THE ORIENT

Mr. Childs Passes Judgment on Merits of December Number

In the life of any college there is a very real place for a paper or a magazine which does not concern itself primarily with the current news in the manner of the Orient, nor with the more outstanding items of note and import in the life of the college in the manner of the Alumnus, but use first interest in literature, and it is with pleasure that the reviewer congratulates the "very, very energetic pariahs" (the words are Associate Editor Colton's) who have taken the Quill over its present existence.

Mr. Colton's editorial deals very properly with the ambitions of the Quill both in the fields of literature and in the field of administration, and aims to please its readers rather than to mold public opinion, which, as a quarterly magazine it cannot hope to do; though he does, nevertheless, comment on the Chapel situation, Library administration, and certain athletic conditions. He feels the year to be one "potentially great for Bowdoin" and hopes that it will be one of the most successful in the history of the college which will allow these undertakings to be carried on in the spirit of the words of Luther "Gott helfe mir, ich kann nicht anders."

The first article in the current issue is by President Sills on "College" (Continued on page 3)

DR. CHAS. R. BARKER SPEAKS FORCIBLY ON SUBJECT OF YOUTH

"The Biggest Business in the World"
Is the Subject of Bowdoin
Lecture

"The Biggest Business in the World"—bringing up your son to be a fine, upright young man. This was the subject which Dr. Charles R. Barker dealt with so forcibly before an audience of Brunswick men and college students that almost filled the Memorial Hall auditorium Thursday night. Dr. Barker first stated that he was not going to apologize for his son's lack upon the laxness of the modern father, because there is not enough effort and money spent on this phase in proportion to the other systems of education.

"These ideas may be rather trite, I know," he went on to say, "but the proper conduct of the child determines his future safety, well-being, and regard for law. For instance, back the Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts or any such organization that does work for the betterment of youth, and you are fulfilling one of the father's important duties to his and every son."

"In San Antonio, Texas, during one year not one of the 4,200 Boy Scouts in that city was in court. The Boy Scouts train so forcibly before an audience naturally and simply."

Importance of Religious Training
"Another tremendous responsibility of a father is to attend some church regularly and to apologize for his son's right path. Russia, trying to bring up her children without religion, is bound to fail. It has been proven time and again that a nation cannot not give the church the support it needs would like to go out on Sunday morning and play golf or motor, remember you are denouncing God in the sight of your children, who will not give the church the support it needs and it need when they are grown."

"The next duty is to teach the boy or girl to obey. It is far more important than proper nurturing or education. Over 50% of present day crimes are being committed by boys under twenty-one, and this isn't because of Prohibition, either. The

(Continued on page 4)

PEARY LECTURE ONE OF GREAT INTEREST

Gives Illustrated Account of Life on Northern Trips

Robert Edwin Peary, son of the famous explorer lectured in the main lounge of the Moulton Union, Monday evening, December eighth. The subject of his talk was the first of the two trips which he has taken to the Arctic since graduating from Bowdoin in 1925.

Dean Nixon introduced "Bob" by telling a story of the lecturer's college days. Young Peary's record was "B" at one of the marking periods. Not long afterward the Dean accosted him and asked him the reason for the low mark. He received the answer, "Sir, I underestimated my opponents." The Dean also mentioned the fact that being the son of a famous man, especially one as famous as Peary, was sometimes embarrassing, and he recounted the instance when the remark was dropped to him in the hearing of Peary, although unconsciously so, that sons of famous men seldom amount to anything. However, Bob Peary was quite out of the ordinary. He collected a number of medals after an engineering course at Lehigh, he was greatly attracted by the Arctic and was employed in several engineering projects.

Mr. Peary started in beginning his lecture that five and one half years ago, at his graduation amid the surprised congratulations of his friends, he had no idea that he would return with such pleasure to share his interesting experiences with a Bowdoin audience. He said that his memory holds good for many aspects of college life, and he remembers that the less a speaker said the more popular he was, and that there was too much education at college. So, he would try to make his talk as little educational as possible.

The pictures were part of a visual diary of two trips. One was to Greenland and one to Eaffin Land, the latter country being more inaccessible. The first was under the auspices of the American Museum of Natural History. (Continued on page 3)

COACH MAGEE TALKS BEFORE BOSTON AND PORTLAND ALUMNI

Outlines Athletic Prospects and Makes Suggestions at Two Meetings

Jack Magee, Bowdoin track mentor, was a guest of the Portland Athletic Club at their supper last Thursday night. The Club was host to the combined football squads from Deering, Portland, and South Portland High schools, and their coaches. Magee, who has been coaching the Bowdoin team for three seasons, outlined these teams on their splendid seasons. As trainer of the Bowdoin team he realized the vigorous training that the schoolboys must have gone through. Then as commissioner of the A.A.U. for the State of Maine, he suggested that the Club become affiliated with that organization. He further suggested that the Club promote amateur athletic events on a national scale. He felt that with the erection of the new municipal stadium, which is now in the final stages of construction, that there would be no reason why the New England Intercollegiate Track and Field championships would be held there.

At the conclusion of the talk, President Phil P. Chapman of the Club stated that a committee would be appointed immediately to consider the advisability of carrying out Mr. Magee's proposals.

Mr. Magee, who spoke at Boston before the Bowdoin Club of that city at their monthly dinner at the University Club. Many of Jack's former pupils were present.

Mr. Magee also gave a general resume of Bowdoin's football season (Continued on page 4)

ART-BUILDING SHOWS NOTABLE COLLECTION

A collection of the "Fifty Prints of the Year" was placed on exhibition in the art gallery of the Walker Art Building last Sunday afternoon, and will remain there until December 21. The exhibition comprises a group of prints made this year and selected for the finest for 1930 by Mr. John Sloan, a member of the American Institute of Graphic Arts. The collection has attracted considerable interest in the college, and many visitors have come to view it.

Many well known modern artists are represented in the collection including John Taylor Arms, Gifford Beal, Richard Bennett, Richard Lahey and Wanda Gág. Several kinds of prints are represented including etchings, drypoints, woodcuts, lithographs, and linocut prints. The prints portray every variety of subject from New York sky scrapers and industrial scenes to country barns and western deserts. One of the outstanding prints of the collection is a picture of a medieval church "Gothic Glory" by John Taylor Arms which was reprinted in the "Orient" and "Other Fine Pictures are "Inscription Rock" by A. L. Groll, and the sombre "Resting Along the Way" by Eugene Higgins. A list of note, one of whose other works is to be in the permanent collection of Prints in the basement of the Art Building.

DIMNET TO APPEAR HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Will Speak on "The Art of Thinking" in Bowdoin
Lecture

Abbe Ernest Dimnet, the famous French cleric, lecturer and author of "The Art of Thinking", will speak here at Bowdoin Tuesday evening, December 16, at 8:15 in Memorial Hall. He will take for his lecture subject the well-known title of his above-mentioned book: "The Art of Thinking". This is Abbe Dimnet's first extended lecture tour, and one of the reasons for his popularity is that since his book "The Art of Thinking" is so universal, so all inclusive that those who have read it are doubly eager to meet the man, "to hear this wise and gentle scholar expound his theories of thought." A good proof of this prolific writer's lecturing-popularity is shown when on the evening of the nineteenth of October in Boston 4000 people turned out to hear M. Dimnet, and one half of the huge throng were able to crowd into Ford Hall. The following night at Providence the Plantations Club had to reject an endless string of ticket applications for the lecture in such great demand. The Abbe speaks quietly, fluently, but firmly in flawless English, is a great thinker himself, and advocates reading of good books. Last week's "Orient" carried some comments made by Professor Bompiani on M. Dimnet's opinion that Mussolini is a dangerous but great thinker. We're wondering if the Professor will have more to say after the Abbe's talk here Tuesday night.

FROSH-SOPH DEBATE IMPORTANT EVENT OF TOMORROW NIGHT

To Argue Extent of Menace of Science to Religion Among Students

The impending debate between the freshmen and sophomore teams, scheduled for tomorrow evening, has created so small amount of interest among the faculty as well as the students. The topic under discussion, "Resolved: That the present emphasis on science in college is a menace to the belief in established religion among the students," is one notable for the attention given it in late years everywhere, and one on which every thinking student has an opinion. These factors insure the popularity of the meeting beyond doubt.

An important change has been made in the form of the debate. Whereas in the past the debate has been in the form of a rebuttal to five minutes. The freshmen are supporting the affirmative, and their first speaker will be Stephen R. Deane. Charles F. Kahill and Frederick W. Burton are the other two freshmen, and the alternate is Carl G. Olson. The sophomores will be represented by Norman Von Rosenzweig, George P. Towle, Jr., and Albert S. Davis, Jr. These factors insure the popularity of the debate, the freshmen having invaded even the Boston (Continued on page 4)

DEAN AND ALUMNI SECRETARY ATTEND COLLEGE MEETINGS

Dean Paul Nixon and Alumni Secretary Philip S. Wilder of Bowdoin College represented the college at the annual meeting of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Boston last week end. President Sills of Bowdoin is chairman of the Standing Committee on Institutions of Higher Education of this organization and was expected to preside at the delegates' luncheon at the Hotel Statler on Friday. President Sills was detained in Brunswick, and his place was taken by President Cousens of Tufts.

John C. Thalheimer, Bursar of Bowdoin College, represented the college at the annual meeting of the National Association of College Business Officers. The association met at the guests of Lafayette College at Easton, Pa., the latter part of last week.

CRIMMINS CHOSEN AS REPRESENTATIVE TO STUDENT MEETING

Arthur L. Crimmins, '31, President of the Student Council, has been designated as representative of the college at the meeting of the National Student Federation Association to be held from December 29 to January 2 at Atlanta, Ga. Georgia Tech will act as host to delegates at the conference which will discuss the student problems confronting colleges and universities throughout the United States. The conference will have representatives from both men's and women's colleges. Bowdoin did not send a representative to this meeting last year, but a delegate went to the Intercollegiate Association which met in New York.

PETTEGROVE NAMED RHODES CANDIDATE FROM THIS STATE

Chosen Jointly with N. D. Palmer of Colby to Go Before District
Committee

James Parker Pettegrove '30 was selected by the State Rhodes Scholarship Committee meeting at the Augusta House, Augusta last Saturday, December 6, as one of the two candidates from Maine to appear before the New England District Committee for the awarding of Rhodes Scholarships. Pettegrove will be one of the twelve candidates from all parts of New England who will appear at Boston before the District Committee on Wednesday, December 10. From these twelve candidates, the Committee will select four men to be the Rhodes Scholars from New England next year. Norman D. Palmer '30 of Colby is the other candidate from Maine.

The State Committee which made the selections was appointed by President Aydelotte of Swarthmore, American Secretary to the Rhodes Trustees. It consists of Dr. Augustus O. Thomas a Bates alumnus, formerly Commissioner of Education for the State of Maine, Chairman; Professor Thomas Means of Bowdoin, formerly of Connecticut and Merton College Oxford, Secretary; Professor Weber of Colby formerly of Maryland and Queens College Cambridge; and Professor Asby of Maine, formerly of Texas and Merton.

Pettegrove an Outstanding Scholar, Pettegrove, who was a resident of Machiasport, is Longfellow Scholar in English this year and is studying at Harvard. He graduated with high rank and received honors in English. He was on the freshman and sophomore track teams and on the varsity track squad.

Pettegrove was one of the ten candidates presented to the State Committee by the faculty committees in the various Maine colleges. Of these ten, four were from Bowdoin, and two each were from Bates, Colby, and Maine. Two of the candidates came from Bowdoin, and the remaining three from Maine. The Committee reported that the candidates this year comprised the highest average group in over a decade. All were of Phi Beta Kappa rank and the per centage of A's and B's received by the candidates during their college courses ranged from 87 to 100%. The major (Continued on page 4)

GROWTH OF CANON OF NEW TESTAMENT SUBJECT OF TALK

Dr. Goodrich Discusses Selection of Canonical Books to the Vulgate Class

Last Sunday afternoon Dr. Chauncey W. Goodrich spoke to the Vulgate Class on the Non-Canonical Literature of the New Testament, and gave much interesting information on how the present canon of the New Testament was selected.

In treating of his subject, Dr. Goodrich explained the possibility of the oral transmission of Christian literature. Since nothing was written concerning the life of Christ for twenty-five years after his death, many critics have put forward the contention that on this account what was written must necessarily have been inaccurate and undependable. In contrast, Dr. Goodrich stated that the oral transmission of the works of Homer over a much longer period, and also his own vivid recollections of speeches and remarks of famous men with whom he came in contact during his own college life forty-five years ago. He eliminated further doubt on this point when he remarked how much more clearly a group of men would remember testaments and acts of a beloved teacher with whom they were associated every day and in whom they had the utmost faith.

Dr. Goodrich went on to show the periods of years during which the New Testament literature was produced. The first extant piece of Christian literature was a letter of Paul, written in 51 A.D. From that time on until the Council of Nicea in 325, a large amount of literature was written, a very small part of which is now included in the New Testament. But during those years, almost any one of the accounts of the life of Christ had as much face value as any other. Some of these accounts, which are now called non-canonical because they

(Continued on page 4)

HOUSEPARTIES SOON BRIGHTEN BOWDOIN HALLS

Vacation to be Heralded in With the Traditional Festivities

PLANS MATERIALIZE

House Dances, Masque and Gown Play, and Formal, High Spots of Brilliant Two Days

Once again the Christmas season rolls around, bringing with it the opening festivities of the vacation—Christmas House Party. Not even an ice storm such as we saw last year can kill the spirit of this happiest of Bowdoin parties. Thursday of next week will witness the traditional influx of guests and that evening will see things in full swing, with the house dances the predominant feature, lasting well into the small hours of Friday morning. The next afternoon the Cumberland Theatre will be turned over to the Masque and Gown for their presentation of Galsworthy's "Escape". Friday night the always brilliant formal in the Sargent Gymnasium will bring the carnival to a close, and the dawn of Saturday morning will see another Christmas House-party on the road to history.

Some of the fraternities have not completed their plans as we go to press, but following is a resume of arrangements as determined to date: At the Alpha Delta Phi house Percy Stevens and his orchestra will be in attendance. The patronesses for the dance have not as yet been selected.

Some of the fraternities have not completed their plans as we go to press, but following is a resume of arrangements as determined to date: At the Alpha Delta Phi house Percy Stevens and his orchestra will be in attendance. The patronesses for the dance have not as yet been selected.

At the Delta Kappa Epsilon house Joe Roman will furnish the music. Here again the patronesses have not been chosen.

At the Theta Delta Chi house the music of Boulanger and his Georgia Melodians will be enjoyed. The patrons and patronesses for this dance are as follows: Professor and Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. O. C. Moyer and Mrs. Ethel Lorin.

Bill Edwards and his Jersey Jic-Jacs will furnish the music at the Delta Upsilon house. Means (Continued on page 4)

HOUSE PARTY PLAY "ESCAPE" EXPECTED TO BE HUGE SUCCESS

Fine Drama by Galsworthy Has Been Most Popular Elsewhere

The Christmas play "Escape", by John Galsworthy, is well on its way. It will be presented on Friday, December 19, at the Cumberland theatre as one of the features of the Christmas House Parties.

John Galsworthy's "Escape" was first produced in London in 1926, and successfully brought to New York in 1927. Last week this drama was presented by the Amherst Players, and was very well received.

The body of the play is concerned with the reactions of different types of people to an escaped convict, who has unintentionally killed a man. There are ten episodes in which the reaction of each type is shown.

Cast of characters is as follows: Matt Denant Robert Ecke '31
The Girl of the Town

The Plain Clothes Man Morgan Cushing
Frank Carpenter '34
First Policeman Russell Hall '33
Second Policeman, Robert Hayden '34
The Fellow Convict

E. W. Spingarn '33
First Warder B. Q. Robbins '34
Second Warder William Rounds '34
The Shingled Lady, Mrs. James White
The Maid Miss Eleanor Riley

(Continued on page 5)

SERVICES OF MANY CHURCHES HELD IN CHAPEL BUILDING

With the opening of the new Roman Catholic chapel in Brunswick late in December or early in January Catholic services will no longer be held in the Bowdoin College chapel, where they have been conducted since the organization of the English speaking parish some weeks ago. At the time when Father Dunnigan was appointed to his post at Brunswick by Bishop Murray an appeal was made to the college authorities for the use of the chapel on Sundays and special festival days and, as has been done in many earlier cases, the chapel building was at once made available for temporary use. The college has since its organization been closely associated with the churches of the town, the first known record of this association being in 1808 when the college contributed to the erection of the first parish meeting house with the provision that the north gallery of the building be reserved for the use of students. In 1911 a second record shows that the chapel bell was

(Continued on page 5)

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

George T. Sewall '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McKenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

William N. Small '31
John L. Snider '31
Philip T. Walters '32

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $2.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance. Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, December 10, 1930.

No. 18

Churchill Lecture

The effect produced by the recent speech of Randolph Churchill may be favorably compared with that produced by a sleight-of-hand artist who by skill and cleverness is capable of making the most simple of his deceptions attain the subtle realm of the magic.

Mr. Churchill backed by a renowned Conservative heritage, aided by a politician's facultas dicendi, and spurred on by extreme precociousness has attempted to convince us of policies peculiarly analogous to the political motives which dominated Europe for almost fifty years prior to the World War. Admittedly a reactionary he attempts to reincarnate German Kultur in the garb of an Anglo-Saxon supremacy. Churchill may be assured once and for all that the older generation which watched the growing animosities of Europe from the latter decades of the 19th century until they burst forth into flames in 1914 will decidedly oppose any plan which attempts a revival of such policies as have already cost the lives of millions of men.

Inevitably, the plan suggested will bring an era which the older generation is attempting to banish forever. The present policies of the nations in regard to peace may be "sob stuff" to Mr. Churchill, but to those who have known the horrors of war, the folly of secret diplomacy, the dangers of competitive armaments, the new methods of settling international difficulties are a substitution of justice in a world which formerly knew but subterfuge and deceit. The Anglophobia of Mr. Churchill will never lead the nations up the highroad of peace.

The speaker was deft and suave in his attempt to right the English position in regard to India. He was entirely theoretical in his solving of the Russian situation. From a dusty bag of political tricks he drew out benevolent despotism and imperialism for exercise upon the Chinese. He seemed never to have heard of the Boxer Rebellion, and thus with naive equanimity prepares for a situation already repudiated by the facts of history. For "the little snarling puppy dogs of Europe" he did not give a snap of his fingers. His utter disregard for history in this regard borders on stupidity. Has Mr. Churchill so soon forgotten the lessons indelibly imprinted upon the minds of the nations by the World War? His view of methods for the solving of international problems through an alliance of England and the United States is subtly analogous to a very natural tendency which prompts individuals as well as nations to seek out rich though distant relatives. This is indeed not to be construed as a compliment to the United States on the part of Mr. Churchill.

In conclusion, Mr. Churchill is a very young man with equally young ideas. He is indeed clever, but is armed with all the conventional accoutrements of the politician. Conceit, egotism and arrogance characterize jejune and yet archaic ideas. In the final analysis we are not wont to take Mr. Churchill over seriously. If he is sincere in his views, he has a great deal to learn, if he is not it were better that he engaged once again in the pursuit of his subjects at Oxford rather than impose upon an already too much imposed upon American public.

P. C. A. '32.

An All-Maine Conference

The Editor of The Bates Student has recently proposed a scheme for an All-Maine Conference. We are as yet unfamiliar with the details of his plan, but we understand each of the four Maine colleges would be represented by the president of the student council and by the editor of the college paper. It would seem to us that here is a suggestion of real value, one which we believe should be carried out as soon as possible. There are but four colleges in the state; yet, how much does the average Bowdoin undergraduate know about conditions at Colby? at Maine? or at Bates? Very little. Perhaps we do not care to know? It is just here we believe lies the value of Mr. Thomas's idea. It is about time that we threw overboard the petty contempt now existing between the student bodies of these four institutions; it is about time that we realized that to limit one's interests to Bowdoin, or Bates, alone is to become too narrowed in an age as broad in its interests as is our own; it is about time that we abandoned the bitterness that exists between certain Maine colleges in connection with athletic rivalry. We are not claiming any cure-all virtues for this proposed conference, but we do feel, and feel strongly, that any group including the two chief spokesmen of the various student bodies involved cannot help but make for a better understanding on all problems.

If Mr. Thomas can realize his excellent plan, we feel sure that the Bowdoin student body will be willing to cooperate fully.

Basketball

Something like sixty-eight men have signed up for basketball this year. That is not unusually large number in comparison with other years. And yet, with as large a squad available as this, Bowdoin does not recognize basketball as a sport! This seems rather strange. Other colleges our own size have basketball teams,

THE TAILCOAT

Increased formality in women's evening fashions makes the wearing of the tailcoat imperative at almost all evening functions of any importance. Christmas parties are important. The new tailcoat favored by well dressed men is a trifle shorter than last season. The waistline is higher. Shoulders are broad. Trousers are of medium width. As low as fifty dollars; peerless at sixty-five

The House of Walsh

"More than a toggery . . . a Bowdoin Institution"

and the sport is a popular one. Why is it that basketball has found no place in the sun here? Possibly it is feared that the establishing of basketball as either a major or a minor sport would weaken hockey and track, but this year we can think of sixty-eight men who have no connection with either of the above sports and who could undoubtedly furnish material for quite a basketball team. It is ridiculous that we should have a gym team, a fencing team, and now agitation for a winter sports team, and yet have no recognition of basketball. With a large and spacious gym already at our disposal, it cannot be the cost of maintaining the sport which has prevented its existence here at Bowdoin. Nor can it be lack of spirit among those of the student body interested in basketball. Granting that a large number of the sixty-eight men signed up for the sport may have done so merely for lack of anything better, we wager a squad of some twenty basketball enthusiasts could be found among the number. Why can't we have a Bowdoin basketball team?

Communication

December 8, 1930.

The Editor of the Bowdoin Orient Brunswick, Maine.

Dear Sir:

It was rather regrettable, to our point of view, that after the lecture Friday evening, certain evidences of common courtesy and good breeding were decidedly lacking in several individuals who gathered to question Mr. Churchill after he had left the platform. These people seemed to hold to the theory, so prevalent in this country, that the opinions of Americans are, by nature, far superior to those entertained by others, and that our ideas are the logical solution for all problems of world importance. Tolerance and open-mindedness should be more in evidence, even though we disagree. One questioner showed his narrow-mindedness when, in an impolite manner, he enquired if people elsewhere agreed with Mr. Churchill's ideas. On being informed that such was probably not the case, he exclaimed, "Then why the devil do you hold to them?" "Because I believe in them," was the reply.

The above questioner was a member of the college. One person, not connected, approached Mr. Churchill beligerently and asked if he meant certain things which even the most feeble intellect should have realized the gentleman had not said or did not in the least imply. If the discourteous attitude had been confined to this individual who in no way represents the college, the matter would not have been so serious, but it was noticeable in the previous example and others, who do, Mr. Churchill maintained an agreeable attitude throughout, in marked contrast to that of these others. And, too, their questions dealt with mere trivialities which were quite irrelevant to the main point at issue. Such picking to pieces of minor details and haggling over matters of absolute inconsequence—particularly in the manner it was done—seems rather petty, and brought up to bring about the discomfiture of the visitor, or to satisfy the personal vanity of the interrogator.

Apart from whether or not we accept the beliefs of a speaker, it should be the duty of all members of the college to present an appearance of courtesy to visiting speakers, and to do our best, at least, to render a foreigner's visit as pleasant as possible.

Very truly yours,

H. T. W.

F. M. A.

Mustard and Cress

Randolph Churchill, we call him Rand, said he was most anxious to meet Al Smith and Al Capone, above all other Americans. He also mentioned Rudy Vallee as a desirable acquaintance. Mr. Churchill, we understand was advocating Conservatism. Well, he's dated now . . .

Mr. Ben Lindsay, noted Judge and so forth, rather put himself in a funny place last Sunday. We would advise the learned justice to confine his actions to times when he has the floor. But pertinently, we mention him because there have been so many times that we have yearned for the courage to jump up on Professor Wass' organ box and ask for five minutes in refutation. Would we, too, be arrested?

Mr. Churchill, we still call him Rand, persisted that Rudy Vallee shouldn't boast about having written his autobiography with which Rand didn't just find favor. We might suggest as well that Rand should cease boasting so much about himself. By the way, does Rand croom?

What famous college president found it necessary to go over on the Delta the first of the week and chide several small boys for using base, vile, obscene, and exceedingly blasphemous language? We had supposed that the overwhelming influence of Bowdoin's purity and elegance had long since rid Brunswick of all but Puritanical speech.

There are so many people selling apples in New York's unemployed aid scheme that most of the doctors are out of work, and are selling apples.

It still seems likely that it will be a long, hard, winter.

There isn't much indignation this week, so we can't make verses. We just couldn't get indignant at dear Rand, albeit we didn't exactly get all in a lather and a whistle over him. However, we will grant him the benefit of security from our portable typewriter, and wish him godspeed in returning to England where his presence is so deplorably needed. We do not believe America will suddenly begin to sing God Save the King when America is played because of Rand's enlightening visit. Personally Mustard and Cress believes that the main trouble with youth is that it is conservative.

Gordon E. Gillett '34, conducted a service last Sunday in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Lisbon Falls in the absence of the regular pastor. He delivered a sermon on "Prayer" and R. Lloyd Hackwell, '34 read the scripture. Both are intent on the ministry for their life work, and Gillett is already active as a lay reader in the diocese of Massachusetts, where he was the organizer and leader of several young people's groups. He has been giving his own sermons for two years, and plans to enter theological school upon graduating from Bowdoin.

THE COLLEGE SPA

The Meeting Place of Bowdoin

Handy to the Campus and the Food is Good. Try it

AN UNDERGRADUATE REVIEWS CURRENT NUMBER OF QUILL

My senior year and I have been asked to review the November 1930 issue of the "Quill". No doubt owing to an admirable change in the financial policy, the originality of its last year's cover has been lost and an ineffectual substitution made. Such a procedure, it seems to me, defeats the end toward which the magazine strove under the first period of its renaissance; a national sale, no longer attractive, suffering from intellectual malnutrition, it becomes its own ghastly end.

Reading the first sentence of the editorial, I had and still have before me the chaste image of the empty egg. Further on I notice the phrase "who cares what the Quill stands for". We should cross our hands and wish to God that it stood for something. And then the phrase, "we wish to please our readers" looks up imploringly. Cecil de Mille and "The Daily Mirror" pursue that very policy. Vanity Fair nominated Mr. de Mille for oblivion. As for the "Mirror"—well!

I agree with Mr. Colton on the subject of Chapel. It is part of the College activity and should remain so. Softened by such a mutual understanding, I was about to feel, all's right in the world, when he up and mentions honor in the library and touch football. The honor of a college undergraduate, though sincere at the core, at times travels amazingly dense by paths. As for touch football versus soccer, I doubt if the student body feels as deeply as does Mr. Colton on the subject. And there is a tinge of idealism rather than optimism in these editorials.

President Sills' article is very sane, mild and intelligent. But I am inclined to disagree when he dogmatically asserts that a professor or instructor must be both a teacher and a scholar. There are some men who cannot teach, yet are great scholars. (Continued on Page 3)

The Ideal Hotel for You In BOSTON

In the NEW Hotel MANGER

At North Station

Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS

Each Room equipped with Tub and Shower • Built-in Radio Speaker (Three Station Service) • Servidor

Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Modernly Equipped and Perfectly Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH

FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00

FOR TWO—4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 6.00

No Higher Rates

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

Clipping a second would save 25,000 hours

A second saved here — an unnecessary step cut out there — on such close attention to detail rests the success of modern industry. Nowhere is this more strikingly shown than in the telephone business.

In accounting work for instance, an improved method that clips just one second from the time required to handle one toll ticket would have great results.

Applied throughout the System—handling an average of more than 90,000,000 toll tickets each month—it would effect a monthly saving of 25,000 hours!

Such "little" things often are tremendously important in so vast an industry. That is one reason why men find Bell System work so fascinating.

The opportunity is there!

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

Read "THE ART OF THINKING" by Ernest Dimmet before hearing him lecture, Dec. 16th.

A Good Book for only$1.00

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Faculty Quill Review

(Continued from Page 1)

Teaching as a Career, the first of a series of articles by the presidents of the four Maine colleges to be published in the Quill. President Still emphasizes the need for interesting able young men in the profession of college teaching and discusses the pros and cons of such a career with perhaps a natural bias in favour of the pros. He enters very frankly into the matter of financial returns as compared with those to be expected in other professions and in business; and it is perhaps unfortunate, in view of the optimistic and encouraging tone of the article, that he brings the highest professional salaries in close association with the financial expectations of the average citizen whom it is not the average citizen whom it is wished to attract to the profession, but "young men of the highest quality". He also ignores the fact that the average college professor has a place; but the reviewer feels that the man who loves the life of a scholar and a teacher will turn to the profession no matter what sacrifice of self denial he must lay down; whereas the equally promising young man who might make as brilliant a scholar, and as inspiring a teacher turns to other fields because he has a natural desire, not only for glory, but also for jam on his bread and butter. The fact that, compared with business and most of the other professions, there is slight difference between the salaries of the good, the bad, and the indifferent, whereas the security of tenure of a position is far greater makes the teaching profession too often alas! a shelter for mediocrity which is at least assured of a living wage.

For the rest President Still stresses the necessity for those who enter the profession of being both natural teachers, and dwellers on the advantages of intellectual liberty opportunities for progress and self development, and freedom of time which go hand in hand with the natural career, and assured at least of bread and butter, these blessings are perhaps in themselves the greatest inducement for college teaching as a career for the ambitious young man; but, after all, one's life work must depend somewhat on the form one's ambitions take.

The next article is by George William Freiday, Jr., on the poet William A. E. Housman. As this is the Pray English Prize winner his scholastic and literary merit is already vouchsafed for. The essayist shows a keen sympathy and intellectual insight into the brief sketch of what is publicly known of his life, gives him the honor due for his scholastic achievements and shows great understanding in his prefaces and other works "in order to understand the poet" in his poetry. Mr. Freiday discusses the construction of Mr. Housman's poems, admiring the classic influence while he maintains that "the poems are only infrequently in the literary tradition", deals with the subject matter in them, and with their mood and atmosphere, and illustrates and embellishes his discussion with many quotations taken mostly from "The Shropshire Lad". It is a sparkling essay, and the quotations will add greatly to the pleasure of Housman lovers in reading it.

"Canticles Battle", a narrative poem by Albert Samuel Davis, Jr., comes next on the list. It tells the story of how Sir Francis Drake redeems a promise made to a fellow sea captain by rising first as a privateer and then as a naval officer, and there is a well sustained atmosphere of sea and ships, of blood and horror, and all the best and goriest traditions associated with the Spanish Main in the days of the great Elizabeth. The swing contributes largely to this, as well as the excellently chosen descriptive phrases, some of which are in almost lyric in their quality, but in a manner sufficiently restrained not to be out of keeping with the general mood and subject of the poem.

Following "Canticles Battle" are excerpts from two diaries, "S.S. Panama" by H. Schuyler Bradt, and the other "Leaves from a Western Diary" by E. D. H. Spingarn. Neither of them deal with very extraordinary experiences, but the former has a very considerable charm in what the reviewer can describe only as a sense of vitality. The descriptions in "S.S. Panama" are less forced, (I think) than those in "S.S. Panama", but had a feeling, quite unvarnished, that Mr. Spingarn wrote with an eye to publication; there is something not quite spontaneous in "Leaves from a Western Diary", and there seems to be rather too much emphasis on the ubiquitous personal pronoun, first person singular, nominative case, so inevitable in diaries. Comparisons are odious, it has been well said, and it is too bad that the juxtaposition in the Quill should suggest them to the reviewer's mind, for both diaries are am-ing in their way, and both contain the highlights of interesting, if not, as previously stated, extraordinary summers.

Next on the Quill's fall menu of literary dishes come a poem, "Dread" and a short story "Louisa" both by Walter Parker Bowman. The poem is a poem of the sea, and is at least twice for the sense, perhaps because of its rather unusual arrangement; but as sense is not one of the major prerequisites of poetry perhaps this is not fair to say. It is a poem of considerable strength and power, and the underlying emotional content is felt intensely throughout. Some of the phraseology has the rare quality of beauty and the irregular rhythms add much to the merit of the poem. "Louisa" won the Hawthorne Short Story Prize for the year 1930. It is the story of a poor old woman who, in shall pathos attempt to bring beauty into her drab life, steals Woolworth pearls, and of the mental state resultant upon considering her crime. Granted the original premise of a woman of the lower psychological study is interesting and well handled; but it does occur to the reviewer's skeptical and materialistic mind that an old lady who could support herself adequately by her work as a seamstress and odd job woman, could have afforded, in all probability, to patronize the local Woolworth store in a thoroughly legal manner. Why she did not is left to the bewildered reader's imagination.

"Chronicle" by L. T. Steele is the usual review of contemporary theatre, drama, books, etc., and as such is done in a competent manner. Finding he shares with the reviewer a few intense enthusiasms such as those for Dashiell Hammett and Thorne Smith, the reviewer is inclined to regard his opinions as sound, and also to pass the good word along to read Hammett for thrills, and Smith for humor.

"Chronicle" is the last article in the Quill, so that review brings this one toward its conclusion. There is food for thought and food for entertainment, on the whole well chosen and well expressed, and the editors of the Quill are certainly to be congratulated. On the whole, if it is better, there is always room for improvement; but, if subsequent numbers of the Quill are as good as this, the reviewer is inclined to think that the Quill is certainly to be congratulated. On the whole, if it is better, there is always room for improvement; but, if subsequent numbers of the Quill are as good as this, the reviewer is inclined to think that the Quill is certainly to be congratulated.

Use of Chapel

(Continued from Page 1)

used in connection with the regular church services and in 1824 an agreement was made which made available the building of the first parish for Commencement exercises and other large college gatherings.

In 1842 the Rev. J. C. Richmond, an Episcopalian clergyman, was passing through Brunswick and sought the use of the Milliken Regiment house as a place to conduct a service for such people of the town as might be interested. Being refused this privilege, he appealed to President Leonard Wood, who had just been graduated, and he was better, immediately opened the college chapel to him and in that building was held the first Episcopal service in the town. Plans were laid regularly in the chapel building while the Milliken Regiment was stationed in Brunswick during the world war and the structure has at all times been available for religious services, although seven of the eight years of its existence have been ordered by the Congregational church, a type of man looked upon in the early days as a tolerant of sects other than his own.

Churchill Lecture

(Continued from page 1)

speech-making methods will never suffice, by themselves, to prevent future wars. Mr. Churchill believes that such organizations as the League of Nations does help, somewhat, and that its usefulness would be much enhanced if the United States were to join.

It is a perfectly arbitrary assumption, the speaker remarked, "that war is a crime; I think it is a great bore, and an unnecessary expense. I would find it a thousand times more interesting to be shot down on a battlefield in a lot of mud."

Since war is, then, a great bore, legislation such as the Kellogg Peace Pact should not be enacted against it. Mr. Churchill said that a crime was absolutely stopped on account of a law, though he cited one glaring example of an exception to this rule—Amendment No. 18, of the Constitution of the United States. He also criticized our habit of inviting silk hats to a tea-party every time we believe some other countries ought to listen to our own solution to their problems, they like it or not. Had Mr. Churchill been a lawyer (instead of Ramsey McDonald) he would have been—oh, very polite, but would have gracefully declined Mr. Hoover's invitation to hold a naval conference by saying, "I thank you, but we don't wish to hold a naval arms limitation conference today". Mr. Churchill went on to outline his remedies for bettering the situation of things as they stand today, confining his criticism chiefly to English policies and politicians. His first target was Ramsey McDonald again, saying that the greatest and most unfortunate result of his statesmanship, was the London Naval Conference which had only one result—to decrease the size of the British Navy, leaving America, France, Italy, and Japan with larger navies. The British Navy, along with the American Navy and the French Army was cited as one of the three great bulwarks of civilization. It was that fleet that drove the slave trade off the sea and that same navy helped to carry American troops to France during the World War. Also three reasons for Britain's having a larger navy than the U. S. were cited: (1) England

(Continued on page 4)

Intercollegiate Column

Little Three Parley

Most every college has trouble of some kind or another. Bowdoin's agitated about compulsory chapel while Vermont is trying to do away with its Freshman Frecus. Recently the Little Three Parley was held at Amherst where Wesleyan, Amherst, and Williams talked over their troubles. Amherst is cursed with an examination system that seems unjust, when compared with the system of other colleges. Mid-year examinations are given there and a student must pass his examination or possibly be dropped. Then in June examinations are given—on not only the work of the second semester, but on the whole year's work. So, at mid-year, a student has nothing to gain, but everything to lose.

The Williams student body finds it difficult to support its non-athletic activities. Those activities are supposed to be run by undergraduate tax, collected by undergraduates and they suffer accordingly. Williams has also a compulsory chapel service—at 7.45.

Pledging at Brown

Brown University is now in the midst of pledging. The sophomores after a year of free association are given their bids and submit their choices to an interfraternity council.

An International Relations Club is now in existence at the University of Vermont. The organization is an open forum discussing current problems.

Our River of Learning

The Wesleyan Argus announces the interesting discovery of some clever statistician who has shown that the Connecticut river is the most educated river on earth (too bad Barnum didn't find out earlier it would have been his circus!) This river far surpasses the Charles and the Thames in the number of institutions of higher learning to be found on its banks. Dartmouth, Norwich, Middlebury, and Smith. Heron Seminars, Amherst, Mt. Holyoke and the Massachusetts Agricultural Colleges. Two colleges at Springfield, Mass. Trinity College, Hartford, and Wesleyan at Hartford and finally Wesleyan, at Middletown, Yale was formerly located at Saybrook, at the mouth of the river but moved a short distance away—to keep dry.

Christmas Play

(Continued from Page 1)

The Old Gentleman
Norman von Rosenzweig '33
The Man in Full Pours
J. F. Jenkinson '33
His Wife Mrs. Herbert Barton
The Village Constable
F. H. Burton '34
The Farmer John Fay '34
The Little Girl Miss Nancy Cushing
The Two Maiden Ladies
Mrs. John Thalhimer
The Shopkeeper Mrs. Carlotta C. Young
The Captain A. S. Davis '33
The Parson John H. Gordon '33
The Bellringer Walter D. Hinkle '33
Raymond R. Brown, Jr. '34
The Foxhunter John E. Muller '34
First Laborer Robert Hayden '34
Second Laborer Russell Hall '33
The Shopkeeper's Wife
Mrs. John Thalhimer
Her Sister Mrs. Carlotta C. Young

Sunday Chapel

(Continued from page 1)

noticing their prominent limitations forget their good traits, particularly if we see that they are trying to remedy their faults.

Biography is a method of analysing the characters of prominent men of the past. The present age has seen a great spread in the writing of biography. Unfortunately many of these works aim solely at debunking and at presenting a few minor episodes in a person's life, often distorted, giving the reader an erroneous conception of the subject's life.

James W. Eliot cited as Example Charles W. Eliot, the great president of Harvard, on the other hand, gives a rounded picture of this noted administrator including his limitations but at the same time fully treating his merits just as we should do in passing judgment on the lives of people today. Eliot rose to prominence without any great degree of academic ability. He was a mediocre teacher and research worker. He read comparatively few books and had but a meagre knowledge of art and music. Yet his political life, courage, and his devotion to ideals, when viewed after his death, greatly overshadowed his limitations. We all have limitations and defects and we must allow for this fact in passing judgment on others. The late James Plaisant Webber is another example of a person with both good traits and limitations.

Strengthen Strong Points

We all have individual gifts and limitations. Perhaps everyone in college has something that he can do better than anyone else. We should cultivate our strong points making them stronger. Where possible we should try to remedy our shortcomings, always remembering that our way to success lies with our strong and not our weak points.

HISTORY RECORDS SOLEMN RITES AT BURIAL OF "ANNA"

The passing student may often have cast a glance of wonder on a college landmark, now resting beside Massachusetts Hall. This object, unusual, to say the least, is a small grave-stone of common gray granite bearing the simple but impressive inscription "Anna 77". Few indeed know the pathetic story which is the background of this marker.

Memories are short, but history records the origin and nature of this sad affair. The monument was consecrated on the night of June 29, 1875, when the class of '77 wept over the passing from this earthly sphere of its dearest and most beloved friend—Anna Lytice, a person of outstanding mathematical trend of mind.

The Orient as usual was most ably represented at this ritual and the issue of July 14, 1875 describes with the greatest sympathy these last pitiful rites in the following terms:

"On Tuesday night, June 23, the class of '77 assembled for the performance of the last solemn rites and ceremonies in honor of their deceased friend, Anna Lytice."

"The terrible anxiety which they had felt for their welfare during her last illness of two long weeks, was now at an end, and the reaction that followed was peculiar in its nature and effect."

"At half past nine the procession was formed and took up its solemn march to the Old Oak, followed by crowds of awe-struck Freshmen and Yawags."

"The literary exercises consisted of an eulogy and elegy, which were well suited to the occasion and accompanied by frequent groans and sobs from the assembled mourners. The procession then marched to the funeral pyre, where the 'Lamentation' was delivered and appropriate songs were sung. The pyre was then lighted and the wind, unaided by the yells of her followers, the last remains of Anna were hastily devoured by the flames."

Alas! this ceremony was not the only one of its kind. An affair equally moving was the burial of Calculus in 1859, described thus in the Brunswick Telegraph:

"Ye eulogist and elegist wore diadems of monstrous size round their necks as sharp as the severest reprimand ever received by unlucky student, neglectful of his duties, and the necks of the distinguished speakers were encased in good clean white cotton neckties just 3-4 long and 3-4 wide, purchased by 12 1-2 cents per yard. The mourners wore long white frocks and some of them had their hair piled up in a mountain, with tails of black cambric depending therefrom, as extended as the wreaths which cling to the sides of Sugar Loaf.—The funeral pile was a dotted line. A fire was kindled, the order apply the torch was given and the pyre blazed."

Editor's note: There is a similar stone to the sacred memory of Anna, almost wholly buried in the bank at the south end of Maine Hall.

Peary Lecture

(Continued from page 1)

of New York, and directed by George Peary, was the first of a series of lectures given by Peary, publisher of New York, and backer of Amelia Earhart in several of her trips. The second was under the direction of Mr. Palmer, entirely in the North. The first lecture was on the Arctic, animal, mineral, and vegetable, so to speak. The second was to map the west coast of Baffin Land, then shown on the map as a dotted line. It was found after this dotted line was as far as 150 miles. Many things could not be taken with the camera, for instance the ships, especially one in particular which drifted on ice one-half mile from shore. With only a pipe and a 38 revolver, they had to kill a 600 pound polar bear.

The Eskimos are an interesting people. Their origin is unknown, but many theories are proffered. A doctor on the trip was trying to determine by blood grouping. It is a known medical fact that full-blooded racial species group in certain ways. The results seemed to show that the Eskimos are of Asiatic origin. Another way of finding out the origin is through folklore. All the folklore is handed down by word of mouth, being no record on paper or picture language. All tribes but one have in their tales a story about crossing a large body of water. This one exception is a tribe in Alaska and it is separated by water from all the other tribes. This seems to point out that all the other tribes originated from the one tribe near Alaska.

The Eskimos are a remarkable people considering the materials they have to work with and the handicaps under which they work. In the north fully six months are totally dark. In the summer there are flowers but no trees. The kind of work they are a sort of willow that creeps along the ground, sometimes attaining six feet in length but never more than a few inches in height, and never achieving but enough for food. Their fuel is blubber, their clothes are animal skins, their food, flesh. Up to the time "Dad" went up, they were living in the stone age. One tribe had flakes of stone. A few tribes had in their territory and by pounding at it with rocks until the rock crumbled, and then picking up another, they would chip off a flake of steel which they would use in one hand. For harpoons, the kayak, and the like, bone is needed. The Eskimo woman with a bone needle, sinew of hide, and skin, can make a waterproof seam.

In the summer the Eskimos use skin tepees, but in the winter they burrow under. They will excavate a hill, line it with rocks, and cover it with more rocks and turf. This will leave a chamber about eight by twelve by four feet. The entrance is a tunnel, depressed about a foot below the

Christmas Holidays

For the house parties and the holiday season . . . Dinner Coats or Tails . . . styled distinctly and definitely in the young man's manner.

TUXEDOS from$40.00
FULL DRESS SUITS from $60.00

HARMON'S

house. They have learned that cold air falls. At the back of the house is a raised platform, about six and one-half feet long, and the width of the house. For light and heating purposes they use the blubber lamp. A soapstone is shaped to resemble a pan. Moss is put over the bottom and fat behind this. Fat is drawn into the moss which is lighted and the heat in turn draws more fat from the blubber. The woman spreads the moss around so as to make a large fire, or when she wants to put it away, she puts all out except about a half an inch which is left burning separate from the rest of the wick.

Igloos are plenty warm. There is no ventilation and the heat of the bodies and the blubber lamp keeps the room warm. In spite of the lack of air the Eskimo seems to be a healthy being. There is, however, an "atmosphere" about him which one of the shipmates was pleased to call the "Aroma Borealis".

After his talk, Mr. Peary presented his pictures. There is not room to describe them here, but they left us impressed with the demands of life in the North upon the stern and hardy side of a man, physically and mentally. There were pictures of capturing polar bears, of hunting in a kayak, of being buried in ice, of a heavy storm during which the waves broke over the ship, while Peary was lashed to the wheel to prevent himself from being washed overboard.

The talk proper being finished, a few questions were asked about the trip, and the lecture ended.

HOOR EXAM SCHEDULE

Thursday, Dec. 11
Music 1—8.30
Friday, Dec. 12
History VII (English History)
Monday, Dec. 15
Math 11
Tuesday, Dec. 16
Psychology 1
English 1
Thursday, Dec. 18
Gov. 1—1.30
Economics 3
Saturday, Dec. 20
English 1
Monday, Dec. 22
Math 1
Tuesday, Dec. 23
Physics 7

Student Quill Review

(Continued from Page 2)

and a credit to their colleges. Without teaching as a means of support they would be unable to carry on their work. On the other hand there is the teacher whose enthusiasm is of great value in conferring on the part of his classes interest in their work, and whose idea of scholarly research is very impressionistic. We cannot afford to lose one or the other. Do you recognize "the man with the lawnmower"?

Turning to Mr. Freiday's essay I find A. E. Housman no different from when I left him last June. The encyclopedic nature of the work is a disappointment. I know that Mr. Freiday knows more than he has space about these poems. If Mr. Wilfred Bradt had followed Mr. Freiday's suggestion on how to worm information from Mr. Housman, I am afraid that Mr. Bradt would still be nursing a somewhat intellectual though tender bottom. To the last sentence of the essay, I object most strenuously. "Perhaps no poet in the world has ever more beautifully resigned his part." This is certainly unfair to the majority of poets who, when ceasing to write poetry were naturally more sentimental. They, unlike Mr. Housman, have no other work within which they might bury themselves.

Mr. Davis' poem is the finest of the undergraduate material in this issue. Although the signs of genius are very evident, there is at least masculinity and vigour in his imagery. The poem is striving too consciously for its lurid effect and does fail because it lacks metrical variation. One is inclined to chant the poem after the first page. There's a gleam on the Westward for Mr. Davis, though he and Mr. Masfield suffer from the same malady.

The next two articles—well, both writers are still sophomores. A diary, it seems to me, in the hands of those unable to sketch character in a few lines and whose experiences have not been too interesting and those who lack a graceful wit, is an instrument of terror. Perhaps they have been waiting to put their summer doings into a form not accepted by high school and preparatory school teachers.

And here is another poem, this time by Mr. Bowman, not very good because the author pulled it all out of shape. Or should I say that he has met the God of Modern Progress, with a finely tempered Greek spirit? I still think that the author wishes us to laugh at the figure of the great stone feet and that the author is in the least terrified by his figure.

Louisa, another effusion by Mr. Bowman, this time in prose, is "bathed" with O'Henryesque irony. In the first page I find the scrambled image of the cat and the mouse. Dangerous stuff! Late afternoon from 42nd to 48th street on 5th avenue has to a great many of us never been "almost described". However, it is a mean type criticism. I now come across, "sank down in the chair". Why not "sank into", if one must use such a phrase? And later on why italicize "chief"? Then I find a Galilean passage on "what constitutes truth?" What do you think about the question, Dear Reader? As a whole, the story has a quality of intimacy which is characteristic of a feminine author. The moral is, unless you are truly whimsical, do not take your reader by the hand and walk with him through a tale of sorrow. This note also applies to the puzzle use of the negative in "notes on contributors".

Now I come to the real cosmopolitan touch which will everlastingly associate the Quill with Scribner's Magazine. Bowdoin has discovered a William Lyon Phelps for its own (Continued on Page 4)

CUMBERLAND

Friday - December 12
VAUDEVILLE
on the screen
TRUTH ABOUT YOUTH
- with -
Loretta Young - Conway Tearle
David Manners
Also PARAMOUNT NEWS
Saturday - December 13
JACK OAKIE
- in -
SEA LEGS
COMEDY SOUND ACT
Mon. and Tues. - Dec. 15 and 16
MAURICE CHEVALIER
- in -
PLAYBOY OF PARIS
NEWS TALKARTOON
Wednesday - December 17
CONSTANCE BENNETT
- in -
SIN TAKES A HOLIDAY
SPOTLIGHT COMEDY
Thursday - December 18th
FOLLOW THE LEADER
- with -
ED WYNN
COMEDY SOUND ACT

S P O R T S

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY
Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity Trade
574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers
SOULE and WALKER
JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD
We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store
Watch Repairing
By An Experienced Watchmaker
Sheaffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"
"The College Jeweler"
Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S
Candy and Ice Cream
74 MAINE STREET

step in where angels fear to tread and establish an open market in Asia which would benefit both the Orientals and ourselves. Mr. Churchill emphasized the fact that we should not interfere against China—but for her. Anglo-Saxon civilization has helped India so why would it not help China?

In speaking of the superiority of Anglo-Saxon civilization, Mr. Churchill remarked that the English are really few educated men—that the masses are ignorant. This left a place open for argument and one, the audience asked, then, Why, if he admitted the Orientals were ignorant, even when India has been controlled by Britain, did he expect to educate the Chinese by going in there now. The answer was that though England did not expect to educate all the people she could give them sanitation, law and order, and protection. Mr. Churchill told that we Anglo-Saxons must get over this inferiority complex which seems to be so shameful at present along with Rudolph, whom Mr. Churchill would like very much to meet.

The appeal of this address was directed to the youth of America and England, the coming generation whose responsibility it is, according to Mr. Churchill, to change the present method of carrying out our international relations. The success or failure of the rising generation, said Mr. Churchill depends on two things: Whether or not we preserve peace and whether or not we preserve democracy. Since the war democracy has produced very few big men, men who are capable of leading their people. Mussolini, Churchill cited as one of these, but deplored the fact that so many democracies had now become dictatorships, thus leaving England and the United States the only true democracies now existing. Later, Mr. Churchill expressed his opinion that it is only a question of time when the English speaking people will be merged for all practical purposes and again urged that cooperation and assistance take the place of suspicion and competition in the dealings of friendly nations.

ANTIQUITY SHOP

Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 243-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegetables, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

20 ENGRAVED
CHRISTMAS CARDS
with name printed - $1.75
STUART & CLEMENT
Town Building

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?

Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —

Send Your Washing to the

CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students

on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER

KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

are at your service. Tel. 3

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the facilities of

THE RECORD PRESS

Let us estimate on your next job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work done in this shop.

Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE WINTER SPORTS TEAM

For the past four years the effort to organize winter sports to the point where Bowdoin can compete on an equal basis with the other colleges in the Intercollegiate Winter Sports Union has been of no avail. Three years ago Bowdoin resigned from that organization because of the lack of interest in the college. The members of the I. W. S. U. have been remarkably courteous to us in view of our lack of support of their cause, having in these past three years never failed to invite our participation in divisional and championship meets, even though we have nothing to offer in return.

Dartmouth, New Hampshire, and Bates have invited us to compete in their respective carnivals each year, but never in the past few years has Bowdoin been able to send a representative team. The Lake Placid Club has, each Christmas, invited a representative team to be their guests during College Week, to perform under the best conditions to be found anywhere in the East. It is to be regretted that only one man has been representing Bowdoin in these contests; a representative squad might garner enough points in one of these meets to start a little interest in maintaining such a team. It was with this in mind that the plea was posted for men who could and would go to Lake Placid this coming vacation.

The conditions, it must be admitted, are very uncertain here in Brunswick, situated as it is so near the water. Especially is this true from the standpoint of a skater, but in this particular instance our greatest need is a speed skater and a figure skater. It would almost seem that in a college with a hockey team of good standing we might recruit two such men who would relish such an opportunity as this. The fact that it will in no way interfere with required athletics should open it to every man. If there is a skater who feels he could qualify for the trip he should communicate immediately with F. M. Appleton (Tel. 692-M or 275) at the Zeta Psi House.

Far from interfering with hockey the trip will afford an opportunity to get in some practice and is looked upon with favor by that department. If there is no response to this plea the team will go as it now stands, with two men in the snowshoe events, and one in the ski events. It is hoped that the team may be more complete.

HOCKEY SCHEDULE 1931

Jan. 7—New Hampshire at Durham
Jan. 10—Colby at Brunswick
Jan. 12—Bates at Lewiston
Jan. 14—Colby at Waterville
Jan. 14—Hebron at Hebron (Freshmen)
Jan. 16—Northeastern at Boston
Jan. 21—Bates at Brunswick
Feb. 6—B. U. at Boston
Feb. 11—Bates at Lewiston
Feb. 14—Colby at Brunswick
Feb. 17—B. U. at Brunswick (Freshmen)
Feb. 19—New Hampshire at Brunswick

Dr. Barker

(Continued from Page 1)
amount of adolescent lawlessness has increased in a steadily mounting curve irrespective of the innovation of Prohibition. This can be accounted for only by a growing laxness of discipline in the home. Disregard of parents at home leads to disregard of law later on.

Sex Relations

"Another very important factor in the right bringing-up of child is acquainting him with the facts of sex relations. For ages, parents have refrained from instructing children as to the fundamental emotions and facts concerning sex, and they had to pick it all up in the streets from questionable sources and with disastrous results. But the child can be told these things without any embarrassment on the part of the parent, and with far more beneficial results. Relate the facts simply, while the boy is still young, and divulge more as he grows older and more fully able to comprehend. Certainly a lot of trouble and regret will be spared the young man thus informed."

Dr. Barker closed his address with an afterword, complimenting his audience on its close attention. But his interesting manner and delivery could not have made it otherwise. He spoke feelingly and plainly, holding his audience from start to finish. Dr. Barker has travelled over the entire United States talking to college and high school students and older men. He was for four years personal physician to the late President Taft during his term at the White House.

Houseparties

(Continued from Page 1)
and Mrs. Beebe will serve as patronesses at the dance.

At the Zeta Psi house, Hood's Merry-makers will play. The patronesses have not yet decided upon the Kappa Sigma house will play the services of the Varistonsians. The social committee has not decided who the patronesses will be.

Beta Theta Psi had a ragged Perley and his Club Karnag orchestra. The patrons and patronesses are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. William N. Woodman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford.

Hector Duane's New Yorkers will be heard at the Sigma Nu house. The patrons and patronesses have not as yet been agreed upon.

At the Alpha Tau Omega house, Ralph Bissillon's orchestra will play.

VARSITY SWIMMING TO GET UNDER WAY WITH HARVARD MEET JAN. 9

An encounter with Harvard in Cambridge on January 9th will open Bowdoin's swimming season. This will be followed by a schedule of six meets and the New England, Coast, Bob Miller announced today. Bowdoin's prospects for a winning year aggregation look quite good this year with about thirty men now on the squad. Most of these men have been training faithfully since October 1st and sixteen of them are eating at a special training table.

Coch Miller will miss Captain William Locke, last year's star, but he now has on hand nine veterans, and with these as a nucleus he hopes to build a well rounded swimming team.

The schedule is as follows:
January 9—Harvard at Cambridge
January 10—Wesleyan at Middletown
January 17—M.I.T. at Brunswick
February 14—Springfield at Brunswick
February 21—Williams at Brunswick
February 28—Brown at Brunswick
March 7—Boston University at Boston
March 13 and 14—New England at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

Arrangements are now being included for two contests for the varsity swimmers, one with Heron Academy and one with Phillips Exeter.

Sportsman's Pen

As usual the hockey men are marking time until the rink is set up and weather conditions chance to be favorable. Not that the House ball is exactly marking time but it doesn't go far for making for coordination and speed on the frozen surface.

Coch Houser's big problem this year is his defense. Thayer and Stone, luminaries on the points last year, will be sorely missed.

Sophomore material is tied up chiefly in Johnny Rosenfeld and Hobey Locke. Rosenfeld is fast, energetic, and a fine forward line and Lowell looked good at defense work. Kimball and Clark may possibly be called on for service.

Someday—ah, yes, someday down along the line into the dim future Bowdoin will get a covered hockey rink and then, (and not until then) the White Bears will turn out powerful conquering clock towers. Years past it has not been lack of material; it has been rather lack of practice.

The omnipresent Dame Rumour has it that now football is fast. Jack Magee is pounding away on his track squad.

Jack has held his annual Varsity and Freshman track meetings which mark the start of the long stretch through the winter indoor competition to spring dual meets and the New England.

Vulgate Class

(Continued from Page 1)
are not included in the New Testament, were the Gospels according to Peter, to the Egyptians, and others by such men as Barnabas, the traveling companion of Paul, and by many others who so well qualified to speak or to write.

In the year 397, however, a council was held at Carthage, to which the whole body of the Church sent representatives. At this council the delegates undertook the task of selecting the books which now make up our New Testament. About the necessity of including twenty books they were not in doubt. But seven more books were considered to have a doubtful content of sufficient inspiration.

Some Books Now Included
The New Testament which we know contains twenty-seven books, twenty of which are identical with the twenty selected by the Council of Carthage. The other seven have been the subject of debate throughout the history of the Church.

In conclusion, Dr. Goodrich said that when one realized how the modern form of the Bible was achieved, he might well take that thought into consideration when modern debates are waged on fundamentalism.

For, in some cases, it was only by the merest fraction that some books were included in the canon, while others were relegated to the list of non-canonical literature, and, with that, to practical oblivion. At the end of his discourse, Dr. Goodrich read several selections from the more extreme non-canonical books, showing quite clearly the difference between the opinion of the personality of Christ held therein, and the impression conveyed by reading the New Testament with which some of us are familiar.

The patrons and patronesses include Professor and Mrs. A. O. Gross, Professor and Mrs. E. S. Hammond and Mrs. Florence Appleton.

GYM TEAM PREPARES FOR EXHIBITION AT FRYEBURG SATURDAY

Squad Then to Start Grooming for Army and Dartmouth Meets

Working hard in preparation for its exhibition at Fryeburg this Saturday night the gym team has been practicing six days a week. Coach Means has reduced his squad to fourteen with further cuts before Saturday pending. The present group consists of Bennett, Bowman (manager), Bradt, Clark, Colton, Dana, Davies, Eaton, Peabody, Short (captain), Smythe, Thomas, Watson and Whittier.

The object of this exhibition is to present variety coupled with brevity and finesse in the performances, hence each event carries more entries than it would in a competitive meet. Coach Means also wishes to get the squad used to performing before an audience.

On the horizontal bars Bowman, Bradt, Eaton, Peabody, Smythe, Watson and Whittier are entered. Three men, Bowman, Dana and Davies, are going to work on the horse, while there are five to exhibit on the parallel bars; namely, Bradt, Colton, Dana, Davies, and Short. Clark, Colton, Eaton and Smythe will perform on the rings and Bennett, Bradt, Clark, Peabody, Short, Thomas, Watson and Whittier on the pommel horse. Everyone will take part in the rope climb.

On the Monday following the Fryeburg exhibition the squad will start grooming for the meet with Army at West Point which is five weeks off and for the meet with Dartmouth here at Brunswick the following week. The team is shaping up very well with Eaton and Peabody showing the greatest improvement during the last two weeks.

Rhodes Scholars

(Continued from page 1)
subjects of the various candidates were Biology, Chemistry, English, Government, History, Law, Mathematics and Zoology.

Scholarships Awarded Under New System

Formerly, Rhodes Scholars were selected by the State Committees in the various states. This system was objected to by many Rhodes scholars as giving an undue advantage to the less populous states. The new system, therefore, the country was divided into larger districts comprising groups of states and the scholarships are now awarded by the District Committees in each division. The scholarships which defray the expenses of a year's study at Oxford with a possibility of renewal are given to the men best qualified by the qualifications set down by the late Cecil Rhodes of England; "force of character and leadership; literary and scholastic ability; physical vigor as shown by participation in outdoor sports and in other ways."

There will be a meeting of the Classical Club at the Theta Delta Chi House tomorrow, Thursday evening, at 7.30.

A. J. Deeks, Sec.

Frosh-Soph Debate

(Continued from Page 1)
Public Library in their research. Last year's debate was won by the Class of 1933 team, so that tomorrow's clash will be their second opportunity to prove their argumentative powers. In view of this a larger attendance than usual is anticipated.

Student Quill Review

(Continued from page 3)
personal use. Sincerely, I beg the Quill in the future, to drop this kind of trash. Such stuff is reserved for old ladies who with their intellectual activities and their recreation prescribed.

There is much in Mr. Steele's article that I cannot judge. But it is to my mind far more interesting to read the New York papers occasionally.

I commend the editors of Transition on realizing that their magazine had become sterile.

Every one, I guess, agrees with Mr. Steele on the question of moving pictures. It is neither wise nor comforting to know that you are the unconscious spokesman and arbiter of collegiate taste.

Allow me to say finally, work of this sort demands no literary quality, but that it does require the mellowing of age and an aversion to using such words as "vital" and "compelling" in criticism.

The future, with an introduction of fresh blood, may produce a Quill seeded with commendable material. A literary magazine and its contributors do not require coddling and kindness. A true literary spirit produces smarting toughness and unless his work lacks any kind of thought, he will not be deemed above a criticism of it.

S. D. P.

CALENDAR

Thursday, Dec. 11
Freshman-Sophomore Debate Interfraternity Swimming Meet
Friday, Dec. 12
Finals of Swimming Meet
Sunday, Dec. 14
President Frank D. Day of Union College, Colby, Preacher.
Tuesday, Dec. 16
Abbe Dimmet

The Bowdoin Club of Portland will observe its annual "BOWDOIN NIGHT" on Tuesday evening, December 30, when preparatory school men from Portland and vicinity will be the guests of the club. All Bowdoin undergraduates are cordially invited to be present at this dinner, when the student body will be represented by John L. Snider '31, undergraduate editor of the Alumnus.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

George T. Sewall '32

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

William N. Small '31
John L. Snider '31
Philip T. Walters '32

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager
Artine Artinian '31
Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumnius) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Thursday, December 18, 1930.

No. 19

Houseparties

Once again it is our privilege to welcome to Bowdoin a throng of houseparty guests, and we do it with the greatest pleasure. To you, our visitors, we wish every happiness in your all too short stay on our campus, and we hope that you may carry away the impression of Christmas houseparty as a brief but joyous break in the monotony of college life.

To the student body, this or any other of our houseparties should offer a few unusual items for consideration. All of us think of it as a time when we relax more or less from our ordinary routine and spend a little while really enjoying life, and most of us will wake up sometime Saturday feeling pretty blue at the realization that it is about all over. This is the self-evident part. But there is something more to a house party — especially a Christmas party — that seems important yet seldom gets much attention. There is a certain spirit of idealism, at least apparently, in our attitude toward the College, toward our fraternities, and last but not least, toward each other. This may be only something assumed along with the inescapable houseparty geniality, or it may be a temporary manifestation of a truer feeling ordinarily hidden by a sort of pseudo-sophistication. At any rate there is, undeniably, a quality of enthusiasm and good-fellowship that often seems sadly lacking in college life. We are more ready to support and to approve the endeavors of others. For once we forget to take the Masque and Gown, the Chapel Choir, the ORIENT, or any one of a number of other things for a "ride". For the time being we cast off fraternity jealousies or animosities and go about from house to house, welcome everywhere. We seem to take an increased measure of pride and idealism with regard to our own fraternities, and we are not too unwilling to show off the College to our guests.

All of which, reader, you will say is a lot of sentimental booh, and wholly an over-statement of the case. Perhaps the picture is a bit overdrawn, but nevertheless, the spirit it portrays is there, in some measure at least. Well, you say, what of it? Precisely this: if we can forget for a couple of days a lot of worthless superficiality or bad feeling, and show even the slightest bit of enthusiasm or generosity toward the College and things of the College, why can we not continue to show it, even without the stimulus of houseparty? Not that we would turn the student body into a bunch of what the sophisticates call "Rotarians"; far be it from our intentions to inculcate in the undergraduates of our staid Alma Mater the high-pressure methods and ideas of the glad-hand boys. But it does seem that we might seize upon this opportunity to start things moving in a different direction. Why not try to strike a little truer balance between our old pseudo-sophistication — for that is really what it is — and our spirit of holiday enthusiasm and cooperation? Thus we could show ourselves more loyal to the College, more friendly toward the work and ideals of others, and immeasurably truer to ourselves.

The "Growler"

Tomorrow night a new venture — the Growler — is to be launched forth into Bowdoin life. We take this opportunity to wish it every success and a longer life than its ill-fated predecessor in the humorous field. If the new magazine is in any considerable measure successful, it will vindicate the board's belief that the College contains sufficient talent to put across such a venture, and it will disprove the dire forecasts of some of the more cautious members of the student body and faculty. Here again we have watched Bowdoin's evil genius at work, trying hard to discourage a new endeavor, this time unsuccessfully, it appears. We hope that this fresh attempt to produce something worth while and original will be able to survive the traditional inertia, and that the enthusiasm shown in connection with the first issue will go on, and even increase, rather than take the customary road down to indifference. Perhaps it will be the Growler's happy mission to help chase out this old Bowdoin jinx and bring in a new and better spirit to the College. May the real interest shown by those connected with the new organization spread! In this way we may come to see more students in campus activities for the sheer fun of it; and we may likewise see some of the dead wood cut out of campus affairs.

Dormitory Wars

Although it seems almost out of place at this particular time to bring the matter up, the attempted revival of the old Appleton-Hyde war the other night certainly deserves a word in passing. Nobody seems to know exactly how it started, but apparently a window was broken and all hands immediately rallied to take revenge on the other End. Participation seems to have been limited to freshmen, so it is to them we address our remarks.

In the first place it struck us as being sort of a "kid trick". Throwing water is one thing, and smashing windows out wholesale is quite another. After all, we are the ones who will ultimately have to pay the bill, so we gain little on that score. Furthermore, it really does little good to retaliate for a broken window by breaking another belonging to someone who is probably asleep and doesn't know anything about it. But above all, why start something we can't finish — something as futile and prolonged as a dormitory war, that produces nothing but factions within the College and an augmented crop of damage assessments?

Rhodes Scholarship

With the appointment of James Parker Petegrove of the Class of 1930 to a Rhodes Scholarship, Bowdoin once again is shown to be capable of producing men who will be recognized as gentlemen and scholars. The Rhodes requirements are not by any means easy to meet, and when a college of Bowdoin's size places a man, as she so often has done in past years, on the roster of Rhodes Scholars, it is a feat worthy of recognition and applause. It is not an easy thing to determine how it happens that Bowdoin manages to hold her own so well in this respect. Competition always has been of the keenest, and under the present new system of choosing the men, we are running against the finest that New England colleges and universities have to offer. Doubtless the character and the ability of the individual in question bear much weight in the consideration, but these alone would avail but little had they not been favorably trained and fostered. The highest type of Bowdoin man seems to carry away with him a certain resourcefulness and independence coupled with a high degree of scholarship and a fairly broad culture that can only be gained in an atmosphere such as we have at Bowdoin, where comparative freedom goes hand in hand with intimate contact with a faculty of scholarly, cultured gentlemen.

G. T. S.

Mustard and Cress

It was ye tattered pan-handler
That stoppeth one of three.
"By thy quaking voice, and tearful eye,
Now what the hell ails thee?"

He held him by his coat collar.
"He can his piece to speak."
"I once was well, and prosperous,
But now I'm poor, and weak."

"I once had money by the peck,
I once had work each day.
But now that Hoover's in the chair
And deep depression's in the air,
And times are hard most everywhere,
I have to bum my way."

"So please be kind to my poor soul,
My lot is hard, and drear,
Wouldst let me have a couple's bits,
To bring me Christmas cheer?"

His list'ner blinked his pale blue eyes.
With sympathy intense:
He thrust his mitt into his coat
And brought forth fifteen cents.

"Look here, my friend," he sadly said.
"This represents my pelf;
I go to College here, you know,
I'm not so well myself."

"But take this change, you're welcome to't."
"I'm glad to help the poor:
I'll get along as best I can.
To suffer's to become a man.
That Charity's a noble plan,
Is God's own word, I'm sure."

The bum he shed a tear, and sighed,
"Ah, boy, be wise. In few,
You need your change much worse than I!"

Here, take this dollar, too.

"I need your fifteen cents, I know,
But pity intervenes:
I went to Bowdoin once myself,
I know just what it means."

Communication

Brunswick, Maine, Dec. 11, 1930.
Philip S. Wilder, Esq.,
Alumni Secretary of Bowdoin College,
Brunswick, Maine.

My dear Mr. Wilder:

Again I wish to express my appreciation as well as that of the Town of Brunswick, for the fine response from the faculty, and the whole student body of Bowdoin College, when the call came from the Town of Freeport, for assistance in locating a small boy that was lost yesterday in the woods nearby the village in that Town.

While the case involved was not in our own Town, and the fact that the call came into this office at two o'clock a.m. and in near zero weather, yet there was no delay nor hesitation in the response, and within forty minutes from the time the call came in about one hundred students had turned out to search the woods in Freeport, a distance of eight miles from this Town.

For about four hours the students scoured the woods with other volunteers, firemen, deputy sheriffs, and state police, and let me say that they were orderly and efficient, and obeyed orders like trained officers.

Again this morning when the call came for more men to start another search for the child, the students responded just as promptly as in the early morning.

It certainly is very pleasing to me as well as the whole town to know that no matter what the call may be we can always depend on the Bowdoin students for assistance. Again I wish to thank the Faculty and the students for this spirit of good fellowship and cooperation.

Yours very truly,

William B. Edwards,
Chief of B. F. D.

EVENING WEAR

The cut and details of your dinner jacket and its accessories are especially important since black and white is obligatory. Absence of color leaves the silhouette and line as chief mediums in producing a smart effect, and the elegance of formal clothes must be brought out by a careful selection of accessories.

These smart accessories will be found here, and for your better being, "Don't wish Walshize"

The House of Walsh

breaking another belonging to someone who is probably asleep and doesn't know anything about it. But above all, why start something we can't finish — something as futile and prolonged as a dormitory war, that produces nothing but factions within the College and an augmented crop of damage assessments?

Christmas House Parties

Are Here Again! Don't forget to bring your guests to the Spa for Breakfast, Lunch, Dinner, or Before or After the Dances. The College Spa will be open during House Parties at all hours.

THE COLLEGE SPA

Dowst-Mairs Wedding Takes Place in Boston

Margaret Elizabeth Mairs and Henry Starr Dowst, Bowdoin '29, were married in Trinity Church, Boston, on Saturday, Dec. 6 at twelve noon.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mairs of Brunswick, is a graduate of Katherine Gibbs School at Boston. Coming to Bowdoin originally as Secretary to the Dean since 1926 she has been Assistant to the Alumni Secretary.

The bridegroom is the son of the late Henry Payson Dowst, well-known writer, and Mrs. Dowst, present director of Camp Cathedral Pines (for girls). Mr. Dowst, who is a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity, entered Bowdoin in 1927 as a transfer from Columbia. While here he was a newspaper correspondent. He is now at Bowdoin as Assistant to the Alumni Secretary and is working on the new general catalogue of the College and on publicity work.

The guests present from Bowdoin were Dean Paul Nixon, Bursar John C. Thalheimer, and Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Wilder.

Other fraternities will follow this lead and make the cafeteria a success. The facilities and the dining service of the Union are open to all members of the college and their guests during the Christmas house parties as well as any other time.

FACULTY NOTES

Prof. Alfred O. Gross, head of the department of biology at Bowdoin, is to give an illustrated lecture at the monthly dinner meeting of Portland Section, Reciprocity Club of America, next Tuesday evening in the Fal-mouth Hotel.

Prof. Gross is to talk on the subject Life in the Jungle, and will accompany his talk with motion pictures. The program will begin with dinner at 6.30 o'clock, followed by the speaking program and closing with an open forum discussion.

The Ideal Hotel for You In BOSTON

Is the NEW
Hotel MANGER
At North Station
Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot and Boston Madison Square Garden
500 ROOMS
Each Room equipped with Tub and Shower • Built-in Radio Speaker (Three Station Service) • Servidor Circulating Ice Water.
New England's Most Modernly Equipped and Perfectly Appointed Hotel
Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.
RATES—ROOM AND BATH
FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00
FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 6.00
No Higher Rates

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

Now they manufacture weather for telephone testing

A test illustrating work in the Bell Telephone Laboratories is made with the weatherometer. This device produces rain and sunshine to order, and determines the weather-resisting properties of telephone equipment.

This test indicates an interesting habit of the men engaged in telephone research. It is to get sure knowledge bearing on efficiency, economy, life and reliability of apparatus.

Information is sought continuously during the development of a design, in advance of manufacture and of course long before the equipment gets into use.

Men who delight in thoroughness of method find that the opportunity is there.

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

ANTIQUITY SHOP

Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 243-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

20 ENGRAVED

CHRISTMAS CARDS
with name printed - $1.75

STUART & CLEMENT

Town Building

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10

Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?

Give it to

BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS AND GROCERIES

Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —

Send Your Washing to the

CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH

AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and

FRATERNITY PAPER

KATWOOD PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the facilities of

THE RECORD PRESS

are at your service. Tel. 3

Let us estimate on your next
job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work
done in this shop.

Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

-SPORTS-

Photo by Webber

Varsity Football Squad 1930
Front row, left to right—Foster, Olson, Captain Souther, Eke, Crimmins. Second row—Morrell, Cramer, Plaisted, Barton, Capt.-elect Ricker, Eastman. Third row—Gatchell, M. Brown, Milliken, Bilodeau, Manager Milner. Fourth row—Assistant Manager Binley, Manager-elect Lampert, D. Brown, Hay, Pollock.

Courtesy of Portland Evening Express

PHYSICAL EDUCATION CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD HERE IN JAN.

(Continued from Page 1)

Physical Education in the nation will be present to address the Conference. Principal among these is Dr. Jesse Feiring Williams of Columbia University, President of the Eastern district of the American Education Association. Dr. Williams is a writer of extraordinary ability and is probably the most outstanding man in the field of Physical Education in the country. Dr. Clifford Brownell, also of Columbia, former director of Health and Physical Education in the state of Ohio will be present and will speak on "State Progress in Health and Physical Education." Miss Marjorie Bouve of the Bouve-Boston School, and Vice-President of the Eastern District of the American Physical Education Association, will address the women's section on the subject, "Athletics for girls in Maine."

Besides these, Mr. Ray Shaw, President of the Maine Sports Writers Association and Sports Editor for the Lewiston Sun; Mr. Bertram E. Packard, Commissioner of Education for the State of Maine; Dr. Clarence F. Kendall, State Commissioner of Health, will address the Conference during the course of the day. Principals Purington of Sanford High, Hunt of Hebron Academy, Perkins of Cony High and Wing of Deering High will lead the discussion groups.

At the beginning of the afternoon session President Sills will give a short address. Later in the afternoon, at the meeting of the men's section Coach Bowser, Professor M. E. Morrell, Professor R. H. Cobb and Dr. Johnson of the college will speak. The complete program follows:

9:00 a.m. Introduction, Professor Rowland H. Cobb

9:05 a.m. Cooperation between Our Schools and the Press, Mr. Ray Shaw, President of Maine Sport Writers Association, Leader, Principal Purington of Sanford High School

9:40 a.m. The State Department of Education in Its Relation to These Projects, Commissioner Bertram E. Packard

10:00 a.m. State Health Projects, Dr. Clarence F. Kendall, Commissioner of Health

10:20 a.m. Discussion, Leader, Principal Purington of Sanford High School

10:35 a.m. State Progress in Health and Physical Education, Dr. Clifford L. Brownell, Columbia University

11:00 a.m. Discussion, Leader, Principal Perkins, Cony High School

11:20 a.m. Open for meetings of any organizations and for conferences.

12:00 Luncheon, All in attendance are guests of the College of Dr. Jesse Feiring Williams, Columbia University

1:30 p.m. Address, President K. C. M. Sills, Bowdoin College

1:40 p.m. School Athletics and their place in Physical Education, Dr. Jesse Feiring Williams, Columbia University

2:10 p.m. Discussion, Leader, Principal Wing, Deering High School

2:30 p.m. Section Meeting

WOMEN'S SECTION
Professor Wamsley, Chairman

2:40 p.m. Professional Training, Dr. Williams

3:00 p.m. Discussion

3:15 p.m. Athletics for Girls in Maine, Miss Marjorie Bouve

3:45 p.m. Discussion

4:00 p.m. Women's Division N.A.A.F., Professor Wamsley

4:15 p.m. Discussion

4:25 p.m. Women's Division of a State Athletic Association, Dr. Brownell

THETA DELTS CAPTURE FRATERNITY SWIM BY ECLIPSING SIGMA NUS

(Continued from Page 1)

a natator, winning the 200-yard swim and the 150-yard backstroke. He was also the final man for his team in the 200-yard relay, in which T.D. finished second. James, Deke, showed fair style on the springboard, taking first in the diving, and Densmore, a D.U., broke through to a victory in the 200-yard breaststroke.

Coch Miller was very pronounced in his praise of the contestants, and stated that all of the entrants were in excellent form. He believes that, from the results of Friday night, there is every reason to expect a well-balanced, winning group of swimmers to represent the college in the approaching season.

Following are the events as they were run off, and the final winners of each:

300-Yard Medley Relay—1st, Esson, Beta; 2nd, Trott, Sigma Nu; 3rd, Morris, D.U.; 4th, Roper, T.D. Time, 4:04 4-5.

50-Yard Dash—1st, Bowman, Non-Frat; 2nd, Smith, Sigma Nu, and Calkins (tie); 3rd, Atwood, T.D. Time, 26 2-5.

200-Yard Swim—1st, Foster, T.D.; 2nd, Howard, Chi Psi; 3rd, Trott, Sigma Nu; 4th, Roper, T.D. Time, 2:25 4-5.

300-Yard Medley Swim—1st, Bowman, Non-Frat; 2nd, Sperry, T. D.; 3rd, Durham, Kappa Sig. Time, 4:32 1-5.

Diving—1st, James, Deke; 2nd, Carpenter, Beta; 3rd, Carson, Sigma Nu; 4th, Becknult, Sigma Nu.

150-Yard Backstroke—1st, Foster, T.D.; 2nd, Easton, Beta; 3rd, Eaton, Chi Psi; 4th, Dudley, T.D. Time 1:56.

100-Yard Swim—1st, Smith, Sigma Nu; 2nd, Bowman, Non-Frat; 3rd, Howard, Chi Psi; 4th, Esson, Beta. Time, 59 3-5.

200-Yard Breaststroke—1st, Densmore, D.U.; 2nd, Sperry, T. D.; 3rd, Carpenter, Beta; 4th, Durham, Kappa Sig. Time, 2:55.

200-Yard Relay—1st, Smith, Sigma Nu; 2nd, Foster, T.D.; 3rd, Esson, Beta. Time, 1:54.

Training for the hockey team is a very systematic process, and candidates get work in three phases of the game daily. Forty-five minutes regularly each day is spent in contact work and shooting practice on the Delta, followed by a half-hour of stick-handling and checking practice in the gym. The team has everything now but ice.

4:45 p.m. Discussion

5:06 p.m. Special Conferences

MEN'S SECTION

Professor Morrell, Chairman

2:40 p.m. A State Athletic Association, Dr. Brownell

3:00 p.m. Discussion

3:35 p.m. Football, Mr. Charles Bowser, Bowdoin

3:55 p.m. N.I.A.A. Report on Athletics, Prof. M. E. Morrell, Bowdoin

4:15 p.m. Physical Director's Report, Prof. R. H. Cobb, Bowdoin

4:30 p.m. Professional Training, Dr. Williams

4:50 p.m. Discussion

5:06 p.m. Special Conferences

The Maine Public Health Association, through Secretary Mrs. Frank McGouldrick, has kindly consented to assist with a Health Education exhibit. The Association will hold a meeting in conjunction with the Conference.

STUDENT COUNCIL
ADOPTS NEW PLAN
FOR CLEARING RINK

Freshmen Divided Into Four Groups of Three to Make Quick Job of Removing Snow

At the suggestion of the hockey authorities a resolution was passed by the Student Council and approved by the presidents of the fraternity houses to the effect that the Freshman delegation of each house will help to shovel and clear the rink at the request of the manager.

This isn't nearly so bad as it at first sounds. For in the first place the fraternities have been divided into four groups of three houses each including the non-fraternity body. With thirty men working on the rink the ice will be cleared before the frailest trojan raises a sweat. In the second place, the rink probably will not have to be cleared more than eight or twelve times, since the season is so short.

This would mean only two obligations by each group and each house, or at the most not more than three.

If the sense of loyalty in Bowdoin undergraduates can be measured by their active support of college teams, we don't doubt for a second that the houses and the Freshman delegations will be more than willing to meet the modest request of the hockey team.

The fraternities have been grouped as follows:

1—Delta Upsilon, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Kappa Sigma

2—Sigma Nu, Theta Delta Chi, Non-Fraternity

3—Beta Theta Pi, Chi Psi, Alpha Delta Phi

4—Psi Upsilon, Alpha Tau Omega, Zeta Psi

FRESHMEN DEFEAT

SOPHOMORE TEAM

IN ANNUAL DEBATE

(Continued from Page 1)

Deane, Charles F. Kahill and Frederick W. Burton with Carl G. Olson as an alternate. The sophomore team consisted of Norman von Rosenzweig, George P. Towle, Jr., and Albert S. Davis, Jr. Mr. Ralph De Somer's Childs, Mr. Jacques R. Hammond and Mr. Newton P. Stallknecht of the faculty served as judges. Donald F. Prince of the Debating Council presided.

In the opinion of the spectators, the debate was the best of this annual series of struggles in years. Several of the freshman debaters showed exceptional promise. The struggle between science and religion is of vital importance to every thinking person and the particular phase of the question was fittingly called by one of the debaters a "most important question" in the educational policies of colleges and universities.

In upholding the affirmative, the freshman team endeavored to show that science is emphasized in the curriculum of modern colleges, that science as taught in colleges conflicts with a student's religious belief, and that, hence, science as taught in colleges is a menace to a student's religious belief. To prove the statement that science is emphasized in modern colleges, the freshmen taking Bowdoin as a typical college cited the Huxley lecture, the coming Institute of Natural Sciences, the graduation requirement in science and the fact that twelve out of the twenty-four courses taught at Bowdoin are sciences.

CHARLES ALLEN LEADS FROSH TRACK MEET AS ORIENT GOES TO PRESS

Piles Up Thirty-two Points to Lead Braley Gray
by Five

The freshman track meet is still uncertain as the Orient goes to press. Charles Allen has thus far led the pack with the remarkable total of thirty-two points, including four first places. Right at Allen's heels, however, with two or three events yet to be run off, is Braley Gray with twenty-seven points and a very even chance of deposing Allen in the last day of competition. These two have easily dominated the meet by their sheer versatility, their nearest rival for point-scoring honors being Ned Appleton at fifteen. But the meet certainly has not been monopolized by one athlete or group, for no less than twenty-six men have scored in the nine events run off to date.

The scoring so far is as follows: C. W. Allen, 32; B. Gray 27; E. F. Appleton, 15; F. W. Burton, 14; G. C. Pope, 13; T. A. Larson, 12; D. E. Reid, 10; N. T. Skillings, 9; P. S. Ambler, L. Odde, 9; B. G. Robbins, C. F. Kahill, 6; J. G. Woodruff, 6; R. B. Wait, 5; J. G. Fay, 4; M. S. Walker, A. T. Koempel, 3; E. G. Ingalls, J. D. Brookes, G. C. Bartter, 2; and C. G. Olson, F. H. Fiske, J. B. Perkins, Jr., W. D. Rounds, H. N. Tibbets with one point each.

Charles Allen won the 300 yd. dash, followed by Gray, Skillings, Reid, Brookes, and Perkins in the order named. The time was very good. Fred Burton had no trouble winning the 11 mile run, and the result was a slow fast finish. Ambler, Woodruff, Koempel, Bartter, Tibbets were the other scorers.

Thurman Larson took the shot put with a beautiful heave, winning over Wait, Fay, Reid, Ingalls, and Rounds in that order. The high jump went to Lawson Odde. Gray took second, Kahill and Larson tied for third, and Allen, Pope, and Olson divided the remaining points by a triple tie.

Charles Allen won the broad jump, trailed by Pope, Appleton, Reid, Larson, Robbins, and Skillings. The last two named tied for sixth. Allen ate up the 45 yd. hurdles next. Appleton, Gray, Kahill, Burton, and Robbins cleaned up the other places.

The 30 yd. dash was run in good time in the order of Allen, Skillings, Gray, Walker, Appleton, and Reid. The 1000 yd. run went to Braley Gray who nipped Fred Burton at the tape in a fast finish. Ambler, Woodruff, Koempel, Bartter, Tibbets were the other scorers.

Gardner Pope soared to a new freshman mark in the pole vault, and the other men in the event were Robbins, Appleton, Gray, and Odde. On the whole it was a very successful meet, and a good test of the freshman material.

Horseback riding has at last been recognized as a compulsory athletic requirement, and thirty-three men are now enjoying the sport. Polo will be started in the spring, with the remote possibility of a varsity team in a year or so. The thought is not an idle dream, for Mr. Bartlett, the riding instructor, was a member of the U. S. Army team the year they were national champions.

Always Noticed
But Never Notice-ble

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative

PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity Trade

574 Congress Street

Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers

SOULE and WALKER

JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD

We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store

Watch Repairing

By An Experienced Watchmaker

Shaeffer Pens for College Men

103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"

The College Jeweler

Diamonds and Watches

Fine Repairing and Engraving

141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S

Candy and Ice Cream

74 MAINE STREET

DUKE UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

DURHAM, N. C.

On October 1, 1931, carefully selected first and third year students will be admitted. Applications may be sent at any time and will be considered in the order of receipt. Catalogues and application forms may be obtained from the Dean.

TWENTY-FIVE MEN

OUT FOR FENCING

Captain Macdonald Has Promising

Squad of Recruits in Addition to Veterans

This year there are about 25 men out for fencing. Of course the team is not chosen, because it is still very early in the season. As yet there has been no individual competition for a berth. Since the number of men out for fencing is larger than that of several preceding years, with more material to pick from, the team should be relatively better. Captain Norwood K. Macdonald is assisted in his duties of starting off the new recruits by Harry Timson '32, Fred Miller and Douglas Anello '33. There are about six out of the 24 men for whom this is not the first year.

Several good prospects came into the limelight during the recent freshman track meet. Braley Gray and Charles Allen fought a great battle for top scoring honors right up until the last day of competition. The high-class pole-vaulter of Gardner Pope was another feature.

The hockey team must work fast and hard to get into shape before the New Hampshire clash. The game is dated for the day after classes recommence after the holidays, which means that the skaters will probably return a day or so early for team practice.

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE AT BOWDOIN

Physical Education Subject at Meetings Here Last Saturday

OVER 100 DELEGATES

Many Problems of Modern Physical Training Discussed by Conferees

On Saturday, January 10, the third annual conference of Physical Education Teachers, Health Officers and Nurses was held in Memorial Hall. Beginning at nine o'clock several noted speakers gave their views on Physical Education. Prof. Roland Cobb was in the chair and expressed the feeling that he was glad the college was realizing its obligation to the community as a free-of-tax institution. This was the third conference of this nature held here at Bowdoin, and Mr. Cobb pointed out the many ways in which it had grown. The various and sundry exhibits found upon the walls and elsewhere were explained as having been placed there by the Maine Health Association. These exhibits dealt mainly with the physical education problems by which so many schools are now faced.

Then Prof. Cobb went on to introduce Miss Marjorie Bouve whose subject was "Athletics for Girls in Maine". It seems that there is no state organization for physical education. As a result, the school physical training schedule suffers. She explained how one could use an apparently small place to develop many sports. Inactivity, not great deal of money, is what is primarily needed.

In beginning a program for a new year the part dealing with athletics should be organized first and the rest afterwards. In order to attain the physical education one must have strong leadership and allow other things such as rhythmic work to enter in with it. The goal of a community, according to Miss Bouve, should be an entire group of well trained youth, rather than several Olympic stars. She went on to show how physical education should yield a life of service to the community. Beginning at the bottom and progressing slowly is better; research must be carried on.

A short interval was taken up by informal discussion from the floor of what had been said. Prof. Cobb then introduced Mr. Bertram E. Packard, Commissioner of Education, as the next speaker. Mr. Packard said that

G. L. LAM ADDRESSES GARDINER ROTARY ON WORLD CONDITIONS

Discusses Causes and Effects of War, and Means for Its Prevention

At a session of the Gardiner Rotary Club last Wednesday, George L. Lam, a Hungarian student studying at Bowdoin, gave an interesting talk on the various phases of war and possible means of preventing international disorders. Introduced by President David F. Kelley, Mr. Lam held his audience by a description of conditions that affected not only himself but each of his listeners.

"War is a very bad business," he stated simply. "The nations are the customers who take their goods on credit and in redoubting amounts during the crisis, but who cannot repay their creditors, the people, when the money is most needed by them for economic restoration. As an illustration, I might mention my father's estate which, before the war, was worth approximately $9,800 in American money. It now has a value of around $0.70. Dependent on this, surely I cannot be expected to spend money to help commerce for the livelihood of thousands of others. And my government cannot pay my claims in any way that will benefit me personally. I am hindered in my future plan for life. Naturally I revolt from the idea of war and its effects."

The New Economic Cycle
"What about the present economic conditions in Europe and America? All of Europe has lost a great deal of wealth in this last business cycle, the results will last through several generations. America, possessing about two-thirds of the world's wealth, has been able to keep in Europe for its otherwise flourishing business."

"Higher standards of living and better education would tend to lessen the influences for war. Teaching the people to enjoy a wide life and to give themselves have done, and the maintenance of a balance of wages whereby the lowest yearly income would be $2,000, are other possible steps against war. A desire for the use of less luxuries of life should be subordinated and the money thus saved put into something that would give employment to other people. Give high wages to the workers and they in turn will spend more money."

"Your excellent sporting system is a fine institution for taking the lust for war out of your sons, as they may live out their instinct to fight in their football and hockey games."

Internationalism Desirable
"Great artists of this century have always been thought of as international, belonging to the world at large. Paderewski, Rachmaninoff, or

The members of the Sophomore class, voting in fraternity groups recently approved a $5.00 tax upon each member. This tax entitles the payer to tickets for the Soph Hop Formal at no further cost. It is urged that all Sophomores cooperate with the committee in charge by paying this fee as soon as possible.

HOOR EXAMS

Jan. 14 Zoology 1
Jan. 16 Chemistry 7
Jan. 19 French 7
Jan. 20 Latin 1
Jan. 22 Physics 7
 English 11

REV. R. B. BRAGG TALKS ON MODERN RELIGION

Points to Three Great Problems Facing Present World

"What Shall We Expect from Religion?" was the subject of a succinct but forceful and challenging talk at last Sunday's chapel service, delivered by the Reverend Raymond Bennett Bragg of Chicago, Secretary of the Western Council of Unitarian Churches. The speaker, a young man, with an interesting manner of speaking and keenly alive to the problems of modern life, discussed the practical side of religion and pointed out that religion must solve the problems of today.

The most difficult problem with which religionists are confronted, today, is "What is Religion?" Many opinions have been expressed but the diversity of these only reveals that each has been colored by the prejudices of its author. Religion, apart from its Gods and saviours seems to be man's effort to lead a satisfying life and to create a satisfying world for men to live in.

There are three situations that modern religion has to face in helping man to lead a satisfying life. Religion today must aid in the reconstruction of the social order building up an order in which spiritual values will predominate. War and Poverty

IBSEN'S GHOSTS TO BE SOPH HOP PLAY

Masque and Gown Considers Putting on Production in Memorial Hall

The second play of the year to be given by the Masque and Gown has been chosen by the committee and sanctioned by Professor Gray: it is to be Henrik Ibsen's well known drama, "Ghosts". It may be interesting to note that, although Professor Gray teaches this play, he did not inaugurate the choice of it, but left the initiative to the society's committee.

The troupe for "Ghosts", which is to be given at Soph Hop time, were held last evening in the loft of Memorial Hall. One remarkable feature of the production is that it has only one setting—that, an interior. Because of this, the result is more current to try as an experiment the production of "Ghosts" in the renovated auditorium of Memorial Hall instead of the Cumberland Theatre.

Remarkable also, and advantageous because of approaching mid-year exams is the fact that there are only five characters in the play. These five places were filled by the troupe held last night, the result of which was unavailable in time for publication.

GRAY INAUGURATES SATURDAY READINGS

Last Saturday evening a new feature on the Moulton Union program was inaugurated when Professor C. H. Gray of the English department read to a fair-sized audience of undergraduates. The selections chosen for this first program were Joseph M. Marsh's "The Setup", and "A Tragedian in Spite of Himself" by Anton Chekhov. It is planned to carry out a series of these readings at the Union each Saturday night. This week Professor Gray has chosen a part of Cumming's "The Enormous Room" and some one of Shaw's one act plays.

BRUNEAU SPEAKS ON AMERICA AT NANCY

Professor Bruneau, who has just returned to France after a year at Bowdoin College, told an audience at the University of Nancy on January sixth that America has succeeded in making the human species a more living and by true sentiments of democracy. He said America had a general kindness and friendliness which might at first appear slightly naive, but which was really genuine.

Professor Bruneau concluded his talk by saying greater understanding between Frenchmen and Americans would be the best possible guarantee for human advancement and for peace.

VISITING PROFESSOR FINDS MUCH GOOD IN AMERICAN COLLEGES

Youthful Spirit and Air of Friendship Inspires
Bompiani

An indomitable spirit of youth and an real feeling of kindness and friendship were Professor Enrico Bompiani's chief impressions of America and Bowdoin College as expressed during an interview with a member of the Orient staff. He made several rather poignant comments, revealing ideas on the college, the American educational system, and international connections.

Professor Bompiani expressed the wish to mention first the real friendship which had been accorded him while in Brunswick, a kindness which had made him feel more at home there than in any other part of the country. He liked the subtle influence of old traditions found in the college, the rather aristocratic sense, and particularly the humanistic traditions which descend from such men as Longfellow. The Professor considered that these literary connections of the college were the greatest link between Bowdoin and himself.

Approves Small College
Fundamentally the idea of the small college agreed with his ideals of education. He thought that the small college, in a small town, was far superior to the large university, even though he represented that type of large school.

When asked whether he noticed any difference in the students here and in Italy, Professor Bompiani remarked that any differences might be caused by the dissimilarity in the two systems of education. In Italy the secondary schools, which are here called high schools, are parts of the university and must be passed before any university work can be done. In these secondary schools each student must take a prescribed amount of general background work; therefore when he gets to the university proper, he is prepared to begin to specialize immediately. The Professor suggested that if the college in the United States

MUCH OF INTEREST IN CURRENT ALUMNUS

Editorial on The Future of the Small College Attracts Attention

Today the January issue of The Bowdoin Alumnus made its appearance bearing the silhouette of the Hon. James Bowdoin. The alumni have chosen this issue as the first in this, the second issue of the year. On the editorial page Leland M. Goodrich '20 has written an editorial entitled "The Future of the Small College." The future of the small college, which presents a very interesting aspect of the controversy over the position of the small college in American education.

A most interesting article on the work of Visiting Professor Enrico Bompiani of University of Rome who is here under the Tallman Foundation. Other articles in this latest Alumnus are those on Rev. Ebenezer Dean, Bowdoin's oldest graduate, James Parker Pettigrove, the second Rhodes scholar to come from Bowdoin in the last two years, and a story on the lecture delivered by Randolph Churchill, are the other articles written by alumni.

A remarkable article on the work of Visiting Professor Enrico Bompiani of University of Rome who is here under the Tallman Foundation. Other articles in this latest Alumnus are those on Rev. Ebenezer Dean, Bowdoin's oldest graduate, James Parker Pettigrove, the second Rhodes scholar to come from Bowdoin in the last two years, and a story on the lecture delivered by Randolph Churchill, are the other articles written by alumni.

MUSICAL CLUBS CUT TO FINAL NUMBERS

The cuts having been made, both the Glee Club and the Instrumental Club are now down to their final numbers. The Glee Club is about thirty-three in the Glee Club and twenty in the Instrumental Club. Intensive rehearsals are being held both clubs into shape for the approaching concert season. The Glee Club will take part in the Intercollegiate Contest at Yale on Friday, February 27; then the Instrumental Club will give a combined concert there the following evening.

The complete list of members follows:
Instrumental Club
S. D. Abramowitz '34, H. F. Claves '32, J. Creighton, Jr. '33, H. Everett '34, E. L. Fay, Jr. '33, R. L. Goldsmith '34, O. E. Hanson '33, F. W. Harlow '32, Kendall, G. L. Lam '31, A. P. Lunt '32, W. D. Munro '32, G. P. Parker '33, Y. P. Philbrick '34, R. N. Sanger '32, G. T. Sewall '32.

CRIMMINS DELEGATE TO CONFERENCE OF COLLEGIATE GROUPS

Problems of Present-Day College Life Discussed at Atlanta

Arthur L. Crimmins, President of the Student Council, was a delegate to the sixth annual Congress of the National Student Federation of America, held December 29-January 2nd, at the Atlanta Biltmore Hotel, Atlanta, Georgia, which was attended by 195 delegates representing colleges and universities throughout the country. Georgia School of Technology acted as host to the boys and Agnes Scott School was the hostess to the girls.

The program included, not only discussion groups on various student problems, plenary sessions and speeches by various educational and political leaders, but also several pleasant social functions, especially arranged for the delegates by the hosts and hostesses.

Opening of the Congress was officially made by Mr. R. M. Murrow, President of the N. S. F. A. He congratulated the delegates for their achievements during the past year and for their interest in national and international affairs. He stressed the purpose of the Congress and the organization. He said that the N. S. F. A. is an idealistic venture and that his faith was a result of a study made by those working with the federation. He said that the keynote of the Congress should be the linking up of emotional enthusiasm and a hard-headed, dynamic drive toward some definite end.

Addresses of welcome in behalf of Georgia Tech and Agnes Scott were made by Dean Floyd Fields, Dean of Men at Georgia Tech, Dr. Brittain, President of Georgia Tech and Dr. McCain, President of Agnes Scott School. At this first meeting also a portrait of great value of David Starr Jordan, painted by Winifred Kieber, was presented to the Congress. In presenting this portrait, Mr. Murrow referred to Mr. Jordan's high ideals and understanding of matters of

BOB CATS WREST HARD CONTEST FROM WHITE

Goals by Richardson and Sloan in Final Period Make Score 3 to 2

The Bowdoin hockey team suffered its third setback of the season at Lewiston, last Monday evening, in a narrow margin of 3-2, to a combination which will no doubt be undisputedly, irrefragably, and inevitably Shinn's "Bulls" of Andover.

Referee Lindquist, who presided over the melee must have prepared for the job in the bull rings of Spain, for anything short of a race riot was perfectly safe during the blue tussle. The game was merely a more fully developed edition of the Colby fray. The meeting between the Mule and the Bobcat is going to be a backwoods struggle—distinctly primeval but hardly hockey.

The game opened auspiciously. Garcelon and Rosenfeld clashed on the face-off, and White center gained the rubber. Starting from the blue, he skated down the ice with Rose and Sloan in combination. On a pass Sloan stickkicked his way through the Garnet defense to take a shot at the net. McKusky, right turned the shot off, and Lord carried back for Bates. With Lord and Garcelon in combination in the middle of the net McKusky, right turned the shot off, and Lord carried back for Bates. With Lord and Garcelon in combination in the middle of the net McKusky, right turned the shot off, and Lord carried back for Bates.

CLASS OF '68 PRIZE SPEAKERS GIVEN OUT

The speakers for the class of 1968 Prize Speaking Contest have been announced by Professor Wilmot B. Mitchell. On Tuesday evening, January 20, at 8 o'clock in Memorial Hall the six speakers will deliver their papers. The following men have been chosen out of the ten provisional speakers: Parker Bowman, James Byers Colton, H. John Thomas, Gougeon Lawrence Cooper Jenks, Albert Edward Jenkins, and Robert Morton McFarland. At this writing the titles and the order of the speakers are not ready for publication but will be announced in an early issue of The Orient.

The Class of 1968 Prize is an award of forty-five dollars given annually to the author of the best written and spoken oration in the Senior Class.

VARSITY SCHEDULE

February 14—B.A.A.
March 7—I.C.A.A.A.A.
March 13—Interfraternity Meet
March 14—Intercollegiate Meet

FRESHMAN TRACK SCHEDULE

January 17—South Portland
January 21—Bridgton
February 10—Bridgton
February 19—Hebron
February 28—Deering
March 21—Sophomores

PROFESSOR BOMPIANI LECTURES ON ITALY

Visiting Professor Analyzes Present Conditions in His Country

A new spirit in economics, government, and policy was the explanation of one of the world's greatest marvels of the present day, the rejuvenated Italy, according to Professor Enrico Bompiani of the University of Rome in a lecture given last Wednesday. Declaring that recent propaganda published in criticism of the Italian nation is not "a contribution to goodwill and to international understanding which is what we human fellows most particularly need," the lecturer offered proof contrary to many of the rumors forwarded by the press.

The professor said, "My goal is, by the exposition of some facts, to sharpen your interest toward Italy, to make you careful in accepting statements regarding Italy and in drawing conclusions from them." He then continued to produce a complete series of facts in a lecture which did much to give the hearers a rather different idea of his nation. He proceeded in substance as follows:

Resume of Lecture
As impossible as a short explanation of the Einstein theory is the task of removing all prejudice in regard to Italy from your minds in the limited period of an hour. It is almost incredible to try to show the complete picture of present-day Italy in a short hour so as to bring about the desired spirit of goodwill between the Italian nation and the United States.

CAPT. C. W. R. KNIGHT GIVES ILLUSTRATED TALK HERE TONIGHT

Naturalist to Speak on Sea Hawks at Second Appearance at
Bowdoin

Tonight at 8 o'clock Captain Charles W. R. Knight will deliver a lecture, "Sea Hawks," illustrated with moving pictures, at the Pastime Theatre.

In this second lecture at Bowdoin Captain Knight will describe the life and habits of the Sea Hawks, or the Osprey, which were exterminated in Great Britain about twenty years ago. At that time the eggs of the only surviving Osprey were stolen by collectors. The scene of the picture moves from the British Isles to Gardiner's Island, off Long Island, where a famous bird sanctuary, now harboring the largest osprey colony in existence, is shown. Approximately four hundred pairs of these birds are kept safe on this island. Shown in the picture are scenes on Gardiner's Island of os-

LIEUT.-COL. SHUMWAY BOWDOIN '17, NAMED TO GOVERNOR'S STAFF

Governor Gardiner recently appointed Lieutenant-Colonel Sherman N. Shumway, a graduate of Bowdoin in the class of 1917, to succeed retiring Colonel James W. Eastman of Fryeburg as a member of his staff, which otherwise remains unchanged.

Colonel Shumway, a brilliant athlete, was in the United States during the World War with Company E of the Second Maine Infantry (later the One Hundred and Third Infantry), and was promoted from second lieutenant successively to lieutenant-colonel. He was with the Hundred and Third (YP) throughout the war, making a distinguished record. At present he practices law in Bangor.

H. C. KNIGHT, CLASS OF 1898, HONORED

Elected President of New England Council, All-New England Development Corp.

Mr. Harry C. Knight, Bowdoin '98, was recently elected president of the New England Council, all-New England development corporation, at its annual meeting at Hartford, Conn.

Mr. Knight, a successful and prominent business man, is president of the Southern New England Telephone Company and director of several other telephone companies in New England. He is a director of the Union and New Haven Trust Co., the Security Trust Co., New Haven Hospital and the New Haven Community Chest; trustee of the New Haven Savings Bank and the Hopkins Grammar School, besides being a member of the New Haven City Planning Commission.

Mr. Knight is a member of Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity.

INSTITUTE OF SCIENCES SCHEDULED

Program Arranged for the Fortnight After Spring Vacation

THE FIFTH INSTITUTE

Many Prominent Figures of Scientific World to Appear in Lecture Series

Plans for the coming Institute of Natural Sciences have been completed by a faculty committee headed by Professor Manton Copeland. Some of the most prominent figures in natural science today have arranged to give lectures here at some time during the first two weeks after the Easter vacation. This Institute will be the fifth in a series begun in 1923, when the subject chosen was "Modern History", continued at intervals of two years with "Modern Literature", "Art", and "The Social Sciences". The Institutes have sought to give the student body, the community, and the friends of the college an opportunity to hear something of the problems which claim the attention of the leaders in the several fields of activity represented. The specific fields of natural science to be represented in the coming Institute are: Astronomy, Biology, Chemistry, Geography, Geology, Medicine, Physics and Psychology.

Professor Julian Huxley's lecture on November 5, on the subject of "Development, Heredity and Evolution", can be considered as the first lecture of the present series. The lecture was delivered in the fall as Professor Huxley will not be available as a speaker during the regular Institute period.

Noted Astronomer to Speak
Doctor Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard College Observatory, and probably the most learned astronomer of the East, will speak on Tuesday, April 7, taking as his subject "The Cosmic Panorama." A graduate of the University of Missouri, and a holder of the honorary LL.D. from that institution, he received his Ph.D. at Princeton in 1913, going at once to the Mount Wilson Observatory, in California, where he has remained ever since. He is a member of many scientific societies and was awarded the Draper Medal by the National Academy of Science in 1926, in which year he received the University Medal at Brussels when he was an exchange lecturer to the Universities of Belgium.

Professor Kirtley F. Mather, also of the scientific staff at Harvard, will speak on the "Sons of the Earth: the Geologist's View of History" on Wednesday evening, April 8. A graduate of Denison University, he holds his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, having also been honored by an Sc.D. from his Alma Mater in 1929. He has served as instructor and professor of Geology, Paleontology and Physiography at a number of institutions and since 1925 has been Chairman of the Department of Geology

TRIALS FOR DEBATE TEAM TO BE HELD TOMORROW EVENING

General Topic for Several Debates to be Unemployment
Insurance

Trials for the Bowdoin Debating team, which has before it one of the longest trials for which a Bowdoin team has ever had to prepare, and one which will take the men as far west as Michigan, will be held this coming Thursday, January 15. The subject will be unemployment insurance, which will be the subject of several of the debates.

The trial will start February 9 with a debate with Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., and will finish probably at Tufts February 19. Although the annual debate will be held at Tufts this year, the date has not been actually decided upon but will probably be at the end of the trip as stated. The trip will include debates with Union College at Schenectady, N. Y., the subject being uncertain; Buffalo University at Buffalo, N. Y., the subject being, "Resolved, that the states should enact legislation providing compulsory unemployment insurance to which the employer shall contribute"; Albion College, Albion, Mich., the subject being the same except that the qualifying clause reads "to which the employer shall contribute"; Denison University, Granville, Ohio, subject uncertain; Pittsburgh University at Pittsburgh, Pa., the subject being uncertain; Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., the subject being the same as that with Albion College; and Lafayette University, Easton, Pa., the subject being, "Resolved, that the expansion of the chain stores is detrimental to the interests of the American people."

February 27 Massachusetts Agricultural College will debate here on the unemployment insurance question. The sixth debate, between Tufts and Bowdoin, will be held on March 6 on the same question. The debate with Amherst will be at Brunswick, probably in the latter part of April. Tentative arrangements have been made with Colgate for a debate here probably in the third week of March.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

George T. Sewall '32

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

William N. Small '31
John L. Snider '31
Philip T. Walters '32

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager
Artine Artinian '31
Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, January 14, 1931.

No. 20

Master of Arts, Bowdoin

Someone recently made the statement that no institution of learning should be called a College unless it gave the Master of Arts degree, and added that those who merely granted the Bachelor degree should be relegated to the Junior College class. In support of this statement, he advanced the theory that the atmosphere created by the active research of the graduate student provided a spur to the undergraduate — a spur often sorely needed.

We wonder how such a theory would work out here at Bowdoin. The spur, admittedly, would not be wasted altogether. There is little here of that atmosphere of scholastic activity so noticeable in an institution which graduate students attend. Research and individual work are present here, but in a very minor degree. Some initiative is required in the preparation of major theses, and in certain departments, individual work is actively encouraged. One course, Zoology 7-8, is definitely described in the catalog as a research course. But, after all, individual work should be encouraged to a greater extent than this. Perhaps it is rather a big step to advocate the awarding of a Master's degree, and yet we wonder if that is not a step which Bowdoin will be forced to take in the near future if she wishes to maintain her present scholastic reputation. We cannot help but feel that to provide courses for graduate students today would not be a premature move. We believe that there are plenty of students who would take advantage of the opportunities thus afforded. Of course, a large number would not, but the presence of even a few graduate students on campus would undoubtedly heighten interest in things scholastic.

No doubt, with Bowdoin's present equipment, such a step would be quite impossible, but a gradual strengthening of the various departments and increased opportunity and inducement for individual work would be a feasible and, we believe, a very concrete advance in the right direction. Enlarging the faculty, the plant and the curriculum, we feel, would be a very useful and fitting way to employ such funds as might be available.

Have a Chair!

We note with high pleasure that the Library has replaced the barbaric contraptions we formerly sat upon, and on which we tried to study, with chairs that not only add to the beauty of the reading-room but also to the comfort of its patrons. The old chairs received some pretty harsh treatment during their long service and showed it. Most visitors of the sort that notice such things went away with the impression that Bowdoin men have a predilection for hob-nailed boots. We respectfully suggest that the new chairs be accorded the respect which their newness and comfort should command. In other words, be careful with the feet.

On the Ice

Unquestionably Colby had that hockey game just there last Saturday. In fact, it is the honest opinion of most of the spectators, both Bowdoin and Colby men, that the visitors could have won that game even without the referee. However, another fact upon which both Bowdoin and Colby men seem to be in agreement is that the refereeing left much to be desired. If we remember aright, there was talk of this sort last year. It would seem that a change of air might be a good thing. Surely an official should not make bitter and slighting remarks about either of the colleges engaging in a game which he is refereeing. His knowledge of the year's hockey rules is also a prerequisite. As we have said above, this is not a protest over the defeat incurred last Saturday. Bowdoin played as good a game of hockey as deficiency of ice for practice would permit; we were purely and simply beaten by a better team, and are quite ready to admit it. What Bowdoin needs is a covered hockey rink, or else a long hard winter!

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:
This communication is upon the suggestion of certain interested parties.

On the morning of Dec. 17, Warren S. Palmer '32, president of the newly reorganized Christian Association, and Ned W. Packard '32, an active member, stood outside the chapel doors to receive donations for the benefit of the Brunswick poor at the Christmas season. President Sills had previously made an announcement to this effect, at the same time commending the new organization for its revival. It was thought that it might be of interest to the students, who so generously gave of their own, to know how much was received and for what purpose it was used. The amount totaled $23.05, a very good representation of the Bowdoin spirit in things of this nature. The active members of the association had agreed to duplicate whatever sum was obtained, by drawing from the amount allowed the association by the college for its expenses. So approximately $45.00 was to be spent.

Being the only active member remaining at college during the Christmas holidays, I volunteered to take the part of spending the money. Names of needy families were obtained from Mrs. Sarah Cook, the Brunswick police matron, and clothes or dinners were given according to her suggestions. I bought two simple dresses for one girl, six years old, and a cap and sweater for one boy, fourteen years old. Unfortunately one of these children was in bed, and the other not at home when I arrived, so I did not have the pleasure of presenting the gifts to the rightful recipients. Dinners, ranging in price from $2.50 to $5.00, according to the number of individuals in the family, were presented to eight families. These dinners were purchased at Short's Market, and credit is due Mr. Short for having a special trip made for these deliveries with truck and driver.

The homes which the driver and I visited possessed different atmospheres. Some were neat in their simplicity while others were quite unclean through neglect, perhaps from laziness, perhaps from despondency. Some were scenes of sickness, others, scenes of unemployment, and still other homes had such a number of members that the father was unable to meet the needs of all. At some of the homes only the head of the family appeared at the door, and if we entered, the other members scattered out of sight, but through curiosity might put in an appearance from a different direction. One or two of the dinners were accepted with apparent indifference, which was most probably hesitation on the part of the family to receive charity because of pride. But most of the dinners brought forth such exclamations as, "I didn't expect anything like this!" or "This certainly makes it seem like Christmas!" in addition to a sincere "Thank you!"

It certainly was a privilege to have the privilege of presenting the gifts, and it is you fellows who made it possible for these people to enjoy their Christmas.

N. W. P. '32.

Mustard and Cress

"Can youth be conservative?" This rumored by certain ones who ought to know and who ought to know better that our own dear Mr. Churchill's son, him as kindly condescended lately to tell us everything we didn't know, is making eyes at and spending the paternal funds on a choice bit of middle-western femininity. She happens to be of the clan of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, which points to interesting complications about to be complicated. Can youth be conservative?

Some of the freshmen are laughing at the man who had an Austin and a Ford, and when it came cold weather he decided to put up the big car for the winter.

Many of the freshmen are planning to attend the '68 prize speaking contest.

Walter Winchell (to whom we are now and then indebted as well, however much we hate to admit it) is reported as having liked the new Growler very much. "I seem to have heard some of the jokes before, however," he is supposed to have said as he opened a letter and took out another Austin joke.

This Friday will be a great day in that it is the anniversary of the ratification of the prohibition amendment. Did no one else know that, or did you, too, get one of those convenient desk calendars for Christmas?

To make those in authority feel good, we wish to assert that just as soon as convenient we will pay the 38 cents we owe at the library, and state that we thoroughly agree with the policy in vogue.

During the scholarship application season the students can find solace in the fact that the Lord dealt kindly with the Hebrew midwives when they prevaricated to Pharaoh.

Along about this time do you secretly and openly wish for the summer months, when the sun is high and warm, trees are dressed and singing from within, brooks run low and murmuring, humming birds and mosquitoes dance in the moonlight—well, the picture may not be so good, but the idea is—do you wish summer were here and it was all over again—or are you majoring in psychology?

As we get to this point it starts to snow, so we will fold up the typewriter and move over by the window where we can watch the snow-flakes filter down. We'd rather see a snow-storm than ten of the latest 100% talkies.

CHAPEL SPEAKER ASKS NEW VIEWPOINTS

(Continued from Page 1)

are two conditions which must be eradicated from the social order. This can be done not so much through prayers and services, although they have their place, as through seeking technique and a pattern on which to reconstruct the world, a quest in which the scientists such as the sociologists must play an important part. Religion has hitherto often been used merely to comfort the oppressed. It should be used in trying to remedy the defects of civilization. One must stamp out of one's mind the idea that the life of mankind is a part of an almighty plan.

The Problem of Morality
The second situation that religion must face is the problem of morality. If morality is to survive it must interpret life properly. A cold, Calvinistic morality whose aim is to crush and to repress the natural desires of man is not suitable and cannot be permanent. A true morality should allow men to satisfy their natural desires one after the other but should not allow men to satisfy one desire at the expense of others.

The third situation that religion must face is that of rediscovering the individuality of man which is now smothered by social and moral influences. This can be done by aiding man in achieving his primary desires. One of the desires common to all men is the desire for security—that is, to have the same things tomorrow which one enjoyed today. The second and great desire is for recognition. Professor Hocking of Harvard has said that happiness comes in the discovery that one belongs to something, that one is identified with something. As culture advances, we notice, a man seeks to identify himself with more and more things. The third desire is one for creative activity. There are several ways of satisfying this desire. One of them is making old things new like the man who recently preached that the earth was flat. Another way to satisfy the creative urge is to live on the borderlines where new ideas, new possibilities and new ideals are being formulated. The fourth desire common to all men is for response as in friendship and in love, or in the words of the mystics "that which fills the cup".

SCIENCE INSTITUTE TO BE IMPORTANT EVENT

(Continued from Page 1)

and Geography at Harvard. A member of many scientific organizations, he is also well known as an author, two of his best known books being "Mother Earth" and "Science in Search of God," both published in 1928.

On April 9, Professor Dayton C. Miller, of the Case School of Applied Science at Cleveland, Ohio, will present "Demonstrations on Visible Sound." A graduate of Baldwin University, he holds the degree of D.Sc. from Princeton, Miami, and Dartmouth, and was given an LL.D. by Western Reserve in 1927. He is a member of many important scientific organizations and has served as president of the American Physical Association. The holder of several gold medals for research in his field, he is the author of a number of books, including "The Science of Musical Sounds."

Professor George H. Parker, biologist and neurologist, who will speak here on Friday, April 10, has chosen as his lecture subject "Animal Coloration and the Nervous System." Professor Parker has been director of the zoological laboratory at Harvard since 1906, having graduated at that institution and been granted its degree of Sc.D. He has done a great deal of writing, and constructive research in his field and in 1914 was sent by the United States government to investigate the Philo seal herd.

History of Psychology to be Discussed

Professor Edward G. Boring, graduate and holder of the doctorate from Cornell, will discuss "The Rise of Scientific Psychology" on April 11. In addition to teaching at Cornell, Clark University and Harvard, where since 1924 he has been director of the psychological laboratory, Professor Boring has served the United States government in his field, being attached to the Surgeon-General's Office during the latter part of the World War. He is the author of "History of Experimental Psychology" and a contributor to numerous scientific magazines.

On the following Monday, April 13, Professor Charles H. Herty of New York, former president of the American Chemical Society, will speak on "Chemistry's Service in the Promotion of Industrial Research in America."

A graduate of the University of Georgia, with advanced study in Germany and at Johns Hopkins, where he received his Ph.D., he has had an interesting career as college professor, expert consultant to the United States Department of Agriculture and to several associations of manufacturing chemists, and also the one-time editor of the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry. Retiring as advisor to the Chemical Foundation in 1928, he is now an industrial consultant in New York City.

Director of American Geographical Society to Speak

Dr. Isaiah Bowman, Director of the American Geographical Society, will discuss "The Invitation of the Earth" on April 14. A Harvard graduate, he received his Ph.D. at Yale where he was given an honorary A.M. in 1921. As an active geographer in the field, he has led expeditions into South America and has served as advisor to a number of important governmental commissions, being chief territorial specialist of the American Commission to Negotiate Peace at the close of the World War. He is a member of geographical societies throughout the world and holds several gold medals for special work along this line. Doctor Bowman is the author of several books of importance and of many papers on the geography of South America. He was a speaker at the Bowdoin Institute of Modern History. On April 15, Doctor Florence R. Sabin of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, will present as her topic "Recent Studies of the Chemistry of Bacteria as Applied to Disease." A graduate of Smith College, she holds the degree of M.D. from Johns Hopkins and honorary degrees of Sc.D. from Smith, the University of Michigan and Mount Holyoke College. She is the author of many books and articles in the field of Anatomy and is looked upon as one of the outstanding women scientists of the present time.

The final lecturer in this year's Institute will be Professor Edward G. Conklin of Princeton University, speaking on "Fitness, the Great Problem of Life and Evolution." A graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University with a Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins, he holds honorary Sc.D.'s from the University of Pennsylvania and from his Alma Mater and has also been granted his LL.D. by Western Reserve University. He is a member of many scientific societies and has served as President of the American Society of Zoologists and American Society of Naturalists. He is the author of several books.

Continued on Page 3

The Ideal Hotel for You
In BOSTON
Is the NEW
Hotel MANGER
At North Station
Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot
and Boston Madison Square Garden
500 ROOMS
Each Room equipped with Tub and Shower ✓ Built-in Radio Speaker
(Three Station Service) ✓ Servidor
Circulating Ice Water.
New England's Most Modernly
Equipped and Perfectly
Appointed Hotel
Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster
Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.
RATES—ROOM AND BATH
FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00
FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 5.50
No Higher Rates

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

Nothing small about this work

Reaching out to the far corners of the earth for raw materials of telephone apparatus, is a Western Electric function in the Bell System.

To assure adequate sources of supply, men engaged in this work of mass purchasing continually search the entire globe. To buy wisely, they study all factors affecting prices—economic and labor conditions, transportation facilities, freight rates—on a world-wide scale. Each year their purchases, worth many millions of dollars, include such diverse products as platinum from Russia, mica from India, asphalt from Venezuela, flax from Belgium and France.

All in all, a vast and fascinating task. For men of keen business judgment, the opportunity is there!

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

New Vanities — Combination Cigarette Case and Lighter

The Atarmint Perfumer — All with Bowdoin Seal

BOWDOIN SEAL CARDS

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

BOMPIANI LOOKS AT
U. S. COLLEGE LIFE

(Continued from page 1)

States could be improved so as to give this compulsory general background knowledge, the college could then be a place of specialization and consequently of greater value. This idea has indeed been carried out to a certain extent in the new Junior College system in this country.

Foreign Foundations Important

He considered that foreign scholarships and foundations are one of the most important, and commendable phases of the college. These "mental exchanges" which are brought about by the presence of foreign professors in a college form perhaps the most positive methods of influencing international cooperation and good will.

The Professor commented briefly upon the fraternity life and sports departments of the college. He said that in Italy there were no bodies which would in any way resemble the fraternities. Probably this could be explained by the greater influence of the family in his country. Likewise intercollegiate sports of all kinds are just beginning to spring up in Italian schools, but thus far have reached no great heights of prominence as in the United States.

Likes House Parties

Having attended the Christmas house party, Professor Bompiani could not but be impressed by it. In fact his face was wreathed in smiles as he became very enthusiastic on the whole idea of the party.

He finally said that his outstanding impression of America and, in particular, Bowdoin College, was the youth of all whom he met, this youth which gives life and spirit to one's whole existence. It is this continual youth of youth about the same age, passing before the eyes of any professor, which makes the life of the teacher most happy and which provides the greatest interest in one's life, said the Professor in closing the interview.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION
CONFERENCE HERE

(Continued from page 1)

Maybe the late progress of physical education in Maine has not been noticed but it is ever present. He went on to talk of how when he went to health and how the conditions were different. One must know his field before beginning, advocated Mr. Packard. Therefore he backed up with various examples many of the arguments set forth by Miss Fournier. The need for a state director was stressed by him and also promised by him. Such a man could make visits and examine existing conditions. Programs should include the needs of every child and not for born athletes. The great leisure of the present day must be superintended by good training.

Afternoon Session

At noon all those present at the conference were guests of the College at luncheon in the Student Union, after which President Sills welcomed the delegates in a brief address.

"Intercollegiate football is in much more danger at the hands of its enemies than of its friends," stated President Sills in his welcoming address. Over a hundred teachers, coaches and visitors attended this last half of the extensive program.

President Sills prefaced his brief talk by remarking that this convocation was the first to be held in the State of Maine, and that as such it afforded "a very peculiar interest and pleasure" to representatives of physical education instructors, and sports writers from different Maine papers express their views.

"All modern teaching and education emphasize what was known centuries ago," said the speaker, stressing the point that physical training in schools is no new thing; mental and physical education are not contradictory, but rather complementary. "It is not a proper basis... if we substitute the word 'education' for 'training', and speak more frequently of 'physical education' rather than 'physical training'."

Too Much Coaching Dangerous

"There is danger of too much directed play in public schools," continued President Sills, "thus taking away some initiative and resourcefulness." Particularly in the case of football coaches, he stated, is this deplorable fact true. "However, it is not so around this section of the country... the boys play their own games, the players are not mere automatons."

"A well-directed program takes into consideration three factors," said the President, outlining the benefits of proper physical education. "Setting the body into condition for its work; giving an opportunity for moral discipline so important in these days of shifting moral standards; and gives a real pleasure and relaxation from the drudgery of school work." This last was emphasized by the speaker.

"Strong Mind in a Strong Body"

"You are concerned, all of you... as all of us are, with the education of youth," President Sills concluded, "and the kind of education that you here represent is certainly of increasing importance. It is well to keep in mind what the function of your particular type of work is. The body is the habitation, servant, and sometimes the master of the mind. It is important to build it well. That is the task, I take it, which you have set out to do."

Dr. Williams Speaks

School athletics and their place in scholastic education constituted the basis of the speech delivered by Dr. Joseph F. Williams, chief of the Department of Physical Education in Columbia University. "We should not isolate athletics from other phases of education," said Dr. Williams, continuing the theme stressed by President Sills.

"From entrance to graduation the school bears heavy responsibilities for those in it. For this reason school athletics are vital. They exert most powerful influences on young people... at the moment of an athletic contest nothing is quite so important." These reactions are, of course, quite different on both the player and the spectator.

"The wish to have the school concern itself only with mental training is too narrow." Nevertheless, Dr. Williams said, the student must understand that is why studies and physical education are separated. "Minds do not come to school alone; the bodies must accompany them." This emphasis on mental education is the direct cause for the "misfits in society."

Vital Need for Athletics

"The inherent desire of young people to play, to give vent to their dramatic emotions and to vie with one another brings about the wish for games." This wish, disregarded by older, and so-called wiser people, was fostered by the undergraduates. The exercises sponsored by the elders also grew, resulting in a dual department, sometimes two utterly distinct groups.

"Sports are taken for granted in British schools and colleges," said Dr. Williams. "The masters regard the training of their teams as important as classroom instruction." Opportunities for social contact are indeed acute in a keen game, he averred. "Only competent leadership can promote socialization under conditions of stress and strength. The setting of standards in play become part of business and industrial affairs."

Sports and Human Conduct

"The admonishments 'Play the game; Play fair; Hit the line; and Follow through' are not mere cards to grace the outer office of an executive, but a revelation of the basic language of human conduct. The attitude of the human alumnus is characterized by his experience in sports... he is most vulnerable in his criticism of the management of sports."

"Physical education in any time and place. It is not a technique, nor a hygiene of physical exercise, rather a way of living. Any education of society should teach it to live more effectively. In general, team games are of less value than purely individual sports."

After Dr. Williams' address, the conference was broken up into two groups, the women meeting under the leadership of Professor Walsley, and the men under Professor Malcolm E. Morrell.

In the men's section Dr. Brownell showed the advantages of having a state athletic association. Coach Charles F. Brownell, of the University of Maine, spoke on the place of football in physical education and its importance in training.

Prof. Morrell read the N.A.A.U. report on athletics and Prof. Cobb read the N.A.A.U. report on the closing talk of the day, Dr. Williams gave an interesting lecture on professional training.

The women's section meeting opened with the same talk that closed the meeting of the men's section. Miss Marjorie Bouve outlined the present position of girls' athletics in Maine, showing where the situation might be improved. Dr. Williams' talk was given by Professor Walsley on the women's division of the N.A.A.U. Dr. Brownell was the final speaker in this section, giving the possibilities and advantages to be gleaned from a women's division of a state athletic association.

After each talk 15 minutes was given over to a discussion of the points brought out.

A special feature of the conference was the interesting health exhibit given by the Maine Public Health Association. This exhibit was under the supervision of Mrs. Frank McCordrick, secretary of the association.

Bates Game

(Continued from page 1)

ness. Bates managed to score once again in the second battle of this three-canto war and got its final goal in the third.

Bowdoin made the most of the final period, driving the puck into the net of pugnacious Mr. Farrell. Richardson scored first from a shot off the boards. Sloan scored later after having circumvented the defense. He took a shot which whizzed by Farrell to land safely in the far corner of the cage.

The type of play displayed at Lewiston and the type of refereeing will not in any way aid the playing of orthodox hockey. The sooner the teams play the game for itself and do away with roughness, slashing, tripping and the rest, the sooner the game will be hockey and not shindy.

BOMPIANI ANALYZES ITALIAN SITUATION

(Continued from page 1)

To correct any mistaken ideas as to my country I must revert to facts, history, which shows us that no system of government can be called the best under all conditions. All are relatively good and so history gives us a sort of vision and humility in judging different systems.

To understand the value of Fascism we must consider conditions following the war. Italy, strangled economically, politically, and socially by the war, was in a state of great unrest under the liberal government and heading toward Bolshevism and anarchy.

Work of Mussolini

As a savior of the people came Mussolini, a man from the forge. Of low carriage he rose to become the Cincinnatus of the Italian race. Supported by his own indomitable will and by the consent of the masses disgusted with the status of affairs, Mussolini returned a united Italy to the King.

Exceptional man as he is, he cannot deserve the title of Dictator with all its hateful meaning. Parliament has not lost its position in Italy, and senate control still exists. "If Dictator means a man who denies that there is room for personality in a well-ordered community, Mussolini is certainly not a Dictator, but then, Lincoln also was a dictator."

The American press generally presents the grotesque side of Mussolini. You must understand that he has brought real government to his country, and that Italy does not groan, but rather chortles at the new system. Mussolini's aim is to bring harmony to the country torn by the petty, unimportant strifes of the past.

Improved Economic System

In pointing out the achievements of this government we will begin with the economic system. From a budget greatly exceeded in 1920 extensive reductions in the cost of government have brought about a large surplus on the budgets of later years. War debts are now being paid regularly. Italian currency was stabilized. Internal financial rehabilitation has also resulted in the last few years and everything is notable for the straightforwardness of the government in facing all such difficulties.

The government does not play the demagogue, witness the drastic reductions in the budgets of all departments of public expenditure, which have resulted in the firm upward trend of the lire on the international markets.

Bankers of a national character have closed the year with large earnings. Italian government and private loans abroad have been almost completely eliminated. On the other hand, Italian banks have sent much capital to finance industry in other countries. In spite of any propaganda to the contrary Italy has neither tried nor has any need to conquer further. The Government has issued the statement, "Fascist Italy has no need of and does not seek credit abroad."

(Continued on page 4)

MID-YEAR EXAMINATION SCHEDULE

1930-1931

Note: Examinations in courses not scheduled below will be held at hours to be fixed by the instructors concerned.

8.30			1.30
English 13	Gymnasium	History 7	Gymnasium
Latin 1	Gymnasium	Literature 1	Gymnasium
Music 5	Gymnasium	Mathematics 3	Gymnasium
Tuesday, January 26
Geology 1	Gymnasium	English 15a	Gymnasium
Greek 3	Gymnasium	Music 1	Gymnasium
History 9	Gymnasium	Physics 3	Gymnasium
Philosophy 5	Gymnasium	Psychology 1	Gymnasium
Wednesday, January 27
Chemistry 3	Adams 204	Chemistry 5	Gymnasium
Government 9	Gymnasium	German 9	Gymnasium
Italian 1	Adams 204	Government 5	Gymnasium
Psychology 5	Gymnasium	Greek 1	Gymnasium
Psychology 7	Gymnasium	Latin 4	Gymnasium
Thursday, January 28
Education 1	Gymnasium	Philosophy 1	Gymnasium
Spanish 1	Gymnasium	Astronomy 1	Gymnasium
Spanish 3	Gymnasium	Economics 1	Gymnasium
Zoology 1	Gymnasium	Zoology 9	Gymnasium
Friday, January 29
Chemistry 1	Gymnasium	French 3, Sections A to D
English 23	Gymnasium	French 3, Sections E to G
History 5	Gymnasium	French 5	Gymnasium
Latin 7	Gymnasium	French 7	Gymnasium
Mathematics 13	Gymnasium	French 11	Gymnasium
Philosophy 5	Gymnasium	English 5	Gymnasium
Zoology 3	Gymnasium	Hygiene	Gymnasium
Saturday, January 30
Chemistry 7	Gymnasium	History 17	Gymnasium
French 1	Gymnasium	Monday, February 2
History 15	Gymnasium	Art 3	Walker Art Building
German 1	Gymnasium	Economics 3	Gymnasium
German 3	Gymnasium	English 11	Gymnasium
German 7	Gymnasium	English 13	Gymnasium
Tuesday, February 3
Economics 7	Gymnasium	French 15	Gymnasium
English 19	Gymnasium	Mathematics 1	Gymnasium
German 5	Gymnasium	Wednesday, February 4
Physics 5	Gymnasium	Art 7	Walker Art Building
Physics 7	Gymnasium	Economics 5	Gymnasium
Sociology 1	Gymnasium	Latin 3	Gymnasium
Wednesday, February 4
English 7	Gymnasium	Thursday, February 5
Greek 11	Gymnasium	Art 7	Walker Art Building
Music 3	Gymnasium	Economics 5	Gymnasium
Thursday, February 5
Greek 9	Gymnasium	Latin 3	Gymnasium
History 11	Gymnasium	Friday, February 6
Psychology 3	Gymnasium	Saturday, February 7

CRIMMINS DELEGATE TO ATLANTA MEETING

(Continued from page 1)

brotherhood and world peace.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. Norman Thomas, who addressed the N. S. F. A. on the subject "World Depression demands World Cooperation." This speech was broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

He was against the high protective tariff and he stated that he did not think that the world wide depression was primarily due to tariffs. Failure is partly due to the lack of production planning, he said. He also stated that doing away with the high tariff would be the biggest single immediate contribution to immediate peace. A result of international folly in economic depression was the strife of men for gain. To him a high protective tariff is government interference in business, it being his opinion that it enables the government to handle and put their pockets money for their own needs. In closing, he said that freedom, peace and plenty demand international planning, and that planning such a high tariff cannot be a part of it.

A report was also made by Miss Virginia Loomis of Bryn Mawr, of the 1930 debating team. This was exceedingly interesting and showed how extraordinary active the N. S. F. A. is in having foreign teams visit American colleges.

On Tuesday morning we had the opportunity to hear the Hon. D. W. Davis, Ex-Governor of Idaho, speak on the subject, "Protection and Why I am a Protectionist." He gave a brief summary of the history of the tariff and pointed out the success which was the result of this tariff. He said that protection is as essential to the perpetuity of American ideals and our standards of living as the very air we breathe. Also that the tariff was essential in order to keep the standard of living which we enjoy in this country.

Although one of the purposes of the N. S. F. A. is to develop an intelligent student opinion on questions of national and international importance, it does not fail to emphasize the importance of due consideration to questions affecting students' interests. Discussion groups were prominent. A group consisting of five women's schools, and a third consisting of the smaller schools, took place on Tuesday afternoon. In the discussion of the smaller colleges, the methods of the makeup, scope of power, faculty representation and authority of student councils were discussed. The point system, as regards the number of offices a man can hold, was also discussed at some length. Each school brought out the situation existing on his or her campus. The discussion proved very valuable and it is interesting to note the fundamental similarity of our own Council with other Councils of colleges of about our enrollment.

In the discussion on the fraternity situation, many situations were presented. The effects, influence and control of the fraternities, clubs and sororities were discussed. The influence of campus politics in the fraternities and the question of scholastic standing, of fraternity men in relation to the non-fraternity men, were also discussed. The group as a whole felt that the fraternity situation was unique in that each college had its specific problems and troubles to solve. The discussion of the relation of fraternities to campus politics showed that in many universities fraternities have a large influence over athletics. This is particularly true in the election of team captains, and as a result of this many universities have eliminated captaincies. It was also evident that the situation in the West in regard to fraternity politics is much more severe than in the East. In some colleges men are known to spend up to $1,000 in campaigning for office. Other colleges have certain hours set aside for the candidates to present speeches and their arguments for their election. Certainly no such condition exists at Bowdoin. The group as a whole was decidedly in favor of fraternities.

The discussion group on the honor

Musical Clubs

(Continued from page 1)

P. T. Walters '32, J. R. Whipple, Jr., '31, W. E. Winslow '31, (Leader), T. A. Wright '34.

Glee Club

N. W. Packard '32, F. G. Hall, 2d, '34, R. F. Prince '34, J. E. Mawhinney '33, W. E. Winslow '31, G. E. Gillett '34, H. C. Allen, Jr., '34, E. D. Greenlaw '32, L. A. Smith '31, G. P. Robinson '31, J. G. Kratzer '31, G. C. Bennett '34, G. T. Sewall '32, W. C. Holbrook '34, M. T. Hickok '33, T. D. Barnes '34, W. M. Kline '33, W. P. Bowman '31, E. D. Densmore '32, R. H. Graves '33, A. W. Tarbell '32, R. C. Bennett '34, A. S. Davis, Jr., '33, J. Creighton, Jr., '32, E. P. Loring '33, T. F. Johnston '32, V. F. Philbrick '34, O. W. Gilman '31, A. P. Lupt '33, W. V. Card '31, W. H. Lowell, Jr., '33.

Knight Lecture Tonight

(Continued from page 1)

preys in various stages of life. The picture also contains pictures of the American bald eagle and the opening of the new observatory in Scotland, established by Colonel Cameron of Lochiel.

The picture is noteworthy for its remarkable feats of photography, including a scene wherein a hawk captures a duck in mid-air, as part of the sport of falconry so popular in the Middle Ages. This lecture, under the Mayhew lecture fund, is said to be superior even to the one he delivered two years ago entitled "The Eagle."

SCIENCE INSTITUTE
HERE THIS SPRING

(Continued from page 2)

eral books on heredity, environment and evolution and a co-editor of the Biological Bulletin and of the Journal of Experimental Zoology.

JAMES N. MASON '33
ANNOUNCES MARRIAGE

James Nelson Mason, of the class of 1933, surprised his friends recently with the announcement of his marriage to Miss Rowena Y. Macklin, of Worcester, Mass., early last month. Mr. Mason and Miss Macklin were married in the Little Church-Around-the-Corner in New York City on December 3. Miss Macklin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Macklin; she was formerly of Wellesley College. The couple will occupy a residence on Bowdoin street, in Brunswick.

CIVIL ENGINEERING FORMERLY PART OF CURRICULUM HERE

Only Six Out of Eighteen Graduates, Many of Whom Achieved Fame, Now Living

Although Bowdoin is generally classed as a liberal arts institution there was a unique break in its conservative curriculum from 1871 to 1881 when President Joseph L. Chamberlain inaugurated a four years' course in civil engineering. During this ten year period Bowdoin conferred the degree of bachelor of science in civil engineering on only 20 students, most of whom achieved success in their chosen profession, many becoming eminent engineers.

The course was to have one professor, one set of lecture notes, a small drafting room and the teacher's mantle fell upon the shoulders of one man.

system took place Thursday afternoon. Various arguments for and against the system were presented. The schools in which this system was successful presented their plans and other schools where the system was tried and failed were also active in the discussion. The discussion was very interesting and the group as a whole felt that in some colleges, particularly in the large urban universities, the honor system is impracticable and not to be recommended, yet where it can be established, the group believed that an honor system is essential as a character builder.

The keynote address of the Congress was given on Friday morning when Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former Governor of Wyoming and at present Vice-Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, addressed the Congress. Her subject was "The Tariff and Related Problems." In her speech she stated some of the fundamental differences between the two political parties as demonstrated in their declared policies and in their records. She stated that the Democratic party is a party of progress, a liberal party, "generous in its whole attitude toward all humanity." She stated her opinion of the protective tariff very clearly and concisely. Her manner of presentation was excellent and she was by far the best speaker of the Congress.

The N. S. F. A. is a very active student organization, rapidly becoming recognized throughout the land for its work along the lines of student interest. The organization issues a Weekly News Release which brings items of national importance to the student. Radio broadcasting is another feature of their expansive program. Through their influence, foreign debating teams annually come to this country and debate with some of the member colleges. In some cases, where one can solve many student problems, is another remarkable feature of the N. S. F. A. Work is now being done to establish a N. S. F. A. local committee at Bowdoin. The duties of this committee would be to accumulate information about student activities for the benefit of the information service, to arrange for the entertainment of foreign students and debating teams and other similar duties pertaining to the advancement of the aim and purpose of the N. S. F. A.

ders of George Leonard Vose, a native of Augusta and a practicing civil engineer who had been engaged principally in railroad location and construction in the middle West for 20 years previous to his arrival at Bowdoin. Professor Vose was the author of "Manual of Railroad Engineering," the first practical work on American methods of railroad location and bridge construction, which soon supplanted the English texts then used in American engineering schools. One of Professor Vose's students has characterized him as "a clear and interesting writer on engineering and scientific subjects and a real inspiration to any student who came under his instruction."

In 1881 he left Bowdoin to accept the Harvard professorship of civil and topographical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the college's engineering episode came to a close. Professor Vose later lived quietly in Brunswick for some years and passed away here in 1910.

Only Six Now Living

Of those 18 graduates who followed strictly engineering and scientific pursuits only six are now living. Augustus L. Crocker was born in Paris, Me., in 1850, and after graduating in 1873, became a mechanical and civil engineer in Illinois and Minnesota. He was a prominent figure in the life and growth of Minneapolis, being for a number of years, president of the board of trade. From 1912 until the time of his death in 1925 he was chairman of the Minnesota Waterways Commission.

Albert G. Bradstreet was born in Bridgton in 1852. He graduated in 1874 and for a number of years was a civil engineer for the Maine Central Railroad. He later went to Mexico and became one of the construction engineers on the Mexican Central Railroad. He died in 1893.

Charles L. Clarke of the class of 1875 was born in Portland, in 1853 and now lives in Schenectady, N. Y. He studied in Europe and upon his return was chief engineer for the Edison Electric Light Co., in New York City and a consulting electrical engineer in New York.

Francis R. Upton, also a member of the class of 1875, was born in Peabody, Mass. He studied in Berlin, Germany, later being engaged in engineering work with Thomas A. Edison at Menlo Park and Orange, N. J. At the time of his death in 1921 he was recognized as one of Edison's right hand men.

Charles D. Jameson, a member of the class of 1876, was born in Bangor in 1855 and had a wide engineering experience which covered work on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, the Mexican Central, the French Panama Canal Company, an instructor in technical engineering at Massachusetts Tech, a professorship in civil engineering at Iowa State University and 15 years as railroad and consulting engineer in Tien-Tsin. Bowdoin gave him the degree of Sc.D. in 1914. He died in 1927.

Alvah H. Babbin, who now lives in Flushing, N. Y., was born in Norfolk, N. Y., in 1851 and graduated in 1876. He was professor of chemistry at Ripon College in Wisconsin and later lecturer at the University of Vermont, a chemist of Vermont for a number of years, lecturer at New York University for a long period and also visiting lecturer at Massachusetts Tech. Bowdoin honored him with an Sc.D. in 1917.

LAM SPEAKS BEFORE
GARDINER ROTARY

(Continued from page 1)

Toscanni are not known by their nationality, but as great musicians of the world. And there should come a time when all workers are not confined within their own little country, but may reach out where they like.

The fighting of the future will not be done on the battlefield, but in life. The generations to come will see that war is confined to only a natural competition for living, with the weak submerging always, and perhaps an international competition being formed, that is not war but cooperation and peace."

CUMBERLAND

(Continued from page 1)

Wednesday - January 14th
GLORIA SWANSON
- in -
WHAT A WIDOW
Also Comedy and Spotlight

Thursday - January 15th
RONALD COLMAN
- in -
RAFFLES
Also Comedy and Pictorial

Friday - January 16th
- VAUDEVILLE -
- on the screen -
GOING WILD
- with -
JOE E. BROWN
Also Paramount News

Saturday - January 17th
NEW MOON
- with -
LAWRENCE TIBBETTS
Also Short Subjects

Mon. - Tues. - January 19-20
NANCY CARROLL
- in -
LAUGHTER
Also News and Sound Act

ANTIQUITY SHOP

Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 243-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.

Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

20 ENGRAVED

CHRISTMAS CARDS

with name printed - $1.75

STUART & CLEMENT

Town Building

Latest College Styles in

Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10

Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers

ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?'

Give it to

BATES OR SPERRY

LECLAIR & GERVAIS

do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES

Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —

Send Your Washing to the

CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH

AGENT

Special Rates to Students

on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and

FRATERNITY PAPER

KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations

Prescriptions Carefully Compounded

AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire.

Whether it is a small job or a large book the

facilities of

THE RECORD PRESS

are at your service. Tel. 3

Let us estimate on your next

job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work

done in this shop.

Brunswick Publishing Co.

Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

WHITE PUCKSTERS

DROP GAMES TO N. H.

STATE AND COLBY

Scores of 3-1 and 3-0 Against

Polar Bears in Series

Openers

The Bowdoin sextet opened its season

by losing by the narrow margin of 3-1 to the University of New Hampshire six.

The Polar Bears have been handicapped by lack of ice, but appeared in this contest to have the makings of a powerful combination.

Sloan scored the lone tally for Bow-doin.

In the second game, marked by roughness and at times ragged

hockey, a fast passing Colby team drew first blood in the State Series

Saturday sending the Bowdoin Polar

Bears down to a 3-0 defeat. Both teams showed lack of practice, Bow-doin essentially in team work, but the Polar Bears put up a battle before admitting defeat and kept the crowd on edge.

No Score in First Period

Neither team could score in the first period although both threatened.

Colby keeping the puck in Bowdoin territory for the first part and the Polar Bears making their bid near the end of the period. Southern team took the puck from behind his own goal past center ice for bullet-like long shots but Draper, Colby goalie, was always there to block the disc. Midway through the period Coach Ben

Houser sent in a new front line composed of Captain Rose, Sloan and Rosenfeld and managed to keep the puck in the opponents' territory for the remainder of the period.

The White Mules coming back in the next period lost no time in scoring. After the puck had been carried up the ice and back twice by rival forward lines, Kenney, rugged right wing of the Mules, took possession of the rubber in mid-ice, eluded several stabs for it made by Dwyer as he jockeyed it around, suddenly turned and snapped a long, hard shot into the Bowdoin draperies. Hardly had the crowd recovered from the suddenness of this score when the mules made it two after a rough scramble in front of the White goal during which Porteau managed to send

by Stockman. The entire Bowdoin team along with Ben Houser forcibly protested that the rubber had been knocked on top of the cage and dropped in but French could find no holes in the top big enough to allow the rubber to drop through and the score was allowed. This ended

Colby's scoring for this period and fine defense was by Pollard, Hilton and Draper stopped the rush of the Polar Bears who came back strongly.

Rest On Laurels Late In Game

Colby seemed content to rest on its lead in the third period, for a while and the Bowdoin attack centered mostly on the long shot attempts of Souther and Rose most of which were accurate but there was just a little too much Draper, way through the period Colby completed the scoring with a beautiful goal by Hilton. After a face off directly in front of the Colby cage "snub" Pollard got possession of the puck, started down the ice past Rose and passed to Hilton who shoved it into the curtains.

Johnny Rosenfeld, Sophomore wing and former Andover captain, put up a beautiful individual game on the offense as did George Souther, Bilodeau also assisted in several drives down the ice and was the main cog in the defense.

Colby Bowdoin

Kenney, rw lw, Dwyer

Lovett, lw lw, Sloan

Webster, rw rw, Souther

Wilson, lw lw, Lowell

Pomerleau, lw lw, Rosenfeld

Pollard, rd c, Richardson

Hilton, ld ld, Kimball

Draper, g rd, Bilodeau

g, Stockman

Score: Colby 3, Bowdoin 0. Goals

by Pomerleau, Hilton, and Kenney.

Referee, Pat Smith; Timers, Sperry

and Snyder. Time, 3:20.

ARMY "GYMERS" TAKE

FIRST MEET OF YEAR

FROM WHITE SQUAD

Soldiers Monopolize First Places in

One-Sided Struggle at West Point

—Dartmouth Next Saturday

The Bowdoin gymnasts suffered a severe defeat at the hands of Army

last Saturday at West Point. The score was 46-8. Army, rated as one of the best gym teams in the country, monopolized all the first places. Coach

Means sent down a squad of five out of which four managed to score. Captain Short performed very well taking second in the parallel bars and a third in the turn rope. In the turn climb, Cefeda of the Army was the winner in the excellent time of 5:25 seconds. Cushman of Bowdoin and Carliels of Army divided the remaining places.

The team competed against Dartmouth next Saturday in the Sargent gymnasium. Because of the Freshman track meet and the swimming meet also taking place then, the time will be announced later.

The summary for the Army meet follows:

Horizontal bar—Won by Sibley,

Army, 5:17; Helms, Army, second,

5:07 points; Eaton, Bowdoin, third, 338 points.

Side horse—Won by Steele, Army,

5:07 points; Fraser, Army, 5:27 points;

second, Bowman, Bowdoin, third,

495 points.

Rope climbing—Won by Cefeda,

Army, 5:25 s.; second, tie between

Cushman, Bowdoin, and Carliels,

Army. Time, 6:1-54.

JACK MAGEE GROOMS

CHARGES IN EARLY

SEASON TIME TRIALS

Mile and Two Mile Teams Grind in Preparation for Coming Year of Grueling Meets

Jack Magee's track squad swung into action last Saturday afternoon when the first time trials were held for the varsity one and two mile relay teams and the Freshman relay. The Bowdoin mentor has his eye on that

State Meet in May and is leaving no stone unturned to develop a team that will come through at Orono. However, at this time the development of strong relay teams and a Freshman track team is absorbing most of his time.

Captain Syd Foster, present Maine

440 champ, is leading the pack of varsity relay places on the one mile team. He is closely followed by

Harry Thistlewaite, Dan Johnson and Creighton Gatchell, all members of the 1930 quartet which was class champion at the Penn Relays last year, defeating nine other colleges.

Other men who are showing up well are Francis Wingate, who is back after a leg injury which kept him out of spring competition last year, Mili

Hickok, Frankie Vaughn, Charlie

Stanwood, Steve Leo, Tarbell, Boyd,

Winslow, Moyer and Smithwick.

The two mile quartet is also coming along fast. There are many good men and Coach Magee is attempting to get the best out of each. Larry

Usher, George Sewall, Steve Laver-

re, Cobb, Donworth, Estle, Davis,

Galbraith, Lowell, Pottle, and Lewis form the squad.

The Freshman squad is commanding a great deal of Coach Magee's attention; for a large percentage of it is inexperienced. The yearlings have been working out on the cinder track in the Cage in preparation for their first meet which takes place Saturday, the seventeenth in the Cage at 2:00 p.m. The visiting aggregation is the South Portland High squad.

The Capers are newcomers on the Freshman schedule.

Coach Magee believes that the 1934

squad shows promise and predicts that many future champions will develop from its ranks. Although there is a great deal of raw material, they are very apt in picking up the funda-mentals. Already there is a noticeable improvement in the team.

There is also a group

PROF. HOERNLE WILL LECTURE HERE ON JAN. 27

Speaker to Discuss Revival of Idealism as a Philosophy

AT BOWDOIN DURING
PROF. MASON'S LEAVE

Is at Present Professor of Philosophy at University in Johannesburg, South Africa

On next Tuesday, January 27, Reinhold Friedrich Alfred Hoernle, the distinguished Professor of Philosophy at the University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa, will lecture in Memorial Hall at 8.15 p. m. on the subject, "The Revival of Idealism as a Philosophy." During the past summer Professor Hoernle has been lecturing at the University of Southern California. Toward the end of the month he is returning to South Africa and during his trip East he will stop at Bowdoin to deliver his lecture. As Professor Hoernle will sail before the close of the semester examinations, the college is making an exception to its rule of not scheduling lectures during the examination period in order that the college may not miss the opportunity to hear so distinguished a lecturer.

Professor Hoernle is already well known to the members of the faculty and to a number of the undergraduates, having taught philosophy and lectured to the public in the fall of 1926-1927 during the sabbatical leave of Professor Mason.

Professor Hoernle has had an interesting life which has taken him to many parts of the world. He was

SO. PORTLAND WINS INTER-SCHOLASTIC DEBATE AT BOWDOIN

Debate Subject, Resolved: That Five Day Working Week Should be Adopted by American Industries

Four Maine schools of the Bowdoin Interscholastic Debating League were in Brunswick Monday to hold the finals in the cup contest. South Portland High School, which put up the best argument on the question: Resolved: That the Five-Day Working Week Should be Adopted by American Industries, won the cup in a very close race. The four schools which were picked for these semi-final and final rounds were South Portland High School, Bangor High School, Leavitt Institute of Turner, Centre, and Cony High School of Augusta. The speakers were all judged excellent; all showed very careful preparation and development of their subjects.

Semi-Finals Held
On Monday morning the South Portland High team won from Leavitt Institute, 11-7; and Bangor won from Cony High, 11-7. In the semi-finals. In the afternoon South Portland High beat Bangor High, 6-3, and their affirmatives won 5-4. Preliminaries for this event have been going on since the fall. In all there are nine schools in the league; each school has two teams of two men each, one team taking the negative, the other the affirmative. In the league, competing for the cup which will be donated in the spring, are: Portland High School, Bath High School, Brunswick High School, Jordan High School of Lewiston, Hallowell High School, Winslow High School.

"GHOSTS", SOPH HOP PLAY, OF HENDRIK IBSEN IS STYLED INTENSE, REALISTIC DRAMA

Vivid, stirring reality, and with it horror, is the keynote of Hendrik Ibsen's family drama, "Ghosts," which will be presented by the Masque and Gown as its contribution to the Soph Hop entertainment. So different from the last presentation of the play, this tragedy consists of but one scene, and has only five in its cast.

Talented dramatization will be required of this quintet of actors: of James Blunt to portray the difficult role of Oswald Alving, fated to suffer by heredity for the sins of his father; of Mrs. Charles Gray who will enact the part of Mrs. Helen Alving, striving to lighten the tainted memory of her husband.

D. E. McCormick also carries a role requiring talent, that of Pastor Manders, a shortsighted, blundering cleric, responsible for much of the tragedy of the drama. The fourth member of the cast is Donald Randall, who depicts the role of Jacob Engstrand, a rather coarse, mercenary carpenter.

Play Created Sensation

Ibsen's "Ghosts," written in 1881 immediately created a vast amount of pro and con criticism. So strong did the objection to its moral lesson grow

WHITE NATATORS CONQUOR M. I. T.

Team Hangs Up First Victory in History of Sport at Bowdoin

LUTZ OF ENGINEERS IS INDIVIDUAL STAR

The White Natators hung up their initial victory in the history of Bowdoin swimming last Saturday night by defeating M. I. T. by the lynch melody of 46-31. Competing before a large crowd of students and townspeople, the White Natators had little difficulty in showing their superiority over the engineers.

Individual honors went to Lutz of the visitors, who captured both the 50 and the 100 yard dashes besides swimming anchor man on the victory team and giving his teammates a relay in that event. Sperry managed to cop two second places for Bowdoin while Ted Densmore came through with an easy victory in the breaststroke besides winning on the victorious 300 yard medley relay team.

The above-mentioned relay was first on the program. Eastern swimming the first hundred yards back-stroke gave Densmore an eight yard lead. The latter swam right away from Lambert to lead him by a length at the exchange. Eason held his own on the last leg free style and touched the finish line a whole length ahead of Wilson of M. I. T.

The 50 was captured by Lutz, who held a yard lead over Tagore, also of M. I. T., and Smith of Bowdoin who finished second and third respectively. The quarter-mile proved easy for the home swimmer. First back this event by several lengths in 6 m. 19.5-5 A. Durham, of the White, plowed through the last 150 yards strongly to pass both Thomson and Henning of M. I. T. for an easy second.

Bowdoin succeeded in finishing one-two in the 300 yard medley when Bowman and Sperry finished in that order. Divine honors went to Crick of M. I. T. who amassed a total of 66.2 points in eight different races.

KAPPA SIGMA HOLDS BRIDGE FOR FACULTY

Fourth Annual Bridge Proves Very Successful as Many Attend Party

A very pleasant evening was spent by members of the faculty last Friday evening, with the Kappa Sigma fraternity as host at the fourth annual annual bridge party given by that group. It was the first occasion the faculty has had to examine the new house, and inspection brought forth much praise for its appearance. Twenty-seven faculty members were present, and twelve tables were in use during the evening. When the final tables had been compared, it was found that Mrs. Stanwood had won the ladies' prize, Mr. Abrahamson the gentlemen's prize, and Mr. John Keefe the prize for the highest score. Refreshments were then served, and the guests departed with hearty congratulations on the improved house and the fine entertainment.

Those of the faculty who attended were: President Sills, Dean Nixon, Professor and Mrs. Mitchell, Professor Catlin, Professor Van Cleave, Professor Andrew, Professor and Mrs. Stanwood, Professor and Mrs. Little, Professor and Mrs. Means, Professor and Mrs. Hammond, Professor Chase, Professor Gilligan, Professor and Mrs. Bartlett, Mr. Abrahamson, Mr. J. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Childs, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, Mr. Daggett, and Mr. Braud.

that in some places rights of presentation were denied. For several years it was completely banned in England, as a direct result of criticism arising from a private performance of the tragedy. However, in the fourth year, it was successfully produced in the United States. William Dean Howells called it "a great theatrical event—the required of this quintet of actors: of James Blunt to portray the difficult role of Oswald Alving, fated to suffer by heredity for the sins of his father; of Mrs. Charles Gray who will enact the part of Mrs. Helen Alving, striving to lighten the tainted memory of her husband.

Intense, Realistic Drama
From the point of view of the audience this drama "makes all other first-act plays seem like a mere interpretation of life itself. Oswald, at the final curtain, burned with evil, oppressed by the sombre shadows of his existence, cries out in despair, "The sun is dead—"

Says Bennett Lee, in her treatise, "The Ibsen Secret": "The vividness of the play, the reality, the horror, are what stir one, and linger . . . Oswald, with the steady, consuming fire

No Insurance Collected as Theta Delt Chimney Blaze Proves Flop

Barrage of Snowballs Greeted Prompt Fire Department When T. D.'s are Balked in Attempt to get Rid of Old Homestead

By the Arson Reporter

Shortly after the evening meal last Sunday, the Bowdoin campus was startled by the ringing of gongs, the hoarse shouts of hardy firemen, and the crackling and growling of leaping tongues of flame. Blinding clouds of smoke blotted the stars from the sky. "Prince is smoking his first cigar!" was the thought that leaped into the minds of hundreds of Bowdoin students, as they saw whence the commotion was forthcoming. They flocked in great crowds to the T. D. Fraternity house, in the exclusive millionaire district of Maine Street-on-the-Mall. But there they saw what undoubtedly was the crummiest display of amateur arson since the Burning of Litchfield Hall, which at least served to provide amusement for the boys. The T. D. conflagration was an out and out display of inexperience in the time-honored racket of phoney fires. It looked like an Old Gold test from the street.

The Orient's fervid fire correspondent, having nothing better to do (worse luck!) agreed to go over and there he found that the only thing apt to collapse was the fire department's morale. Diligent sleuthing enabled this newshound to ferret out the facts, and to reconstruct the whole affair from a dastardly beginning to ignominious end. Your correspondent is a man of few words, and especially when he's writing for a paper that pays nobody, not even special correspondents, so let's get to the bottom of the whole business. The bottom is currently rumored to have been the notorious Brunswick Caravan, "Candy" Brown, who was pretty sick of the old T. D. house. And you'd be pretty sick of it too, if you'd been there as long as he has.

Anyway, the incendiary, whoever he

LARRY USHER CHOSEN POPULAR MAN IN JUNIOR ELECTIONS

John Hay and John Ricker, Jr., Chosen Pres. and Vice-Pres. respectively

The Class of 1932 holding the traditional Junior elections, chose W. Lawrence Usher, popular man on the first ballot, last Monday evening.

The nominations for president brought forward Ricker, Hay, and Stanwood. The first ballot found Ricker and Hay fighting the matter out. Hay was chosen on the second ballot. Bloddeau, Barlett, Ricker and Ricker lead on the first ballot, Ricker maintaining enough strength on the second to swing into office.

Short Secretary-Treasurer
Nominations for Secretary-Treasurer brought no less than six men into the field. Cobb, Lampert, Mullin, Moyer, Thistlewaite and Short were up, but the first ballot found only Cobb, Mullin and Short left. The second eliminated Mullin. Short was elected on the third.

Creighton, Galbraith, Gatchell, Harlow and Johnson were up for marshal. After two ballots Galbraith and Creighton were left. Creighton ultimately won out on a third ballot.

Fobes Class Oidist
The class poet chosen was Sewall. Hill, Densmore and Leo were named along with Sewall for the office. Hill and Sewall fought it out on the second, the election being made on the second ballot, winning over Densmore and Pottle.

Nominations for orator being in order, Albern, Barrett, Pottle and Plaisance remained on the first, but a landslide on the second ballot gave Plaisance the office.

Out of eleven nominations for the Ivy Day committee, Cleave was elected chairman. Binley, Dunbar, James and Stanwood were named his members.

PROF. GRAY GIVES READING IN UNION

On Saturday evening, January 17, Professor C. H. Gray of the English department presented two intensely interesting plays to a rather small audience of undergraduates. He read part of Cummings' play "The Enormous Room" and several of Shaw's one-act plays. Professor Gray's readings are unique in their presentation, and were well received by his interested listeners.

These readings on Saturday evening are a continuation of selected readings inaugurated by Professor Gray. He plans to continue his readings each Saturday evening and it is hoped that more interest will be stimulated among the undergraduate body for his future readings as this is a rare opportunity to hear excellent readings like these.

FROSH TRACKMEN BURY PORTLAND PRIZE SPEAKING HELD IN MEM. LAST EVENING

James Byers Colton II Wins Decision from Among Six Competitors

SUBJECT IS "VALUE OF CLASSICAL STUDY"

Other Speakers Discuss Many Phases of Literature, Science, Education and Government

At the annual class of 1928 speaking contest, held in Memorial Hall at eight o'clock last evening, James Byers Colton II, was judged the best speaker. All the speeches were very well presented. After every other speech, music by Warren's orchestra was played. The judges who awarded Colton the decision were: Rev. Andrew T. McWhorter, of Augusta; Professor Samuel F. Harms, of Bates College; and Mr. G. Allen Howe, Esq., of Brunswick. Colton took as his subject "The Value of the Classics."

Walter Parker Bowman Bowman's speech had the title of "The Snake in the Grass." It was a few reflections on the imperfections of modern literature. It was a parallel suggestion to G. Chesterton's proposal that science should take a ten year holiday. Bowman proposed, half seriously, that literature take a ten year holiday or the equivalent of such a holiday in reflection. He stated that there is too much sensationalism in the form and matter of present day literature. He also said that we of today, need a higher standard of thought.

Continued on Page 2

CAPTAIN C. W. KNIGHT GIVES LECTURE AT PASTIME THEATRE

Speaker Gives Interesting Discussion of Falconry in Middle Ages

"Sea Hawks" was the title of the lecture given by Capt. C. W. E. Knight Wednesday evening, January 14 at the Pastime Theatre. Capt. Knight is well known as a lecturer. He is rated as one of the foremost photographers of birds of prey. This lecture follows upon the success of another, following picture, "Falconry in the Middle Ages."

The picture dealt with both Scotland and America. The first of the pictures show the theft of the last nest of a sea hawk or osprey in the Scottish Highlands. This depravity of nests by egg collectors resulted in the extermination of the species in Great Britain.

On Gardiner's Island, off Long Island, owned by Mr. Lion Gardiner and leased by Mr. Clarence H. Mackay, is a bird sanctuary famous the world over. It was with this internationally known sanctuary and sportman, here harbors the largest colony of ospreys in existence. More than four hundred pairs of sea hawks live there protected in absolute security. It was with this security that most of the lecture dealt. Some of the slides, however, were taken not far from here. A bald eagle's nest was shown. It was through the cooperation of Dr. Alfred O. Gross, Professor of Biology here, that this picture, taken on the shores of the Kennebec river, was made.

The sea hawk or osprey lives entirely on fish which it catches with its talons. It will sometimes dive from a height of seventy feet into the sea to catch its meal. It is strong, graceful, and a relentless bird of prey. The wing spread of this bird is about five feet.

Falconry in the Middle Ages
An interesting part of the lecture (Continued on page 2)

According to a recent article in the Alumnus there are a number of Bowdoin men at Harvard. It states to begin with that Bowdoin is sending far more men to the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at that institution than any other college of its size. The enrollment of thirty-one is second only to Harvard's own four hundred forty-three and the thirty-seven men in studies the Alumnus says: "A study of the undergraduate rank of these graduate students shows that a remarkably large proportion of Bowdoin's best students continue their study at Harvard. Of the eighty-one men, eight graduated summa cum laude, six magna cum laude, and nineteen cum laude. This high rank is particularly prominent among the group in the School of Arts and Sciences, where eight of the thirty-one men listed graduated cum laude or higher."

Thirteen of the classes between 1897 and 1930 have men at Harvard. The last seven are all represented the largest enrollment being from the class of 1929 which has a total of twenty men.

Concerning the activities of these men in studies the Alumnus says: "A study of the undergraduate rank of these graduate students shows that a remarkably large proportion of Bowdoin's best students continue their study at Harvard. Of the eighty-one men, eight graduated summa cum laude, six magna cum laude, and nineteen cum laude. This high rank is particularly prominent among the group in the School of Arts and Sciences, where eight of the thirty-one men listed graduated cum laude or higher."

SOPHS ENGAGE CELEBRATED CASA LOMA ORCHESTRA FOR ANNUAL CLASS DANCE

Following the announcement by the Soph Hop committee that house parties will hold away February 19th and 20th, comes word that the celebrated Casa Loma Orchestra will play at the Gym Dance.

A record breaking attendance is expected as a result of the fortunate choice of the Casa Loma outfit which has enjoyed a phenomenal rise to a position among the nation's best orchestras since their return to the states summer of 1929 at Edgewater Park under the management of the well-known maestro, Jean Goldkette. September, 1929, found them at Atlantic City playing a week for Roger Wolf Kahn, after which they came to New York where they played the fall opening of Roseland Ballroom on Broadway. They scored a big hit at Roseland and accepted an offer to furnish the music at the Senior Prom at Princeton University. The sensation they caused at both Roseland and Princeton brought offers from all over the East. In rapid succession until late June 1930, they played the principal dances at such schools as University of Pennsylvania, Penn State, Cornell, Amherst, Washington, Yale, Vanderbilt, University of South Carolina, Ohio, Lafayette, Gettysburg and Ohio State. It was during this time that they contracted to record for the Okeh Phonograph Company. In conjunction with these college functions they have played at nearly every prominent ballroom between New York City and Kansas City. So much confusion arose over the exact identity of the orchestra that they incorporated under the New York State Laws in the name of Casa Loma and at the same time went under their own management. It is almost unique in this latter respect.

PRES. WILL ATTEND ALUMNI MEETINGS

Annually at about this season of year Bowdoin's various alumni associations hold their reunions. President Sills plans to attend several of these meetings, the first of which is to take place at the University Club in Boston January 28. On January 29 the Association of Western Massachusetts, whose president is George Palmer Hyde '08, A.B., LL.B., convenes at Springfield. On the 30th there is a reunion at the Park Avenue Hotel in New York of the Association of New York and vicinity, whose president is R. H. Hupper '07, A.B., LL.B. President Sills will also speak at the meeting of the Bowdoin club of Philadelphia, whose president is Lester Sills '10, A.B., on the 31st. President Sills will be away from college from January 28th until February 3rd during part of the mid-year examination period and will speak of the results of his trip in chapel when he returns.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors
Associate Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32
Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '38
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '38

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager
Artine Artinian '31
Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue
Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, January 21, 1931.

No. 21

Athletics

Despite a tempest of athletic competitions last Saturday, Bowdoin fared well, considering all there is to consider. The swimming team's victory over M. I. T. was notable. The Freshmen climbed to the foreground with the victory over South Portland High School in the track meet, and with the win in hockey over Bridgton, 4 to 1. Although Hebron showed a considerable scoring lead over the Freshmen, yet the latter held an indisputable superior team for quite a time before breaking down in the rushing pace. Perhaps we are being a bit premature in our prophecies, but indications point to some valuable additions to varsity squads after Mid-Years.

Mid-Years

Even those of us who are never without our Murads become caught in the giant swirl of feverishness at times, and surely the Big Exams mark such an occasion. The reading period comes shortly, and down we shall sit to congest facts we should not have postponed learning, facts we never intended learning, and facts we never will learn.

It is a time when we probably become more highly keyed up than any time during the year. True, finals come later, but by that time we feel sufficiently hardened to succeed in anything, basing this judgment on the many preceding exams and the endurance record for Ivy.

As exams come at this psychological high spot for the year, we should give them more attention in preparation—not only for our own preparation, but for all the other students. The dormitory halls are, admittedly, the most tempting places for solo attempts with "The Penalty of Love" and "Little White Lies", "bull" sessions, and all kinds of bannister breaking sports, but for the welfare of the majority, quiet is requested throughout the exam period. After the worst ones are over, or after the final one, please don't become so absorbed in a personal situation as to forget the situations of the other dormitory inhabitants.

Union Dining Service

Earnest efforts are being made by the Dining Service authorities of the Union to secure a financial balance. At this time the new $8 a week board plan is half through its first week of experiment, with close attention being given to the results.

An extension of the canteen service will probably take place according to reports, around the first of the second semester. Men studying in the dormitories frequently cannot take time to drop into the Canteen for a bite or so, and for the benefit of these students the new service will be inaugurated, it is indicated. The fraternity houses will not receive the Canteen service, most likely, because they are so distant from the Union, but will receive the usual service.

In view of the splendid attempts of the Dining Service, full patronage should be given it. It is a splendid possession of the college and well deserves all support.

From the Future

A great deal has appeared concerning the year 1980, the theme of a recent delightful, imaginative talkie. Much of the world in general was commented upon in the picture, but something much more personal to us all was omitted. We beg you to think seriously of this pre-print of an article in the ORIENT, March 16, 1980:

Orley Smith, Sr., Class of 1935, recently entertained a group at his home in honor of the birthday anniversary of his son, Orley, Jr., who is now following closely in the footsteps of his father, head of Television, Inc., in the improvement of visual broadcasting.

The real purpose of the gathering was explained in the after-dinner address of the senior Smith.

"My friends, you have come here to attend the birthday festivities in honor of my son. You have given your gifts and now I wish to give mine. I wish to say a few words in advance, however.

"As nothing could be more fitting than a family heirloom, I wish to present what is closest my heart, a gift that carries with it all the spirit of Bowdoin College in the '30 Decade. Those were the good old days... when Bates and Colby were able to provide opposition. But I am digressing. I give to you, my son and heir, the most precious possession I have—the Bowdoin plates."

Alumni Secretary Wilder bulletins that the closing date for placing orders for the plates is January 26. The plates will be a valuable investment, and we venture to predict that those who order will reach the same conclusion quite some years before 1980.

P. T. W. '32.

Bowdoin Column

The Reading Period

Friday begins the mid-year reading period, so-called, though the period is hardly worthy of the title. One supposes that we should be grateful to the college authorities, who, out of the greatness of their hearts, have set aside and added on to the ordinary week end an extra day and a half in which to review the semester's work. Just imagine it: at all make it of sufficient length to permit of an intelligent review instead of a hit-or-miss cramming? Why not try a week sometime, and see if the general tone of the exam papers isn't somewhat higher? Harvard, an institution noted neither as radical nor as particularly lax in its standards, allows one much longer than that. We might cite numerous other examples. As things stand now we are expected to cover most of our courses in the time allotted and do the rest piecemeal as exams proceed. In the first place the silly little reading period now in existence affords no more than time for a systematic review of a single course, or perhaps two of the less difficult ones, and even at that the work has to be done so hurriedly that it is far from thorough and at such high pressure that one reaches the exam room pretty well "bushed". In the case of those unlucky enough to have all or even a majority of their exams the first two or three days and such cases are not unusual the odds are pretty unfairly distributed. "Start reviewing a little earlier," says the administration, blithe as a May morning. "Great idea," we agree, but then we come to realize that besides ordinary class work to prepare we have an hour exam and a long written report to get in this week, to say nothing of doing the few chapters the professor forgot to assign but expects to cover in the examination. Not much time for review there.

All of which brings us inevitably to the subject of these last-minute hour exams. According to the perpetrators they are justifiable and even desirable inasmuch as they give one a chance to get all that reviewing done before finals. Frankly, we can't see it. In the first place, why give two examinations in quick succession covering the same general ground, anyway? In the second place, while hour exams do give one a chance to fix details of a portion of the course in one's mind, they do not help much in the sort of wide-sweeping correlation of facts and material so essential to a final review. So when we get all nicely reviewed, we have to turn around and go over everything again when we come to link it up with what goes before. Thirdly, if a man has one or two hour exams to prepare for the last week of the semester, the chances are that he will enter the reading period pretty much all ground out, with little enthusiasm or energy for further grindings.

Therefore, in view of these conditions, we ask why the College does not take some definite stand upon the matter. Why not do away entirely with reading period and leave the reviewing to be done grammar-school fashion, the night before the exam? Or why not take the other alternative making the radical and un-heard-of assumption that a majority of the men in college are sufficiently grown up to know how to use their time, and give a reading period that really amounts to something. The present one is a disgrace, not only to the system but to the men who give the courses which we are expected to review and correlate in that period. And it can be fairly said that most courses do require such a correlation and linking up of the work covered in the whole field. If they are so simple that this can be done intelligently in a couple of days, they must be next to worthless, so why bother to give them at all?

G. T. S. '32

IN WALKER ART GALLERY

Of the several galleries in the Walker Art Building none present a more varied display than the Boyd Gallery, named for the Col. George W. Boyd Collection of Paintings which comprises the principal exhibition therein.

The paintings of the Boyd collection are of Italian, French, German, English, Chinese, American and some of unknown schools. The Healy portrait of Henry W. Longfellow is one of the best of the paintings shown here. The head is of special merit. To the right a remarkable portrait of a young man attributed to Mazo. The latest portrait to be acquired by the Boyd Gallery is the painting by Frank O. Salisbury of the late Edward P. Mitchell, once editor of the New York is pleased to announce to its clientele, a private mid-winter sale, with conservative reductions on seasonal merchandise, from our regular stock of exclusive apparel. Merchandise purchased during this sale may be charged to your account, according to our regular terms.

The House of Walsh

During the READING PERIOD
and EXAMINATIONS

Come Over and Refresh Yourself at the SPA

Intercollegiate Column
Just An Experiment

Recently the executors of a will of a certain Southern gentleman were confronted with carrying out the following provisions in regard to the establishment of a new college, which, among other things, was to be situated "no nearer than fifteen miles to town". The institution was, furthermore, to be attended by male pupils of American or British descent only, to give no examinations, to have no instruction in foreign languages, to have no religious buildings or exercises and to engage no minister of whatever denomination or faith on the faculty—May God speed this ignoble experiment!

Holy Cross College, an institution wherein democracy is emphasized, is planning for its Freshmen, their first reception to the college. The new class members are welcomed on an equal footing with the other members of the college by the Senior class instead of being subjected to humiliating initiations. The program is to consist of talks, acts, refreshments and a smoker.

Classroom

The Classroom contains the apparatus for stereoscopic views to illustrate lectures to art students and a collection of Eight Charcoal Studies, by John S. Sargent, given by Miss Emily Sargent and Mrs. Francis Ormond.

Sun. Mr. Salisbury is an English painter of excellent reputation and the Mitchell picture is considered one of his finest works, and one of the best likenesses possessed by the College. The other paintings in the Boyd Gallery are of widely varied subjects by well known artists, both modern and Renaissance.

Two drawings by John Flaxman are displayed with the paintings. These were purchased in 1913 by President K. C. M. Sills from funds given by the Classical Club.

The Boyd Gallery sculpture exhibit contains works of American, Italian and classical artisans. The bust of Rear Admiral Peary by W. O. Partridge is the most outstanding here. The largest exhibit is the Japanese Buddha given by Hon. Harold M. Sewall. The suit of Chinese armour, old English carved oak chair (1630), and the unique and beautiful alabaster model in alabaster of the Taj Mahal are the features of the classical sculpture exhibit.

The case displays here are too varied to classify, being made up of miscellaneous contributions of valuable and interesting antique and modern pieces. Coins, ancient and modern, ancient pottery, precious stones and statuettes form the bulk of the enclosed objects. The collection of ancient coins at the east end of the gallery is of special interest to numismatists.

The Assyrian Room

The Assyrian Room contains five Gypsum slabs carved in bas-relief with cuneiform inscriptions. The color is light gray and they contain contemporary records of the deeds of King Assur-nazirpal (883-858 B. C.) and were given by Henry Bryon Haskell, M.D., '55, missionary physician at Mosul. The slabs were received in 1890.

A copy of the inscriptions on the rosetta stone and the Charles A. Coffin collection of etchings complete the exhibit in this room.

The Corridor

Paintings in the corridor in the basement are from the Bowdoin and Boyd Galleries. A case of old English and American porcelain and glassware lent by Miss Theodosia Fendleton is also to be found here.

Lewis J. Preney Dies

Last Monday evening Lewis J. Preney, for many years Pressman for the Brunswick Record and well known to editors of the Orient died of double pneumonia after a week's illness. Mr. Preney was always well liked by members of the Orient. In all circumstances he was helpful and patient. Mr. Preney was associated with the Record for fourteen years and was always an untiring conscientious worker.

The Ideal Hotel for You
In BOSTONIs the NEW
Hotel MANGER

At North Station
Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot
and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS

Each Room equipped with Tub and Shower & Built-in-Radio Speaker (Three Station Service) & Servidor Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Modernly Equipped and Perfectly Apportioned Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH
FOR ONE—$2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00
FOR TWO—$4.00, $4.50, $5.00, $5.50
No Higher Rates

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

Fitting the service to the customer's needs

Bell System service is custom-made. Each of the 65,000,000 telephone calls handled in the average day must meet the exact wishes of the person making the call.

Telephone men study a customer's communication needs, then advise the type of equipment that fits them best. For department stores they may recommend the "order turret"—a special switchboard for taking orders by telephone. Thus they enlarge the store's service and simplify ordering for the customer. They develop equipment and plans for brokerage houses, police departments, nation-wide sales forces—and all manner of business firms.

The telephone industry continues to grow by fitting its service more and more completely to the user's needs. For men with insight and the ability to coordinate, the opportunity is there!

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

New Vanities — Combination Cigarette Case and Lighter
The Alchemist Perfumer — All with Bowdoin Seal
BOWDOIN SEAL CARDS

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

PROF. HOERNLE WILL LECTURE HERE ON JAN. 27

(Continued from Page 1)

born in Bonn, Germany, of Anglo-British ancestry, his grandfather having been a missionary in India. He was fitted for college in several German schools including the Gymnasium Ernestinum at Gotha. He attended Balliol College at Oxford where he received his A.B. degree in 1903. He was the John Locke scholar at Oxford in 1904.

He became Assistant to the Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of St. Andrews, Scotland, in 1905. From 1908 to 1911, he held the professorship of Philosophy at South African College, Cape Town, South Africa. In 1912, Professor Hoernle returned to Great Britain where he became Professor of Philosophy at Armstrong College in the University of Durham. Two years after, he came to America. Here he became Assistant Professor of Philosophy and Psychology at Harvard where he remained until 1920. He was called in 1925 to become the head of the Philosophy Department of the University of the Witwatersrand which position he has occupied since then. In the fall of 1926, he absented himself from South Africa and taught at Bowdoin. His interesting and attractive personality made him very well liked among the students, the faculty and the people of Brunswick. The latter invited him to be a judge at a beauty contest held in Brunswick at the time. While at Bowdoin, he gave a public lecture on "Philosophy and Religion" which was very successful. During his stay in America at that time, he also attended the International Congress of Philosophers at Cambridge.

Author of Several Books
Professor Hoernle is the author of a number of books on philosophy which are widely read in colleges. He is a contributor as well to the British psychological and philosophical magazine, "Mind". His books include "Studies in Contemporary Metaphysics" (1920), "Master, Life, Mind, and God" (1922), and "Idealism as a Philosophical Doctrine" (1924), enlarged and reissued in 1927.

VARSITY DEBATING TEAM IS CHOSEN

Will Take 2,000 Mile Trip Through Mid-West After Mid-Years

The trials for the varsity debating team were held last Thursday evening, and Coach Childs, with the assistance of Paul Walker, Chairman of the Debating Council, chose Albert Samuel Davis, Jr., '33, Chi Psi; Donald Francis Prince '31, Theta Delta Chi; and Norman von Rosenzweig '33. The subject of debate for the trials was: Resolved, that America Should Adopt a System of Unemployment Insurance. Contributed to by Employer and Employee and Superintended by the Several States. Since this will be Prince's and Davis' second year working together the two may be expected to show the polish of practiced collaboration.

CAPTAIN C. W. KNIGHT GIVES LECTURE AT PASTIME THEATRE

(Continued from page 1)

was a section devoted to a picturization of the ancient sport of falconry as practised in the Middle Ages. There was some striking photography here including a scene showing the capture in mid-air of a duck by a hawk. The life of an osprey from the moment it left the egg until the time it was ready to shift for itself was shown. Intermingled with this was much about other wild life on the island. Capt. Knight's trained eagle, "Mr. Ramshaw" was made the object of an attack by ospreys. The battle was shown in some amazing slow motion pictures. There were some pictures of the ospreys diving into the ocean for fish.

To revive the species in England a bird sanctuary has been established in Lochiel by Colonel Cameron. The last scenes of this picture take us back to Scotland and we see Captain Knight releasing two ospreys in the same place where the picture opened. A few touches of humor were introduced by interesting cartoons shown at various intervals throughout the lecture.

On the Mid-Year's Coming of Age In this period of economic and business depression we hear from M. I. T. that the students of that university are celebrating Mid-Years with a Depression Dance. Those who are, unfortunately, preparing for mid-year examinations are welcome—pro-

CASA LOMA ORCHESTRA TO PLAY AT SOPH HOP

IBSEN'S "GHOSTS" TO BE SOPH HOP PLAY

(Continued from page 1)

eating into his life, and his mother fluttering helplessly near, are realities.

And Oswald, sunk in the depths of his despair, feeling the inevitable doom caused by the tainted memory of his father, groans, "Everything will burn. There won't remain a single thing in memory of my father. Here am I, too, burning down." This is when the Orphanage, built by the wife to expiate the crimes of her husband, is fated to destruction: the symbol of the ultimate collapse of evil. Attains Thrilling Climax

Strong in dramatic power, compelling in its symbolism, and searching in its study of human souls, "Ghosts" provides no slight entertainment for an audience. As George Brandes, the Danish critic, said: "He becomes the most modern of the moderns. This, I am convinced, is his imperishable glory, and will give lasting life to his works."

Action in the tragedy is psychological; affairs work up to a dramatic climax when the Orphanage burns at a crucial moment. Mrs. Alving's plans are shattered, the Parson sends her, Engstrand takes his booty and leaves, and Regina departs. Yet the entire play is encompassed in the short space of twenty-four hours. There is but one scene throughout the three acts: the spacious garden-room of Mrs. Alving's country house, beside one of the larger fjords in Western Norway.

Characters All Realistic
The characters are all vital, realistic, and their interpretation offers endless scope of possibility to the five members of the cast chosen. From the beginning of this week, when rehearsals started, until the dress rehearsal, efforts will be bent to secure the desired effect to impress the audience with a sensation of extreme reality.

vided they bring doleful, ragged, or dirty clothes—and a long face, in view of the mighty holocaust to come. Help will be given to the poor and needy and apples and doughnuts will be given away gratis.

KAPPA SIGMA HOUSE GREATLY IMPROVED BY RECENT RENOVATIONS

Interest of Active Members and Alumni Play Large Part in Carrying Out Work

As one approaches the site of the new Kappa Sigma fraternity house on Harpell street, it is not difficult to understand that here is the culmination of a long-felt want, of over five years' planning and of the efforts of many alumni brothers. Situated on an advantageous position at the corner of Harpell and College streets, every factor of the building's imposing appearance is brought out. The tall colonial-type column of the piazza immediately attract the eye, while the refreshing simplicity of the house proper tends to set them off to advantage. A sun porch and gabled roof complete the colonial-style effect. Upon entering the living room, we find this spacious interior paneled with pumpkin pine and furnished with luxurious maplewood furniture. A large fireplace increases the hominess, and at one end a smaller room inspires a sense of comfort.

Also opening off the living room is the dining room comfortably seating fifty people. On this same floor is a suite for alumni guests and quarters for the matron.

Ascending the winding stairway we may examine on the second and third floors eight suites each rooming two students and one suite for three. These are all furnished, and afford ample studying and sleeping quarters for the men.

A thorough survey of all this can only bring to mind the great effort put forth by the building committee, consisting of Burton M. Clough '00, of Portland; Charles L. Oxnard '11, of West Medford, Mass.; Leon E. Jones '13, of Portland; Donovan D. Lancaster '27, of Brunswick; and Herbert H. Rose '31 of Houlton. Mr. Mayo formerly of Miller, Mayo and Beales of Portland, drew the plans for the house.

Present members of Kappa Sigma are indeed fortunate in being able to enjoy such an elaborate house furnished to them by interested alumni.

'68 PRIZE SPEAKING HELD LAST EVENING

(Continued from Page 1)

James Beyers Colton
The title of Mr. Colton's speech was "The Value of Classical Study". The main theme of the speech was that we owe to the civilization of Rome and Greece everything that is valuable in this modern time. That is of course, with the exception of science, for we have not invented anything excepting scientific things. Not even poetry or tragedy or comedy, or even in religion, Colton stated. In order to get the best benefit from classical study, it is necessary for the studies to be translated from the original, for, as he went on to say, translations are like photographs, best for producing drawings and worse for sunsets. He concluded by saying that the best of our English and American authors were men versed in Greek and Roman literature.

John Thomas Gould
Nonsense literature and its value as an escape from the affairs of literature was the thesis of Mr. Gould's oration, as he attempted to add to the Wordsworthian philosophy that "The world is too much with us." Beginning with a glance ahead to the time when the affairs of grown-up men will cause students to forge their younger dreams and ambitions, he explained what nonsense literature is, what it means to those who find it a relief from the too-sensible things in life, and followed with several examples of the best nonsense prose and poetry. He closed with an appeal for the greater attention for Mother Goose, Alice in Wonderland and similar things, as a chance to add color to life when it begins to pale under the effects of worldly cares.

Lawrence Cooper Jenks
Mr. Jenks' speech had the title "Shaking the dry bones of civilization". The brief resume is as follows: Youth of today is demanding a change from the continual system of mass education. In response to this several prominent educators, notably Merklejohn at Wisconsin, Holt at Rollins, and Morgan at Antioch, have undertaken to introduce more individualized methods in their colleges. These experiments emphasize the importance of individual experience and initiative in learning, as well as the value of closer contact between instructor and pupil in the student's development. They seem to show, too, that training of the young man in his own special capacities is the best preparation for the world's work that the college can give. Although the many experiments in form, they present a unity of spirit and demonstrate conclusively that youth and educators alike are recognizing and accepting the challenge of individualism.

Albert Edward Jenkins
Mr. Jenkins spoke with considerable enthusiasm on "Communist Russia". After a short review of the historical and psychological background upon which Russian Communism is founded, he presented rather an interesting contention. He maintained "that Communism—good or bad in our estimation—has done at least one thing for Russia, namely, it has presented a new faith." The popular faith, and enthusiasm for Communism is the greatest motivating power which is making possible in Russia a maximum social and economic development in the shortest possible time.

Robert Morton McFarland
As the material for his speech, Mr. McFarland chose to discuss some of the popular criticism of Science. He brought out several important points in this, the first of which was that Science classifies facts and has no control over nature. He said that we can't explain Life in Spiritual principles by Science, because that is not the purpose of Science. When philosophers try to do this, they misuse Science. One of his most important points was that there is no definite connection between Science and Religion. He said that one encroached upon the other, and hence we have the eternal conflict. He concluded this point by saying that the Church goes beyond its proper domain. Although many attempts are made to lament it, our modern civilization is a good thing; if we do away with the superstitions, and let social rules catch up with Science. Without meddling at all, Science has gone to the foreground as the leader of advancement.

WHITE KEY MEETS VISITING TEAMS

The latest informal meeting of the Junior "White Key" Society was held last Thursday evening at the Moulton Union. Committees were named to take charge of securing accommodations for the Dartmouth gym team Friday night and the I. T. swimming team Saturday. In accordance with its usual custom, the White Key will continue its functions throughout the year, providing a welcome for each visiting team that comes to Bowdoin.

THETA DELT FIRE ONLY SMALL BLAZE

(Continued from Page 1)

average is 1,000, too!"—"Boys, the house is on fire!"
"Hurrah!" cried the boys, and as one man they rushed for the cans of kerosene which they had been keeping in the cellar for just such a good break as this. "Now we can get a new house!"

"What a break for Spring rushing!" cried Dampier Don Prince.
But there was a fly in the ointment! Some stupid Freshman, unwise in the ways of his wily seniors, had turned in an alarm, and in the distance could be heard, crescendo, the noise of the approaching Brunswick's Finest, with Dauntless Billy Edwards at their head, resplendent in his Other Uniform, and with a new whistle. What was this mighty sashem's surprise, when he averted before the doomed house, to find himself greeted with a tremendous ovation of snowballs which were thrown with uncanny aim at the chief's calloused knicker. "Hey!" heaved the chief, "cut that out!" and he proceeded to arrest the instigator of the snowball serenade, a luckless wight named Wright. Wright was rescued by his indignant companions, and the chief, urged to action by the snowball serenaders, and the chief mounted to the level of the roof's edge, where he launched at once into a brilliant campaign speech, with both eyes on the coming election. The cheers of the student body, by this time arriving in great numbers, drowned out everything the chief had to say, which, all in all, was a great boon. The chief bowed and nearly fell off the ladder, but as luck (bad luck) would have it, he regarded his footing, and waved his hat to acknowledge the plaudits of the multitude.

At this point it was discovered that delegates from six of the other fraternities had collected all the Sunday papers in the six houses, and were hastening to throw them on the pyre, they being under the impression that it was George Lam's mustache which was ablaze. It was a crucial moment for the Brunswick pompier! A wag in the group at the foot of the ladders had suggested, very audibly, that they make some effort to put out the fire.

The department went into a lull to discuss this suggestion. The upshot was a statement from the assistant chief that financial conditions in the United States were basically sound, and that Spring would see a rising market.

And then the fire-ladders went to work with a vigor. At this writing the name of the vigor with whom they worked is unknown, but subsequent investigation is expected to reveal much. The firemen and the students struggled valiantly with the flames, but to no avail. In spite of all they could do, the fire died out eventually, and the insurance company expressed the general opinion of the moment when its agent made the following statement: "Just another lousy phoney! If they wanted the dough, why didn't they light the fire in the cellar? This brew would have made one swell explosion!"

DISCUSSION GROUP MEETS IN UNION

Owing to the temporary absence of Dr. Goodrich, Professor Burnett held the weekly student discussion in the B. C. A. room of the Moulton Union Sunday, January 18th. Dr. Burnett talked on "The Psychology of Religion", stressing that psychology and religion are not necessarily joint interests, that the student of that branch of psychology which studies religion does so at a perfectly neutral standpoint, not questioning whether the religion be good or bad, but studying the effects of this and that religion on certain people and their emotional reactions and attitude on life in general.

These discussions are held each Sunday at 12:08 p. m. and are open to all interested.

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - January 21
THE PRINCESS and THE PLUMBER
- with -
Charles Farrell - H. B. Warner
Maureen O'Sullivan
Also Pathe Review and Comedy

Thursday - January 22
EYES OF THE WORLD
- with -
John Holland - Una Merkle
Nance O'Neill
Also Comedy and Sound Act

Friday - January 23
VAUDEVILLE
- on the screen -
A LADY'S MORALS
- with -
Grace Moore - Reginald Denny
Wallace Beery
Also Paramount News

Saturday - January 24
THE NAUGHTY FLIRT
- with -
Alice White - Paul Page
Myrna Loy
Also Comedy and Talkartoon

Mon. and Tues. - Jan. 26 and 27
MOROCCO
- with -
Gary Cooper - Marlene Dietrich
Adolphe Menjou
Also Paramount News - Sound Act

Which is bigger—the airplane's landing wheel or the setting sun? Guess first, then check your guess with a measure.

YOUR EYES MAY FOOL YOU
BUT
YOUR TASTE tells the Truth!

MILDER...AND BETTER TASTE

They Satisfy

Fraternity
Initiations
This WeekChi Psi, Kappa Sigma, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Nu and
A. T. O. InitiateFEW UPPERCLASSMEN
AMONG CANDIDATESTraditional Ceremonies to Take Place Friday and Saturday of
This Week

Five fraternities will carry out their annual initiation rites this week end, Friday the thirteenth and Saturday, the fourteenth of February. The houses initiating are Chi Psi, Kappa Sigma, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Nu, and Alpha Tau Omega. A few upper classmen and entire freshman delegations will be initiated into the several fraternities except in individual cases, insufficient grade averages prevent. At the time of this printing the final lists of initiates have not been made out.

The following is the tentative list as it now stands. Men listed are freshmen unless otherwise indicated:

Chi Psi
Kendall Parker Abbott, Waterboro
Garner Rodney Hackwell, Bridgewater, Mass.
Eugene George Ingalls, Bath
James Blinn Perkins, Jr., Boothbay Harbor
Richard Rankin Sherman, Belfast
Neal Thomas Skillings, Portland
Blake Tewksbury, Cumberland
Mills
Henry Nelson Tibbetts, Mt. Vernon,
N. Y.

Kappa Sigma
Walter Parker Bowman '31, Yonkers-on-Hudson, N. Y.
Kennedy Crane, Rockland
Richard Leslie Goldsmith, Skowhegan Roger Shultz Hall, Highland Mills,
N. Y.
Stanley Hohn Kamykowski, Milford, Conn.
Harry Raymond Kellett, Lawrence, Mass.

Alpha Tau Omega
Charles Fox Kahill, Portland
Brewer Jay Merritt, Framingham, Mass.
Alden Stuart O'Brien, Lubec
Gardner Chase Pope, East Machias
Bertram Quincy Robbins, Lincoln
William Darsie Rounds, Rockland
Beta Theta Pi

John Dono Brooks, Stoughton, Mass.
Kenneth Gordon Cady, Waban, Mass.
Richard Potter Emery, Dorchester, Mass.
Joseph Nealley Fernald, Nottingham, N. H.
John Chester Gasley, New Rochelle, N. Y.
John William Lord, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Charles Henry McKenney, Wellesley Hills, Mass.

James Horace Norton, Detroit, Mich.
Raymond Francis Prince, Bangor
Alden Hampton Vose, Jr., Westport, Conn.
James Graham Woodruff, Barre, Vt.

Sigma Nu
Robert James Carson, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa.
Clement Lawrence Donahue, Presque Isle
Bryant Chamberlain Emerson, Somersworth, N. H.
John Gilbert Fay, N. Y. C.
Franklin Howe Fliske, Greenfield, Mass.

(Continued on Page 3)

PROFESSOR NORRIS
AGAIN TO BE VISIT-ING LECTURER HERETo Deliver Series of Three Scientific Lectures This Semester

Professor James Flack Norris, of the department of chemistry at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will deliver three scientific lectures at the college during this semester, under the auspices of the Bowdoin department of chemistry.

The visiting professor returns for the second time, for in the spring semester of 1928-29 he was lecturer in chemistry. At the Bowdoin Commencement of the latter year Professor Norris was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Science. The professor was at one time President of the American Chemical Society.

"Motor Fuels" is the topic of Professor Norris' first lecture, to be delivered for all men taking chemistry, on Monday at 10.30. All other men interested in these talks may attend. On Monday, March 2, Professor Norris will lecture on "Some New Chemical Industries". His final address will be Monday, March 16, and is entitled "Chemistry and the Farmer".

During the afternoons of the three weeks which Professor Norris is at Bowdoin he will be available for any student conferences that may be arranged.

PROGRAM
Friday, February 13
Prof. Walton B. McDaniel, "In the Wake and Footsteps of Aeneas"
Sunday, February 15
Mr. Clayton H. Ernst, Editor of the "Open Road", Chapel Speaker, "International Friendships"
Monday, February 16
Prof. Norris, Lecture on Chemistry

HOUSEPARTY PLANS
PROGRESS RAPIDLY
AS OCCASION NEARSNext Week to Witness Another Soph Hop at
Bowdoin

Plans are being made by the various fraternities for House Parties on the week end of February 18th and 19th. Full details have not been formulated as yet but most of the orchestras have been engaged.

The Alpha Deltas plan a sleigh ride and McKinney's Cotton Pickers will furnish the music. The Casa Loma orchestra will play at the Psi U house dance and also at the D. U. house. The Chi Psi's plan to engage one of Sullivan's orchestras and Delta Kappa Epsilon will share the Cotton Pickers with Alpha Delta Phi. Kappa Sigma has engaged Louger's Hudson-Essex Challengers and Dick Marston's band will play at the Beta house dance. Alpha Tau Omega has engaged Ross and his gang from New Hampshire.

PRES. SILLS VISITS
ALUMNI MEETINGSAccompanied by Alumni Secretary P. S. Wilder
on Tour

From January 28th to 31st five Bowdoin Alumni Associations held meetings in various parts of the East. President Sills and Alumni Secretary Philip S. Wilder represented the college.

The Bowdoin Association of Boston held its meeting on January 28th, Wednesday, at the University Club of that city with 13 members. The speakers were President Sills and President Cousins of Tufts College. President Sills and President Cousins discussed the advantages and disadvantages of the four-year college course. Dr. Sills defending that scheme, believing that less time spent in college does not tend to make for maturity as does the full four year period—the first year one of apprenticeship; the second, one of guidance; and the third, one of guidance; and the fourth, a year of leadership. During this meeting Dr. Alfred E. Burton '78 blew on the gawgaw, an antique horn, used to summon the members of Phi Chi during the 70's. Mr. Wilder spoke also.

The election of officers resulted in William M. Emery '30 being re-elected with Earle W. Cook '17 as secretary.

On the same day the Bowdoin Club of Portland met at the Falmouth Hotel with thirty-five present. Professor Albert Abrahamson spoke on unemployment.

At the Stonehaven Hotel at Springfield, Mass., the Bowdoin Association of Western Mass. met on Thursday, January 29th. Here President Sills spoke again on the advantages of the four-year college course, with President Nelson of Smith College substantiating his opinion. Louis W. Doherty '19 was elected president and Sidney P. Brown was re-elected secretary. This meeting was attended by about thirty people.

The Bowdoin Association of New York and vicinity met on Friday, January 30th. The speakers were President Sills, Coach Bowser, and William Tewdard Foster, coach of the "Road to Pleasure" and former faculty member. Mr. Foster is now director of the Pollak Foundation for Economic Research. The gawgaw was blown again. This time by Horace E. (Continued on page 3)

WEBER AND WRIGHT WIN FAIRBANKS
DECLAMATION PRIZESBoth Freshmen Prominent in Class
Standing and Activities

Carl Frederick Albert Weber of South Portland and Theodore Anthony Wright of West Hartford, Conn., both members of the class of 1934, were recently announced as winners of the Hilland Lockwood Fairbanks Prizes for excellence in declamation. These prizes are awarded annually from the fund established in 1906 by Captain Henry N. Fairbanks of Bangor in memory of his son, Hilland Lockwood Fairbanks, a member of the class of 1895.

Weber entered Bowdoin from Deerfield High School, Portland and is a high ranking member of his class. He was salutatorian and president of his class in high school and was named as winner of the State of Maine Scholarship from the Portland district last Spring. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. Wright ranks high in his class and is a member of the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity.

STUDENTS PETITION
ATHLETIC COUNCIL
TO RETAIN HOUSERStudent Council Petition Put in Circulation
Last Night

The Student Council crystallized student sentiment in regard to the recent resignation of Ben Houser, as Baseball and Hockey Coach, to take effect this June, in a statement issued to the Orient Tuesday, in which it viewed with "high disfavor," the acceptance of Houser's resignation by the Athletic Council.

It is the opinion of the Student Council that the undergraduates should have had some voice in the Athletic Council meeting of January 24, and it backs up its formal protest to the Orient with a petition which urges the Athletic Council to reconsider the resignation of Houser. The statement follows:

To the Orient:
In view of the fact that the Students were not allowed to express their opinion or to have any say whatsoever in regard to the resignation of Ben Houser, the Student Council deems it advisable to send a petition, signed by the undergraduates, to the Athletic Council in hopes that it may bring to light the high disfavor with which they hold its acceptance and also show the respect and praise they have for their coach.

Certainly the students or those whom they name to represent them should have an opportunity to state their ideas on the matter and surely the resignation of Ben Houser should be given due consideration before its acceptance. He, who has been so successful in producing winning baseball and hockey teams, should not even be allowed to think of resigning.

Surely the authorities will find it extremely difficult to find a baseball coach of the caliber and experience of Ben Houser.

(Signed)

A. L. CRIMMINS,
For the Student Council.INTERSCHOLASTIC MEET TO BE HELD
HERE ON MARCH 14

The Bowdoin College open interscholastic track and field meet will be held this year on March 14 in the Bowdoin College gymnasium. The competition will be among the high schools in one division and the pre-collegiate in another.

(Continued on page 4)

Played Here Last Evening

STUDENT ECONOMIC CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT AUGUSTATwelve Delegates to be Sent to Annual Meeting from Each Maine College

A congress of 48 students from Maine's four colleges will make a study of the Pine Tree State's business and professional opportunities at the Second College Economic Conference to be held by the Maine Development Commission at the State House, March 13 and 14.

Twelve delegates from each college, eight men and four women in the case of the co-educational institutions will be present at the party. They will be addressed by four Maine business and professional leaders on four subjects chosen from the following:

1. Banking
2. Vocational Opportunities for Women in the State
3. Pulp and Paper
4. Power
5. Boots and Shoes
6. Textiles

The conference will be divided into four periods of 60 minutes each, two in the afternoon of March 13, and two in the morning of March 14. A speaker will open each period with a 20 minute address, followed by the reading of two 5 minute student papers. The remaining thirty minutes will be devoted to questions and discussion. In fostering the move to keep Maine youth employed within the state, the Commission invites employers to send representatives to the conference.

(Continued on page 3)

PORTLAND ORCHESTRA
AGAIN AT BOWDOIN
WITH FINE PROGRAMMiss May Korb Featured as Soprano Soloist Last Evening

Eighty musicians of the Portland Municipal Orchestra, the largest and most versatile of harmonic organizations to appear at Bowdoin this year, played before an enthusiastic audience of students and townspeople in Memorial hall last evening. This musical event was offered under the auspices of the Musical Department of the college.

Mr. Charles R. Cronham, under whose direction the Portland play ers have previously performed at Bowdoin, led the huge orchestra in this concert, featuring classical compositions by Wagner, Beethoven, Verdi and Bach. Several solo numbers were interspersed in the program, among them notably the charming songs by Miss May Korb, lyric-coloratura soprano.

Another bright spot on the evening's entertainment were the pleasing renditions of the string trio, Stella Brewster, Katherine Hatch and Francis McPherson. The accompaniment was arranged for violin, violoncello and harp.

Program Well-Balanced
The harmonic entertainment opened with the orchestral interpretation of the Introduction to Act III of Wagner's great opera, "Lohengrin". Following this they rendered "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor," a composition of the immortal Beethoven.

The intermission was followed by a group of numbers sung by Miss Korb, accompanied by the stringed trio. First on the quintet of songs was a Spanish serenade, "Come, Love, with Me," by Caravello. Following this Miss Korb sang the delightful "Love Finds out the Way of Raff." "Dreams," a vocal composition of the composer Chasins was her third offering.

A particularly pleasing number, "Nymphs and Fauns," by Bemberg, came as Miss Korb's fourth song. She concluded this group by singing the Bach-Gounod number, "Ave Maria," arranged by the Orchestra's director Mr. Cronham.

Operating Selections Concludes
The eighty orchestra burst into the overture to the first act of "Von Weber's opera, "Euryanthe". With the conclusion of this number the musical evening came to its end. Professor Wass, head of the Musical Department of the college was instrumental in securing this program for the general public as well as the students themselves.

ATHLETIC SCHEDULE
Wednesday, February 11
Hockey, Colby at Brunswick
Freshman Track, Bridgton
Academy at BrunswickThursday, February 12
Fencing, Dartmouth at Hanover
Saturday, February 14
Hockey, Bates at Lewiston
Varsity Track, Boston A. A. (relay).Swimming, Springfield at Brunswick
Fencing, Boston University at BostonTuesday, February 17
Hockey, Boston University at BrunswickThursday, February 19
Hockey, University of N. H. at Brunswick
Freshman Track, Hebron at BrunswickSaturday, February 21
Swimming, Williams at BrunswickSaturday, February 23
Swimming, Brown at Brunswick
Freshman Track, Deering High School at BrunswickRelay Team
at Boston
Games Sat.Several Individuals to Compete in Various EventsUSHER TO COMPETE
IN INVITATION 1000Orient Presents Brief Preview of Bowdoin Track Prospects for Coming Season

Bowdoin will make her first bid of the season for relay honors Saturday evening when a one-mile team picked this week will face Villanova and Northeastern University in one of the features of the B.A.A. games at the Boston Garden. The team will be made up of Johnson, Foster, Thwaites, and Gatchell, with Briggs and Hink as alternates.

Both Villanova and Northeastern are represented by strong teams this year according to the advance dope, and the White flyers will have their hands full in coming out on top. The latter are especially strong and have not lost a relay in several years.

Individuals to Compete

At the time several other members of the track squad will be entered in various individual events with a view to giving them experience rather than offering them the glory of winning. Larry Usher will face one of the strongest fields in the country in a special 1,000-yard invitation event, including Seraphin Martin, recently imported French short distance star. Usher, former of N. Y. U., and Russell Chapman the Bates sensation, considered by Jack Magee to be the greatest half-mile in the country and possibly the world. While having little chance of leading the field home, Larry should pick up some valuable experience which will stand him in good stead when Spring and the State Meet roll around. The two Charlies, Allen and Stanwood, will also be on along, both being entered in the high hurdles while Stanwood will also compete in the high jump. Robbins, Fresh pole vaulter, will enter his favorite event, in which he is being the only member of the Freshman squad (Continued on page 4)

DR. W. B. McDANIEL
TO LECTURE HERE
BOWDOIN COLLEGEIn the Wake and Footsteps of Aeneas" Subject of Friday Talk

"In the Wake and Footsteps of Aeneas" will be the subject of the lecture delivered Friday night by Doctor Walton Brooks McDaniel of the University of Pennsylvania, in the Main Lounge of Moulton Union. This lecture, illustrated with over one hundred lantern slides, is under the auspices of the Bowdoin Classical Club. Dr. McDaniel, who is Professor of Latin at the Quaker State institution, has chosen a topic particularly appropriate, as the year 1931 marks the 2000th anniversary of the birth of the poet Vergil. The lecturer is one of the most popular classicists at his university.

In his many years of professional experience, Dr. McDaniel has made himself a recognized authority on subjects pertaining to the private life in the Roman Empire. He graduated from Harvard University with high honors, and later had conferred upon him the Master's and Doctor's degrees from the same institution.

Experience Covers Wide Field
Dr. McDaniel spent a few years teaching at Harvard, and soon after at Radcliffe College. From there he went to his present post, which he has held since 1909. During the years 1920-21 Dr. McDaniel instructed as professor at the American Academy in Rome. To further round out his scope of classical knowledge, he is the author of several books, as well as numerous contributions to periodicals.

Ben Houser
Resigns Post
at BowdoinVeteran Hockey and Baseball Coach to End Service HereACTION COMES AS SURPRISE AND SHOCK"Smiling Ben" Has Earned Love and Respect of Hundreds Who Have Known Him

Bowdoin alumni throughout the United States as well as the entire student body were distinctly surprised and shocked by the resignation of Coach Ben Houser, veteran hockey and baseball mentor, which was tendered two weeks ago. Sports fans outside the college all over New England shared the surprise and shock and the announcement of the conclusion of Houser's career as a member of the coaching staff here gave rise to a veritable torrent of discussion and speculation.

Ben Houser came to Bowdoin in 1918 with an enviable record in baseball behind him, both as player and manager. His advent marked the beginning of a new era in Bowdoin baseball and though playing some of the strongest college ball nines in the East, the records of his teams have been consistently on par with those of any other small college in this part of the country. Against the other three colleges of Maine Houser has enjoyed particular success and has turned in more State baseball championships than any other coach in Maine. Inaugurating the custom of making an annual trip through New England which formerly extended as far south as Delaware, "Smiling Ben" has made Bowdoin a name to be respected among college baseball circles and on several of these trips the White ball hawks have humbled colleges with far larger student bodies and better material. In the college circles Houser has tasted defeat from the Houser-coached Polar Bears are Columbia, Harvard, University of Pennsylvania, University of Delaware, Amherst, Wesleyan, Brown, Norwich, Northeastern, Mass. Aggies, Trinity, Tufts, New Hampshire State, and Worcester, a list which does not include the many one run defeats by such colleges as Yale, Holy Cross, West Point, Annapolis, and Providence College.

In hockey also the White has met with success under the tutelage of Ben, winning as many if not more State titles during the few years that Houser has been at the reins in the ice sport. Players and coach have been severely handicapped in this sport, however, by lack of a covered playing surface, lack of material and equipment.

Houser played major league baseball for the Philadelphia Athletics under Conny Mack and is a well-known figure in the semi-pro and professional baseball circles, having managed the fast Augusta Millionaires semi-pro nine for several summers and piloted the Lewiston club of the short-lived New England League.

OPENING DEBATE OF TRIP LOST TO UNIONPrince, von Rosenvinge and Davis on Long Tour

The varsity debating team opened its season last Monday evening by debating Union College at Schenectady on the subject: "Is the Expansion of Chain Stores Detrimental to the Best Interests of the American People?" The debate was broadcast over station WGY at eleven o'clock in the evening. The judges of the debate were residents of Schenectady and included Henry A. Allen and John A. Holland. Their decision broadcast over the radio a few minutes after the close of the debate awarded the victory to Union College.

Last Monday's debate was the first one of a series that constitutes the team's spring trip this year. The team will travel next to Buffalo where it will meet the University of Buffalo. From there it will go to Albion, Michigan, to debate Albion College. Among the other colleges where it will stop are Denison, Pittsburgh, and Lafayette. It will wind up its western tour at Moscow, Mass., where it will debate against Tufts College. It will return to Bowdoin just before the home parties. It will debate once more on the topic of chain stores. In the remaining debates it will have as its topic resolved: "That the Several States Enact Legislation Providing for Unemployment Insurance to which the Employer Shall Contribute."

Bowdoin on Negative
In last Monday's debate Union represented by Louis C. Bruin and Charles Osapier upheld the affirmative while Bowdoin represented by Donald Francis Prince '31, and Albert Samuel Davis '33 upheld the negative side.

The affirmative opened its case by tracing the development of the chain store system. The first chain store was the Great Atlantic and Pacific (Continued on page 2)

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief

Paul A. Walker '31

Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

George T. Sewall '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
George R. Booth '33

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

William N. Small '31
John L. Snider '31
Philip T. Walters '32

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College.
All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial columns; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $2.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, February 11, 1931.

No. 22

Athletics

And with our mind full of the above, we chanced upon an editorial in the Portland Evening News, of February the fourth, entitled "A University Goes Academic". We hope that many Bowdoin men have read it, for much of it is applicable here, but for those of you who have not, we quote it in full herewith:

Far-reaching reforms in its athletic system have been ordered at the University of Pennsylvania by its new president, Thomas S. Gates. After a four months' survey, he has decided to incorporate the athletic control into the administrative structure of the university. The existing Council of Athletics composed of alumni, students and faculty members is abolished. That is to say, athletics will no longer be run by a handful of "grads" who are prepared to sacrifice almost anything, including the college's scholastic standards, for victories on the gridiron, diamond and track.

Henceforth athletics at Pennsylvania and all physical training will be welded into a department of physical education directed by a dean responsible only to the president and a board of trustees. The ex-star alumni no longer figure. This new department will be divided into three branches — student health, physical instruction and inter-collegiate athletics — and apparently the least of these is inter-collegiate athletics. For, further reform includes the abolition of spring and pre-season training in football, abolition of training tables, abolition of scholarship aid beyond any that is rightfully earned by scholastic standing. Concomitantly is contemplated wide extension of intra-mural athletics. Inducements to promising high school and preparatory school athletes to come to the university are to be frowned upon.

And finally, most drastic of all — radical revolutionary — is the reduction of coaches' salaries to that of the ordinary faculty member.

Hail, U. of P.! Is it possible that a truly great university is to arise in the metropolis of the Keystone State? Can it be that its halls of learning, its lecture rooms and laboratories are to be exalted above stadium, cage and cinder track?

Are brains truly to be esteemed rather than beef, a quick mind more than a fleet foot, a thesis more than a touchdown? Will the day dawn in the City of Brotherly Love when a wise teacher of youth, a profound scholar, and a contributor to the knowledge of mankind, will be cherished as much as a coach who produces a winning eleven and a big "gate"?

If so, here is an example and a challenge to our other American colleges and universities.

Only one improvement suggests itself to President Gates's program: the coaches' salaries should not have been reduced to the level of the faculty members; the professors' stipends should have been raised to the level of the coaches'.

We feel that much of the above is applicable to Bowdoin's case. Of course, certain abuses cited in the News's editorial are happily not to be found here, but others are — and we all know which ones. We do not advocate a complete subjugation of athletics to scholarship — a certain amount of competitive athletics with other schools is good, but championship teams need not be the great goal, as it often seems to be in the minds of the alumni. Naturally, we all puff up with pride whenever we produce a great team — we had an acute case of swelled-headedness because of our victory over U. of M. — so much so that we forgot the thrashing Bates gave us the week previous. Later we found sundry alibis to excuse the season's reverses. In fact, the finding of alibis is one of the strong features of the Bowdoin athletic system. That, and blaming the coach instead of the team when no alibis are to be manufactured. We might well add a new course to the curriculum — Alibi Manufacture 1-2. But the simpler way would be to learn from the U. of P. and settle down as a college and not a training camp.

Coach Houser

In accepting the resignation of Ben Houser, Bowdoin is losing the services of a loyal and hard-working coach, a man who by his earnestness and even temper has been looked up to for many years with respect and love by many Bowdoin men. Baseball and hockey will indeed seem strange without "Smiling Ben" on the side-lines. We wonder what lies back of all this? We suspect a very large and powerful nigger in the woodpile.

Even the most religious disciple of superstition must grant that this coming Friday the thirteenth will do much toward dispelling the gloom that usually attends such a date, for from Friday, February the thirteenth, to Tuesday, February the sixteenth, Mr. Mattice, college representative of Nettleton and Miller Cook shoes, will be in Brunswick displaying an unusually large number of smart spring sport and dress shoes. At meal times on these dates Mr. Mattice will show at the various fraternities, and the hours in between he will be at "The House".

Naturally it seems a bit incongruous to buy sport shoes in the middle of February, amid the most snow that Maine has seen for many a moon, but — shoes ordered at this time may be delivered at any date you may specify. Be sure and see this large and unusually fine line of warm weather footwear.

The House of Walsh

Well, then, how do we feel about it all? Do we feel that the services of such a man be thus ended, or do we feel that a reconsideration of his resignation should be had? With this end in view, petitions have already been circulating among the undergraduate body, and we earnestly hope that each of you will make an effort to sign one of them. We, the students, should certainly have some voice in the accepting or declining of the resignation of such a valued man. And we do not want to see Ben Houser leave us! So, let us all get together with the Student Council and back them and Ben to the limit!

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient

In it true, as has been suggested, that the romantically bizarre combination of houseparty guests and Ibsen's "Ghosts"—a play in which, to quote G. B. S., "a model wife and mother" says "in silence lest she shatter her innocent son's faith in the purity of home life by letting him know the disreputable truth about his father," a man who, stealing "his pleasure in a snuff box," is brought upon him the diseases bred by such conditions—is a sort of reaction against Bowdoin's position as a minor fortress of the new humanism? Or, rather, is the peculiar choice of this play an insidious attempt by the Masque and Gown to inculcate morality in the midst of frivolity?

At any rate I do not believe I am the only Bowdoin man who wishes the Masque and Gown would leave even artistic moral propaganda where it belongs, in the Chapel, and devote itself to providing houseparty guests with gay and amusing plays, in which, to be sure, English drama is less rich than the French, but all which, even in English, have by no means yet been acted by Bowdoin's tragically minded dramatic organization.

Alumnus, '25.
P.S. It occurs to me that before writing this letter I should have asked the producer what interpretation he is going to give this play. Perhaps, after all, he intends putting it on as a comedy.

Communication

February 6, 1931.

To the Editor of the Bowdoin Orient:

Dear Sir:

Not long ago the Rockefeller Foundation listed Bowdoin as one of the few colleges free of commercialized sport. Naturally, Bowdoin men felt no pride on hearing of this, for to them it seemed superfluous to broadcast the fact that such a college as theirs was honest.

From another point of view, however, we were proud because Bowdoin had been publicly set apart from "hurrah-colleges". We had been placed definitely among those who love athletic victories but who consider them of vital importance to none but a school-boy. And, interested though we were in the child-mind, we were glad not to be among those who have to have it thrust upon them by "football alumni." In short, we enjoyed a serene consciousness that Bowdoin was a college.

Therefore, it was alarming to many of us to read in the newspaper that Bowdoin had "gone football". Although we knew the accusation to be unfounded, we disliked even the rumor. And again, the alumni I speak of had to admit that the papers were basing their statements on an incident that looked sinister.

If Memorial Hall were to vanish, it would be astonishing, but that Ben Houser should resign and that his resignation should be accepted, was more incomprehensible, and far more deplorable. Moreover, supposing there could be any truth in the newspapers' insinuation that Ben's resignation had been requested, Bowdoin had obviously fallen beyond a point where we cared to admit our connection with it. If even the slightest credence could be placed in the gossip we had heard about the incident, we were deeply shamed. But naturally we are amused by the rumors. There cannot be any truth in them.

For all this affects no less a person than Ben Houser. Praise of Houser here would be as superfluous as praise of Bowdoin's honesty. We have all known Ben as a great coach and as a very fine man. The point at issue is the apparent danger that any of Bowdoin's policy could be directed by mean, ignorant persons. We are too well acquainted with Bowdoin to believe this possible. We are interested in nothing but avoiding even the appearance of evil.

It may, of course, seem to a mere outsider that Bowdoin has degenerated into an athletic asylum. But to us it is a certainty that the authorities must be using every means at their disposal to win Ben Houser back to us; we are sure that Bowdoin is not mad enough to lose needlessly what it could never replace.

Sincerely yours,
George Stuyvesant Jackson. 1927.

PRES. SILLS VISITS ALUMNI MEETINGS

(Continued from Page 1)

Henderson '79, Wendell P. McKeown '98, was elected president and Philip W. Porritt '15, secretary.

On Saturday, January 31st, the Bowdoin Club of Philadelphia met at Germantown with about fifty members and wives present. President Sills represented the college.

OPENING DEBATE OF TRIP LOST TO UNION

(Continued from Page 1)
which was founded in 1857. Woolworth's followed in 1879 and Kresge's came later. Since 1900, the chains have entered 55 different fields of retailing. The speaker, then, proceeded with his main point, namely, that the chain store system is injurious to the American people because of its essential principle. Its ownership is concentrated and dangerously monopolistic. Its efficiency in dealing with the public and its competitors makes it all the more dangerous. The chains are as dangerous as were the railroads a number of years ago when the government saw fit to regulate them. The A. and P., however, is now doing more business than the Pennsylvania Railroad, the largest railroad in the world. It is not enough that the chains usurp the means of distribution. They are reaching out for the means of production. For instance, one of our largest chains recently took over the manufacture of its own bread and thus greatly injured the business of numerous independents. One of the most dangerous and efficient methods that the chains have at their disposal because of their size is price cutting to drive out local competition. At one time the A. and P. distributed bread free. This was not done for altruistic motives but to drive out competition. The chains contribute nothing to the welfare of the communities in which they are located as their money is taken directly to the large cities. Here, the speaker quoted from Justice Brandeis of the Supreme Court and Senator Copeland of New York to the effect that in the smaller cities and towns the chains do not aid the prosperity of communities but act only as parasites. The chain system is also inconvenient for producers. The manufacturer is always nervously uncertain about the future. He does not know when the chain will discontinue a given product and leave him without customers. In dealing with independent distributors on the other hand, which are far more numerous than chains, the manufacturer is certain that even if one or two stores discontinue his product he will still have an ample market.

Chains Compatible With American Methods

The first speaker for the negative Donald F. Prince '31 of Bowdoin, pointed out that the affirmative has thought only of the disadvantages of concentration, neglecting entirely to observe the many benefits.

The chain store system of distribution corresponds with the American method of mass production. Dr. Julius Klein of the Department of Commerce has stated that in 1929 there were between 8 and 10 billion dollars of waste in America. What were the causes for this waste? They were principally—excessive use of sales promotion, unwise credit, insufficient data, loss of perishables and extravagant advertising. Chain stores have been eliminating these losses through their unified and efficient operation and are thus doing a great service to America. The chain stores are not driving many independents into bankruptcy as figures show. In 1929 according to the United States Department of Labor, 79% of the independents reported a successful year while only 21% were failures. Of the failures, 35% were attributed to inefficiency and mismanagement, 31% to original lack of capital and only 4% to competition. The chain stores are not one vast monopoly as the affirmative seems to think. There are 6,000 chains in America and they do a total of only 18% of the retail trade.

Effect of Chains Disclosed
The second speaker on the affirmative took as his main contentions the facts that chain stores are a menace

(Continued on Page 3)

The Ideal Hotel for You In BOSTON

The NEW Hotel MANGER

At North Station
Direct Entrance from B. & M. Dept
and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS

Each Room equipped with Tub and Shower • Built-in Radio Speaker
(Three Station Service) • Servitor
Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Modern
Equipped and Perfectly
Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH

FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00
FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 5.50
No Higher Rates

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

Striking a balance for a $4,000,000,000 industry

"On a large scale" describes accounting in the Bell System, whose properties cost more than $4,000,000,000.

On the outgo side are, for example, four or five hundred million dollars annually for new construction; vast sums for keeping telephone equipment in good order; a payroll running into hundreds of millions a year. Under income are such diverse items as a few cents for a local telephone call, or thirty dollars and upward for a call to a city across the Atlantic.

The men responsible for this phase of the telephone business have worked out scientific methods of control—but their effort to refine old practices and devise new ones goes on. The opportunity is there!

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

We Have a Few Portable Typewriters Which Have Been Rented Once or Twice, Which We are Selling at Reduced Prices. This Chance Does Not Come Often.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

BURDETT COLLEGE

Train for business the individual way. Intensive technical courses, Business Administration, Accounting, Executive Secretarial, Stenographic-Secretarial, Office Management, Bookkeeping. Personal attention, able faculty, placement service. Men and women from 70 different colleges in attendance. Placement calls for graduates numbered 3149 last year. New building and equipment.

Special attention paid to the needs of college men and women. Previous commercial training not required for entrance.

New Burdett College Building

Send for booklet, "Charting a Career."

BURDETT COLLEGE
156 STUART ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Gentlemen:

Please send me a copy of the booklet, "Charting a Career."

Name.....

Street Address.....

City.....

Date.....

DEBATING (Cont.)

(Continued from Page 2)

to American industry and that they are detrimental to the communities where they are established. Local merchants are injured while the profits of the great chains flow to a few financial centers. The "chains" destroy individualism and are aptly called by that name. Their employees work longer and receive less wages than do those of the independents. Figures from the Department of Labor show that chain store workers are employed at an average of $3 to $3.75 per week. On the other hand, the salaries of Woolworth's employees average only 12 dollars a week. The chain stores are vast machines regarding their employees as mere cogs which they can manipulate for their own profit. Independents deposit in local banks and contribute to local charity—chains do neither of these things. Chains do not develop communities but merely enter communities already developed to exploit their wealth.

The second speaker on the negative, A. Samuel Davis '33 pointed to the popularity of the chains as a good indication of their service to the people. The chains are abolishing waste and thus render a great service to the community. The affirmative has laid much stress upon the fact that chains send their money away while independents keep the money in the community. As a matter of fact, statistics show that the chains send out 8c on the dollar less than the independents. They also save 3c on the dollar by reducing overhead. Thus, they save a total of 11 cents on the dollar which is kept in the community. Independents are not efficient. A survey of 37,000 independents was made. They yielded on the average a profit of only $3 per week. Since the American methods of mass manufacture require mass distribution and since the chains benefit the local community to the extent of 11 cents on a dollar, the chain store system is a benefit to the American people.

Economic Conference

(Continued from page 1)

Delegates to the conference will be chosen by Professors John Carroll and Bartlett of Bates, Albert Abrahamson of Bowdoin, Curtis Morrow and Arthur East of Colby and John Ashworth of Maine.

Plans are under way for the fifth reunion of the class of '26. Secretary Albert Abrahamson of the faculty is in charge.

A handsome new motor snow plow has been purchased for the college.

Bowdoin Medical School Had One Hundred Years Existence

In these days, when the student's knowledge of the former Medical School at Bowdoin is carried on only by a hazy idea of the Garcelon and Merritt Scholarships, the harrowing exhibits in Freshman Hygiene, and tales that have grown up around the memory of the medics, some little account of their history at Bowdoin might be of interest.

Back in eighteen-twenty, upon his election to the presidency of the college, President Allen wrote to Dr. Nathan Smith, who had founded Dartmouth Medical School, and at the time was serving as a full professor at Yale, requesting information as to the development of medical practice and instruction in Maine. The answer emphasized the wide opportunity which would attend the opening of a medical school at Bowdoin, stressing the enthusiasm with which a newly-formed state should greet any enterprise calculated to help it forward in any way. Some hope of a state subsidy was also mentioned.

Established 1820

The hope here expressed was fulfilled when the first Legislature of Maine, on June 27, 1820, established a medical school at Bowdoin, giving the governing board full control. Fifteen hundred dollars was voted to help the organization to get under way, and a further annual appropriation of one thousand dollars made. Twenty-one men attended the first courses, an unusual number, considering the circumstances. Three professors collaborated in the work of the new school, during the spring of 1821, Professor Smith, and Assistant Professor Wells, in Anatomy and Surgery; and Professor Cleveland in Chemistry. The number of students continually increased, and up to the last days of the school in 1921, the average attendance was in the neighborhood of eighty.

First classes were held in Massachusetts Hall. Though a move from that building was contemplated from the start, it was not made for a good many years. In time it was known as the Medical College. State support, heavily counted on from the first, was speedily abandoning it. A hospital for statewide use was urgently needed, but obstinate legislatures, in the face of repeated recommendations from faculty and medical men, alike, repeatedly refused to give the school any encouragement. Though they consented to the incorporation act in 1826, largely achieved through the work of Professor Cleveland and Han, Dunlap, they entirely withdrew the subsidy in 1831. At this time the Medical School had the finest library and apparatus of any in New England.

New Courses Added

From time to time new courses were added. Materia Medica and Therapeutics were first constituted a chair in 1846, followed shortly by the opening of a lecture course in medical jurisprudence. To call the roll of the professors who lectured or held classes at this time, is virtually impossible, their number prohibits it. In 1872 a chair of Physiology was set aside, separating the subject from its old connection with the Anatomy courses. In the meantime the school had moved to a new building, Adams Hall. In 1888 the college and its friends petitioned the legislature to make some grant for such a purpose. This request was at once refused, but succeeded to some small degree the next year. Certain restrictions attached to the final grant in aid were so stringent that the Maine Medical Society informed the Trustees that it would not recognize men graduated under such circumstances.

This proviso was finally removed, and brought in enough money to provide for the erection of Adams, given over to regular classes now, but for years the stronghold of the medics.

Garcelon Bequest

Though a large bequest was received from Mrs. Catherine M. Garcelon, interior disorganization finally began to break down the existence of the school at Brunswick. In 1907, following an investigation and report by Professor Hyde, the entire frame of government was remodelled. In the meantime, the question of a move to Portland, which in the future was to be a contributing cause to the end of the Medical College's existence, was once again brought up with great intensity. The majority of the medical faculty wished such a move, holding that it would allow of immediate connection with the Maine General Hospital; would supply a much larger variety of clinical material; would be aided by the existence of a large lot available for the purpose in Portland; would aid in liaison between the students and faculty, since most of the latter lived at Portland; and would follow out the general trend of medical study, which they felt to be a city-ward one.

Though holding a fairly even course himself, President Hyde indicated the arguments in favor of the school remaining at Brunswick. There were already available at the college adequate if not ideal quarters and facilities for medical work; the chemistry, bacteriology, and histology laboratories were nearly perfect; the intimate connection of the medical school with the college would make possible the adoption of a more liberal spirit; the existence of the school at Bowdoin lent to it a certain aura of tradition as the medical center of Maine, rather than of some large city; and expenses of living at Brunswick were felt to be less than they would be in Portland.

Moves to Portland

In 1899 the Board voted to move the courses of the last two years of college work to Portland. A year later the college took over, upon assumption of a mortgage, the building of the Portland School for Medical Instruction, and the medics for once and all fled to the city. The move was accompanied by a general raising of standards and increase in faculty. President Hyde in 1904 spoke at length about the great progress being made. Entrance requirements were made much harder, calling finally for

SHOES
Reduced

Formerly $16.50 to $20.00—now ... $13.95

Formerly $12.50—now 8.95

Formerly $9.00 and $10.00—now 6.95

Special Lot—were $9.00—now 5.95

Odd Lots—formerly $8.00 and $12.00—now 4.95

This sale includes Lotus, Abbott, Bostonian and other well known makes.

SALE STARTS WEDNESDAY, FEB. 11

HARMON'S
INCORPORATED

Ho Hum! (Photo by Gould)

FIVE FRATERNITIES INITIATE THIS WEEK

(Continued from page 1)

James Richard Fox, Norristown, Pa.
Charles Edward Hardies, Jr., Amsterdam, N. Y.
Walter Drew Hinkley, Lancaster N. H.
Arno Thomas Koempel, Jr., Ambler, Pa.
Norman Thomas Slayton, Jr., Waltham, Mass.
Roger Kimball Taylor, Kennebunk
Carlton Stafford Wilder, Rye, N. Y.
George Babcock Wood, Jr., Rockland.

Alpha Tau Omega

Philip Thomas Walters '32, Johnstown, Pa.
Harold Hutchinson Everett, Wellesley, Mass.
James Ernest Guptill, Fryeburg
Julius Joseph Hohl, New Haven, Conn.
Eric Charles Loth, Jr., Elizabeth, N. J.
Joel York Marshall, Alfred
Lawson Odde, Belmont, Mass.
Carl Gustaf Olson, Belmont, Mass.
John McInnes Sinclair, Rumford
Frederick Nelson Sweetser, Merrimac, Mass.

two years in a college.

Though there was enthusiasm in the work that was on, bit by bit various influences undermined what had been built up. Most of the faculty were practicing physicians whose time available for classes was limited by their number of personal cases. A general report, instituted by Andrew Carnegie, was issued in 1909, which in some respects, largely in reference to research facilities, was unfavorable. While the President indignantly controverted most of the charges, a vital blow had been struck at the small medical school.

Ends Existence in 1921
Somehow or other, closer intimacy seemed to exist at this time between the student classical or liberal and the student doctor. This has been utterly untrue in the past. And then, with the World War, and resultant deviation of interest and funds, the Medical School tottered on for a little while before it collapsed. Efforts to raise foundation funds were unsuccessful, and a seven thousand dollar yearly deficit had to be met by the college proper. The Council for American Medical Education dropped it, solely on account of its low income, from the Class A. Roster of Medical Schools, no endowment was forthcoming, and with the June of 1921 the Bowdoin Medical School, time-honored and traditioned, passed out of existence.

ART NOTES

Not only did the Misses Walker give the splendid art building, named in honor of their uncle, Mr. T. W. Walker, but they donated their own private collection also. This collection is to be found in the Sophia Walker Gallery.

The collection in the Walker Gallery is miscellaneous but highly interesting on account of valuable and rare pieces found there. The paintings in the room are of the French, Italian, Belgian, Dutch, German, English, and American schools. Some of the famous artists represented here are Corot, Rosa Bonheur, Girard, Cerezo, Koelckers, Mue, Myer, Gainsborough, Cole and La Farge. There are several drawings by Cabanel, Landseer, and other noted masters. One cabinet includes drawings depicting the events in Longfellow's Evangeline.

The twelve cases in Walker Gallery contain both ancient and modern articles; old glassware, pottery and statuettes. Miniatures, East Indian, English, and French are shown in cases IV, V, and VII. Other cases show, in miscellaneous array, cameos, medals, watches and armor, etc. The remainder of the collection in Sophia Walker Gallery comprises articles such as furniture, military antiques, ivory, books, and sculpture which are not grouped under any one type but are distributed throughout the Gallery.

INTERCOLLEGIATE COLUMN

Pipe Courses

Perhaps the two "pipest" courses offered recently are the one in ball-room dancing given, with credit, at Iowa State College and the course in rest and relaxation given to the tired student girls at Barnard.

FASHION SHOW

On February 17, at 8.00 p.m. in the Town hall, The Women's Alliance of the First Parish Church will give a Fashion Show, and also a one act play by college students. A dance will follow this entertainment. Signor Paul Pola-Mantonne and his daughter Jeanette will arrive Tuesday afternoon for the Fashion Show.

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - Feb. 11th
GRETA GARBO
- in - INSPIRATION
Also Comedy and Spotlight

Thursday - Feb. 12th
THE LOTTERY BRIDE
- with -
Jeanette MacDonald - Joe Brown
John Garrick
Also Comedy and Sound Act

Friday Only - Feb. 13th
VAUDEVILLE
- on the screen -
DRACULA
- with -
Bela Lugosi - David Manners
Helen Chandler
Also Paramount News

Saturday - Feb. 14
THE THIRD ALARM
- with -
Anita Louise - James Hall
Paul Hurst - Jean Hersholt
Hobart Bosworth
Also Comedy and Sound Act

Mon. - Tues. - Feb. 16-17
HAROLD LLOYD
- in -
FEET FIRST
- also -
Paramount News and Sound Act

Which of these cigarettes is the tallest — but maybe you're on to this one!

YOUR EYES MAY FOOL YOU
BUT
YOUR TASTE tells the Truth!

MILDER...AND BETTER TASTE

They
Satisfy

ANTIQUITY SHOP

Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 243-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

PRINTING

STUART & CLEMENT

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?

Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —

Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER

KAYWOODIE PIPES
ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the
facilities of

THE RECORD PRESS

are at your service. Tel. 3

Let us estimate on your next
job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work
done in this shop.

Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

RELAY TEAM AT BOSTON GAMES SAT.

(Continued from Page 1)
During the annual B.A.A. schoolboy meet which takes place Saturday afternoon at the Garden, George Sewall and Steve Lavender will face the cream of New England two-milers in the N.E.A.A.U. championships.
Hickok besides acting as alternate on the relay team will also enter the 600.
35 Pound Weight

Bowdoin will make a real bid for attention in New England track circles on February 21 when Doc Brown and Del Galbraith will represent the White at the N.E.A.A.U. 35-pound weight championships at the Harvard Cags.
This event will be held in conjunction with the annual Harvard-Dartmouth-Cornell triangular meet. Brown and Galbraith will be facing the leading weight men in New England. Flanagan of Holy Cross, winner of the hammer at the Penn Relay Games last year, and Lunt of Colby, who took first in the Maine State Meet in the same event last year, being two of the favorites.

Usher Wins

Larry Usher broke into the limelight at the Knights of Columbus games in Boston January 31 when he took first place in a special handicap three-quarter mile race. While Usher had a 20-yard start on the scratch man, the Bowdoin flyer had little trouble winning though being held in check all the way by Coach Magee.

While it may seem a bit early to be thinking of Spring and the State Meet, the announcement by Jack Magee last week that May McGinnis, crack hurdler, is out of competition forever due to foot trouble came as a severe shock to Bowdoin hopes of a State track title. McLaughlin garnered a first in the low hurdles and second in the high in last year's meet and he was being counted upon to do as well this year. The eight points which he would almost certainly win this year were in his shape may mean the difference between first and second place in the annual classic.

Until the announcement of the loss of McLaughlin Bowdoin seemed to be in a fine position to check back to the heights of Maine track eminence with most of last year's point winners back and steadily improving.

At present it would seem that most of the White point total will be made up in the dashes, hurdles, and the high and broad jumps, and one or two of the weight events. Johnson, Foster, Gatchell, Hickok, and Wingate are expected to be the White hopes in the three dashes. Usher, who should project a substantial number of points since many of last year's winners are lost by graduation. Stanwood still looks good for a first in the high jumps while Charlie Allen, placing somewhere in the first three. These two should also place in the low hurdles. In the longer distances, the half-mile, mile, and two mile, Bow-doin will rely principally on the efforts of Thistlewaite, Usher, Sewall, and Lavender, of whom only Usher has placed previously in the State Meet.

Stanwood and Dan Johnson will enter the high and broad jumps and Magee will be counting on both of them to add to the White total. Stan-wood especially will be favored to win in the high jump since his only conqueror last year, O'Connor of Maine, has gone the way of all good graduates.

In the weights Galbraith and Brown should be among the leaders in a hammer and shot put and at present there is a dearth of good material in the discus and javelin though Spring may tell a different story. Appleton, Arnold, and Robbins are the best bets in the pole vault but rumors of two University of Maine sophomores who were doing 12 feet and over last year dispel hopes of a first in this event.

PSI UPSILON AND SIGMA NU LEAD IN HOOP LEAGUES

Play to be Resumed This Week with Return of Students to Regular Campus Activities

Interfraternity basketball is well on its way to what promises to be another successful and exciting struggle.
Now that the smoke has had a chance to clear away, over mid-years, we can get a slight inkling as to how the teams stand. Each fraternity has played two games. One or two of the sym-forn battles may have been rather one-sided, but the number of contests that were not decided until the last whistle far offsets them.

In League A we find Psi U, A.T.O., and Zeta Psi jointly holding down first place, with undefeated teams.
League B has only one in this position. Sigma Nu. However, at this point in the schedule the leaders have a very insecure foothold, to say the least.

League A

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Psi Upsilon	2	0	1.000
Alpha Tau Omega	2	0	1.000
Zeta Psi	2	0	1.000
Alpha Delta Phi	0	2	.000
Delta Upsilon	0	2	.000
Non-Fraternity	0	2	.000

League B

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Sigma Nu	2	0	1.000
Kappa Sigma	1	1	.500
Delta Kappa Epsilon	1	1	.500
Chi Psi	1	1	.500
Delta Upsilon	1	1	.500
Beta Theta Pi	0	2	.000

Next game: Feb. 24th.

POLAR BEAR CUBS MEET BRIDGTON ON TRACK HERE TODAY

Toughest Competition of Season Expected This Afternoon

As this issue of the Orient reaches the hands of its readers the White Frosh tracksters are meeting what was expected to be the stiffest opposition of their season, the personal of the Bridgton Academy track squad in a dual meet.

Although scoring overwhelming victories over Portland and South Portland high schools in respective meets, the Polar Bear Cubs were figured to have a stiff battle on their hands in today's meet. Bridgton, composed mostly of former Greater Boston school boys stars as in former years again has a strong team while according to Jack Magee the Freshman team has very little good material.

Captain Charlie Allen is expected to be the leading figure this afternoon as in the two previous meets and he is counted upon to take both hurdle events with ease as well as the 40-yard dash. Usher, who was the weakest in the 300, no consistent point winner in this event being unearthed as yet. In the 600, however, it is a different story with Reid, Allen, and Brooks as strong. Barton and Gray look good in the 1,000 and Ambler and Burton in the mile. Kahill, Larsen, and Porter in the high jump,
Allen, Robbins, and Reid in the broad jump, and Pope and Robbins in the pole vault are expected to be responsible for a goodly number of points for the Frosh side of the ledger. Larsen, Waite, and Ingalls will represent the Cubs in the shot-put with the first named having a fine chance to cop.

Bridgton is favored to take the relay even though only one of last year's champion quartet, Borden, is running this year. Borden, a real star, also is entered in the 600 and a sweet battle between him and Charlie Allen is expected to develop for top honors.

UNIV. OF M. SURVEYS COLLEGE EDUCATION
IN STATE OF MAINE

(From Boston Transcript)
Maine's program for higher education during the next few years should be one of concentration, intensification and development of existing facilities, rather than a program of diversification or of expansion into new fields, according to the conclusions reached through the recent survey made by the State Education of University of Maine in conjunction with the Maine Development Commission.

According to the survey, evidence has been found to support the development of additional institutions for women nor for the development of additional professional schools at the present time. Abundant evidence has been available to demonstrate the need for the improvement of existing enterprises and for the enlargement of facilities already established.

With the provision of considerable increase in support, the report states,
the four institutions, Maine, Bates, Bowdoin, and Colby, which are now functioning, can care for any number of students which may reasonably be expected to desire higher education and their progress may be studied, modified and improved to provide ample and adequate higher educational facilities for the State during the next few years, the summary concludes.

In a digest of the survey, a paragraph on the need for higher education in Maine, it is stated that a recent study of student migration in the United States for one year, 1922-23, indicated that while Maine produces as many students in proportion to her population as the average state, yet 40 per cent of them seek their higher education in other states. This percentage of loss, according to the digest, is somewhat higher than the average for the country, as is indicated by the fact that only fourteen states show a higher percentage of net loss than does Maine.

The survey also showed that enough residents of other states attended Maine colleges to reduce the net loss to 19.9 per cent for 1922-23. Since such a loss is properly a reason for some concern, the survey considered it highly desirable to investigate its reasons and the results of these studies will be considered next.

AMUSING TESTS OF FOUR COLLEGIATE GROUPS CONDUCTED

The results of tests in advanced social psychology, recently given students at Harvard, Radcliffe and Dartmouth, in which the students were requested to present their versions of the qualities that go to make up the typical or stereotyped Harvard, Dartmouth, Yale and Radcliffe student, threatened to cause a terrific explosion at the four institutions when the results became known last night.

For example, the Harvard man's picture of his Dartmouth brother is an athletic, crude, uncultivated, alcoholic youth who is a poor scholar.
Radcliffe depicts the Dartmouth student as a rah-rah collegian, big, brawny, unintellectual and uncultivated, and a heavy drinker.

Dartmouth comes back with the retort that Harvard men are small,

WHITE ICEMEN PLAY
TWO GAMES THIS WEEK

Face Bates There Today—
Colby Here on Saturday

Today the hockey players who have made their way safely through the mid year examinations will go to Lewistown to play their third game with Bates. At present it cannot be said who will represent Bowdoin and escape the ban of probation. Johnny Rosenfeld is a little doubtful and would be missed after his fine showing with Herb Rose, Richardson, Blodau, Holby Lowell, Kimball, and others who stayed at college for practice before the second semester began.

Freshmen Eligible for Varsity According to custom, the varsity squad may be reinforced at the beginning of the second semester by members of the freshman team who show exceptional talent. Such men as Bart Godfrey, flashy left wing, and Robbins, and a '34 defense with tall McKenra, and bouncing Dakin will be valuable. If facts prove anything, this little injection of freshmen is of some significance when we remember that the Cubs have lost the varsity in scrimmage this season.

On Saturday the third game of the season with Colby will be played.
Bowdoin hopes are high for this match when we consider the whipping taken by Colby at the hands of Northeastern University, whose team the Polar Bears held much more successfully, and the defeat of Colby in a recent game with Bates.

Bowdoin 25 Years Ago

Minstrel Show Attracts

The minstrel show seemed to be occupying the attention of most of Bow-doin during the weeks of Jan. 12th and 19th. The show was given for the benefit of the Baseball Association and presented in the Town Hall. The make up entirely of Bowdoin men with the College Orchestra assisting. The performance was under the direction of Mr. Robert A. Toothaker, of Brunswick, with F. J. Redman '06 (?)
as interlocutor. The orchestra then consisted of two violins, a cello, a trombone, drums and piano. The song titles of the 1906 minstrels were "Nobody", "My Dusky Rose", "Honey, Won't You Let Me Go", "The Peasant's Boy", "Nothing from Nothing Leaves You", "Mama's Little Honey Boy", "We Meet in Lovers'
Lane", "Ifus Rastus Johnson
Brown", "Everybody Wore But Facers", and "Starlight". The rest of the program consisted of a banjo specialty, monologue, Bowdoin Double Quartet number and selections by the orchestra.

Bowdoin Professor in Polar Survey Professor Joseph C. Pearson is announced to have accepted a position with the Carnegie Institute. He will assist in the magnetic survey of the North Pacific, a work which will likely require the services of the party to Fanning Islands, Japan, Aleutian Islands, and return. Professor Pearson taught physics, was a member of the Alpha Delta Phi and Phi Beta Kappa fraternities. His successor is Dr. Alpheus W. Smith.

David R. Porter '06, second year Rhodes Scholar, was elected president of the American Club at Oxford University.

College to Hold Tea
The faculty announces that there will be a repetition of the college tea so popular last year (1904-5) and urges the student body to support and participate in the affair.

Orient Desires Fencing Team
In this issue The Orient urged that a fencing team be established and students now interested in that sport be taught the regulation of the Musical Clubs Unearthed

Evidence of the existence of the Bowdoin Glee and Mandolin Club was given by an announcement of a rehearsal for same. The Clubs are at present preparing for a trip to include Bangor, Old Town, Newport and Augusta.

Gigantic Freshman Orchestra
at Dance
The Psi Upsilon Fraternity gave a chapter house dance with about twenty couples present. The music was furnished by a three-piece Freshman orchestra.

weak, unathletic, affected, polished, studious, self-effeminate. Radcliffe adds that Harvard students are also conceited and snobbish.

Harvard, in turn, describes its Radcliffe campus mate as a homely, studious, self-effeminate, bespectacled,
snobbish young woman.

Yale came in for its share of attention from the other three New England institutions, but the consensus of opinion of the New Haven is that he is a debonair young social lion, whose worst habits is the use of alkum.

Harvard's Own Description
The results as a whole are a bit startling.

Here are the virtues that 55 Harvard men state are found in the typical member of their own student body: "Harvard men are indifferent, blase, indolent, conceited, snobbish, independent, individual, intellectual cultured, sophisticated, and commopolitan. They speak with accent, wear old clothes, and usually come from old families."

WHITE NATATORS ON DEFENSIVE IN HOME POOL NEXT SATURDAY

Will Meet Strong Springfield College Team in Dual Here

Next Saturday evening the Springfield College swimming team will invade Curtis swimming pool with fond hopes for carrying off a victory over the Bowdoin natators. The Springfield men are known as comprising a well-balanced team, led by Captain Zweidinger, their star sprinter. The best divers in New England represent them on the board, as Fisher and Lamone are so considered.
This aggregation has chalked up wins against Williams, Connecticut Academy, and Amherst, while they have lost only to the Army and Dartmouth.

However, Bowdoin can boast a medley relay that has not been beaten, while Coach Miller says that there are strong odds for winning the medley swim, with a chance for the 150-yard backstroke. Besides this, the team has been showing up much better generally due to the training table and vigorous practice. The meet should be something worth watching, and a fight throughout every event.

Following are the events to be run off and the men that are to represent each college:

Medley relay—Springfield: Restall, Fisher, Letson; Bowdoin: Easton, Denmore, Smith.
50-yard dash—Springfield: Zweidinger, Humphrey; Bowdoin: Esson.
440-yard—Springfield: Nelson, Case; Bowdoin: Trott, Durham, Howard.
150-yard backstroke—Springfield: Ford; Bowdoin: Fisher, Lamone.
Medley swim—Springfield: Kisker, Letson; Bowdoin: Bowman, Sperry.
100-yard—Springfield: Zweidinger, Nelson; Bowdoin: Smith, Howard.
200 breast—Springfield: Restall, George; Bowdoin: Denmore, Sperry.
Relay—Springfield: Zweidinger,
Fisher, Humphrey, Ford; Bowdoin:
Howard, Esson, Bowman, Smith.
Dives—Springfield: Fisher, Lamone;
Bowdoin: James, Carpenter.

BOWDOIN FENCERS
TAKE SEVERAL TRIPS

Capt. MacDonald Looks Forward to Successful Season; Miller and Anello to be on Team

On Thursday, Feb. 12, the Bowdoin fencing team journeys to Hanover to cross with the Dartmouth team. The following Saturday they invade Boston to meet the B. U. representatives.
Captain MacDonald is taking Miller and Anello with him, and he thinks that the outlook is exceptionally good.
Dives—Springfield: Fisher, Lamone;
Bowdoin: James, Carpenter.

It was learned that Altenburg, last year's fencing captain, took second place in the championships.

BOWDOIN BASEBALL RECORD

1918 (War year)		Won	Lost
Out of state	5	5
Maine series	1	5
1919
Out of state	3	2
Maine series	4	3
1920
Out of state	4	3
Maine series	2	5
1921
Out of state	6	7
Maine series	1	1
1922
Out of state	8	9
Maine series	6	1
1923
Out of state	2	6
Maine series	4	2
1924
Out of state	0	4
Maine series	5	3
1925
Out of state	1	19
Maine series	3	3
1926
Out of state	1	8
Maine series	3	4
1927
Out of state	1	5
Maine series	2	5
1928
Out of state	1	6
Maine series	1	5
(one game tied)
1929
Out of state	0	3
Maine series	2	9
1930
Out of state	3	3
Maine series	6	5

INTERSCOLASTIC MEET

(Continued from Page 1)
paratory schools in another division.
The age limit in the high school division, as has been the case in the past, will be 20 years, while the age limit for preparatory schools will be 21 years.

All the scoring will be in separate divisions. The date of this meet this year will not conflict with the four-year high school meet in Portland.
The next Bowdoin meet has moved ahead a week and comes the first Saturday in March. The Bowdoin meet, as usual, will be on the second Saturday.

The Bowdoin meet has grown steady-ly since its inception, last year being the best in number of schools and competitors entering. The meet was first held in 1912. Entry blanks will be forwarded to all schools applying.

Always Noticed
But Never Notice-ble

GRISK Clothing which is
custom tailored to
your individual measure, has
that distinctive touch which
always marks the wearer as
well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity
Trade

574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers

SOULE and WALKER
JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD
We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store

Watch Repairing
By An Experienced Watchmaker
Sheffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"

"The College Jeweler"
Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
1414 MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S

Candy and Ice Cream
74 MAINE STREET

TUFTS COLLEGE

DENTAL SCHOOL
Founded 1857

COLLEGE men—prepare for a profession of widening interest and opportunity. Recent years has enlarged the scope of every phase of dentistry. The field demands more than ever before, men and women of ability, backed by superior training. Such training is offered by Tufts College Dental School offers to its students.
School opens on September 30, 1931. All candidates may guide you in the selection of your career. For information address—
DR. WILLIAM RICE, Dean
416 Huntington Avenue Boston, Mass.

Have you chosen
your life work?

In our field of health service the Harvard University Dental School—the oldest dental school connected with any university in the U.S.—has secured through well-balanced courses in all branches of dentistry. All students receive practical work under supervision of men high in the profession.
Write for details and admission requirements to Leroy M. S. Minor, Dean
HARVARD UNIVERSITY
DENTAL SCHOOL
Dept. 7

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

VOL. LX.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1931.

NO. 23

SOPH. HOP BEGINS TONIGHT WITH HOUSE DANCES

Bowdoin Six Brings Season to Close With Brilliant Victory Over Bates Team

State Champions Fail to Stop Eleventh Hour Assault of Polar Bears as Bart Godfrey Scores Winning Goal at Bell

With the score 2-1 against them and twenty seconds left to play, the Bowdoin hockey team scored twice to win from the state champion Bates outfit at Lewiston Saturday. Don Sloan tallied on a beautiful play in the dying moments of the third period to tie the score, and Bart Godfrey, freshman left wing, won the game single-handed a scant two seconds before the final bell. The game was very fast and equally rough from beginning to end.

Bates Opens Offensive

Bates assumed the offensive soon after the opening whistle and Captain Rose's team had to be content with defensive tactics. Heavy checking was the rule, but the smooth combination play of the Garnet six sifted through often enough, and Lord soon converted a teammate's pass for a score. Charlie McKenney, replacing Southern on defense, broke a skate and was through for the day. Southern's long shot sizzled past Farrell, but the referee detected offside play, and the score was null and void. Another excellent combination steamed by the Bowdoin points, and Lord tallied again for the home team, ending the scoring for the first period, and for the Lewiston team.

Second Canto Scoreless

The Polar Bear six went more than halfway to meet their adversary in the second round, and Farrell and company gave them a warm reception. Southern's long drive again found the net, but Godfrey was offside on the play. Rushes were exchanged, but there was no further scoring in this canto.

Bates Leads in Final

Bates entered the third stage of the conflict with a new goalie and an apparently safe 2-0 margin. The White now unleashed a heavy attack, with the forwards hovering constantly about the Bates citadel. Herbie Rose at last caged the tally that brought Bowdoin within striking distance of victory. Bates took the offensive now, however, and it seemed that the game was virtually over. Don Sloan skated in fast and tucked away a

FROTH TRACK MEN WIN FOUR STRAIGHT BY BEATING BRIDGTON

Cubs Make Clean Sweep in Three Events and Take Six Firsts

Last Tuesday afternoon the Bowdoin Froth chalked up their fourth successive victory on the cinders by defeating the Bridgton Academy team 64-26. In spite of the overwhelming victory, the enforced lay-off during the examination period took its toll on the general condition of the 1934 trackers.

Record Shattered

This was particularly apparent in the pole vault and high jump events. Bridgton offered the Cubs the stiffest competition of the year. The failure of the visitors to furnish any entrants in either the high jump or the mile run cost them all chance of winning the meet. One new record was established in the 600 by Smith of the visitors, former Lawrence High star. He raced away from the entire field and finished eight yards in the lead of Don Reid in the excellent time of one minute nineteen and two-fifths seconds.

Confusion in 600

Ollie Borden, furnished Charlie Allen some great competition in the dash, losing to the Bowdoin star by scant inches. In the 300, the freshmen ran against some hard luck. Allen dashed for the first corner on even terms with Nosenworthy and Borden of Bridgton, but half way around the turn the former fouled him and Charlie was forced to start against the wall. Brailey Gray stepped up and led Nosenworthy to the tape but he could not catch the fleet Borden. Al-

ABRAXAS CUP STANDING

1. Bangor High	13,250
2. Portland High	12,958
3. Deering High	12,250
4. Maine Central Institute	10,509
5. Newton High	8,875
6. Winchester High	8,312

The winner Bangor High, is represented at Bowdoin by M. Chandler Redman, Raymond Francis Prince, and Eugene Ellis Brown. The winning schools for the past five years have been:

1926-Livermore Falls H. S.	12,625
1927-Deering H. S.	16,000
1928-Deering H. S.	15,167
1929-Deering H. S.	14,750
1930-Maine Central Institute	17,666

ACTIVE BOWDOIN OVERSEER DIES

Life of E. O. Achorn Marked by Great Devotion to the College

WAS AUTHOR OF MANY BOOKS AND ARTICLES

Edgar Oakes Achorn, perhaps the most devoted of all the friends of Bowdoin College, died February 13 at Orlando, Fla., following an emergency operation. Diplomat, lawyer, author, above all Mr. Achorn was an actively loyal alumnus who always carried the interests of the college with him and Godfrey was offside on the play. Rushes were exchanged, but there was no further scoring in this canto.

In the words of Philip S. Wilder, Mr. Achorn was "undoubtedly the most actively loyal alumnus." For twenty-two years he had served on the Board of Overseers, besides holding positions on many of the college committees. He had likewise written several articles and books concerning Bowdoin and even at his death was preparing an article for the Alumnus. Upon hearing of his death, President Sills stated, "Wherever he went he took the interests of the college with him. Bowdoin has lost a very devoted son."

The college flag on Memorial Hall was set at half-mast upon notice of his death had been received. This flag was the gift of Mr. Achorn, himself, who furnished new flags as often as they were needed.

Led Life of Service

Mr. Achorn always led a life of service. He was born in Newcastle, Maine, in 1859, and received his A.B. degree from Bowdoin in 1881. He taught for two or three years and went to the Boston University Law School. In 1884 he was admitted to the bar in Massachusetts and had since maintained a practice there. In the year 1896 he became secretary to the United States Embassy at St. Petersburg, Russia. For a time Mr. Achorn gave lectures at the Lincoln Memorial Union and received his LL.D. from there in 1910. For twenty-two years he had been an overseer of Bowdoin and had served on many of its governing committees. He was a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity, of which he was the Grand Chapter officer in 1892-1898, and he was likewise connected with several historical societies. In the years past he had written:

FRIENDSHIP AMONG NATIONS AMBITION OF CHAPEL SPEAKER

The obligation of a college man to take a broader view of the world and its people was the theme of Mr. C. H. Ernst, editor of "The Open Road," in the Chapel talk last Sunday. He demonstrated the misconceptions which arise among the nations of the earth.

The world, he said, has suddenly found itself smaller and improved means of transportation and quick ways of communication have made opposite sides of the globe physically very near together. Yet the peoples of the earth are in many cases wide apart as far as understanding of each other is concerned. Our judgment of other nations is formed in most cases from opinions which we gather from newspapers, moving pictures, stories told by travelers, and persons whom we see from different countries.

The college man, Mr. Ernst said, has both the opportunity and the obligation to step out of himself and take a broad view of the world and its people. He must do more than simply see the City Hall and museums of foreign cities. A person should take advantage of his opportunity to get in touch with other nations through knowing the people of this really small world.

MANY SIGN PETITION FOR BEN HOUSER

Four-fifths of Student Body Affix Signatures in Two Days' Time

ALUMNI ON COUNCIL ARE SENT COPIES

Newly Adopted Council Constitution Proves Source of Entire Controversy

Three hundred and ninety-five members of the Bowdoin student body through a petition circulated by Arthur L. Crimmins, president of the Student Council, and submitted to Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the Athletic Council asked a reconsideration by the latter body of the action resulting in the resignation two weeks ago of Ben Houser, veteran hockey and baseball coach. A letter explaining the petition and containing a list of the signers also was sent to each member of the Athletic Council.

But two days were consumed in securing signatures of nearly four-fifths of the entire student body and the reception of the Student Council's move indicates that Bowdoin students are solidly behind the movement to retain Houser as coach here. Thirty-two varsity letter men and four members of the Student Council were among those to sign the petition.

Council Heads Cause The petition was instigated by Crimmins at the behest of the Student Body.

SOPH HOP ISSUE OF GROWLER WILL APPEAR TOMORROW

Second Edition of Magazine Will Contain More Art Work Than First

Again the Polar Bear will wax facetious, as the Growler appears this week for the second time. This infant venture into collegiate humor met with approval on all sides with the launching of the Christmas number, now the staff sets about to duplicate the trick.

According to the Assistant Editor of one of the nation's most renowned university comics, the Pitt Panther, in his criticism of the Bowdoin publication: "It was with a real start of surprise that I looked over the first issue of the Growler. . . I have seen college humor magazines from schools . . . start up in the past several years, and the Growler is by far the best of the lot, and compares most favorably with the average college comic of the country."

To Have More Art Work

This forthcoming issue of the Growler will contain a greater number of drawings than did the first number. There are several line and wash cartoons by the talented Sloan, and Basset also contributing art work. The cover of this issue is done in a striking black and white, after the design of Fred Dennison.

George Sewall, for the second time, and Christy Moustakis have contributed their editorial abilities, and as copy editors have supervised this Soph Hop edition. New to the Growler editorial board are Fred Dennison, Lloyd Kendall, Tom Johnson and Ed Merrill. Schuyler Bradt is a newcomer on the Business Board.

Material is Diverging

Once more the Walter Winchell page will turn its searching spotlight on Brunswick society in a diatribe which will prove most amusing to all. This and several other humorous creations are the works of Ted

BOWDOIN DEBATORS ARE UNSUCCESSFUL

On its annual of the year the debating team thus far has been defeated at every turn. In the three debates that have been held at this date, the Bowdoin men were defeated by Union College, Buffalo College, and Albion College of Albion, Michigan. Buffalo won their debate by a unanimous vote of the judges, 3-0. The last contest was at Albion and the teams were much more evenly matched than in the two previous debates. Only after thirty-five minutes of deliberation did the judge finally award the decision to the home team. Information has been received by Mr. Childs from Manager Don Prince from time to time. In his latest letter Prince wrote that in spite of their unimpressive start, the men were not discouraged. In general it may be said that all of the debates have been concerned with some phase of "unemployment."

GRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AWARDED

Walker and Merriam are Winners of Everett and Longfellow Awards

BOTH MEN ACTIVE IN CAMPUS AFFAIRS

Recipients of Excellent Academic Rating—Elected to Phi Beta Kappa Last Year

Donald Emery Merriam of Rockland, Maine, and Paul Andrew Walker of Belmont, Mass., are the recipients of the two important graduate scholarships granted under the direction of the President and Trustees of Bowdoin College. The Charles Carroll Everett Scholarship was awarded to Walker who is majoring in biology and chemistry, and the Henry W. Longfellow Graduate Scholarship was awarded to Merriam whose major subject is French. Both intend to study at Harvard University, Merriam working in literature and Walker studying physiology and biochemistry.

Merriam Brilliant Student

Donald E. Merriam is a graduate of Rockland High School, Rockland, Maine. He has been an assistant at the library since his freshman year. In his sophomore year he joined the French Club. In that same year he took part in two productions of the Masque and Gown, "King Lear" and "Andronicus and the Lion." He has been a member of the college band.

(Continued on Page 2)

MASQUE AND GOWN TO PRESENT "GHOSTS" IN MEM HALL FRIDAY

James P. Blunt Takes Role of Oswald in Annual Soph Hop Play

One of the most intensive, realistic and tragic plays of the famous Norwegian dramatic master Henrik Ibsen, "Ghosts," will be the Sophomore Hop presentation of the Masque and Gown next Friday afternoon at 3:30 in Memorial Hall. The actors have been rehearsing under the supervision of Professor Charles Harold Gray for about a month and have mastered the numerous difficulties presented by the psychological studies and poignant mental struggles of the tragedy.

Blunt Experienced Actor

The difficult leading male role, that of Oswald Alving, son of the dissipated Captain Alving, will be taken by James Blunt '24. Blunt is an actor of wide experience in college productions. He played in the "Adding Machine," the 1929 Christmas play. He participated in Shaw's "Andronicus and the Lion" and starred as Romeo in Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet." The chief female role of that of the mother of Oswald is taken by Mrs. Lenore Gray. Her part, that of a loving husband from her boy and later confessing to him, is very long and difficult requiring endurance and a deep insight into Mrs. Alving's character and emotions.

The part of the pastor Manders, a dogmatic and near-sighted clergyman will be played by Donald Randall. Mrs. Rosamond Barton will act the part of Regina, the handsome but rather coarse and impetuous servant girl of Mrs. Alving, with whom Oswald falls in love. Donald P. McCormick will play the part of Jacob Engstrand, a crafty and mercenary carpenter in Mrs. Alving's employ.

Prof. Norris Gives First Lecture

A lecture entitled "Motor Fuels" was given last Monday morning, February 16, by Professor James F. Norris in the lecture room of the Chemistry department. He was available for student conferences during the afternoon. Professor Norris was a lecturer here in Chemistry in the second semester of the year 1928-1929. Following that period he received the honorary Sc.D. degree from Bowdoin. He is to return again on March 2 and March 16 for further lectures.

Art Exhibition Being Held

An exhibition of contemporary American art is to be seen at Bowdoin from February 23rd to March 7th. This exhibition is sponsored by several of the foremost art connoisseurs and collectors in the country, among whom are Charles E. Morey, head of the Art Department at Princeton and Paul J. Sachs of the Toledo Museum. The exhibition will be composed of paintings, drawings from the collection of Mr. Daniel F. Felt, prints and books on art by noted authorities.

Slightly Over One Hundred Guests Arrive for Annual Sophomore House Party

Formal In Sargent Gymnasium Tomorrow Evening—Masque and Gown Play "Ghosts" to be Presented in Mem. Hall in Afternoon

With dinner tonight at the various fraternity houses, another Soph Hop houseparty breaks into full swing, and a few short hours from now will see the customary house dances well under way. Slightly over a hundred guests have arrived in Brunswick during the course of the day for the festivities of tonight and tomorrow, and though this number is somewhat smaller than usual, there seems to be little doubt as to the success of the party. The traditional Soph Hop program will be carried out, with house dances tonight, followed tomorrow by the Masque and Gown play "Ghosts" in the afternoon, and the formal in the gymnasium in the evening, lasting well into Saturday morning.

FRATERNITIES INITIATE FROSH

Many Alumni Return Friday and Saturday for Annual Ceremonies

FESTIVITIES END WITH BANQUETS

Following a very strenuous Hell Week, in which the neophytes were made to perform the customary obnoxious duties, five fraternities held their initiations on either Friday or Saturday of last week. The initiations of all the houses were followed by banquets.

At the Chi Psi Lodge eight men were made brothers. The initiation and the banquet took place on Saturday evening. The following were the speakers at the banquet: Malcolm Stanley '30, T. E. Chaboudine '19, and G. R. McIntire '25.

Twelve men were taken into the Kappa Sigma fraternity on Saturday evening. There was a banquet after the initiation. Charles Onard '11 was the toastmaster at this occasion. The following alumni and guests were present at the initiation and banquet: Leon Jones, Donald Lancaster, William Cole, Gorham Scott, Herbert Prescott, Walter Moore, John Depon, and John Atwood. The last delegates from the chapter at the University of Maine. Prof. E. H. Gray was the member of the faculty present.

The Beta Theta Pi fraternity held their initiation and initiatory banquet on Friday evening for ten men. At the banquet Clarence Brown was the toastmaster. The guests and alumni present were as follows: F. Harlow, W. McGorrel, A. Roberts, E. Humphreys, J. Kenniston, S. Traflet, and F. Allen. On Saturday night the Sigma Nu fraternity held their initiation. 10 men were initiated. The banquet was held immediately after the initiation. The following were the guests of the fraternity during the initiation: William Altenburg, Ray Jensen, Sears Crowell, Edward Buxton, O. C. Small, Ned Raye, Peck Harvey, Charles Tweedy and E. H. Williamson were guests from the chapter at the University of Maine. Prof. Hornell was also present. Mr. Raye was the toastmaster at the banquet.

Alpha Tau Omega held its annual initiation and banquet on Saturday afternoon and evening. Twelve men were initiated. The toastmaster at the banquet was Albert E. Jenkins

(Continued on Page 2)

REORGANIZED B. C. A. ADOPTS CONSTITUTION IN REGULAR MEETING

Last Wednesday night at the regular meeting of the recently reorganized Bowdoin Christian Association the new Constitution was read and accepted with a few minor suggestions. Committee members were also elected.

The Constitution was drawn up by a committee of six men from the organization headed by W. S. Palmer, the President. It is being printed and will be available by the last of the week at the B. C. A. room in the Union for anyone to read, who so desires.

As provided for in the Constitution, the Program Committee with R. W. Ober as chairman, and Membership Committee, E. R. Lays chairman, were elected as the permanent committees. The Poland Spring conference committee under R. S. Beaton, and the General Publicity Committee with A. P. Lunt chairman were the two special committees elected. The Membership committee urged everyone to read over the Constitution and to get in touch with any member interested.

"Ghosts" to be Given

Ibsen's famous "Ghosts" will be staged in Memorial Hall tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock by members of the Masque and Gown, ably coached and directed by Professor C. H. Gray.

James P. Blunt and Mrs. C. H. Gray will appear in the leading roles, playing as Oswald Alving and Mrs. Helen Alving, respectively.

In the evening the widely-known Casa Loma orchestra will be featured by the sophomores at the formal. The gym has been most colorfully decorated to suit the spirit of the occasion, and all signs point toward a highly successful and enjoyable dance.

No Theta Delta Party

Only one fraternity, Theta Delta Chi, is not having any house dance, though Zeta Psi and Delta Kappa Epsilon have combined forces for this evening at the Delta house. The party at the Alpha Delta Phi house will be entertained by McKinney's Cotton Pickers, and Mrs. A. L. Farquhar will be the patroness. The Psi U's will have a part of the Casa Loma orchestra, which is to play at the gym dance tomorrow night. The patrons and patronesses have not been announced as we go to press. The Chi Psi's have engaged one of Sullivan's orchestras for their house dance. At this date we have not

(Continued on page 3)

PROF. W. B. McDANIELS SPEAKS ABOUT AENEAS TO CLASSICAL CLUB

Discusses Western Mediterranean Wanderings of Virgilian Character

"In the Wake and Footsteps of Aeneas" was the subject for a witty though scholarly lecture delivered by Professor Walton Brooks McDaniel of the University of Pennsylvania last Friday evening in the main lounge of Moulton Union. The lecture was illustrated by a large number of lantern slides some of them taken by Doctor McDaniel during a tour through Italy and Sicily and others being the reproductions of well known paintings and sculptures.

Professor McDaniel was introduced by James Ryers Colton '31, president of the Classical Club under whose auspices the lecture was presented. The Colton outlined Professor McDaniel's career as a student and teacher at Harvard, and as a teacher at Radcliffe, Pennsylvania and at the American Academy in Rome. He then presented Professor McDaniel to the audience.

Phoenician Source of Epics

Doctor McDaniel began his lecture by commenting upon the fact that last year marked the two thousandth anniversary of the birth of Virgil. His opening slides were pictures of ancient and modern Phoenicia. It is from Phoenician sailors that Homer obtained much of the material for his epics. Since Virgil drew much of his material from the poems of Homer, the yarns of the Phoenician tars are the source of a large part of the Aeneid. The Phoenicians were fine sailors and conducted an extensive trade throughout the Mediterranean. But they were jealous of their trade and did not want competitors. To prevent competition they frequently played on the superstitious fears of other nations describing the terrors of the more remote parts of the Mediterranean.

(Continued on page 2)

STUDENT COUNCIL STANDING

1. Chi Psi	11,301
2. Non Fraternity	11,154
3. Alpha Tau Omega	10,913
4. Theta Delta Chi	10,265
5. Kappa Sigma	10,177
6. Beta Theta Pi	9,444
7. Zeta Psi	9,246
8. Delta Upsilon	9,071
9. Alpha Delta Phi	9,035
10. Delta Kappa Epsilon	8,795
11. Sigma Nu	8,652
12. Psi Upsilon	8,340

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief

Paul A. Walker '31

Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

Sports Department

Robert L. M. Ahern '33

Edward B. McMenamin '33

H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31

Fred R. Kleibacker '31

Robert M. McFarland '31

Reporters

NICHOLAS BASHKIROFF

JAMES E. BARNETT

RAYMOND BROWN, JR.

ALEXANDER P. CLARK

HAROLD H. EVERETT

JAMES C. FREEMAN

JOHN M. SINCLAIR

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $1.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Thursday, February 19, 1931.

No. 23

A Square Deal?

The Student Council, in assuming the leadership for the retention of Ben Houser as baseball and hockey coach, is not only backing an individual fully meriting its support, but is setting itself in opposition to a group which is attempting to carry out an obvious injustice. The words on the field house at Whittier field "FAIR PLAY AND MAY THE BEST MAN WIN," have a distinctly ironic tone when viewed in relation to the means and methods used by the alumni members of the Athletic Council in the removal of Houser. Knowing full well that injustice has been done, that the resignation of Houser was not voluntary, that the opinions expressed by the alumni members of the Council were scarcely representative of the entire alumni body, that the undergraduate members of the Council were treated with high disregard, — the Student Council has every reason to pursue any course of action which may rectify the present situation.

The new Athletic Council constitution may well be regarded as the crux of the entire controversy. This constitution, which was drawn up in final form at Commencement last year, and which was foisted upon an entirely unsuspecting undergraduate body last Fall, is quite definitely the seat of the trouble. Here may be found the machinery which brings about the predominance of alumni influence in Bowdoin athletics, and which, quite obviously, made it possible to force Houser to resign.

In analyzing this constitution, we find it made up of five members from the alumni, five from the undergraduates, and three from the faculty. It will be further noted by regarding Section V-B, that undergraduates are deprived of a vote in recommending coaches. It was upon the liberties taken with this clause in the constitution that the undergraduates were dismissed from the meeting which brought about the resignation of Houser. Despite the apparent desire of some alumni to get rid of undergraduate influence in the retention of coaches, we fail to note anywhere in the constitution a clause which denies the right of undergraduate members of the Council to be present at such discussion, or any denial to the undergraduates of an expression of opinion on such matters. In dismissing the undergraduate members of the Council from that meeting, the Council quite definitely overstepped its power.

We find the power of engaging and dismissing coaches allotted to the Athletic Director, with the approval of the President and the alumni and faculty members of the Council. The council, rather than face the issue squarely, attempted to shield itself by forcing Houser's hand. It obviously feared the complications which the prearranged machinery might have involved, and it provided for itself a very nice loop-hole from which it could escape from assuming the responsibility for its action. We are not prone to construe this action as a square deal.

When the problem is considered as a whole, it is found to involve two very definite points of view. It urges upon the undergraduate the pledge of continued work for Houser's retention, and it brings to light the need of a change in the constitution of the Council, for the elimination of alumni control.

The Student Council has handled the earlier part of the task well, but the task is by no means complete. A special meeting of the Athletic Council must be called, grievances talked over, and definite steps taken towards a consideration of the Student Council petition. A recommendation by the undergraduates must be made to the Boards for a shift in the balance of power in the Athletic Council. In the final analysis, Houser must be brought back to his position, and alumni predominance in Bowdoin athletics must be reduced to a minimum.

P. C. A.

Editorial Shavings

The Petitions

Offhand, we should say that "we, the people" got together and did a right smart job on the Student Council petitions for the reconsideration of Houser's resignation. It would almost seem as if a concerted action had occurred—something very rare amid the sleepy and moss-covered halls of Bowdoin. And from all reports in circulation, it would seem as if the Faculty were none too pleased with our high-handed alumni friends either. And we all know that there are plenty of alumni with us.

The Penn Plan

Through devious and sundry channels, we hear of possibilities of a careful consideration of the Penn Plan and its practicability here. Our present system is about ten years behind the times and snacks very patently of an aroma reminiscent of Boss Tweed and others of a similar species. We hazard the guess that the Penn Plan or a similar one, would be quite an improvement.

One feature of the student vote on the Student Council petition strikes a queer note. Why is it that so few track men saw fit to sign? It seems queer that so perceptible an alignment occurred. Was it a question of personal views, or was it a fear of displeasing Jack Magee? We cannot help feeling that Jack would never stoop to demanding such an expression of loyalty, but someone has apparently sown this idea.

Chapel

Speaking of chapel, we hear that the Faculty has met and considered the question of compulsory chapel. Praise be to Allah! It is about time that something happened. We trust that the vote will betray a modern spirit and that some attempt will be made to improve the present archaic status quo. And while we are on the subject, may we remark that "consolation literature" has once more appeared at Bowdoin. There is something very ludicrous in the picture of an official of the College extolling the virtues of the "undistinguished undergraduate." We had thought that the "undistinguished undergraduates" were dead for this year, but alas, they are reborn. It is all too true that every one of us cannot make Phi Beta Kappa or captain the football team, but rather than be consoled for our shortcomings, if that is the proper word, we should prefer to be treated as men, not infants. In fact, the more we hear the more we wonder what is the goal of the Bowdoin educational system. We certainly seem to have plenty of undistinguished products—but why advertise them?

Athletic Council Constitution

(The Orient runs in this column the Athletic Council Constitution. It suggests that its readers examine the constitution closely, noting the predominance of alumni influence and the complete lack of power granted to the undergraduates in significant discussion.)

SECTION I

A. Name and Composition
This body shall be known as the Bowdoin Athletic Council and shall consist of five alumni, five undergraduates, and three members of the faculty.

B. Manner of Elections
1. The Alumni Members shall be appointed each June by the Governing Boards of the College. They shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year. For the initial formation of the Council, under this Constitution:

One Alumni Member shall be appointed for one year.

One Alumni Member shall be appointed for two years.

One Alumni Member shall be appointed for three years.

One Alumni Member shall be appointed for four years.

One Alumni Member shall be appointed for five years.

and thereafter as each term expires the vacancy so created shall be filled by an appointment for a term of five years.

2. The five undergraduate members shall be elected by the Alumni Members of the Council.

3. The five undergraduate members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

4. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

5. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

6. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

7. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

8. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

9. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

10. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

11. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

12. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

13. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

14. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

15. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

16. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

17. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

18. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

19. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

20. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

21. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

22. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

23. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

24. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

25. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

26. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

27. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

28. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

29. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

30. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

31. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

32. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

33. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

34. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

35. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

36. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

37. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

38. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

39. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

40. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

41. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

42. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

43. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

44. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

45. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

46. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

47. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

48. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

49. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

50. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

51. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

52. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

53. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

54. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

55. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

56. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

57. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

58. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

59. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

60. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

61. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

62. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

63. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

64. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

65. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

66. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

67. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

68. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

69. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

70. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

71. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

72. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

73. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

74. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

75. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

76. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

77. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

78. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

79. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

80. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

81. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

82. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

83. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

84. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

85. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

86. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

87. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

88. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

89. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

90. The Faculty Members shall be appointed by the Faculty each Spring and shall enter upon their duties at the first meeting of the ensuing College year.

SECTION IX
A. Method of Amendment of Constitution
This Constitution may be amended by the action of the Board of Trustees and Overseers.

Communication

To the Orient:

My little girl Betsy has been invited down to the dance at Bowdoin and I have told her she can't go and I am writing you to let you know why. The reason is because of that show about Ghosts that's to be put on. My friend the minister says as how it's a loathsome, disgusting, nauseous play and that it's washing dirty linen in public. Now I'd like to know why the sophomores want to wash dirty linen in front of their pretty little friends, like my Betsy, that they're inviting to their party. I think it's all wrong, sir, and so does my friend the minister that the students of a Christian college should produce a play that stinks like the brimstone pits of Hell. In conclusion I am for purity in the home, the kitchen, and the drama.

Yours,

Ezekiel F. Norcross.

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:

Dear Sir:
Like the majority of my fellow undergraduates, I am highly incensed over the Houser affair. I feel strongly that the alumni members of the Athletic Council have gone much too far in this matter. Ben is entitled to far better treatment than this especially if one credits the story that he turned down an excellent position at West Point to remain with us here. Ben may have produced a large number of winning teams, but he has worked hard at his task. His personality has made him a Bowdoin institution.

Furthermore, there is a rumor going the rounds that the resignations of Roland Cobb and of Bob Miller were also recommended. Is Bowdoin going to have but two sports tracks and football? It all looks like overemphasis. I suppose the theory is that if we can't have a winning football team with hockey, swimming and baseball existing, we must have one without it. As reasoning that is very good ping-pong. But the reasoning is not the only "funny" thing about this whole affair. I should like to request Ben may have produced a large number of winning teams, but he has worked hard at his task. His personality has made him a Bowdoin institution.

Sincerely,

J. A. W. '31.

THE SPA

is the place to eat during Soph Hop

TRY IT

Communication

House party again arrives with discussions of morality apparently in vogue, all of which do not seem to be confined to our Soph Hop play. The last warning was the discontinuance of house parties; now from the power behind the throne comes the threat of closing fraternity houses on provocation. It seems that we are not so lucky as the Illinois fraternities. There is no opportunity to wait for the state police. Instead, the college claims the pleasure of padlocking social organizations.

The significant fact is that no statement is ever made of a precedent which would indicate any coming tragedy. Parties come and go with no evident after-effects except an occasional headache. Of course, we receive our little list of rules which practically make it a crime for one to light his guest's cigarette. This coming raid of our "dens of evil" could hardly be caused by infractions of these prep school regulations. They take the student back to childhood days, when he asked permission to attend an afternoon movie or to go to the drugstore for an ice cream soda. Similar restrictions are searched for in vain at the leading institutions outside our state.

All that can be said of these rules is that prohibition was also a noble experiment. Ethics cannot be classified by fraternities, classes, or colleges. Why should the conduct of any student reflect upon or bring punishment upon any of these groups? Individual treatment of non-conforming students may be necessary. Let it remain as such.

The truth that makes the previous arguments rather superficial is that social rules can be enforced only by reverting to the disgusting custom of having couples individually chaperoned. In the face of this fact, let us do away entirely with house parties or else usher in a new governing principle—that the judgment and experience of the participants is sufficient to handle the situation without the futile, but undesirable, threats and regulations with the constant attempt to intimidate and spy upon social functions of the college.

R. M. M. '31.

Communication

The recent action of the Athletic Council smells of boss politics. It does worse than smell—it stinks. Any supposedly deliberative body that will force the resignation of an employee whose term of honorable service has been as long as that of Ben Houser, — any college committee, vested with the power of spending student moneys, that will treat the objects of such expenditure with so little regard for the opinions and desires of the student body,—any group of men, responsible for the just administration of so important a department of collegiate activity, that will attempt to adjudge the worth of any man so adequately that it does not consider it necessary to admit any defense from the man concerned,—any moving and acquiescent spirits in this action of the Athletic Council are, I say, deserving of whatever contempt and coercion the members of the Alumni and student bodies choose to visit upon them.

Ever since the time when the power of voting on the hiring and firing of coaches was taken away from the student representatives on the Athletic Council, many students have been

(Continued on Page 3)

The Ideal Hotel for You
In BOSTONis the NEW Hotel MANGERAt North Station
Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot
and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS

Each Room equipped with Tub and

Shower • Built-in Radio Speaker

(Three Station Service) • Servidor

Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Modern

Equipped and Perfectly

Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster

Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH

FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00

FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 5.50

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

We Have a Few Portable Typewriters Which Have Been Rented Once or Twice, Which We Are Selling at Reduced Prices. This Chance Does Not Come Often.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

SOPH. HOP GUESTS

ALPHA DELTA PHI
 Eleanor Williams, Dedham, Mass.
 Margaret Chapman, Portland.
 Pauline Spoor, Portland.
 Elizabeth Johnston, Portland.
 Isabelle Brigham, Kingston, N. Y.
 Mary MacKinnon, Los Angeles, Cal.
 Isabel Marbury, Brooklyn, N. Y.
 Almo McPherson, South Bend, Ind.
 Friedella White, Wakefield, Mass.
 Ann Stratton, Portland.
 Elizabeth Thomas, Portland.
 Ursula Parrott, Hoboken, N. J.
 Lucy McBride, Newton, Mass.

PSI UPSILON
 Margaret Beach, Cape Elizabeth.
 Barbara Merrill, Portland.
 Margaret Goodwin, Marblehead, Mass.
 Virginia Hyde, Belmont, Mass.
 Corrie Howe, Portland.
 Martha Crowther, Marblehead, Mass.
 Marion Houlton, Danvers, Mass.
 Virginia Snow, Rockland.

CHI PSI
 Lucille Cook, Wollaston, Mass.
 Marjorie E. Reed, Wakefield, Mass.
 Camille Deane, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
 Sylvia Smith, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
 Dorothy M. Crocker, Pittsburgh, Mass.
 Elizabeth Riley, Brunswick.
 Pauline Russell, Gardiner.
 Estelle Wiseman, Newport.

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON and ZETA PSI
 Lilla Draper, Hopkinton, Mass.
 Caroline Little, Portland.
 Friedella Place, New York City.
 Catherine Denney, Harvard, Mass.
 Marguerite Demeritt, Dover-Foxcroft.
 Nancy Wright, Dallas, Texas.
 Peggy Lincoln, Pepperell, Mass.
 Elizabeth Bennett, Newton, Mass.
 Sara Arnold, Cleveland, Ohio.

DELTA UPSILON
 Barbara Welch, Lynn, Mass.
 Elizabeth Mather, Newton Highlands, Mass.
 Martha Bloom, Falmouth, N. Y.
 Helen Mills, New York City.
 Marjorie Brown, Winchester, Mass.
 Louise Piper, Holden, Mass.
 Dorothy Fuller, Scarisdale, N. Y.
 Helen Bidwell, Scarisdale, N. Y.
 Angela Johnson, Topham.

Ruth Alexander, Brunswick.
 Marjorie Ryan, Worcester, Mass.
 Florida Hathaway, Lexington, Mass.
 Helen Chase, Portland.
 Dorothy De Wolfe, Portland.
 Barrie Dowdy, Yarmouth.
 Carroll Mather, Manchester, N. H.
 Virginia Donald, Springfield, Mass.
 Lola Wilson, Brunswick.
 Virginia Pierce, Plainfield, N. J.

KAPPA SIGMA
 Janice Mackay, Belmont, Mass.
 Beatrice Bell, Gloucester, Mass.
 Carolyn Green, Auburn.
 Janet Hamilton, Wollaston, Mass.
 Barbara Willis, Quincy, Mass.
 Pearl Warren, Portland.
 Jane Edmonds, Brunswick.
 Virginia Hood, Lancaster, N. H.
 Ruth Garrod, Mt. Holyoke, Mass.
 Marion Boutet, Knapman.
 Ernestine Robert, Lewiston.
 Marguerite Clifford, Topham.

SIGMA NU
 Mary Bird, Rockland.
 Elizabeth Neys, Cleveland, Ohio.
 Catherine Lenneth, Thomasville, N. C.
 Marie Johnson, Portland.
 Elizabeth Douglas, Cincinnati, Ohio.
 Virginia White, Portland.
 Anne White, Reno, Nev.
 Louise Burr, Chicago, Ill.
 Thomas Everett, Chicago, Ill.
 Helen Moulton, Rockland.
 Mary Lawrence, Rockland.
 Mary Lord, Bath.
 Virginia Valley, Chicago, Ill.
 Frances Perin, Portland.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA
 Elizabeth Gould, Freeport.
 Helen Coffin, Newton Lower Falls, Mass.
 Dorothea Perin, Sanford.
 Margaret Wyman, Gosham.
 Eleanor Riley, Brunswick.
 Fabrice Carson, Brunswick.
 Helen Rose, Chicago, Ill.
 Helen Waring, Malden, Mass.
 Emily Mafford, Washington, D. C.
 Margaret Hess, Bath.
 Marjorie MacKinnon, Topham.
 Laura Steyer, South Portland.
 Sarah Hamilton, Brunswick.
 Rosette Fortin, Brunswick.

Evening Clothes Harmony

These evening clothes were designed exclusively for young men who unquestionably like really smart apparel at a popular price

Tailcoats at $50 and $65

Tuxedos at $40 to $60

HARMON'S
INCORPORATEDGRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AWARDED

(Continued from Page 1)

Merriam is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. He has been a consistent scholar being one of the highest ranking in his class and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa last year.

Walker Debater and Journalist

Paul A. Walker graduated from the Belmont High School. During his freshman year he was on the freshman football squad and was also a reporter on the Bowdoin Orient of which he is now the editor-in-chief. He was on the varsity swimming squad his sophomore year. That same year he was an associate editor of the Orient. He was managing editor of that paper during his junior year and became editor-in-chief then. Walker's debating work started during his freshman year when he was a member of the Cyclops, assistant in chemistry, and assistant in zoology.

Charles Carroll Everett Scholarship
 The Charles Carroll Everett Scholarship is given in memory of Charles Carroll Everett, D.D., of the class of 1850, by his daughter, Miss Mildred Everett. Real estate in Brunswick was converted into a fund amounting to $13,584 and bequeathed by Miss Mildred Everett. The net income of the fund is given to the senior class who the President and Trustees think is the best qualified to take post-graduate work. This work may be either in this or some other country.

Henry W. Longfellow Scholarship
 The daughters of Henry W. Longfellow, of the class of 1825 — Miss Alice M. Longfellow, Mrs. Edith L. Dana, and Mrs. Anne L. Thorp — gave a fund of $10,000 to provide a scholarship "that would enable a student, after graduation, to pursue graduate work in some other college, or abroad, if considered desirable; the work to be done in English, or renal literature, and the field to be as large as possible — Belles Lettres in a wide sense. The student to be selected should be someone not merely proficient in some specialty, or with high marks, but with real ability in the subject and capable of profiting by the advanced work and of developing it in the best way."

Present Holders

Students at Harvard now holding these scholarships are George Stuart Willard, of the Class of 1930, who is studying under the Charles Carroll Everett Scholarship, and James Parker Pettegrove, also of the class of 1930, who holds the Henry W. Longfellow Graduate Scholarship. Pettegrove was recently awarded a Rhodes Scholarship from New England.

PROF. W. B. McDANIELS SPEAKS ABOUT AENEAS TO CLASSICAL CLUB

(Continued from Page 1)

reanean such as Scylla and Charibdis. Thus as a result of the preparations used by the Phoenicians to discourage rivals arose many of the myths used by Homer and Virgil.

Travels in Sicily and Italy
 Professor McDaniels restricted his account of the wanderings of Aeneas to his adventures in the western Mediterranean. Aeneas sailing from Greece skirted the foot of Italy as far as the straits of Scylla and Charibdis. Then he sailed along the coastline of Sicily past Mount Aetna. Professor McDaniels showed a num-

"Task Tak"

At Rhode Island State University a freshman caught flirting with a co-ed is forced to wear a catcher's mask for three days.

ACTIVE BOWDOIN OVERSEER DIES

(Continued from Page 1)

ten many articles on education, travel, politics, etc., and was the author of "The Unknown Quantity" (1918). In 1929 he edited the book "Bowdoin in the World War." In the last few years he had had his winter home in Brunswick where he had even closer connections with the college. News of his sudden death was received with great regret by all those acquainted with him or connected with the college.

FRATERNITIES INITIATE FROSH

(Continued from Page 1)

31. The following were present at the initiation: Lee Rollins, David Desjardins, John McGill, Francis N. Carter, from the alumni; Leo G. Chesong, Reed Eliot, Howard Archibald, Oscar Nickerson, Willis Randall, Cecil Goddard, "Red" Grafton. The last mentioned names were the delegates from the chapters at Tufts, Colby, and the University of Maine.

ber of photographs of Mount Aetna during a recent eruption. He then traced Aeneas' journey as far as the land of the Cyclops. He displayed a photograph vividly depicting some of Odysseus' men gouging out the eyes of the giant Cyclops with a huge stick as large as a modern telegraph pole. He continued with a modern view of the region with its huge boulders which were supposed to have been thrown by the blinded Cyclops at the departing ships.

Professor McDaniels' travelogue then followed Aeneas to Carthage. Here Aeneas fell in love with the charming Dido, a young widow who after the death of her first husband had vowed never to marry anyone else. A picture was flashed on the screen showing Dido and the young Aeneas in an ardent love embrace. Aeneas did not remain in Carthage as Fate urged him on. He sailed north to Italy passing Vesuvius and the famous pits of Avernus, the fabled entrance to Hades, and finally sailed up the mouth of the Tiber to his final destination.

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday, Feb. 18
 RICHARD BARTHELMLESS,
 in
 THE LASH
 Comedy Travelogue

Thursday, Feb. 19
 ABRAHAM LINCOLN
 with Walter Huston - Una Merkle
 Comedy Sound Ac

Friday, February 20
 VAUDEVILLE
 on the screen
 DANGER LIGHTS
 with
 Louis Wolheim - Robert Armstrong Jean Arthur
 Paramount News

Saturday, February 21
 THE SOUTHERNER
 with Lawrence Tibbett - Esther Ralston
 Screen Song Comedy

Monday, Tuesday-February 23, 24
 HELL'S ANGELS
 with Ben Lyon, Jean Harlow, James Hal
 News Sound Ac

SOPH HOP ISSUE OF GROWLER WILL APPEAR TOMORROW

(Continued from Page 1)

Steele, Christy Moustakis, Tom Johnson and Herbert Wadsworth. Besides these feature skits the Soph Hop issue is replete with short articles, drawings, and jokes, both original and exchange.

House Party

(Continued from Page 1)

been able to find who the patrons and patronesses will be.

Deke and Zetes Combine
 The Deke-Zetes party, as we have said, will be held at the house of the former, with the Cotton Pickers furnishing the music. Prof. and Mrs. Charles H. Gray, and Prof. and Mrs.

both of the charges can be proved on the basis of the most important thing that every civilized man owes to his fellow: a square deal. And if, on this basis alone, the charges are not serious enough to warrant reconsideration of the action, the members of the Council who precipitated the action will have proved themselves more unworthy of Bowdoin than they have already done.
 Colton, 1931.

Boyd Bartlett are to be faculty guests.

Delta Upsilon seems to be having about the largest party on the campus. They are dividing the Casa Loma band with the Psi U's. Patronesses will be Mrs. Thomas Means and Mrs. Anna F. Prindham.

Longee's Hudson-Essex Challengers will play for the Kappa Sigma house dance, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Caliendo will be the patron and patroness here.

No information regarding the Beta Theta Pi party is available as we go to press.

At the Sigma Nu house Billy Murphy and his Royal Arcadians will be the orchestra for the evening. Other plans are still dark.

Laura Steyer, South Portland.

Sarah Hamilton, Brunswick.

Rosette Fortin, Brunswick.

The Small College

The size of the student body at Urbana University was swelled to about twenty-four undergraduates by the addition of a new music course this year. This institution claims to have the smallest student body of any higher educational corporation in the country—We won't dispute it.

(Continued from page 2)

waiting to see how great attention would be paid to student opinion on such matters. The answer has come, and it is obviously, "None." Now the question is, "Will the student body sit idly by and watch their money be alternately distributed and retained without any regard for their wishes?" I am confident that the answer will be, "No!" But if anything is to be done about this matter, it will be done only after an expression of opinion from the alumni and students, an expression so vigorous that there will be no uncertainty in the minds of those who await it as to what action they should take.

As I have tried to indicate, the charges to which certain members of the Athletic Council have laid themselves open are very grave. The first is that they have unjustly forced an action without any consultation (at least, without any formal consultation) of the parties most involved, namely, Mr. Houser and the student body. The second charge is that by this action they have been guilty, informally, of maladministration of the college. It is only too true that neither of these charges can be proved by the exact terminology of the article which grants the Athletic Council its power. But it is just as true that

Which is the larger of these two white squares? Don't trust to your eyesight alone.

YOUR EYES MAY FOOL YOU
BUT

YOUR TASTE tells the Truth!

MILDER...AND BETTER TASTE

S P O R T S

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity
Trade

574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers

SOULE and WALKER
JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD

We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store

Watch Repairing
By An Experienced Watchmaker
Sheaffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"

"The College Jeweler"
Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S

Candy and Ice Cream
74 MAINE STREET

DUKE UNIVERSITY
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE
DURHAM, N. C.

On October 1, 1931, carefully selected first and third year students will be admitted. Applications may be sent at any time and will be considered in the order of receipt. Catalogues and application forms may be obtained from the Dean.

TUFTS COLLEGE
DENTAL SCHOOL

Founded 1857

College men—prepare for a profession of wide interest and opportunity. Recent research has enlarged the scope of every phase of dentistry. The field demands more than ever before, men and women of ability, backed by superior training. Such training Tufts College Dental School offers to its students. School opens on September 30, 1931. Our catalog may guide you in choosing your career. For information address:

Dr. WILLIAM RICE, Dean
416 Huntington Avenue, Boston, Mass.

Have you chosen
your life work?

In the field of health service the Harvard University Dental School—the oldest dental school connected with any university in the United States—offers thorough well-balanced courses in all branches of dentistry. All modern equipment for practical work under supervision of men with the profession. Write for details and admission requirements to Leroy M. S. Miner, Dean
HARVARD UNIVERSITY
DENTAL SCHOOL
Dept. 70, Longwood Ave., Boston, Mass.

The Musical Clubs will give a concert at the Cumberland Theatre in town and will ask the cogent support of all the student body.

ANTIQUITY SHOP

Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 243-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 138-97 Maine St.—Tel. 137

PRINTING

STUART & CLEMENT
Town Building

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasin, Rubbers

ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?'

Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES

Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —

Send Your Washing to the

CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students

on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and

FRATERNITY PAPER

KATWOOD PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations

Prescriptions Carefully Compounded

AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the facilities of

THE RECORD PRESS

are at your service. Tel. 3

Let us estimate on your next job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work done in this shop.

Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

MISFORTUNE DOGS POLAR BEAR RELAY TEAM AT B.A.A. GAMES

Stanwood Shows Up Well in Running High Hurdles
Despite Fast Field

An evil Goddess of Misfortune dogged the footsteps of a plucky Bowdoin relay team last Saturday night at the B. A. A. Games in Boston and prevented them from making a powerful bid to defeat Northeastern. As it was the Polar Bears finished second, Villanova placing third.

Forced to withdraw Dan Johnson who was declared ineligible two days previous Jack Magee took a long chance and substituted Charlie Allen who more than justified Jack's confidence in him.

Allen for Johnson

Allen running in the leadoff position ran a great race against his opponent after a grueling fight yielded ten yards to the speedy Northeastern runner. Gatchell, however, electrified the crowd by gaining six yards on Shay of Northeastern, New England champion for the past two years and handed the baton to Thistlewaite only four yards in the rear. It was then that the aforesaid Goddess stepped in to the situation. Thistlewaite started out strongly but the second yard fell, lost his baton and precious yardage and the race was practically over as far as the Polar Bears were concerned. Sid Foster, anchor man, started 60 yards behind the Northeastern entry and even then made up considerable of the lost ground but the advantage was too much and the White had to be content with a second place.

As it was, losing to Northeastern was no disgrace. The latter are admitted by track experts to be one of the fastest college teams in the East while the Polar Bear team was running for the first time against strong competition.

Stanwood Flashes

Miss Misfortune, however, was not through with the Bowdoin representatives and Charlie Stanwood was the next to be denied glory through her machinations. Stanwood running the high hurdles was entered against a fast field in his heat and there is still question in the minds of those present as to whether or not he should have been denied a place. Stanwood, "Red" Record of Harvard and Sawyer of Dartmouth ran what seemed to be a dead heat but only the last two named were qualified. Coaches Jenkins of Bates and Thompson of the University of Maine both said that Stanwood was the first to break the record but the judges ruled otherwise. Record later went on to take second in the final.

Larry Usher as was expected failed to place in the special 1000-yard invitation. Usher faced a particularly fast field and since it was his first attempt against such high ranking competition his time was slightly slower than usual.

MANY SIGN PETITION FOR BEN HOUSER

(Continued from Page 1)

dent Council after student indignation had risen to a pitch seldom reached on this campus at the action of the Athletic Council. Principal protest of the student body was that their representatives had had no voice in the virtual dismissal of Houser.

This action of the Council, however, was perfectly in accord with the constitution of that body which forbids the student representatives to have any voice in the matter of hiring or dismissal of coaches. This clause was inserted at the final meeting of the Council last June when a new constitution was adopted.

While no resentment was felt in regard to other members of the Athletic Department the fact that Houser's salary is paid entirely out of the blanket tax assessed on every student gave rise to the petition.

The letter sent by Crimmins to the members of the Athletic Council is as follows:

Feb. 12, 1931
To the Members of the Bowdoin College Athletic Council
Gentlemen:

"We, the undersigned, Students of Bowdoin College, hereby petition the Athletic Council of Bowdoin College to reconsider the resignation of Mr. Ben Houser, present baseball and hockey coach. We sincerely think that, in accepting his resignation, the college is losing a splendid coach and a fine gentleman whom it will find extreme difficulty in replacing."

Copies of the above petition have been signed by 305 undergraduates of Bowdoin College. The original petitions and signatures are in our hands, and for convenience, we are enclosing a college list with the names of the signatories underlined. These originals are available for your examination.

Included in the list are 32 varsity letter men, and four student members of the athletic council.

As president of the student council, acting for the whole membership, I am submitting this material to you. While the students are the ones primarily affected by a change in coaches, and while they contribute through the blanket tax the salary paid the coach in question, they have had no opportunity whatsoever to express their views. Convinced of the desirability of retaining Ben Houser, they are using this method of making their convictions known.

In behalf of the signatories of this petition, I am requesting that the ath-

FROSH TRACK MEN WIN FOUR STRAIGHT BY BEATING BRIDGTON

(Continued from Page 1)

len finished a poor fourth but Noseworthy was disqualified.

Shot Put Hotly Contested

Thurman Larson got off a couple of pretty heaves in the shot put and won the event, after edging some tough competition. His best toss of forty-six feet, seven and three-eighths inches was only an inch and a quarter better than Eldred's contribution.

The pole vault was rather disappointing to the White for both Robbins and Pope failed around ten feet after having done consistently superior work all season.

The event went to Noseworthy of Bridgton at ten feet eight and a half inches.

Smith took the lead in the 1000 but the record breaking jaunt in the 600 seemed to have tired him considerably. Burton, Ambler, and Perkins passed him after five laps and immediately proceeded to walk away with the race.

The meet started late and dragged along until so late in the afternoon that both the relay and the broad jump events were called off by agreement between the two coaches.

40 yard dash—Won by Allen (B); Borden (Br); second; Skillings (B); third. Time 4-4-5.

45 yard low hurdles—Won by Allen (B); Borden (Br); second; Gray (B); third. Time 5-4-5.

45 yard high hurdles—Won by Appleton (B); second, Barnes (B); third, Olson (B). Time 6-2-5.

300 yard run—Won by Borden (Br); second, Gray (B); third, Allen (B). Time 3-4-5.

600 yard run—Won by Smith (Br); second, Reid (B); third, Brooks (B); Time 1 m. 19-2-5. New meet record.

1000 yard run—Won by Burton (B); second, Ambler (B); third, Perkins (B). Time 2 m. 32 s.

One mile run—Won by Bartter (B); second, Fiske (B); third, Miller (L). Time 5 m. 12 s.

Shot put—Won by Larson (B); second, Eldred (Br); third, Waite (B). Distance 46 ft. 7-3-8 in.

High jump—Won by Larson (B); second, between Odde (B) and Eldred (Br). Height 5 ft. 5 in.

Pole vault—Won by Noseworthy (Br); second, Pope (B); third, Robbins (B). Height 10 ft. 8-1-2 in.

FROSH TRACK OUTFIT ANNIHILATE IMPOTENT MORSE HIGH TEAM

Despite the fact that Charlie Allen, fleet Frosh captain, was absent, the Polar Bear Cubs handed a weak Morse High aggregation a 66-11 trouncing on the cinders last Saturday. Out of the eight events run, Bowdoin took field and since it was his first attempt against such high ranking competition his time was slightly slower than usual.

Rowland, of the Bath team, was their only dependable point scorer, taking a first in the high jump, and thirds in both the dash and the broad jump. His teammates, Hatch and Stein, came through for second in the 300, and third in the 1000, respectively.

TWO FENCING MEETS DROPPED BY BOWDOIN TO GREEN AND B. U.

Close Matches in First Meets of Year Show Much Promise for Future Exhibitions

Bowdoin lost its first fencing meet of the season to Dartmouth, Thursday, February 12th. The score was 7-2, but the last match between Warner of Dartmouth and Capt. Macdonald '32 of Bowdoin was very closely contested, the points being 5-4 for the former. This was Dartmouth's first match also. Warner, Crose and Townsend representing the Hanoverians. The former two were the stars for Dartmouth each turning in three victories.

The National Student Federation of America is announcing a contest in which two prizes will be awarded: one to the author of the best editorial against the immediate entrance of the United States into the World Court and the other for immediate entrance. Both prizes are $50 each; material for the editorials may be obtained at the central office of the NSFA at 218 Madison Avenue, New York City. The editorials which appear in the contest will be picked from the college newspapers before February 25th and the results will be stated in Congress to show the present condition of student opinion upon the subject of the World Court. The last NSFA conference in December showed that the majority of the students of the United States favored entrance.

The newly organized Bowdoin Chapter of the NSFA is its first official act sponsored E. O. Ernst in an informal forum at the Union. Senior members of the NSFA committee are Donald F. Prince, and Frederick C. Tucker; other members are Philip C. Ahern, Charles F. Stanwood, and W. D. Munro. The committee will take charge of publicity organizations on campus.

letic council refuse to accept the resignation of Ben Houser and use every effort to persuade him to reconsider. Yours respectfully, ARTHUR L. CRIMMINS,
President of Student Council.

SPRINGFIELD BEATS BOWDOIN NATATORS DESPITE IMPROVEMENT

Sperry Provides Thrill by Battling from Last to First Place in Medley

Despite the tremendous improvement shown by the Polar Bear natators, a powerful team from Springfield College swamped the Bowdoinites last Saturday to the tune of 47-30. The efforts of the plucky White squad kept the ultimate result in doubt until the last two events.

The lead-off broken on the program saw a pool record broken when the Polar Medley relay trio romped over the course in 8 minutes and 25 seconds; this team included Easton, Denmore and Smith. Springfield's star captain, Case, propelled his way to a new mark in the 100, doing the distance in 56.4 seconds.

When Art Sperry battled his way from a poor fourth to a courageous win in the 300 yard medley, the crowd was drawn to its feet in wild enthusiasm. Starting out several yards in the rear of Bowman, and two Springfield men, Sperry hung on to the lead. At the 200 yd. marker he was still behind, but slowly drawing in on the leaders.

Then, with a scant fifty to negotiate, the plucky little star dove ahead to pass all three men, leaving his teammates, Bowman, to draw second place.

Springfield Man Stars
Holding two individual firsts, Zweidinger of Springfield remained star for the afternoon. Ted Denmore swam to an easy win in the breaststroke, with Sperry making a gallant stand for third.

The summary:
Medley relay—Won by Bowdoin (Easton, Denmore, and Smith); Springfield, (Fowler, George, Cabel). Time, 3 minutes, 25 seconds.
(New pool record).

50-yard dash—Won by Zweidinger Springfield; second, Humphrey, Springfield; third, Bowman, Bowdoin. Time, 1-5 seconds.

440-yard swim—Won by Nelson, Springfield; second, Trott, Bowdoin; third, Durham, Bowdoin. Time, 6 minutes, 1-5 seconds.

300-yard medley swim—Won by Sperry, Bowdoin; second, Bowman, Bowdoin; third, Kisker, Springfield. Time, 4 minutes, 26-4-5 seconds.

Diving—Won by Walker (74.4) Springfield; second, Latane, Springfield; third, Carpenter, Bowdoin. (52.5).

150-yard backstroke—Won by Fowler, Springfield; second, Ford, Springfield; third, Eaton, Bowdoin. Time, 1 minute, 55-5 seconds.

100-yard dash—Won by Zweidinger, Springfield; second, Smith, Bowdoin; third, Nelson, Springfield. Time, 56-4-5 seconds. (New pool record).

200-yard breaststroke—Won by Denmore, Bowdoin; second, George, Springfield; third, Sperry, Bowdoin. Time, 2 minutes, 52-1-5 seconds.

200-yard relay—Won by Springfield, (Fowler, Humphrey, Fisher, and Zweidinger); Bowdoin (Eaton, Howard, Bowman, and Smith). Time, 2 minutes, 44-4-5 seconds.

FACULTY RECOMMENDS ATHLETICS PROGRAM BE ALTERED IN FALL

Would Confine Requirements to First Two Years of College

The faculty held a meeting Monday, February 16, at which it was voted to recommend to the Governing Boards the removal of the present requirements in Physical Training and the substitution by those outlined below, to apply in the fall of 1931. The sports have been divided into the following four divisions:

A—Supervised Varsity Sports:
Track, Football, Baseball, Hockey, Swimming, Gym Team.

B—Other Vigorous Sports:
Boxing, Wrestling, Touch Football, Class Football.

C—Carry Over Value:
Golf, Tennis, Handball, Swimming.

D—Other Activities:
Fencing, Basketball, Winter Sports, Body Building, Classes, P. T. 4a, Horseshoe Riding, etc.

Freshmen and Sophomores will be required to attend classes in Physical Education three days a week from October 1st until one week before the final examinations in June. They may select from any of the above activities in season.

Participation for at least one season of one year (a year is divided into three seasons: fall, winter and spring) in some sport from Group A or B will be required of men in these two classes. Exceptions will be made of men excused by the College Physician on account of physical condition.

Each man must demonstrate a playing knowledge of some sport in Group C some time during his four years in College. Exceptions will be the same as above. (This may be done during the Junior or Senior year.)

All the above activities will be of feed if possible for all classes, and Juniors and Seniors will be encouraged to participate. An effort will be made to have all the sports supervised by members of the staff.

COLBY SEXTET BOWS TO REJUVENATED WHITE TEAM IN FAST GAME

Attack as Bowdoin Wins
by Score of 5-3

The star hockey title was clinched for Bates last Wednesday when the Bowdoin sextet outplayed Colby 5-3 on the Delta rink. Scoring three goals in the first period, the Polar Bear outfit led all the way. The loss of Johnny Rosenfeld, sophomore forward, was partially compensated for by the addition of freshmen Bart Godfrey, Bob Dakin, and Charlie McKenney, who were playing their first varsity hockey.

Goalies Work Hard

The game warmed up fast, and after the first few spasmodic rushes, the opposing goalkeepers were kept very much on the qui vive. Mal MacLachlan drew first blood for the White with a rolling shot that bobbed over goalie Hill's stick. Excitement gave way to hilarity when, shortly afterward, the "Gladiators" picked up a loose puck at the Bowdoin defense, decentered to center ice, and drove a shot past the whole Colby team, including the flustered Mr. Hill. "Sonny" Dwyer in the Bowdoin net, was making nonchalant work of the many difficult shots that came his way, but was at last caught off balance by Lovett's hard drive. Jack Clarke soon retaliated with a slow lift at an angle that baffled Hill completely, and the period ended without further scoring, 3-1.

No Scoring in Second Stanza

Constant rushing in combination was the order of play in the second half, and only the extraordinary activity displayed by both goalies prevented scoring by either team. Captain Herbie Rose wielded a long stick at the opponents' blue line, and his poke checking was a persistent menace to the Colby passing attack. Of the freshmen, McKenney drew special attention for his habit of topling the weightiest of the adversaries with his healthy body-checking.

Both Sextets Tally Two

To open the final period, "Red" Lovett's second tally resurrected Colby's hopes, and the boys from Waterville again took interest in the hockey game. Herb Rose's great individual efforts now bore fruit, however, and the Polar Bears' lead was momentarily safe again. Wilson came back with another tally for Colby to keep the spectators interested. The last goal of the game was registered by Don Blodau, who dashed the length of the rink, one of the most spectacular plays of the contest. The final score was Bowdoin 5, Colby 3.

Entire Contest Brilliant

Besides the fact that the outcome was a victory for the White, the game was remarkable on other aspects. Passing combinations made connections far oftener than usual, although the forward lines were new. The action seldom dragged, penalties were few, and there was no evidence of the wild shyness playing that has characterized several recent contests here. "Sonny" Dwyer's exhibition of saug-froid left little to be wished for, and his dependability gave the whole team some necessary confidence.

Bowdoin Colby
Blodau, McKenney, D. rd, Brogdon
Souther, Dakin, rd, Huckle
Lowell, Godfrey, MacLachlan, lw
Rose, Richardson c, Lovett, Pomerleau
Clarke, Sloane, Bates, rw

Goals: Sloane, MacLachlan, Clarke, Rose, Blodau, Lovett 2, Wilson.
Referee, Brooks.
Goal umpires, Dowling, Willette.
Timers, VanVarick, Snyder.
Time, 3 20 minute periods.

BATES SEXTET BOWS TO POLAR BEAR TEAM

(Continued from page 1)

beautiful shot to knot the count at 2-2 with but twenty seconds left to play. There was a facciff, a Bates combination was broken up, and Bart Godfrey retrieved the puck at center ice. Skating full tilt at the defense men, he feinted an attempt to crash the defense, cut sharply to the right and coasted in to score nonchalantly the third Bowdoin counter as the bell rang to end the game.

Bowdoin Bates
Godfrey, MacLachlan, lw
rw, Ralph McKluskey, Toomey Rose (Richardson), c
c, Sweet (Pendergast, Garcelon
Sloan (Lowell, Bates, Clark), rw Blodau (Kimball, Fisher, McKluskey)
rd, Chamberlain (Kenison) Souther, rd, White
Dwyer, g, Green (Farrell)
Score: Bowdoin 3, Bates 2, Goals: Lord 2, Rose, Godfrey, Sloan, Referee—Lindquist, Army. Umpire—French, Maine. Time—15 min. periods.

Glee Club To Sing Feb. 27

The Glee Club will compete in the contest of the New England Inter-collegiate Glee Club Association which will be held at Hartford on February 27. On the following day the club will sing at the University Club in Boston under the auspices of the Boston Bowdoin Club.

On the ninth and tenth of March

MUSICAL CLUBS
ATTEND CONTEST
AT HARTFORD

To Compete for New England Championship with Large Entry List

BOSTON CONCERT
SATURDAY EVENING

Customary New York Concert Called Off Because of Adverse Conditions

With their long series of rehearsals which began as far back as the third week of the college year, nearly completed, the Musical Club of the college consisting of the Glee Club and the Instrumental Club will open their active seasons on Friday and Saturday of this week. The first appearance of the Glee Club this year will be at the annual contest of the New England division of the Intercollegiate Glee Club Association to be held at Hartford, Conn., on Friday evening, February 27. On Saturday evening, the combined Musical Clubs will appear at the University Club in Boston in a joint concert sponsored by the Bowdoin Alumni Club of Boston.

On the ninth and tenth of March, the clubs will give concerts at the Cumberland theater in order to give the college and town an opportunity to hear their repertoire. Following these recitals, the clubs will appear in various nearby towns during the annual spring vacation tour to New York has been called off this year because of the business depression and the coincidence of the trip with Holy Week.

Many Colleges to Compete
On Friday night at Hartford, Bowdoin will be one of the thirteen New England colleges to compete. Among the other colleges and universities to be represented will be Amherst, Wesleyan, Williams, University of Vermont, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston University, Clark University, and Middlebury. Considered the largest of all colleges, Bowdoin has done well in previous years, often standing near the top, and it is hoped that this year will equal or surpass its fine record. As usual, the contest will be broadcast.

The Saturday night concert of the Musical Clubs at Boston will include a variety program of songs, classical songs, folk songs and popular songs. Two college songs rendered by the combined forces "Rise Sons of Bowdoin" and "We'll sing to Old Bowdoin" will open the concert. The Instrumental Club will then present a medley of operatic pieces arranged by Berry. Grieg's "Discovery" sung by the Glee Club with the solo parts taken by A. W. Tarbell '32 will follow. Selections from the popular musical comedy "Nina Rosa" will be played by the Instrumental Club. A quartet composed of W. L. Winslow '31, first tenor, G. T. Sewall '32, second tenor, A. W. Tarbell '32, first bass, and O. W. Gilman '31 second bass will sing a series of three pieces: "Jolly Fellowship" by Rhye-Herbert, "Sousan Polk" by Rhye-Herbert, and "The Song of the Fellowship" by the entire Glee Club. The Instrumental Club will follow with "Desir Ardant" by Zamecnik and "The Enchantress" by Peters. The concert will conclude with "Phi Chi" and "Bowdoin Beata".

Members of the Clubs
The arrangement of the schedule and of the details of the trip have been in the hands of Richard N. Sanger '32 and Richard A. Mawhinney '33 while Joseph C. Kratzer '31 and Warren E. Winslow '31 are the leaders of the Glee and Instrumental Clubs respectively.

(Continued on page 3)

BASEBALL PRACTICE STARTS THIS WEEK

Prospects Successful Season Loom as Good Material Turns Out

The return of Jupe Pluvius, and the resulting melting of snow, along with the annual flood of news from the South that the Big Leaguers are swinging into action in various southern training camps caused Ben Houser to give out the first call for battery candidates to meet in the cage for the usual pre-season limbering up. The outlook from the battery end of things is decidedly up in the air. On the receiving end there is a small amount of material, while hurlers at present are less than a few. Houser has a large amount of material to draw from for fielding positions. The outlook for a successful season this year is more than good. This week battery candidates will go through limbering up exercises. It will be merely a question of getting the legs into shape. Very little throwing will be done.

FROSH TRACK MEN WIN SIXTH MEET
BY DOWNING HEBRON

Yearlings Pile Up 84 Points to Visitors' 11 in Decisive Victory

Hebron's vaunted Big Green was hopelessly swept aside when the unconquered Frosh tracksters outran and out-valued them last Thursday to amass the astonishing total of 84 points to the Green's 11. This is the most decisive yearling victory in years, coming as the third successive Froshman triumph. Gathering 12 points singlehanded, and running anchor on the Cubs' winning relay quartet, Captain Charlie Allen stood in the limelight again as the individual star of the afternoon. Bob Porter, star Freshman high jumper, reached new heights when he knotted first place with McLean of Hebron with a 5 feet 8 inches leap. Thurm Larsen heaved the heavy iron to a new meet record, spanning 45 feet 11 5/8 inches with his throw. Exhibiting a "surprise" performance, iron-man Fred Burton of the White, broke the tape in both the 1000 and the mile; in the latter he distanced 44, touted Hebron miler, by twenty yards.

Frosh Sweep Dash, Hurdles and 1000
Coming as a distinct surprise, Mac Walker, heretofore mediocre sprinter on the Frosh squad, repeated his previous week's performance by sweeping the 60 yard dash field, and led the speedy Skillings and Allen across the tape.

The yearlings romped over the high hurdles, gathering all three places as another unexpected win was forthcoming. Ned Appleton topped the boards to break the tape ahead of the flying feet of Gray and Allen, in the good time of 8.3 seconds.

Immediately after the gun in the 1000, Burton sped to the lead of the procession and soon established a lead which he held throughout the run. Ambler fell in at his heels, and pursued him closely until the last fifteen yards, when he ducked perceptibly and finished in a dead heat with Fiak, also of Bowdoin, who had been closing in fast.

Score Wins in 300 and 600
Charlie Allen, gaining the corner in the final and only heat of the 300, led the largest of all colleges, Bowdoin, following, Mooney of Hebron made up the third place. The Polar Bears robbed Hebron of another exciting win when they defeated the 600 in a remarkable 1:19.4. Reid of Bowdoin, and Smith, Hebron, dogged his flying heels for second and third.

(Continued on page 3)

PHYSICS WORKSHOP MODEL WONDERLAND

500,000 Volt Transformer and Mechanical Geyser
Recently Added

Astounding things are being done in laboratories throughout the world and that at Bowdoin is no exception. Under the direction of Prof. Noel C. Little and Ralph Frazier Derby many pieces of intricate apparatus have been constructed in the college machine shop in past years. The latest developments have been a new Tesla transformer capable of delivering a half million volts and a mechanical model of a geyser.

The new Tesla transformer, which was designed by Prof. Little and built by Mr. Derby, operates from an ordinary 110 volt light circuit and delivers a current of very high frequency and voltage. In demonstrating it, R. F. Derby brought a bar of metal which he was holding in his hand within ten inches of the instrument. Immediately a long blue spark played up and down the bar. He explained that the current thus produced was of such high frequency that it could pass through the body without breaking down the human cell structure. This explains why he received no shock, but only a sense of heat, though the bar was held in his bare hand.

Geyser Action Duplicated
Another interesting bit of apparatus is an imitation of a geyser. It appears to be a long tube with a heating element consisting of two 2000 watt immersion coils in the lower end. When the tube is screwed into a wide metal pan on the floor and when the current is turned on in the coils, the unit begins to heat. After heating for a few minutes it will start spouting and continue from that time on at about ten minute intervals, exactly imitating the action of "Old Faithful".

(Continued on page 3)

VULGARTE CLASS PLANS SEMESTER ACTIVITIES

The Vulgate Class which was formed last semester, under the guidance of James B. Colton, '31, met Sunday, February 22nd, and formulated plans for the next term. The work will consist of translation of the new testament, translated into Vulgate by Jerome. Speakers are to be engaged who will talk on the different phases of Biblical literature, history and thought. This class meets at 3:30 each Sunday in the B.C.A. room of the Moulton Union. Any one is welcome to attend.

USES WASHINGTON'S LIFE AS EXAMPLE

President in Chapel Talk Sketches Great Man's Character

"George Washington and the College Man" was the subject of President Sills' talk in Sunday chapel, as a part of the patriotic program given at that time. First of all, the President called attention to the fact that the character of the Father of our Country contained much that should be regarded as precepts and ideals for the modern college youth.

One of the first things that should be of significance to the college student is the knowledge that George Washington—and many other great men both past and present—received no formal education. He reaped all educational benefits from his own efforts, and never enjoyed a college training.

Character Important
Again, the fact that Washington was born to the better things in life, that he was the richest man in the country of his time, and yet was ready to sacrifice all for his people, ought to be worth noting by the college man, who has so much of resources at his disposal.

The character of General Washington was of far greater account than his ability. Although he made mistakes at times, men trusted him because of his fundamental soundness of character. In our quest for learning, we are apt to overlook the true worth of an individual, simply because he may be rich in book-learning.

Washington Had Sane Patriotism
Washington had, above all, a "sane patriotism". Applied to the student, this means, in part, to train to be a citizen. The late Henry Johnson has said "Loyalty that is not based on intelligence is a valid thing".

But if we allow our patriotism to become cynical and lacking in fervor, it is just as useless. He who is not stirred by the sight of his flag or by a patriotic display ought not to be called a true citizen.

Then there is another important function of this "sane patriotism". Few, in or out of college, take the active part in politics that they should. Many students profess to hold certain views on affairs, but as graduates or after graduates, they do not (apparently) make their actions feel. Washington's "sane patriotism" also demands a faith—a trust in one's God and fellow-men. The great leader of the American Revolution was a member of his church, and turned constantly to his Maker in times of trial.

BROWN IS VICTORIOUS IN N. E. WEIGHT THROW

Sprague of Colby Second While Del Galbraith Wins
Third Place

On Saturday afternoon last, "Doc" Brown, giant football player and weight thrower, annexed the New England A.A.U. 35 pound weight championship at the Harvard baseball cage in Cambridge when he heaved the weight for a distance of 50 feet, 4 inches. It was expected that Brown would be able to capture the title for he has consistently down over 50 feet this winter. In another week he will go to New York to pit his skill with many who will gather for the I.C.A.A. games. Brown will there attempt to become Eastern Intercollegiate Champion. Brown to win the title last Saturday was faced with dethroning the New England champion, Flanagan of Holy Cross. The other qualifiers were Perkins of Colby and George Sprague of the same institution who captured second place over Del Galbraith, the other White Frosh. Flanagan had a toss of 49 feet 3 inches. Galbraith's distance amounted to 47 feet 2 1/4 inches.

BOWDOIN FENCERS IN EXHIBITION FEB. 20

Stevens May Coach Here Next Year
—Several Meets Planned for Near Future

The Bowdoin fencing team presented a fine exhibition of fencing on Friday night the twentieth of February at the Westbrook Club in Westbrook. Another exhibition by the Bowdoin team, consisting of Douglas A. Anello '33, Fred E. Miller '33, and Capt. Norwood K. Macdonald '32, is planned for March 10. This will be given at the Westbrook Kiwanis Club meeting.

The next fencing meet falls on March 2, with Harvard. It is uncertain at the present time whether or not Bowdoin will have a return match with the B. U. swordsmen who defeated the White last week by the score of 8 to 3, this season. The work will consist of translation of the new testament, translated into Vulgate by Jerome. Speakers are to be engaged who will talk on the different phases of Biblical literature, history and thought. This class meets at 3:30 each Sunday in the B.C.A. room of the Moulton Union. Any one is welcome to attend.

BRINKLER TO GIVE ORGAN RECITAL HERE

Portland Organist to Play in Chapel Next Sunday Afternoon

Next Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, Alfred Brinkler, F. A. G. O., A. R. C. O., organist at Saint Luke's Cathedral in Portland, will give a vespers recital in the college chapel. This program will be of interest to all music lovers, as Mr. Brinkler is well-known in this section and has appeared before at Bowdoin to please large audiences. He is conductor of the Portland Men's Singing Club and the Portland Polyphonic Society.

The program he offers contains a fine variety of selections, both of a light and happy trend, and of a more serious touch. Following are the numbers Mr. Brinkler has chosen to play:

1. Variations de Concert Joseph Bonnet
2. Dreams R. S. Stoughton
3. Chanson Joyeuse Will C. MacFarland
4. Au Convent Borodin-Dunkley
5. Minuet a l'Antico Sebeock-Brinkler
6. Melodie J. Chaperoy-Brinkler
7. Festival Toccata Percy E. Fletcher

This service will be held in place of the regular Sunday chapel.

COLLEGE ART ASS'N SPONSORS CONTEST

Prize to be One of Group of Prints Now Being Shown Here

Any one of a group of five prints is offered by The College Art Association for the best essay on the exhibition of contemporary American art which is sponsored by the College Art Association and is now on display at the Walker Art Building.

The criticism must be of not more than five hundred words and must be accompanied by a statement telling the name, address, class, year, major subject, and the degree to which the contestant aspires. All reports must be in the hands of the College Art Association, 20 West 58th street, New York City, before March 29th. Essays should be typewritten, preferably, and written on one side of typewriter paper.

The five prints which are offered as prizes are: "Church of St. Etienne du Mont, Paris", Albert Flanagan; "Mare and Foal", Anne Goldsmith; "Happy Days", Pop Hart; "The Louvre", Richard Leiby; and "Miss Angna Enters", John Sloan.

There will be a still further selection of essays and the best of these will be published in Parnassus, the monthly of business and government of the College Art Association.

PLAN CONFERENCE OF CHRISTIAN ASS'NS FOR THIS WEEK END

B. C. A. Has Quota of Six Delegates to Meeting

For three days, February 27, 28 and March 1, the Mansion House and Ricker Inn, Poland Spring, will house delegates from Boston and Northeastern New England to the sixth mid-winter Christian Association conference for men and women students. The main subject, so far-reaching as a whole, "Political Corruption", will be narrowed to the consideration only of Special Privilege, General Welfare, in the relation of business and government. This, in turn, is to be studied in two phases only.

Mr. Edward C. Moran, Jr., of Rockland, Maine, and Mr. A. Gerald Holkes, a representative of the Insull interests, will present opposing views on the Maine State Power issue. Mr. Damon E. Hall of Boston, Dr. Harry Laidler, Executive Secretary for the League of Industrial Democracy, Dr. John Schroeder of Portland, and Dr. Buell Gallagher of the National Staff, will be the principal leaders.

The quota which the B.C.A. will send to the Poland Spring Conference is six. The total expense for the entire conference, from Friday supper through Sunday afternoon will be about $9.00. Anyone interested in representing Bowdoin should get in touch with Robert S. Beaton '32, 15 Maine Hall.

A.A. KENT FOUNDATION OFFERS SCHOLARSHIPS

Awards to be Made Following Fifth National Radio Audition Soon to be Held

Students of college music departments and college students generally are being informed of the announcement by the A. A. Kent Foundation of the forthcoming Fifth National Radio Audition, which offers $25,000 in cash awards and musical scholarships to the best young men and women singers in the country. The attention of college students has been called to the fact that the women's first prize of five thousand dollars and two years' musical scholarship was won in 1929 by a college student.

(Continued on page 4)

MUCH IMPROVED QUILT WILL MAKE SECOND APPEARANCE THIS WEEK

President Johnson of Colby Writes Article on "Education for Leisure"

Appearing next Wednesday or Thursday, the February issue of the Bowdoin "Quill" will again adopt the rich style of last year's Commencement number, with its heavy, three-color cover, larger size, and better grade of paper. The excellent reading material embraces nearly every phase of literature of importance.

President Franklin W. Johnson, of Colby College, is the author of the second in a series of articles on education, by college leaders. He has selected for his topic "Education for Leisure". Coming at a time when the country is arousing itself from the grip of economic depression, and unemployment, "We Want Work", by Mr. William T. Foster is most appropriate.

The writer is connected with the Pollack Foundation for Economic Research of Boston, and is well qualified for the first time in the columns of the "Quill" to write on a topic of importance. In addition to being a prominent economist, Mr. Foster has written such books as "Money", and "The Road to Plenty".

Bowdoin Graduate Contributes

A man who has studied medicine at the University of Edinburgh, is continuing his training at Tufts Medical School, and who has had practical experience, Mr. Robert Titus Phillips, Bowdoin '25, tells of a Boston recital in a vasty informative article, "A Month at Haymarket."

George Lam, Hungarian exchange student now at this college, appears for the first time in the columns of the "Quill" with a short story, "A Musician". Continuing the first of his contributions, which appeared in the Commencement issue, Mr. Jean Gerard Fleury writes a short descriptive article, wholly in French, entitled "En Flanant a Constantinople". Last year M. Fleury was Teaching Fellow in French at Bowdoin; before that he was a student in the "Quill" with a short story, "A Musician".

"An Ode to the Taj Mahal", which won the poetry prize last year, from the pen of Walter P. Bowman is another undergraduate contribution. Ted Stebbins appears in the pages of Bowdoin publications for the last time with his witty comments on the stage, screen and books of today, in a feature, "Commentary".

A Wanderer's Narrative
Mr. F. Conrad Tucker tells an intriguing tale of transatlantic wandering in his narrative "Hallelujah I'm a Bum." At an early period of his life the author ran away from home, and started across the country to the Pacific coast. This story of the adventures of a sixteen year old lad will appear in the next three issues of the "Quill".

Editor Fred Kleibacker asserts that this issue of the literary publication will be one of the most interesting yet published, and that the material included contains some of the best that has found its way into the columns of the "Quill".

DEBATERS BACK FROM DISASTROUS JOURNEY

Extended Western Trip Sees
Many Defeats

The Friday after mid-year examinations, February 6, the debating team encamped in the Boston library to train for the trip. To state that the team was handicapped from the outset by insufficient funds is not an excuse for the defeats in the debates for which decisions were given. Most of the material had to be worked up on the train, however, and more time was really needed.

The first debate was with Union College, Schenectady, New York. The subject for debate was: "Is the Expansion of Chain Stores Detrimental to the Best Interests of the American People?" The debate was broadcast over the radio. The decision was 3-0 in favor of Union. Of the three Bowdoin debaters, Donald F. Prince, A. Samuel Davis, Jr., and Norman von Rosenzweig, the first two only spoke.

The next day we debated Buffalo University, Buffalo, N. Y., the subject being: "Resolved that the States Should Enact Legislation Providing Compulsory Unemployment Insurance to which the Employee Shall Contribute." The decision was 3-0 against Bowdoin.

Third Debate Close

At Albion, Michigan, the next day, Wednesday, we debated Albion College on the affirmative of the same question. There was one professional judge, who gave the decision against Bowdoin the close decision of one-half to nothing.

At Toledo, Ohio, the boys took a day off to study up their debate and to prepare to meet Denison University, Granville, Ohio, the next day. This was a no decision debate.

Saturday evening, February 14, the debate was with the University of Pittsburgh on the same question of unemployment. The debate was, as the Denison debate, one with no decision, which was unfortunate as it seems that Bowdoin held its own in the no decision debate. After the debate there was an open forum.

(Continued on page 3)

BOWDOIN AFFILIATED WITH N.S.F.A.

Becomes Member National Student Federation of America

GROUP A MEDIUM FOR STUDENT EXPRESSION

Prince, Tucker, Ahern, Stanwood and Munro Named to Local Committee

Bowdoin has again shown its tendencies toward a broader outlook by joining the National Student Federation of America. This Federation is made up of more than 800,000 students in the colleges and universities of the United States. There are three main purposes of the Federation. They are:

(1). To achieve a spirit of co-operation among the students of the United States in order to give consideration to questions affecting the students' interests.

(2). To develop an intelligent student opinion on questions of national and international importance.

(3). To foster an understanding among the students of the world in the furtherance of an enduring peace.

In working for these ends the Federation works independently of any political party or religious creed. The ideal of the N.S.F.A. is: "to recapture the senses of responsibility for human welfare that inspired the builders of our civilization to willing sacrifice, and to develop voting citizens of America with a world-vision."

Origin and Growth

The N.S.F.A. was founded in December of 1925 when students from 245 colleges and universities met at Princeton to discuss the question of the entrance of the United States into the World Court. The students realized the need for an organization which might become the medium for the development and expression of student opinion on matters of education, of citizenship, and of international relations. In 1927 the Federation became a member of the International Confederation of Students, which is a world organization composed of 36 national federations. In 1928 a large body of students from Southern California were amalgamated with the Federation.

The N.S.F.A. has done a great many useful things in the furthering of the good relations between the students of this country and foreign students. For example there is a Bureau of Hospitality through which the foreign students are given a warm welcome and made to feel as much at home as the students from all over the world. It is possible. There is also a branch which arranges debating tours through the United States by English and foreign debating teams. The Federation also arranges for the student tours of the foreign countries with the co-operation of the foreign students.

Publishes Paper

The activities of the N.S.F.A. are recorded in a small paper called the N.S.F.A. News Service, which is sent to all colleges which are members of the association. This paper contains a great number of interesting happenings which have occurred at the colleges from all over the world.

The N.S.F.A. is made up of and run by the students of the United States. There is an executive committee of twelve students which directs the policies of the Federation. A national board of directors, made up of prominent citizens, supports and guides the Federation. There are also standing committees and local committees. There is a local committee in each of the member colleges. The committee at Bowdoin was chosen by the Student Council a few weeks ago. It consists of the following members: Donald F. Prince '31, Frederick C. Tucker '32, Ahern '32, Charles F. Stanwood '32 and William D. Munro '32.

BOWDOIN SWIMMERS LOSE TO WILLIAMS

Meet Marked by Flashy Individual Work

For the second time in as many weeks, the Polar Bear natators tasted defeat. This time it was by the Williams team at the Curtis pool last Saturday to the tune of 48-20. Although some of the individual work was flashy, the steady and consistent Williams team proved too much for the Bowdoinites.

Williams won the medley relay but because of an illegal start on the part of Gillilan, Williams second man, Bowdoin was given the race. Swayze, showing remarkable speed, flashed over the 50 yard course in 25 seconds flat to set a new pool record. Art Sperry repeated his act of last week against Springfield when he stayed behind until the last 25 yards at which place he went ahead to force his teammate, Bowman, into second place. His act again brought the spectators to their feet, and with mad yells they cheered him on to his second victory in two weeks.

Ted Densmore again managed to

(Continued on page 4)

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32
Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Associate Editors

George T. Sewall '32
News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
G. Russell Booth

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31
NICHOLAS BASHKIROFF
JAMES E. BASSETT
RAYMOND BROWN, JR.
ALEXANDER P. CLARK
HAROLD H. EVERETT
JAMES C. FREEMAN

Reporters

William N. Small '31
John L. Snider '31
Philip T. Walters '32
JAMES E. GUPTILL
ROGER S. HALL
RICHARD C. MANDEVILLE
JOHN MORRIS
J. ERNEST MULLEN
CARL G. OLSON

JOHN M. SINCLAIR

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $3.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, February 25, 1931.

No. 24

The N. S. F. A.

At the present time when one looks at college life and college thinking he is led to wonder much at the attitude he finds. There seems to be altogether too much superficiality regarding things that really matter — that should come in for a greater share of deeper thought. Certainly no one would have our colleges turned into a lot of institutions for graybeards, but at the same time there is a definite need for a greater amount of sane thinking on a number of important problems facing the students of today than is ordinarily found in our colleges. Why, as a general thing, it is the smart thing to profess complete ignorance or at least indifference toward questions of international relations, political tendencies, and other social developments, is a hard question to answer. Most assuredly we shall not attempt it here.

Nevertheless, the fact remains — there is a woeful lack of intelligent interest in really important affairs. It is to help in rectifying this situation that is one of the prime objectives of the National Student Federation of America. This organization, through its many affiliations in this country and abroad, hopes to be able to bring student opinion to a focus on certain definite questions that may arise from time to time. If it is successful — and its broad membership should assure this — it will become a powerful influence in shaping undergraduate thought and crystallizing undergraduate action. By sending out carefully chosen speakers to address college groups and by conducting student conferences and forums the Federation plans to do much in the way both of stimulating and guiding collegiate thought. Such meetings, coupled with the publication of the group — the N. S. F. A. News Service — promise to become important as clearing houses for the exchange and coordination of student opinion, and as formulators of definite plans for concerted student action upon important questions.

Here, at last, we have an organization that goes beneath the ordinary petty struggles and triumphs of campus life, that transcends the rather narrow influence of fraternities, national though they may be in membership, and receives into its ranks all sorts and conditions of undergraduates, with its chief aim the fostering of better understanding of each other and each other's problems. Bowdoin has shown a worthy interest in linking itself up with such an organization. The initial steps have been taken. Now it is up to us, the student body, to carry the thing through and to keep it from flopping, as so many other activities here have shown a tendency to do. This is a chance to give real service and true understanding to a worthy cause, without the ballyhoo that generally attends such movements. Probably no one of us can contribute much, but by giving at least a friendly interest to the movements of the local group we can do something that we can be sure will not be wasted effort. For in these days of political and social unrest and uncertainty there is an ever-growing need for understanding, both national and international. It is to just such movements as this, and almost wholly so, that we can look with any degree of assurance to the establishment of world-wide peace and security.

Freshmen

Although Bowdoin's Rushing system does much to eliminate the more common problems of fraternity pledging; in a very peculiar sense one very notable problem exists. This problem arises through the haste which our plan necessarily entails. In a word: Just how are the Freshmen going to turn out?

About this time of year the reflective upper-classman is surveying with a very critical eye the harvest of last Autumn. He remembers with embarrassment the anxiety which such and such a man caused him. He recalls the rumors which heralded the arrival of some prep school "big shot", and he smiles with satisfaction that a certain Frosh pledged elsewhere.

Upper-classmen come to the conclusion that chance is a great element in the Bowdoin system and sometimes the gods are good. The average Freshman at Bowdoin receives a grand reception on his entrance here. He is bound to feel his importance too early in the game. There naturally follows a period of acclimation. During this time the Freshman either goes his own way — develops along the line of his own individuality — or goes "collegiate". By now the dice are cast, and although this is not apparent to the Freshman, it is unmistakable to upper-classmen.

On every side of this Campus we have examples of men who were the prize pledges of their respective years. Their careers during college have never proved the fact, their prep school records still remain questionable and mythical glory.

It is well for the Freshman to realize that an honest response to the individual ideal is unquestionably of greater value than tagging along with the crowd. Upon the Freshmen of this year is determined the internal strength of Bowdoin in the three years to come. Upper-classmen wake up rather late to realize the mistakes and follies of a brief college sojourn.

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:
I suggest that the following editorial, taken from the Boston Globe, be published in the Orient.

HOT AIR

The debating team of Bowdoin College is off on the longest tour in its history, 2500 miles. For the next two weeks the Bowdoin boys will be meeting teams through the Middle West, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. Coming, as it does, when there is so much emphasis placed on the over-emphasis of certain college sports, this trip must be considered deplorable. It may give the boys a false idea of the power of argumentation. Will it not make a great public spectacle of the good old college "bull session"? It may persuade every Bowdoin man to think he is Senator Borah.

But the sad effect of such exaggerated emphasis on the art of dressing up the appearance, in the after-life of the Bowdoin graduate, is almost too sad to contemplate. Traditionally, the woman is supposed to have the last word. What chance would she have with a Bowdoin man in the house? The ghastly effect to future generations, if acquired characteristics are inheritable, as some think, need only be mentioned to bring a shower of tears from hardened cynics.

Once it was said that you could always tell a Harvard man, but you couldn't tell him much. Let us hope this will never be said of Bowdoin men.

Best wishes in your battle for Ben Houser.

H. A. D. '30.

Bowdoin Column

Twenty-one Bowdoin graduates representing classes from 1881 to 1923 met at the University Club of Los Angeles, February 12, and organized the new Bowdoin Alumni Association of Southern California. Captain Donald B. MacMillan '98 gave an illustrious talk on Arctic work. At the first business meeting John W. Wilson '81 was elected president and G. C. Wheeler '01 secretary of the new association.

The engagement of Miss Florence E. Knight of Portland to Adelbert H. Merrill ex-'24 was recently announced. Mr. Merrill is now manager of the research and statistical department of the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

On Friday, February 20, there was a meeting of the class agents of the college alumni fund at the University Club in Boston. Mr. Dwight R. Fennell '98 of the Board of Directors presided over the meeting. The principal speaker was Clarence MacDavitt, Dartmouth '00, one of the chief workers for the Dartmouth alumni fund.

Frank I. Cowan '13 completed his four year term as recorder of the Municipal Court of Portland, February 8, with the commendations and good wishes of all the court officials following him. Judge Max L. Finnsky gave a short speech congratulating Mr. Cowan for his "splendid public service."

A small dinner was given February 10 by the Bowdoin graduates of Buffalo, N. Y., at the Buffalo Athletic Club. The Bowdoin debating team was the guest of the group which was assembled by the efforts of Stephen H. Pinkham '06, the father of Stanley Pinkham '31. Donald F. Prince '31 gave a brief talk concerning affairs at the college.

Dr. John Hinkley Morse of Augusta, who attended Bowdoin with Commander Donald B. MacMillan in the class of 1897, was recently invited by the latter to go to Northern Labrador with him from June 20 to September 20, 1931.

On Tuesday evening, March 3, at 8.15, George Lam, Hungarian Exchange Student, will give a musical reading in the Moulton Union lounge. His chief selection is entitled "The Ball". The reading will be open to the public.

Professor C. H. Gray will give another of his series of readings in the Union at 8.30 this Saturday evening. As we go to press his choice of selections has not been announced.

Intercollegiate Column

The Criminal Code

The criminal code of New York State contains laws prohibiting the hazing of Freshmen. The City Club of New York advocates the repeal of various blue laws, among them the one mentioned above. (Sophomores at Columbia eagerly back up the City Club in its campaign.)

Beer Bottles

A professor in a leading German University recently in a psychology experiment advertised for a boy who would drink fourteen bottles of beer per day for a certain period. (There were several applicants!)

How to Study

The University of Ohio makes its six hour "how to study" course a requirement for freshmen on probation.

2,725

Sophomores at Harvard must pass an examination of 2,725 questions, covering nearly every department of college education. The time allowed is twelve hours.

Show Down

Only one student at Franklin Col-

YOU'D Walk a Mile for a Camel -- but you can walk Fifty Yards and refresh yourselves at

THE COLLEGE SPA

IT SATISFIES

Communication

Editor, Bowdoin Orient:

The recent resignation of Ben Houser comes as a distinct surprise to all Bowdoin students and most alumni. The loss of a man who has rendered such inestimable service to the college and to those who have been associated with it cannot be regarded lightly. In justice to the student body and to the alumni, it is incumbent upon the Athletic Council to present the facts which induced the resignation of Ben Houser. The silence which the Athletic Council has maintained about this matter causes one to doubt the sincerity of the Council in accepting the resignation.

Yours very truly,
W. R. HOWLAND '29.

lege, during an intelligence test, knew that people under 21 could not vote in the United States.

Why?

"The Daily Nebraskan" finds that women attain higher grades than men. Every reason but superior intelligence was assigned to this fact.

"Sane" Catastrophe
No member of the class of '34 at Colby College has been dropped as yet, as a result of poor grades. All have showed ability to do the college work. This phenomenon is said to be due to the limiting and therefore more diligent selection of the candidates for admission last fall.

The Letter

A prominent Lynn citizen was recently awarded by Wesleyan a letter which he had won in 1884 for participation in baseball. The long wait was due simply to an oversight on the part of the college authorities.

An Intercollegiate Theatre

Dr. George R. Franklin of C. B. A. wishes to create a "college theatre" which is intended to focus the dramatics of the fifty thousand students in colleges in and about Boston, to be a theatre for, by and of college students, and to unite the various independent dramatic organizations now operating in the several colleges. One phase of the work would include the reading, in the English courses, of the same author at the same time and to then see some of his works presented in the college theatre. The idea needs much work to become a reality but if such a guild should come into being it is expected that it will satisfy a long felt want.

The Ideal Hotel for You
In BOSTON

Hotel MANGER

At North Station

Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot

(Three Station Service) v Servidor

500 ROOMS

Each Room equipped with Tub and

Shower v Built-in Radio Speaker

Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Moderately

Equipped and Perfectly

Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster

Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH

FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00

FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 6.00

No Higher Rates

Model League of Nations

Next year the Model Assembly of the League of Nations will be held at Wellesley College. All Colleges in the East will be invited to send delegates to this convention. The custom is to have various topics assigned to the colleges and to discuss them at the meeting. This time, Amherst will have the international bank problem,

Springfield, the opium traffic, Smith, intellectual co-operation, Harvard,

the mandates commission, M.A.C., the minorities commission, and Mt. Holyoke, the federation of Europe.

Freshman Publication

The University of Maine recently voted up (one morning) and found that—not the stork, or Kris Kringle, but the Freshmen—had presented it with something entirely new—A Freshman Newspaper, called The Freshman. As far as is known this is an entirely original idea and such a thing does not exist anywhere else.

The paper purposes to be the medium of class expression and to unify the class as a whole, thereby aiding the University.

Democracy

Harvard and Yale have been recently trying new dormitory schemes and arrangements in order that democracy, formerly an unknown quantity on those campus, might be introduced.

Smaller dormitory divisions have been arranged and students are brought together frequently in order that they may at least know each other well enough to speak.

YOUR EYES MAY FOOL YOU
BUT

YOUR TASTE tells the Truth!

MILDER... AND BETTER TASTE

They
Satisfy

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

We Have a Few Portable Typewriters Which Have Been Rented Once or Twice, Which We Are Selling at Reduced Prices. This Chance Does Not Come Often.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

MUSICAL CLUBS
ATTEND CONTEST
AT HARTFORD

(Continued from Page 1)

The members of the Glee Club are: of the senior class, Owen W. Gilman, Albert E. Jenkins, Gorham S. Robinson and Warren E. Winslow; of the junior class, John Creighton, Jr., Edward D. Densmore, Earl D. Greenlaw, Freeland W. Harlow, Thomas F. Johnston, Alden P. Lunt, Ned W. Packard, George T. Sewall, Lincoln Smith and Albert W. Tarbell; of the sophomore class, William L. Bryan, Albert S. Davis, Carlton H. Gerdsen, Robert H. Grant, Roland H. Graves, Milton T. Hickok, Edward P. Loring, William H. Lowell, Richard A. Mawhinney, Eliot Smith, and Roland G. Torrey; of the freshman class, Thomas D. Barnes, Gordon E. Gillett, Luther G. Holbrook, Vinson F. Philbrick, and Raymond F. Prince. The men in the Instrumental Club not already enumerated in the list above are, Lloyd W. Kendall, George L. Lam, and James A. Whipple of the senior class; Henry F. Cleaves, William D. Munro, Gilbert B. Parker, and Richard N. Sanger of the junior class; Edward L. Fay, Jr., and Oscar E. Hanscom of the sophomore class; Samuel D. Abramovitz, Harold H. Everett, Richard L. Goldsmith and Blakelee D. Wright of the freshman class.

Class Privileges

Bowdoin's allowing Freshmen to wear little black hats and seniors to carry canes in the springtime are only a minor two in the list of privileges which American Universities confer. Princeton, for instance, allows its juniors to play marbles, while the seniors may amuse themselves at spinning tops—Even fair and unbiased Harvard has repeated its regulation forbidding students to attend the Episcopal church.

Crew Maintained at Bowdoin for Almost Thirty Years

Down in the grandstand at Whittier Field resting among the rafters is an eight oared shell which harkens back to the days when Bowdoin rowed with Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell and many others in spring regattas. The history of Bowdoin boating is a fascinating one. It went through periods of victory and defeat, it struggled hard for existence, it carved a well earned niche in Bowdoin Athletic history.

As early as 1858 we find boating mentioned, even before baseball or football were organized sports in America. The class of 1860 formed the Bowdoin Boat Club while the Class of 1861 became their rivals by forming the Quoback. Credit for the sport goes to the Class of '60 for they had already put an eight oared boat on the river. These crews were not without uniforms for we hear of Thomas Brackett Reed wearing the white and blue, shirt and pants, and to make things more complete a straw hat.

In these early years Bowdoin crews and boat clubs were more for recreation than for racing, yet the club of '61 was anxious to race at Worcester. The Civil War put an end to boating till the '70's although a strenuous effort was made in '66 and '67 to revive it but to no avail.

State Regattas at Brunswick

The state regattas rekindled the boating spirit at Bowdoin for they were held in Brunswick on three successive years, 1868, '69, and '70. Because of the regatta being held so late in the college year of 1871, on June 11, to be exact, we have little detail concerning the event in the Orient. But we do know that the college's four oared crew the Forget-me-not had hard luck, when the bow oarsman had to give up on account of being afflicted with boils and the whooping cough.

In 1872 the college obtained "the services of one of the most celebrated oarsmen on this side of the Atlantic to act in capacity of trainer to the crew" (Orient, March 11, 1872). But misfortune dogged the activities of the crew in 1872 when Captain Sargent injured his arm and the new shell was damaged in transportation. When the regatta was held in Springfield on July 23, 1872 Bowdoin took the lead for one and a half miles only to have one man take the race so seriously as to be overcome with a "nervous spasm" and put Bowdoin in fourth place at the finish line. The Orient at that time proceeds to remonstrate at having undying faith in any one man.

Bowdoin lived up to its present reputation of having supposedly good material only to find in the final analysis that it is not as startling as first supposed. This was true in 1873 but by this time the White had a bad "break" when they were so unfortunate as to draw the shallows.

The drill rebellion kept the crew out of competition in 1874.

In 1875 after not doing well in the regatta at Saratoga we find an article in the New York Times on the Bowdoin crew. To quote that paper in part "There is one little drawback in a poor college that has a taste for boating, and that is, it is very hard to get money, for when a student has to subscribe to a class boat, he does not feel excessively liberal toward the college boat." In concluding his article he exhorts the Alumni to help "this gallant crew" writing "If the Alumni, however, do not help them, I do not see how they can go, for they have no boat." This is a far cry from the present day when the student body would be highly pleased to see the Alumni keep from meddling in Athletics.

After the race at Saratoga, 1875, it was thought best to withdraw from the rowing association and work for a boat house devoting time to inter-class competition. The class of 1874 had presented a cup which made the races one of the great events of the college year. Up until 1893 this cup decorated with the ribbons of the winning class was put in competition. Robert E. Peary was a member of the victorious crew of '77. However successful, the college departed from the inter-class policy to send a team in 1882 to join Pennsylvania, Wesleyan, Princeton and Cornell in the Rowing Association. Again they failed to fulfill the hopes which were held for success. In 1883 Bowdoin did not take part although it joined the Intercollegiate Rowing Association. In 1884 the crew was swamped by a passenger steamer, although H. H. Brown '84 won the single scull race. In 1885 and 1886 Bowdoin came to life with a start, winning over Brown and Pennsylvania respectively. At this time Bowdoin held the intercollegiate record for one and one-half miles with a time of eight minutes and twenty-four seconds. In 1887 Bowdoin lost by two and one-half feet to Cornell; this was the last four oared shell used by a Bowdoin crew.

Baseball and Football Become Prominent

The great expense and increasing interest in both baseball and football soon brought the final races of Bowdoin's aquatic history. The White tried the eight oared crew in 1890 but did miserably although the Orient blamed it on the unsportsmanlike methods of the Cornell crew who kept them waiting a long time. Finally class races gave way to Intercollegiate competition. In the spring of 1894 the class of '96 defeated '97 ending almost thirty years of rowing activity which is unsurpassed by any small college in the country. The college sold the boat house to the Lewiston, Bath and Brunswick electric railway when it was moved on the ice to the Merrymeeting Park.

To quote the Clear Minot '96 from the Quill of April 1902 "Gone the old boat house that stood so long at the end of the railroad bridge, the first evidence of the college to one approaching Brunswick by train from the East; gone the old shells which brawny backs and arms forced over the line, winners in record time; gone the glory of those class races on the Androscoggin when wildly yelling students and enraptured maidens in summer gowns lined the green banks, and followed, through minutes that seemed hours, the crews' struggle for mastery; gone the course from Cow Island to the bridge; gone the greater glory of those intercollegiate triumphs in other states, with the grand demonstrations at the old station, through the town, and on the campus when the winning crew and its winning shell returned. All are of the fading past, and there remain only the fragments of a boat or two in the old boat house now transplanted to Merrymeeting for the edification of unappreciative excursionists; a few treasured banners and cups; a few pictures and records in the Bugles; and a few memories which, in some hearts, at least, will never be effaced by the later and greater victories of Bowdoin Athletics on diamond, track and gridiron."

DEBATERS BACK FROM
DISASTROUS JOURNEY

(Continued from Page 1)

The next day being a Sunday the team studied for the debate with Dickinson University, Carlisle, Pa., which took place the next day. The subject was again on the question of unemployment insurance.

Judges Split on the Lafayette Debate

The debate with Lafayette University, Easton, Pa., was on the question: "Resolved, that the Expansion of Chain Stores is Detrimental to the Interests of the American People." Of the two judges, one gave his vote to Lafayette and the other to Bowdoin. The audience vote was 18-13 against Bowdoin.

The final debate was with Tufts University at Medford on the unemployment insurance question, Bowdoin upholding the negative. Tufts was given the decision, 2-1.

Tufts May Debate Here

There is chance that Tufts may debate here the tenth or twelfth of March. Perhaps there will be a debate with the University of New Hampshire next week sometime. The Swarthmore women's team will debate in March, and a debate with Massachusetts Agricultural College is on the books.

Music Hath Its Charms

Periodically, along with suicide epidemics, in colleges comes someone along with some trick or another to make students study. Sleeping more or sleeping less has been tried; Chocolate at tea P. M. also. The latest "proof" comes from the University of Minnesota, which has discovered that students study better under the influence of jazz music over the radio.

The CAMELS! are coming!

This is the Camel package in which a significant change has recently been made for the best answers to this question:

$50,000 REWARD

What significant change has recently been made in the wrapping of the CAMEL package containing 20 cigarettes and what are its advantages to the smoker?

First Prize, $25,000

Second Prize, $10,000 Third Prize, $5,000

For the five next best answers . $1,000 each

For the five next best answers . $500 each

For the 25 next best answers . $100 each

Conditions Governing Contest:

- 1 Answers limited to 200 words.
- 2 Write on one side of the paper only.
- 3 No entries accepted that bear a postmark later than midnight, March 4, 1931.
- 4 Contest open to everybody except employees and executives of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company and their families.
- 5 In case of ties, the full amount of award will be paid to each of the tying parties.
- 6 It is not necessary to buy a package of Camel cigarettes in order to compete. Any store that sells cigarettes will permit you to examine the Camel package containing 20 cigarettes.

All communications must be addressed to Contest Editor—R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Wednesday Night

Tune in the Camel Hour on N.E.C. Network

9.30 to 10.30 . . . Eastern Time
8.30 to 9.30 . . . Central Time
7.30 to 8.30 . . . Mountain Time
6.30 to 7.30 . . . Pacific Time

Over Stations

WJZ, WBZ, WBZ, WHAM, KDKA, WJR, WCAR, KYW, WLV, WRVA, WSJS, WKX, WJAX, WFLA, WIOD, WREN.

11.15 to 12.15 . . . Eastern Time
10.15 to 11.15 . . . Central Time
9.15 to 10.15 . . . Mountain Time
8.15 to 9.15 . . . Pacific Time

Over Stations

WHAS, WSM, WSR, WNC, WAPI, WJDX, WAME, KTHS, WTMI, KSTP, WERC, WBY, WBAF, KPRC, WOAI, KOA, KSL, KTAH, KGO, KBCA, KFSO, KGW, KOMO, KHQ, KFAR.

Judges:

CHARLES DANA GIBSON Famous Illustrator and Publisher of "Life"

ROY W. HOWARD
Chairman of the Board,
Scripps Howard Newspapers

RAY LONG
President, International Magazine Company, and Editor of "Cosmopolitan"

AND STAFF

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - Feb. 25th

SUNNY

- with -

MARILYN MILLER

Also Spotlight and Comedy

Thursday - Feb. 26th

'MOTHER'S CRY

- with -

Dorothy Peterson - David Manners

Also Comedy and Sound Act

Friday - Feb. 27th

- VAUDEVILLE -

JOAN CRAWFORD

- in -

DANCE FOOLS DANCE

Also Paramount News

Saturday - Feb. 28th

PARLOR BEDROOM AND BATH

- with -

Buster Keaton - Sally Eilers

Reginald Denny

Also Comedy and Talkartoon

Monday - Tuesday - March 2-3

THE FIGHTING CARAVANS

- with -

Gary Cooper - Lily Damita

Ernest Torrence

Also Paramount News - Sound Act

Contest open only until MIDNIGHT, MARCH 4, 1931

(Winners will be announced as soon as possible after contest closes)

-SPORTS-

ANTIQUITY SHOP
Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 243-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.
The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP
Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.
We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

PRINTING
STUART & CLEMENT
Town Building
Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET
—GROCERS—
who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?
Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET
MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency
INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —
Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs
Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KAYWOODIE PIPES

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE
Toilet Articles - Shaving Preparations
Prescriptions Carefully Compounded
AGENCY FOR

Whitman's Chocolates

IF IT'S PRINTING
You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the
facilities of

THE RECORD PRESS
are at your service. Tel. 8

Let us estimate on your next
job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work
done in this shop.
Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

BOWDOIN SWIMMERS LOSE TO WILLIAMS

(Continued from page 1)
keep his slate clean in the breaststroke, when he snatched victory from the hands of Gillilan, Williams ace. Den-more, after remaining 3 yards behind for seven laps, started to gain on his opponent, and with one final burst of speed in the last few yards, he managed to reach the final wall a few scant inches ahead of Gillilan.

Williams Man Stars
Swayze was easily the individual star of the afternoon. Besides setting a new mark in the 50 yard dash, he also took the century dash in fast time. Denmore and Sperry starred for the Polar Bears.

Medley relay—Won by Bowdoin, (Easton, Denmore, Smith); Williams, (Bixby, Gillilan, Beatty) (Disqualified). Time, 3 minutes, 26 1-5 seconds.
50 yard dash—Won by Swayze, Williams; second, Kerr, Williams; third, Bowman, Bowdoin. Time, 25 seconds.
(New pool record).

440 yard dash—First, tie between Fenton and Williams; second, Williams; third, Trott, Bowdoin. Time,
6 minutes, 2 4-5 seconds.

330 yard medley—Won by Sperry, Bowdoin; second, Bowman, Bowdoin;
third, Bixby, Williams. Time, 4 minutes,
23 2-5 seconds.

Diving—Won by Holmes, Williams,
(71.6); second, Lapham, Williams,
(61.7); third, Carpenter, Bowdoin, (56.5).

200 yard breaststroke—Won by Denmore, Bowdoin; second, Gillilan, Williams; third, Bird, Williams. Time,
2 minutes, 49 seconds.

150 yard backstroke—Won by Easton, Bowdoin; second, Bixby, Williams; third, Eaton, Bowdoin. Time, 1 minute, 58 4-5 seconds.

100 yard dash—Won by Swayze,
Williams; second, Beatty, Williams;
third, Smith, Bowdoin. Time, 69 2-5
seconds.

200 yard relay—Won by Williams,
(Kerr, Downs, Beatty, Swayze); Bowdoin (Easton, Howard, Bowman, Smith). Time, 4 minutes, 4 3-5 seconds.

A.A. KENT FOUNDATION OFFERS SCHOLARSHIPS

(Continued from page 1)
dent, Miss Genevieve Rowe, a junior of Wooster College and the Wooster Conservatory of Music. Other college students have been among the finalists in each of the four previous auditions. Selection of candidates for the final awards will be made by joint ballot of radio listeners and professional judges, the announcers: second, Beatty, Williams;
third, Smith, Bowdoin. Time, 69 2-5
seconds.

Any young man or woman between the ages of 18 and 25 years, anywhere within the United States is eligible to compete for the cash and scholarship awards which will be allotted the winners as follows:

Two first awards, for a young man and a young woman respectively, of $5,000 cash and two two-year scholarships in any musical conservatory or under any recognized vocal teacher;
the winners may elect.

Two second awards of $3,000 and one year scholarships each.

Two third awards of $2,000 and one year scholarships each.

Two fourth awards of $1,500 and
one year scholarships each.

Two fifth awards of $1,000 and one year scholarships each.

"I believe we are building for the future in searching out talented young singers for that great medium of culture and entertainment—Radio," said
A. A. Kent, president of the Foundation bearing his name, in making the announcement recently. "The discovery of one of those rare voices, of which each generation produces a few, seems to me an event of profound national importance. Even when such a voice could give pleasure to only a few thousand people it was a national treasure. Now that anyone may enjoy it through the medium of radio, such a voice becomes priceless. So, just as a good voice is a divine gift, radio offers opportunity to share that gift with the greatest number."

In previous auditions conducted by the Atwater Kent Foundation our records show contestants have come back the second, third and even a fourth time after losing out in a first attempt. This should be encouraging to all who have taken part in previous contests. The National Radio Audition is an undertaking to search the entire country for beautiful voices and to offer such singers full opportunity for development, recognition and reward. We hope each community in the country will receive the announcement of the Fifth National Radio Audition in the spirit in which it is thus made and will present its candidates for state and national honors."

The announcement states that the hearts of the Fifth National Radio Audition are in the Albee Building, Washington, D. C., and that organization of state and community committees to take charge of preliminary tests during the spring and summer months will begin at once.

Grave Mongers

The Tech reports that a certain Cambridge motorcycle officer sought to halt a figure of a man, running amuck in a cemetery at 3:30 a.m. The figure did not stop when ordered but kept running in wide circles about the tombstones. Finally the officer threatened to shoot and thereby stopped the "ghost" who was taken to court but left free on explaining that, as part of his Hell Week celebration, he was exhorting to find a tombstone over one corpse "Wilson" and take its measurements.

Sportsman's Pen

We quote the following from the Lewiston Evening Journal of February 13.

It's Bowdoin's business but they are losing one of the best baseball coaches that has topped onto a Maine college diamond in many years when they permit Ben Houser, to leave.
Down there at Brunswick Ben has been trying to make players out of students and has done a fine job of it. If he was getting any material down there his outfit would be on a par with the best any college of the same size can produce.

Just another weight laurel for a Magee pupil. Doc Brown's victory in the New England A.A.U. 35 pound weight championship last year was the season's predictions about the big weight hurler. Doc should add a few points to the Bowdoin State Series total this Spring if he continues in his present form.

While the snow and slush are still with us, Ben Houser is losing no time in getting a line on his baseball prospects for September. He reported this week and aspirants for the other positions will be out soon. With Captain Whittier, Dwyer, Shute, McKown, Rice, Ricker, Souther, and Smith left from last year's squad besides a goodly amount of fine freshman material, the Polar Bears should make just as determined a bid for the State title as last year. And with a few better breaks they may prove a bit difficult to conquer!

Speaking of Ben, and who isn't?
the showing of the hockey team in its last two games went a long way toward making up for the remainder of the schedule. Those freshmen have put a rose colored tint on the puck outlook for the next three years!

Those who have chosen to stay away from the swimming meets this year have denied themselves the pleasure of watching some great talent. To suppose that individual events, Denmore's bitter battle last week with Gillilan of Williams to keep his slate clean had everyone on his feet while Art Sperry's two superb performances in the Springfield and Williams have provided enough thrills for several meets.

Great Denmore seems to have a treasure trove of records to produce.
Bowdoin's first individual New England championship. Unless Brown can produce a better man next Saturday the New England title should be between Ted.

The language used by Swayze of Williams when he takes a false start is almost as shocking as that in one of his previous starts. Professor Gray, one of the Saturday night sistas at the Union not so long ago. And was his face red!

Lapham, a sturdy diver, had the spectator's hearts thumping every time he left the board. On a practice back-dive he misjudged his distance and barely escaped serious injury and landing on the board head foremost.
As it was his leg hit the board and he glanced off into the water. Instead of profiting by the experience, however, the stocky Williams diver continued to clear the board by inches on his following dive.

The fair spectator who wanted to know why "they dry themselves after a false start or dive and then dive right in again" may have been dumb but just the same it is still puzzling us.

The loss of Art Denston, Dick Mullin, and Art Dillenbeck will be a severe blow to the golf team this Spring. Denston has graduated, Mullin is ineligible, and Dillenbeck is no longer in college.

Bob Carney, star Bates lineman the past season, and starter at all home swimming meets here had plenty of trouble keeping out of the way of the divers' splashes last week. Carney was nearly drowned when one of Jimmy James' efforts went slightly amiss and James made a pretty 2-point landing on the surface of the pool.

The battle staged by the two Williams distance swimmers for a first in the 440 was our idea of wasted effort. The two Purple swimmers loafed most of the way but both suddenly decided that a victory would be very acceptable and they staged a bitter battle for the last 10 yards, the judges calling it a tie.

It seems too bad that the Bowdoin Intercollegiate and the Bates Basketball tournament conflict in date this year. Both these events attract wide interest in schoolboy circles throughout the State and many sportsman would like to attend both. Both are scheduled for March 14.

Speaking of the Intercollegiate, the splitting up of the schools into high and prep school classes should produce much keener competition this year. The strong entries of large Massachusetts high schools and Maine prep schools served only to discourage the smaller schools under the old system.

Some terrific action this week in the Intercollegiate basketball leagues.
And watch the boys slip and swear on that gym floor the scene of Soph Hop last week! This week's games may just decide the outcome of the league. As the present writing Sigma Nu seems to have League B savored up, but watch the Psi U's and A.T.O.'s fight it out for the leadership in their league tomorrow night.

MITCHELL TO GIVE COURSES AT BATES SUMMER SESSION

Professor Wilmot B. Mitchell of Bowdoin College, who has been connected with Bowdoin English department for a number of years, will again give two courses at Bates summer school next season. Prof. Mitchell has been going to Bates every summer since 1926. His special field in the summer session are courses in American literature and in 19th century English literature. He conducts the work in a series of three summers and next summer courses in American literature will deal with the literary movements in America during the middle of the 19th century. Among the authors to be considered will be Lowell, Holmes, Emerson, Thoreau, Whitman and Melville.

In the course of the 19th century English literature such writers as Wordsworth, Carlyle, Lamb, George Eliot, Stevenson and Kipling will form the basis for discussion. Professor Mitchell is well known in the State of Maine because of his many lectures that he gives in all parts on phases of American and English literature.
He is a pleasing, magnetic speaker and his lectures while Hebron's Taylor are always very popular.

This will be Dr. Mitchell's sixth summer at Bates.

MacMILLAN OUTLINES PLANS ARCTIC TRIP

Donald B. MacMillan is planning an expedition into Baffin Land and the North Polar region for next summer.
The expedition will be in three sections, the first, sailing from Wiscasset, Maine, June 20, to be followed by Dr.
Alexander Forbes of Boston and Sir Wiliam Grenfell, of London. Three airplanes will be included in the equipment.

One of the principal objectives, he said, would be the study of glaciers to determine the possibility of the formation of another "glacier age."
"Glaciers in other parts of the world are diminishing in size, but those in the Far North are increasing to an extent that would indicate another glacier age is approaching. It would take thousands of years, however, to affect seriously the temperatures in the United States. We expect to make a careful survey of the Baffin Land ice cap along those lines."

At Nain, Labrador, a permanent base will be established. From there Commander MacMillan plans to fly inland in a cabin monoplane, capable of taking off and landing on ice caps.
The expedition will be in touch by radio with New York and Chicago at all times, the Commander said. He plans to remain three months in the frozen Arctic and to map in a few days territory that would have taken ten years to cover by dog team 20 years ago.

TRACKMEN COMPLETE A.A.U. MEET TONIGHT

Coach Jack Magee left Brunswick Tuesday morning for New York with six men who will represent Bowdoin in the N.A.A.U. track meet at Madison Square Garden tonight. Those who make the trip are Charles W.
Allen '34, Sidney R. Foster '31,
Creighton E. Gatchell '32, Charles F.
Stanwood '32, Harry W. Thistlewaite
'32, W. Lawrence Usher '32. Bowdoin's men's team will probably be composed of Gatchell, Thistlewaite, Usher and Foster.

Saturday, March 7th, the team will compete in the I.C.A.A.A. games in New York. In addition to those who will take part in the meet tonight, Dwight F. Brown '31, Gordon D.
Briggs '33, Delma L. Galbraith '32,
Milton T. Hickok '32, Stephen A. Laventure '32, George T. Sewall '32, and Charles F. Stanwood '32 have been entered.

Bowdoin Alumni Ass'n Formed in California

At Los Angeles, California, last week, the Bowdoin Association of Southern California was formed. The baby Bowdoin Association numbers 21 men among the charter members. The men met at the University Club in Los Angeles on February 12, and organized the association electing George C. Wheeler '01, as secretary and John W. Wilson '31, as president.
The officers of the officers were born in Maine. Wheeler coming from Farmington and Wilson coming from Gar-diner, and both were business men in Portland for some time. Mr. Wilson was in business in Portland, while Mr. Wheeler had a flourishing law business in that city.

At the first baseball meeting, held yesterday afternoon, the following battery men turned out: Catchers, Basil S. Dwyer '31, M. MacLachlan
'32, H. B. Stacey '32, H. G. Lewis, Jr.,
'34, N. C. Miller '34, R. W. Dakin '34,
R. F. Hayden '34; pitchers, G. H.
Souther '31, B. R. Shute '31, E. C.
Baker '33, A. G. Jordan '33, D. G.
Means '33, W. W. Trevelyan '33, G.
Dowlicat '34, B. C. Emerson '34, R.
S. Sherman '34 and D. N. Smith '34.

Doc Brown and Del Galbraith are expected to make a good showing in the I.C.A.A. meet in the weight events in the near future. Their performance at Boston last week drew considerable attention on the two Polar Bear huskies.

FROTH TRACK MEN WIN SIXTH MEET BY DOWNING HEBRON

(Continued from page 1)

Burton, although obviously worn by his fast 1000, went into first position at the start of the mile, passing Olds of the Big Green, who relinquished the place readily. Ambler, starting off in the second rank, found himself far in the rear. After three laps, he had worked up into fifth place, while Burton was fighting for a lead over Olds.

Two laps from the tape Ambler, now in third position, flashed by the fading Olds, and started a break-neck battle with his teammate for the lead.
Burton crossed the line, holding a scant yard advantage over Ambler, with Olds trailing a poor third.

Cats Draw First in Field Larsen's record-breaking heave in the shot put started the yearlings off on their virtual sweep of the field events. Waite, of Bowdoin, and Sullivan of Hebron tossed the pellet for second and third places.
Hurling through the air on his second try, Charlie Allen drew out the tape a full twenty feet. Pope, also of the White, felt short of his mark by scant inches while Hebron's Taylor finished third. Pope again established his versatile superiority when he soared toward the ceiling on a vault of 11 feet. Robbins, his teammate, drew a second, with two Hebronites, McLean and McDonald, tying for third place.

While the large gallery held their breath in expectancy, aim Bob Porter of Bowdoin, and McLean, of Hebron, battled it out for high jump honors, finally both failing at 5 feet 8 inches. Clark, of the Big Green, took third place.

White Takes Relay Easily
Starting off with a beautiful two-lap dash by Mal Walker, the Froth swept into a fifteen yard lead in the relay; this advantage was strengthened by each following runner. Reid and Gray lay back in their stride and increased the gap between the White and the Green to nearly twenty-five yards. Charlie Allen, taking the baton on the final stretch, settled down to a steady pull, and finished with a clear twenty yard lead.

The summary:
40 yard dash—Won by Walker,
Bowdoin; Skillings, Bowdoin, second;
Allen, Bowdoin, third. Time, 6 seconds.
45 yard high hurdles—Won by Appleton, Bowdoin; Gray, Bowdoin, second; Allen, Bowdoin, third. Time, 6
3-5 seconds.
100 yard run—Won by Burton,
Bowdoin; Flisk, Bowdoin and Ambler, Bowdoin, tied for second. Time, 2 minutes, 35 4-5 seconds.

300 yard dash—Won by Allen, Bow-doin; Walker, Bowdoin, second; Mooney, Hebron, third. Time, 34 3-5
seconds.

600 yard run—Won by Gray, Bow-doin; Green, Bowdoin, second; Smith, Hebron, third. Time, 1 minute, 19
4-5 seconds.

Shot put—Won by Larsen, Bowdoin, (45 feet, 11 3-8 inches); Waite, Bow-doin, second; Sullivan, Hebron, third.
Broad jump—Won by Allen, Bow-doin, (20 feet); Pope, Bowdoin, second; Taylor, Hebron, third.

1 mile run—Won by Burton, Bow-doin; Ambler, Bowdoin, second; Olds, Hebron, third. Time, 4 minutes, 30
1-4 seconds.

High jump—Tie between Porter,
Bowdoin, and McLean, Hebron, (height, 5 feet, 8 inches); Clark, Hebron, third.

Pole vault—Won by Pope, Bowdoin,
(11 feet); Robbins, Bowdoin, second; McDonald, Hebron, and McLean, Hebron, tied for third.

Relay race—Won by Bowdoin Freshmen (Walker, Reid, Gray, Allen). Time, 2 minutes, 15 1-5 seconds.

PHYSICS WORKSHOP MODEL WONDERLAND

(Continued from page 1)
Other interesting arrangements have been made in the physics laboratory. Many subjects are taught with the assistance of moving pictures.
In order to darken the lecture room for this, automatic shutters have been devised. When the control button is pushed, metal shutters automatically cover the windows, and by a special synchronizing device the small windows and large are all closed at exactly the same time.

Other Apparatus
Mr. Derby has built a small railway car to show the principle of rotor propulsion invented in Germany. With its mysterious revolving tower turning around, the small car runs quickly down the track, just like the German made rotor ships.

Among other constructions, Mr.
Derby has built a special device for measuring the velocities of bullets.
By the use of two revolving discs of paper and a pendulum, he has been able to measure such speeds very accurately. Other demonstration apparatus constructed by him includes a vertical force table, enlarged models of atomic structures, a machine for showing variable speeds, a model force car, model gyroscopes, etc.

This is the fifth year that Mr. Derby has had charge of the physics workshop, having come to Bowdoin in 1926. Most of the time has been spent in making various models for demonstrations in the lecture room.
His work has helped immensely in making the physics department popular among the students.

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable
BRISK Clothing which is
custom tailored to
your individual measure, has
that distinctive touch which
always marks the wearer as
well dressed.

Brisk Brothers
16 EAST 56th STREET
NEW YORK CITY
Watch For Our Representative
PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.
PURE FOOD SHOP
Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity
Trade.
574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.
Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers
SOULE and WALKER
JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD
We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store
Watch Repairing
By An Experienced Watchmaker
Shaffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"
"The College Jeweler"
Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
1414 MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S
Candy and Ice Cream
74 MAINE STREET

TUFTS COLLEGE
DENTAL SCHOOL
Founded 1867
COLLEGE men—prepare for a profession of widening interest and opportunity. Recent research has enlarged the scope of every phase of dentistry. The field demands more than any university in the United States—recently through well-balanced courses in all branches of dentistry. All modern equipment for practical work under supervision of men high in the profession. Write for details and admission requirements to
LEWIS M. S. Minter, Dean
416 Huntington Avenue, Boston, Mass.

Have you chosen
your life work?
In a field of health service the Harvard University Dental School—the only dental school connected with any university in the United States—recently through well-balanced courses in all branches of dentistry. All modern equipment for practical work under supervision
of men high in the profession. Write for details and admission requirements to
LEWIS M. S. Minter, Dean
HARVARD UNIVERSITY
DENTAL SCHOOL
Dept. 70, Langwood Ave., Boston, Mass.

Student Employment
In these days of business cooperation with college students employment is being offered all sides. In the West Point Pointer a chance was recently offered to young men of promise and ability whose desire it was to start at the bottom of the ladder and work to the top. Would-be applicants for said position were instructed to apply to the manager, Podunk Fire Dep't.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED TO ALUMNI MEDICS

Nearly Ten Thousand Dollars Awarded to Thirty-three Students

PROF. M. COPELAND ANNOUNCES GIFTS

Funds are Distributed Among no Less Than Ten Universities

Professor Manton Copeland, chairman of the committee on medical scholarships at Bowdoin College, announced February 27 the award of thirty-three scholarships, amounting to $9,950, from the Garcelon and Merritt Funds. Owing to the unusually large number of applicants all of the awards were made to Bowdoin men, as it is the policy of the committee to give these men a preference wherever possible. Individual awards range from $200 to $500, as has been the case in earlier years.

The list of men receiving scholarships, with the medical schools at which their studies will be pursued and the class numbers at Bowdoin is as follows:

At Harvard—John C. Angley '28, formerly of Bangor, Matthew J. Bachman '28 of Annapolis, Md., Theodore D. Clark '26 of Sanford, Kenneth W. Sewall '27 of Livermore Falls, Weston F. Sewall '27 of Livermore Falls, Mayo H. Soley '29 of Malden, Mass., Carl E. Dunham '24 of Portland, Pliny A. Allen '30 of Norway, and Gilmore W. Soule '30 of Augusta.

At Johns Hopkins—Norman F. Crane '27 of Winter Harbor, Paul S. Hill '27 of Saco, Edward L. Leech '29 of Kennebunk, and Harold S. Schiro '29 of Bangor.

At Yale—Dana L. Blanchard '27 of Newton, Mass., Hollis E. Cloy '25 of Portland, Me., Philip A. LaFrance '27 of Lacombe, N. H., Waldron L. Morse '29 of Canton, Ansel B. True '30 of Worcester, Mass., and Clement S. Wilson '27 of Portland.

At Tufts—Ernest H. Joy '25 of Bar Harbor, Wilbur F. Leighton '28 of Portland, and Benjamin Zolov '31 of Portland.

At Jefferson—George W. R. Bowie '30 of Vancorb, Howard M. Sapiro '30 of Portland, and Edward Schwartz '30 of Portland.

At McGill—Gerald G. Garcelon '30 of Lewiston and Benjamin B. Whitcomb '30 of Ellsworth.

At Boston University—Paul W. Butterfield '30 of Farmington, Herbert H. Smith '29 of Milton, Mass. Men studying at other medical schools are as follows: Paul C. Marsden '21 of East Brownfield, University of Vermont; Richard P. Lancy '28 of Skowhegan, Rahmannann Medical College; Charles B. Woodman '28 of Westbrook, University of Edinburgh, and Don Marshall '27 of Amherst, Mass., University of Michigan.

The Garcelon and Merritt Funds were established at Bowdoin College in memory of Sewall P. Garcelon of the medical class of 1830 and Samuel Merritt of the medical class of 1843. About $10,000 from the income of the fund is appropriated annually for medical scholarships, most of the awards being assigned to students already engaged in pursuing studies in medical schools.

FROSH TRACK TEAM WHIPS DEERING HIGH

Yearlings Pile Up 801-6 Points to Visitors' 55-6 Score

The Bowdoin yearlings brought a very successful indoor season to a close last Saturday afternoon when they overcame Deering High by a score of 801-6 to 55-6. The meet was spiced by several outstanding performances and all the times were excellent. Thurman Larson, robust freshman shot-putter, heaved the twelve pound pellet forty-eight feet four inches to break the meet record by over four feet and to establish a new Bowdoin freshman mark. Nelson Tibbetts ran a heady race in the thousand and easily led his teammate Burton to the tape. His time of two minutes and thirty-two seconds eclipsed by four-fifths of a second the record held by Marshall Davis of the class of '33.

The final of the forty yard dash was extremely close and there was some doubt as to who won it. The judges finally decided that Skillings and Walker placed first and second respectively, but that Stevens of Deering was the third man.

Allen Wins in Both Hurdles
The high hurdle proved easy for Charley Allen with his teammate, Appleton, in second place. The time of six and one-half seconds was extremely good. The lows were also captured by Allen. He was closely followed by his teammates Gray and Reid.

Brady Gray set a very fast pace in the six-hundred. Don Reid dogged him closely for the first three laps but faltered. However, he had a large lead and finished an easy second. The battle for the third position between Brooks of the freshmen and

(Continued on Page 4)

VOCATIONAL DAY

Vocational Day will be held a week from today, March 11, and offers an opportunity for all those interested to attend talks on Law, Publishing, Electric Power, Cattle Teaching, Lumber and Shipping. The talks will be given in the Assembly Room of the Moulton Union and will be given in successive hours.

Upperclassmen will as usual be allowed to cut classes to attend these meetings. Freshmen will attend classes or cut at their own discretion.

The program is in charge of the Placement Committee of the Alumni Council, and comprises the following: Albert T. Gould '08 of Boston, Prof. Philip W. Meserve, Donald W. Philbrick '17 of Portland, Frank A. Farrington '27 of Augusta.

The exact schedule of these meetings will be announced shortly.

RECITAL OF NATIVE MUSIC IS GIVEN BY EXCHANGE STUDENT

George Lam Recalls Works of Franz Liszt and Other Musicians

Presenting in the unique form of a modern short story his discourse on the music and customs of his native Hungary, George Lam, Budapest exchange student, spoke last evening in the Moulton Union. Mr. Lam is an exceedingly patriotic young man, performing his recital in the role of a volunteer for the support of the Hungarian cause.

There being at this time a certain anti-Semitic tendency prevalent in Hungary to the extent that only five per cent of the enrollment of an academy or school may be Jewish, Mr. Lam presented in his story a little of this feeling of friction with the hope of restoring friendly relations between the races. There is, he proposed, only one difference between the Hebrew and the Protestant; that, he said, is not a racial disparity; it is solely a religious discrepancy.

Three Types of Music
At the first of his descriptive story, which illustrated the uses and distinctions of the three different types of Hungarian music, Mr. Lam played on the piano selections of Bela Bartok.

(Continued on Page 3)

"PUBLIC OWNERSHIP" IS TOPIC OF DEBATE AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

Effects of Religion on Corruption Discussed by Rev. John Schroeder of Portland

Messrs. Artine Artinian '31 and Warren Palmer '32 spent Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 27, 28, and March 1, at Poland Spring, as representatives of the college at the New England Students' Christian Association Convention, held at the Mansion House. There were about 160 students in attendance from Bowdoin, Bates, Bowdoin College, and the University of Maine. Friday evening after a sumptuous dinner a debate between Mr. Edward C. Moran, Jr., of Rockland and Mr. Gerald Holmes, a representative of the Insular interests, was held. The subject was "Resolved that Present Day Regulation of Electric Utilities does not Adequately Safeguard the Public." After the debate an open forum was held and was led by the student in charge of that particular feature.

Public Ownership Discussed
On Saturday morning Dr. Harry Alder, Executive Secretary for the League for Industrial Democracy spoke on "Public Ownership." His main point was the fact that the present running of public utilities is a detriment to the public. Then Mr. Damon E. Fox of Boston, who was the State Attorney in the Garrett case gave a very clear outline of the case and showed its general application.

VISITING COMMITTEE MEETS AT COLLEGE

The Visiting Committee, one of the most important of the joint standing committees of the Boards which play a large part in the government of Bowdoin College, met here Friday, February 27. It is charged with the duty of visiting the College, preparing and submitting recommendations of such policies, measures and improvements as will promote the interest and prosperity of the College, and also presenting a budget setting forth the estimated receipts and appropriations recommended for the ensuing year. The report of the committee is to be accompanied by forms of votes to carry out their recommendations.

The following are the members of the present Visiting Committee: Messrs. W. T. Cobb, A. B. White, W. D. Ireland, G. F. Cary, and H. K. McCann.

Ardent Debate Staged Over Taxation as Town and Gown Convene in Annual Meeting

In a battle over auditing of tax books, the college sages crossed bats with the hoi polloi, profanum vulgus, and Boss Edwards Monday afternoon in the annual town and gown fracas. The result was an overwhelming assertion of the truth that we are all created equal, that the good old New England Town Meeting is divinely inspired, and that Aristotle is still the master of those who know. Details follow:

While this was going on a similar rehearsal was taking place down on Edwards Field (named by its donor in honor of the donor). Boss Bill, wearing his other uniform, his solid-colored badge (donated to him by the local chief of police) and carrying a thousand feet of hose, was gesticulating wildly, thundering a torrent of vituperation toward the Gleanery Bottinge Works, and only repeating himself twice in every line.

"The abuses of the citizen must cease. Every man is entitled to the pursuits of life, liberty, and happiness in this glorious nation of ours, whose red, white, and blue emblem stands for freedom and equality. The happy fradise in our loved homes is no longer safe, the housewife can't never tell,

(Continued on Page 4)

ALFRED BRINKLER GIVES RECITAL

Well Known Organist Gives Delightful Program As Feature of Sunday Chapel

OFFERS VARIETY OF SELECTIONS

In place of the usual Sunday chapel talk, the college listened last Sunday afternoon at 4:30 to a delightful organ recital by Alfred Brinkler of Portland. Mr. Brinkler is organist of Saint Luke's Cathedral in that city and is a fellow of the American Guild of Organists and an associate of the Royal Company of Organists, an honorary British organization. He is conductor of the Portland Men's Singing Club and of the Portland Polyphonic Society which appeared here in the earlier part of the first semester. About two years ago he played at another of the Sunday chapel services.

Mr. Brinkler's program consisted of a wide variety of selections both of light and serious nature. The stately "Variations de Concert" by the modern French organist and composer, Joseph Boncompagni, opened Mr. Brinkler's recital. His second selection, Stoughton's "Dreams" was a direct antithesis to the almost martial strains of the first and revealed Mr. Brinkler's mastery of the softer tones and the finer details of organ technique. A gay selection, "Chanson Joyeuse," written by W. C. Macfarlane who was for a number of years municipal organist of Portland, followed.

Borodin's Au Couvent Played
The first number after a short intermission during which a service was conducted was "Au Couvent" by the Russian composer Alexander Porphyryevich Borodin, best known for his operatic rendition of the Russian epic "Prince Igor." The selection was arranged for the organ by Dunkley. The piece, which was meant to convey the serene and quiet atmosphere of a monastery, required the use of the organ's chimera. The clear and realistic tone of these chimera noticeably surprised and pleased the audience.

Then followed the light and rippling strains of the "Minuet a l'Antico" by the Austro-American composer. See-arranged for the organ by Mr. Brinkler himself. The charming and fantastic "Melodie" by Charpentier was the next selection. To serve as a contrast and to balance his program in regard to the nature of his selections, Mr. Brinkler concluded his program with the pompous and stately crescendos of the "Festivaletto" by Percy E. Fletcher.

LARGE SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS ANNOUNCED

$27,000 Made Available to More Than Quarter of School

On Wednesday, Feb. 25, the committee on student aid at Bowdoin College announced the award of scholarships in excess of $23,000 which will be made immediately available to 145 students of the college or slightly more than one quarter of the entire student body. The average scholarship for the group is about $160, the exact figure being slightly higher than that of a year ago.

In addition to the above awards five State of Maine Scholarships, amounting to $500 each, have been given to the Maine boys coming to college in the result of competitive examinations throughout the state. The five members of Bowdoin 1934 who won these scholarships are Edward DeLong, Raymond Francis Prince, Roger Kimball Taylor, Henry Nelson Tibbetts, Carl Frederick Albert Weber. These awards, with the aid made available for the foreign exchange student now in residence, will, with a few other

(Continued on Page 3)

BROWN NATATORS DEFEAT BOWDOIN

Brown Captain Sets New Pool Record in 50 Yard Dash by Time of 24.4 Secs.

POLAR BEARS WIN MEDLEY RELAY RACE

Driving the Bruins mermen to an exhibition of their best efforts, the Polar Bears lost the season's final meet to the time of 46-31, last Saturday in the Curtis Pool. A trio of pool records were shattered by the visitors, as a New England Intercollegiate 300-yard medley mark replaced when 4:01.1 was clicked off, ten seconds better than the best pool time.

When Ted Denmore romped through the 200-yard breaststroke in 2 min. 50.3 sec., easily outdistancing Butler, the Brown entry, he established a clean slate for the season, having scored wins over Harvard, Wesleyan and M.I.T. As Sperry, drawing last position shortly after the gun, dropped behind the Bruin swimmers, who were closing in on Denmore. Holding his gallant spurt until the last lap, the plucky little Bowdoin ace could only overtake the last of the Brownmen, for a third place, losing to Butler by scant inches.

Bruin Sets Dash Mark
Brown's Captain, Hall, took the lead in the 50-yard dash, and aided by a beautiful turn, swept to the finish for a new pool record, 24.4 seconds. Handicapped by poor starts, both Bowman and Eason of Bowdoin could only pursue the Bruin for second and third.

Hall again made his powerful arms and legs count when he served on the 200-yard relay quartet which trounced the White team, the plucky little Bowdoin ace could only overtake the last of the Brownmen, for a third place, losing to Butler by scant inches.

Brown offered a fine exhibition of diving to clinch first and second in the event. Hawkins won with a comfortable point-margin totalling 64.9. Carpenter, blond Polar Bear diving star, was squeezed out of a second by Aldrich, Bruin star, their respective point averages standing at 59.8 and 57.6.

White Romps Away With Medley
Bowdoin's medleymen also show a clean home-meet sheet in their event, scoring a victory over the Bruins in 3:26.2 minutes. Eason, of the White, opened up the Bowdoin lead to seven yards in the backstroke, gaining over Brown's Silverton at every lap.

Denmore widened the intervening gap in the breaststroke number of the relay, creeping steadily away from

(Continued on Page 4)

SOCIAL INSURANCE SUBJECT OF DEBATE

No Decision Rendered as M.A.C. and Bowdoin Discuss Vital Matter

A debate was held Friday, February 27, between the Massachusetts Agricultural College and Bowdoin debating teams on the subject, "Resolved that the several States should enact legislation providing for compulsory unemployment insurance, to which the employer shall contribute." Mr. Ralph De. Childs, chairman, welcomed the visiting team to their first debate at Bowdoin and announced that it would be a no decision debate.

The first speaker for the affirmative was Donald F. Prince of Bowdoin, who outlined the scheme of unemployment insurance which the affirmative advocated. Unemployment insurance, he said, would eliminate severe unemployment in times of depression and in times of prosperity would decrease the effects of technological causes of unemployment, such as labor-saving machines. Three types of unemployment insurance may be outlined—none to which the employer

(Continued on Page 3)

Sub-Fresh Week End

The sub-freshman week end which was to be held the 13th and 14th of this month will be postponed until the last of April or the first of May, it was decided February 28th at a meeting of the faculty committee on preparatory schools and the presidents of the fraternities. It was thought unwise to have the houses crowded by the many track men who would be here and the sub-freshmen at the same time. The faculty committee on preparatory schools consists of the following: Professor Mitchell, chairman, Associate Professor Smith, Assistant Professor Brown, and Messrs. P. S. Wilder, and A. P. Daggett. Eight of the eleven fraternities had presidents at the meeting and they voted unanimously for the postponement. The sub-freshman week end will now be held in connection with some track meet which will fall the last of April or the first of May.

REV. SHERWOOD EDDY NOTED SOCIAL WORKER TO SPEAK IN CHAPEL

Comes to Bowdoin Under Auspices of New England Y.M.C.A. Ass'n

Rev. Sherwood Eddy, secretary for Asia of the Young Men's Christian Association, will be the College preacher at Bowdoin College on Sunday, March 8th. In addition to conducting the regular chapel service, Mr. Eddy will preach at the First Parish Congregational Church in the morning and will conduct a student forum in the Moulton Union on Sunday evening, under the auspices of the Bowdoin Christian Association.

Mr. Eddy is a graduate of Yale and holds honorary degrees from that institution, as well as from the College of Wooster. From 1895 to 1911 he was in India as a national secretary with the Y.M.C.A. and in 1911 accepted his present appointment as secretary for Asia. He has been a Y.M.C.A. worker with the British army and in that latter year was transferred to the American forces. He is the author of a number of books on conditions in the East and on social work.

(Continued on Page 3)

UNIV. OF KANSAS STUDENTS FORM PROHIBITION SQUAD

Responsibility for "Dry" Condition of Campus Taken by Student Council

An unknown committee has taken the "responsibility" for liquor enforcement at the University of Kansas. A letter to this effect was received by Kenneth Meuser, president of the Men's Student Council; Prof. Henry Werner, men's student adviser; and the Daily Kansan. It follows:

"To whom it may concern:
In reply to the so-called clearance resolutions passed by the men's Pan-Hellenic and Student Councils 'clearing' the drinking problem on this campus, we a group of eight students with the co-operation of an outside group, are taking it upon ourselves to see that these promises are fulfilled.

"Working among the student body we hope to gather sufficient information to rid the campus of its student drinkers and bootleggers and to see that your diplomatic 'lankets' are not idle threats.

"We are forwarding a copy of this letter to the men's student adviser, the president of the Men's Student Council, and to the University Daily Kansan.

"Watch your step,
The Group of Eight."
College officials refused to comment on the letter today, saying that anonymous contributions of this sort were usually of little importance.

SWARTHMORE WOMEN HERE IN DEBATE

The Swarthmore College women's debating team, composed of Miss Mary E. Betts and Miss Margaret Zabratka, will oppose the Bowdoin contestants on the question, "Resolved that the emergence of women from the home is a regrettable feature of modern life," on Friday evening, March 6, in the Memorial Hall, 8 o'clock. The visiting debaters will defend the negative.

The Bowdoin team consists of Norman von Rosenberg '33, one of the season's debaters, and Paul A. Walker '31, veteran of last year's debates and President of the Debating Council. The fair contestants from Pennsylvania are now in the progress of an extended New England tour, debating Vassar, Wellesley, and will oppose Bates the previous night, March 5th. In the past few years Swarthmore has been known to have some outstanding debating teams and this year has met with some brilliant successes. It is felt that they will offer strong competition because of both their oratorical qualities and mastery of their subject.

It has been requested, however, that the Swarthmore debate be a "no decision" discussion.

WILLIAMS GLEE CLUB WINS CONTEST

All Teams Greatly Improved in Talented Exhibition at Hartford

BOWDOIN CLUB SINGS AT BOSTON SATURDAY

Large Group of Alumni Present As Glee Club Gives Annual Concert

Bowdoin songsters and musicians returned Sunday from their week end trip to Hartford and Boston during which they entered the New England Intercollegiate Glee Club contest at the Connecticut capital and appeared before the University Club of Boston. The Bowdoin singers met real opposition when they displayed their talents against the Western Polytech, M.I.T., Boston University, Williams, Vermont, Clark, Middlebury, Wesleyan and Trinity. Singing three selections, a college song, choice song, and a prize song, each college met with enthusiastic response from the audience.

Williams College, with an advantage of only five points over Wesleyan, was awarded first place by the judges, who were introduced to the audience by President John J. Gibbons, of the New England College Glee Club Association. Third place in the competition for the eagerly sought cup went to Amherst, trailing Wesleyan by a scant two credits.

The judges experienced the greatest perplexity in deciding the issue at stake among the eleven almost equally well-prepared glee clubs. So close was the final result that only twenty points intervened between the first and last places.

Bowdoin Sings Three Songs
Bowdoin sang "Rise Sons of Bowdoin" as its college song in the contest, following it by the prize number, "Feasting I Watch," by Elgar. The final contest offering was the choice song, "Autumn Sea," a composition of George.

One fact alone stood before the audience—that the contest would be extremely close. As each group sang a song the problem grew; and with the renditions of the prize song, which was identical in all cases, the decision was complete.

"The Lost Chord," rendered by the entire, mighty chorus of male voices, ushered in the program. This, and the "Star Spangled Banner," concluded the evening's entertainment, was under the leadership of Mr. Ralph Baldwin.

As another feature on the program, the colleges again united to sing "On the Road to Mandalay," conducted by Dean W. Hanson, with Mr. William Ellis Weston at the organ.

Glee Club Appears in Boston
Saturday night the Bowdoin glee club, and the Polar Bears were guests of the University Club in Boston. Here they gave a well-balanced program, led by the baton of Joseph G. Kraetzer '31. The program included four college songs, a group of numbers by the quartet composed of George T. Sewall '32, Warren Winslow '31, Albert Tarbell '32, and Owen Gilman '31, several selections by the instrumental club, and songs by the Glee Club.

Following this Bowdoin entertainment there was a dance, at which the

(Continued on Page 4)

COLLEGES WILL HOLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

To Convene at State House in Augusta on March Sixth and Seventh

A congress of forty-eight students from Maine's four colleges will make a study of the business and professional opportunities of the Pine Tree State at a second College Economic Conference to be held by the Maine Development Commission at the State House, March 6 and 7.

Twelve delegates from each college, eight men and four women in the case of co-educational institutions, will attend the parley. They will be addressed by four business and professional people from Maine on the following subjects: Banking, Vocational Opportunities for Women, the State, Pulp and Paper, and Power.

The conference will be divided into four periods of an hour each, two in the afternoon of March 6, and two in the morning of March 7. A speaker will open each period with a twenty minute address, followed by the readings of two five-minute papers by the students. The remaining thirty minutes will be devoted to discussion and questions.

The representatives from Bowdoin will be Robert W. Atwood, Norman A. Brown, Donald M. Crockett, Lyman A. Cousens, Jr., John S. Donworth, Brooks Eastman, Albert E. Jenkins, Robert I. Libbey, Richard Perry, Charles G. Trout, Harold P. Robinson, and Francis A. Wingate, all of the senior class. Jenkins and Wingate will address the conference, the former on "Pulp and Paper," the latter on "Banking."

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Associate Editors

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleckner '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

Reporters

NICHOLAS BASHKIROFF
JAMES E. BARNETT
RAYMOND BROWN, JR.
ALEXANDER P. CLARK
HAROLD E. EVERETT
JAMES C. FREEMAN

JOHN M. SINCLAIR

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $5.00 per year (including Alumnius) in advance. Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

Philip C. Ahern '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, March 4, 1931.

No. 25

Chapel

After much cynical comment, pro and con, from all sides, the question of compulsory chapel has been brought up in faculty meeting. Unfortunately, no vote was taken on the subject, but it will surely come up again in the March meeting. We take this as a promising omen. Bowdoin is quite apparently waking up to the fact that tradition need not necessarily be law. Without doubt, in the early days of the College, chapel was a splendid institution, and morning prayers were the regular and expected order of things. But today, educational institutions are realizing that they need no longer assume religious responsibilities of a body of students who would prefer to think for themselves and go to worship when and where they pleased. Of course, here at Bowdoin the religious element in daily chapel services has been little short of farcical for some years — as far as we can make out, neither the faculty nor the students themselves want chapel services of this sort. The question of alternatives and of the "raison d'être" of the word "compulsory" have been discussed in the ORIENT before and there is small need to go over the whole affair again. However, we do feel and feel strongly that the time has come for the faculty to take that initial step which will start the ball rolling. Obviously, some change is imperative. We can only hope that the Governing Boards or the faculty, whichever has the final decision, will act in a spirit worthy of modern educational practice and theory.

Soph Hop

As a belated afterthought, it occurs to us that there is something wrong about Soph Hop. Why should this party always be the smallest of the year? Is it that the date usually set is not particularly fortunate? We believe this has quite a bit to do with the small attendance. This last party was one of the best in years in our estimation as far as music was concerned, and yet, we believe that the crowd at the Gym Dance was among the smallest on record. The fraternity dances were also fewer this year. A lot of this may be explained by economic conditions throughout the country, but this year is not the exception, it is the rule. Soph Hop is always a small party. But once, thanks to an epidemic of influenza, Soph Hop had to be postponed until the last week end before Easter — and it was a marked improvement. Weather is generally better for one thing in March; scholarships are out then, and there is not that "down in the mouth" feeling which overpowers so many directly after Mid-Years; also, there is a more festive spirit as one approaches a vacation. These are but a few reasons which come to mind why Soph Hop might well be held later in the year. We should like respectfully to suggest to next year's Sophomores that the possibility of a date in March be thoroughly investigated.

Hearing Tests

At a Junior College of the University of Pittsburgh a late development in provision for the students is a system of hearing tests. The records of these tests are to be used for the seating arrangements in all classes.

While this idea will undoubtedly be improved in time, such as to provide for both the seeing and hearing ability of students, still it is a marked move for the better in considering the student's physical makeup in education, as well as his mental. Perhaps another move will be to install amplifiers in classrooms. It is rather difficult to see why we should miss none of conversation at a poor talkie, yet lose the point of some intricate explanation in class because someone coughs at the critical moment. Incidentally it might be supposed that this is the reason for the greater attendance at movies than optional lectures, but we forego debate.

To return to the subject — this move is an important one, and scientific classification of the students for seating at lectures is likely to prove worth all the trouble Pitt puts into it.

Sir John T. Middlemore
Bowdoin Medical Student

Bowdoin College and its medical department, the Medical School of Maine, which closed its doors in 1921, have had quite a number of foreign students enrolled at various times in the past and perhaps one of the most interesting of these was the late Sir John Throgmorton Middlemore who received his M.D., in the class of 1866.

Sir John was born in Birmingham, England, on June 9, 1847 and passed away at Woodside, Worcestershire, England, in 1924. During his 80 years of life Sir John originated and carried out a unique and successful plan of caring for English orphans. In Birmingham he founded an institution called The Children's Emigration Home and established a branch at Fairview, Halifax, N. S. His scheme contemplated the finding of new homes and new environment for these unfortunate and so successful was the idea that nearly 10,000 English children, have been placed in good homes across the sea in Canada. The institution is now called the Middlemore Emigration Home.

In addition to this occupation Sir John found time to sit in Parliament from 1899 to 1918, served nine years

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:

I am inclosing the letters which I received in answer to the petition which the Student Council sent to the Athletic Council. As everyone is very much interested in the outcome of this affair, I trust that you will avail yourself of the opportunity to print them in the Orient.

Sincerely: A. L. CRIMMINS.

February 20, 1931.

Mr. Arthur L. Crimmins, President

The Student Council of Bowdoin College

Brunswick, Maine.

My dear Mr. Crimmins:

I am in receipt of your letter of February 12th enclosing the petition signed by a large number of students of the College, requesting reconsideration on the part of the Athletic Council of the resignation of Mr. Ben Houser.

First of all let me say that the petition is a wonderful tribute to Houser and an action on the part of the students for which he should be grateful for the rest of his life. So far as the student body is concerned, I think it is an expression of loyalty which has always been one of the real qualities of Bowdoin men generally. I think the members of the Student Council will, however, agree with me that it is unfortunate that this expression of loyalty coupled with this in a way, criticism of the action of the Athletic Council, and a somewhat public protest of the action as reflected by the College publication.

You may be assured the action of the Athletic Council in accepting Mr. Houser's resignation was in no way influenced by any friendly feelings toward him, but their unanimous action was taken after a great deal of deliberation, and many phases contributed to their final decision.

I am sure you all realize that the members of the Athletic Council have only one thought in mind and that is to render to their College, unselfish service, and to give the Council their best judgment for what it may be worth. The present Athletic Council is the first one appointed by the Boards of Trustees and Overseers of the College, following the adoption of the Athletic Constitution by the Boards last June. This step in connection with the supervision of the athletic situation at the College was taken as you know, after about two years exhaustive study of situations in various other colleges, and a successful and unsuccessful in operation, and every endeavor was made to build up a constitution which would embody the best points of those existing at other colleges. The members of the various committees who had this investigation in hand, as well as the present members of the Athletic Council, have given a great deal of time and thought to the matter with the hope in view, namely to be able to work out a situation which in the long run would be satisfactory to the governing bodies of the College and to the students, and at the same time be successful in operation.

I think you will agree with me that it is most unfortunate that its first important act should be received in such an unfortunate manner.

Your letter suggests that it is the opinion of the Student Council that in respect to any change in coaches, the views of the student body should be ascertained first. This is a thought which did not come up for discussion in the framing of the Athletic Constitution because, so far as I can remember, it is not done in any college whose constitution was studied. If, however, the Student Council feel that this provision should be made a part of the Athletic Constitution, I am sure the members of the Athletic Council would be willing to discuss the matter with them, having in view the advisability of amending the now existing Constitution if, after mature consideration, it was considered advisable by all concerned.

Again let me repeat that I am sure all the members of the Athletic Council will regret very much the results following one of their first important decisions. It is an unfortunate situation to say the least, and in a way, most discouraging.

Sincerely yours,

H. D. GIBSON.

February 28, 1931.

To the Editor of the Orient:

Ben Houser's resignation has created a great deal of discussion among alumni of Bowdoin College who are interested in its athletic policy. The newspapers, and your valuable college paper, have printed many articles which leaves an interested alumnus with the thought that something is wrong somewhere. I personally have not been able to get any information as to why Ben resigned. Furthermore, no individual, or no body of individuals, who may be in a position to give any information for his act, have come out in the open. Needless to say that something is the cause of this secrecy.

Ben Houser came to Bowdoin the same year that I matriculated. I have been an opportunity to be schooled in various branches of athletics by a number of coaches, but never did I enjoy the scholarly, gentlemanly, and sincere teaching that I received under Ben.

Coach Houser's loss to Bowdoin will be a great one, and I personally feel that Bowdoin's baseball teams of the future, unless schooled by a man of Ben's qualifications, will suffer materially. I trust that those who can influence Ben to remain will get busy and arrange for his reconsideration in the very early future.

Sincerely yours,

BILL NEEDLEMAN,

Captain Baseball 1921

on the Birmingham City Council and was a Magistrate for Birmingham and Worcestershire Counties from 1887 to 1924. In 1918, the King of England granted him a Baronetcy. Sir John was the wife of Mary Price, daughter of the Rev. Thomas Price,

Mr. Arthur L. Crimmins, President The Student Council, Brunswick, Maine.

I have your letter of February 12th and note therefrom that many of the students, through you, "petition" the Athletic Council of Bowdoin College to reconsider the resignation of Mr. Ben Houser.

I am informed that Mr. Houser voluntarily offered his resignation and he alone can withdraw it or reconsider. So far as I know, the Athletic Council has only three alternatives: accept; refuse to accept; or ask Mr. Houser to reconsider.

It is my belief that the President of Bowdoin College and his Boards should have full power in selecting and deciding upon the personnel of the teaching staff, and all should be treated fairly and with practicality. All should possess and teach good morals, habits conducive to good health, physical fitness, and intellectual vigor. All should be responsible to the college itself. The athletic coach should be responsible to the President, and his Boards just as is the professor of Latin, of English, of Mathematics, of History, and of other subjects.

Students should participate spontaneously and energetically in all life of the college, and should always be prepared to play a useful and important part in the complicated intellectual, moral, social and athletic processes. There should be a live and enthusiastic interest of the student body in the welfare and success of varsity teams, whether it be the debating team, the baseball team, chess team, or football team.

Participation of this kind with prescribed studies becomes a serious business that is entirely too large, too complex, and too usurping of time to expect students to assume business responsibilities that rightfully belong to those who have more experience and more time at their disposal. Students attend college primarily, of course, to receive instruction in the humanities, and parents may rightfully and indignantly protest when too many extra curricular activities are imposed. Students should be as free from irksome business responsibilities relative to athletics as they are from business and professional responsibilities that attach themselves

Vicar of Selly Oak England, still resides at that place.

YOU'D Walk a Mile for a Camel - - but you can walk Fifty Yards and refresh yourselves at

THE COLLEGE SPA

IT SATISFIES

to the various academic departments. I am entirely sympathetic with the general student point of view. My activities since undergraduate days have kept me in constant and close touch with student bodies of many colleges, and I feel a very deep interest in the young men who have the best interests of Bowdoin College close to their hearts.

Everything accomplished by the Athletic Council has been done in perfectly good faith and, while I regret most sincerely the students' attitude toward the acceptance of Mr. Houser's resignation, I feel reasonably sure all will realize that those of the Alumni who unselfishly give of their time, money, and experience — as well as those of the faculty and student body who make up the Athletic Council — are working solely for the best interests of the College and the entire body of students who make up the College.

With kindest personal regards, I remain,

Very truly yours,

W. R. CROWLEY.

February 22, 1931.

To the Editor of the Orient:

The letter of Mr. George Jackson is the best thing that has come out of Harvard in many moons. Being now a stroller in the academic groves — however humble my position may be — I have put away my vocabulary of invectives and have through prayer and my renunciation of Ibsen taken to myself a chaste and polite temperament. I cannot resist, however, to say that Ben Houser, whom I do not know personally, is as a coach superb, and as a gentleman clean of heart and speech. My position in college as a member of the Student Council and as a member of the publications has given me access to the opinions of many Bowdoin men. He is more than a good coach; he is a very fine character.

May I, in closing, compliment the Orient in bringing to light through a notice of a certain meeting and through organizing student opinion a collusion unworthy of Bowdoin. Such work is the true and high function of a newspaper.

Very sincerely yours,
WILLIAM MURPHY '27

The Ideal Hotel for You

In BOSTON

Is the NEW
Hotel MANGER

At North Station

Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot
and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS

Each Room equipped with Tub and
Shower • Built-in Radio Speaker
(Three Station Service) • Servidor
Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Modern
Equipped and Perfectly
Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster
Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH
FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00
FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 5.00
No Higher Rates

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:

As members of the track squad we wish to correct any wrong impression given by a comment in the Orient of two weeks ago. Coach Magee did not approach any member of his squad to influence them in any way regarding the signing of the Student Council petition. Whether any member signed or not was entirely a matter of his own volition. To the best of our knowledge Jack has kept his opinions on the matter entirely to himself.

S. R. FOSTER, (Capt.)

R. C. MOYER (Mgr.)

Hazing at Trinity

The Trinity Class of 1934 published a proclamation declaring that the Freshman Class would no longer abide by certain traditional "Rules" such as those requiring caps and black ties. The freshmen carried out this vow to the letter in spite of warning and threats from the "Medevia" and various attempts to "discipline" the class by the fraternities. However, the 1934 class will be allowed to enforce the customary rules next year.

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

Nothing small about this work

Reaching out to the far corners of the earth for raw materials of telephone apparatus, is a Western Electric function in the Bell System.

To assure adequate sources of supply, men engaged in this work of mass purchasing continually search the entire globe. To buy wisely, they study all factors affecting prices—economic and labor conditions, transportation facilities, freight rates—on a world-wide scale. Each year their purchases, worth many millions of dollars, include such diverse products as platinum from Russia, mica from India, asphalt from Venezuela, flax from Belgium and France.

All in all, a vast and fascinating task. For men of keen business judgment, the opportunity is there!

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

We Have a Few Portable Typewriters Which Have Been Rented Once or Twice, Which We Are Selling at Reduced Prices. This Chance Does Not Come Often.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Intercollegiate Column

Yale's New System
Yale has announced its plans to adopt the tutorial system. Each house of a quadrangle shall be put under a master with ten aids. The new system shall, to a large extent, enable the students to receive the benefits of a small college, such as greater intimacy with other students and with professors, and the greater opportunity for participating in athletics.

Aid to Unemployment

Colgate University, Department of Physiology, offers forty cents an hour to students who will consent to aid experiments now being conducted by the laboratory. The work, being done in connection with taste experiments, consists of swallowing a toy balloon with a tube attached. This is to test the reaction of the inner organs. The theory being studied is that foods liked by the individual are given better treatment by the digestive system than foods not liked, and that catering to taste may prove beneficial in stimulating proper digestive action.

The A.B. Degree

Much discussion has lately centered around the liberal arts colleges and the A.B. degree. Some believe that interest in that degree is dying and that in the near future the small arts colleges and with them, the A.B. will disappear.

The latest comment on the Arts degree, however, is that made by Dr. Cutten, President of Colgate. He asserts that the A.B. is in the first place, a misnomer, that the work done for that degree is too much laboratory work and not enough along the line of arts. Athletics and other extra curricular activities he believes are more deserving of the Arts degree. As an example, President Cutten states, "We give A.B. credit for the study of harmony, and musical appreciation but no credit whatsoever for the tooting of a horn." (His opponents question whether "tooting a horn" is an art).

Tuffy Townies

Recently a group of Amherst, Mass., "Townies" apprehended some freshmen and made them believe they were sophomores. The objects of their raid were their pea-green hats.

University of Chicago

The university of Chicago boasts of (1) the youngest large university president in the country. (2) The oldest freshman in the U. S. (He is 72 but keeps all freshman rules). (3) A professor who wears side-whiskers and rides a bicycle around the campus.

WILLIAMS GLEE CLUB WINS CONTEST

(Continued from Page 1)

music was furnished by the Polar Bears, playing the popular favorites in a truly splendid manner. The complete musical club program for the evening was:

Combined Clubs
Operatic Medley
Instrumental Club
"Discovery" Grieg
Encore: "Autumn Sea" Gerick Glee Club, with solo by
A. W. Tarbell '32
Selection from "Nina Rosa" Romberg
Instrumental Club
"Jolly Fellows" Rhys-Herbert
"Swabian Folk Song"
"Viking Song" Coleridge-Taylor
Male Quartet
"Feasting I Watch" Elgar
"Song of the Sea" Stebbins
"Song of Fellowship" Gaul
Glee Club
"Desire Ardent" Zamecnik
"The Enchantress" Peters
Instrumental Club
"Bowdoin Beata" and "Phi Chi"
Combined Clubs

(4) Its recognition of "thru" as the correct spelling of "through". (5) Of having had the famous artist, Milton Sills as a professor, and (6) certain "anti-fundamentalist" teachings in some courses.

$190

The Freshman class at Emory University would be worth just $190 if it were sold for junk or fertilizer says the Holy Cross Tomahawk.

Billy Sunday at Tech.

Close to eight hundred of the students and instructors in Technology went to hear Billy Sunday. The audience was intensely interested in his subject and the clever way he put over his point. (There was a great deal of speculating as to whether or not the evangelist would try to "sell Heaven" to the institution).

Flunkers' Frolic

Coe College of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, holds an annual party for those "flunking out", called the Flunkers' Frolic. Odd!

RECITAL OF NATIVE MUSIC IS GIVEN BY EXCHANGE STUDENT

(Continued from page 1)

second in a harmonic minor scale which the gypsy orchestras of Hungary play without written scores at the great balls. This gypsy type is the first of the three types.

With the beginning of his story we were told of a splendid ball whose opening selection was of the popular Caardas dance time from which the folk trot, an easier form of dance, has degenerated. This music was exhibited at the keyboard where it was shown to be made of tunes composed in the Doric or natural harmonic scale. The gypsy music is the music which the higher classes enjoy over their wine and which is the music heard most by the foreigner, who does not have the opportunity of hearing in the little villages the second type of Hungarian music, which is the true folk song.

Folk Songs Mentioned

These real folk songs, peculiarly enough, are not well known; nor can they be heard directly by any visitor to the village in which they originate. Janos Balkai and Janos Lavotta, two foot travelers, were the recorders of these folk tunes and the composers of the gypsy music which is really a medley of these country-side airs. Balkai and Lavotta found that by traveling in peasant costume among the peasants they could discover the words and themes which the young men and girls sang together as they huddled by hand the maize from which they made their flour.

The third type of Hungarian music is not heard so much now; it is the music which became popular during the latter part of the 17th century when Hungary inflicted a glorious defeat on the Turks. The type was that of the soldier; it was a sort of camping or marching tune.

Lam spoke with pride of Bela Bartok, a leading modernist of the Academy of Music at Budapest before coming to America. Some selections of the modern harmonization, were given, four of which were standard compositions of Bartok.

In the College Library George Lam has placed some of his own translations of the Hungarian folk songs from which was fashioned the gypsy music.

Padded

Five fraternity houses were raided at Michigan in a recent liquor cleanup. 14 quarts of whiskey, 4 cases of gin and 3 cases of wine were taken. 18 students went to police headquarters. (The Maine Campus observes, "We're so glad our boys aren't like that?")

A roadhouse near the U. of Colorado furnishes free taxi service to University students.

Twenty-five Years Ago

A Musical recital was given by Dr. Mason in the Art Building. The program featured "The Overture", Mignon (Thomas), At the Spring, Josephy, L'Ombre Overture, Plotow, March Characteristique, Rosey, and Wagner's Tannhauser were presented.

REV. SHERWOOD EDDY NOTED SOCIAL WORKER TO SPEAK IN CHAPEL

(Continued from Page 1)

work among young people. Mr. Eddy comes to Bowdoin under the auspices of the New England Committee of Student Young Men's Christian Associations.

Lectured at Colby

Following his engagement here, Mr. Eddy will go to Waterville to give a lecture at Colby. "The Colby Echo", in announcing his coming, recalls his lecture there last year and says of him:

"Sherwood Eddy is one of the most forceful speakers that ever came to Colby. He speaks right from the shoulder and puts his arguments across with great clearness and with many illustrations. His strong chin and keen eye are evidence of the powerful personality behind him. His appearance is that of a business man rather than that of a minister."

"The Colby Chapel was crowded at every one of his lectures. He is an earnest and practical Christian. He brings his religion into everything. He makes it his life and in doing so he sets a glorious example for young people."

"PUBLIC OWNERSHIP" IS TOPIC OF DEBATE AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

(Continued from Page 1)

tion to corruptive problems. Mr. John C. L. Dowling, Fire Commissioner, then upheld Mr. Hall's views and extended some of them. The afternoon was entirely given over to discussion of topics dealing with sports. A tea was held at five o'clock at which the delegates had an opportunity to meet the various speakers personally and discuss with them individual problems.

Saturday evening Rev. John C. Schroeder of the State Street Congregational Church of Portland spoke on the effects of religion on corruption. He showed how in a way corruption could be dealt with by the use of religion. An open period of discussion was held after this talk and then came a very welcome dance. The delegates were well enough divided to render the evening pleasant to all.

General Conclusions Cited

Sunday morning at eight o'clock a communion took place. Another conference session was held at nine-thirty when Dr. Laidler made a summary of foregone conclusions and gave many helpful concrete examples of them. He urged the reconstruction of views and the increase of study in the matters of corruption. Cooperation is an other quality that Dr. Laidler said was much needed to help fight off this public evil. At noon a church service was led by Mr. W. J. Kitchen, executive secretary of the New England Students' Christian Association, who had general charge of the convention, and Mr. Buell Gallagher of the National Staff. The conference closed with a dinner.

LARGE SCHOLARSHIP AWARDS ANNOUNCED

(Continued from Page 1)

items, bring the total appropriation for scholarship aid to a figure in excess of $27,000.00. The figure is more than $4000 larger than the total of a year ago.

Richmond Receives Large Award
The largest award is the Stanwood Alexander Scholarship, which has been made to Albert Francis Richmond '31 of Taunton, Mass. Mr. Richmond is a major in History, has done some work in debating, and was last year chosen as Ivy orator by the junior class. He received A's in all of his subjects during the first semester of the current year.

Other interesting awards are the Edward F. Moody Scholarship, for proficiency in Chemistry, won by Robert William Card '31 of Somerville, Mass., and the William Lee Symonds Scholarship "for students showing tendency to excellence in literature", which has been awarded to James Aldrich Whipple, Jr., '31 of Winthrop, Mass. The Richard Almy Lee Scholarship, awarded this year for the first time, has been assigned to Seiden Eugene (Grove) '32 of Malden, Mass. Richard Appleton Torrey '31 of Groton, Mass., is the recipient of a tuition scholarship from the Lawrence Foundation, entering college from Lawrence Academy at Groton. This foundation is the oldest of the scholarship funds at Bowdoin, dating from 1847.

The Howard R. Ives Scholarship, given in memory of Howard Rollins Ives of the class of 1898, has been won by Edward Bernard McMenamin '33 of Portland, Maine, while the Charles F. Libby Scholarship, given each year to a "deserving young man who is a resident of Portland", is assigned to William Wesley Galbraith '33.

Thomas West Libby '34 of Augusta receives the Buxton Scholarship which is among the earliest established at Bowdoin. The Annie E. Purinton Scholarship, established by Mrs. D. Webster King in memory of her sister, Miss Annie E. Purinton, and which is primarily for award to a Brunswick or Topsham boy, has been assigned to Nathan Charles Miller '34 of Brunswick.

SOCIAL INSURANCE SUBJECT OF DEBATE

(Continued from Page 1)

alone contributes, one to which only the employee contributes, and one to which the state alone contributes. Each of these taken singly is unjust, but a combination of the three may be of great value. A fund would be formed by the employer's contributing two per cent of the cost, the employee's contributing one per cent of his wages, and the state matching the employee's contribution.

A labor exchange would be set up to keep track of opportunities for work. Anyone unemployed would have to accept work unless it was made available by strike, or unless the hours were longer and the standard of work lower than that of other men in the same position. Funds would go to a central fund controlled by the state department of labor. To decide disputes there would be an appeal board composed of the employer, the employee, and a neutral. Basing its decisions on the record of the preceding year's work, the board would give certain stable factories or corporations either rebate on the last year's contribution or credit for the coming year.

This plan would be economically sound. In depression, relief given to unemployed would give them purchasing power which would keep up production. With the uncertainty of holding a job removed, employees would work more efficiently.

Negative Offers Arguments

The first speaker for the negative was Richard S. Folger of M.A.C. He based his arguments against unemployment insurance on the results in Great Britain and Germany where it had been tried. He said that in 1912 Great Britain started a system similar in principle. The employer contributed five cents, the employee five cents, and the state two cents, but rates soon rose to sixteen, fourteen, and eight cents respectively. Then the share of the state rose to fifteen cents. Sir Philip Snowden said a great part of the recent 150,000,000 pound deficit was due to exhaustion of the treasury by this extra burden of unemployment insurance falling on the state. Thus the system is impractical. It is also unjust since it holds the employee financially responsible for conditions he cannot control. The system provided by the affirmative would be unscientific since it overlooks a vast number of unemployed who would have no chance to become a part of the system.

Insurance Plan Benefits All Unemployment

The second speaker for the affirmative, Albert S. Davis, Jr., showed how the plan of the affirmative would provide for the different types of unemployment. The rebate and credit system would give employers an incentive to spread trade so as to last throughout the whole year and in that way prevent seasonal unemployment. The duties of the labor exchange would take care of those put out of work through technological reasons. Finally the system would tide over and offset by its steady influences the cyclical unemployment which is inevitable.

The last speaker for the negative was Leonard A. Sillier, Jr. He demanded that the arguments be based on experience. He then went into an application of the laws of insurance to the affirmative's plan. There must be a risk which can be estimated and insured and a premium, constant during the contract. The risk in this case would be not the employee's being thrown out of work but his not being able to get work after being fired. Since no information can be acquired on this last, the risk could not be

Memorial Dedication Exercises Published

The College has just published about forty-five hundred copies of a bulletin entitled "The Dedication of the War Memorial".

The frontispiece of the bulletin is from a photograph of the War Memorial taken by Professor Warren E. Catlin. Next, in order, comes the Roll of Honor, the inscriptions that are on the base of the flagstaff, the order of exercises at its dedication, and the addresses of Pres. K. C. M. Sills and Pres. Robert D. Leigh of Bennington College. On the last page are the names of the gentlemen who served as members of the War Memorial Committee at various times.

The committee on the publication of this pamphlet consisted of Prof. Charles T. Burnett, chairman, Prof. Henry E. Andrews, Paul Nixon, Mr. E. O. Achorn and Major W. D. Ireland. The details of the work in publishing it, however, were carried out by a sub-committee consisting of Professor Burnett, the chairman, and Mr. Gerald G. Wilder. The whole booklet contains sixteen printed pages.

ART NOTES

The Exhibition of Contemporary American Art is still on view at the Walker Art Building. The closing date is March 7th. There are on exhibition, oil paintings, prints, water-colors, and drawings by American and foreign artists. The subjects are varied: still life, landscapes, animal life, conservative, and ultra modern work.

The exhibition, consisting partly of loan items from the private collection of Mr. Dan Fellows Platt, has been arranged to show a representative collection of contemporary art work. As announced last week, the College Art Association, sponsors of the exhibition, offer a prize for the best critical essay on this display.

NSFA GLEANINGS

Two vacuum cleaners have been installed at the University of Utah to groom 74 houses of the R. O. T. C.

A large, well-built barn will be remodeled as a semi-permanent educational building for a new women's college to be opened in September at North Bennington, Vermont.

The intercollegiate prohibition association has announced a prize essay contest open to all college students in the United States, for which a first prize of $500 or a trip to Europe is offered.

A roadhouse near the University of Colorado has arranged for students to ride in taxis free of charge to dances there.

Two coeds of the New Jersey College for Women were suspended for being caught in a raid in a speakeasy.

estimated and therefore not insured. As shown in the case of the raising of rates of contribution in Great Britain, the premiums vary by legislative action. Therefore the unemployment insurance would not actually be insurance, and would be economically unsound.

New Plan Favored

It is unnecessary to adopt such economically unjust legislation. The negative has another plan. It is one of cooperation of the national and state governments. There would be a National Planning Board and, in cases of unemployment, public works which do not have to be constructed at any special time could be pushed forward. Technological unemployment would be prepared for in this way.

LeTARTE'S -:- STUDIO

ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHS and FRAMES

Tondreau Block - Brunswick, Maine

USED MOTORCYCLES

from $60.00 up - Guns taken in trade

LIVERNIS CYCLE & GUN STORE 95 Maine Street

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - March 4th

BODY AND SOUL

- with -

CHARLES FARRELL

Also Sound Act - Pathe Review

Thursday - March 5th

Marie Dressler - Polly Moran

- in -

REDUCING

Also Comedy and Sound Act

Friday - March 6th

- VAUDEVILLE -

- on the screen -

RESURRECTION

- with -

JOHN BOLES - LUPE VELEZ

Also Paramount News

Saturday - March 7th

THE RIGHT OF WAY

- with -

Conrad Narel - Loretta Young

Also Comedy - Sound Act

and Screen Song

Monday-Tuesday - March 9-10

BOWDOIN MUSICAL CLUBS

- on the screen -

JOE COOK

- in -

RAIN OR SHINE

Also Short Subjects

Which is larger—the white ball or the black? Don't answer too quickly.

YOUR EYES MAY FOOL YOU BUT YOUR TASTE tells the Truth!

MILDER...AND BETTER TASTE

They Satisfy

ANTIQUITY SHOP

Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 243-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

PRINTING

STUART & CLEMENT

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?'

Give it to

BATES OR SPERRY

LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES

Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE —

Send Your Washing to the

CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH

AGENT

Special Rates to Students

on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and

FRATERNITY PAPER

KAYWOODIE PIPES

Florence P. Merriman

Shampoos — Scalp Treatment
Manicures and Chiropody.

114 Maine St., cor. Cumberland St.

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the facilities of

THE RECORD PRESS

are at your service. Tel. 3

Let us estimate on your next job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work done in this shop.

Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

-SPORTS-

A.T.O. WINS LEAGUE
A CHAMPIONSHIP BY DEFEATING PSI U.

Game Close and Hardfought
—Winners' Passing and Shooting Flashy

On Thursday night of last week, the A.T.O. quintet managed to set down the Psi U basketballers 34-28 in the fastest and hardest fought game of the year. The winners, although outjumped throughout, converted some sensational passing and clever short range basket shooting into a win.

Play in the first period was very fast but somewhat ragged, and when the whistle blew the score was knotted at six apiece. The teams settled down in the second quarter with the Psi U's failing to convert several scoring opportunities through poor teamwork. A basket by Harrison in the closing seconds of the half gave the A.T.O.'s a fifteen to fourteen lead. The final half found "Charlie" Prouty and "Al" Royal teaming up perfectly for the winners with the latter man on the scoring end most of the time. The lead constantly changed hands, keeping the spectators on edge all the time. About half way through the final quarter, Purdy, star Psi U guard was ousted from the game on four personals. The A.T.O.'s then came through with a winning surge by sinking three baskets in quick succession which clinched the game and gave them the leadership of their league.

A. T. O.	G	FG	Pts
Prouty, if	3	2	8
Royal, if	4	14	8
Harrison, if	5	0	10
Dolloff, if	0	0	0
Dennis, if	0	2	2

Totals	13	8	34
Psi U	1	0	2

Dani, if	G	FG	Pts
Mason, if	3	2	8
McMenamin, if	2	1	5
Creighton, if	4	1	9
Purdy, if	2	4	8
Mullin, if	0	0	0

Totals	11	6	28
Referee, Durand.

N. S. F. A. NEWS

MEIKLEJOHN

The University of Wisconsin intends, upon the suggestion of Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, to recommend the discontinuance of the experimental college, according to an Associated Press release. Dr. Meiklejohn has directed the five-year experiment.

The closing of the college, Dr. Meiklejohn said, would enable the faculty of the university to make a study of the results obtained. After consideration of the practical aspects of the experiment, Dr. Meiklejohn suggested that the faculty either continue the college, modify its scope or abandon all formal experimentation. The experimental college marked a radical departure in education. Dr. Meiklejohn set up the educational laboratory at the suggestion of Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the university, who needed him to join the faculty. He was president of Amherst College from 1912 until 1924.

In the experimental college Dr. Meiklejohn set up new lines of procedure for first and second year students. The students composed a separate unit at the university. They had their own classrooms and lived together in a dormitory. They thus were practically secluded from the academic life of the university as a whole.

After two years in the experimental college, the students became members of the junior class of the university. The college was then merged into the regular system and instead of studying specific subjects, students devoted their time to learning of civilizations.

COLLEGE AVIATORS

A recent survey by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce for the Year Book of 1931 shows a large increase in the number of aviation courses in the various colleges over the country. Colleges are becoming increasingly more air-minded and boast more students, more teachers and more courses than in previous years.

A thousand more students than last year are studying aviation in colleges and more than one-third of these are taking four-year courses that will lead to a special bachelor's or master's degree in aviation. Not only are more students studying aviation, but more colleges are offering courses in response to a growing demand, the report reveals. Seventy-four colleges now have courses of some sort in aviation as against 61 for last year.

Just as in medicine or engineering, students may now take graduate courses in aviation. Fourteen different colleges now offer graduate courses. These institutions offer full four-year courses, leading to degrees of bachelor of science in aeronautical engineering or air transportation, and graduate courses which give degrees of master of science in aeronautical engineering or doctor of philosophy.

Aviation instruction is also growing rapidly in public schools, the chamber learned. So many public schools now offer training for aviation mechanics that students are now learning the trade there instead of going to private schools.

BROWN NATATORS DEFEAT BOWDOIN

(Continued from Page 1)

Butler. Finally Captain Smith hit the water on the start of the final leg, and was three-quarters of the way across the pool before Brown's entry had been touched off. Smith, swimming easily, increased his safe margin to take the event by nearly twenty yards.

440 Goes to Visitors

Pearall of Brown allotted himself the lead position at the start of the 440 yard, sweeping along with a long, even crawl. Howard of the Polar Bears, and his teammate were side by side in second place, holding a scant lead over Oliver.

In the half-way mark Pearall had built up an insupportable lead, and Howard was barely holding his own with Oliver. With a hundred yards left, Howard, who had been dropping steadily behind, was laboring hard, endeavoring to hold to Oliver's thrashing feet. A plucky fifty yard sprint drew him close to the Bruin second, giving him a close third.

Bob Smith, captain of the Bowdoin watermen, made his last appearance in the 100-yard dash. He drove Hall, of Brown, to the limit, finishing the four lap sprint a good second, with Eason, his teammate, drawing a third. The time was 57 seconds flat.

Norm Eason, profiting by the absence of the Bruin backstroke ace, White, repeated his good work of the medley relay, and touched the pool's edge on the fourth lap for a first place in 1:58.1 minute. Silverman and Nickerson of Brown pressed him for second and third.

The summary:
200-yard medley—Won by Bowdoin (Eaton, Demore, Smith); Brown (Silverman, Butler and Walsh). Time, 3 minutes, 26 2-5 seconds.

50-yard dash—Won by Hall, Brown; second, Bowman, Bowdoin; third, Eason, Bowdoin. Time, 24 4-5 seconds.

440-yard swim—Won by Pearall, Brown; second, Oliver, Brown; third, Howard, Bowdoin. Time, 5 minutes, 59 1-5 seconds.

300-yard medley swim—Won by White, Brown; second, Sperry, Bowdoin; third, Bowman, Bowdoin. Time, four minutes, 10 1-5 seconds. (New England intercollegiate record).

100-yard dash—Won by Hall, Brown; second, Smith, Bowdoin; third, Eason, Bowdoin. Time, 57 seconds.

200-yard breaststroke—Won by Demore, Bowdoin; second, Butler, Brown; third, Sperry, Bowdoin. Time, two minutes, 50 3-5 seconds.

200-yard relay—Won by Brown (Walsh, Koebig, White, Hall), Bowdoin; second, (Eaton, Demore, Bowman, Smith). Time, one minute, 41 3-5 seconds. (New pool record).

Sportsman's Pen

Although the Boston Herald had it that the Bowdoin swimming team was "unmerged" by Brown, the truth is that the Providence outfit had a real struggle to win by a 46-31 count.

Ted Demore's win in the 200 yard breaststroke gives him an undefeated performance record over M. I. T., Wesleyan, Harvard and Brown.

Hall of Brown University lowered the Curtis Pool record in the 50 yard dash to 24 4-5.

With the advent of mud and water on the Great Un drained comes Ben House's first call on the baseball. A promising troop of battery men have responded.

"Harpo" Souther and "Pup" Morrell will undoubtedly bear the burden of the mound work this season.

The Kym team stacks up against M. I. T. at Cambridge Saturday. It is unfortunate that the veteran Ames Leavitt, will be unable to make the trip for his stellar work on the horse will be sorely needed.

The Zeta Psi - Alpha Tau Omega basketball game for the league championship next Thursday evening will be a terrific affair well worth attending.

The freshman tracksters continue to clean up. They obliterated the Deering High School contingent, 80-1-6 to 5-6.

Larson, fresh shot putter, annexed a meet record and shattered the freshman mark in his event against Deering, when he lobbed the orb for 48 feet, 4 inches.

KEEP THAT PIN!

After August 15, 1931, co-eds in the state of Ohio will have to return fraternity pins to their original owners or spend a month or so in jail for a year. The Ohio statute books declares that "Whoever, not being entitled to do so under the rules and regulations thereof, wears the badge or button of a society or organization for ten years' standing in this state, shall be fined not more than $20, or imprisoned not more than 30 days, or both."

A.A.U. MEET PROVIDES FINE PERFORMANCES

Bowdoin Team Shows Up
Well Despite Brilliant Competition

Extraordinary performances in every event and a new world record in the 70 yard high hurdles featured the National A.A.U. Track and Field championships in Madison Square Garden, New York, last Wednesday night. The showing made by Bowdoin's entries was most gratifying. In spite of the international and high class competition, Jack Magee's runners accounted for themselves in no uncertain fashion.

In the first heat of the 300 yard run, Creighton Gatchell crashed through for Bowdoin and won in 33.5 seconds, the second fastest heat of the evening. The third heat was another victory for the White, Syd Foster eating up the course in 33.6 seconds. Both were unquestionably great performances.

The semi-final heats were a different story. In his heat, Gatchell drew the outside lane, which proved to be the margin between victory and defeat for the Bowdoin flyer. Syd Foster took second to Johnny Lewis, the colored phenomenon, and national champion over the distance. Foster led all the way, but was edged by Lewis at the lap in a sensational finish. The time, which won the event for Lewis, was 33.3 seconds.

New World Mark in Hurdles
Charlie Stanwood did some excellent hurdling over the 70 yard high hurdle, but did not qualify for the finals. The world record for the event was lowered to 08.5 seconds by Percy Beard, an instructor at Alabama Polytech. When it is considered that the other finalists were Les Sentman of Illinois, Johnny Morris of Louisiana, and Gene Record of Harvard, in that order, Stanwood can hardly be criticised for his failure to place.

Larry Usher ran a very creditable race in the 1000 yard run, but was out of the money. Ray Conger, Illinois A. C., stole the race from John P. Bunkley, C.C.N.Y. flash, in a driving finish. Conger's time was 2:14.1.

The incident which had all 1400 spectators on their toes was a smash homecoming victory in the two-mile (diving) won by Boston track ace, Clark Chamberlain, leading figure in intercollegiate cross-country running, led the pack a killing pace for half the way, while Leonard hung back, running in last place. Then the Bostonian cut loose in characteristic style and strode home in the remarkable time of 9 minutes, 11.8 seconds.

Warm Debate Staged

In Town Meeting

(Continued from Page 1)

the humble citizen must have his daily bread. We, as members of this community all have our duties. Foremost among them is love of liberty. We all love liberty. Liberty and equality. We love equality, too. So in closing I want to appeal to all of you. I am ready to die for my country, and all I ask is that you vote sane and wisely on this question, which is a duty of every one of us.

Just then the whistle blew three times, and stuffing his nose into his pocket, Boss Bill jumped into his car and went tearing up Jordan avenue at a sixty mile clip to demonstrate his love of liberty.

Town meeting opened, Boss Bill was there with a ladder and a red ax. Thomas Means was there with a lexicon and a picture of the house of Atreus. There were also some other people there, they do insist on coming. The meeting was a success. It could begin, and the cheering sections made a few preliminary noises. Mr. Means took the floor. Mr. Edwards mumbled his peroration as Mr. Means addressed an argument and passed around his pebbles.

All was tense. A woman in the balcony was shivering with excitement. She had St. Vitus' dance. People in the back of the hall discussed the crops, told that one about why the Atlantic is always referred to as "she", and complained that the sum raised wasn't enough to build the bridge anyway.

Mr. Means raged on. "... People should never say 'how modern the Greeks were' ... they should say, 'how ancient we are'." Aristotle says in his Ethics that it is so. Does our local Tax Collector know more than Aristotle? After all, if we should remove from the town of Brunswick everything of Greek origin, the place would be much left. Where could you get something to eat then, I ask you? You'd have to go to Bath. I ask you? I ask you, now, is he? Then is an argument you can't meet offhand. I leave it to you, and you, and you ...

Mr. Means sat down after his pebbles were gone, and amid much noise the Red Cross (led by Burnett and Cram) carried off those who had suffocated.

Mr. Edwards arose. Mr. Edwards stood slightly better when erect. He took his hat off as the applause swelled, but put it on again when his head swelled.

"Now folks, I ain't educated, and ain't never had no chance to go to college or nothing. But I know when my rights as a citizen are being trampled upon (applause by the fire department) and realize when folks is putting something over on me (applause by the police). Now in this here meeting I can see where these educated

FROSH TRACK TEAM
WHIPS DEERING HIGH

(Continued from Page 1)

Leonard of Deering went to the latter in a fine sprint in the last hundred yards.

The mile run turned out to be a walkaway for Paul Ambler of the 1934 team. Taking the lead at the halfway mark, he set up a half-lap advantage over the rest of the field. Winning the race as he did, not pressed by anyone, he came within a fifth of a second of the meet record. Perkins and Burton had a fighting race for runner-up with the former leading by a bare yard.

Cubs Get 300 Easily
With Allen and Skillings the only freshmen entered in the three hundred, the race had a decided Deering atmosphere; for both of these flashes prepared at the Portland school. These two men finished first and second respectively. Allen's winning time was thirty-five seconds flat.

In the high jump the last Deering man failed at five feet four and three-quarters inches leaving Bob Porter and Thurman Burton in a tie for first. Bob then attempted to break the existing record of five feet seven inches. He cleared the bar at three-quarters of an inch above the record but it took him four jumps to accomplish it and so a new record did not go down on the books.

The relay, the last event of the afternoon, was another victory for the Polar Cubs. After Skillings had given Walker a two-yard lead, each Bowdoin man added about the same distance until Allen breasted the tape eight yards ahead of his Deering rival.

The summary is as follows:
40 yard dash—Won by Skillings (B); second, Walker (B); third, Stevens (D). Time: 4-4 4-5.
600 yard run—Won by Tibbetts (B); second, Burton (B); third, Murphy (D). Time: 2 m. 32 s. (New record).

45 yard high hurdles—Won by Allen (B); second, Appleton (B); third, Wilcox (D). Time: 6-1 5-5.
Shot put—Won by Larson (B); second, Ingalls (B); tie for third between Waite (B) and Roberts (D). Distance: 48 feet, four inches. (New freshman record).

45 yard low hurdles—Won by Allen (B); second, Gray (B); third, Reid (B). Time: 5-8 5-5.
600 yard run—Won by Gray (B); second, Reid (B); third, Leonard (D). Time: 1 m. 22 4-5 s.

One mile run—Won by Ambler (B); second, Perkins (B); third, Burton (B). Time: 4 m. 50 2-5 s.

200 yard dash—Won by Allen; second, Skillings (B); third, Heald (D). Time: 35 s.

High jump—Tie for first between Perkins (B) and Leonard (D); tie for third between Atwood (B), Olson (B) and Stevens (D). Height: 5 feet, 4-3 4-4 in.

Relay—Won by Bowdoin (Skillings, Walker, Gray, Allen). Time: 2 m. 15 1-5 s.

GYM TEAM FACES

TEMPLE AND M. I. T.

During the past week the gym team has been going through the paces quite strenuously in preparation for the meet which will be held on Saturday in Boston against M.I.T. at which time Temple University of Philadelphia will oppose M.I.T. also. Bowdoin at this time is attempting to arrange for a meet with Temple in Brunswick at some future date. The meet on Saturday will not be a triangular meet but three separate dual meets. Bowdoin entries are as follows: horizontal bars, Dana and Peabody; parallel bars, Colton and Davies, Capt. Short; rope climb, Clark, Cushman, and Thomas; side horse, Dana, Davies, and Leavitt; rings, Colton, Eaton, Leavitt; tumbling, Short, Thomas and Watson.

Athletics—During the last week of February in 1906, Bowdoin found itself busy with several events of importance, including an attack on the Athletic policy by the Maine Campus. The offending editorial attacks Bowdoin for not surrendering its athletic administration to the Maine Intercollegiate Arbitration Board.

Activities—The Glee Club and the Mandolin and Guitar Club plan a concert trip to include preparatory and high schools in several of the cities in Massachusetts.

men up on the hill are doing just that. (A grown man jumps up and down on his seat, and a mother of fourteen children, including an attack on the Athletic policy in more house). If I ain't honest, and you ain't honest, it's something that ain't got no business to come up in this here meeting. You know I ain't going to run this town, and we can get along all right without having some educated man tell us how it's done. Education is all right in its place, but we don't need it here in town meetings.

Mr. Edwards continued now and then, and when he sat down the firemen started a pumper going to carry away the tears shed on the floor. Patriotism swelled so high that men swallowed hard to keep from bawling, and the women lost complete control of themselves. Women do that in Brunswick, even the educated ones. When the vote was taken the educated people refrained from indicating their desires, being so humbled by the eloquence of the fire hydrant number one, and not desiring to let on that they knew a thing about this town children in the back of the hall voted with both hands, and Mr. Edwards won the day. He was immediately given three new positions, which he assumed modestly, and he promised to make another speech next year.

Always Noticed
But Never Notice-ble

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative

PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity Trade

574 Congress Street

Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers

SOULE and WALKER

JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD

We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store

Watch Repairing

By An Experienced Watchmaker

Shaffer Pens for College Men

103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"

"The College Jeweler"

Diamonds and Watches

Fine Repairing and Engraving

141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S

Candy and Ice Cream

74 MAINE STREET

TUFTS COLLEGE
DENTAL SCHOOL

Founded 1887

COLLEGE men—prepare for a profession of dentistry, opportunity for advancement, search has enlarged the scope of every phase of dentistry. The field demands more than ever before, men and women of ability, backed by superior training. Such training Tufts Dental School offers to its students. School opens on September 30, 1931. Our catalog may guide you in choosing your career. For information address—

Dr. WILLIAM RICE, Dean

416 Huntington Avenue Boston, Mass.

Have you chosen
your life work?

In the field of health service the Harvard University Dental School—the oldest dental school connected with any university in the United States—offers a course in dentistry. All modern equipment for practical work under supervision of men back in the profession. Write for details and admission requirements to Lewis M. S. Minor, Dean

HARVARD UNIVERSITY

DENTAL SCHOOL

Dept. 70, Longwood Ave., Boston, Mass.

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

VOL. LX.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 11, 1931.

NO. 26

POLAR BEAR SWIM TEAM DEFEATS B. U.

Bowdoin Takes Second Dual Meet Victory of Year
at Boston

GUYETTE WINS THREE EVENTS FOR TERRIERS

Densmore and Easton Star for Bowdoin Winning Both Breast and Back Stroke Respectively

After tasting defeat all season, the White nators finally crashed through to win the final dual meet of the year. Boston University was the team which Bowdoin so successfully submerged. The last team which Bowdoin defeated was M. I. T. on January 17, and so victory must taste exceedingly well to the Millers. The score of the meet last Saturday was 35-27. It was anybody's meet right up to the final gun. At the 200 yard relay race, the meet was knotted at 27 all, Bowdoin, swimming one of the fastest relays of the season, managed to win it in the fast time of 2 minutes, 48 3/5 seconds. This spurt gave the team eight points which brought the score to 35 to 27 in favor of the Bowdoinites.

Guyette Stars
George Guyette, ace of the B.U. team was easily the star of the meet when he took first places in the 50, 100, and 440 yard dash for a total of 15 points. Densmore and Easton starred for Bowdoin by taking the breaststroke and the backstroke respectively.

The summary:
50 yard dash—Guyette, B.U., first; Bowman, B., second; Saunders, B.U., third. Time, 26 1/5 seconds.
440 yard swim—Guyette, B.U., first; Howard, B., second; Durham, B., third. Time, 6 minutes, 13 2/5 seconds.
Diving—Clem, B.U., first; Motley, B.U., second; Carpenter, B., third.
150 yard backstroke—Easton B., first; Eaton, B., second; Houton, B.U., third. Time, 2 minutes, 1 3/5 seconds.
200 yard breaststroke—Densmore, B., first; Sperry, B., second; Bannister, B.U., third. Time, 2 minutes, 51 3/5 seconds.
100 yard dash—Guyette, B.U., first; Smith, B., second; Hartford, B.U., third. Time, 59 2/5 seconds.
200 yard relay—Won by Bowdoin, (Esson, Howard, Bowman, Smith), time, 2 minutes, 48 2/5 seconds.

MUSICAL CLUBS SING AT LOCAL THEATRE

Accomplished and Varied Performance Offered to Enthusiastic Audiences

Brunswick's Cumberland Theatre offered a refreshing variety to its customary cinematic program when the Bowdoin College songsters and musicians appeared on the stage during the Monday and Tuesday performances. The entertainment presented consisted mainly of numbers used in the University Club of Boston program a week ago.

Thirty singers, comprising the college glee club, and twenty musicians offered several operatic medleys. The combined clubs first presented selected Bowdoin songs to the audience: "Rise Sons of Bowdoin," and "We'll Sing to Old Bowdoin."

Instrumental music was next the order of the evening when the musicians offered several operatic medleys. Following this the Glee Club sang two classical selections, interspersed by an incidental solo by Alfred W. Tarbell '32.

Male Quartet Appears
After the musicians had again provided a number from "Nina Rosa," the Male Quartet rendered three songs, "Jolly Fellows," by Rhys-Herbert, "Swabian Folk Song," and "Viking Song." Three Glee Club presentations followed, "Feasting I Watched," by Elgar; "Song of the Sea," Stebbins; and "Song of Fellowship."

Spirited renditions of two famous Bowdoin songs, "Bowdoin Beats" and "Old Chit" by the combined organizations concluded the clubs' program.

WILLIAM M. EMERY '98 TO SPEAK HERE SOON

William M. Emery of the class of 1898 will give an illustrated lecture on Longfellow's "Wayside Inn," Saturday, March 21, at 8 o'clock, in the Moulton Union lecture room before the Pejepsect Historical Society and guests. One hundred lantern slides will be shown, and in the treatment of the theme, history, romance, poetry and art will be pleasingly interwoven. Mr. Emery is on the staff of the Boston Transcript and a member of the Board of Overseers of the College.

GHANDI'S INFLUENCE IN INDIA DISCUSSED BY SHERWOOD EDDY

Soviet Russia is Subject of Talk at Evening Session

A graphic picture of Mahatma Ghandi's life and a penetrating analysis of his philosophy were given in a talk by Sherwood Eddy in Chapel last Sunday. Dr. Eddy's speech was of particular interest because he had met Ghandi in person often in his Indian work and had spent a considerable amount of time talking with him.

Dr. Eddy is a forceful and dynamic speaker whose wide experience and high ideals have made him very prominent in social work. Dr. Eddy is a graduate of Yale and holds honorary degrees from that institution and from Wooster. From 1895 to 1911 he worked in India as national secretary with the Y.M.C.A. and in 1911 he was appointed secretary for Asia. From 1915 to 1917 he served as a Y.M.C.A. worker with the British army but transferred in 1917 to the American forces. He is the author of a large number of books on social questions including "Facing the Crisis" and "New Challenges to Faith." His latest book is on Soviet Russia and is entitled "The Russian Challenge." Last January, on his sixtieth birthday, Dr. Eddy resigned from the Y.M.C.A. to take up the fight for social justice in America.

Quotes from Sermon on the Mount
Dr. Eddy opened his sermon with a message from the Sermon on the Mount: "Ye have heard that it hath been said, an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth; but I say unto you, whoever shall smite you on thy right cheek, turn him the other also." Mahatma Ghandi illustrates this passage and principle.

During the past year or so, I have

WELL KNOWN PIANIST TO GIVE RECITAL HERE

Frederic Tillotson to Play Long Program Next Tuesday

Tuesday, March 17, Mr. Frederic Tillotson will give a piano recital at Memorial Hall. Mr. Tillotson has played here before and was enthusiastically received. He has recently played with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The program will be as follows:
Four Pieces for the Clavier
Three Part Invention, G minor

Ariette Leonardo Leo
Sonata C minor Scarlatti
Cat's Pique
Intermezzo B minor
Rhapsody E major
Six Moments Musicaux Schubert
Etude D minor Scriabine
Valse in G
Nocturne in C minor Chopin
Insects Leo Livens
Minstrels Debussy
Impromptu F major Faure
El Albaicin Albeniz

PROFESSOR GROSS TO SPEAK HERE TONIGHT

Game Birds to be Subject of Illustrated Lecture

This evening in the Moulton Union at 8:15 Professor Alfred O. Gross will speak on "Game Birds." Prof. Gross's lecture about the feathered tribes will emphasize the presence of the game birds and the danger of their becoming extinct. He intends to mention also the passenger pigeon. The passenger pigeon was exterminated in 1915 when the last one of the family was killed at Bar Harbor. Mr. Gross, an ardent naturalist, says that he is planning a trip to Labrador next summer to watch animal life with Thornton W. Burgess. His trips in search of material of interest to ornithologists are many. Recently he has been to Wisconsin to study the prairie chicken; tomorrow he will show some movies taken by himself of this bird and its haunts. Illustrating his story with slides and movies he is to tell about the heath hen which since colonial days has been well known from the Carolinas to Maine. Now, however, there is only one heath hen in existence; this bird is living at large on Martha's Vineyard. The ruffed grouse has been spared by the government to preserve the lineage of this old bird, but all efforts have failed, and the last heath hen now keeps undisputed his home on the island.

An active correspondence is kept up with sportsmen everywhere who since 1925 have sent to Bowdoin hundreds of specimens of ruffed grouse for the examination of diseases and parasites. The ruffed grouse become first prolific then exiguous in periodic cycles. This fluctuation is hard to check or account for, and through a constant survey of that poultry affection known as Blackhead Prof. Gross is trying to save the ruffed grouse from all risk of becoming scarce.

We Break Silence

On Sunday, the Athletic Council met and refused to take action on the student petition for the reconsideration of the resignation of Ben Houser. So far, the ORIENT has tried to show the Athletic Council the "handwriting on the wall" and hoped that they would be able to read between the lines of our defense of Ben Houser a vast criticism of the whole tendency of the new Bowdoin athletic policy. We gave them a chance to clear themselves. They merely maintained a silence that was as incriminating as an open admission of guilt. We too had been silent on many features of this abominable business—and we sincerely regret that we were such so long. Had we been less dignified and more violent, perhaps the result would have been different.

The time has come for each and every student in Bowdoin College to know the facts, and we submit them herewith. This affair has not been settled. It has grown larger until it now embraces the entire athletic policy of the College. This small group of influential alumni have gained virtual control of our athletics. Will this mean subsidizing of Bowdoin teams and proselyting of the athletics of a college whose record has always been of the best, or shall we, the students, faculty, and those many alumni who have not entered into the spirit of high-pressure athletics, oppose a solid front to this alumni tyranny?

Meeting Held Saturday

Let us consider the facts in this case. Last Saturday, Mr. Harvey D. Gibson, Chairman of the Athletic Council, came to Brunswick. He met with the undergraduate members of the Athletic Council for some two hours, during which time the general situation was discussed. The large and imposing total of seven undergraduates was present—illustrating to what a large extent these representatives of ours are interested in the rights of their constituency. By a vote of four to three of the undergraduates present, it was decided that the Athletic Council meet, discuss and reconsider the so-called resignation of Ben Houser. This vote occurred after a long period of discussion, and was the direct result of a sudden move by the Chairman to have new athletic plans adopted.

Saturday afternoon, the members of the Athletic Council were informed that there would be a meeting of the Council on Sunday at five p. m.; and the meeting was held. The so-called resignation of Ben Houser was brought up at this meeting, and nothing was done about it—it stands as announced.

The New Plan

Then and there a new plan for athletics was adopted, but this plan is to be kept SECRET. WHY? It all seems to be a game, the object of which is to keep everyone except the Powers That Be in the dark about what goes on. Since when has it been universal custom to play hide-and-seek with our athletic policy? But, although the ORIENT has been denied access to the details of this plan, it is very evident that it provides for GREATER alumni control in athletics. The secrecy becomes more offensive when we learn that the student members of the Council, who are our representatives, who speak for us, seem pledged to silence with regard to anything that goes on in meeting.

The work of certain student representatives who from the beginning have done everything possible to retain Houser is no less praiseworthy because their work has gone for naught. The names of Crimmins, Souther, Ricker, Colton and McLaughlin should be closely identified with the "Lost Cause": the retention of Houser. This group expressed its opinion on the matter honestly and fearlessly.

Let us turn historian for a few moments. There was no written constitution of the Athletic Council, at least none that the Director of Athletics knew anything about, from 1912, when the Council first organized, until last June, when in the hurly-burly of Commencement, the present constitution was foisted upon the student body.

Furthermore, this increased alumni control has become very evident lately—perhaps as a result of a certain alumni move at the conclusion of the 1929 football season which was blocked by the faculty and the students. At any rate, after this failure of athletics, alumni control has become increasingly stronger until it now approaches absolute control as a limit.

The Constitution of the Athletic Council is a significant document. Few of the undergraduates have realized that by mental lassitude in allowing the acceptance of this constitution, our hand in our own athletic activities has been signed away. This is no exaggeration, as a perusal of the document itself will prove. Of course, we grant that on two occasions the students have been informed of the new provisos regarding the hiring and firing of coaches—but these two occasions were prior to the appearance of the constitution in writing. Moreover, as usual, the undergraduates were asleep. At the first meeting of the Athletic Council this fall the constitution was read through to the undergraduate members, who did not see the trap therein and subscribed to it. All this makes our stand sound much like crying over spilt milk. It is not that! It is a definite appeal for the restoration of some definite rights to that part of the College which is most logically the part to exercise them—the students.

Houser's Hand Forced

The net result of this move was that a small group of alumni, whose views do not represent those of the alumni body any more than they do the views of the students, gained almost absolute control. Consequently, in the December meeting of the Council, the Houser business came to a head. Houser did not resign—his hand was forced! No explanation was to be had from these alumni regarding the affair. And here is another instance of an incriminating silence: By forcing Houser's hand and thus summarily dismissing a loyal servant of the College, they have acted in an extremely high-handed fashion. And here we have another characteristic inconsistency. According to one source of information, the alumni have avoided the machinery of their own toy: the constitution of the Athletic Council. This document provides that the dismissal of a coach shall be passed upon by both President Sills

(Continued on Page 2)

BROWN PLACES SECOND IN I.C.A.A.A. AS WORLD MARK IS ESTABLISHED

Bowdoin Mile Relay Team Smashes Former Mark for Distance

A world record and seven intercollegiate marks were broken in the tenth annual indoor I.C.A.A.A. meet last Saturday in the 102nd Engineers' Armory, New York City. The University of Pennsylvania's great team won first place easily with thirty eight and one tenth points. The high lights of the meet from the Bowdoin point of view were Dwight Brown's weight lifting, which brought four points to the White, and the running of the mile relay team, whose time of 3:28.2 smashes the Bowdoin indoor record over the distance.

"Doc" Brown's performance with the 35 pound weight was remarkable. Although beaten by Red Steiner's record breaking heave of 64 feet, 9 inches, Brownie swung the ball out farther than 50 feet on four occasions. His best distance, 52 feet, 5 inches, was very close to Fred Tootell's throw of 52 feet, 9 1/2 inches, which won the event at the I.C.A.A.A. games of 1923.

The Polar Bear relay stepped into a very fast heat, being forced to run with Pennsylvania, Georgetown, and Princeton. Unable to qualify for the finals, the boys nevertheless set up a new indoor record for Bowdoin's mile relay team, which was set at Sid Foster led off with a 51.2 leg, followed by Creighton Gatchell, Donald Briggs, and Harry Thistlewaite in that order. Their time was 3 minutes, 28.2 seconds. Pennsylvania's great quartet broke the world record, setting a mark of 3 minutes, 17.8 seconds.

Charlie Stanwood did very well in the 70 yard high hurdles. After

(Continued on page 4)

WEBER ELECTED CLASS OF 1934 PRESIDENT

Sumner is Vice-President and Carl A. Ackerman Secretary-Treasurer

Carl F. A. Weber was elected president of his class at the Freshman Class elections which were held in Memorial Hall on Thursday evening, March 5. Thurston B. Sumner was elected vice president, and Carl A. Ackerman secretary and treasurer.

Weber, whose home is in South Philadelphia, attended the high school before entering Bowdoin where he was outstanding, having been Senior Class president and Salutatorian. Since he has been here he has been prominent in undergraduate activities. He is the only Freshman straight A man; recently he won the Freshman public speaking prize, and is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. Sumner's home is in Somerville, Massachusetts, where he attended Somerville High school and was vice president of his class. During this year at Bowdoin he played on the Freshman hockey squad and plays the trap for the "Polar Bears" and is trying out for assistant manager of baseball. He belongs to the Delta Upsilon fraternity. Ackerman lives in Swampscott, Massachusetts. Prior to coming to Bowdoin he attended Thayer Academy, Braintree, Massachusetts. During the fall he was guard on the Freshman football squad, and at the present time he is out for track. He is a member of Theta Delta Chi.

VOCATION PROGRAM PRESENTS SPEAKERS FROM VARIED FIELD

Shipping, Law, Publishing, Electric Power and College Teaching Discussed

This morning and afternoon, the annual Vocational Day program of the college was conducted in the Assembly room of the Moulton Union. Various speakers representing leading vocations appeared before the student audience to discuss the merits and other aspects of their professions. Some of the speakers later interviewed members of the student body.

The first period from 9:30 to 9:50 was devoted to a discussion of Shipping. Albert T. Gould '08, Boston Admiralty, led this meeting. From 9:50 to 10:30 a.m. Albert Marshall Jones '08 of Boston gave an address on the vocation of Publishing. Mr. Jones is at present head of the Marshall Jones Company of Boston, a book publishing concern. Mr. Jones has also had a career in education having served as principal of the High school at Cornish, Me., the Home School in Billerica, Mass., and the Perkins Institute for the Blind in Boston.

Before taking up his present work, Mr. Jones was a manager in the publishing company of Dodd, Mead and Co., Boston.

The third speaker on the program was Robert W. Adams, manager of the Central Station, General Electric Company, Boston, Mass. He discussed the vocation of "Electric Power."

At 11:30, Professor Herbert Clifford Bell, Professor of History at Wesley-

(Continued on page 3)

TRACK TAKES FOREGROUND THIS WEEK

Interfraternity Meet Friday to be Interesting Contest

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON AND ZETA PSI CLOSE

Much Outstanding Individual Work Expected in Thirteenth Annual Affair

On Friday evening the Thirteenth Annual Interfraternity Track Meet will get under way at the Sargent Gymnasium. The competition will be perhaps a bit more keen than in the past few years with Delta Kappa Epsilon and Zeta Psi slated to fight a fierce duel for top honors. The former has won this meet for two successive years now, while the latter has a winning record which it would like to see regained. The meet, which is the biggest athletic event of the winter season here, will find a spirited group of freshmen to press the competition. Allen, Alpha Delta Phi, will be well worth watching in his first real competition against the veterans. Others who will play a prominent part among the freshmen will be Larsen, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Appleton and Ambler, Psi Upsilon, and Burton, Delta Upsilon.

No definite changes have been announced as to how the meet will be run off, but it is expected that the medley relay will be run as has been the custom of the past two years, with the first man running the 440, the second the 220, the third the half mile, and the anchor man will finish with the mile. Field events will be run off in the afternoon as usual in order that there may be the least possible delay in running off the meet in the evening. At night the order of events will be the 40 yard dash, trial heats, mile run, followed by the semi final and final heats of the dash, the 440 yard run, the 45 yard low hurdles, trials and finals; 880 yard run and finally the two mile run.

There will be numerous individual events which will receive considerable attention. The 440 yard run with Foster, Thistlewaite and Gatchell as the outstanding entrants should be watched carefully for it is a good chance of a new record being established, breaking the old one of 52 seconds set by Yancey, Beta. With "Doc" Brown, T.D., heaving the 35 pound weight over 52 feet last Saturday in the I.C.A.A. meet in New

(Continued on Page 4)

WOMEN CROSS SWORDS WITH MEN IN DEBATE

Swarthmore Faces Bowdoin to Discuss "Emergence of Women"

Hammer and tongs argument held the rostrum of Memorial Hall last Friday night when the masculine side of the human race, forcefully represented by Bowdoin debaters, endeavored to prove to the feminine element, championed by Swarthmore College, that "the emergence of women from the home is a regrettable feature of modern life." The spirited rive and take of the four contenders provided rare entertainment for the audience, though no decision was announced.

Both representatives from the Pennsylvania women's institution, which is approximately correlative to Bowdoin in size, held forth arguments that the modern business woman is merely filling a long-felt need by entering upon economic affairs. The opposition, consisting of Norman von Rosenberg and Paula A. Walker, contended the reverse, declaring that emergence of women would ultimately break up the entire social structure of the world.

Miss Mary E. Betts, and her colleague, Miss Margaret Zabrickie, were as firmly linked together by the bonds of their sex in debating this question as were the Bowdoin men. The whole question revolved itself into a consideration of modern domestic life on one hand, as compared to what it may become if women continue to be active in the business world.

TWO ONE ACT PLAYS GIVEN AT BANGOR

Short Stories Adapted for Stage by Wallace M. True and Fred R.
Kleibacker

Last Friday, March 6, the Masque and Gown presented two one act plays to a crowded audience at Bangor. Before the plays, twelve of the sixteen Bowdoin men participating were guests of the Penobscot County Bowdoin Club at dinner in the Penobscot Exchange.

The first of the two plays was presented at 8:15 p.m. The name of it was the "Three Strangers", adapted from Hardy's play of the same name, by Wallace Morse True '31. The cast was as follows:
Shepherd Fennel, Walter Hinkley '34
New Albert Tarbell '32
Giles Frederick Burton '34
First Stranger Robert Ecke '31

(Continued on page 5)

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Associate Editors

George T. Sewall '32

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
G. Russell Booth

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

William N. Small '31
John L. Snider '31
Philip T. Walters '32

Reporters

NICHOLAS BASHKIROFF
JAMES E. BASSETT
RAYMOND BROWN, JR.
ALEXANDER P. CLARK
HAROLD H. EVERETT
JAMES C. FREEMAN

JAMES E. GUPPILL
ROGER S. HALL
RICHARD C. MANDEVILLE
JOHN MORRIS
J. ERNEST MUILEN
CARL G. OLSON

JOHN M. SINCLAIR

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $2.50 per year (including Alumnius) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editor for This Issue

George T. Sewall '32

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, March 11, 1931.

No. 26

We Break Silence

(Continued from Page 1)

and Malcolm Morrell. It is alleged that neither of these men were consulted. If this is so, then the knavish trick played on Houser was merely camouflaged by the statement that Ben had resigned. Queer resignation! And then we hear from an equally reliable source that both were consulted! It sounds like most excellent fence-sitting! And the fact that no explanations whatsoever were made to a coach who has done his best for Bowdoin for some fifteen years ought to make these alumni respect themselves highly! "Fair play and may the best man win!" More rubbish, apparently. Quite in accord with what this new athletic policy will probably make out of the College — an institution where tramp athletes may spend pleasant years, unhampered by either financial or scholastic worries so long as they proceed to win track meets or football games for dear old Alma Mater. A fine picture, is it not?

It is decidedly pertinent to the entire discussion to note that the football team was dealt with from the monetary point of view with a lavish hand. Whereas the hockey team was practically destitute. The football team had the advantages of a training camp. Had this most significant form of football "over-emphasis" been provided by the College we are quite positive its tune would be less in harmony with the Alumni Athletic policy which Bowdoin is now adopting. The hockey team equipment was to a great extent "hand-me-downs" from last season, or equipment which the football team had not seen fit to use. On trips the Coach was forced to keep his squad to a bare minimum. More often than not he dipped into his own pocket to bridge the gap in the expense account. And this is another glittering example of the ideals which this college is so proud in fostering!

It is interesting to mention here that the Great Ones also tried to dispense with the services of Roland Cobb and Bob Miller. They struck a stonewall apparently here, although the ORIENT knows nothing of the details. Clearly, a big program was on foot to organize the athletic department all over again with but one idea — winning teams.

And harking back to the so-called resignation of Ben Houser once again, the alumni actions smack suspiciously of the aforementioned large and powerful nigger in the woodpile when we state that the undergraduate members of the Athletic Council were asked to leave the meeting before the big business of the day, the firing of Houser, was brought up. Shades of Boss Tweed! Never, perhaps, has such an exhibition of rank political method been perpetrated in the history of the College.

We should be thankful for one thing, however. Namely, that after the horse has been stolen, we are going to lock the door! That is, from now on "the student members of the Athletic Council shall be present throughout all meetings of the Council, even when the Council is considering matters on which student members have no vote." This leads us to ask why the students should have no vote on any subject brought up for discussion.

Alumni Council Letters

Of course, all this builds up no very ennobling case for the alumni members involved. But it is the statements of two of these men which most incriminate and dishonor them in their stand. We refer, of course, to the letters published in the last issue of the ORIENT. Messrs. Crowley and Gibson have presented two very nice-sounding cases in defense of their actions, but unhappily, THEIR CASES DO NOT AGREE. Mr. Crowley professes an ignorance of deeper motives involved that almost approaches the naive, whereas Mr. Gibson tells us in a paternal fashion that "all is for the best in the best of possible worlds" — in other words, that Houser's resignation was asked as a result of a careful and well-laid plan to improve athletics at Bowdoin. Mr. Gibson speaks in a tone of sorrow — he has been misunderstood, as have the other members of the Council. We suggest to Mr. Gibson that he might not have been thus misunderstood had he come out and stated just what lay at the bottom of all these proceedings. But he did not! Mr. Crowley's sublime ignorance of the attendant facts and his professed sympathy with our point of view almost makes us yonder if Mr. Gibson could have come forth with his "plan". When two stories should coincide and do not, we all know what conclusion is the logical one to draw. We should say that it will take a very large amount of fence-sitting — even more than has been done thus far — to explain away the inconsistencies between these two "explanations". Neither has yet answered the one question we asked: "Why did Houser resign?"

The Alumni Send Petitions

On top of the letters from Mr. Crowley and Mr. Gibson, we have heard of two alumni petitions, one which was circulated among the Portland Alumni and one that went the rounds down Boston way. We are sorely tempted to publish the list of names of the men signing, for these alumni represent practically every field of activity — they give us a true cross-section of the alumni attitude, an attitude which, as we have said, the alumni on the Athletic Council do not represent. The Boston petition contains a most significant line — which practically sums up the case. "... the Council has not acted in accordance with the sentiment of either the alumni or the athletic body". We might also add that it does not represent the sentiment of the faculty. Quoting from the letter of Bradley P. Howes '28, which accompanied our copy of the Boston petition, "There are one hundred and three signatures. I feel that this is a very representative group as the men who have signed have all come in contact with Ben. Included in the group are three football captains, one football manager, two track managers, four hockey captains, one hockey manager, one baseball captain, two baseball managers, two editors-in-chief of the ORIENT, twenty-five letter men, four captains of minor sports, several assistant managers and a number of high-ranking students. From the many men I have come in contact with I feel that if it were possible and I had the time, I could have gotten many more signatures. More than 85% of the group known as the Boston Graduate Students Alumni Association have signed the petition."

Add to these, the results of our own petition and we have a definite indication that this is no minor cause. The entire athletic policy of the College is now at stake. It is no longer a question of Ben Houser. We fought for Houser for reasons both of policy and of sentiment. We apparently have lost out there. But let us get down to policy now.

The Impending Danger

There is a new plan afoot. Quite patently, it will bring alumni control of athletics into an even more absolute degree. It is rumored that a man will be obtained from either the New York Rangers or the Boston Bruins to coach hockey, and that some assistant coach from Harvard is to take over the duties of baseball coach. Coach Bowser is to head the coaching staff. We are surely getting organized — and for what? Why, Bowdoin is to make her place in the athletic sun; our alumni are going to be able to strut into their clubs or their business offices and loudly proclaim that Bowdoin trounced another college in football. But will that be true? No, of course it will not. The Great God Cash is about to take up his empire over our athletics, apparently. And how will those of us who like to play on various athletic teams relish the idea of being superseded by the inevitable "mercenaries"?

Penn Plan Considered

And at practically the same time that the alumni are adopting a new plan which intends to strengthen their control, certain members of the faculty are considering the Penn Plan in its various aspects. This plan, as you know, provides for a faculty control of athletics and raises the status of the athletic department to that of any other in the college. In many ways, the Penn Plan would prove the antithesis of the present situation, but we are not sure that this would prove a remedy.

It is hardly the place of the ORIENT to judge between the two

WHEN YOU have worn yourself out from braving the elements...

DROP IN AT THE SPA

and regain your spirit and pep

IT SATISFIES

plans, but we feel, and feel strongly, that some compromise between the two would be the answer to a situation already complicated by too much alumni control. In this compromise plan, the undergraduates must be given a voice. In fact, we feel that the undergraduates and faculty, since they are more directly in touch with the College than are the alumni, should have the majority vote on questions pertaining to athletics. As it stands now, we are burdened with excessive alumni control. Our situation is approximately five years behind the times, and what is worse, we are heading in the WRONG direction — unless the Penn Plan or some modification of the Penn Plan goes through. We accuse the College of over-emphasis of athletics!

Fight Not Yet Won

The issue at stake is far from settled by the alumni action in assuring us that our representatives may be allowed to sit through meetings of the Athletic Council. Our representatives should be allowed a vote on matters such as these which vitally affect the interests of the student body. Any plan which does not provide for more complete student participation in athletic administration will not suffice. If our representatives have no vote on important matters of athletic policy, we might as well cease to elect members to that body.

In conclusion, then, the ORIENT feels that the rights of the undergraduates have been shamefully neglected in this whole affair, and far from merely bewailing the fact, we herewith present our case that it may not happen again. We have not been wholly without blame in all this; when we should have been most alert, we have slept soundly, trusting implicitly in those higher up to care for our interests. From now on let us wake up, or rather, let us make our representatives on Student and Athletic Councils wake up. We should have a voice in the athletic policy of the College, and let us get it! It is only through student and faculty control, local control, that is, that Bowdoin's athletics will be insured against professionalization in the future. And that state is one which every one of us should help avoid.

Saturday, March 7, at eight thirty o'clock, Prof. Charles Gray gave another of his interesting readings in the main lounge of the Moulton Union. This time Professor Gray chose as his subject a short story by Sherwood Anderson, and a selection by Arnold Bennett. From the works of the former,

Professor Gray selected "Meeting at South" and "Mary with a High Hand" was his choice of a work by Arnold Bennett. As Professor Gray is not yet sure whether he will be able to give the customary reading next Saturday evening, a definite announcement will be made during the week.

HARMON'S

USHER IN THE SPRING OF 1931

WITH THE SMARTEST OF GENTLEMEN'S APPAREL

We are proud of our presentation of fine apparel for this spring of 1931... Proud of the assemblage of fabrics, colors and models, definitely new and nationally accepted among a distinguished and discriminating clientele. Harmon's invite you to see for yourself this first Spring Showing!

HARMON'S
INCORPORATED

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - March 11th
DONT BET ON WOMEN
- with -
Edmund Lowe-Jeanette MacDonald
Pictorial - Spotlight - Travelogue

Thursday - March 12th
OTIS SKINNER
- in -
KISMET
Comedy Sound Act

Friday - March 13th
- VAUDEVILLE -
- on the screen -
KISS ME AGAIN
- with -
Bernice Claire - Walter Pidgeon
also Paramount News

Saturday - March 14th
FATHER'S SON
- with -
Lewis Stone - Irene Rich
Mickey Bennett
Comedy Sound Act

Monday-Tuesday - March 16th-17th
THE MAN WHO CAME BACK
- with -
Janet Gaynor - Charles Farrell
News - Sound Act - Screen Song

TWO ONE ACT PLAYS
GIVEN AT BANGOR

(Continued from Page 1)

Second Stranger John Fay '34
Third Stranger, Harold H. Everett '34
Constable Robert Hayden '34
Coach, Robert Ecke
The second one-act play was entitled "Durga." This was adapted by Fred R. Kleibacker, Jr., '31, from Kipling's "At the End of the Passage." Its characters: Hummil, an assistant engineer James P. Blunt '31
Spurston, a doctor Frank Carpenter '32
Mottram, an agent of the India survey Eliot Smith '33
Lowndes, an agent of the Civil Service John Ricker '32
Chuma, a servant H. Schuyler Bradt, Jr., '33
Coach, Fred R. Kleibacker, Jr.

Following the two plays, a dance was given, with music by Perley Reynolds' Orchestra.
Al Madeira '33 and Henry P. Van de Bogert '34 deserve honorable mention for their creditable management of the stage. Dana Lovell '32, Business Manager of the Masque and Gown, made all necessary arrangements for the trip.
Much interest has been shown in the Exhibition of Contemporary Art which has been on view at the Walker Art Building for the past two weeks. The exhibit, sponsored by the College Art Association, has attracted the attention of numerous visitors both within and outside the college. Oil paintings, watercolors, prints, and drawings, conservative and modern comprised the exhibit.

LE TARTE'S -:- STUDIO

ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHS
and FRAMES

Tondread Block - Brunswick, Maine

USED MOTORCYCLES

from $60.00 up - Guns taken in trade

LIVERNOS CYCLE & GUN STORE
95 Maine Street

The Ideal Hotel for You
In BOSTON
is the NEW
Hotel MANGER

At North Station
Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot
and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS
Each Room equipped with Tub and
Shower & Built-in Radio Speaker
(Three Station Service) & Servidor
Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Moderately
Equipped and Perfectly
Appointed Hotel
Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster
Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH
FOR ONE—$2.50, 3.50, 5.50, 6.50
FOR TWO—$4.00, 5.00, 6.00, 7.00
No Higher Rates

WANTED

A Bowdoin Student who wants to help defray his expenses while attending college.

A clothing line highly recommended by other colleges. Free training by experienced clothing men.

Apply at Office of Business Manager - Moulton Union and interview will be arranged

J. H. Boon, Sales Mgr., Edwards
Tailoring Co., Inc., Fairfield, Me.

Houser Resignation to Stand—Athletic Council

Following a meeting of the Bowdoin College Athletic Council held Sunday afternoon the secretary, Boyd W. Bartlett, sent the following letter to Arthur L. Crimmins, president of the Bowdoin College Student Council, in reply to the protest of the undergraduates against the acceptance of the resignation of Ben Houser, veteran baseball and hockey coach:

"The Athletic Council desires to make it clear to you and to the signers of the petition that it has accepted Mr. Houser's resignation in view of a reorganization which is being effected in the Athletic Department of the College. The council believes this reorganization will result in a necessary financial saving to the college, and eventually in a more efficient operation of the department. For this reason the council feels that it is not justified in reconsidering Mr. Houser's resignation.

"The council takes this opportunity to express its sincere appreciation of Mr. Houser's service to the college, which has been long and faithful. It also wishes to congratulate the students on their loyalty to Mr. Houser, which is a splendid tribute to him, and on their earnest desire to promote the best interests of the college."

Writing in reply Mr. Crimmins in behalf of the undergraduates stated: "I submit to the undergraduates of Bowdoin College the reply to our petition for the reconsideration of Mr. Houser's resignation.

"We are convinced of the validity of the reasons given by the Athletic Council for its acceptance and rec-

INTERSCHOLASTICS A FEATURE THIS WEEK

This week end the Campus will be over run with three hundred aspirants for the championship of the Bowdoin Interscholastic Track Meet. These boys will be the representatives of the various high schools and preparatory schools in New England. The interscholastic meet has been held here for the past few years, and it has always been a great success. This year, however, it gives promise of being the best of all the past ones. There is only one real difference between this year's meet and those of previous years and that is that the meet is to be divided into two divisions instead of one. The first is to include the preparatory schools which have entered and the other is to have the high schools. The advantage of this new system over the old is evident. Under the old plan the medium sized high schools had little or no chance to win a place in the meet for the preparatory schools usually take all the places. Now that there has been a division between the two, there will undoubtedly be a much more spirited meet. The meet will be held Saturday afternoon and evening, the day after the interfraternity meet.

Signer of the petition of economy which was the basis of their action. I wish to thank the Athletic Council for their expression of appreciation for Ben Houser's services."

Arthur L. Crimmins, President
Bowdoin College Student Council

Many Prizes to be Awarded

A trophy will be awarded to each division winner. In addition to this there will be a horde of individual trophies given. Prominent among these will be a silver cup to be given the individual who gets the greatest number of points. There is also a cup given by the Portland Evening Express to the relay team of some Maine school which covers the distance in the fastest time.

The preparatory schools which are entered are as follows: New Prep, Bridgton, Coburn Classical, Dummer Academy, Fryeburg, Hebron, Huntington, Kents Hill, Maine Central Institute, St. Johns, and Wassookag. The following high schools are entered: Brunswick, Camden, Cony, Crosby, Fairhaven, Lisbon, Lynn Classical, Morse, New Hampton Prep, Skowhegan, Deering, South Portland, Portland, Waterville, Thornton, and Wilton Academy.

Huntington and Portland Favored in Divisions

Huntington has managed to win the meet for three years out of the past six, and they should again repeat their victory. If they do win the meet, it will not be a walk away score, for Bridgton and New Prep will be close on their heels. Among the high schools, Portland and South Portland will be in the limelight. Portland will enter the meet the favorite, through its victory in the Four-Cornered meet with South Portland, Deering and Thornton. The winners of the meet since 1925 have been: 1925, Phillips Exeter Academy; 1926, Huntington; 1927, Medford High School; 1928, Huntington; 1929, Newark Prep; 1930, Huntington.

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

We Have a Few Portable Typewriters Which Have Been Rented Once or Twice, Which We Are Selling at Reduced Prices. This Chance Does Not Come Often.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

VOCATIONAL DAY
PRESENTS SPEAKERS FROM VARIED FIELD

(Continued from Page 1)

An University spoke on "College Teaching." Professor Bell has had a wide experience in college teaching. After graduating from the University of Toronto, Dr. Bell studied in Paris and in the University of Pennsylvania. He then served as an instructor in history at the University of Wisconsin. From 1912 to 1926, he was a professor of history at Bowdoin and then in the latter year, transferred to Wesleyan.

At 1.30 the Pulp and Paper Industry was the subject for discussion. Edgar S. Catlin, General Manager of the Peapack Paper Company here in Brunswick gave a splendid talk on this topic.

The last talk of the program was given by Edward J. Berman '20 of Portland who discussed the profession of "Law." After graduating from Bowdoin Mr. Berman attended the Harvard Law School from which he received his law degree. He practiced law for a time at Lewiston and then transferred to Portland where he is now a member of the firm of Berman and Berman.

Vocational Day at Bowdoin has been a regular feature of the college for about five years. Some colleges such as Dartmouth and Rollins give regular courses in vocations but Bowdoin's system may be said to be a very adequate substitute especially as it gives the entire student body a chance to profit by the vocational lecturers. The program of Vocational Day was in charge of the Placement Committee of the Alumni Council which includes Albert T. Gould '08 of Boston, chairman, Professor Philip W. Meserve '11, Donald W. Philbrick '17 of Portland and Frank A. Farrington '27 of Augusta.

Why we spend $2,000,000 to put CAMEL cigarettes in the new HUMIDOR PACK

WE have been in the tobacco business a long time down here at Winston-Salem and we take a lot of pride in the quality of the cigarettes we make.

While we have spent a good many million dollars advertising Camels, we've always held to the old fashioned idea that the thing that really counts is what we put into our cigarette and not what we say about it.

If we know anything about tobacco, and we think we do, Camels contain the choicest Turkish and the mellowest, ripest domestic leaves that money can buy.

In fact we have every reason to be proud of the quality of Camels as they come from the factory, but the remark of an old friend of ours from Denver some time ago emphasized a point that has been the problem of the cigarette industry for years.

As he inhaled the smoke from a Camel we gave him in our offices one morning, he sighed with very evident enjoyment and then asked jokingly, "What is this, a special blend reserved for Camel executives?"

"Certainly not," we told him. "This package of Camels was bought at the corner store this morning."

"Well," he said, "I've been a dyed in the wool Camel smoker for a good many years, but upon my soul I never got a cigarette as good as this in Denver. If you would give the rest of the world the kind of Camels you sell here in Winston-Salem, you ought to have all the cigarette business there is."

THAT statement simply emphasized again the cigarette industry's most important problem. The more we thought about it, the surer we were that he was dead right, and that somehow, something must be done.

Denver wasn't getting a fair break. Neither in fact was any other town. The only people who really knew how good Camels could be, were the folks right here in Winston-Salem.

That was due to a factor no cigarette manufacturer had ever been able to control.

Naturally there is no difference whatever in the quality of the tobacco in Camels, whether you buy them in Winston-Salem, Denver or Timbuctoo. But up to now there has been a very real difference in the condition of the cigarettes by the time they reached the smoker.

The flavor and mildness of fine tobacco depend upon the retention of its natural, not added, moisture content which is prime at about ten per cent.

In spite of our great pains always to make sure Camels left the factory with just the right amount of natural moisture, no cigarette package had ever yet been designed that could prevent that precious moisture from drying out.

THERE are three things about a cigarette that can sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat.

- (1) Cheap tobacco.
- (2) Particles of peppery dust left in the tobacco because of inefficient cleaning methods.
- (3) A parched dry condition of the tobacco due to loss of natural moisture by overheating or evaporation.

Always certain of the quality of our tobaccos we had already made Camel a "dustless" cigarette by the use of a specially designed vacuum cleaning apparatus exclusive with our factory.

Now, if we could perfect a package that would actually act as a humidifier and retain the natural moisture content, then Yuma, Arizona, could enjoy Camels as much as we do here at Winston-Salem.

We knew what we wanted. We tried many things. We asked the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory to help us.

After many experiments and humidity tests covering all methods of packing cigarettes came the detailed report of which this is the net:

(A) No existing cigarette package, including those wrapped in glassine paper or ordinary cellophane, gives anything like adequate protection against evaporation.

(B) All cigarettes so packed tend to dry out rapidly from the day they are released from the factory.

(C) Only a waterproof material with a specially devised air-tight seal could give the desired protection.

(D) This measure, while costly, could be relied on to keep Camels in prime condition for at least three months in any climate.

If you have a technical bent, the graph below made by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory will show you the exact results of their exhaustive study.

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory Report No. 150473 Jan. 12, 1931

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition.

YOU may be sure we gave this report a lot of careful study. We checked it and re-checked it and then we went ahead. We tried this device and that. At last we met success. The air-tight wrapping involved the designing of special processes, special machines.

That costs a lot of money, more than $2,000,000 the first year, but after you have tried Camels packed this modern new way we are sure you will agree it is a fine investment.

For some time now every Camel that has left our factory has gone out in this new Humidor Pack.

We have said nothing about it until now, to make sure your dealer would be able to supply you when the good news came out.

Camel smokers of course have already discovered that their favorite cigarette is better and milder now than ever before.

If you aren't a Camel smoker, try them just to see what a difference there really is between harsh, dried out tobacco and a properly conditioned cigarette.

You can feel the difference, you can hear the difference and you certainly can taste the difference.

Of course we're prejudiced.

We always have believed that Camel is the world's best cigarette.

Now we know it.

Just treat yourself to Camels in the new Humidor Pack and see if you don't agree.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY
Winston-Salem, N. C.

ANTIQUITY SHOP

Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 242-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

PRINTING

STUART & CLEMENT
Town Building

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim

Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?'

Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES

Telephone 435-436

BROWN PLACES SECOND IN I. C. A. A. A. MEET

(Continued from Page 1)

qualifying in a trial heat and two semi-final heats, Charlie was nosed out in the third heat of the semi-finals. The competition included the best collegiate hurdlers of the East. Eugene Record of Harvard won in 8.7 seconds.

Carl Coan of Pennsylvania defeated Bullwinkle of C.C.N.Y., in the mile run, making a new intercollegiate indoor record of 4:15.2. Larry Usher's good work for Bowdoin was smothered by the exceptional competition.

Coach Jack Magee was quite contented with the work of his charges. In his own words: "The team showed excellent improvement and I was satisfied with the performance of every man".

SWIMMING TEAM GOES TO MIDDLETOWN FOR NEW ENGLAND MEET

Brown, Springfield and Worcester Will Show Stiff Competition to White Navigators

Bowdoin will end its swimming season this Saturday when five men will represent the College in the New England Swimming meet in Middletown, Conn. The team will be composed of Bowman, Easton, Smith, Densmore and Sperry. Bob Miller stated that he expected the meet to be very close, with the scores very evenly divided. Other than Brown, Springfield and Worcester Tech, he said that Bowdoin would have a good chance of finishing among the leaders.

The 200 yard breast-stroke will probably be a three cornered race between Densmore, Emerson of Worcester, and Chamberlain of Wesleyan. Emerson is favored to win the event, but Densmore is liable to turn the tables and finish the season undefeated. Easton has been showing such improvement in the last few weeks that he is favored to place in the 150 yard back-stroke. Art Sperry and Bowman are entered in the 300 yard dash and the medley. They have only been defeated once this year and stand a very good chance of winning the events. The trials for the meet are this Friday evening, while the finals will take place on Saturday afternoon.

On Sunday, March 15th, Rev. Mr. Robbins Wolcott Barstow of Madison, Wisconsin will speak in chapel. Rev. Mr. Barstow received his doctor's degree from Ripon College, Ripon, Wis., in 1926 and the same degree from Dartmouth two years later. His experiences have been widely varied and what he has to say should be of interest. Until the war he served in various ecclesiastical posts in both the East and West. He was the chaplain of the 81st Artillery during the war and also of the 8th Ammunition. Rev. Mr. Barstow wrote two books in 1928, "Modern Perplexities" and "Getting Acquainted with God". In the morning Rev. Mr. Barstow will speak at the First Parish Church, and then here during the regular chapel hour.

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:

With regards to the article "Recital of Native Music is Given by Exchange Student" which appeared in the last week issue of the Orient I would like to mention a few things which might make the suggested three types of Hungarian folk music somewhat clearer.

There are three distinct types of Hungarian folk-music: the gypsy, the Kurucz, and that of the unknown folk-tunes collected and edited a twenty years ago by Bela Bartok and Zoltan Kodaly, both of them professors of composition in the Music Academy of Budapest.

The gypsy music takes its origin from the widely known folk tunes played by an orchestra of gypsy musicians generally containing two violins, a viola, a fiddle, a "cimbalom" (the ancestor of the piano) and a Clarinetto in B. These orchestras are the standard types of interpreters of Hungarian music, playing well known tunes of folk origin, and those compositions of certain mostly amateur composers in folk manner where the authorship is never investigated. The foreigner has mostly the chance to hear this music when visiting Hungary.

The "Kurucz" songs are from the late seventeenth century. Most of them are camp or marching songs collected and partly composed by two Hungarian noblemen Bihari Janos and Lavotta Janos, both of them living in the XVIIIth century. This music is interpreted, too, by the gypsy bands. The fairly known collection of the real Hungarian folk tunes found in the smallest villages of 100 or 200 inhabitants, is still the delicatessen of music loving people, because of their modern harmonization of Bela Bartok and Zoltan Kodaly. These two famous modern composers based their compositions upon folk tunes as Schubert and Schumann in the German music, or Burns and Longfellow in poetry.

The gypsy music is characterized, including the "Kurucz" songs of the XVIIIth century, by the use of the harmonic minor scale the seventh being always an augmented second. The most famous representatives of the gypsy music are Liszt in his "Hungarian rhapsodies", Brahms in his "Hungarian dances", and "Berlioz" of the "Kurucz" songs in his "Rakoczi Overture".

In the collection of Bartok and Kodaly we very frequently find the use of the natural minor scale. Bartok's "String quartets" and Kodaly's "Psalms Hunzariensis" embody the character of the most valuable of Hungarian folk-music.

George L. Lam '31.

President Barstow of the Hartford Theological Seminary will meet Dr. Goodrich's class Sunday, March 15, at twelve-fifteen at the Union. The meeting will be in the B. C. A. room. President Barstow will also be the speaker at Sunday chapel.

Friday, March 6, a meeting of the Nominating Committee of the Alumni Council was held at Boston. Wednesday, March 11, a meeting of the Franklin County Alumni Association will be held in Farmington, Maine. President Sills will be present.

GHANDI'S INFLUENCE IN INDIA DISCUSSED BY SHERWOOD EDDY

(Continued from Page 1)

seen two great experiments, one in Russia aiming to achieve social justice by violence and the other in India where Ghandi was trying to obtain justice and liberty by non-violent means. In speaking to Ghandi after one of his weekly twenty-four hour periods of complete silence, I was surprised to find in him a vein of the agnostic and rationalist. I also found in him much of the mystic. He prays twice a day for half an hour, at four o'clock in the morning and at seven-thirty in the evening. He allows nothing to interfere with this custom not even congresses and political crises. He is furthermore a man of extremely simple habits. Although he does the work of ten men he eats only a little rice and a bowl of goat's milk three times a day. His character seems to be a composite of a Buddha, a Saint Francis Assisi, and a modern English lawyer.

A Forceful Leader

Ghandi has a great hold upon the Indian people. Tens of thousands flock to see him. In fact during his lifetime he has had an influence over more people than any other religious leader, more than Confucius, Christ or Mohammed. Last week at 3 a. m. this feeble old man weighing less than one hundred pounds strode out of the marble palace of the Viceroy of India to walk six miles through the rain to the humble dwelling of his relatives. This simple man had just won from the great British Empire the rights for which he had fought, which include the right to picket opium shops and to boycott English cloth. What is the source of this man's power? It lies in a communion with God and in affection. He believes in returning evil with good and hatred with love. He had won his struggle with the mighty British Empire not through violence but through love.

Conducts Forum on Russia

In the evening Dr. Eddy spoke in the Lounge of the Moulton Union on Russia. He described the Five Year Plan and its agricultural and industrial phases. He pointed out that the greatest evil in modern Russia was its lack of liberty. The Russian constitution provides for freedom but the government does not always enforce it. In the case of religion for example, it allows freedom of worship to most sects, but sends to Siberia any outstanding ministers. The greatest good in Russia is the Communist feeling for social justice. If American liberty could be combined with Russian social justice an almost Utopian state would result.

After his speech, Dr. Eddy answered questions on the condition of women, on marriage, and on motivation in Russia.

Word has recently been received here that Paul E. Everett '32, who is spending the year at the Sorbonne in Paris as a member of the Foreign Study Group sponsored by the University of Delaware, ranked among the highest ten of the group of about sixty men in the first half year.

TRACK TAKES FOREGROUND
THIS WEEK

(Continued from Page 1)

York, we may be ready to expect the record of Fred Tootell '23, Sigma Nu, of 51 feet, 6 1-2 inches to fall. Allen, Alpha Delta and Stanwood, Deke, and with the possibility of McLaughlin, Zeta, donning his track shoes once again ought to provide plenty of thrills in the hurdles and dash.

The outcome of the Deke-Zeta duel will depend a great deal on the reinforcement which the freshmen are able to give. The Deke team will be made up of Stanwood, Johnson, Emmons, Barbour, Hayes, and Briggs, in the running events while Kleibacker and Johnson will try to gather points in the field events. To augment this group Larson and Gray of '34 will help increase the number of points.

The Zetas are counting on McLaughlin, Thistlewaite, Wingate, and Gatchell in the dash and hurdles. Donworth will compete in the mile, while Thistlewaite and Gatchell are expected to play a prominent part in the outcome of the half mile. Appleton will no doubt take the high jump. Waite and Reid are the freshman representatives on the team.

Allen Will Be Watched
Psi Upsilon's strength lies mainly in its ability to gather points in the mile and two mile. Sewall will be out to force Usher while Steve Lavender ought to be counted on to figure prominently in the scoring of the two mile. Last year Lavender took a second with Whitcomb first. Usher took third, four yards behind the Psi U. distance man. John Milliken will enter the broad jump while Pollock will take part in the weight events. Ambler and Appleton will try to add a few additional points to the score of the garnet and gold.

Charlie Allen will have to do most of the scoring for Alpha Delta Phi to put them in the running, although Cushman should place in the pole vault and running high jump. Larry Usher will be the mainstay in the D. U. machine, running the mile and two mile races. Kappa Sigma will depend on Cobb in the mile and two mile, Olsen in the 16 pound shot put, and discuss throw. Theta Delta Chi will have Doc Gabraith capturing the 35 pound hammer throw without any trouble. Madeira will probably compete in the shot put. The Chi Psi's headliner will be Del Galbraith in the hammer throw. Packard and Skillings will be other members of the team. The strength of the Betas lies in the ability of Sid Foster to gather points in the 440 yard dash and 880 yard run.

It is quite apparent that this year finds few well-balanced teams but numerous individual stars who will be well worth watching. It is impossible to determine how many records will be broken but suffice it to say that such keen competition in the various events is bound to bring forth changes in the Interfraternity track records.

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE

Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —

Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY

JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KATWOODIE PIPES

Florence P. Merriman

Shampoos - Scalp Treatment
Manicures and Chiropody

114 Maine St., cor. Cumberland St.

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the facilities of

THE RECORD PRESS

are at your service. Tel. 3

Let us estimate on your next job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work done in this shop.

Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

BRISK Clothing which is custom tailored to your individual measure, has that distinctive touch which always marks the wearer as well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative

PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity
Trade

574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers

SOULE and WALKER

JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD

We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store

Watch Repairing

By An Experienced Watchmaker
Shaffer Pens for College Men
103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"

"The College Jeweler"

Diamonds and Watches
Fine Repairing and Engraving
141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S

Candy and Ice Cream
74 MAINE STREET

TUFTS COLLEGE
DENTAL SCHOOL

Founded 1887

COLLEGE men—prepare for a profession of widening interest and opportunity. Recent research has enlarged the scope of every phase of dentistry. The field demands, more than ever before, men and women of ability, backed by superior training. Such training Tufts College Dental School offers to its students. School opens on September 30, 1931. Our catalog may guide you in choosing your career. For information address—

Dr. WILLIAM RICH, Dean
416 Huntington Avenue Boston, Mass.

Have you chosen
your life work?

In your field of health service the Harvard University Dental School—the oldest dental school connected with any university in the United States—offers thorough well-balanced courses in all branches of dentistry. All modern equipment for practical work under supervision of men who are in the profession. Write for details and admission requirements to Leroy M. S. Miner, Dean
HARVARD UNIVERSITY
DENTAL SCHOOL
Dept. 79, Longwood Ave., Boston, Mass.

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

?

is one of these cigarettes longer than the other—or do your eyes deceive you?

YOUR EYES MAY FOOL YOU
BUT
YOUR TASTE tells the Truth!

MILDER...AND BETTER TASTE

They Satisfy

COLLEGE
MAR 19 1931
BRUNSWICK, MAINE

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

VOL. LX. WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1931. NO. 27

Huntington School and Portland Victorious in Interscholastic Meet

Records Fall as Three Hundred Academy and High School Trackmen Compete in Annual Affair

KEEN COMPETITION IN BOTH DIVISIONS

With well balanced teams Huntington school and Portland High swept through to victory in their respective divisions last Saturday afternoon in the nineteenth annual Bowdoin Interscholastic. Over three hundred athletes competed in the meet and during the course of the afternoon some sparkling performances were turned in. The High School trackmen managed to break one record and equal another while the Prep School fliers sent two marks by the boards and were par in with two others.

A flashy array of sprinters and a crimson hatched high jumper from St. John's Prep provided some stiff competition for Huntington. The latter school managed to pick up 4-1.3 points, scoring in all but two events while the Danvers boys amassed 31-5-6. In the other class Portland with a total of 26 led her South Portland rival by four points. Lynn Classical was third in this division with 16-3-4, while Deering High accumulated 12-3-4 tallies for fourth position.

Tom Unisake, Huntington's ace, turned in two splendid performances in the course of the afternoon. The long, ambling stride of this lad gave him an easy victory in the final of the 600. His time of one minute sixteen four-fifths seconds was only one and three-fifths seconds behind the record set by Bloor of Newark Prep two years ago. Later, running the mile, Unisake again outdistanced his field turning in another victory.

Sandler, former Lowell High school jumper and now preparing at St. John's, leaped sensationally to win the high jump at six feet, one inch and thereby breaking the existing record by two inches. The other Prep school record to fall was in the 1000 where Black of Kent Hill clipped a fifth of a second off the previous best by turning in the event in two minutes twenty-four seconds.

Niblock of Lynn Classical pushed out the twelve pound iron pellet forty-nine feet 5-8 inches to set another mark in the High School class. Good of South Portland was the outstanding performer in this division and led everyone in scoring with eleven points. These he garnered by winning the 300, high hurdles and running on the "Capers" relay which turned in the second fastest time.

Leo of Cony High school defeated a fast field in the forty to win that event. He also annexed third in the 300. Coombs, South Portland flier, sped away from the field in the 1000 for a victory in two minutes twenty-eight and four-fifths seconds. This will go down as a record on the books; for there was no official mark previous to this.

The following are the point scores in the Prep School division: Huntington 4-1-3, St. John's Prep 31-5-6, Hebron 10-1-2, West Portland 10, Bridgton 9-3-3, Kent Hill 9, Colburn 7-1-2, Governor Dummer Academy 3, New Hampton Prep 3 and Maine Central Institute 1. In the High School division: Portland 26, South Portland 22, Lynn Classical 16-3-4, Fairhaven 16, Deering 12-3-4, Cony 9, Waterville 6, Morse 5-1-4, Lisbon 3, Brunswick 2-3-4, Skowhegan 2, Wilton Academy 1 and Crosby 1.

RESULTS

Prep School Division
40 yard dash—Won by McCardle, St. John's; second, Kersey, Huntington; third, Duff, St. John's; fourth, Carey, St. John's. Time, 4-3-5 seconds.
45 yard high hurdles—Won by Dolan, Colburn; second, Lill, St. John's; third, Sandler, St. John's; fourth, Rowan, Huntington. Time, 6-1-5 second. (Qualifying record).

(Continued on Page 4)

SPRINGFIELD TEAM DEFEATS GYMNASIS

Colton, Leavitt, Cushman, and Clark Place for Bowdoin

Last Saturday, March 14, the gym team was defeated by the Springfield College gymnasts at Springfield, 43-11. Colton, by taking second place on the rings and third on the parallel bars was the star of the home team. Leavitt won second place on the beam. Cushman in the rope climb won another second place while Clark took third place in the same event. The best teamwork of the Bowdoin men was done on the horizontal bar. Captain Short, a sure punt winner, being very ill on the afternoon of the meet failed to place although he performed.

The following men made the trip: Bowman, Bradt, Clark, Colton, Cushman, Dana, Davies, Eaton, Leavitt, Peabody, Short, and Thomas. On March 28th the New England Juniors Amateur gym meet will be held in the M. I. T. gymnasium in Boston. There will be seven men making the trip. They are as follows: Bowman, Colton, Davies, Eaton, Leavitt, Peabody and Short.

ACHORN WILL CREATE NEW SCHOLARSHIPS

Two Other Amounts Left—One for Expense of Flying American Flag

In the will of Edgar O. Achorn '81, who died recently in Florida, Bowdoin has been named the beneficiary of a portion of his $160,000 estate. Other bequests of large amounts center around educational and religious institutions found in various parts of the country.

A total of three funds have been left to Bowdoin. The first one provides for the care and expense of flying the American flag over the college each day it is in session. A sum of $1,500 was left for this and a provision made for the use of any surplus in buying books for the library.

The second fund is to be known as the Edgar O. Achorn Prize and the income from the $1,200 of the fund is to be used in awarding prizes to the winners of the annual freshman-sophomore debate. Should this be discontinued, the said income shall go to the freshman or sophomore who produces the best essay on "Chapel Exercises, Their Place at Bowdoin," or any other subject relating to the place of religion in a liberal education.

The third and last fund of $10,000 is to be used in providing one or more scholarships to be known as the Clara Rundlett Achorn Scholarships. In honor of the testator's mother. The scholarships are to go to worthy, needy students, preference to be given to students from Lincoln Academy.

The Zeta Psi Chapter has been bequeathed $500 of the estate. Other institutions which are to benefit from the will are Lincoln Academy, the Second Congregational Church of New Castle, the Siddomphry Library Association, the Survivors of Harlow Dunbar Post 57, G.A.R. of Damariscotta, the Neighborhood House of Jamaica Plain, Mass., and Lincoln Memorial University of Cumberland Gap, Tenn.

SPERRY ESTABLISHES RECORD IN MEDLEY

Swimmers Show Improvement at New England

Arthur Sperry of Bowdoin twice lowered the record for the medley swim in competition at the New England Swimming Association's annual meet, held last Friday and Saturday in the Wesleyan University pool. Other records to fall were the marks in the medley relay, the 160-yard backstroke, and the 160-yard relay. Springfield relay team made a new association record of 3 minutes 16-2-5 seconds. White of Brown lowered the 160-yard backstroke time to 1 minute, 44-3-5 seconds, and swam also with the Brown 160-yard relay team, winning 1 minute 17-3-5 seconds for the distance bettered the record.

Springfield piled up 24 1/2 points in winning the New England crown, and Brown was close behind with 23. Other scores were Worcester Polytechnic, 16; Wesleyan, 14; Williams 13; Bowdoin, 9, and Amherst, 7.

STATEMENT BY THE ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The ORIENT board has asked me as Secretary of the Athletic Council to correct certain statements of fact, appearing in their editorial in the March 11th issue under the title "We Break Silence", upon which they were misinformed. In what follows I shall endeavor to indicate matters of fact incorrectly stated in the editorial, and to make clear in so far as possible what the facts actually are. In some cases these mistakes are trivial, but in others they carry implications of a derogatory nature which it is highly important to correct.

In the opening paragraph of the editorial it is stated that "the Athletic Council met and refused to take action on the resignation of Ben Houser." This statement is somewhat ambiguous, the Athletic Council most certainly considered the student petition, and replied to it through my letter of March 10th to the President of the Student Council.

In the third paragraph the statement appears that Mr. Gibson "met with the undergraduate members of the Athletic Council for some two hours." This, of course, should be the Student Council and not the Athletic Council. At the end of the same paragraph the statement "this vote occurred after a long period of discussion" is made. While this is true, a sudden move by the Chairman (Mr. Gibson) to have new athletic plans adopted, is absolutely incorrect in so far as it refers to a "sudden move by the Chairman to have new athletic plans adopted." The plans referred to consisting of a reorganization of the Athletic Department, were approved

ROBERT FROST WILL GIVE READINGS SOON

Hopes to Create Interest in Poetry Among Many Students

A second visit of New England's own poet, Robert Frost, is expected next Monday. Mr. Frost was here in 1925 to speak to the Institute of Modern Literature, where his presence was a seed of literary interest in the hearts of the students. Mr. Frost, who received an honorary literary degree in the class of 1926, will give readings of his poems in Memorial Hall on Monday evening. On Tuesday evening he will meet informally the students who are interested in verse.

Mr. Frost was born in San Francisco and came East when he was quite a young boy. After graduating from Lawrence High school he tried studying at Dartmouth and at Harvard, but not unlike the happy-go-lucky and whimsical Walt Whitman he became bored with all routine. He received praise from New Hampshire school boards for his school teaching he did after he left college. He lived on a farm from 1901 until 1912 when he went to England with his wife and family.

It was while he was near London that the New Englander wrote his first accepted works. Again like Walt Whitman's work, Frost's poems and his book, "A Boy's Will," received more attention in the foreign country than at home. In 1915 he returned to America where he wrote "Mountain Interval," following which he went to Amherst College to teach.

From the time of this last publication until 1923 his manuscript lay sterile. Always at leisure, he wrote only when stirred to do so. His pencil was never clocked or calculated to turn out Edgar Guest quotians. His fourth book, "New Hampshire," won the Pulitzer Prize for the best volume of American poetry published in 1923. He was invited to spend some time at the University of Michigan where he was not required to teach but only to create an interest in literature.

FOURTEEN RECEIVE LETTERS IN HOCKEY

Bilodeau Elected Captain and Merrill Manager for Next Year

At a recent meeting of the Athletic Council, the following men were awarded their hockey letters: Captain Herbert Rose '31, B. S. Dwyer '31, B. W. Bates '31, G. H. Souther '31, R. Perry '31, C. C. Bilodeau '32, M. MacLachlan '32, D. D. Sloan '32, D. A. Stockman '32, T. H. Kimball '33, J. C. Rosenfeld '33, W. H. Lowell, Jr. '33, H. W. Richardson '34. Manager R. C. Van Varley '32 was also awarded his letter. John B. Merrill '33 was elected next year's manager, while Charlie Bilodeau was elected as the Captain of the 1932 team. In the election of the manager, the letter men have one vote, the captain, coach, and manager one vote and the Student Council one vote.

Next year the prospects for a good team are very promising. There will be eight letter men back and this should be a fine nucleus around which to build a team. In addition to these letter men there will be this year's freshman team. In Dakin, Godfrey, Pickard, McKenney, and Massey alone, there is the making of a team, and all of them should show up well.

Delta Kappa Epsilon Wins Interfraternity Track Meet by Defeating Zetes

Stanwood Takes Frank N. Whittier Cup as High Point Scorer—Usher Smashes Two Distance Records

ZETA PSI VICTORIOUS IN CLOSE RELAY

REV. R. W. BARSTOW SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

Theological Seminary Here Chooses Text "Wings and Wheels"

"Wings and Wheels" was the subject of the Reverend Mr. Robin Wolcott Barstow's talk in chapel last Sunday, in which he discussed the conflict between things material and things spiritual. The Rev. Mr. Barstow, a graduate of Dartmouth College, is now president of the Hartford Theological Seminary to which he recently came from Madison, Wisconsin.

The text of his talk was taken from one of the books of the prophets, and his main point was that the best life is that which hears and heeds the sound of wings over against the sound of wheels. In opening his talk he said that he was boldly lifting the phrase out of its own setting and applying it broadly, with his own interpretation, to life. The words, he said, are symbolical of the ever present and perpetual contrast and conflict, the life of things spiritual against things material. As John Oxenham, the English writer, said, "Not by size do we measure men or things." Another modern English writer, commenting on America, said in contrast to this idea, that instrumentalism is outstanding in American life. Americans think in terms of tools.

Lumber or Beauty?

Mr. Barstow was standing one day on the shores of Lake Winnepesaukee. It was glorious fall and the hills opposite were riotous with color. One of the two men standing beside him, realizing the immensity of it all, said, "Isn't that beautiful?" The second man said, "Yes, it ought to cut sixty million feet." His companion, full of the sawdust of his mill that he couldn't see the beauty in it. We all ask, as he did, how much? how many? Instead we should ask whether? and why? and to what purpose?

A Zulu girl who was visiting Mr. Barstow's sister asked, "What do you Americans do with all the time you save?" We are annihilating space, making technological development, but we need more than technology. The architect must have all the details and pages of calculations to build his church, but he must also picture it completed, a thing of beauty and utility. Someone has described us as a group of biological cells, neurological fibers, and bio-chemistry reactions, but if so, we also have certain integrations and control, total personality that transcends this.

Contrast in Colleges

Two or three years ago the president of the University of Wisconsin talked about wheels and wings but not in those very words. He said that in an organization like the university there were two groups, and contrasted in the catalogue, buildings, laboratories, volumes in the library, glee clubs, athletic teams, but beyond these wheels there must be the wings, the spirit.

(Continued on page 3)

TILLOTSON OFFERS PLEASING VARIETY IN PIANO RECITAL

Classical Numbers Predominate in Program Rendered with Fine Interpretation

Mr. Frederic J. Tillotson, noted Boston pianist, entertained an appreciative audience last night in Memorial Hall. Mr. Tillotson, who has played at Bowdoin before, rendered an unusually pleasing variety of classical numbers. Bach's Three Part Invention, Six Moments Musicals, by Schubert, Chopin's Nocturne in C minor, and Debussy's Minstrel represented the works of the more famous composers, while compositions of Albeniz, Faure, Leonardo Leo, Livenis, Scarlatti and Scriabin rounded out the program. Mr. Tillotson, who has earned a wide reputation, having recently played with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, rendered each number with his best artistic interpretation.

TO LECTURE SOON ON WAYSIDE INN

Longfellow's "Wayside Inn" will be the subject of William M. Emery's lecture here, illustrated with one hundred lantern slides. Mr. Emery, of the class of ninety-eight, is a member of the editorial staff of the Boston Transcript and President of the Bowdoin Alumni Association of Boston, as well as a member of the Board of Overseers. His lecture, to be given in the Auditorium at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 21, is under the auspices of the Pejepscot Historical Society of Brunswick.

Delta Kappa Epsilon's powerful track machine, scoring in all but one event, swept the interfraternity boards last Friday night to pile up 61 points in a meet which witnessed the shattering of four Bowdoin records. Zeta Psi, thirteen points behind the victors, drew an easy second.

First in both hurdles and the high jump, as well as places in the dash and broad jump, gave Charlie Stanwood, lean Deke junior, high scoring honors for the meet with eighteen counters. His vertical leap, 18-16 of an inch under an even six feet, shaded the former record of 5 feet, 10-3-4 inches. Larry Usher, Delta Upsilon mainstay, smashed two distance records when he hurled himself across the tape to take a bitterly contested 880 in 2:01; and then he led the pack over the line, completing the mile in 4:32.3.

Bettering the standing record by three seconds, the Zete medley relay quartet took first in 7:49.4 minutes. Their anchor man, Thistlewaite, profiting by the twenty yard lead earned for him by his teammates, set a fast pace for Usher of D.U. and Lavender, Psi U., who were closing in on him.

The slim leader held his diminishing advantage until the last lap, when Usher started a furious sprint for the lead. Lavender, weakening, dropped behind to an easy third. Thistlewaite and Usher reached the second turn neck and neck, with the D.U. runner holding the outside; even at the last bend, swinging wide, Usher managed to stay with the flying Zete. The last thirty yards saw a desperate battle, with Thistlewaite nosing out the D.U. contender by a scant foot.

Betas Had Two-Man Team

Sid Ricker and his lone teammate, Jit Koster, led off the Beta Theta Pi quartet by taking first and fourth in the dash, in 4.3 seconds. Johnson, Deke, drew second place, while McLaughlin, staging a brilliant come-back on the cinders, came through for third.

The Varsity captain repeated his win as he took the lead in the 440 at the gun, and held the advantage, despite the efforts of Thistlewaite and Gatchell, both Zetes, to overtake him. Hickok, Sigma Nu, and Gray, Deke freshman quartet across the chalk for fourth and fifth places.

Topping the high timers in 6 seconds flat, Stanwood breasted the tape for first, with McLaughlin, back at his old work for the first time since last Spring, when he was forced to abandon running, coming in a close second. Diminutive Jit Ricker, Beta, sped close to McLaughlin's heels for third.

Usher Breaks Mile Record

Larry Usher sprinted to the lead in the start of the mile, leading the huge entry which soon settled down to a steady pace behind him. Sewall, Psi U., followed in the leader's traces, with Cobb, Kappa Sig, in close third position.

At the half mile the trio's places were practically unchanged, all three holding a substantial lead over the pack, led by Ambler, Psi U. frosh ace. As Usher entered his eleventh lap, he lengthened his stride, and slowly pulled away from Sewall and Cobb; in the last circling he increased his lead to fifteen yards, and flashed over the tape for a new record of 4:32.3 minutes. Sewall and Cobb, meanwhile, Burton pursued him across the line.

(Continued on page 4)

TWO LOWER CLASSES COMPETE IN TRACK

Result of Closing Event of Indoor Season is Questionable

With the Fraternity Meet and Interscholastics over, the next big track event will be the annual freshman-sophomore meet, which will be run off this coming Saturday afternoon and will bring to a close the indoor track season.

Although the freshmen have an extremely well-balanced team, the sophomores have some outstanding performers who can be counted on to take several first places. "Milt" Hickok and Gordon Brown are expected to do things in the dashes for the 1933 team. Skillings, Walker and Allen are the best freshman bets. McLaughlin, State champion in the hurdles, is scheduled to take this event, although Charlie Allen may surprise. Briggs '33, Manning '33 and Gray '34, should fight it out in the 600. The freshmen with Ambler, Burton, Perkins and Tibbets seem to predominate in the sprints, and Marshall Davis and Roger Lowell are best of the Sophomores. Thurman Larson '34 should come through with a first in the shot followed closely by Haskell '33. The high jump seems to be a toss-up between Mifflin '33, Gerdson '33, Kahill '34, Odde '34 and Porter '34.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McMenamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

Associate Editors

George T. Sewall '32

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
G. Russell Booth

Contributing Editors

John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

Reporters

NICHOLAS BASHKIROFF
JAMES E. BASSETT
RAYMOND BROWN, JR.
ALEXANDER F. CLARK
HAROLD H. EVERETT
JAMES C. FREEMAN

WILLIAM N. SMALL '31
JOHN L. SNIDER '31
PHILIP T. WALTERS '32
JAMES E. GUPTILL
ROGER S. HALL
RICHARD C. MANDEVILLE
JOHN MORRIS
J. ERNEST MULLEN
CARL G. OLSON

JOHN M. SINCLAIR

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College.
All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial column; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $2.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.
Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editors for This Issue

Robert L. M. Ahern '33

G. Russell Booth '33

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, March 18, 1931.

No. 27

Post Mortem

In last week's editorial, we discover that we used as actual fact information given us as such by sources then considered trustworthy. From these pseudo-facts, we find that in certain instances we have drawn conclusions and imputed motives that are groundless. We regret this exceedingly, and in the interests of truth we have requested Professor Bartlett to draw up a statement of these errors for the ORIENT. This statement we publish in another column of this paper. We cannot do otherwise than sincerely regret their existence, especially insofar as they apply to personalities, such as the members of the Athletic Council. We feel, however, that we have acted in good faith in the matter on information then believed to be authoritative.

Furthermore, through outside agencies, in no way connected with the ORIENT Board, the letter of Professor Bartlett to the President of the Student Council concerning Houser's resignation was sadly mutilated. We were unable to rectify this blunder till too late, but print herewith the text of the letter in full.

Moreover, quite apparently, in the tempest, some of our points have missed their marks. We should like to take this opportunity to correct certain erroneous impressions which somehow have evolved from last week's editorial. In the first place, may we say that no faculty member either wrote or inspired any part of "We Break Silence". There have been an assortment of rumors brought to our ears as to who was responsible for various parts of it, but not one of them is true. The ORIENT Board, and the Board alone, is responsible. And while we are on the subject, might we add that our editorial was not the hasty composition of a frantic half hour, but was rather the result of a long period of investigation, from sources then believed reliable.

Secondly, we regret exceedingly that through a hasty and careless scanning of the editorial, some conclude that we are antagonistic to the present coaching staff. No such thought, we feel certain, ever entered the mind of any board member. We have every reason to consider Bowser and Magee the excellent coaches they are. Furthermore, we fail to understand whence comes the deduction that we look with disfavor on the idea of a winning Bowdoin team. We should like to see nothing better, provided it is obtained in accordance with matters of policy not opposed to this Bowdoin tradition, which it is alleged we have violated.

Thirdly, we regret exceedingly that certain newspapers saw fit to magnify the questions of policy at stake and to sensationalize the views set forth in the editorial. Like the majority of the undergraduates, they failed to read the editorial closely, and hence they inferred from it much more than we intended.

However, the foregoing by no means makes us any the less convinced that what we need here at Bowdoin is more local and less alumni control. We see in the Penn Plan, or some modification thereof, a possible solution. It may not be the only feasible one; it may need a great deal of modification to fit conditions here at Bowdoin. Possibly the more desirable solution may be found by the granting of full voting privileges to the undergraduate members of the Athletic Council. Under the present system, it would be far too easy for one faction to gain control (by the simple expedient of five votes to three) of the athletic policies of the College. Cut down the number of student votes, if necessary, to maintain a more equal distribution of power, but let us, as Bowdoin undergraduates, have a definite say in matters pertaining to the athletics of Bowdoin College.

Communication

March 9, 1931.

Mr. A. L. Crimmins
President, Bowdoin College Student Council
Brunswick, Maine.

Dear Sir:—
The Athletic Council acknowledges receipt of your letter of February 12th and the petition of the students regarding the resignation of Mr. Ben Houser as coach of baseball and hockey.

The Athletic Council desires to make it clear to you and to the signers of the petition that it has accepted Mr. Houser's resignation in view of a reorganization which is being effected in the Athletic Department of the College. The council believes this reorganization will result in a necessary financial saving to the college, and eventually in a more efficient operation of the department. For this reason the council feels that it is not justified in reconsidering Mr. Houser's resignation.

The council takes this opportunity to express its sincere appreciation of

Mr. Houser's service to the college, which has been long and faithful. It also wishes to congratulate the students on their loyalty to Mr. Houser, which is a splendid tribute to him, and on their earnest desire to promote the best interests of the college.
For the information of the student body the council wishes me to state that at its last meeting the following resolution was adopted unanimously: "It is the sense of this meeting that Section V-B of the constitution of the Athletic Council shall be interpreted to mean that the student members of the council shall be present throughout all meetings of the council, even when the council is considering matters on which student members have no vote."

For the Athletic Council,

Very truly yours,

BOYD W. BARTLETT,
Secretary.

A large tract of land has been purchased in Florida where Yale will breed anthropoid apes for psychological investigations.

Athletic Council Statement

(Continued from Page 1)

student members of the Athletic Council as part of the minutes of the previous meeting, and they were given full opportunity to discuss it. It was considered by all, including the student members, undesirable to publish details of the reorganization, until certain arrangements having nothing to do with Mr. Houser had been completed. Further on "But although the Orient has been denied access to the details of this plan, it is very evident that it provides for greater alumni control in athletics". This statement is absurd, for the plan under discussion is simply a reorganization within the Athletic Department, and under the Director of Athletics, and has nothing to do with the control of athletics by the alumni or anyone else outside the department.

Two paragraphs later there is this statement: "There was no written constitution of the Athletic Council, at least none that the Director of Athletics knew anything about, from 1912, when the council was first organized, until last June". I have before me a pamphlet printed in 1912 which contains the Constitution of the Athletic Council of Bowdoin College.
Under the heading "Houser's Hand Forced" appears the statement: "Consequently in the December meeting of the council the Houser business came to a head". The only meeting of the council in December was one at which only routine business was transacted, and Mr. Houser's case was not discussed at all. Under this same heading rumors are quoted which imply that the Athletic Council has been acting unconstitutionally. As secretary of that organization I can vouch for the constitutionality of the procedure which it has followed, as attested by the minutes of its various meetings. In regard to the statement "And the fact that no explanations whatsoever were made to a coach who has done his best for Bowdoin for some 15 years ought to make these alumni respect themselves highly" I call attention to the Constitution of the Athletic Council, which provides that coaches are engaged and dismissed by the Director of Athletics with the approval of the faculty and alumni members of the Athletic Council and of the President of the College. Mr. Houser's resignation was therefore properly received by the Director of Athletics, and any discussion with him of the reasons for its acceptance was properly the function of the Director of Athletics and not of the members of the Athletic Council. I am informed by the Athletic Director that Mr. Houser was told why his resignation was accepted.

With regard to your conclusions under the heading "The Alumni Send Petitions", I seriously question whether enough evidence has been presented to warrant the sweeping statement that "they give us a true cross-section of alumni attitude". Of course this statement probably was made as a matter of opinion rather than of fact, but I think it desirable to point out that it should be so construed. A similar interpretation should, I think, be given to the statement in the same paragraph concerning the sentiment of the faculty, since, so far as I know, no formal poll of the entire faculty has been taken on the subject. Accordingly such statements can scarcely be made as matters of fact.

I want to say in closing that I think the Orient Board has acted in a very straight-forward manner in their willingness to make public correction upon learning that they had not been correctly informed as to these facts.

BOYD W. BARTLETT, Secretary,
Bowdoin College Athletic Council.

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:

I wish to take this opportunity to reply to the very unnecessary editorial which appeared in the last week's issue of your paper under the heading "We Break Silence". The editorial as it appeared is positively insulting to the undergraduates of the college. It in no wise truly expresses the majority of student opinion. It is a disgraceful display of editorial privileges and does not in any way reflect credit upon those who shared in its creation.

The editorial unfortunately fell into the hands of some newspaper man who immediately communicated it to the Associated Press. Thereupon it went to papers all over the country, carrying with it the general sentiment that it was representative of the opinion of the entire student body of Bowdoin. The harm has been done, and it cannot be undone. The majority of the members of the student body have been highly insulted by having it stated that their views were so narrow and revolting as were those of the ones who wrote the editorial or in any way contributed to it.

It is not inappropriate to say that the manner in which the Orient has handled the entire Houser case has been a very poor one, even at best. I do not wish to condemn the members of the Orient staff for their zeal in rallying to what they call the "lost cause". They are no more to blame than any other unthinking student, no more to blame than the majority of the student body who have been acting in Houser's behalf as a matter of sentimentality, a matter of principle. What the Orient board is to be condemned for is the disgraceful way that it has regarded the entire affair, for its underhanded and backbiting policy for its belligerent attitude capped by its very disgraceful "We Break Silence". What the Orient board is to be condemned for is its inability to take the whole affair in a gentlemanly or sportsmanlike way. The members of the Athletic and Student Councils were convinced of the validity of the arguments in the case, and through the president of the latter organization stated frankly that they were satisfied with the decision of the Athletic Council. It seems that their opinion has been entirely disregarded by the writers of the scathing editorial. Those who in any way con-

(Continued on page 3)

"Somethin' good'll come of that!"

Whether your choice of fabrics is a tweed, a flannel, a cheviot, or a diagonal, you will find splendid assortments here.

Authentically styled and modestly priced.

$35.00 $39.50 $45.00

HARMON'S
INCORPORATED

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

The long arm of the telephone operator ~ ~ ~ made longer

How to extend the operator's range five-fold? There's an example of the problems put up to a telephone engineer.

This was part of a study in stepping up the speed of service to distant points. "Long Distance" used to relay your call to one or more other operators. Now she herself reaches the city you are calling, 30 or 300 or 3000 miles away.

Result: in five years the average time needed to complete a long-distance connection has been cut from 7 minutes to less than 2 minutes.

In this industry even long approved methods are never considered beyond improvement. For men of the right aptitude, that viewpoint is a stimulating challenge.

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

WHEN YOU have worn yourself out from braving the elements...

DROP IN AT THE SPA

and regain your spirit and pep

IT SATISFIES

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - March 18th

CLARA BOW

NO LIMIT

Also Sound Act - Pathe Review and Humantette

Thursday - March 19th

THE ROYAL FAMILY OF BROADWAY

- with -

Ina Claire - Fredric March

Also Comedy and Sound Act

Friday - March 20th

- VAUDEVILLE -

— on the screen —

GENTLEMEN'S FATE

- with -

JOHN GILBERT

Also Paramount News

Saturday - March 21st

TOL'ABLE DAVID

- with -

Richard Cromwell - Noah Beery

Also Comedy - Sound Act and Talkartoon

Mon. and Tues. - March 23 and 24

RUTH CHATTERTON

- in -

THE RIGHT TO LOVE

Also Paramount News - Sound Act

Communication

tributed to the writing of this editorial, faculty and students alike, would do well to use as an example the many views which these undergraduates have now expressed.

The Orient feels that with this high handed athletic policy and alumni tyranny that Bowdoin will be in danger of losing her fair name as a college unblemished by tramp athletes. To this statement there are but two things to be said. First of all there is no high handed athletic policy, no alumni tyranny, and in the second place the athletic council will not make it one of its duties to proselyte athletes. I can say for a known fact that the coaches of track and football, the two sports most struck at by the Orient have never officially attempted to get athletes to come to Bowdoin nor have they ever reaped the benefits of proselyted athletes handed down to them by a high handed athletic council. Let it be known that the records of Coaches Bowser and Magee are absolutely clear in this regard.

The Orient seems to disagree with the idea of winning teams. It would be folly to say that the opinion of the student body taken as a whole was against winning teams. By far the greater number of undergraduates want to see winning teams. It is only natural that they should. What right, then, has the Orient to disagree with the idea of winning teams? The college as a whole wants to see its teams come out victorious, and it is unfair for the Orient to scoff at the policy of the athletic council which was rightfully designed to produce winning teams.

There is, to be sure, an evil in winning teams, but it is an evil which does not exist here now, nor which the athletic council intends to have exist. Winning teams should be condemned when the stress is put solely on victory, and victory is gained by extravagant means, such as excessive use of money, undue demands on the time

LeTARTE'S -:- STUDIO

ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHS
and FRAMES

Tondreau Block - Brunswick, Maine

USED MOTORCYCLES

from $60.00 up - Guns taken in trade

LIVERNOS CYCLE & GUN STORE
95 Maine Street

The Ideal Hotel for You

In BOSTON

In the NEW

Hotel MANGER

At North Station

Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot

and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS

Each Room equipped with Tub and

Shower - v. Built-in Radio Speaker

(Three Station Service) v. Servitor

Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Best Moderately

Equipped and Perfectly

Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster

Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES—ROOM AND BATH

FOR ONE—$2.50, 2.00, 1.50, 4.00

FOR TWO—$4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 6.00

No Higher Rates

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:

For several years Bowdoin College has been evolving a system of management and control of the athletic activities of the undergraduates. At present it is trying out a system of control in which the authority is vested in an Athletic Council composed of five Alumni and three faculty members. Until this scheme proves to be a complete failure, let the undergraduates and those on the faculty, who are adverse to it, support it to the fullest extent. Let us support coaches who are sincere in their coaching. Let the Editorial staff make an end of petty bickering by the democratic expression of student opinion in the Orient.

Sincerely yours,

CREIGHTON E. GATCHELL.

be vested in three men, namely: Malcolm E. Morrell, Chatterton W. Bowser, and John J. Magee. Those who know these three men, who have had the pleasure of working under them or being associated with them in any connection will agree that the athletic policy of the college could not be entrusted to any finer men. Each of these three is a sportsman and gentleman, a teacher of fine and clean athletics, and above all else a firm believer in the traditional policy of the college, "Fair play and may the best man win". Bowdoin men, undergraduates, alumni and faculty alike, may well feel proud of the choice of these three men by the Athletic Council and the Boards of the College. They may feel certain that these three men will do their utmost to keep clean the record which Bowdoin has enjoyed in the athletic world, and also that they will do their utmost to create athletic teams of which Bowdoin men may well feel proud.

BALL TEAM WORKS IN TWO SHIFTS

Baseball from now on will be held in two shifts in the care, according to Ben Houser. From 1.30 until 2.30 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, these men will work out: Barstow, Bennett, Brown, Clarke, Crimmins, Dakin, Dwyer, Hempel, McKown, McLachlan, Means, Parmenter, Ricker, Ross, Shute, Souther, Travis, and Whittier. The other group, who will practice at the same time on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, are as follows: Archibald, Baker, Bossidy, Braithwaite, Cannon, Creighton, Dowling, Freeman, Gould, Griffin, Ham, Jordan, Kellef, Koempel, Johnson, Lewis.

In conclusion then I wish to say that it is high time that the undergraduates and faculty cooperated with Morrell, Bowser and Magee. Both undergraduates and faculty members have for a long time been doing all that they can to block the way of athletic progress as planned by these three men. They have been taking shots in the dark, and have not come out in the open as good sportsmanship demands. They have been fighting in an underhanded way, and should be thoroughly ashamed of the position which they have taken. Let us bring to an end this disgraceful method of "mud slinging", for it isn't worthy of Bowdoin ideals. Let us rather get behind the athletic policy which we have before us, outlined in the principles of Morrell, Bowser and Magee; cooperate with these men, and put forth athletic teams of which the undergraduates, the alumni, the faculty and the college as a whole can justly be proud.

Sincerely yours,

JAMES C. FLINT.

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

We Have a Few Portable Typewriters Which Have Been Rented Once or Twice, Which We Are Selling at Reduced Prices. This Chance Does Not Come Often.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Lord, Marshall, Miller, Morse, O'Brien, Pelton, Robbins, Sherman, Stanley, Stone and Smith.

REV. R. W. BARSTOW SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

(Continued from Page 1)

content of it all in personality. There is a constant challenge to preserve and safeguard the qualitative in the face of the quantitative. This is precisely the office of religion, to assure the awareness of wings in the presence of the necessary wheels. By religion, I mean that total drive within or without. It is to exalt the spiritual content and intent. Religion is concerned with the realm of values above the realm of facts. It matters not whether the person is banker or cattle-herder, merchant or student, minister or factory hand, he becomes the dupe of a wheel-dominated mediocrity if he cannot hear the "sound of the wings". Twenty-three centuries ago, Aristotle, so Will Durant tells us, turned from details of science to problems of conduct. What is life's supreme good?

Do you not think Aristotle, Jesus, Isaiah, Augustine, would agree that the best life is that which hears and heeds the sound of wings over against the sound of wheels?

COLLEGE TEA FOR FACULTY WILL BE HELD IN THE UNION

There will be a college tea for the faculty and officers of the college in the main lounge of the Moulton Union on Thursday, March 19, from 4 until 6 o'clock. Undergraduates who wish to come are cordially invited to attend. Mrs. K. C. M. Sills will be the hostess. Mrs. O. C. Hornell, Mrs. S. B. Smith and Mrs. P. B. Ferguson will pour, assisted by Mrs. G. M. Bollinger, Mrs. M. B. Cushing, Mrs. R. H. Cobb and Mrs. R. D. Childs. This is the first time that a general faculty tea has been held in the Union.

What the NEW HUMIDOR PACK means to Camel Smokers*

COMPARE a package of Camels with the difference in the technique of packing.

Note that Camels are completely enclosed in an outer transparent cover of moisture-proof cellophane and sealed air-tight at every point.

We call this outer shell the Humidor Pack. It differs from the ordinary cellophane pack and while it is egg-shell thin, it means a lot in terms of cigarette enjoyment.

It means, for instance, that evaporation is checkmated and that Salt Lake City can now have as good Camels as Winston-Salem.

While Camels are made of a blend of the choicest Turkish and mellowest domestic tobaccos, it is highly important, if you are to get full benefit of this quality, that these cigarettes come to you with their natural moisture content still intact.

The Humidor Pack insures that. It prevents the fine tobaccos of Camels from drying out and losing any of their delightful flavor.

Aside from cheap tobacco, two factors in a cigarette can mar the smoker's pleasure:

Fine particles of peppery dust if left in the tobacco by inefficient cleaning methods sting and irritate delicate throat membrane.

Dry tobacco, robbed of its natural moisture by scorching or by evaporation gives off a hot smoke that burns the throat with every inhalation.

We take every precaution against these factors here at Winston-Salem.

A special vacuum cleaning apparatus removes dust and now the new Humidor Pack prevents dryness.

The Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

Check the difference yourself. It is a very simple matter to check the difference between Humidor Packed

Camels and other ordinary dry cigarettes.

First of all you can feel the difference as you roll the cigarettes between your fingers. Camels are full-bodied and pliable. A dry cigarette crumbles under pressure and sheds tobacco.

If you will hold a cigarette to each ear and roll them with your fingers you can actually hear the difference.

The real test of course is to smoke them. And here's where the new Humidor Pack proves a real blessing to the smoker.

As you inhale the cool, fragrant smoke from a Camel you get all the mildness and magic of the fine tobaccos of which it is blended.

But when you draw in the hot smoke from a dried cigarette see how flat and brackish it is by comparison and how harsh it is to your throat.

If you are a regular Camel smoker you have already noticed what proper condition of the cigarette means.

But if you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack you have a new adventure with Lady Nicotine in store.

Switch your affections for just one day, then go back to your old love tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

* smoke a Fresh cigarette!

ANTIQUITY SHOP

Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 243-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.-Tel. 137

PRINTING

STUART & CLEMENT
Town Building

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

'Anything y'want Pressed?'

Give it to

BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES

Telephone 435-436

DEKES ARE VICTORS
IN INTERFRATERNITY TRACK COMPETITION

(Continued from Page 1)

with the first two nearly half a lap forward.

Lavender Wins Easy Two Mile Steve Lavender, slim blond Varsity star, competing for Psi U., forged into the fore as the two mile grind got under way, with his teammate Sewall close behind. For seven laps Eatie, also a Psi U. held to third position. As the pack scattered, Lavender began lapping the laggards, while he and Sewall lengthened their advantage to half a lap.

With a mile and one half behind him, Lavender began to draw away from Sewall, wearing by his mile run, and soon lapped the man running in third position. With two circlings remaining, the small strider broke into a furious sprint, breaking the ribbon thirty yards ahead of Sewall, a scant three seconds behind a new record. Time, 10:15.1 minutes.

800 Yard Dash—Won by Usher (D.
U.); second, Sewall (Psi U.); third,
Cobb (Kappa Sig); fourth, Ambler (Beta). Time, 2:01 minutes. (New meet record).

Two mile run—Won by Lavender
(Psi U.); second, Sewall (Psi U.);
third, Morris (D. U.); fourth, Pottie
(Zeta). Time, 10:15.1 minutes.
Discus—Won by Olsen (Kappa Sig); second, Larson (Deke); third,
Haskell (Sigma Nu); fourth, Morrell
(Deke); fifth, Foster (Beta). Distance, 125 feet.

Broad jump—Won by McLaughlin
(Zeta); second, Briggs (Deke); third,
Ricker (Beta); fourth, Johnson
(Deke); fifth, Stanwood (Deke). Distance, 20 feet, 9 1-4 inches.

16 pound shot put—Won by Larson (Deke); second, Haskell (Sigma Nu); third, Johnson (Deke); fourth, Pollock (Psi U.); fifth, Olsen (Kappa Sig). Distance, 41 feet, 5 3-4 inches.

35 pound weight—Won by Brown
(T. D.); second, Galbraith (Chi Psi);
third, Hay (Zeta); fourth, Larson (Deke); fifth, Barton (Deke). Distance, 50 feet, 11 inches.

High jump—Won by Stanwood
(Deke); second, Johnson (Deke); tie
for third among Porter (T. D.), Odde
(A. T. O.), and Gerdson (D. U.).
Height, 5 feet, 11 3-16 inches. (New meet record).

Pole vault—Won by Appleton
(Zeta); second, among Pope, Robbins, (Kappa Sig) and Morrell (Deke); fifth, Ricker (Beta). Height,
12 feet, 3 1-2 inches.

Medley relay—Won by Zeta Psi;
second, Delta Upsilon; third, Psi Up-
silon; fourth, Kappa Sigma; fifth,
Delta Kappa Epsilon. Time, 7:49 minutes. (New meet record).

Standing of teams: Delta Kappa
Epsilon, 61; Zeta Psi, 48; Psi Upsilon,
22; Beta Theta Pi, 22; Kappa Sigma,
21; Delta Upsilon, 21; Sigma Nu, 9;
Theta Delta Chi, 8; Chi Psi, 5; Alpha Delta Phi, 5; Alpha Tau Omega, 2.

(Psi U.); fifth, Donworth (Zeta).
Time, 4:32.2. (New meet record).
45 yard high hurdles—Won by Stanwood (Deke); second, McLaughlin (Zeta); third, Ricker (Beta); fourth, Allen, (A. D.); fifth, Appleton (Psi U.). Time, 6 seconds.

45 yard low hurdles—Won by Stanwood (Deke); second, McLaughlin (Zeta); third, Allen (A.D.); fourth, Reid (Zeta); fifth, Ricker (Beta). Time, 5.2 seconds.
800 yard run—Won by Usher (D.
U.); second, Thistlewaite (Zeta);
third, Briggs (Deke); fourth, Lowell (Kappa Sig); fifth, Cobb (Kappa Sig). Time, 2:01 minutes. (New meet record).

Two mile run—Won by Lavender
(Psi U.); second, Sewall (Psi U.);
third, Morris (D. U.); fourth, Pottie (Zeta); fifth, Packard (Chi Psi).
Time, 10:15.1 minutes.

Discus—Won by Olsen (Kappa Sig); second, Larson (Deke); third,
Haskell (Sigma Nu); fourth, Morrell
(Deke); fifth, Foster (Beta). Distance, 125 feet.

Broad jump—Won by McLaughlin
(Zeta); second, Briggs (Deke); third,
Ricker (Beta); fourth, Johnson
(Deke); fifth, Stanwood (Deke). Distance, 20 feet, 9 1-4 inches.

16 pound shot put—Won by Larson (Deke); second, Haskell (Sigma Nu); third, Johnson (Deke); fourth,
Pollock (Psi U.); fifth, Olsen (Kappa Sig). Distance, 41 feet, 5 3-4 inches.

35 pound weight—Won by Brown
(T. D.); second, Galbraith (Chi Psi);
third, Hay (Zeta); fourth, Larson
(Deke); fifth, Barton (Deke). Distance, 50 feet, 11 inches.

High jump—Won by Stanwood
(Deke); second, Johnson (Deke); tie
for third among Porter (T. D.), Odde
(A. T. O.), and Gerdson (D. U.).
Height, 5 feet, 11 3-16 inches. (New
meet record).

Pole vault—Won by Appleton
(Zeta); second, among Pope, Robbins, (Kappa Sig) and Morrell
(Deke); fifth, Ricker (Beta). Height,
12 feet, 3 1-2 inches.

Medley relay—Won by Zeta Psi;
second, Delta Upsilon; third, Psi Up-
silon; fourth, Kappa Sigma; fifth,
Delta Kappa Epsilon. Time, 7:49 minutes. (New meet record).

Standing of teams: Delta Kappa
Epsilon, 61; Zeta Psi, 48; Psi Upsilon,
22; Beta Theta Pi, 22; Kappa Sigma,
21; Delta Upsilon, 21; Sigma Nu, 9;
Theta Delta Chi, 8; Chi Psi, 5; Alpha Delta Phi, 5; Alpha Tau Omega, 2.

SIGMA NUS AND A.T.O.'S
TO PLAY FINAL GAME
ON FRIDAY EVENING

Interfraternity basketball exhibited a mad scramble for positions as the last leg of the league games was completed during the past week and a half.
While the A. T. O.'s were clinching their position as leaders of League A, the Psi U. quintet decided their heated argument with the Zetas concerning second place by a win that pushed the latter down a rung.

The Chi Psi representatives made a strong bid to tangle things all up in a knot in League B by holding the Sigma Nu aggregation to an even score until the last five minutes of play. Then the boys from Sigma Nu

HUNTINGTON SCHOOL AND PORTLAND WIN
INTERSCHOLASTICS

(Continued from Page 1)

600 yard run—Won by Uniacke, Huntington; second, Girstein, Huntington; third, Smith; Bridgton; fourth, Cobb, Coburn. Time, 1 minute, 16 4-5
seconds. (New record).

1000 yard run—Won by Black, Kents
Hill; second, Beasley, Huntington; third, Oulton, Huntington; fourth,
Dunn, St. John's. Time, 2 minutes,
24 seconds. (New record).

12 pound shot put—Won by Fink,
New Prep; second, Eldred, Bridgton;
third, Sullivan, Hebron; fourth, Springer, Hebron. Distance, 48 feet,
1-4 inches. (New record).

High jump—Won by Sandler, St.
John's; second, Dermody, Huntington; third, MacLean, Hebron; tie for fourth between Rowan, Huntington, and Hunnewell, M. C. I. Time, 6 feet, 1 inch. (New record).

One mile run—Won by Uniacke,
Huntington; second, Black, Kents
Hill; third, Winston, Hebron; fourth, Morse, St. John's. Time, 4 minutes,
45 1-5 seconds.

800 yard run—Won by Duff, St.
John's; second, Lawson, Huntington;
third, Powers, Bridgton; fourth, Mc-Mahon, St. John's. Time, 33 2-5 seconds. (Equaling the record).

Broad jump—Won by Kersey, Huntington; second, Dermody, Huntington; third, tie between Sandler, St. John's and Dolan, Coburn. Distance, 20 feet, 3 inches.

Pole vault—Won by Fink, New Prep; second, Hodgdon, New Hampton; third, tie between Gross, Hebron, and MacDonald, Hebron. Height, 10 feet, 9 inches.

High School Division
40 yard dash—Won by Leo, Cony; second, Elowitch, Portland; third, went wild, scoring sixteen points in the remaining time. A win for Chi Psi Lodge would have meant a tie for first between Sigma Nu and the D. U. house, as the latter had earned a win

by forfeit from the Dekes.

The A. T. O.'s met little opposition in disposing of the Zetas, 32-13. The Non-Fraternity men, however, gave them a stronger scrap, losing out by the score of 49-31. The result of the Psi U-Zeta encounter was 40-18. Although the Zetas were leading 15-14 at the end of the half, and were fighting strongly, the Psi U's crashed through with this rather lop-sided score.

In League B, the Sigma Nu's, by virtue of the aforementioned final rally, stepped off the court with a 42-27 victory over the Chi Psi's and a first place in League B to their credit.
The rest of the games scheduled in both leagues were forfeited, the Dekes to the D. U.'s, the T. D.'s to the
A. D.'s, and the Betas to the Sigma Nus.

The play-off between the Sigma Nu and Alpha Tau Omega fraternities, who now stand at the head of their respective leagues, is to take place this coming Friday evening at 8 o'clock.
Both teams have gone undefeated and both have shown a fine brand of basketball. There will be a twenty-five cent charge for admission.

Stevens, Deering; fourth, Brown, Waterville. Time, 4 4-5 seconds.
45 yard high hurdles—Won by Good, South Portland; second, Rose, Deering; third, Butler, Skowhegan; fourth, Tryon, Portland. Time, 6 1-5
seconds.

800 yard run—Won by Poland,
Portland; second, Norton, Portland;
third, O'Connor, Lynn; fourth, Dusen-bury, South Portland. Time, 1 minute,
21 3-5 seconds.

1000 yard run—Won by Combs,
South Portland; second, Carlyn, Lynn; third, Karlin, Portland; fourth, Malloy, Wilton. Time, 2 minutes, 28 4-5
seconds.

12 pound shot put—Won by Nib-lock, Lynn; second, Hayes, Fairhaven;
third, Ricker, Portland; fourth, Plezia, Fairhaven. Distance, 49 feet,
5 5-8 inches. (New record).

High jump—Tie for first between Abelon, Brunswick; Stevens, Deering; Carlyn, Lynn; and Roland, Morse.
Height, 5 feet, 4 inches.

One mile run—Won by Murphy,
Deering; second, Ricker, Lisbon;
third, Tabor, Cony; fourth, Combs,
South Portland. Time, 4 minutes, 47
2-5 seconds.

800 yard run—Won by Good, South Portland; second, Conroy, Portland;
third, Leo, Cony; fourth, Angell, South Portland. Time, 34 seconds.
(Equals record).

Broad jump—Won by Brown, Waterville; second, Winer, Lynn; third, Roland, Morse; fourth, Horne, Crosby. Distance, 18 feet, 11 3-4 inches.

Pole vault—Won by Dubiel, Fair-haven; tie for second between Wyld-ka, Fairhaven; Andrews, Fairhaven; Kelley, Portland. Height, 10 feet.

Prep School Team Races
St. John's (McArdle, Duff, Mc-Donough, Carey) defeated Huntington and New Hampton. Time, 2 minutes, 10 1-5 seconds.

Governor Dummer Academy
(Churchill, Brown, Carter, Bates) defeated Bridgton. Time, 2 minutes, 13
2-5 seconds.

Kents Hill (Black, Polychronides, Court, Turfe) defeated M. C. I. and Wassookeag School. Time 2 minutes,
16 1-5 seconds.

Hebron Academy (MacLean, Morgan, Jensen, Mooney) defeated Conroy Classical Institute. Time, 2 minutes, 17 1-5 seconds.

High School Team Races
Portland High (Karlin, Conroy, Dziodzio, Siwertsen) defeated South
Portland High. Time, 2 minutes, 12
1-5 seconds.

Fairhaven High (Sherman, Bosworth, Sylvia, Machado) defeated Lynn Classical. Time, 2 minutes, 14
seconds.

Deering High (Heald, Stevens, Goddard, Hobson) defeated Cony High.
Time, 2 minutes, 14 4-5 seconds.

Morse High (Reynolds, Hatch, Rowland, Hagen) defeated Brunswick High. Time, 2 minutes, 18 3-5 seconds.

Waterville High (Dusty, Poulin, Rancourt, Brown) defeated Skowhegan High. Time, 2 minutes, 19 1-5
seconds.

Wilton Academy (Sabin, Cox, Reynolds, Severy) defeated Lisbon High.
Time, 2 minutes, 20 seconds.

Camden High (Alexander, Holbrook, Hopkins, Keene) defeated Crosby High. Time, 2 minutes, 22 seconds.

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE

Town Building

Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —

Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs

Webber's Studio

Morton's News Stand

BOWDOIN SEAL and

FRATERNITY PAPER

KAYWOODIE PIPES

Florence P. Merriman

Shampoos Scalp Treatment

Manicures and Chiropody

114 Maine St., cor. Cumberland St.

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the
facilities of

THE RECORD
PRESS

are at your service. Tel. 8

Let us estimate on your next
job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work
done in this shop.

Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

Always Noticed
But Never Notice-ble

BRISK Clothing which is
custom tailored to
your individual measure, has
that distinctive touch which
always marks the wearer as
well dressed.

Brisk Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative

PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity
Trade

574 Congress Street

Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers

SOULE and WALKER

JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD

We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store

Watch Repairing

By An Experienced Watchmaker

Shaeffer Pens for College Men

103 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"

"The College Jeweler"

Diamonds and Watches

Fine Repairing and Engraving

141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S

Candy and Ice Cream

74 MAINE STREET

TUFTS COLLEGE
DENTAL SCHOOL

Founded 1887

COLLEGE men—prepare for a profession of widening interest and opportunity. Recent research has enlarged the scope of every phase of dentistry. The field demands, more than ever before, men and women of ability, backed by superior training. Such training Tufts College Dental School offers to its students.
School opens on September 30, 1931. Our catalog may guide you in choosing your career. For information address—

Dr. WILLIAM RICE, Dean

416 Huntington Avenue Boston, Mass.

Have you chosen
your life work?

In this field of health service the Harvard University Dental School—the oldest dental school connected with any university in the United States—offers thorough well-balanced courses in all branches of dentistry. All modern equipment for practical work under supervision of men high in the profession.
Write for details and admission requirements to Leroy M. S. Miner, Dean

HARVARD UNIVERSITY

DENTAL SCHOOL

Dept. 70, Longwood Ave., Boston, Mass.

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

YOUR EYES MAY FOOL YOU
BUT
YOUR TASTE tells the Truth!

MILDER...AND BETTER TASTE

They
Satisfy

Pickard, Richard C. Robbins, and Arthur D. Stone. The team had a very good season. After losing the first game to Hebron Academy, 7-1, they defeated Bridgton Academy, 4-2; Brunswick Hockey Club, 2-1, and the Varsity, 4-2. The final date of the season was with Lisbon Hockey Club, but inclement weather ended the season early.

THE BOWDOIN ORIENT

Brunswick, Maine

Established 1871

Editor-in-Chief
Paul A. Walker '31
Managing Editors
Associate Editors

Philip C. Ahern '32

George T. Sowell '32

Sports Department
Robert L. M. Ahern '33
Edward B. McManamin '33
H. Allan Perry '33

News Department
Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33
Albert S. Davis, Jr., '33
G. Russell Booth

Contributing Editors
John T. Gould '31
Fred R. Kleibacker '31
Robert M. McFarland '31

Reporters
William N. Small '31
John L. Snider '31
Philip T. Walters '32

NICHOLAS BASHKIROFF
JAMES E. BASSETT
RAYMOND BROWN, JR.
ALEXANDER P. CLARK
HAROLD E. EVERETT
JAMES C. FREEMAN

JAMES E. GUTTILL
ROGER S. HALL
RICHARD C. MANDEVILLE
JOHN MORRIS
J. ERNEST MULLIN
CARL G. OLSON

JOHN M. SINCLAIR

BOWDOIN PUBLISHING COMPANY

Business Manager

Artine Artinian '31

Assistant Managers

Dominic N. Antonucci '32

Gilbert L. Barstow '32

Published every Wednesday during the College Year by the Students of Bowdoin College. All contributions and communications should be given to the Managing Editor by Sunday night preceding the date of publication. The Editor-in-Chief is responsible for the editorial content; the Managing Editor for news and make-up. All communications regarding subscriptions should be addressed to the Business Manager of the Bowdoin Publishing Co. Subscriptions, $2.50 per year (including Alumni) in advance.

Entered as second class matter at the postoffice at Brunswick, Maine.

News Editors for This Issue

Louis C. Stearns, 3rd, '33

H. Allan Perry '33

Vol. LX.

Wednesday, March 25, 1931.

No. 28

Valedictory

"The King is dead — long live the King!" With this issue, the present ORIENT Board fades into ancient history and a new staff prepares to make its debut. To many that fact may give occasion for a heartfelt sigh of relief, but notwithstanding, we cannot refrain at this time from making a brief survey of the past editorial year.

In the first place, we have been preeminently critical. As we look back through these various issues, we become more and more aware of that fact. Yet we still feel that, in spite of our criticisms, we have not ceased to be "good college citizens", and that we have had the welfare of the College at heart. We have not tried to express the opinions of the majority of the undergraduates, for we have discovered that the majority of the undergraduates have no opinions. We have, however, endeavored to represent the majority of undergraduate opinions. In so doing, we have noticed that a certain old saw could well be modified to read thus: "You can please some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time; but you can't please all of the people all of the time."

Our issues have been oftentimes protests, and protests are certain to bear out our proverb. We protested against the site of the flagpole (and incidentally against the form of the memorial), for we felt that we as undergraduates should have been given a say in this matter. The site was changed. We advocated the establishment of a College Book Store in the Moulton Union on the grounds that it would be of mutual benefit to both students and administration. We even dared to say that the Student Council was not a representative body but purely honorary, and we should have liked to see each fraternity and the non-fraternity group represented in this body. We strenuously advocated modification of the present system of compulsory chapel. We protested against the dismissal of Coach Houser. We argued for more undergraduate (and faculty) control of athletics policies.

In almost every instance, we have found some support from the undergraduate body. But we have found much more inertia. In other words, we have not had a particularly successful year perhaps? We feel, however, that we have succeeded in provoking thought in some circles — that our efforts have not been entirely wasted. In short, they have probably been as successful as most progressive movements are in a passive, leisurely, carefree society. The success or failure of a college paper, especially a weekly, depends, we feel, on whether or not it can induce its readers to think on current problems.

We have reason to believe that the ORIENT will continue to espouse what we feel to be the cause of the undergraduate. We have received very hearty support from all members of the Board, and with elections very imminent, we should like to state that the selections of Editor-in-Chief and of the two Managing Editors have probably never been more difficult to make. We wish to thank the entire Board for its sincere cooperation and to wish our successor as favorable conditions as have been ours throughout the past year.

INSTITUTE OF SCIENCES SCHEDULED

(Continued from page 1)

Clark University and Harvard, where since 1924 he has been director of the psychological laboratory. Professor Boring has served the United States government in his field, being attached to the Surgeon-General's Office during the latter part of the World War. He is the author of "History of Experimental Psychology" and a contributor to numerous scientific magazines. On the following Monday, April 13, Professor Charles H. Herty of New York, former president of the American Chemical Society, will speak on "Chemistry's Service in the Promotion of Industrial Research in America." A graduate of the University of Georgia, with advanced study in Germany and at Johns Hopkins, where he received his Ph.D., he has had an interesting career as college professor, expert consultant to the United States Department of Agriculture and to several associations of manufacturing chemists, and also the one-time editor of the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry. Retiring as advisor to the Chemical Foundation in 1928, he is now an industrial consultant in New York City.

Director of American Geographical Society to Speak

Dr. Isaiah Bowman, Director of the American Geographical Society, will discuss "The Invitation of the Earth" on April 14. A Harvard graduate, he received his Ph.D. at Yale where he was given an honorary A.M. in 1921. As an active geographer in the field he has led expeditions into South America and has served as advisor to a number of important governmental commissions, being chief territorial specialist of the American Commission to Negotiate Peace at the close of the World War. He is a member of geographical societies throughout the world and holds several gold medals for special work along this line. Doctor Bowman is the author of several books of importance and of many papers on the geography of South America. He was a speaker at the Bowdoin Institute of Modern History. On April 15, Doctor Florence R. Sabin of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, will present as her topic "Recent Studies of the Chemistry of Bacteria as Applied to Disease." A graduate of Smith College, she holds the degree of M.D. from Johns Hopkins and honorary degrees of Sc.D. from Smith, the University of Michigan and Mount Holyoke College. She is the author of many books and articles in the field of Anatomy and is looked upon as one of the outstanding women scientists of the present time. The final lecturer in this year's Institute will be Professor Edward G. Conklin of Princeton University, speaking on "Fitness, the Great Problem of Life and Evolution." A graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University with a Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins, he holds honorary Sc.D.'s from the University of Pennsylvania and from his Alma Mater and has also been granted his LL.D. by Western Reserve University. He is a member of many scientific societies and has served as President of the American Society of Zoologists and American Society of Naturalists. He is the author of several books on heredity, environment, and evolution, and a co-editor of the Biological Bulletin and of the Journal of Experimental Zoology.

Communication

To the Editor of the Orient:
As one of the youngest members of the Bowdoin College undergraduate body, I should like to express what I feel to be the opinion of the majority of the undergraduates in regard to this Ben Houser situation.

How can the Orient or anyone else expect the student body to have an exact opinion, and take a definite stand on either side of the matter, when we are all unenlightened? The whole affair has been dealt with in platitudes and uncomprehensible suppositions. The student body has been given no real reason from the Orient, from the Athletic Council, from the Alumni or from Houser, why Houser resigned or why the Athletic policy has been changed.

The entire subject is becoming hackneyed and monotonous. Unless one or all of the above mentioned agencies can come forward and give us a clear cut, unadulterated statement, I would suggest that the Orient had better discontinue all of this "beating about the bush" and give the student body some intelligible and interesting news in place of all these worthless "Communications."

Yours sincerely,
GORDON E. GILLET '34

Intercollegiate Column

Amsterdam

At the University of Amsterdam, Holland, pledges to fraternities must shave off all their hair and enter buildings through windows. Also at this university the American student group is thought to be the most interesting on the campus. This crowd, it is pointed out, enjoy good drinking and conversation after 1 a.m. the official curfew of Holland.

Languages

The N. S. F. A. reports that the number of high and preparatory school pupils taking foreign languages has decreased lately. In most cases just the bare amount for college entrance requirements are studied. The practical slant of many American schools and the general adoption of English abroad are given as reasons for the decrease in interest shown here.

?

Which is wider, the gate or the opening? Maybe your eyes fooled you that time.

YOUR EYES MAY FOOL YOU BUT

YOUR TASTE tells the Truth!

MILDER...AND BETTER TASTE

They
Satisfy

© 1931, LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

STEPPING INTO A MODERN WORLD

"THE THINKER"

... a telephone version

The name Electrical Thinker might be applied to one unit of telephone apparatus. Technically it is known as a Sender and is brought into action each time a call is made in a panel dial central office. By means of electrical mechanism, it records or "remembers" the dialed number and routes the call to the proper line.

The steady expansion of the Bell System

— in volume of calls, number of telephones and miles of wire — cannot be taken care of merely by an enlarged use of existing types of apparatus.

To serve the continually growing telephone needs of the nation, it will always be the task of Bell System men to devise, refine, perfect and manufacture new kinds of equipment such as The Thinker.

BELL SYSTEM

A NATION-WIDE SYSTEM OF INTER-CONNECTING TELEPHONES

BURDETT COLLEGE

Train for business the individual way. Intensive technical courses. Business Administration, Accounting, Executive Secretarial, Stenographic-Secretarial, Office Management, Bookkeeping. Personal attention, able faculty, placement service. Men and women from 70 different colleges in attendance. Placement calls for graduates numbered 3149 last year. New building and equipment.

Special attention paid to the needs of college men and women. Previous commercial training not required for entrance.

New Burdett College Building

Send for booklet, "Charting a Career."

BURDETT COLLEGE
156 STUART ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Gentlemen: Please send me a copy of the booklet, "Charting a Career."

Name.....
Street Address.....
City..... State.....

MAGEE SPEAKS ABOUT OLYMPIC TRAINING

On the still debatable subject of whether the final Olympic track and field tryouts should be held two weeks, four weeks or six weeks before the Olympic Games begin on July 30, 1932, at Los Angeles, Coach John Magee of Bowdoin College introduces a new thought. Coach Magee has been a member of two Olympic coaching staffs and his thoughts on the subject, therefore, may be accepted as worthwhile, whether or not you happen to agree.

His notion is that the final tryouts should be held two weeks before the Olympics begin, as those tryouts are now tentatively scheduled. His reason is that this time it will be much easier to keep the highly-attuned American stars at the top of their form than it has been in other years, because this time the squad will not be loaded on a steamship for eight or nine days with a foreign land as the destination.

"Usually, through no fault of the boys themselves, or of the coaches, there has been a mental letdown with this ocean-voyage to Belgium, France, Holland or wherever the games were held," explains Magee.

Athletes Become Tourists

"Training rules may be enforced as strictly as you wish on board ship, but the athletes unconsciously lose their fighting edge and their intensity of purpose. Without knowing it, they tend to become tourists instead of an athletic army bent on conquest. It takes days for them to settle down after arrival on the other side because there are so many strange things to be seen. The let-down comes and it's a super-human job to bring them back in the space of a week or ten days.

"Put these athletes on the train in Chicago after the final tryouts and haul them out to California and you'll find they'll reach there physically rested but with their minds on the races and on nothing else. The novelty of ship-board life, of a strange language, of souvenir peddlers and a hundred other items in the foreign trip will have been eliminated. They'll be ready with much less difficulty than usual.

"Two weeks is long enough this time for the interval between tryouts and the beginning of the games."

Sunday Chapel

(Continued from Page 1)

"simple Galilean peasant" had no message for the world of today. Every man is privileged to his own opinion in the matter. It seems, however, that the application of Christ's principles would go a great way in solving the world's social and international problems. The religion of Christ is not falling into decay to be supplanted by another religion. Quite the contrary, the modern revivals in other religion are all tending towards Christianity.

The modern world needs more men who will follow the teachings of Christ. In England there is an old cannon reminiscent of Anglo-French wars. On it a battered inscription

The COLLEGE BOOK STORE

We Have a Few Portable Typewriters Which Have Been Rented Once or Twice, Which We Are Selling at Reduced Prices. This Chance Does Not Come Often.

F. W. CHANDLER & SON

Make the Spa Your Headquarters
If You Stay in College During Vacation

Special Prices on Lunches and Dinners
Will be Offered

Football Abolished

Johns Hopkins University has decided to discontinue intercollegiate football as at that institution. Intramural games have been substituted.

CUMBERLAND

Wednesday - March 25th

DOCTORS' WIVES

- with -

Warner Baxter - Joan Bennett
Also Screen Song - Sportlight and Travelogue

Thursday - March 26th

THE HOT HEIRESS

- with -

Ben Lyon - Una Munson
Tom Dugan - Walter Pidgeon
Also Sound Act and Comedy

Friday - March 27th

- VAUDEVILLE -

- on the screen -

THE LADY REFUSES

- with -

BETTY COMPTON
Also Paramount News

Saturday - March 28th

MR. LEMON OF ORANGE

- with -

El Brendel - Fifi Dorsay
Also Comedy and Sound Act

Mon. - Tues. - March 30 - 31

Claudette Colbert - Fredric March
in HONOR AMONG LOVERS
News - Sound Act - Travelogue

ART NOTES

A recent visit to the Art Building found little of interest. A remarkable etching by Alfred Hutt, having as a subject the minute study of a tree, has been received. This etching came in December and is a fine addition to the Art Museum. It is the first to be published by the American College Society of Print Collectors, which has Marquis Reitzel of Rockford College, Rockford, Ill., as chairman.

In regard to etchings the students of Bowdoin should not forget the Charles A. Coffin collection located in the basement of the Walker Art Building. This collection received in 1923 is most representative, containing many famous etchings by old masters.

The last bit of art news is the recent addition of two etchings from the Anna Maud Washburn estate of Portland. These have been executed by the well-known etcher Cadwalader Washburn and are studies of physiognomy. One is called the "French Fisherman", while the other is untitled.

Love 1, 2

Again comes Rollins College with another queer course - five hours a week credit for taking "The Art of Making Love".

LeTARTE'S - STUDIO

ARTISTIC PHOTOGRAPHS
and FRAMES

Tondreau Block - Brunswick, Maine

USED MOTORCYCLES

from $69.00 up - Guns taken in trade

LIVERNOS CYCLE & GUN STORE
95 Maine Street

The Ideal Hotel for You

In BOSTON

is the NEW
Hotel MANGER

At North Station

Direct Entrance from B. & M. Depot
and Boston Madison Square Garden

500 ROOMS

Each Room equipped with Tub and Shower - Built-in Radio - Speaker (Three Station Service) - Servitor
Circulating Ice Water.

New England's Most Modernly
Equipped and Comfortably
Appointed Hotel

Dining Room, Coffee Shop, Oyster Bar and Soda Fountain offer wide variety of food and service.

RATES-ROOM AND BATH
FOR ONE-$2.50, 2.00, 1.50, 1.00
FOR TWO-$4.00, 3.50, 3.00, 2.50

The Highest Rates

Smoke a FRESH Cigarette!

Chart Showing Moisture Loss of Cigarettes

THIRTY DAY TEST

Each curve represents average of fifty packages

Unwrapped Package

Glassine Wrapped Package

Ordinary Cellophane Wrapped Package

Camel Humidor Pack
Moisture-Proof Cellophane

Prepared for R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Certified Report No. 150473

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory

by C.C. Bely, Chief Chemist

THE whole country is talking about the throat-easy mildness and the prime freshness of Camel Cigarettes in the new Humidor Pack.

The above chart prepared by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory tells you why.

Please examine it carefully. It is an unflinching guide to cigarette selection and enjoyment.

As you can quickly see by the three upper curves on this interesting chart, cigarettes that lack the protection of the Humidor Pack lose their moisture rapidly from the day they are manufactured.

And day by day as this moisture disappears, the smoke from these cigarettes becomes harsher, hotter, more unkind to the smoker's throat.

Not so with Camels!

The Humidor Pack is moisture proof and sealed airtight at every point. It protects the rich, flavorful aroma of the choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended.

Make these tests yourself

It is so easy to tell the difference between parched dry cigarettes and fresh prime Camels that it is no wonder everybody is reaching for a fresh cigarette today.

Your fingers identify stale, dried-out tobaccos at once. While a Camel is flexible and pliant.

Your ears can tell the difference too. For a dust-dry cigarette crackles under pressure.

But the real test is taste and there is simply no comparison between the rich mildness of a Camel and the hot, brackish smoke from a stale, dry cigarette.

Switch to Camels just for today then leave them tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

CAMELS

Artificial heat in houses and apartments soon dries the moisture out of cigarettes wrapped the old fashioned way. It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton - this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

ANTIQUITY SHOP

Old Furniture, China, Pewter, Glass
Miss Stetson gives personal attention
to orders for antique goods of any kind
AT THE BRICK HOUSE
10 Spring St., Brunswick - Tel. 243-M
25 years in business

EATON HARDWARE CO.

The Sport Store of
Brunswick

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

of Brunswick, Maine
Capital, $50,000.
Surplus and Profits, $100,000
STUDENT PATRONAGE SOLICITED

BRUNSWICK CRAFT SHOP

Popular Sheet Music and Records
Agent for Victor Radio

TONDREAU BROS. CO.

We carry the largest assortment of
Imported Goods, Fruit, Fresh Vegeta-
bles, Olives, Pickles, Domestic and Imported Cheeses and Biscuits of all
kinds east of Portland.
Tel. 136-87 Maine St.—Tel. 137

PRINTING

STUART & CLEMENT

Town Building

Latest College Styles in
Bostonian and Florsheim
Oxfords—$5 to $10
Also Tennis Shoes, Moccasins, Rubbers
ROBERTS' SHOE STORE

SHORT'S MARKET

—GROCERS—

who cater to fraternity trade

FIVE EASTERN TEAMS
TO TAKE UP RUGBY

Rugby football will be included in the sports schedule of Yale, Princeton and Harvard this spring. This trio of colleges, together with the U. S.
Marines of Philadelphia, and the New York Rugby football club have formed a quintette of playing teams.
The present schedule calls for a game between Yale and the New Yorkers at New York, March 22. The following week end the Marines will meet Yale at New Haven, while Princeton is playing the New York fifteen at New York. Harvard's first game is scheduled with the Marines at Cambridge, Mass., March 30, and a number of other contests among the five teams have been booked during April and up to May 16.

Last spring this group, with the exception of Princeton, played nine games, the U. S. Marines and Yale netting the most victories. In addition, Yale played the powerful Montreal club, twice champions of Quebec, to a tie. Princeton decided to take up the sport this year.

Followers of Rugby point out that each one of the fifteen players to a side has a chance to carry the ball, run with it, pass, kick, or tackle. It calls for all-round team play rather than the work of individual stars. It is a thrilling game that bears very little resemblance to soccer, or the standard American type of football.

SETH PARKER MEETS
U.S. REPRESENTATIVES

(Continued from Page 1)

90 per cent of the membership of the House, but not 1 per cent of you have ever seen him.

He is in Washington at this time for the purpose of appearing tonight at Constitution Hall in a benefit performance for a very worthy Washington charitable organization. His services are donated, and such is his drawing power that all tickets were completely sold out over two weeks ago.
In my opinion this young boy is the source of more joy and cheer, and contentment, and wholesome enjoyment than any person living in the United States today.

Mr. Speaker, it is with a peculiar degree of pride that I now present to the House—in private life, Philippe
H. Lord, of New York, but on each Sunday evening lovingly known in radio as Seth Parker, of Jonesport, Me."

SOPHOMORE-FROSH TRACK MEET

(Continued from Page 1)

galls (F), third. Distance 38 ft. 5 in.
16-pound shot put—Won by Larson
(F); Haskell (S), second; Waite (F), third. Distance 41 ft. 1 in. (New meet record).

440-yard dash—Won by Hickok (S);
Allen (F), second; Lowell (S), third.
Time 55 1-5 sec.

Pole vault—Triple tie for first between Gerdson (S) and Pope and Robbins (F). Height 10 ft. 6 in.
Mile run—Won by Ambler (F);
Davis (S), second; Burton (F), third.
Time 4:49 1-5.

Running broad jump—Won by Briggs (S); McLaughlin (S), second;
Allen (F), third. Distance 21 ft. 1 in.
Two-thirds mile relay—Won by Sophomores (McLaughlin, Lowell, Hickok, Briggs); Freshmen (Skinner, Reid, Gray, Allen), second.

880-yard run—Won by Briggs (S);
Burton (F), second; Hickok (S), third.
Time 2:34 3-5.
Forty-five-yard high hurdles—Won by McLaughlin (S); Allen (F), second; Manning (S), third. Time 61 5-8 sec.

Running high jumps—Tie for first between Milliken (S) and Larson (F); tie for third between Gerdson (S) and Porter (F). Height, 5 ft. 7 in.

Alumni Notes

The One Hundredth Meeting of the Bowdoin Club of Portland was held at the Falmouth Hotel recently. In celebration of the event a fifty cent meal was served following the example set at the original meeting held in the Falmouth. The speakers were:
Judge Harry C. Wilbur '94, chairman of the original organization committee; Judge W. M. Ingraham '95, first president of the club; and Philip G.
Gifford '03, first secretary.

A luncheon meeting of the class agents of the Alumni Fund will be held at the Hotel Falmouth next Monday evening, March 30th. Mr.
Harry Lakeman of Dartmouth college will speak.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings this week at 5:15 o'clock a series of five minute talks will be given by members of the Bowdoin faculty. These are presented with an aim to clarify all conditions surrounding the granting of the State of Maine Scholarships.

SIGMA NU QUINTET
DEFEATS ALPHA TAU OMEGA TEAM 33-20

(Continued from Page 1)

by the well organized defense of the black and yellow and especially by the fine work of the guards.

The game began on even terms with the A. T. O.'s perhaps pressing the offensive slightly. At the quarter they were out ahead 6-5 thanks to good passing and shooting. For the remainder of that half the lead changed hands frequently, but the Sigma Nu team looked better and their passing was much smoother. At the half they had a one point lead which they proceeded to increase in the next period.

At the opening of the third quarter the Sigma Nu's immediately assumed a vigorous offense and the A. T. O.'s rarely had an opportunity to shoot.
Perkins sunk several shots from the vicinity of the foul line and Edwards did some good recovery work under the basket. In the passing in this period was the best that was seen in the game and the Sigma Nu quintet clearly showed their superiority. In the final stanza the A. T. O.'s managed to get together on their passing and Prouty got his eye on the basket again. The yellow and black were outscored eight to five in this period but they were too far ahead to be threatened.

SIGMA NU	G	FG	Pts
Perkins, rf	7	3	15
Edwards, lf	3	1	7
Murray, c	2	0	0
Loring, c	0	0	0
Pickering, rg	0	0	0
Emerson, rg	0	0	0
Donahue, lg	0	0	0
	14	4	33

ALPHA TAU OMEGA	G	FG	Pts
Prouty, rf	4	0	8
Royal, lf	3	0	6
Dunbar, lf	0	0	0
Harrison, c	0	0	0
Dennis, rg	1	3	5
Dolloff, lg	0	0	0
	8	4	20

Referee, Agger.

RECORDS GO IN OPEN SWIM MEET

(Continued from Page 1)

ship—First, tie between Hedquist, Worcester Academy, and Connolly,
Huntington; third, Holland, Dean Academy. Time: 6:50 seconds.

50 yard dash—Maine State championship—First, Calkin, Washington unattached; second, Stetson, U. of Maine; third, Haskell, Bowdoin. Time:
26 seconds.

Invitation diving—First, Osborne,
Boston E. H. S.; second, Larson,
B.A.A.; third, Peers, Providence Y.M.
C.A.; fourth, Snyder, Newton Y.M.
C.A.

50 yard dash—Open—First, Hedquist, Worcester Academy; second, Guyette, B.U.; third, Connolly, Huntington. Time: 24 4-5 seconds. (Equals pool record).

Interscholastic 100 yard dash—
First, Smith; second, Bowman; third, Howard, all of Bowdoin. Time: 59 1-5
seconds. (New record).

Brunswick 60 yard dash—First, Mc-Keen, Brunswick H. S.; second, Burnett, Brunswick H. S. Time: 30 seconds.

B. C. A. BOOK SERVICE

The B. C. A. has inaugurated a Book Service, the idea of which is to provide the men interested in any publications on religious, social or industrial problems of the present day with a chance to get these books at a reduced rate. Some of the works on hand are in pamphlet form, but the full volume can be gotten on request.

The best offer is Sherwood Eddy's book "The Challenge of Russia" combined with a pamphlet by Kirby Page entitled, "Is Mahatma Gandhi the Greatest Man of the Age?" for $1.25.

Also we have on hand pamphlets on:

"Sex and Youth" by Eddy

"Jesus or Christianity" by Kirby

"Abolition of War" by Eddy and

"Religion and Social Justice" by

Eddy

"Am I getting an Education?" by

Eddy

"What Religion Means to Me" by

Fosdick (and other authors) and several others on world politics and peace

All the books and pamphlets can be seen at 3 Winthrop and ordered through Warren Palmer.

All members of the College desiring membership cards in the Bowdoin Christian Association should see Everett Lays at 25 Maine Hall. All members of the College are entitled to have these cards as all are members, either active or associate. Active members please see me about signing the pledges as soon as possible. The membership cards are accepted in nearly all Y.M.C.A.'s in the country.

"Going to college is a current fad, like Backgammon," said Bruce Barton, prominent author, contributor to various widely-read magazines, and chairman of Dartmouth, Dartmouth and Osborn, well-known advertising agency, in an interview recently granted the Princetonian.

Washington State College is said to report that college yells and cigarettes are bringing about a definite lowering of girls' voices.

Millsaps College in Mississippi has adopted a plan for determining the amount of tuition to be paid by students in proportion to their scholastic standing.

Spring Athletic Schedules

Baseball

April 11—Harvard at Cambridge.
April 20—Bates at Lewiston.
April 24—Tufts at Brunswick.
April 25—Colby at Waterville.
April 28—Mass. Argosies at Amherst.

April 29—Amherst at Amherst.
April 30—Wesleyan at Middletown.
May 1—Northeastern at Boston.
May 2—Tufts at Medford.
May 6—Maine at Orono.
May 9—Colby at Brunswick.
May 15—Colby at Waterville.
May 19—Maine at Orono.
May 21—Bates at Lewiston.
May 22—Bates at Brunswick.
May 23—Colby at Brunswick.
May 30—Bates at Brunswick.

Second Team Baseball
(Tentative schedule)
May 6—Bridgton Academy at Bridgton.
May 8—Fryeburg Academy at Brunswick.
May 14—Fryeburg Academy at Fryeburg.

May 20—Governor Dummer Academy at South Byfield.
May 27—Bridgton Academy at Brunswick.

Golf

May 4—Amherst at Amherst.
May 5—Wesleyan at Middletown.
May 6—Hobbs Cross at Worcester.
May 7—M. I. T. at Cambridge.
May 8—Tufts at Medford.

Tennis

May 5—Amherst at Amherst.
May 6—Trinity at Hartford.
May 7—Wesleyan at Middletown.
May 8—Worcester Tech at Worcester.

May 9—Tufts at Medford.
Track
May 2—West Point at West Point.
May 9—U. of N. H. at Durham.
May 16—Bates Meet at Orono.
May 22 and 23—N. E. Championships at Bates, Lewiston.

May 29 and 30—I.C.A.A.A.A. at Philadelphia.
We are in receipt of a copy of the March issue of the American Foreign Service Journal which contains a prize story written by N. Tobey Moore, '18. Mr. Moore is at this time on detail as American Consul at the city of Quebec, having served in Europe for the past ten years. This contest was open to all members of the United States Foreign Service, a group containing numbers of clever writers and it seems an honor that a Bowdoin man should have won it.

'Anything y'want Pressed?'
Give it to
BATES OR SPERRY
LECLAIR & GERVAIS
do the work

CUMMINGS' MARKET

MEATS and GROCERIES
Telephone 435-436

Riley Insurance Agency

INSURANCE
Town Building Brunswick

PLAY SAFE — —

Send Your Washing to the
CITIZENS LAUNDRY
JACOB SMITH
AGENT

Special Rates to Students
on Photographs

Webber's Studio
Morton's News Stand
BOWDOIN SEAL and
FRATERNITY PAPER
KATWOODIE PIPES

Florence P. Merriman

Shampoo - Scalp Treatment
Manicures and Chlorpody
114 Maine St., cor. Cumberland St.

IF IT'S PRINTING

You will find the service rendered by this office all you could desire. Whether it is a small job or a large book the
facilities of

THE RECORD
PRESS

are at your service. Tel. 3
Let us estimate on your next
job of printing. Quality has always been the standard of work
done in this shop.
Brunswick Publishing Co.
Cor. Maine and Dunlap Sts.

Always Noticed
But Never Noticeable

GRISK Clothing which is
custom tailored to
your individual measure, has
that distinctive touch which
always marks the wearer as
well dressed.

Briak Brothers

16 EAST 50th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Watch For Our Representative

PHIL BRISK

Lyman B. Chipman, Inc.

PURE FOOD SHOP

Wholesale - Retail

A Specialty of Fraternity
Trade

574 Congress Street
Portland, Me.

Brunswick Hardware Co.

Prompt Service - Fair Prices

The Bowdoin Barbers

SOULE and WALKER

JUST BELOW THE RAILROAD
We Specialize in Haircutting

Varney's Jewelry Store

Watch Repairing

By An Experienced Watchmaker

Shaffer Pens for College Men

105 MAINE STREET

"FRANCIS"

"The College Jeweler"

Diamonds and Watches

Fine Repairing and Engraving

141A MAINE STREET

LEBEL'S

Candy and Ice Cream

74 MAINE STREET

TUFTS COLLEGE

DENTAL SCHOOL

Founded 1887

College men—prepare for a profession
of widening interest and opportunity. Recent research has enlarged the scope of every phase of dentistry. The field demands more than ever before, men and women of ability, backed by superior training. Such training Tufts College Dental School offers to its students.
School opens on September 30, 1931. Our catalog may guide you in choosing your career. For information address—
Dr. WILLIAM RICE, Dean,
416 Huntington Avenue, Boston, Mass.

Have you chosen
your life work?

In this field of health service the Harvard University Dental School—the oldest dental school connected with any university in the United States—offers thorough well-balanced courses in all branches of dentistry. All modern equipment for practical work under supervision of men high in the profession.
Write for details and admission requirements to Lewis M. S. Miner, Dean
HARVARD UNIVERSITY
DENTAL SCHOOL
Dept. 79, Longwood Ave., Boston, Mass.

ALLEN'S DRUG STORE

All the good eggs will wear
Kenwalls Easter morning

At the one time of the year when all young men become really clothes conscious — is it any wonder that a large majority turn to Harmon's? . . . Kenwalls are original in fabric, authentic in style, fine of quality and modest in price.

35.00 - 40.00 - 45.00

Three or Four Pieces

HARMON'S
INCORPORATED